must be vigilant and it does not prevent time from running, if he could have obtaincd, but did not actually obtain, knowledge of the adverse possession. 28 N.L.R. 282=1933 N. 27. The ouster takes place when the title of the other co-sharers is denied. Mere entry of the name of one co-sharer would not be proof of adverse possession. Also mere non-participation in the profits by one co-sharer and exclusive occupation by another would not constitute adverse possession against the former in favour of the latter. Further knowledge on the part of the person whose rights are invaded is an essential element of adverse possession. 119 I.C. 866=1929 O. 402; 32 P.L.R. 824. But see 1930 A. 845; 1930 A.L. J. 1456=1931 A. 193, where it was held that definite assertion of adverse possession is not necessary and cultivation by a co-owner of the entire land is adverse possession. 1930 A. 845. Where, in spite of a decree for joint possession in plaintiff's favour and an order in execution for formal delivery of possession, the defendant resisted all attempts of the plaintiff and effectively prevented him from obtaining actual possession, the resistance, coupled with an open denial of plaintiff's title, amounts to an ouster. 55 A. 173=1933 A.L. Where co-owners trespassed on the adjacent land belonging to the plaintiff and the revenue records showed that one or other of them were in possession for over 12 years before suit, held, that it was not a case of independent trespassers, that possession by one of them was really possession for all and that the suit against them was barred. 131 I.C. 341=1931 L. 232. Where of the two co-sharers, A and B, of a part share in a house, A gets a transfer of the other major share from C against whom B had set up adverse possession, the continuity of adverse title set up by B breaks and cannot prevail against A who was at the time of transfer, a co-sharer in the property. 134 I.C. 522= 1931 L. 251. Co-heirs under the Mahomedans Law are in the position of tenants in-common and the entry and possession of one of such co-heirs must be deemed to be on behalf of all co-heirs. DEBUTTER PROPERTY.—Adverse possession will also destroy title in lands attached to an idol. 36 B. 135=12 I.C. 926 (2). Strong facts may be necessary in order to establish adverse possession in any case in which there is a reasonable possibility that the possession is being held under the idol's title; but where a non-shebait is holding property in derogation of the trust, a plea of adverse possession can be sustained. 60 C. 54=1933 C. 295=144 I.C. 792. There can be no adverse possession against an idol by the shebait. 1933 C. 295. A trustee cannot by his declaration that he has committed or is about to commit breach of trust, prejudice the rights of the beneficiaries and claim that as from the date of his declaration he began to hold adversely to the trust. Where a person enters into the possession of property as the mahant of math and holds it on behalf of the math until a certain compromise which he enters into with a rival claimant, the mere fact that the parties to the compromise purport to confer upon each other an unrestricted power of alienation in respect of the endowed property does not change the character of that person's possession, and he does not hold the property adversely to the institution from the date of the compromise. 62 I.A. 47=39 C.W.N. 433=1935 P.C. 44=68 M. L.J. 499 (P.C.). Under the law which obtained prior to its amendment by the Indian Limitation (Amendment) Act (I of 1929), the article applicable to a suit by a mahant to recover math property transferred by the preceding mahant is Art. 144, and the period of limitation does not begin to run until the death of that mahant. 68 M.L.J. 499=57 A. 159=62 I.A. 47 (P.C.); 43 C. W.N. 102=1939 C. 21; 1936 P.C. 183=71 M.L.J. 105 (P.C.). Where a mahant alienates property appertaining to a math without any legal necessity, the alienation is not void but is good for the period during which the alienor is in office. Where a mahant alienated the math properties without any necessity, a suit by his successor in office to recover the properties transferred, would be governed by Art. 144 and not Art. 134 and would be in time if brought within 12 years of the death of the alienating mahant. 12 P. 251=60 I.A. 124=1933 P.C. 75=34 M. L.J. 505 (P.C.). If the alienation is by way of a permanent lease, the succeeding mahant can continue the lease, in which case the lessee's possession will not be adverse until the death of that mahant. But when the alienation is by way of a gift, in the absence of evidence to show that the possession which became adverse when the original grantor died was kept permissive by subsequent conduct, the adverse possession counts from the date of the first mahant, and when completed by possession for the statutory period bars the title of the math. 152 I.C. 251=67 M.L.J. 430=1934 M. 624. As to lessee from the head of the math claiming adverse possession, see 13 L. 677=140 I.C. 604=1933 Lah. 25. A person in adverse possession of property claiming to hold it as mutawalli does not prescribe for more than a mutawalli's right in such property and may acquire to that extent the status of a mutawalli. The right of the office and the right to the possession of property are distinct jural concepts. 1930 A. 866=129 I.C. 375. See also 40 P.L.R. 319=1938 L. 369 (Suit relating to mortgage). Art. 134 does not apply to suits to avoid alienations of the generally endowed property vested in the sajjadanashin and mutawalli of a wakf. Such suits are governed by Art. 144. Where as a result of the alienations the previous encumbrancers have been paid off, it cannot be said that there were several trespassers in succession so as to bar the true owner after the lapse of 12 years from the date of the earlier mortgage. 57 Bom. 709=35 Bom.L. R. 252=1933 B. 217. Where a mutawalli completely transfers wakf property to a stranger by sale or mortgage, the period of limitation for a suit to recover that property begins to run from the date of the alienation. Distinction between cases of permanent lease and sale pointed out. 57 Bom. 709=1933 B. 217. A sale by the mutawalli of wakf property, where the wakf provides for the private benefit of the family of the grantee as well as for the public benefit of a mosque, is valid during the lifetime of the vendor, and a suit by the succeeding mutawalli for a declaration that the sale is invalid and for recovery of possession of the property sold for the mosque is in time, if instituted within 12 years from the date of the death of the vendor mutawalli. 31 L.W. 396=1930 M. 582=58 M.L.J. 524; 37 L.W. 737=1933 M. 533=64 M.L.J. 706. There is no distinction in this respect between a lease and a sale. 64 M.L.J. 706. Where a sale-deed is a mere paper transaction and inoperative a suit by the vendor for possession of the property is governed by Art. 144 and not by Art. 91. I.L.R. (1940) Lah. 546=41 P.L.R. 657=1939 L. 544. Where one of the wahivatdars sold his share of the endowed properties, limitation for a suit by another wahivatdar or his representative to set aside the alienation on the ground that the properties were inalienable would run from the date of the alienation. 34 Bom.L.R. 1469=1933 B. 26. As to adverse possession of debutter property, see 60 C. 54=1933 C. 295 and 137 I. C. 487=1932 M. 328=62 M.L.J. 496 (Theory of perpetual minority of idol examined); 54 A. 909=1932 A.L.J. 836=1933 A. 19; 34 Bom.L.R. 1469 (Right to collect assessment of endowed land). A permanent lease of debutter property by a dharmakartha when not justified by necessity for the preservation of the endowment, is valid during the tenure of office of the dharmakartha and is not void ab initio so as to make the possession of lessee adverse from the date of the lease. The proper date from which the adverse possession generally runs in such cases is the date of death, resignation or removal of the dharmakartha from office. 63 I.A. 261=59 M. 809=1936 P.C. 183=71 M. L.J. 105 (P.C.). It is, however, within the power of each successive dharmakartha to authorise, create or continue a new tenancy, and where the successor permits the lessee to continue in possesion and receives rent during his tenure of office, the receipt of rent must be deemed to be with the knowledge, which must be imputed to him, that the tenancy created by his predecessor ended with his predecessor's tenure and can therefore only be referable to a new tenancy created by himself; and so with each successive dharmakartha and consequently the possession of the lessee does not become adverse till anything happens which takes the case out of the operation of the principle. 59 M. 809 (P.C.). So also in cases where lease is partly for necessity and partly not so. 162 I.C. 325=1936 M. 262. A trustee of a choultry alienated property belonging to the choultry as his own. He did not purport to pass title as manager of the choultry. Held, that the alienation was void ab initio and possession of the alienee became adverse from the date of the alienation and not from the death of the trustee. 180 I.C. 462=1938 M. 60.

Whatever possessory right a tenant-at-sufferance may have against a rank trespasser, it cannot be claimed that the "tenancy-at-sufferance" is heritable. The son of such tenant cannot style himself as a tenant holding over. His possession is nothing better than that of a trespasser. His possession is clearly adverse to the owner of the land and would ripen into a prescriptive title by 12 years possession. 30 N.L.R. 155=148 I.C. 561=1934 N. 67. See also 1938 A.W.R. A holding was purchased at Court-sale but the purchaser got only formal delivery of possession. After about 25 years, the purchaser surrendered the holding to the landlord and the landlord filed a suit for ejectment of the judgment-debtor describing him as an under-raiyat under the purchaser. Held, whatever right the purchaser obtained by the sale was lost by efflux of time, that there was nothing for the purchaser on the date of surrender to surrender in favour of landlord and that the suit should be dismissed. 145 I.C. 613 =1933 P. 269.

The plaintiffs mortgaged four survey numbers with possession to Y. Subsequently the plaintiff sold the equity of redemption in two of the plots to G and the defendants. Later on the defendants successfully sued to redeem the original mortgage, but did not implead the plaintiffs as parties. The plaintiffs having sued to redeem the mortgage and recover possession of the several items, held, that the decree for redemption which the defendants had obtained created a charge in their favour by virtue of sec. 95, T. P. Act, and that the suit by the plaintiffs to recover possession was governed by Art. 144 and not Art. 148. Held, further, that the defendants acquiring the property did not hold as co-sharers and that limitation commenced to run from the date of the possession after redemption. 57 B. 134=35 Bom.L.R. 48= 1933 B. 114. The possession of a de facto guardian or of his mortgagee as a derivative owner cannot be legally deemed to be adverse to the minor but when the de facto guardian effects a sale of the minor's property, the possess on of purchasers would become adverse since the date they got into possession. 1930 M. 708 (2). REVERSIONER—SUIT BY.—As a remote reversioner's right is not derived from or through the nearer reversioner, possession adverse to the latter will not be adverse to the former. 4 L.L.J. 201=1922 L. 37. Adverse possession against widow is not so against reversioner. 101 I.C. 822=1927 N. 226. See also 1 L. 210=56 I.C. 733; 39 I.C. 204. Where a sale is good for the lifetime of the alienating proprietor, the possession of the vendee can become adverse only after the death of the testator. 131 I.C. 105=1931 L. 439. On the death of the widow, with a life-estate, the share of the estate which stood mutated in her name went into the possession of her daughter. She died more than thirty years later. In a suit by the reversioners after the death of the daughter, held, that their right to sue arose on the death of the widow and as the daughter had no right to get possession on the death of her mother, her possession was adverse to the reversions and their suit was barred. 150 I.C. 519=11 O.W.N. 736=1934 O. 265. The rights of adopted son come into existence on the date of his adoption, and from that date he becomes entitled to possession of all the immovable properties belonging to him as against those who challenge and ignore his rights. Time for a suit for possession runs against him from that date, or, in case he is a minor at the time, from the date on which he attains majority. Merely because his adoption is disputed, and is subsequently declared to be valid by the highest Court of appeal several years later, it cannot be held that the cause of action for a suit for possession of the property accrues to him on the decision of the highest Court of appeal. The cause of action for a suit for possession of the property by him accrues in any event on his attaining majority, if not earlier. I.L.R. 1939 B. 173=40 Bom.L.R. 1134=1939 B. 1.

HINDU WIDOW.—Widow entitled to maintenance continued in possession after the death of step-son—Her possession is not adverse to reversioners. 51 M. 815=55 M. Where a widow who is only entitled to maintenance out of her husband's estate enters into possession of the property of her husband who was a member of a joint Hindu family at the time of his death, her possession of the share of her husband is prima facie adverse, unless it can be shown that it was the result of any arrangement with the reversioners or that she took possession of the property prescribing only for the limited share of a Hindu widow. 6 Luck. 365=129 I.C. 328=1931 O. 25 (on the facts of this case, it was held that the widow prescribed only for a limited estate). See 6 Luck. 519=8 O.W.N. 6=130 I.C. 849 1931 O. 89 (2) (Where a Hindu widow acquired adverse possession as of right for over twelve years). RECEIVER, POSSESSION OF—EFFECT.—1927 M. 61; 7 P. 319=1928 P. 260.

SERVICE TENURE.—If a land is held on service tenure to be enjoyed as remuneration for services, the fact that no services have been performed for any length of time cannot by itself make the holding adverse. In order to make the possession adverse, there must be a refusal to perform the service or a claim to hold the land free of service. 1933 M. 668. See also 1940 M.W.N. 404=1941 M. 217.

TACKING.—Having regard to the definition of "plaintiff" in sec. 2, sub-sec. (8) of the Limitation Act, a plaintiff claiming title by adverse possession cannot "tack" the possession of an independent trespasser from or through whom he does not derive his right to sue. [Dixon v. Gayfere, (1853) 17 Beav. 421=51 E.R. 1097, Rel. on.] But a mortgagor can, for the purposes of the Limitation Act, avail himself of and "tack" on to his own adverse possession the adverse possession of his mortgagee. 61 I.A. 78=61 C.

TRUSTEESHIP.—The person concerned can sue for obtaining control or management of a religious institution within 12 years under Art. 144 when misapplication is not proved and the defendant does not deny the fact of his being a trustee. 43 M. 253=37 M.L.J. 460=1919 P.C. 62 (On appeal from 33 I. C. 216=1915 M.W.N. 657). As between co-trustees, see 39 M.L.T. 214=1927 M. 948. If a person could extend the time for suing by alleging that he had mistaken the meaning of an instrument, a most serious inroad would be made into the law of limitation and that quieting of title which is the reason for and the policy behind the statutes of limitation would be gravely disturbed. Hence, if a trustee alienates property which he honestly believes to be his own but which on a true construction of the deed of trust belongs to the cestui que trust time, which the trustee allows to pass owing to this mistake, counts when computing limitation for suit against alienee for possession. 180 I.C. 462 =1938 M. 60.

PARTITION SUIT.—Suit by an heir for his share in a Mahomedan's property is governed by Art. 144 and time runs from the date when the attempt to exclude or deny his right is made. 58 I.C. 42=44 B. 942. See also 1922 L. 193. Art. 144 applies to a suit for partition between tenants-in-common although a tenant has acquired his rights by a purchase at Court-auction. 29 I.C. 976= 28 M.L.J. 642. Art. 144 and not Art. 127 is applicable to a suit by one member of a family against another who is separate and divided from him for possession of immovable property which is not joint family property. Art. 144 also applies to a suit by such a divided member to recover possession of property which has continued undivided after the division of the members of the family, because such property is no longer "joint family property". 58 I.A. 106 .=1931 P.C. 48=60 M.L.J. 386 (P.C.). See also 31 N.L.R. WASTE LAND.—As to adverse possession in respect of, see 1927 L. 753; 100 I.C. 51. In respect of fallow land, possession must be taken to follow title. 106 I.C. 130. See also 100 I.C. 51=1927 L. 230; 98 I.C. 880. In the case of waste land, possession is presumed to be with the owner and the mere fact that the owner has allowed his land to remain waste does not amount to a discontinuance of possession. 120 I.C. 792=1930 L. 303; 1923 L. 25. There is no rule to the effect that adverse possession cannot be acquired in respect of waste lands. 117 I.C. 636=1929 P. 624. Tethering of cattle, keeping dung cakes, building a khurli and passing over the vacant site do not amount to adverse possession. 11 L.L.J. 91=115 I.C. 71=1929 L. 432. But they, taken in conjunction with the fact that the defendant had enclosed the land in dispute which had been in existence for a period much longer than twelve years, would be sufficient proof of adverse possession. 1934 L. 684.

MINING RIGHTS.—Cases as to adverse possession of mineral rights fall to be decided under Art. 144. Once title is found or admitted to be in the zamindar he would be presumed to continue in possession until adverse possession by the trespassers is established and that whether the trespasser is the grantee of the surface or a stranger. To constitute title by adverse possession the possession required to be proved must be adequate in continuity, in publicity and in extent. In order that possession of mineral rights be adequate in publicity the defendant must prove that there was that to be seen on the surface which the plaintiff or his predecessor being reasonably vigilant ought to have seen and so seeing would have been put on their guard although they did not have any title to the surface. As a general rule where title is founded on adverse possession the title will be limited to the area of which actual possession has been enjoyed. In the case of mines there is no presumption in law that possession of a part of a seam infers possession of the whole seam much less of all the seams in the mineral field in which part of a seam has been worked. Possession is a question of fact and the extent of possession is an inference of fact. 49 C.W.N. 810.

MISCELLANEOUS.—A person obtaining possession under a pre-emption decree should be deemed to be in actual, physical, exclusive and continued possession. 6 O.W.N. 829= 13 R.D. 707=1929 O. 433. Possession if not permissive is adverse. It may be adverse even to the vendor in a case between the vendor and the vendee. (4 B. 89, Rel. on.) 33 C.W.N. 117=119 I.C. 123=1929 C. 218. Art. 134-B has no application to a transfer of wakf property by a person who professes to make the transfer in his own right and in a secular capacity. ART. 145.—A suit to recover deposited goods is governed by Art. 145. 6 L.W. 401 =33 M.L.J. 577; 34 M.L.J. 399. Art. 145 can only apply to cases where the movable property deposited remains the property of the person depositing the same and it, therefore cannot apply to money. 1944 A.L.J. 339=1944 A.W.R. (H.C.) 175=1944 A.L.W. 571=1944 A. 241. A depositary's depositary is not contemplated in the Act. 1940 Lah. 254. Where certain promissory notes remain with defendant, having been left by the plaintiff as security or at any rate for safe custody, then on either view, not Art. 49 but Art. 145 is the relevant article applicable to a suit in respect of such notes. 1938 A.L.J. 264=47 L.W. 649=1938 P.C. 110 (P.C.). LEG. REF.

ART. 146-A.—Art. 146-A applies only where the local authority suing has been dispossessed or has discontinued its possession; in other words, it contemplates prior possession of the land by the local authority which it subsequently loses by reason of any act done by the defendant or otherwise. The article can obviously have no operation in a case where the local authority is found not to have been in possession at all. Where at the date the Union Board was created, possession of the land was with the defendant, and the Union Board seeks to recover the land as part of a public road to which it became entitled upon its creation under the Act of its incorporation, it must sue for such recovery within 12 years from the date of its establishment under Art. 144. To such a case Art. 146-A has no application. 45 C.W.N. 802=1942 Cal. 151=73 C.L.J. 608. An open assertion of hostile title is not necessary to start limitation under Art. 146-A. Possession, provided it is not permissive or in the alternative discontinuance of possession by the Municipality is quite sufficient to make limitation run against the Municipality. A Municipality loses its right to demand the removal of an encroachment and to recover the land encroached upon if a suit for possession of the land is not instituted on its behalf within 30 years of its having been dispossesed of it. 196 I.C. 648=1941 Pesh. 76. Operation of—Removal of encroachment by Municipal Committee. 1936 L. 182=159 I. C. 639. As to applicability of Art. 146-A, see 32 C.W.N. 396=1928 Cal. 485. "Road", meaning of—Suit for ejecting person in occupation of road site, see 1928 Cal. 485=32 C.W.N. 396. An application under sec. 364 (1), Calcutta Muncipal Act, is plainly not a suit and therefore Art. 146-A, Limitation Act, which applies only to suits, cannot apply to such an application. 40 Cr.L.J. 870 =1939 Cal. 470.

ART. 147.—Art. 147 applies not to foreclosure proceedings under the Regulation but to such suits for foreclosure as under the law then in force could be brought. 17 I.C. 467=10 A.L.J. 522. See also 1942 C. 153= 74 C.L.J. 61. English mortgage—Provision for payment by mortgagor of insurance charges and for changing date of payment in certain event—If alters nature of mortgage—Limitation for suit. See 55 L.W. 417 =I.L.R. 1942 M. 851=1942 M. 628=(1942) 2 M.L.J. 406. Under sec. 67 (a) of the Transfer of Property Act, as amended in 1929, the right of an English mortgagee to sue for foreclosure has been taken away and his suit on the mortgage cannot be regarded as a suit for foreclosure or sale within the meaning of Art. 147, Limitation Act. His suit would now fall under Art. 132. But a suit on an English mortgage executed prior to 1—4—1930, is outside the scope of the amendment by reason of the saving clause in sec. 63 of the Amending Act of 1929 and will therefore be governed by Art. 147. 48 Bom.L.R. 327=1946 Bom. 499.

ART. 148: SCOPE OF ARTICLE.—In the absence of a special provision entitling the mortgagor to redeem during the term for which the mortgage is created, the right of redemption can only arise on the expiration of the specified period. But the parties may agree that the mortgagor might discharge the debt within the period and take back the property, in which case the period of limitation for redemption commences as soon as the debt is discharged and not from the expiry of the terms provided for in the deed. 1914 P.C. 36=36 A. 195=41 I.A. 84 =26 M.L.J. 474 (P.C.). On appeal from 29 A. 471. See also 160 I.C. 1066=1936 P. 63. Art. 148 is applicable to redemption of usufructuary mortgage and recovery of possession despite part of the consideration having become void. 35 M. 114=21 M.L.J. 169 See also 1930 O. 270 (simple mortgage with a default cause as to delivery of possession).

APPLICABILITY OF ARTICLE.—See 1927 L. 828; 1936 Pat. 63; 1927 O. 457; 1926 O. 594 =1 Luck. 529; 1927 A. 311. In the case of a mortgage by conditional sale executed before 1882, i.e., before the T. P. Act came into force the mortgagor has a statutory right under the Bengal Regulations I of 1798 and XVII of 1806 to redeem within any stipulated period provided in the deed. Therefore even if there had been only a period of some years in the deed, the statutory right existed by which the mortgagors could have redeemed from the date of execution and a suit for redemption brought after more than 60 years would therefore be barred by the period of limitation under Art. 148. I.L.R. (1939) All. 990=1939 A.L.J. 1127=1940 All. 29. See also 1946 A.L.J. 175=1946 All. 400 (Suit to recover possession of mortgaged property by virtue of sec. 9, U. P. Debt Redemption Act —Mortgage more than 60 years old). When a mortgage deed provides that, if the mortgagor pays the mortgage-money in the month of any Jeth within ten years, the property would be redeemed, and that, if the property is not redeemed within ten years, the mortgagee would become its owner, the mortgagor's right to redeem arises on the first Jeth succeeding the date of the mortgage, and a suit for redemption instituted more than sixty years after the first Jeth would, therefore, be barred by time. 1936 A.L.J. 1358=1937 A. 32=1937 A.L.J. 5. See also 1940 Mad. 639. Where a plaintiff in a suit for redemption of a Malabar kanom (usufructuary mortgage) seeks to dispossess persons who have been in possession for about 72 years, he should be required to prove positively that there is a subsisting mortgage which he is entitled to redeem and there must be proof that the mortgage was executed within the period of limitation or a valid acknowledgment which would save limitation. It is enough for him to prove that the mortgage was executed in a month of which the last 28 days would be within limitation and the first two days outside. There is no legal presumption that an event took place on any particular day within the month in which it is known to have taken place. No such presumption, if one exists, can take the place of positive proof of the actual starting point when a suit is challenged as barred by limitation. 1940 M.W.N. 446= 1940 Mad. 639. Suit by puisne mortgagee for redemption of a prior mortgage is governed by Art. 148 and Art. 132. 14 L. 596=34 P.L.R. 502=1933 L. 503. See also I.L.R. 1937 N. 367=1937 Nag. 205; 33 C.W.N. 1067=1929 C. 609 (F.B.). A suit against a co-mortgagor who has redeemed a mortgage, and is therefore subrogated to the position of the mortgagee, brought by the other mortgagors for redemption is governed by Art. 148 and time begins to run against the plaintiffs from the due date of the mortgage and not from the date of redemption by the co-mortgagor. 45 Bom.L.R. 253=1943 Bom. 191. [4] Substituted by Act XI of 1923, sec. 2 and Sch. I, for "Ditto".

ART. 151.—The expression "date of the decree" in the third column means the date the decree is directed to bear, i.e., the date when the judgment is delivered and not when the decree is actually prepared or signed. 19 I.C. 410=17 C.W.N. 959. Also 25 I.C. 67 and 25 M.L.J. 560. "Decree or order—" Meaning of. See 4 R. 265=1927 R. 20.

ART. 152.—Art. 152 read with C. P. Code, O. 20, R. 7, is conclusive on the point that the "date of the decrees" for the purpose of calculating appeal time must be taken to be the date on which the judgments were pronounced. 25 I.C. 66=38 B. 653. A money decree against different defendants at different times is not consolidated decree against all for purposes of the Limitation Act, and limitation in respect of each decree runs from the date on which it was passed. 31 I.C. 917. Under Art. 152 there is no question of knowledge of the party regarding the date of the decree or judgment. 1936 L. 742. The "date of the decree" in Art. 152 is the date when the judgment is delivered in accordance with O. 20, R. 7, C. P. Code, and not the date when the decree is signed or prepared. In a case where the decree, or the judgment and the decree are amended on an application under sec. 152, C. P. Code, the judgment or decree is not superseded in the eye of law, such amendment does not give the appellant a fresh starting point of limitation for filing his appeal. The time for filing the appeal runs from the date when the original judgment was pronounced, and if it is filed beyond time, the time can only be extended on an application made under sec. 5 of the Limitation Act. 40 C.W.N. 83=165 I.C. 53.

ART. 154.—The 'order' contemplated by Art. 154 is the finding that is recorded under sec. 476, Cr. P. Code, and consequently time for appeal begins to run from the time when the finding is recorded or is supplemented by an actual complaint. The fact that an appellant may not know that a complaint has been filed till after 30 days prescribed by Art. 154, have expired is immaterial as the appellate Court can excuse the delay under sec. 5 of the Act. 52 B. 164=108 I.C. 26=1928 B. 64. Where a Court refuses to complain under sec. 476, Cr. P. Code, it amounts to an order to the effect that it will not complain and an appeal is governed by Art. 154. 1931 M.W.N. 1064. The decisions in 40 C. 239; 1 L. 602 and 39 M. 750=22 M.L.J. 419 holding that applications made to a higher Court in proceedings under sec. 195, Cr. P. Code, are not appeals to which the article is applicable, are not good law. The time for 'filing' an appeal under sec. 476-B, Cr. P. Code, has according to Art. 154 to be computed from the date of the complaint. But if the person against whom the complaint is filed is ignorant of the filing of such a complaint, and on coming to know of it files an appeal within 30 days of his knowledge in such a case time can be extended under sec. 5. 1938 N.L.J. 183. A complaint was sanctioned to be filed by the Sub-Divisional Magistrate. The Disrict Magistrate granted permission to withdraw the complaint of the Sub-Divisional Magistrate. On a revision to the High Cout, the District Magistrate's order was set aside and the Sub-Divisional Magistrate's complaint was restored. An appeal was filed to the Sessions Judge which was held by him as barred by limitation. Held, that there was an order in favour of the accused and hence he could not appeal against an order in his favour. Only when the complaint was restored by High Court did the right of appeal against the complaint again arise. Hence the period from the day complaint was ordered to be withdrawn to the day the High Court ordered it to be restored should be excluded. 44 Cr.L.J. 293=(1943) Sind 39 (F.B.). ART. 155.—Application for leave to appeal under sec. 449, Cr. P. Code, is governed by the 60 days' period under this article. 54 C. 52=101 I.C. 657=1927 C. 307. Also appeal to High Court under sec. 476-B, Cr. P. Code. 104 I.C. 456=1927 C. 718. In cases coming under secs. 562 and 563, Cr. P. Code, the proceedings fall into two parts—the sentence does not immediately follow the conviction but that does not deprive the person convicted of the right given him by sec. 408 of appealing against either conviction only, or sentence only, or both. A person against whom a conviction is recorded under sec. 562 and who is subsequently sentenced more than 60 days after the recording of the conviction can appeal against the sentence if he does so within 60 days from the date of the sentence. 1940 Rang.L.R. 386=1940 Rang. 257. See also I. L.R. (1943) Kar. 122=1943 S. 157.

ART. 156.—Art. 156, lays down that the terminus a quo for an appeal is the date of the decree, and O. 20, R. 7, C. P. Code, provides that the decree shall be on the date on which the judgment is pronounced. Taking both these provisions together, the time for appeal starts from the date of the judgment. 47 P.L.R. 193=A.I.R. 1945 Lah. 233. Where judgment is pronounced on one day and the decree is to be passed on a later date on plaintiff's complying with a certain condition, time begins to run for purposes of appeal from the date of the decree. 34 I.C. 867= 9 S.L.R. 193. The expression "date of the decree" can only mean the date when the decree became appealable to the party concerned. Where a decree grants all the reliefs claimed by the plaintiff, he has no occasion to prefer an appeal, even though there is an adverse finding on one of the issues, as no appeal can be preferred against a mere adverse finding to which no reference is made in the decree. Where such a decree is subsequently amended on an application for scaling down under sec. 19 of Madras Act, IV of 1938, and the amendment brings about a vital alteration by substantially reducing the relief originally granted to the plaintiff, based upon the adverse finding which previously was not prejudicial to the plaintiff, "the date of the decree" for purposes of appeal is the date of the amended decree and not the decree originally passed. Where an ex parte decree was set aside by the Court which passed it within the appealable period and therefore no appeal was thereafter competent to the defendant but the High Court in revision restored the ex parte decree, limitation runs only from the date of the High Court reviving the ex parte order and not from the date of the ex parte order itself. clerical error as regards interest does not extend limitation for filing the second appeal where the question of interest was not attacked in the second appeal. L.R. 3 A. 27. Art. 156 applies to appeals to the High Court under sec. 54 of the Land Acquisition Act. The expression "an appeal under C. P. Code" in the first column is not restricted to appeals the right to prefer which is conferred by the C. P. Code, but covers appeals, the procedure with respect to which is governed by the C. P. Code. 43 M. 51=37 M. L.J. 110. Per Suhrawardy, J.—If a decree is amended either by way of review or under sec. 152 of the C. P. Code, the decree to be appealed from is the amended decree and no appeal should therefore lie from the original decree. The time for appeal should be reckoned from the date of the amended decree. 1931 C. 578. Where a decree is amended, and the amendment is in regard to a pure arithmetical error if the amendment is not the reason for the grievance of the appellant there is clearly no reason for allowing the appellant to calculate the period of limitation from the date of the amendment rather than from the date of the original decree. If, however, the appellant is aggrieved not by the original decree but by the decree as amended, logically and equitably, time for that appeal should run from the date of the decree as amended. I.L.R. (1946) M. 854=1946 M. 291=(1946) 1 M.L. J. 198. Time for appeal from preliminary decree runs from the date of that decree and not from the date of final decree. 37 C.W.N. 179=146 I.C. 359 (1)=1933 C. 796. Where on an application for review of a dismissal of an appeal, the application is admitted, the appeal re-heard and a fresh decree dismissing the appeal is passed on different grounds, a fresh period of limitation for the appeal begins to run from the date of the new decree. 27 I.C. 732. Where the application, on the other hand, is only for the modification or remission of the award, it comes within para. 12 or para. 14 of the second schedule of the C. P. Code, and Art. 158 is not applicable thereto. 1933 A.L.J. 519=1933 A. 648. Art. 158 cannot possibly apply to a written statement by the defendant in an application to have an award made a rule of Court. 13 I.C. 520=14 O.C. 308.

default passed by a Judge sitting on the Original Side of the High Court, whether such application is made under O. 9, r. 9, C. P. Code, or under some other power. 47 C. W.N. 667. An application by the plaintiff to have the decree of the original side dismissing his suit for default set aside is governed by Art. 163. 47 C.W.N. 450=A.I.R. 1943 Cal. 257=I.L.R. (1942) Cal. 227. If a plaintiff or appellant seeks to set aside an ex parte order, limitation runs only from date of the order, but if a defendant or respondent seeks such relief, he can in cases where he has not had due notice, count limitation from the date of his knowledge of the order. 1 L. 363=58 I.C. 789; 1933 P. 557. See also 163 I.C. 274=38 P.L.R. 697 =1936 L. 495. The benefit which the law allows only to a defendant or respondent cannot be allowed to an appellant. (Ibid.) Art. 163 is intended to be strictly followed and the Court has no discretion to enlarge the period of 30 days therein prescribed. 53 I. C. 55. See also 107 I.C. 193=23 N.L.R. 183 =1928 N. 91. Where, in an application under O. 9, r. 9, the Court granted an extension of time not known to law, held, that the order was illegal and must be set aside in revision. 52 C.L.J. 23=1931 C. 319. An application for restoration of a suit dismissed for default, by the representative of the deceased plaintiff more than 30 days after the dismissal is time-barred. 14 I.C. 221. An application to set aside the dismissal for default of a previous application for restoration under O. 9, r. 9, C. P. Code, made the very next day after such dismissal is clearly within time even though made more than thirty days after the dismissal of the suit for default. 13 Luck. 246=1937 O.W.N. 372=1937 Oudh 344.

ART. 164: OLD AND NEW ACT—APPLICABILITY.—Limitation to be applied is that under the law existing at the time when the application was made. 37 A. 597=30 I.C. 573. If the right of defendant to make an application was lost under Art. 164 of Act of 1877 the provisions of Art. 164 of the new Act of 1908 cannot revive the right having regard to sec. 6 of the General Clauses Act, 1897. 15 I.C. 551=39 C. 506.

SCOPE OF ARTICLE.—It is only when summons is not duly served that ignorance of decree saves limitation. 108 I.C. 753 (M.). Art. 164 governs an application to set aside an ex parte decree passed on the Original Side of the High Court. Such an application should therefore, be made not later than thirty days from the date of the decree or the date of the applicant's knowledge of the decree. 46 C.W.N. 280. Where a suit was adjourned at the instance of defendant's cousel, but the defendant or his counsel did not appear on the adjourned date, and the suit was decreed ex parte, held, that the case was not one where the summons was not duly served. 1931 L. 268. Knowledge of the suit on a particular date is wholly immaterial; knowledge of the decree within 30 days is material for computing time. 1930 L. 397. See also 1931 L. 268.

CONSTRUCTION—NATURE OF KNOWLEDGE OF DECREE.—The knowledge of the decree mentioned in Art. 164 is knowledge of the particular decree and not a knowledge of a decree. A vague information about there being a decree is not sufficient for limitation to run against the applicant. The question whether the knowledge which an applicant had on a particular date can be said to be a knowledge of the decree, is a question of fact, and in a case where applicant filed an application for time in the execution proceedings, from the fact that he knew that a decree was under execution, it cannot be inferred that he had complete information about the decree. 18 Pat.L.T. 72=1937 P. 17. See also 1923 B. 193=47 B. 485; 27 N.L.R. 53=134 I.C. 279=1931 N. 119. 'Knowledge' in Art. 164 means certain and clear conception of a fact, i.e., of the decree in the particular case and not of a decree. 38 C. 394=15 C.W.N. 399. See also 99 I.C. 621=1927 M. 381; 46 I.C. 777. The time is 30 days from the date of the applicant's knowledge of the decree and not 30 days of the knowledge of the suit. 1933 P. 279=12 P. 745=14 Pat.L.T. 326.

BURDEN OF PROOF.—Where application to set aside ex parte decree is made more than 30 days after date of decree, the onus is on defendant to show that he presented the same within 30 days of his having knowledge of decree. 109 I.C. 82; 1930 L. 191; 1929 L. 235; 107 I.C. 284; 139 I.C. 131 (L.). See also 164 I.C. 286=1936 R. 305; 7 L. 161=1926 L. 379; 1938 Cal. 535.

laid down in Art. 164 applies to the case of a defendant only. 24 I.C. 27=41 C. 819. See also 38 M. 442=21 I.C. 568; 25 A.L. J. 1032=50 All. 254=1928 A. 111 (Deposit under sec. 17, Provincial Small Cause Courts Act). Art. 164 applies not only to decrees but to orders in executions which are decrees in Civil Procedure Code. 37 M. 462 =26 M.L.J. 189. An order under O. 21, r. 50. sub-cls. (2) and (3) granting leave to execute the decree against a partner is not a decree and consequently Art. 164 can have no application. 31 Bom.L.R. 995=53 B. 836=1929 B. 386. A decision given under sec. 152, C. P. Code, granting an application for amendment of a decree is an order and not a decree. Hence an application to set aside such an order is governed by Art. 181 and not by Art. 164. 145 I.C. 823= 1933 R. 264. Time cannot be extended under sec. 151, C. P. Code, or Limitation Act, sec. 5. 1922 L. 266; 144 I.C. 394= 1934 N. 43. The mere fact that the original application to set aside an ex parte decree which was made in time was consigned to the record room would not in any way necessitate a fresh application. 55 I.C. 824. A subsequent application must be considered as merely one in continuance of the suspended original application. Consequently no question of limitation arises in such a case. 55 I.C. 824. An application to set aside an order of adjudication of an insolvent passed ex parte has to be made under O. 9, r. 13, C. P. Code, and is governed by Art. 164. 138 I.C. 377=1932 L. 522. The limitation applicable for setting aside an ex parte decree under sec. 150 of the Companies Act of 1882 is that provided by Art. 164. 1 L. 187=55 I.C. 820. Act not applicable to proceedings on the Original Side of High Court. 32 C.W.N. 411=1928 C. 864. Application to set aside ex parte decree—Security bond filed with application, but not verified—Verification after limitation period. Held, that the bond, though not verified in the first instance, was perfectly good and effective and that the application was within time. (29 A.L.J. 1049, Ref.) 1933 A.L.J. 992=1933 A. 933. See also 11 O.W.N. 639=1935 O. 35.

MEANING OF WORDS—"DEFENDANT".—The word "defendant" is wide enough to include the executor of the original defendant (since deceased) though not on record. 38 M. 442.

"SUMMONS."—The summons referred to in Art. 164 is the summons for the first hearing of the case, and there is no essential difference between the case where a suit is adjourned owing to the absence of the presiding officer or some other cause and a case in which a suit is remanded for retrial by the appellate Court. The underlying principle in such cases is that where the existence of the suit has been brought to the notice of the defendants by due service of a summons on them, it is their duty thereafter to inform themselves of what is being done in the case. 154 I.C. 429=1935 Pesh. 7.

"DULY SERVED".—The words "duly served" in Art. 164 are used in the same sense as in O. 5, R. 19 of the Code, and means "served" in such a manner as to give the defendant information of the proceedings taken against him. 42 I.C. 611=11 S.L.R. 71. See also 1928 M. 655=54 M.L.J. 448; 1928 M.W.N. 49=1928 M. 815=51 M. 860=55 M.L.J. 565; 1927 M. 507=52 M.L.J. 477; 1927 M. 487=52 M.L.J. 512; 38 C.W.N. 1066=1934 C. 745; 1939 Rang. 436. A defendant, who has been duly served cannot get an ex parte decree set aside, unless he can show that he was prevented unavoidably from appearing at the hearing and Art. 164 is a bar if he does not seek to set it aside within 30 days after the decree. 27 I.C. 351=8 S.L.R. 153. Duly 'served' in Art. 164 cannot be construed to exclude a case where a summons was not served in sufficient time. 27 I.C. 351. In the case of substituted service a summons is duly served for the purpose of Art. 164. even though it does not in fact come to the defendant's knowledge and as time runs from the date of the decree in such cases, an application for setting aside an ex parte decree made after the expiry of 30 days from the date of the decree is clearly barred by limitation. 131 I.C. 344=1931 L. 118. In the case of substituted service, the article lays down that when the order is rightly made and the service directed by the order is properly effected, knowledge of the defendant is immaterial and time runs from the date of the decree. 122 I.C. 35=1930 M. 222; 1931 O. 369=32 I.C. 778. Where, however, an order for substituted service is improperly obtained, as being made on insufficient material contained in an application supported by affidavit, the summons cannot be said to have been duly served within the meaning of Art. 164, and the time accordingly runs not from the date of the decree but from the date when it first came to the knowledge of the defendant. 122 I. C. 35=1930 M. 222; 1924 L. 191. Substituted service cannot always be deemed to be due service within the meaning of Arts. 164 and 169. Due service is one which has achieved the object of service by bringing the claim against him to the knowledge of the defendant or respondent. 55 M. 223=134 I.C. 1202=1931 M. 813=61 M.L.J. 920. See also 55 M. 240=1931 M. 812=61 M.L.J. 931; 54 A. 154; 1931 A.L.J. 1049 =1931 A. 727 (F.B.); 1939 Rang. 436=1939 Rang.L.R. 606.

NOTICE.—Where summons is once served, absence of notice of adjourned hearing will not attract the application of Art. 164. 57 I.C. 15; 139 I.C. 354=1932 L. 539. Article does not apply to a case where the defendant alleges service of summons but that he had no knowledge of any of the proceedings. 13 I.C. 642=1912 M.W.N. 361. The notice of the application for final decree being as effectual as if it had been served on him personally, the limitation for his application to set aside the ex parte decree runs from the date of the decree. 1923 N. 13. Where the summons is served on a defendant too late to afford him sufficient opportunity of appearing at the hearing of the suit, it is not a case of a summons 'duly served' within the meaning of O. 9, R. 13, C. P. Code. In such cases the Court ought to issue fresh summons. An omission on the part of such a defendant to prosecute inquiry which might have led to a knowledge of the date of hearing cannot be regarded as culpable or wilful so as to carry wth it the consequence of 'knowledge'. Such a defendant will be within time if he applies for setting aside the ex parte decree within 30 days of actual knowledge of the decree. 53 L.W. 246= 1941 Mad. 435=(1941) 1 M.L.J. 319.

APPEAL.—No appeal lies against refusal of an application to set aside an ex parte decree. There is no inherent power to extend time prescribed by Art. 164. 1 P. 277=1922 P. 479.

REVISION.—The lower Court acting on certain decisions then in vogue held substituted service was due service. Subsequently a slightly modified view was taken in other cases. Held, it was not a case for interference in revision. 138 I.C. 146=1932 M. 472.

ART. 165: SCOPE AND APPLICABILITY.—Where the judgment-creditor fails to apply for removal of an obstruction under O. 21, r. 97, within 30 days, he is not debarred from making an application under O. 21, R. 35, to obtain a fresh warrant for possession. He need not file a suit for that purpose. Art. 165 has nothing to do with such an application for warrant for possession. 146 I.C. 11 =35 Bom.L.R. 1033=1933 B. 457 (F.B.). But it will be applicable notwithstanding the fresh order for possession to a subsequent application in respect of the same obstruction, and if the obstruction is by the same person and in the same character, the mere fact that the decree-holder is applying under a fresh warrant for possession would not make the obstruction a fresh obstruction. 1933 B. 457 (F.B.) An application by judgment-debtor for re-delivery of property not covered by decree alleged to have been delivered is governed by Art. 181 and not Art. 165. 23 Pat. 145=1944 Pat. 254; 46 B. 1031=1922 B. 271. See also 38 A. 339=34 I.C. 231=14 A.L.J. 401; 1 Lah.L.J. 230. Art. 165 applies to proceedings under O. 21, R. 100, C. P. Code. 1923 C. 287; 58 C. 55 =132 I.C. 631=1931 C. 385. Where the claimant preferred his petition under O. 21, R. 100. Within 30 days of his dispossession bringing the judgment-creditor and the auction-purchaser on record but failed to bring the sub-purchaser on record till he had notice of the sub-purchase and after 30 days: Held, that the petition was not barred by limitation, sec. 22 not applying to applications, 58 C. 55=1931 C. 385. Art. 165 was not intended to apply to an application by judgment-debtor. Art. 181 applies to an application for restoration of possession. 1 Lah.L.J. 230. See also 46 B. 1031; 34 I.C. 231 supra. Application to set aside sale of plots not specified in the mortgage-deed and the decree for sale, and for recovery of possession comes under Art. 165 and not under Art. 166. 24 I.C. 137=17 O.C. 94.

ART. 166: SCOPE AND APPLICATION.—Art. 166, applies even though the ground urged for setting aside the sale raises a question under sec. 47, C. P. Code. An application to set aside a sale on the ground that part of the property sold was a house which was not liable to be sold by reason of sec. 60 (1) (c), C. P. Code, is governed by Art. 166 and must be made within thirty days though the question as to the saleability of the property may fall under sec. 47, C. P. Code. 21 Pat.

774=1943 P.W.N. 75=24 Pat.L.T. 97=1943 Pat. 75. Purchase by a decree-holder without obtaining leave to bid is irregular and not void and an application to set it aside is governed by Art. 166. 41 B. 357=39 I.C. 3. Under O. 21, R. 89, read with R. 92 (3), C. P. Code, and Art. 166 of the Limitation Act, it is necessary that not only the application but also the deposit must be made within thirty days of the date of the sale, and this period cannot be extended by the Courts, sec. 148, C. P. Code, being inapplicable. 36 P.L.R. 101=1934 L. 875. But where the deposit by the judgment-debtor was not made in time, by delay on the part of the Court in issuing the chalan, there is no reason why he should suffer in consequence. Art. 166 is not limited to applications under O. 21, Rr. 89 to 91 of the C. P. Code. It is perfectly general and refers to an application under the Code to set aside a sale in execution of a decree. 54 I.C. 431=46 C. 975. See also 45 L.W. 486 =1937 M. 560=(1937) 1 M.L.J. 569; I.L.R. An application to set aside a sale in execution of a decree passed against the father, on the ground that the property sold belongs to the applicant and not to his father, is governed by Art. 166. 1938 N.L.J. 389= 1938 Nag. 558; 1937 Mad. 560=(1937) 1 M.L.J. 569. Art. 166 cannot override the special provision in O. 34, R. 5, C. P. Code. (1937) 1 M.L.J. 569. An application to set aside an execution sale on the ground that the sale was bad and a nullity as it was held without the valuation as required by sec. 13 of the Bihar Money-Lenders Act falls under O. 21, R. 90, C. P. Code, and is governed by Art. 166 and is barred if preferred beyond 30 days of the sale. The mere fact that the application is labelled as being under secs. 47 and 151, C. P. Code, will not take it out of O. 21, R. 90, C. P. Code, so as to make it maintainable though preferred beyond 30 days. 23 Pat.L.T. 139 =1942 Pat. 238=21 Pat. 281. See also 47 M. 525=1924 M. 137=45 M.L.J. 829. An application to set aside an execution on the ground of fraud must be made within the time prescribed by Art. 166. 51 I.C. 447. An application to set aside an execution sale on the ground of illegality though falling under sec. 47 of the Code of Civil Procedure and not under O. 21, R. 90, is governed by Art. 166. 18 L.W. 780=45 M.L.J. 829. See also I. An application after 30 days to set aside an execution sale on the ground that the proclamation of sale was not made in the village where the property was situate, is barred. 19 L.W. 780=45 M.L.J. 829. An application to set aside an execution sale on the ground that there was no attachment prior to the sale or that there had been a defective attachment falls within Art. 166. 1 R. 533=1924 R. 124. An application to set aside an execution sale whatever its nature and whether falling under sec. 47, C. P. Code, or O. 21, R. 90, C. P. If an execution sale is a nullity, i.e., made without jurisdiction, or is void ab initio, Art. 181 governs an application to set it aside and not Art. 166. 43 Mad. 313; 1931 L. 586 (2)=132 I.C. 493. See also 1941 Pat. 566; 1936 P. 496; 19 Pat. 393 =21 Pat.L.T. 223=1940 Pat. 303; 1937 R. 126 (Property sold in excess of the property mortgaged). A sale held without notice of sale proclamation to judgment-debtor is not a nullity and an application to set it aside is governed by Art. 166. 53 I.C. 809=11 L.W. 59. Where certain property is sold in execution of a decree which is executable only against the assets of the deceased judgment-debtor in the hands of his son, an application to set aside the sale by the son on the ground that part of the property sold was his personal property falls under Art. 166 and not under Art. 181. 189 I.C. 256=1940 Pat. 192. STARTING POINT.—Limitation runs from the date of the sale and not the date of confirmation or date of deposit of 25 per cent. 17 I.C. 884. See also 1936 P. 558; 1940 O.W.N. 381=1940 Oudh 261. But see 8 O.W.N. 633=132 I.C. 263=1931 O. 291 (Sale complete only when a declaration about a person being the purchaser is made and a deposit of ¼ of the purchase money is made and not where the bid is made). Where property to be sold in execution of a decree is self-acquired revenue paying land belonging to the judgment-debtor and the papers are sent to the Collector for sale under the Oudh Civil Rules, the Collector is acting merely as a sale officer under the directions of the executing Court and the Court remains seized with the execution and the sale is not completed until the Court formally accepts the bid and declares the purchaser under O. 21, r. 84, C. P. Code. The starting period of limitation under Art. 166 is the date on which the Court approves of the sale and declares the purchaser. 10 Luck. 557=153 I.C. 719=1935 O. 131. See also 1938 N.L.J. 10. Where no fraud is made out, the question of the date of knowledge of the judgment-debtor is irrelevant. 140 I.C. 732=36 C.W.N. 242=1932 C. 627. See also 1936 P. 558. Where an execution sale is alleged to be fraudulent and collusive, the period of taking proceedings to set aside the sale, in the case of fraud, would be three years from the time when the sale took place or when the plaintiff knew of the fraud. 74 I.C. 202. Sale when complete. 106 I.C. 333=1928 N. 111; 8 O.W.N. 633=1931 O. 291. An application to set aside a sale is made in time if service of the notice of motion is made within time. The fact that it comes on for disposal after the time prescribed does not matter. 60 C. 1106=1933 C. 886. Where a purchaser has actual notice of the application to set aside a sale, the absence of formal notice is not a bar to the maintainability of the application. 60 C. 1106=1933 C. 886. Application filed beyond 30 days of sale but within 30 days of alleged date of knowledge of sale—Maintainability. 9 Cut.L.T. 84.

ARTS. 166 AND 181.—Official Receiver's application to declare execution sale void—Limitation. I.L.R. 1942 N. 377=1940 N. 414.

ART. 167.—Acquiescence in the obstruction to previous attempt to obtain delivery of possession is no bar to a second application for removal of obstruction, though made more than 30 days after the acquiescence in the earlier obstruction. 66 I.C. 722=1921 M.W.N. 698=1921 M. 559. The failure of the decree-holder to complain of obstruction under O. 21, r. 97, C. P. Code, within 30 days prescribed by Art. 167 is no bar to a fresh application for delivery of possession under O. 21, r. 95. 24 I.C. 512. See also 1933 N. 369; 161 I.C. 524=1936 S. 11=30 S.L.R. 290.

ART. 168.—Where no date is fixed for the hearing of an appeal and no notice is given to the parties of any date for which the hearing has been fixed, an order dismissing the appeal for default is without jurisdiction. 1924 L. 279. The limitation allowed to a party seeking to set aside an ex parte order dismissing his appeal in default, runs from the date of the order and not from the date of the knowledge. The inherent power of the Court to break through the provisions of sec. 3 of Limitation Act cannot be invoked to enable it. 1 L. 363=58 I.C. 789. Assuming that an application under sec. 151, C. P. Code, lies for the re-admission of an appeal dismissed for want of prosecution, there is nothing in the terms of Art. 168 to exclude such an application from the operation of the article. 13 Luck. 425=1937 O.W.N. 743=1937 Oudh. 426. An application for restoration of an appeal which has been dismissed for default of prosecution is governed by Art. 168 and sec. 5 has no application to such a case . 142 I.C. 185 =1933 R. 96. Where an appeal is dismissed for non-appearance of the appellant under O. 41, r. 17, C. P. Code, the only course open to the appellant is to have it restored under O. 41, r. 19, within the period of 30 days prescribed by Art. 168 and Court cannot exercise its inherent powers. 47 M. 171=45 M.L.J. 813=1924 M. 114. There is no distinction in principle or substance between an appeal dismissed on the day fixed for the hearing for default in payment of process-fee under O. 41, r. 18, and an appeal dismissed before the hearing for default in payment of process-fee or of the costs of preparing the paper book. They stand upon the same footing and an application to restore an appeal in the one case is ejusdem generis with similar applications in the other cases. In each instance the appeal is dismissed for want of prosecution, and Art. 168 applies. 8 R. 380=127 I.C. 161=1930 R. 228 (F.B.). An application for the restoration of an appeal dismissed for failure to furnish security for costs is governed by Art. 168. 1931 M. 813=61 M.L.J. 618. Even if Art. 168 does not apply, such an application ought to be made within a reasonable time, and by analogy should be made within 30 days. 40 I.C. 234=28 C. L.J. 163.

ART. 169.—See 61 M.L.J. 920=134 I.C. 1202=1931 M. 813 cited under Art. 164 as to substituted service being due service. The expression "notice of appeal" in Art. 169 should be taken to mean notice (actual or constructive) of the date on which the appeal is disposed of and not the filing of the appeal. 42 P.L.R. 38= 1940 Lah. 49.

Quaere.—Whether the expression "notice of appeal" in Art. 169, refers to first notice as regards the appeal having been filed or to the subsequent notice as to the dates fixed for hearing, see 1933 L. 882 =35 P.L.R. 1946.

ART. 170.—A memorandum of appeal unstamped and presented along with a pauper petition cannot, if it is stamped subsequently after the period of limitation, and after the pauper petition is dismissed, be treated, as an appeal filed on the day on which the memorandum was filed and is therefore barred. 22 I.C. 884. See 7 P. 827=1929 P. 31, for memo. of cross-objections in forma pauperis in appeal.

ART. 171.—Where one legal representative of a deceased party is brought on record in time, there is no bar by time if others are brought in subsequently. 13 I.C. 313=22 M.L.J. 169 (3 A. 517; 12 B. 48, Foll.).

ART. 173.—An application for a review of a decree of the High Court must be presented within 90 days of the decree and every day's delay over that period must be duly accounted for. 32 I.C. 100=3 L.W. 244. See also 1928 B. 308=52 B. 434=30 Bom.L.R. 668 (Subsequent regulation not a ground for review). 1929 A. 485=121 I.C. 552. It is open to the judgment-debtor in such a case to apply under sec. 5 for an extension of the period of limitation, if in fact he could prove that he had no knowledge. 1929 A. 485. Under Art. 173, 90 days' time is allowed to the petitioners for review from the date of their knowledge, but the contention that, where the knowledge is after that period, there is no period prescribed by the Limitation Act and Art. 181, at most applies is wrong. 119 I.C. 99=1929 A. 545. Art. 173 is not attracted to an application for review of the order of an appellate officer exercising his functions under the provisions of the Bengal Agricultural Debtors Act. In such cases it is left to the discretion of the appellate officer himself to entertain the application for review at the time when it is presented to him. 48 C.W.N. 492.

ART. 174.—Art. 174 is applicable only to a case where the judgment-debtor seeks to inform the Court of a payment alleged to have been made by him out of Court to the decree-holder. Article does not apply to an application by the decree-holder himself. 1922 C. 30=26 C.W.N. 529=35 C.L.J. 71; 15 L. 910=1935 L. 194 (2). See also 1939 All. 581; 1936 P. 270=15 P. 422=17 Pat.L.T. 195. This rule would apply whether the payment pleaded is sought to be proved against the decree-holder or his assignee. 56 A. 694=1934 A.L.J. 198=1934 A. 209. In cases where fraud is alleged, the judgment-debtor must so inform the Court and protect himself, but he cannot be allowed to evade the provisions of Art. 174 and obtain a decision not properly coming under sec. 47. 13 I.C. 424=16 C.W.N. 396. The judgment-debtor has his remedy by a suit properly framed. 16 C.W.N. 396. Agreement not to sell property in execution of sale—Sale in contravention of—Application to set aside on the ground of "fraud"—Limitation. 152 I.C. 763=40 L.W. 622=1935 M. 257 (1). A mortgagor can claim an account of receipts and disbursements of income of the mortgaged property during the time the mortgagee was in possession under the decree. 38 I.C. 675=39 M. 1026. An application by a judgment-debtor to record satisfaction of decree made by him more than three years from the date of the revised decree against him is barred, even though it may be within three months from the date of the revised decree as against other defendants. 31 I.C. 917. See also 1929 A. 674=115 I.C. 139; 1935 M. 581=69 M.L.J. 77. Where under the terms of an agreement for an adjustment there would be no adjustment until and unless the judgment-debtor is ready to pay the whole of the agreed sum in one payment, and the judgment-debtor would not be entitled to apply for the adjustment to be certified until the amount is tendered, the agreement does not become an adjustment until tender is made, and limitation for an application to record adjustment therefore commences only from the date of tender and not from the date of agreement. I.L.R. (1943) 1 Cal. 195=1943 Cal. 634.

ART. 175.—The date of the decree is not a terminus a quo of an execution application if there is an agreement between the parties altering the date. 1923 L. 381. On this article, see also 58 I.C. 393=1921 P. 340. Where an appeal is preferred, the date of the appellate decree is the starting point, even though the appeal is dismissed. 135 I.C. 858=1932 R. 54.

ART. 176.—Neither Art. 176 nor Art. 177 applies to a case where the deceased is neither plaintiff nor an appellant nor a defendant nor a respondent, but is merely an applicant or opponent, in a proceeding which is instituted as a preliminary step to the filing of a suit or of an appeal. 28 S.L.R. 150=148 I.C. 819=1934 S. 36. Where on the death of a sole plaintiff before trial, the Court dismisses the suit for default of appearance, the order is unsustainable, and it is open to the legal representative of the deceased plaintiff to apply within the time prescribed by Art. 176, to be made a party. 40 I.A. 151=35 A. 331 =25 M.L.J. 148 (P.C.). C.L.J. 263=1922 C. 491. An application under O. 22, R. 3 to bring on record the legal representative of a deceased appelland is governed by Art. 176 and sec. 6 does not apply to such an application. 35 I.C. 438. Two rival claimants—Application of one in time—Other's application barred. The latter cannot continue suit revived by the former. 104 I.C. 398=1927 N. 343. ART. 177.—See 28 S.L.R. 150 noted under Art. 176. The period of limitation was originally six months under the article. Act XXVI of 1920 sought to reduce the period to 90 days in the case of both Arts. 176 and 177 but amended only Art. 176 and left the words "ditto" in Art. 177 alone to denote the altered period of limitation under Art. 176 above. This led to some conflict of decisions as to which, see 1923 B. 294; 1924 C. 74=50 C. 549; 1922 L. 211; 62 I.C. 52. The Amending Act XI of 1923 made the position clear by substituting "Ninety days" for the "ditto". See 4 L. 367 =1924 L. 65. Art. 177 has no application to execution proceedings. 10 I.C. 405 (2); 11 P. 546=1932 P. 222; nor to forma pauperis enquiry. 116 I.C. 111 (2)=1929 S. 136; but applies to an appeal against an order in execution proceedings; if in such an appeal a respondent dies and his legal representative is not brought on record within the time limited, it would abate. 151 I.C. 777 (1)=40 L.W. 623= 1934 M. 664 (1). Applications to bring on record the legal representatives of a deceased person are governed by Art. 177 and not Art. 181: 55 M. 1006=1932 M. 574 =63 M.L.J. 827. Where a suit was dismissed for default but the order of dismissal was subsequently set aside, and, during the interval, some of the defendants died, an application for impleading their heirs, after three months of the deaths of the defendants but within three months of the date of the restoration order could be entertained. 15 R.D. 476=12 L.R. 237 (Rev.). The limitation Act does not apply to proceedings under the Companies Act; when a member against whom an application is made for an order for the balance of contributions due from him dies pending the application, it is not necessary that his heirs should be substituted within 90 days as prescribed by the Limitation Act. The matter of the liability of the legal representatives is governed by sec. 160 of the Companies Act and on the death of the member the liability automatically falls upon the representatives. 19 Pat.L.T. 214=1938 Pat. 287.

ART. 178: (AS AMENDED BY ARBITRATION ACT X OF 1940)—APPLICABILITY.—Art. 178 as amended by the Arbitration Act X of 1940, is clearly intended to apply to those cases where a party to the arbitration proceedings applies for the filing of the award in Court. It is not intended to apply to an arbitrator filing an award in Court. An arbitrator who applies for filing an award in Court seeks no relief from the Court for himself or against anybody. The arbitrator in applying for the filing of an award in Court is performing a mere ministerial act at the request of a party to the arbitration or by the order of the Court. He has no interest in the award apart from his fees and charges. The legislature never intended that Art. 178 should apply to an application for the filing of an award in Court by an arbitrator. I.L.R. (1942) Kar. 466=1943 Sind 33. See also 1945 Bom. 417. The period of limitation provided by Art. 178 refers to an application made to the Court under the Arbitration Act by a party to an award to obtain an order directing the arbitrator to file the award. It does not apply to an award which had already been filed in Court, although it was in fact filed more than ninety days after notice of it had been served. I.L.R. (1942) 2 Cal. 69=1942 Cal. 542. The time for an application to file the award begins on the date the award is delivered to the parties and not the date of signatures by the arbitrators. 48 I.C. 711. An application to file an award beyond 6 months after date of its being given, is barred under Art. 178. Secs. 5 and 12 do not save limitation. 38 A. 85 =31 I.C. 899. An arbitrator's award does not become invalid merely because it has not been made rule of the Court within the prescribed period of limitation. 1930

O. 51 (1). An application under para. 20 of Sch II, C. P. Code, is not the only remedy open to a person in whose favour the award is made. He can file a regular suit in which case Art. 178, does not apply. 1935 L. 134. Art. 178, does not apply to the filing of the award by the arbitrator. The arbitrator does not make an application to the Court when he files his award and intimates to the Court by his letter that he has made the award and that award should be taken on file. It is only when such an application is made by a party to the reference that the application of Art. 178 is attracted. 47 Bom.L.R. 317=1945 Bom. 417. An application filed along with an award for making it a rule of the Court is not governed by Art. 178. 46 P.L.R. 232 =1944 Lah. 398.

ART. 179.—In cases of application for leave to appeal to His Majesty in Council, the time for obtaining copies can be deducted for purposes of limitation. 1 P. 429= 3 P.L.T. 289=1922 P. 255. See also 105 I. C. 852=1928 N. 63. Application for leave to appeal in a case under the Income-tax Act is also within the article. 59 C. 251= 36 C.W.N. 127=1932 C. 587. Where there are two cases, two applications must be filed. Where only one is filed in time, the party cannot file another out of time. 140 I.C. 70=1932 L. 441. Application for leave to appeal against an order calling for finding can be made within 20 days from the final decree in the case. 35 Bom.L.R. 415=1933 B. 251=145 I.C. 258. See also 1941 Pesh. 3 (application to file award under Arbitration Act, Art. 181 and not Art. 178 applies). According to the wording of Art. 179, the time should count from the date of the decree appealed from. Though a review application may be regarded as continuing the proceedings in view of sec. 14, Limitation Act and that limitation should begin when it is dismissed; it cannot be said that the tme must be computed from the date of the receipt of the information of the dismissal of the review application. 1945 A.W.R. (Rev.) 203 (2)= 1945 R.D. 405. In a case where an application for the review of a judgment sought to be appealed against is summarily rejected, obviously because the grounds did not come in any way within the grounds prescribed by law to justify a review, the time so taken, cannot be excluded in computing the period of limitation for an application for leave to appeal to Privy Council against the said judgment. 1941 A.W.R. (Rev.) 1090=1941 O.A. (Supp.) 880.

ART. 180.—Where an auction-sale was confirmed before the Limitation Act of 1908, but the application for possession was made after the coming into force of the Act, the application is governed by Art. 180 and is barred, if not made within three years from the date when the sale became absolute. 27 I.C. 420. An application for delivery of property sold in Court-auction should be made within 3 years from the date when the sale becomes absolute. In construing the meaning of words "when the sale becomes absolute" in Art. 180, regard must be had not only to the provisions of O. 21, R. 92 (1) but also to the other material sections and orders of the Code including those which relate to appeals from orders made under O. 21, R. 92 (1). Where, therefore, there is an appeal from an order of the Judge disallowing the application to set aside the sale, the sale will not become absolute within the meaning of Art. 180, until the disposal of the appeal, even though the Judge may have confirmed the sale, as he was bound to do when he decided to disallow the above-mentioned application. (1932 C. 75 Rev.; 56 C. 608, Overr.) 61 I. A. 248=61 C. 945=1934 P.C. 134=67 M. L.J. 79 (P.C.); 62 C. 66=1935 C. 333. An application by a decree-holder purchaser for delivery of possession of the properties purchased by him in Court-auction is not an application to execute the decree and is governed by Art. 180. 32 I.C. 993 (1)=3 L.W. 191; 103 I.C. 335=1927 N. 294. See also 7 L.W. 16=43 I.C. 155. An application for possession made by the decree-holder purchaser in a collector sale nearly ten years after the confirmation of the sale, is barred by limitation, whether Art. 180 or 182, applies to such a case. 1945 N.L.J. 167.

LEG. REF.

[1] Substituted by Act XI of 1923, sec. 2 and Sch. I, for "Ditto".

ART. 181: CONSTRUCTION OF ARTICLE.— The expression "right to apply" in Art. 181 should not be rigidly construed. 18 N.L.R. 58=1922 N. 217. Art. 181 does not apply to an application under sec. 16 of the Telegraph Act, such an application being in the nature of a plaint. I.L.R. 1943 Lah. 677 =44 P.L.R. 275=1942 Lah. 186. The expression "when the right to apply accrues" in Art. 181, means "when the right to apply first accrues." Hence where in a case there is no option contained in a decree, the limitation under Art. 181, for an application for preparation of a final decree under R. 5 of O. 34, C. P. Code, runs from the date when the plaintiff or applicant become first entitled to make the application. I.L.R. (1946) A. 570=1946 A. 360.

APPLICABILITY OF ARTICLE— GENERAL.— Art. 181 is a residuary article adapted to many different classes of applications. The words in the third column are only the expression of a broad common law principal. They have to be interpreted and applied according to the substance of each case. 60 C. 19=1933 C. 251. As to the scope of the article, see 8 Pat.L.T. 28=1926 P. 397. Art. 181 applies to all applications for making of which the C. P. Code gives authority and to no others. 1 L. 187=55 I.C. 820; 102 I.C. 543=1927 N. 262; 39 I.C. 653 (P.); 55 A. 912=145 I.C. 893= 1933 A.L.J. 1203=1933 A. 789 (F.B.). The preparation of a decree-sheet in a partition suit is merely a ministerial act to which the provisions of Art. 181 do not apply. 188 I.C. 577=42 P.L.R. 148=1940 Lah. 202. Order for final decree for partition—Application offering to file stamp paper to have final decree engrossed on it is not subject to limitation. 13 Luck. 135=1937 Oudh 409. See also 60 I.C. 123=12 L.W. 535. (Act applies only to applications under C. P. Code). But see 54 A. 1067= 60 I.A. 13=64 M.L.J. 403=1933 P.C. 63 (P.C.) in which the question as to the applicability of the article to applications by the Liquidator under Art. 186, Companies Act, was doubted. Art. 181 applies to all applications to Civil Court, unless they are governed by some other article or provision. 1928 N. 194. In determining whether the article applies, the substance of the application and not its mere form is to be looked to. 49 A. 276=25 A.L.J. 201=1927 A. 16 (F.B.). See also 19 N.L.J. 101 (application under sec. 62 C. P. Tenancy Act). Where a sale is void ab initio for want of jurisdiction, it is not necessary for an applicant to ask the Court to order the purchaser to deliver back to him the property on the ground that he had obtained no title to it. Where the applicant makes such an application, it is governed by Art. 181 and not by Art. 166, and the mere fact that he has also asked for setting aside the sale will not affect the nature of the application. 1937 R. 126. See 19 P. 393=1940 Pat. 303; 1936 Pat. 496; I.L.R. (1938) 1 Cal. 280= 1938 C. 113=42 C.W.N. 87; 1940 Pat. 192. A decision given under sec. 152, C. P. Code, granting an application for amendment of a decree is an order and not a decree. Hence, an application to set aside such an order is governed by Art. 181 and not by Art. 164. 145 I.C. 823=1933 R. 264. The Limitation Act provides periods with reference to suits, appeals and applications, the last being matters arising out of suit. It has no application to proceedings in insolvency. 29 I.C. 168=17 M.L.T. 347. See also 60 I.C. 123=12 L.W. 535; 52 I.C. 188; 1924 L. 331. Art. 181 governs application for an order absolute under sec. 89, T. P. Act, and limitation commences on the date of the appellate decree. L.R. 3 P.C. 174 (P.C.). An application for making conditional decree passed by consent absolute would be governed by Art. 181. 1923 A. 20. An application under sec. 26-J of the B. T. Act governed by Art. 181. 38 C.W.N. 50= 1934 C. 396. See also 1937 R.D. 509 (Agra Tenancy Act). Whether article applies for leave to appeal to His Majesty in Council from a criminal appeal decided by High Court. 38 C.L.J. 406=1924 C. 338. An application for leave to appeal to Privy Council in a case under the Income-tax Act is governed by Art. 179 rather than Art. 181. 59 C. 251=139 I.C. 236=1932 C. 587. Application for recording part-payment and for execution as regards balance. 26 C.W. N. 529=35 C.L.J. 71=1922 C. 30. A certification by the judgment-debtor under O. 21, R. 2, C. P. Code, is an application under Art. 181, whereas one by the decree-holders cannot be held to be such. For the latter, there is no period of limitation. 15 Pat. L.T. 457=1934 P. 380. See also 1936 Nag. 281. The law does not require any application being made to bring on the record the legal representatives of a judgment-debtor and an execution application against them is not barred, merely because no application to substitute the legal representatives is made within three years of the death of the judgment-debtor. 1934 L. 55.

Whether Art. 181 applies to an application to enforce an injunction under O. 21, R. 32, C. P. Code, or whether there is no limitation for it. 46 C. 103=45 I.C. 864. See also 162 I.C. 303=1936 L. 334. Application for substitution by assignee of preliminary decree. 20 I.C. 685=18 C.W.N. 450. Application to bring on record the legal representatives of a deceased person is governed by Art. 177 and not Art. 181. 55 M. 1006=1932 M. 574=63 M.L.J. 827. Where a person is not a party to a suit or appeal, but on his death his legal representative is sought to be impleaded, Art. 181 applies and not Art. 177. 1924 L. 316. Where properties are sold in execution of an ex parte decree, and the ex parte decree is subsequently set aside, an application to set aside the execution sale is governed by Art. 181, and limitation starts from the date when the ex parte decree was set aside. 43 B. 235=48 I.C. 130. Art. 181 and not Art. 165 applies in case of an application by a judgment-debtor for restoration of immovable property delivered in execution proceedings in excess of what has been decreed by the Court. 42 M. 753=37 M.L. J. 340 (F.B.). Also to objection to execution proceedings (wrongful delivery). 4 Luck. 209=1929 O. 76. An application to set aside an attachment and sale in execution, by the Judgment-debtor who continued in possession is governed by Art. 181. The right to apply accrued, not from the date of sale, but from when the notice of attachment served on him was returned. 133 I.C. 858=33 Bom.L.R. 781=1931 B. 446. Where there is an obstacle to the execution proceedings, for instance, possession of the property by a third party, as soon as that obstacle is swept away by a Court of competent jurisdiction declaring the title of the judgment-debtor to the property as against that party, the duty again arises upon the decree-holder to take execution proceedings within three years notwithstanding the fact that that party has filed an appeal. 40 P.L. R. 481=1938 Lah. 695. See also 1936 Sind 11. An application by the Official Receiver for having a transfer made by the insolvent avoided is not governed by Art. 181. The article applies only to applications made under C. P. Code. 60 I.C. 123=12 L.W. 535: 55 I.C. 820=1 L. 187; 1927 N. 262. 1940 N.L.J. 505. But see 1924 L. 331. Art. 181 will apply only when there are definite circumstances excluding Art. 182. An oral agreement by the decree-holder to give time to the judgment-debtor made out of Court, which is not proved, does not make Art. 181 applicable and does not give a fresh starting point for limitation. 114 I. C. 894=1929 A. 606. The mere certification by the decree-holder of a payment made to him out of Court by the judgment-debtor under O. 21, R. 2 (1) is not an application under Art. 181, even though such certification is termed an application and is in the form of a petition. 56 I.A. 30=3 Luck. 684=114 I.C. 581=1929 P.C. 19=56 M.L.J. 233 (P.C.). A petition for review of an order confirming an execution sale is governed by Art. 181; 116 I.C. 65=1929 N. 305. Where a preliminary decree for partition has been obtained, the right to get it made absolute accrues on the date when such decree is obtained and the limitation is 3 years from such date. 112 I.C. 205=1929 O. 117. In a partition suit, after the preliminary decree, the Court is bound to proceed further and to appoint a Commssioner to actually partition the property, and on the report of the Commissioner, if accepted, to pass a final decree. So, an application in a parition suit after the preliminary decree was passed for the appointment of a Commissioner is not subject to Art. 181 or any rule of limitation. (22 C. 425 and 53 M. 378, Rel. on.) 146 I.C. 201 =1933 Pesh. 101 (2). For purposes of limitation under Art. 182 the date of the decree in a partition suit must be taken to be the date on which the order for drawing up the final decree was passed and not the date on which the necessary stamped paper for drawing up the decree was supplied by the decree-holder. 1940 Lah. 337. Where in a partition suit an order for drawing up final decree is passed and the judgment-debtor has disputed the adequacy of the stamped paper supplied by the decree-holder, the period which is taken up in getting final decision on the point by the High Court, should in any case be deducted as the decree-holder could not get a decree drawn up owing to the dispute raised by the judgment-debtor and his cause of action for execution should therefore be taken as suspended. 1940 Lah. 337. See also 41 Bom. L.R. 921=1939 B. 454. Art. 181 applies only to applications to Court for exercise of acts and powers which the Court is not bound to perform suo motu. An application for the exercise of purely ministerial functions which the Court has no discretion to refuse is not within the article. 1933 Pesh. 101 (2); 1940 Lah. 202; 1937 O.W.N. 124 =1937 Oudh 409=13 Luck. 135. "Decree to be drawn up on production of succession certificates"—Judgment specifying no date within which to produce the certificate—Right to produce succession certificates, and apply for drawing of decree not barred by Art. 181. 33 Bom.L.R. 618=134 I.C. 694= 1931 B. 407. An application by transferee of Court auction-purchaser to recover possession falls under this article. 51 C.L.J. 560 =1930 C. 586. Art. 181 has no application to an application made to the High Court in revision of an order of a Criminal Court of inferior jurisdiction nor to civil revision petitions. 1930 O. 401. An application in a pending case is not governed by Art. 181 and is in fact not subject to any rule of limitation. 53 M. 378=59 M.L.J. 102. Where the original decree was capable of execution but the decree-holder sought to take advantage of a slight error in orthography and applied to execute the decree after an application for amendment had been granted ex parte, held, that the first decree was capable of execution and that the decree-holder could not claim an enlarged period of limitation because of the application for amendment. 27 A.L.J. 427 =115 I.C. 118 (2)=1929 A. 253. An application under O. 21, R. 50 (2), C. P. Code, is not an application for execution of the decree within the meaning of Art. 182 and, consequently, is governed by Art. 181 and the commencement of the period of limitation is the date of the decree. 122 I.C. 392 =1930 S. 180. Where an execution sale was impeached on the ground that it was a nullity, held, that the application was governed by Art. 181, not Art. 166. 11 Lah. L.J. 457=1930 L. 17; 132 I.C. 493=1931 L. 586; 151 I.C. 244=1934 A.L.J. 859= 1934 A. 314. On this point, see under Art. 166. See also 1940 M. 566=(1940) 1 M.L. J. 537 (application under C. P. Code, O. 21, Rr. 86 and 87); 46 L.W. 280=1937 Mad. 779 (application under C. P. Code, O. 21, R. 93). Where, in case of an instalment decree, an application has been made after some instalments have fallen due, the appropriate article is Art. 182 (7). Art. 181 has no application to such a case. But so far as default clause is concerned, Art. 181 would apply and the remedy for the enforcement of the default clause in the instalment decree is time barred, after the expiry of three years from the default in payment of instalments making whole amount due. The decree-holder cannot in such a case claim the recovery of future instalments, merely because in some future years there has been a default in the payment of the agreed successive instalments. His remedy to recover the instalments as and when they fall due is however not barred by the default clause. 56 A. 921=149 I.C. 598=1934 A.L.J. 772=1934 A. 534. Preliminary mortgage decree—Provision for instalments—Default clause giving decree-holder right to apply for sale for all instalments remaining due—No payment made—Application for final decree five years after preliminary decree is not barred—Every default gives rise to a fresh cause of action. I.L.R. (1942) M. 770=1942 M. 581=55 L. W. 276=(1942) 1 M.L.J. 532. Award under the Co-operative Societies Act (II of 1912) —Enforcement— Sale and confirmation — Application for delivery of possession after three years from the date of confirmation— Barred by limitation. 57 L.W. 399=1944 M.W.N. 526=1944 Mad. 434=(1944) 1 M. SPECIAL CASES — MORTGAGE DECREE.— Where a preliminary mortgage decree for sale was taken up in appeal to the High Court, the period of limitation for an application for final decree runs from the date of the High Court decree. 21 A.L.J. 526=1924 A. 99; 25 A.L.J. 78=54 I.A. 52 =8 L. 253=1927 P.C. 25=52 M.L.J. 366 (P.C.). See also 20 A.L.J. 580=1922 A. 446; 20 A.L.J. 640=1923 A. 22 (1); 1930 M. 356 (2); 1930 M. 353=58 M.L.J. 207; I.L.R. Where a suit for possession of land was decreed and possession was delivered to the plaintiff, but on appeal the decree of the trial Court was set aside and the case was remanded for retrial, and the trial Court after the remand dismissed the suit, the terminus a quo from which limitation runs for an application for restitution and the delivery of possession of the land back to the defendant, is the date of the dismissal of the suit by the trial Court, and not the date of the decree confirming such dismissal in appeal or second appeal. 1946 L. 416=223 I.C. 300=48 P.L.R. 138. The right to apply for restitution accrues really on the date when for the first time a decision is given which entitles the party asking for restitution to have restitution. 1933 C. 422=144 I.C. 150. Where a decree is passed by the trial Court but reversed in appeal and the reversal is confirmed in second appeal, the time for an application under sec. 144, C. P. But see 1933 R. 180=11 R. 275; 1937 R.D. 21, holding that Art. 182 applies to such applications and that even if Art. 181 applies, time begins to run from the date of the final decree. An application for restitution is in reality an application for execution of a decree and it is governed not by Art. 181 but by Art. 182. 44 L.W. 798=1937 Mad. 150=71 M.L.J. 795. Where an appellate Court has ordered restitution to a person who has been dispossessed under a decree and an appeal against that order has been dismissed by the High Court, the period of limitation under Art. 181 for an application for assessment of mesne profits begins to run from the date of the order of the High Court. 130 I.C. 78=1931 O. 51=6 Luck. 448. See also 150 I.C. 1096 (F.B.)=1934 A. 626 noted above and 17 N.L.J. 281=1935 N. 76. REVIVAL OR CONTINUANCE OF EXECUTION—APPLICATION FOR.—See 11 I.C. 972; 61 I.C. 817; 22 Pat.L.T. 992. Where an execution case is struck off for the time being, because some other suit is pending with regard to the property involved in the execution, the application to proceed with the execution after the matter has been finally decided in appeal and revision amounts to an application for revival of the original application, although the application may not say it in so many words and is governed by Art. 181. 212 I.C. 628=1944 Pesh. 17. If as a result of execution, a decree has been satisfied and if the decree-holder is compelled to refund or restore the property as a result of proceedings taken subsequently by the judgment-debtor or by a third party, the satisfied decree revives on the refund or the restoration of the property and application to execute the revived decree would be competent within three years from the time when the right to apply accrued to the decree-holder. In such cases, the starting point for an application would be the date when the decree-holder is compelled to refund the amount or restore the property. Where the High Court merely declares that the execution proceedings are ineffectual and it is the executing Court that orders restitution, limitation runs from date on which restitution takes place. 1935 L. 166. Where a decree-holder is prevented by an injunction from executing his decree, he must apply for execution within three years from termination of the injunction period, to save his decree from being barred. 42 A. 564=56 I.C. 1006. See also 166 I.C. 950=18 Pat.L.T. 90=1937 P. 43; 1927 A. 802; 49 A. 276=25 A.L.J. 201=1927 A. 16 (F.B.); 1927 A. 802=100 I.C. 790; 22 Pat.L.T. 992=1942 Pat. 112; 148 I.C. 525=1934 A.L.J. 363=1934 A. 294. But see 11 L.W. 42 and other cases cited infra. An execution application, which has not been judicially disposed of but simply removed from the Court's file for statistical purposes does not require to be revived. The Court had only to appraised of in some recognized manner, and a subsequent application presented to the High Court requesting it to deal with the prior pending application, is not one to which either Art. 181 or 182 of the Act applies. 55 I.C. 526=11 L.W. 42. See also 1924 M. 210=47 M. 176; 19 L.W. 20=45 M.L.J. 822; 1930 M. 328= 118 I.C. 769; 133 I.C. 316=1931 A. 458= 1931 A.L.J. 436; 58 C. 1113=134 I.C. 939 =35 C.W.N. 540=1932 C. 19 (execution stayed until further orders). L.J. 180=1940 All. 151 (F.B.). Art. 182 does not apply to the case of an application to revive and carry through a pending execution; and such an application is not barred if brought more than 3 years after proceedings had ceased to be pending. 36 M. 553=14 I.C. 264=24 M.L.J. 545. Where, owing to an order staying a sale in execution of a decree, the decree-holder is prevented from taking further steps in the execution proceedings a subsequent application for execution must be treated as an application to continue the previous proceedings. 52 I.C. 116=22 O.C. 75. See also 54 I.C. 426=6 O.L.J. 656; 142 I.C. 534=1933 M. 325=38 L.W. 268; 1942 P. 112=22 P.L.T. 992. In such a case limitation is three years from the date on which the stay came to an end. 142 I.C. 534 =1933 M. 325=38 L.W. 268. An application for reviving execution proceedings is governed by Art. 181 and the time commences to run from the time when the right to apply first accrues. The general principles of suspension of limitation might be applied in cases where a plaintiff or decree-holder is prevented under the circumstances from taking action in pursuance of his rights. It cannot be said that by reason of an appeal against the order setting aside the sale the decree-holder should be considered to be prevented from making a fresh application for execution of his decree. 57 C. 931=34 C.W.N. 102=1930 C. 329. The application was barred by limitation as it was made more than three years from the date when the sale was set aside. 34 C.W.N. 102=1930 Cal. 329. Application for reviving execution proceedings, filed within 3 years after the petition for setting aside ex parte decree was finally disposed of in appeal was held to be in time. 35 C. W.N. 540. Where, on an application by the judgment-debtor, the satisfaction of the decree was recorded by the lower Court, and where this order was reversed on appeal, and the decree-holder subsequently applied for execution, held that Art. 181 applied, and that time began to run from the date of the appellate decree, i.e., from the decree when the bar to the executability of the decree was removed. 38 L.W. 557=1933 M. 785=65 M.L.J. 747. If execution case is struck off at request of decree-holder on his own statement, subsequent application by him will not be in revival of the prior one. So Art. 181 will not apply but only Art. 182. 1937 A. L.J. 375=1937 A. 513. Application for substitution under R. 11 of O. 22, C. P. EXECUTION AGAINST SURETY.—Period of limitation for execution against the surety who had executed a surety bond when the decree was first put into execution, undertaking to pay the decree amount in case the decree-holder failed to realise the amount from the judgment-debtor does not run under any of the clauses of Art. 182 which is not exhaustive of all execution applications. Art. 181 applies to such a case. Limitation is 3 years from the date when the decree was kept alive as against the judgment-debtor. 1933 O. 209=143 I.C. 808=8 Luck. 427. See also 41 C.W.N. 1099=1937 Cal. 452; 65 M. An application to enforce a security bond against sureties to whom the judgment-debtor's properties were entrusted after attachment in execution of a decree is not an execution application, though the security bond has been executed in the Court of the execution proceedings and is enforced by summary procedure in the execution proceeding itself. Art. 181 and not Art. 182 applies to the application. Such an application must be made within three years after the date on which the sureties failed to produce the properties and a right to enforce the bond accrued to the decree-holder. 56 L.W. 632=1943 M.W.N. 669=(1943) 2 M.L.J. 444. REVIVAL OF SUIT—APPLICATION FOR.—An application by a Hindu reversioner to continue a suit instituted by a nearer reversioner since deceased is governed by Art. 181. 49 I.C. 268=9 L.W. 166. An application on the death of the plaintiff by a person on whose behalf the suit was filed by the plaintiff in a representative capacity, to be brought on the record as eo nomine plaintiff, is governed by Art. 181. 54 M. 770=132 I.C. 289=1931 M. 590=60 M.L.J. 659. An application to the Court to restore a suit in the exercise of its inherent power is governed by Art. 181. 47 I.C. 137=5 O. L. J. 259.

MISCELLANEOUS.—An application by the judgment-debtor to set aside sale on the ground that the sale was without jurisdiction is governed not by Art. 166 but by the residuary Art. 181. 163 I.C. 34=1936 P. 496. Execution sale—Property of co-owner included in—Symbolical delivery of possession—Transferee from co-owner not having notice of sale and delivery—Application by transferee to establish his title within 3 years of his knowledge is within this article. The starting point of limiattion is the date when his possession was sought to be interfered with. 1929 M.W.N. 811=1930 M. 12. A decree prohibiting the defendant from obstructing the village path is not capable of execution on the date it is passed, or in other words, until an obstruction is caused there is nothing to execute. As soon as any obstruction is caused and the Court's order in that behalf is breached, a cause of action for the enforcement of the decree arises. Art. 181 of the Limitation Act applies in such a case, and the decree-holder's right to apply for the enforcement of the decree accrues when the obstruction is caused. 12 B.R. 466=224 I. C. 37. On this article, see also 1936 S. 11; 1936 L. 334; 30 S.L.R. 88=1936 S. 138.

Arts. 181 and 182.—When there is a specific article, Art. 181, applicable to a case, Art. 182 can have no application and cannot be invoked. An application by the legal representatives of a deceased decree-holder for reviving the execution proceedings dismissed for default on the death of the decree-holder is not governed either by Art. 181 or 182 of the Limitation Act. The Code of Civil Procedure nowhere provides for such an application. It is a proceeding by which the inherent jurisdiction of the Court is involved. The Court will exercise its inherent powers if it considers that justice requires its exercise and if it is satisfied that there are no such laches on the part of the applicant which would disentitle him to relief. 46 C.W.N. 326=75 C.L.J. 114=1942 Cal. 390. Where a decree for money is made payable in instalments, and in default of payment of any instalment the whole decretal amount becomes payable immediately, it is open to the decree-holder to apply for execution even after three years from the date of default, and to recover such of the instalments as ha_ become due within three years of the date of his application. A default clause in an instalment decree is certainly for the benefit of the decree-holder, and his failure to avail himself of it should not be held to deprive him of the remedy he would have apart from the clause. It is open to the decree-holder either to apply for the full amount on default or to waive that privilege. 163 I.C. 937=38 Bom.L.R. 492=1936 B. 268. An application for a final decree is not an application for execution and hence it is Art. 181 that would apply to it and not Art. 182. Where a preliminary mortgage decree provides for payment in instalments, a new cause of action to apply for a final decree accrues under Art. 181, on every fresh default. There is nothing in Art. 181 to indicate that the decree-holder's right to apply for a final decree accrues only once. I.L.R. (1945) All. 277=1945 A.W.R. (H.C.) 54=1945 O.W.N. Code, although it may be an application in execution proceedings is not an application for execution and consequently does not come under Art. 182 or 183. There being no other specific article applicable to it, it must be governed by Art. 181. 48 C. W. N. 280. Article 181 applies to an application for restitution, under S. 144, C.P. Code. An application under S. 144 is not an application for execution and Art. 182 does not apply to such an application. 40 P.L.R. 692= 1938 Lah. 456. See also I.L.R. Where in a decree for possession conditional on deposit no time is fixed for deposit of the amount, it cannot be said that it should be made within three years from the date of the decree. In such a case neither Art. 181 nor Art. 182 is applicable, nor is there any article in the Limitation Act which governs such deposits. In such a case the decree-holder is entitled to deposit the money within a period of 12 years or within such period which falls short of the period necessary for the judgment-debtor to acquire an independent title to the property. I.L.R. (1944) All. 717=1944 A.L.J. 449=1944 A.L.W. 563=1944 O.A. (H.C.) 286=1944 A.W.R. (H.C.) 286= 1945 All. 10. Where a Court passes a decree for partition of lands assessed to the payment of revenue to the Crown and refers it to the Collector to carry out the partition under S. 54, C.P. Code, the Court's duties are at an end, and a darkhast asking the Court to send the papers to the Collector is not an application in execution. There is no provision which requires an application to be made to the Court to send such a decree to the Collector and such an application even, if made in the form of a darkhast, is not governed by either Art. 181 or 182. There is no limitation for such application. 47 Bom.L.R. 447=1945 Bom. 338 (F.B.). Unless an instalment decree clerly leaves the decree-holder no option on the happening of a default but to execute the decree once and for all for the whole amount due under it, the decree-holder is entitled to execute the decree for any of the instalments that are not barred by limitation and is not obliged to take out execution for the whole of the decretal amount immediately within 3 years from date of first default. The right to realize the entire amount due on the occurrence of the default is inserted for the benefit of the decree-holder and he is not obliged to exercise that option. Though the decree-holder might have attempted to take out execution for the amount and failed he is not debarred from taking out execution to recover the individual instalments. I.L.R. It cannot come under Art. 181, Limitation Act, 41 C.W.N. 1099=1937 Cal. 452. Art. 182 the Limitation Act has no application to the execution of a decree for possession of immovable property conditional on the payment of a sum of money on a future date. Art. 181 is the article applicable to an application for execution of such a decree; and time begins to run from the date of the decree or at any rate on the date fixed for payment of the amount. Arts. 181 and 183.—An application for a final decree for sale in a mortgage suit in the High Court, under O. 34, R. 5, C. P. Code, is governed by Art. 181 and not by Art. 183. It is not the law that there is no limitation applcable to an application of the kind. I.L.R. (1938)

ART. 182: APPLICABILITY.—Where a decree-holder applies for execution and the judgment-debtor being entitled to and having had an opportunity to raise a plea of limitation does not do so and an order for execution by attachment is made on the application, the judgment-debtor is precluded from raising that plea at a subsequent stage in the execution proceedings. 37 C.W.N. 752=1933 C. 855; also where a decree-holder could have applied for fresh execution at any time after the dismissal of first execution petition, but the delay is due to his own negligence or laches and not to any defect in the decree or to any circumstances connected with the decree which prevented him from putting in an application for execution. Application for the enforcement of an award by the Registrar of Co-operative Societies under S. 51 of the Madras Co-operative Societies Act applies Art. 182. 49 L.W. 143=1939 Mad. 304=(1939) 1 M.

L.J. 695. Awards under R. 22 of the Co-operative Societies Rules are executable as decrees and this being the case, the provisions of Art. 182 (1) are applicable. The period of limitation is three years from the date of the award. The date of the award is the date on which such award is officially communicated to the person or persons affected thereby. I.L.R. (1940) 2 Cal. 460=1941 Cal. 152. Whether it becomes such on grant of certificate by Registrar under S. 59 of the Act. (Ibid.) Execution of decree against co-defendants—Application against any one of them shall take effect against them all. 1925 M. 152=47 M.L.J. 608=20 L.W. 585. Decree-holder consenting to postponement of execution pending judgment-debtor's suit—Period must be excluded. 84 I.C. 1027=1925 O. 315 (2). S. 28 of the Provincial Insolvency Act imposes a disability on the creditor from proceeding against the person of the insolvent without leave of Court. So an application for execution, if made within the period of limitation from the order granting leave is not barred by limitation, even though it may be more than three years from the date of decree. 10 P. 422=134 I.C. 633=1931 P. 357. Application for leave to execute a decree against a partner of a firm under O. 21, R. 50 (2) is one in execution of the decree against the firm, and falls under this article and not under Art. 181. 30 S.L.R. 88=164 I.C. 1001 =1936 S. 138. See also 1939 Sind 161=I.L.R. (1939) Kar. 589 (F.B.). An application for restitution is in substance an application for execution though the rules of O. 21, C.P. Code, may not apply. Consequently Art. 182 applies to such applications. 2 P. 227; 41 Bom.L.R 1204=1940 Bom. 30; I. L. R. (1939) N. 492=1939 Nag. 101. A decree of the Chief Court of Lower Burma when put in execution before the High Court is governed by Art. 182. It does not become a decree of the Original Side of the High Court so as to get the benefit of an extended period of limitation. 6 R. 566=1928 R. 317. Secured creditor under S. 28 (6), Provincial Insolvency Act—Failure to execute decree against assets of insolvent within three years—Decree barred. 4 Luck. 241=1929 O. 71. An application by the Board of Commissioners for Hindu Religious Endowments, Madras, made to the District Judge for recovery of contributions under S. 70 (2) of the Madras Hindu Religious Endowments Act, after demand and refusal, is governed by Art. 182. The right to apply accrues only after the expiry of three months from the date of the demand made by the Board and the amount becomes payable only then. 58 M. 760=41 L.W. 264=1935 M. 217=68 M.L.J. 200.

CONDITIONAL DECREE.—Where a decree is not immediately executable and the right to apply for execution depends upon the fulfilment of certain contingencies, Art. 182 is inapplicable and Art. 181 governs execution in such cases. 131 I.C. 559=1931 A.L.J. 319 =1931 A. 326. See also I.L.R. (1938) A. 848; 1938 All. 539 (decree on payment of Court-fee). Where a decree directs possession of property to be given to plaintiff on his paying a certain sum to the defendant and no time is fixed for payment, the decree-holder is entitled to pay the money at once and ask for possession and an application made more than 3 years from the date when the decree was passed will be barred by Art. 181. See also 1931 N. 54=26 N.L.R. 353; 1930 B. 503=32 Bom.L.R. 427; 1931 All. 326. For the purposes of computing limitation under Art. 182 the date of the judgment has to be taken as the date of the decree which is the starting point of limitation. In the case of a decree for mesne profits under O. 20, R. 12 (2), C.P. Code, such date of the final adjudication between the parties fixing the amount of the mesne profits. The fact that the Court defers the drawing up of the final decree until payment of the deficit Court-fee by the plaintiff, and that the Court draws up the final decree only on the application of the plaintiff on payment of the deficit Court-fee would not enlarge the period of limitation under Art. 182, for execution of the decree for mesne profits on the ground that the decree is actually drawn up not on the date of the judgment fixing the mesne profits but subsequently on payment of the Court-fee and on application by the plaintiff. The application by the decree-holder to assess the deficit Court-fee or to receive the deficit Court-fee or to prepare and sign the decree cannot be regarded as a step-in-aid of execution under Art. 182 (5). 21 Pat. 366=23 Pat.L.T. 202= 1942 Pat. 410.

CONSTRUCTION —Article should receive a liberal construction in favour of decree-holder. 1927 N. 308=24 N.L.R. 36. Its language ought not to be strained in favour of the judgment-debtor who has not paid his debt. 47 L.W. 693=1938 Mad. 323=(1938) 1 M.L.J. 135. Construction—Mortgage-decree and money decree—Construction of—Execution of money decree—Limitation. 5 Pat.L.T. 276 =76 I.C. 452=1924 P. 700; 79 I.C. 477= 1921 S. 132=16 S.L.R. 245. Where a decree was dated wrongly and the decree-holder was misled by that, the decree ought to be regarded as having been passed on that date. 56 C.L.J. 185=1933 C. 239.

EXECUTION AGAIST SURETY, CL. (5).—Art. 182 is not exhaustive of all execution applications. Period of limitation for execution, against a surety who had executed a surety bond when the decree was first put into execution undertaking to pay the decree amount in case the decree-holder failed to realise the amount from the judgment-debtor, does not run under any of the clauses of Art. 182. Art. 181 applies to such a case. 8 Luck. 427= 1933 O. 209. Time for enforcing a surety bond given as a condition for stay of execution of a mortgage-decree runs only from the date when the property is sold and a deficiency arises. 136 I.C. 629=36 C.W.N. 701 =1932 P.C. 131=63 M.L.J. 85 (P.C.). See also 1941 M. 151=(1940) 2 M.L.J. 831. It was held in the case of execution against a surety who had executed a surety bond at the time of attachment before judgment, that limitation on the bond began to run from the date of the decree itself and that execution was barred under Art. 182. 142 I.C. 368= 1933 M. 219=37 L.W. 127. See also 6 R. 334=1928 R. 282. Surety for movables attached in execution—Limitation—Application for arrest of second surety—Prior application for recognition of assignment of decree and for arrest of first surety, if available to save limitation as against surety: Held, that (i) steps taken in execution against the judgment-debtor are not steps against the sureties, nor are steps in execution against sureties steps in execution of the decree itself, so that the proceedings for the recognition of the assignment of the decree did not save limitation; (ii) that the application was governed by Art. 181 and not Art. 182; (iii) that the application for the arrest of the first surety, in which no relief was sought against the second surety, did not save limitation against the second surety and that the petition was, therefore, barred by limitation. 38 L.W. 450=1933 M. 722=65 M.L.J. 507. There is no reason why, because Expl. I to Art. 182 (5), deals with cases of more than one decree-holder or judgment-debtor, Art. 182 should be deemed to be confined to applications for execution of decrees against judgment-debtors only. Cl. (5) can be applied to execution applications against any other party, for instance a surety, though it does not appear that the Legislature in enacting the article had specifically in mind the case of an application for execution against a surety. Art. 182 (5) is general in its application, and an application made in accordance with law to the proper Court for execution or to take some step-in-aid of execution of the decree or order would save limitation also against others affected by the decree, e.g., a surety; para. 2 of Expl. I operates an an explanation or clarification of the clause. The first sentence there would create an exception, but the second sentence of that paragraph would re-affirm the principle of the main clause (5) in its application to joint judgment-debtors. Previous applications for execution against a judgment-debtor would therefore save limitation against a surety, though he is not in the position of a joint judgment-debtor, within the meaning of Expl. I. 47 Bom. L.R. 434=A.I.R. 1945 Bom. 489.

CONTINUATION OF PROCEEDINGS. [See "REVIVAL AND CONTINUANCE OF EXECUTION", supra.]—Where the proceedings in pursuance of an application for execution are suspended by the executing Court though no act or default of the decree-holder, an application to revive and carry on the execution will not be barred, even though made three years after the suspension of the execution. 71 I.C. 963=1923 A. 471. See also 77 I.C. 871= 1923 A. 600; 1940 A.W.R. Where an application for execution is dismissed neither for default of the decree-holder nor on termination of the proceedings, the dismissal being a mere routine dismissal, the execution petition must in the eye of law be treated as still pending, though the records of the case are consigned to the record room for convenience of disposal. A subsequent application which, though in form a fresh application, in substance is one to merely continue the previous application, must be treated as a continuation of the prior application, and cannot be held to be barred by limitation as being made beyond time. 26 P.L.T. 155=A.I.R. 1945 Pat. 276. See also (1945) 1 M.L.J. 380=1945 Mad. 236. Per Walsh, A.C.J. and Mukherjee, J.—Whether an application is in substance a fresh application or an attempt to revive a former one is, as a general rule, a question of fact to be decided with reference to all the circumstances of the case. 49 A. 276=100 I.C. 692= 1927 A. 16 (F.B.). Where the original application asked for execution against the movable property to be pointed out by the servants of the decree-holder and attachment of crops in the following plots, and the subsequent application referred to the attachment of different crops in different plots, it was held that the later one was in continuation of the prior one. 1941 A.L.J. (Supp.) 19. Where after dismissal of an application for execution of decree for want of prosecution, another application is made in a tabular form setting forth all the particulars required by O 21, R. 11, C.P. Code, and praying that the decree may be executed and the property sold by "revival" of the previous proceedings, it should be construed as a fresh application for execution. 152 I.C. 36=1934 A. 1047. An execution application asking for a new relief cannot be treated as an application for the revival or continuation of the previous execution proceedings. When the character of the application is different from that of the previous application, it cannot be treated as a continuation. 54 A. 573 =138 I.C. 583=1932 A. 273 (F.B.). Where, without any fault or delay on the part of the decree-holder and without notice to him, the Court consigns an application for execution to the record room, a further application for execution will be treated as one for continuation of the old application. 1922 A. 433 (1). See also 8 Pat.L.T. 287=1927 P. 114. Revival—Deposit of first application as order was received too late for execution—Dismissal of second application owing to decree-holder's failure to comply with Court's order —Third application beyond time—If a continuation of the earlier ones. 1942 O.W.N. Property of a judgment-debtor attached on application for execution—Judgment-debtor obtaining from Insolvency Court order for staying execution—Case consigned to records but attachment continued—Judgment-debtor ultimately withdrawing his insolvency petition—Subsequent application, by decree-holder for revival of execution is only a continuation of his previous application. 165 I.C. 798=1936 O.W.N. 1239=1937 O. 158. Decree in suit filed in forma pauperis—Direction to pay the amount of Court-fee to Government—Execution applications by Government and attachment of the decree—Subsequent application for execution by decree-holder—Execution application by Government enure for the benefit of the decree-holder. 59 L.W. 593=(1946) 2 M.L.J. 303 (see Expl. I, infra.) A direction to consign papers to the record room is not a final disposal of the execution application. 49 A. 509=1927 A. 165=25 A.L.J. 249. (F.B.) In order to entitle a decree-holder to claim that an application should be regarded as a continuation of the previous application, two conditions must be satisfied, first that the previous application was dismissed for no fault or default on his part and, secondly, that the present application is similar in scope and character to the previous application. 72 I.C. 862=1924 P. 367. See also 4 Pat.L.T. 393=1923 P. 488. Where an execution application did not contain an express prayer to revive a previous application which had been dismissed, and the relief in it was quite different from what was claimed in the previous application, and besides, the application was made on a form prescribed for application for execution of decrees, held, that the application could not be said to be a continuation of the previous application. 115 I.C. 24=1929 L. 529. EXECUTION PROCEEDINGS, WHAT ARE.—An application for the ascertainment of mesne profits awarded by a decree, prior as well as subsequent to its date, is not a proceeding in the suit, but a proceeding in execution and comes within Art. 182, 47 B. 778=25 Bom.L.R. 810=1923 Bom. 366. See also 45 B. 819=61 I.C. 448=1921 Bom. 404. An application for restitution under S. 144, C.P. Code, is one for execution of decree of the appellate Court and is thus governed by Art. 182. 45 B. 1137=62 I.C. 233; 1921 B. 67; 1931 M.W.N. 1006; 2 P. 227; 13 P. 411=15 Pat.L.T. 173=1934 P. 246 (2) (F.B.); 152 I.C. 944=15 Pat.L.T. 745=1934 P. 646; 41 Bom.L.R. 1204=1940 Bom. 30; I.L.R. Time begins to run from the decree which for the first time gave the applicant the right to restitution; 35 C W. N. 1294=1932 C. 308. An application for restitution under S. 144, C.P. Code, is not an application for execution within the meaning of Art. 182 because "execution" signifies in law the obtaining of actual possession of anything acquired by judgment of law. In making an application for restitution, the applicant does not seek to enforce any judgment of law directly. The application for restitution is one to obtain an executable order and cannot therefore be called an application for execution in itself; while under S. 47, C.P. Code, an application for execution is to be made to the Court executing the decree an application under S. 144, C. P. Code, can be made only to the Court of the first instance. I.L.R. 1945 L. 8=213 I.C. 121. An application for refund of purchase-money by the auction-purchaser is in time if brought within 3 years from the date of the decree of the High Court on second appeal confirming the claim of the claimant to the suit properties, although it may be more than 3 years from the date of the decree of the first appellate Court and of dispossession. 1931 M. W.N. 1006. Time must begin to run from the date of the final decree, however informally it is expressed. 50 C. 743=74 I.C. 1017 =1924 C. 131. Where an appeal against a preliminary decree in a mortgage suit is dismissed for default or non-prosecution e.g. non-compliance with an order to pay the deficient court-fee on the appeal, the order of dismissal amounts to decree and furnishes the starting point of limitation for an application for a final decree. 23 Pat. 635=10 Cut.L.T. 59=25 P.L.T. 159. "Final order" —Date of—Application for transfer of decree to another Court for execution—Order for transfer—If judicial or ministerial order. See 23 P. 707=219 I.C. 491=1945 Pat. 71. Where an application for the execution of a decree is barred by limitation, it cannot be revived by a subsequent application for amendment. 59 I.C. 186 (C.) Execution proceedings are not closed by the Court merely recording them and the decree-holder's right to apply for their continuance accrues from day to day and is not barred until three years from the date when they cease to be pending. 1925 M. 152=47 M. L.J. 608=20 L.W. 585. See also 79 I.C. 891=1925 M. 218. But a judgment-debtor, who was not a party to a previous application for execution of a decree or to any order made upon it, is not precluded from showing that the said application was barred by limitation and that therefore it was not in accordance with law. 1923 C. 322 (2).

ATTACHMENT BEFORE JUDGMENT.—Under O. 38, R. 11, C.P. Code, where there has been an attachment before judgment, it is unnecessary to apply for a further order of attachment, but it is equally clear that there can be no order for execution without an application in that behalf. Art. 182 requires the decree-holder to make an application within three years from the date of the decree. An attachment before judgment cannot operate to keep alive the decree subsequently passed until the attachment is removed. 57 L.W. 493=A.I.R. 1944 Mad. 561=(1944) 2 M.L.J. 192 (F.B.).

ART. 182 (1).—SCOPE AND EFFECT OF CL. (1).—Under this article the period of three years of limitation runs from the date of the decree and not from the date of the order to dismiss the appeal for want of prosecution. 25 C.W.N. 858=49 C. 203. See also 2 P. 712: 1934 R. 329. Art. 182 (1) contemplates only a decree or order made in such a form as to render it capable of being enforced in execution; if a further application is necessary to make the decree executable, then Art. 181 applies for such further application. 48 I.A. 17=1921 P.C. 31=40 M.L.J. 1=25 C.W.N. 337 (P.C.). Where a decree is passed in favour of one person and is transferred to two persons in parts, an execution application by one of such transferees enures to the benefit of the other transferee and saves limitation for his portion. 45 M. 35=1922 M. 129. The starting point of limitation for execution of the order for compensation passed by a partition officer is the date os which the partition came into effect. 14 R.D. 341. Where a compromise decree was passed in a mortgage suit, which was itself executabe, but the decree-holder applied subsequently for a final decree which was passed without any objection by the judgment-debtor, held, that limitation for an application for execution commenced to run only from the date of the final decree and not from the date of the compromise decree. 121 I.C. 818=1930 A. 520. Where the parties to two cross-suits agreed, when the suits were pending, that after the two decrees were passed, the party who was entitled to the larger amount should pursue execution of the decree in his favour to the extent of the excess. Held, that the agreement showed a set-off and entitled the party in whose favour the excess was decreed to ultimately take out execution, that the excess could be only ascertained after the final decree was passed in appeal, if any, preferred by any of the parties, and that by purposes of the execution the date of the decree of the appellate Court and not of the trial Court was the starting point of limitation. 59 B. 1=36 Bom.L.R. 645= 1934 Bom. 307. Where an order of decree, separately executable, is passed at an earlier stage of a suit, limitation for applying for the execution of such decree or order runs from the date of the order or decree as the case may be. Where therefore the Court passes a preliminary decree for partition and along with it also passes a decree for costs to be paid by the judgment-debtor to the decree-holder, the order for costs being a separately executable order, execution of it must be taken within three years of the date of the order. It is however open to the decree-holder plaintiff to ask the Court to incorporate the previous order for costs in the final decree, although execution of such order independently is barred by limitation. 175 I.C. 45 =19 P.L.T. 798=1938 Pat. 188. See also 1942 Pat. 335. ART. 182 (2): SCOPE AND EFFECT:—See 6 P. 780=8 Pat.L.T. 379=1927 P. 215. The word "appeal" in Art. 182 (2) means an appeal the result of which affects the decree sought to be executed. It does not mean any appeal which only affects the decree-holder's right to execute it at a particular time and in a particular circumstance. An appeal against an order dismissing an application by the judgment-debtor to record satisfaction of the decree, which would leave the decree valid and without modification, cannot be regarded as an "appeal" within the meaning of Art. 182 (2), for purposes of extending limitation. 52 L.W. 277= 1941 M. 40=(1940) 2 M.L.J. 371. The language of Art. 182 (2) is sufficiently wide to include an appeal the result of which may affect the decree or order which it is sought to execute, in such a way as to render the execution proceedings in connection with such decree or order infructuous. Where, therefore, after an order for restitution was obtained by the respondent, the appellant continued litigation in various Courts and at last his final appeal failed, an application for execution for the order for restitution filed within three years from the date of the order in such final appeal but more than three years after the order for restitution was made, is not barred by limitation. 44 C.W.N. 859. The words "where there has been an appeal," in the last column, mean an appeal from the decree sought to be executed, and not an appeal from another decree, though made in the suit. 41 Bom.L.R. 921=1939 Bom. 454. See also 1937 M. 421=(1937) 1 M. L.J. 407=1943 A.L.W. 40. Time for applying for execution runs from the date of appellate decree even though appeal is only against a portion of the trial Court's decree. 53 C. 901=97 I.C. 838= 31 C.W.N. 262=1927 C. 89; 1929 C. 676. A preliminary decree in a partition suit was passed on 18th April, 1918, and confirmed by High Court on 20th March, 1923. The time fixed for payment of the instalment under an instalment decree which is confirmed by the appellate Court should be allowed from the date of the confirmation of the decree. 49 B. 305=86 I.C. 894=1925 B. 270. See also 25 Bom.L.R. 153=1923 B. 207. There is no definition of appeal in the C.P. Code and any application by a party to an appellate Court asking to set aside a decision of a subordiate Court is an appeal within the ordinary acceptation of the term. An appeal is no less an appeal, because it is irregular or incompetent Hence an appeal against an order granting the review comes under the definition. 57 B. 388=35 Bom.L.R. 432=1933 B. 255. Any application by a party to an appellate Court to set aside or revise a decree or order of a Court subordinate thereto is an "appeal" within the meaning of Art. 182 (2). I.L.R. (1937) M. 617= 45 L.W. 457=1937 M. 385=(1937) 1 M. L.J. 453 (F.B.). The word "appeal" in Art. 182 (2) does not mean bona fide appeal. 74 I.C. 679=1924 C. 349. But see 1923 C. 288. Even though the appeal preferred was irregular in form and was dismissed on that ground, limitation would start from the date of the appellate Court's order. 59 I.A. 283=60 C. 1=1932 P.C. 165=63 M.L.J. 229 (P.C.). But see also 57 M. 741=1934 M. 303=66 M.L.J. 486. Even though an appeal is incompetent not in the sense that it was filed in the wrong forum but on the ground that no appeal lay, the order dismissing the appeal would give a fresh starting point of limitation under Art. 182 (2) of the Limitation Act. 58 L. W. 222=1945 Mad. 261=(1945) 1 M.L.J. 421. The contention that an appeal in order to save limitation under cl. (2) must be one to which the persons affected were parties and that it must also be one in which the whole decree was imperilled is not sound. 59 I.A. 283. The decision in 1930 A. 636 and 1930 P. 146 are not now good law. See also 1923 C. 288; 1924 C. 349.

For purposes of Art. 182 (2), it is sufficient that there has been an appeal and there is no warrant for reading into the words of the article any qualification either as to the character of the appeal or as to the parties to it. Where there was an appeal from the decree in the suit in which respondent was awarded costs but the question as to costs was not the subject-matter of the appeal. Held, that the period of limitation did not begin to run from the original date of the decree 15 L. 267=147 I. C. 689=1934 L 318 (1). The expression "where there has been an appeal" means an appeal which is likely to affect the decree sought to be executed Where pending an appeal from a preliminary decree in a mortgage suit, which was confirmed on appeal, a final decree is passed, an application for execution of the final decree would be in time, if filed within three years of the date of the appellate preliminary decree, though beyond three years of the date of the final decree itself. It is not necessary to apply afresh for a final decree or to get the final decree amended. The original final decree may itself be executed. 1937 M. 421—45 L W 278=(1937) 1 M.L J. 407. See also 1939 Bom 454: I L R. The expression must be construed in its plain sense Where, though an appeal is incompetent in law, it is bona fide presented, it satisfies the terms of Art. 182; 79 I.C. 477 =16 S.L R. 245=1921 C 132. Even when an appeal is dismissed for non-payment of Court fees limitation runs for purposes of execution only from the date of the order of dismissal 1924 C. 349. Where a memorandum of appeal filed with deficit Court-fees was neither registered nor numbered as an appeal but was rejected for non-payment of the requisite Court-fees within the time allowed, the order of the appellate Court has not the effect of a decree and it does not deal judicially with the appeal at all which never came into existence. Consequently, the starting point for limitation under Art 182 for the execution of the decree is the date of the trial Court's decree and not the date of the order of the appellate Court rejecting the memorandum of appeal; 42 C W.N. 698=1938 Cal. 533. See also 41 C W.N. 1285=I L.R (1938) 1 C. 171=1937 Cal. 728 Where an appeal is preferred on insufficient court-fee and is duly registered as an appeal and numbered as such but subsequently rejected after notice to the parties and after hearing them, the time for execution begins to run from the date of the order of the appellate Court. 19 Pat.L. T. 243=1937 P.W.N. 1023=1938 Pat. 79. Cl. (2) of Art. 182 has no application to appeals other than appeals against the decree itself. It does not apply to appeals from orders in collateral proceedings which may affect the decree to be executed. An application to cancel or modify an order recording satisfaction of a decree and to revive it, cannot be regarded as an appeal from the decree itself, so as to make Art. 182 (2) applicable to an appeal from the order passed on the application to revive the decree. 50 L W. 497=1939 Mad. 892. An order directing the return of the memo. of appeal for presenting to the proper Court is not a "final order", nor is the Court an appellate Court within Art. 182 (2) and the time for executing the decree does not run from the date of such order. 39 M. An order of the appellate Court holding that the appeal had abated and refusing to set aside the abatement is a final order within the meaning of Art 182 (2), since it deals judicially with matters before the Court. 60 I.A. 83=142 I C. 326=1933 P C 68=64 M.L.J 421= 60 C 662 (P C.). The dismissal for non-prosecution of an appeal to the Privy Council even after admission and appearance of the respondents does not constitute a final order or decree of the appellate Court within the meanisg of Art. 182 (2), and limitation starts from the date of the dismissal of the appeal by the High Court. 11 P 477=139 I.C. 198=1932 P. 251. See also 1936 L. 479. But see contra 18 Pat.L.T. 231=16 P. 306=1937 P. 337. For execution purposes an appeal by itself never operates as a stay. There is the right to execute the moment the decree is passed, but if there is an appeal the time of limitation is postponed and does not run until the decree determining the appeal is made. 33 C.W.N. 958=50 C.L.J. 12=1929 C. 676. Assignment of decree pending appeal—Assignee not brought on record—Appeal and second appeal with decree-holder on record—Application for execution by the assignee within three years of second appellate Court's decree is not barred. 1930 A. 380. In all cases, what Art. 182 (2) refers to is a decree, viz., one decree, and it is not permissible for Courts in execution to look into the matter and say that, as there are several reliefs which are severable, what is nominally one decree, consists of several decrees. In the case of a plaint claiming several reliefs where the Court passes a decree granting some of such reliefs and refusing the others, but where an appeal is preferred only against a portion of the decree regarding a particular relief, limitation for the execution of the other unappealed reliefs runs only from the date of the appellate decree. (1932 P.C. 165, Appl.) 1935 M.W.N. 329=1935 M. 557.

ART. 182 (3).—The real distinction between cls. (2) and (3) of Art. 182 is really one of the particular tribunal which passed the order by which the original decree is imperilled. If the order is made by the appellate Court, then Art. 182 (2) applies; but if the order is made by the original Court which passed the decree to be executed, then cl. (3) applies and the date from which limitation runs is the date of the order of the original Court. All cases in which the Court reconsiders its own judgment, whether in applications for restoration or in applications for "review" so-called, are cases of review within the meaning of Art. 182 (3). An order allowing or rejecting an application for restoration of a proceeding decided ex parte is an order on "review" and therefore gives a starting point of limitation for execution. 18 Pat. L.T. 231=1937 P. 337=16 Pat. 306. Art. 182 (3) is not applicable to cases where an application for review has not been granted but rejected, and in such cases limitation is not enlarged under the article. 20 Pat. 513=1941 P.W.N. 477=22 Pat.L.T. 26=1941 Pat 213. Where there has been a review of the decree, the period of limitation for purposes of Art. 182 (3) should be taken to run from the date of the review, notwithstanding that the persons against whom time is reckoned were not parties to the review proceedings. [63 M.L.J. 329 (P.C.) Rel. on.] 141 I.C. 175 (2)=1933 M. 276=64 M.L.J. 75=36 L.W. 919. See also 1939 P. 207. A second execution application (filed after the amending Act IX of 1927 came into force) was returned for correction of some defects and only represented along with a third application for execution more than three years from the date of the first application. Held, that so long as no final orders had been passed on the second application, it was still pending and no question of limitation arose. 64 M.L.J. 401=37 L.W. 469=144 I.C. 167=1933 M. 540 (1). As to the meaning of "final order," see 7 Luck. 590=1932 O. 148 (F.B.). Recording of payment by Court under O. 21, R. 2 is not a final order. 1932 Oudh 148. Where there was an application for review and an appeal against the order in review, the decree-holder is entitled to the benefit of cls. (2) and (3) of Art. 182. The words in Art. 182 (3) "decision passed on review" mean a decision passed in review proceedings; and whatever such a decision is, it gives a fresh starting point of limitation. 162 I.C. 223=38 Bom. L.R. 215=1936 B. 162. The words 'where there has been a review of judgment' in Art. 182 (3) can only cover cases when an application for review of a judgment has been allowed and they do not cover cases in which the application for review has been rejected. In the former case limitation would begin to run from the date of the decree substituted on review and in the latter from the date of the original decree itself. 1942 A.L.W. 429=1942 A.L.J. 352=1942 All. 338.

ART. 182 (4): SCOPE AND EFFECT OF CL. (4).—The correction of mere clerical errors in a decree, e.g., error in the number of the suit or in the name of judgment-debtor, does not amount to an amendment within the meaning of Art. 182 (4). Where the decree as it stood before such correction was fully capable of execution and the decree-holder took no steps for its execution for a period of three years, the decree becomes barred, and the subsequent verbal corrections will not have the effect of reviving the said decree or giving a fresh start to the decree holder. 67 C.L.J. 92=41 C.W.N. 1151=1937 Cal. 581. Art. 182 (4) lays down clearly and without reservation that when a decree has been amended the period of limitation is three years from the date of the amendment. It is not stated that the amendment should have been made within three years from the date or the original decree or at a time when the original decree was subsisting. It is not the function of the executing Court to question the correctness or propriety of the amendment of the decree. I.L.R. (1941) Lah. 659 =43 P.L.R. 11=1941 Lah. 131. See also 41 C.W.N. 1330; 16 Pat. 453=1938 Pat. 57. Under Art. 182 (4), terminus a quo for an application for execution of a decree runs from the date of the order of the amendment, if there has in fact been an amendment within the meaning of that clause, even though that amendment has been made more than three years from the date of the original decree. But if the alteration in the decree does not amount to an amendment within the meaning of that clause, no fresh terminus a quo is available to the decree-holder for execution of the decree. 23 P.L.T. 731=1942 P.W.N. 179=1942 Pat. 478. Where the original decree is incapable of execution, time runs from the date when a decree properly capable of execution has been drawn up. 64 I.C. 522= 34 C.L.J. 397. Where a decree capable of execution becomes barred, its amendment cannot entitle the decree-holder to a fresh period of limitation under Art. 182 (4), because after it is dead, it cannot be revived by a subsequent application for amendment. 5 Lah.L.J. 398=1924 L. 329. See also 56 M. 458=1933 M.W.N. 23=37 L.W. 180 =64 M.L.J. 251=1933 M. 315=56 M. 458; 1936 Mad. 434=70 M.L.J. 700; 147 I.C. 815=11 O.W.N. 10=1934 O. 43. But see contra 58 M. 743=1935 M. 97=40 L.W. 896=67 M.L.J. 904; 16 P. 290=167 I.C. 134=18 Pat.L.T. 18=1937 P. 316. See also 57 M. 795=39 L.W. 488=1934 M. 283 =66 M.L.J. 492. The words of cl. 4 of Art. 182 are quite unqualified and do not speak of any particular form of amendment, whether the amendment is necessary or not, whether the decree is capable of execution without the amendment; it does not qualify the matter of amendment in any way under Art. 182 (4), if a decree has been amended, the starting point of limitation for execution is the date of the amendment. The fact that the amendment is applied for and made after three years from the date of the decree is immaterial. If an application for execution is made within three years of such amendment, it is in time and not barred. The executing Court is not competent to sit in appeal over the Court which passed the decree or made the amendment; it has only to see whether the decree has been amended in order to see whether the execution application is barred by limitation. 16 Pat. 290=18 Pat.L.T. 18=1937 Pat. 316; See also 16 Pat. 453=18 Pat.L.T. 679=1938 Pat. 57; 1929 Cal. 650. Art. 182 (4) allows an application for execution to be made within three years from the date when the decree is amended. It is beyond the competence of the executing Court to decide as to whether the order for amendment of the decree was proper or not. It may be the duty of the Court allowing the amendment to consider as to whether an amendment should be granted at all when the application is made more than three years after the date of the decree; and if there is an order for amendment passed in such cases the parties of course could challenge that order by way of revision, but it is no business of the executing Court to enter into the propriety of the question as to whether the amendment should have been made or not, and once the decree is amended it has got to take the amended decree as it stands and allow execution of it provided the application for execution is made within three years from the date of the amended decree. 65 C.L.J. 455=41 C.W.N. 1330. See also 1935 A. 606=1935 A.L.J. 289; 1930 Pat. 286.

Art. 182 (5).—Scope of—Difference between para. (5) and the rest of the paragraphs. While all the paragraphs in Art. 182 excepting para. (5) deal with the question of what is the time from which limitation begins to run in the case of a first application for execution, para. (5) alone deals with the case of subsequent applications. The wording of para. (5) shows that it refers to an application for execution where there has been a previous proceeding in execution in the Court. The other paragraphs do not deal with such a question. I. L.R. (1938) A. 342=1938 A.L.J. 117=1938 All. 210. What is clearly contemplated by Art. 182 (5) is that a judicial order is to be made on an application by the decree-holder, being a step-in-aid execution and in order that an application for transfer should benefit the decreeholder, it must be in essence in continuation. 162 I.C. 984 =1936 P. 313. A suit under O. 21, R. 63, C.P. Code, by a decree-holder to set aside an order allowing a claim to the attached property cannot be regarded as a step-in-aid under Art. 182 (5), such a suit is not "an application made in accordance with law to the proper Court for execution or to take some step-in-aid of execution of the decree or order." "Application" in the Article does not include a suit. 47 Bom.L.R. 848. See also 1942 Mad. 5=(1941) 2 M.L.J. 754. A decree entitling a landlord to a certain enhancement of rent is not capable of execution. The entry of the decree in the revenue records is not execution of it, but merely a record of the facts as they exist. Accordingly, Art. 182 has no application to a mutation in accordance with such a decree. 16 Lah.L.T. 26. The terminus a quo under the unamended form of Art. 182, cl. (5) is the date of the application for execution or to take some step-in-aid of execution and not (as under the amending Act IX of 1927) the result of the application, viz., the date of the final order passed on such application. 61 I A. 62=55 A. 993=38 C.W.N. 229=1934 P.C. 14=66 M.L.J. 79 (P.C.). An order on an execution petition stating that it was "closed" because no schedule of immoveable property was furnished as required by O. 21, R. 13, C.P. Code, cannot be deemed to be one rejecting or dismissing the petition. The word "closed" generally indicates an intention to remove the petition from the file for statistical purposes but not to terminate it finally. A subsequent application for execution may therefore be treated as continuation of the earlier one. 1945 M.W.N. 381=A.I.R. 1945 Mad. 236=(1945) 1 M.L.J. 380. See also 1945 Pat. 276=26 Pat.L.T. 155.

AMENDMENT NOT RETROSPECTIVE—The amendment will not disturb vested rights and so, subject to this limitation, an application made after the 1st January, 1928, will necessarily be governed by the amended Act. 1930 P. 207.

STEP-IN-AID OF EXECUTION—(a) TEST OF APPLICATION BEING STEP-IN-AID.—There can be a step-in-aid of execution without any application for execution having ever been made at all. 178 I.C. 202=1938 Lah. 326. Anything done by the decree-holder through the machinery of the Court or any proceeding taken by the executing Court which is calculated to advance the case of the decree-holder in the direction of his ultimate object of reaping the fruits of his decree, can be treated as a step-in-aid of execution and save the running of limitation against him. 18 Lah. 671=39 P.L.R. 680 =1937 Lah. 404. The necessary conditions which must be satisfied for the application to be one for execution or to take some step-in-aid of execution of the decree or order are that (1) the application must be in accordance with law, (2) it must be made to the proper Court, and (3) there must be a final order passed on the application. These conditions are adjectival both to the application for execution and to the application to take step-in-aid of execution of the decree or order. 7 Luck. 590=137 I.C. 768=1932 O. 148 (F.B.). A step-in-aid of execution can be taken before an application for execution of the decree has been made in Court. I.L.R. (1939) All. 728=1939 A. L.J. 746=1939 All. 483. A step-in-aid of execution implies that there is already a decree which can be executed and in furtherance of which the step is taken. Where under O. 21, R. 12, C.P. Code, the Court fixes the amount of the mesne profits but defers the drawing up of the decree until payment of the necessary Court-fee by the plaintiff, an application by the plaintiff praying the Court to assess and receive the deficit Court-fees or to prepare the final decree cannot be considered to be a step-in-aid of execution under Art. 182 (5). 21 Pat. 366=23 Pat.L.T. 202=1942 Pat. 410. Art. 182 (5) gives two landmarks of time from which the period of limitation can run. One is the date of the final order passed on an application made for execution, and the other is the date of the final order passed on an application made to take some step in-aid of execution. 1939 Rang.L.R. 508= 1939 Rang. 406. Under Art. 182, Cl. (5) it is sufficient to show that an application was made in accordance with law to the proper Court for execution or to take some step-in-aid of execution of the decree, and it is not further necessary to show that such application was not merely colourable but had been made with a bona fide and genuine intention of obtaining execution of the decree and not simply for the purpose of gaining time and keeping the decree alive. [52 A. 11 (F.B.). Appr. 48 A. 468, Overr.] 61 I.A. 62=66 M.L.J. 79=55 A. 993 (P. C.). An execution application made to a proper Court and outwardly at least, in accordance with law, is one within the provisions of Art. 182 (5) even if it is made merely for the purpose of gaining time and keeping the decree alive. There is nothing inherently wrong in making an application merely for the purpose of saving time. I.L.R. (1942) Kar. 448=1943 Sind 29. Application for execution of a decree made to a wrong Court cannot be considered as a step-in-aid of execution. 177 I.C. 483=40 P.L.R. 721=1938 Lah. 451. The fact that an application for execution is subsequently dismissed on account of the decree-holder's default cannot make the application ineffective for saving the limitation, if it is a proper application made in accordance with law. It is the application, and not the result of the application, which is contemplated as being sufficient to save limitation. 13 Luck. 162=167 I.C. 34= 1937 O.W.N. 169=1937 O. 233. Where decree comprises two reliefs, an application to execute first portion is a step-in-aid. 44 A. 166=1922 A. 388=65 I.C. 358. In the case of a joint and several decree an application for execution made against any one of the judgment-debtors is a step-in-aid of execution against all. (d) APPLICATION IN ACCORDANCE WITH LAW—DEFECTIVE APPLICATIONS.—The words "in accordance with law" cannot be read as meaning "in accordance with the Civil Procedure code." The words are general and mean applying to the Court to do something in execution which by law the Court is competent to do. An application to the Court to do something which, either to the decree-holder's direct knowledge in fact or from his presumed knowledge of the law, he must have known that the Court was incompetent to do, is not an application "in accordance with law" within the meaning of Art. 182 (5). 12 Cut.L.T. 62. See also I.L.R. (1942) Kar. 428; 1943 Bom. 353. The words ('made in accordance with law to the proper Court" in Art. 182 (5) is to be read also along with the concluding words "to take some step-in-aid of execution." As an Insolvency Court is not a proper Court for execution, any so-called steps-in-aid taken in that Court do not extend the period of limitation. I.L.R. (1942) Nag. 306=1942 N.L.J. 294. See also (1943) 2 M.L.J. 513. Whether an application which is defective should be treated as one in accordance with law must depend on the facts of each particular case and no hard and fast rule can be laid down in this behalf. 27 S.L.R. 314=1933 S 341. What has to be looked is whether the executing Court would or would not issue execution on the application as preferred to it. The expression "in accordance with law" must be taken to mean that the application, though defective in some particulars, is one on which execution could lawfully be ordered. If the omissions are such as to make it impossible for the Court to issue execution upon it, it must be held that the application is not in accordance with law. But an application in substantial compliance with the law will be effectual to stay the progress of limitation, whether the Court admits, or rejects, or returns the application or allows it to be amended. 1934 B. 307=59 B. 1= 36 Bom.L.R. 643; 1934 A. 307. See also 38 L.W. 877=1933 M. 872; 1937 O. W. N. 169=167 I.C. 34=1937 O. 233; 1937 S. 108; 1939 N.L.J. 596=1940 Nag. 87. It is well-settled that the words "in accordance with law" in Art. 182 (5) mean in accordance with the law relating to the execution of decrees. An application which is dismissed on the ground that the applicant did not produce certified extracts from the Collector's register as required by the Court under R. 14 of O. 21, C.P. Code, cannot be held to be one not in accordance with law within the meaning of Art. 182 (5). I. L. R. (1943) Nag. 669=1943 N. L. J. 587=1943 A. L. J. 323=56 L W. 444=1943 M. W. N. 565=47 C.W N. 715=1943 P.C. 98= (1943) 2 M.L J. 121 (P.C.). The question whether an application for execution is or is not in accordance with law must be determined by a scrutiny of the exact defects in it. It is not in accordance with law if it is so materially defective that a Court cannot exercise its legal powers of execution on the basis of that application. When the right to apply exists, a mere omission to give correctly the amount of interest due or the date of the previous execution or the names of the parties, is a mere irregularity and does not affect the legality of the application. An order dismissing that application for default in making the corrections ordered by Court does not amount to an adjudication that it is not in accordance with law. I.L.R. (1943) Nag. 584=1943 N.L.J. 391=1943 Nag 296. The expression "in accordance with law" must have some reference to the material content, apart from the form and formal content, of the application for execution. A mere compliance with the formal requirements of the Code of Civil Procedure as to the manner of filing, and the particulars to be shown in an application for execution, (i.e.), O. 21, R. 11, C.P. Code, would not suffice to make it an application in accordance with law. It is essential that the particulars of the mode in which the assistance of the Court is required must be one in accordance with law. If the decree-holder would not be entitled to ask for the relief in the "mode" stated in the application and if the Court has no power to grant such relief, prima facie, the application would be one not "in accordance with law." The main test of an application being in accordance with law is whether it is possible for the Court to issue execution upon it, i.e., whether it is within the power of the Court to grant the kind of relief asked for, though, in the particular case, the relief may not, on the merits, be granted, e.g., owing to some finding on facts, not to the nature of the application itself. 45 Bom.L.R. 707 =1943 Bom. 353. The expression "in accordance with law" does not imply that the application in question must be successful. A valid application made in accordance with law cannot cease to be "in accordance with law" by any subsequent default on the part of the applicant. It may be in accordance with law for purposes of Art. 182 (5) and yet the applicant may not be entitled to any relief on account of circumstances other than there being any defect in the application itself. I.L.R. (1945) Bom. 463=47 Bom.L.R. 104=1945 Bom. 380. The words "in accordance with law" are not necessarily limited to the provisions of law contained in O. 3 and O. 21; if the law required that an execution application should be accompanied by a particular certificate, but if it is not so accompanied by a certificate, that application will not be in accordance with law. (Ibid.) Even if the previous execution application was dismissed on the ground of gross carelessness because the judgment-debtor's name was wrongly spelt, it is an application in substantial compliance with the law to save limitation, whether it was admitted, rejected, returned, or allowed to be amended. (53 C. 664, Rel. on.) 149 I.C. 102=1934 P. 289. The words "in accordance with law" in Art. 182 (5) are general and cannot be construed to mean only in accordance with the Civil Procedure Code. The expression applying in accordance with law in Art. 182 (5) means applying to the Court to do something in execution which by law that Court is competent to do and it does not mean applying to the Court to do something which either to the decree-holder's direct knowledge in fact or from his presumed knowledge of the law he must have known the Court was incompetent to do. 1937 Pat. 522. See also 1939 Sind 272 application for arrest of person not liable under decree is not step-in-aid. See also 1941 M. 30=52 L.W. 415 =(1940) 2 M.L.J. 502. The expression "in accordance with law" does not necessarily mean an application prescribed or required by law. An application would be in accordance with law, even though it is not required by law, provided it does not contravene any express provision of law or conflict with any principle of law. The words "in accordance with law" are adjectival not only to the words "to the proper Court for execution" but also to the words "to take a step-in-aid of execution." Therefore it is necessary to show that the prior application which is relied on as a step-in-aid of execution was in accordance with the law of limitation, i.e., was within time. 170 I.C. 189=1937 Sind 121. See also 1937 Sind 108; 1938 Mad. 323=(1938) 1 M.L.J. 135; 8 Cut. L.T. 7. An execution application can be held to be not in accordance with law or if the defects, or omissions to be found therein were such as to make it impossible for the Court to issue execution upon it, and not merely because it was defective in some minor particulars. An omission to comply with O. 21, R. 12, C. P. Code, viz., failure to annex a talika or inventory of the property to be attached, cannot per se be held to render the application not in accordance with law. 18 Pat.L.T. 954=1937 P.W.N. 957 =1938 Pat. 75. An execution petition which complies with the requirements of O. 21, Rr. 11 to 14, C. P. Code, is in accordance with law; the mere non-production of sale papers and encumbrance certificate would not make it one not in accordance with law so as to justify its return. It is not till a later stage that these papers can be called for under R. 194 of the Civil Rules of Practice. 1943 M.W.N. 68= (1942) 2 M.L.J. 768. See also I.L.R. (1942) Kar. 428. Application for arrest of defendant not residing within Court's jurisdiction—Step-in-aid. If a decree-holder gives all the particulars that he is required to give in an execution application under O. 21. R. 11 (2) (j), C.P. Code, and asks for the attachment and sale of a property within the territorial limits of another Court the mere omission on the part of the decree-holder to say expressly that the decree should be transferred to that Court does not make the application one not in accordance with law and not made to a proper Court, when the Court to which the application is made is the only Court competent to issue a certificate of non-satisfaction and transfer the decree for execution. The test applicable in such a case is "could the Court have proceeded with the case notwithstanding the defect?" and if it could, then the application can be considered to be one in accordance with law and as filed in the proper Court. I.L.R. (1946) Nag. 563 =1946 N.L.J. 354. An application under O. 21, R. 15 duly made is a step-in-aid, and does not cease to be one in accordance with law merely on the ground that no order is passed by the Court under R. 15 (2). Similarly an application under O. 21, R. 16 is a regular application for execution, and the mere fact that notices are not issued as required by the Proviso would not make it otherwise than one in accordance with law. An application for execution filed, not with any real intention of proceeding with it, but solely for the purpose of keeping the decree alive, is an application in accordance with law if all the requirements of O. 21, R. 11 are satisfied and would save limitation under Art. 182 (5). I.L.R. (1942) Kar. 428. There is no presumption in favour of the regularity or an execution application and the entire burden is upon the decree-holder to show that the requirements of law were complied with. 76 C.L.J. 35 =1943 Cal. 131. The mere fact that more money is claimed in execution application than what is due would not render the application one not in accordance with law. It is not every defect contained in an execution application which renders it unavailing for the purpose of saving limitation under Art. 182 (5). An application by the decree-holder for transmission of the decree for execution to a Court which does not in fact exist but which the decree-holder wrongly believes to exist is one "in accordance with law." A mistake in the description of the Court to which the decree-holder requests that his decree may be transferred is a mistake of fact, and cannot make the application one otherwise than in accordance with law, so long as he wants his decree to be transferred to a Court with jurisdiction to execute his decree. 1939 Mad. 378= (1939) 1 M.L.J. 827. See also 19 P. 354 =1940 Pat. 677. Where an application for execution of a decree for past and future mesne profits filed without paying court-fee on the relief claimed in respect of the future profits, it cannot be said that the application is not one in accordance with law. Payment of court-fee is not a condition precedent to the filing of the application. An order dismissing the same for non-payment of court-fee gives a fresh starting point of limitation under Art. 182 (5), Limitation Act. L.J. 864.

An execution petition may give a fresh starting point of limitation even though the relief asked for cannot be allowed. An execution petition asking for a relief which is no longer available is none the less one "in accordance with law" when there is no question of the competency of the Court. Where a decree contains a personal liability, but the arrest of the judgment-debtor is no longer possible because of his discharge in insolvency proceedings subsequent to decree, an execution application asking for arrest of the judgment-debtor is not incompetent or one not in accordance with law. There being no question of the competency of the courts the application must be deemed to be one in accordance with law and would give a fresh start under Art. 182 (5). 58 L.W. 300=1945 Mad. 352=(1945) 1 M. Where a decree creates a charge on immovable property in respect of the decretal amount and provides for recovery of the amount by sale of the charged properties, an application in execution of such a decree praying for rateable distribution under sec. 73, C. It is not every defect in an execution petition that will render it one not in accordance with law. Where the execution petition as made is in accordance with law, but it is dismissed for persistent refusal on the part of the decree-holder to carry out certain directions which are necessary for effectual execution, the order of dismissal furnishes a fresh starting point of limitation as a step-in-aid. 58 L.W. 379 (2) =1945 M.W.N. 491=1945 Mad. 511=(1945) 2 M.L.J. 152.

In the case of an application for execution of an equitable mortgage decree, the omission of the decree-holder to comply with the order of Court directing him to file the documents of title that were mentioned in the decree could not be held to be a defect in the application which would prevent the Court from proceeding with it and selling the mortgaged properties, full particulars of which were given in the decree attached to the application. 76 C.L J. 35=1943 Cal. 131.

STARTING POINT— FINAL ORDER.—"Final order" meaning of. (1941) 2 M.L.J. 493; (1943) 1 M.L.J. 445. An application for execution which is accepted by the Court, though out of time, starts a fresh period of limitation. 1922 B. 118=46 B. 269= 63 I.C. 844=23 Bom.L.R. 1013. Under Art. 182 (5) as amended, the three years' time is to be calculated not from the date when the previous application is filed, but from the date when the final order on such application is passed. 34 C.W.N. 733. See also 1930 P. 207; 7 Luck. 590=137 I.C. 768=1932 O. 148 (F.B.); 1934 P.C. 14= 61 I.A. 62 (P.C.) noted supra. See 1924 P. 576=3 P. 596 under the article as it was prior to amendment. An order is a "final order" if it terminates the execution proceeding so far as the Court passing it is concerned. It need not be on the merits. An order of rejection or dismissal would be a final order. 45 L.W. 457=1937 M. 385= (1937) 1 M.L.J. 453 (F.B.); 54 L.W. 708= (1941) 2 M.L.J. 1018=1942 M. 216; I.L. R. (1938) Mad. 326=46 L.W. 540=1938 Mad. 113. See also 41 C.W.N. 310=1937 C. 16. The question whether an order is a "final" order within the meaning of Art. 182 (5) of the Limitation Act is not to be judged by reference to what the Court passing the order thought at the time nor by the language employed by it. It is for the Court before which the nature of the order is properly in question at a later stage which has to deal with the matter and to consider the legal character of the earlier order and the decision must be arrived at on an independent consideration of the correct rule of law as applied to the true facts. 1943 M.W.N. 68=(1942) 2 M.L.J. 768. See also I.L.R. (1942) Nag. 245=1940 Nag. 301. (Dismissal of execution application for default).

It cannot be held that no order of any kind can be a final order" on an application within the meaning of Art. 182 (5), unless that application has been first of all regularly admitted by the Court which disposes of it. All that is necessary is that the application must be in accordance with law and made to the proper Court, whether it is or is not numbered or is admitted or not. An application in accordance with law and presented to the proper Court was returned on more thn one occasion for production of sale papers. Finally a further fortnight's adjournment was asked for by the decree-holder but refused by the Court which thereupon passed an order dismissing the application. Held, that it was a "final order" under Art. 182 (5). 56 L.W. 151= 1943 M.W.N. 174=1943 Mad. 340=(1943) 1 M.L.J. 236.

Where an execution application has formed the subject of appeal, the date of the "final order" is the date of the final order of the final Court of appeal. 1945 M.W.N. 513=1945 Mad. 485=(1945) 2 M.L.J. 197; 1944 Pesh. 5.

It is the duty of the executing Court to take an execution petition on file and to give it a number if there is no defect in the petition. It should give a number and call for further papers if they are needed for enabling the executing Court to order execution and to dismiss the petition if there is default in complying with the requisition. If that is done, time for the next execution petition would run from the date of dismissal. When there is no defect in the previous execution petition and the same is returned for compliance with certain particulars and the petition is re-presented without undue delay, the order of the executing Court refusing to excuse the delay and dismissing the petition is a "final order" within the meaning of Art. 182, and saves limitation. 58 L.W. 285=1945 Mad. 347= (1945) 1 M.L.J. 428.

Where an order prima facie disposing of an execution application is found in fact to be a surreptitious order upon which the initials of the Civil Judge, who was temporarily in charge of the routine work of the Court of the Munsiff, were obtained by means of fraud of some official of that Court, it cannot amount to a 'final order' within the meaning of Art. 182 (5). The Civil Judge never had the consciousness that he was passing an order by which the execution proceedings were finally disposed of. I.L.R. (1945) All. 213=1945 A.L.J. 92=1945 All. 172. 'Final order' means final order in the proceeding to which the application gave rise. Where the Judge ordered notice to issue to the judgment-debtor returnable on the 13th November, 1929, and on that date the cases were closed at the decree-holder's request and he applied for execution against the same judgment-debtors on 8th November, 1932. Held, that the order closing the case was the final order and the application was in time. The fact that the application for execution is withdrawn or struck off at the request of the decree-holder does not prevent it from giving rise to a new starting point for limitation. 142 I.C. 435=1933 R. 87. Final order means an order which conclusively decides the matter between the parties as distinguished from interlocutory. 149 I.C. 136=1934 Pesh. 23. See also 53 L.W. 726=1941 Mad. 671=(1941) 2 M.L.J. 66 (Order stating that appeal has abated). See also I.L.R. (1941) A. 658=1941 A.L.J. 480=1941 A. 371; I.L.R. (1942) A. 658. The words do not mean an order which finally adjudicates upon the rights of the parties and disposes of the application for execution on its merits. Where the Court intends to dispose of the matter completely and no longer keeps it pending on its file, and does not merely suspend the execution or consign the record to the record room for the time being, the order must be deemed to be a final order. 1936 A.W.R. 996=1936 A. L.J. 1140=1936 A. 820 (F.B.). Where the order striking off the case is coupled with an order for payment of costs by the judgment-debtors to the decree-holders, the Court must be deemed to have intended to dispose of the matter so far as itself is concerned, and such an order should be considered as a final order. 1936 A. 820 (F.B.); 1937 M. 385=(1937) 1 M.L. J. 453 (F.B.); 1940 Mad. 281=(1939) 2 M.L.J. 469; 1940 Nag. 301; 1939 Rang. 406; 1939 Mad. 841=50 L.W. 311=(1939) 2 M.L.J. 671. An order merely returning an execution petition as defective is not a final order, though in special circumstances it may amount to one, notwithstanding the language employed. The true test is whether the order puts an end to the petition in respect of which it is made so far as the Court passing it is concerned. When a petition is returned for the purpose of the petitioner doing something to enable the Court to proceed further with it, the Court really defers its consideration until it is brought back with the defects remedied. It is only then that the Court is placed in a position to consider it judicially and make what can be regarded as a final order on it. An execution petition returned for amendment but not represented has no legal existence till it is re-presented, and if it is re-presented after the time limit it does not acquire the status of a petition calling for an order unless the delay is excused. Where the application for excusing the delay is rejected by the Court, the consequence is that there is no valid petition before the Court to be ordered or rejected. And it cannot be the subject of a "final" order. 1943 M. W.N. 68=(1942) 2 M.L.J. 768. An order returning an execution petition contemplates a final order to be passed at a subsequent stage after the petition is represented, and is not itself a final order as it does not deal judicially with the matter of the petition. Consequently, when an execution petition is returned for the purpose of remedying certain defects therein, but it is not re-presented by the decree-holder, the order of return does not furnish the decree-holder a fresh starting point for limitation. 163 I.C. 354=44 L.W. 59 =1936 M. 613=71 M.L.J. 336. See also 1942 Mad. 216=(1941) 2 M.L.J. 1018= 1942 M.W.N. 254=1942 Mad. 495=(1942) 1 M.L.J. 542. An order returning an application for execution for amendment and re-presentation on a certain date is not a final order within the meaning of Art. 182 of the Limitation Act. Although the order of return is illegal, the application cannot be held to be pending by a fiction. Nor can the Court be deemed to have passed an order rejecting the application on the date on which it was directed to be represented on that date. Art. 182 refers to an actual order passed by the Court and not an order which may be deemed to have been passed by the Court. 46 P.L.R. 68= 1944 Lah. 158. Where an execution petition which is returned for amendment and remedying of defects, is re-presented after rectifying and amending all defects, but with the indorsement that it is "not pressed and may be dismissed for the present", and the petition is "rejected" by the Court, the order rejecting the petition though it is one for default of prosecution, is a valid "final order" contemplated by Art. 182 (5) of the Limitation Act and saves limitation. Where the execution Court transfers the execution to another Court to enable the decree-holder to receive his rateable distribution, so far as the Court seized with the execution is concerned, this is the final order. 149 I.C. 136= 1934 Pesh. 23. See also 54 L.W. 34= 1941 Mad. 731=(1941) 1 M.L.J. 837

(Order returning application for transmission of decree to another Court as decree had not been received from transferee Court saves limitation). An application for transmission of a decree to another Court for execution is not an application for execution and is not a revival of the decree by itself. The order of transmission which is sought for and which is actually made is a purely ministerial act and not a judicial act. The date on which the certificate of non-satisfaction is prepared and the copy of the order transferring the decree and the certificate of non-satisfaction are ordered to be sent out under the hand of the Judge is the date of the final order on the application to take a step-in-aid of execution. The fact that the case is ordered to be put up on another later date and on such later date an order is passed to the effect "let the case be disposed of" does not make that later date, the date of the final order. 23 Pat. 707. It is not incumbent upon a decree-holder to furnish the sale papers along with the execution petition itself. The duty of the Court is to see whether all the requirements of O. 21, rr. 11 to 14 are complied with. Where these requirements are complied with, an order returning the execution petition on the ground that the sale papers had not been produced is clearly illegal. Such an execution petition must be considered to be still pending, and the order returning it is not a 'final order" contemplated by Art. 182 (5). (1942) 1 M.L.J. 542=1942 M.W.N. 254=1942 M. 495. A Judge has jurisdiction to decide wrongly as well as rightly, and when the execution proceedings begin upon an application which is valid in its inception, for the purposes of limitation, it does not matter whether the final order passed therein is in accordance with law or not; time will begin to run from the date of such final order. So, the fact that in the previous application, no notice to the assignor of the decree was issued as required by O. 21, r. 16 does not make all the execution proceedings void as if they never existed for purposes of limitation. 149 I.C. 98=1934 R. 101. Where a decree-holder makes an application to the Court which passed the decree asking for a certificate of transfer to another Court for execution, the final order on such application cannot be considered to have been passed until the date on which the required certificate is prepared and handed over to the decree-holder who has undertaken to present it before the other Court, and limitation is to be reckoned only from such date and not from the date of the order of the Court merely directing the office to prepare a certificate. 154 I.C. 718=1935 A.L.J. 370=1935 A. 757. R. 14 of O. 21, C. P. Code, is merely permissive and not mandatory. Where an execution application complies with the provisions of rr. 11 to 13 of O. 21, which the mandatory, an order dismissing the application for default in compliance with the direction of the Court under r. 14 is a "final order" within the meaning of Art. 182 (5), Limitation Act, and starts a fresh period of limitation. The application must be regarded as one in accordance with law, the requirements of rr. 11 to 13, being complied with, though it may not be registered or numbered. I.L.R. Steps taken by a person claiming adversely to the decree-holder cannot be taken advantage of by the decree-holder as steps-in-aid of execution. Though the decree-holder prefers objections to the proceedings taken by the adverse claimant, and though there might be an agreement between the decree-holder and the rival to act in a particular manner; the steps taken by the rival claimant cannot enure to the benefit of the decree-holder nor can the judgment-debtor be deprived of his right to plead limitation by any agreement between persons with interests hostile to each other, who have been carrying on litigation amongst themselves. 1938 P.W.N. 652=1938 Pat. 531.

STAY OF EXECUTION BY ORDER OF COURT.—Order of the Court refusing to execute the decree until the judgment is produced amounted virtually to a stay of execution and the period must be excluded in computing the period of limitation for execution. 64 I.C. 598=19 A.L.J. 905=1921 A. 174.

PLEA IN BAR.—A judgment-debtor is at liberty to raise, on a subsequent application for execution, that it is not maintainable on the ground that the previous application had been filed out of time. 37 C. W.N. 1145. The plea that a previous application for execution was barred by limitation and hence the subsequent application was not valid should be raised at the earliest possible opportunity. 22 L.W. 747=1926 M. 177.

The words "made in accordance with law to the proper Court" in Art. 182 (5) is to be read also along with the concluding words "to take some step-in-aid of execution". As an Insolvency Court is not a proper Court for execution, any so called steps-in-aid taken in that Court do not extend the period of limitation. The time between adjudication of judgment-debtor and his discharge cannot be excluded. I.L.R. (1942) Nag. 306=1941 N. 60. A Court which transmits its decree for execution to another Court does not thereby divest itself of all its jurisdiction but has jurisdiction to take certain measures in execution. It is therefore a "proper Court" within the meaning of Art. 185 (5) and an application made to it is a valid application which would save limitation under Art. 182 (5). 54 L.W. 34=1941 Mad. 731=(1941) 1 M. L.J. 837. In order to constitute an executing Court the "proper Court" within sec. 182 (5) of the Limitation Act, it is essential that the Court must possess both pecuniary and territorial jurisdiction, apart from being otherwise competent. 48 C.W. Where a Court transfers a decree to another Court for execution and the decree has not been returned to the transferring Court with the certificate of non-satisfaction, the transferring Court is the 'proper Court' for purposes of making applications for substitution of parties or for setting aside substitutions made. 1945 A. Where a decree was ordered to be transferred by the trial Court to another Court, an application for execution made to the latter Court is one made to the proper Court though the papers may not have been actually transferred. 142 I.C. 489=1933 S. 78=27 S.L.R. 109. An application to the Court of a Native State to transmit its decree to a British Indian Court for execution is a step-in-aid. 43 M.L.J. 700=1923 M. 72=45 M. 1014. Application to transfer decree for execution—Court having no pecuniary jurisdiction—Not a step-in-aid of execution. 1 P. 651=1922 P. 188. The jurisdiction to transfer a decree for execution from one Court to another arises under sec. 39 and not under rr. 5 and 8 of O. 21, C. P. Code. Rr. 5 and 8 of O. 21, merely prescribe the procedure by which the transfer is to be carried out and does not touch the jurisdiction. The transferee Court acquires jurisdiction by the transfer under sec. 39, C. P. Code. Hence an application to the transferee Court for execution, after transfer, is made to the "proper Court" and is a step-in-aid, notwithstanding that rr. 5 and 8 of O. 21, C. P. Code, have not been complied with; non-compliance with rr. 5 and 8, is a mere irregularity and does not affect jurisdiction. 25 Pat. 50=1946 Pat. 301. Even if an application is made to a Court which passed the decree to execute it in respect of property outside its territorial limits the Court will not have jurisdiction to carry on such execution. Where however the limits of the jurisdiction of the old Court were altered and an application was made by the Court which passed the decree for execution, held, that the decree should be forwarded to the proper Court, but that it had the effect of saving limitation. 35

An application by the decree-holder to the Court which passed the decree to attach the judgment-debtor's property beyond the limits of the Court's jurisdiction is one in accordance with law and made to the proper Court, so as to save limitation under Art. 182 (5). 8 Cut.L.T. 7. Where it has not been shown that the decree-holder knew that the judgment-debtor lived outside the jurisdiction and the application for his arrest is made on the face of it to the Court which had jurisdiction, it cannot be said that the application is not made to the proper Court. 184 I.C. 769=1939 Rang. 345. So also where relief is to sell movables of the judgment-debtor and the judgment-debtor has no movable property within the jurisdiction of the Court. If the decree-holder had a bona fide belief as to the existence of such movables, the application might be step-in-aid. 134 I.C. 1182=1931 S. 160. The "Collector" acting under sec. 59 (1) (b) of the Bombay Co-operative Societies Act is some agency for carrying out an award, different from a Court. Sec. 59 makes a distinction between a Civil Court as such and the Collector as such. An application to the Collector to enforce an award under the Bombay Co-operative Societies Act cannot therefore be regarded as an application made to a Court, and proceedings so taken are not steps-in-aid of execution so as to save limitation under Art. 182 (5). 40 Bom.L.R. 889=1938 Bom. 424. A decree-holder's application to the Collector for declaration of his mortgage lien under the decree is not an application made "to the proper Court" to take some step-in-aid of execution of the decree for sale of the mortgaged property, as the Collector is not certainly "the Court whose duty it is to execute the decree" within the meaning of Expl. 2, Art. 182. 9 Luck. 273=146 I.C. 805=1933 O. 564. A Tahsildar deputed by the Collector to enforce a decision under r. 14 (5) of the rules framed by the Government of Madras under sec. 43 (1) of the Co-operative Societies Act is not a "Court" within the meaning of Art. 182 (5) and therefore an application for execution before the Tahsildar is not one made to the proper Court for execution and does not save limitation. 59 M. 257=43 L.W. 58=1936 M. 150=70 M.L.J. 31. Art. 182 (6).—If a decree-holder has realized an amount of money by execution, but is compelled to refund that amount by a decree in a subsequent suit, he will be entitled to take out execution for this amount under Art. 182 (6) if the application is presented within three years from the date of the final decree in the refund suit. But he will not be entitled to avail himself of this provision if his decree comes within the prohibition contained in sec. 48, C. P. Code, (i.e.) if 12 years had already expired from the date of the original decree. Where the decree was fully satisfied and the execution case was dismissed on full satisfaction, the subsequent application for execution for recovery of the amount which the decree-holder had to refund is in substance a new application and cannot be treated as a continuation of the original application for execution. 46 C.W.N. 149=I.L.R. Description of application.	Period of limitation.	Time from which period begins to run.
		Explanation I.—Where the decree or order has been passed severally in favour of more persons than one, distinguishing portions of the subject-matter as payable or deliverable to each, the application mentioned in clause 5 of this article shall take effect in favour only of such of the said persons or their representatives as it may be made by. When the first instalment has fallen due and can be recovered by the decree-holder by means of execution, the mere fact that the non-payment of the second instalment entitles the decree-holder to bring the property to sale and recover the whole amount (including the third instalment) does not necessarily mean that he could not recover the first instalment by proceeding against the judgment-debtor in the normal way. 1943 Pesh. 52. In the case of a decree providing for payment by instalments and allowing the decree-holder to take out execution for the whole amount on default of payment of any instalment, limitation will only run against the decree-holder in respect of each instalment separately from the time when it became due and payable, unless the decree leaves him no option on the happening of default but to execute the decree once for all for the whole amount. 11 P. 440=1932 P. 253. See also 1935 A.W.R. 531=1935 A. 259; 1939 Sind 49; 1941 O.A. 915=1941 O. But where in case of default, the decree-holder exercises his option by appying for the sale of property, he cannot later on fall back upon the period fixed for payment and apply to execute the decree after 3 years of that date. 132 I.C. 437=33 Bom.L.R. 459=1931 B. 263. Where a plaintiff has alternative remedies, he pursues all or any of his remedies up to judgment; and general it is only on obtaining judgment on one remedy that he would lose the right to proceed on the other remedy. But where a man has two inconsistent rights, he must elect which of them he is going to rely on, and having elected to rely on one right, he is not allowed to retract his election. It is irrelevant in such a case that the action does not proceed to judgment. He has alternative rights and the debtor is subject to alternative obligations. Once the decree-holder elects to enforce his rights to recover the whole debt in one lump sum and files an execution petition for such recovery, the future obligation of the debtor is fixed accordingly, and it is not open to the decree-holder subsequently, after an unsuccessful application to recover the whole amount, to turn round and seek to enforce the decree as an instalment decree, more than three years after the first application. ART. 182, EXPL. (1): JOINT DECREE.—See 103 I.C. 867=9 P.L.T. 264=1927 P. 116; 1945 B. 489=47 Bom.L.R. 434; 32 C.W.N. 1107=1928 C. 861; 26 A.L.J. 966=51 A. 237 =1928 A. 629 (F.B.); 23 P. 150=1944 Pat. 188. Expl. 1 of Art. 182 contemplates only cases in which a decree has been passed either jointly or severally in favour of or against more persons than one. It does not apply to a case where certain persons have made themselves liable for the decretal amount as sureties after the passing of the decree. 13 Luck. 353=1937 O.W. N. 680=1937 Oudh 351. A decree is a joint decree within the meaning of Explanation 1 to Art. 182, if any one of the reliefs given in the decree is against the defendants jointly, even though some other reliefs may be given against the defendants separately. Ordinarily a decree in a partition suit is one decree. The fact that the decree grants separate reliefs will not by itself transform the decree into separate decrees. The fact that the combinations of the decree-holders and judgment-debtors entitled to reliefs under the decree are different and the reliefs are granted both severally and jointly in favour of and against more persons than one, will not also transform the decree into distinct and separate decrees, if the facts taken as a whole justify the conclusion that the decree is one decree. An application for execution of such a decree in respect of the reliefs granted jointly against the defendants, will save limitation against them even in respect of the reliefs which have been decreed against them separately. 50 C.W.N. 155. A decree against a judgment-debtor cannot be regarded as a decree passed jointly against the judgment-debtor and a person who has entered into a surety bond for the due satisfaction of any decree that may be passed against the judgment-debtor, and consequently an application for execution against the judgment-debtor will not save limitation for an application for execution against the surety. 6 R. 334=1928 R. 282. See also 142 I.C. 368=1933 M. 219=37 L.W. 127; 1937 Oudh 351. 183. To enforce a judgment, decree or order of any Court established by Royal Charter in the exercise of its ordinary original civil jurisdiction, or an order of His Majesty in Council.	Twelve years ..	shall take effect against them all. Explanation II.—"Proper Court" means the Court whose duty it is to execute the dercee or order. When a present right to enforce the judgment, decree or order accrues to some person capable of releasing the right: Provided that when the judgment, decree or order has been revived, or some part of the principal money secured thereby, or some interest on such money has been paid, or some acknowledgment of the right thereto has been given in writing signed by the person liable to pay such principle, providing a personal remedy against some and only a remedy against the property of others may still be a joint decree against all the defendants. 118 I.C. 237=1929 A. 795. Expl. 1 of Art. 182 saves limitation even where the execution application is taken out against one of several judgment-debtors. 31 P.L.R. 961=134 I.C. 194=1931 L. 116. But the Act does not apply where a decree specifies clearly the respective liabilities of the various judgment-debtors and puts it beyond doubt that the decree-holder could proceed against an individual judgment-debtor in respect of his share of the decretal amount and costs. 35 P.L.R. 692=1934 L. 637 (2). See also 1937 Cal. 547. Where some out of several joint decree-holders apply for execution on their own behalf and during the pendency of such application the others also apply but the latter application is not competent the two applications cannot be considered to supplement each other in order to extend limitation. 152 I.C. 443=1934 Pesh. 40. A decree for partition allotting various lands in severalty to each of the parties and reserving a strip of land as common road, was, so far as that strip was concerned, one for joint possession in favour of all the parties, and as that was an integral part of the arrangement, the whole decree should be deemed to be joint and a previous application by plaintiff would save limitation for a subsequent application by the defendant to be put in possession. 36 C.W.N. 772=139 I.C. 786==1932 C. 869. See also 145 I.C. 968=38 L.W. 568=1933 M. 789=65 M.L.J. 582. Quaere.—Whether in a final decree for partition merely awarding several plots to several sharers, an application for one plot cannot save from limitation the application for another plot. 65 M L.J. 582. See also 1940 Pat. 147. Where a decree for partition has allotted certain properties in severalty to each of the parties but has reserved a portion of the properties as joint between the parties, such decree must be regarded as a joint decree within the meaning of Explanation 1 to Art. 182. If, therefore, one of the parties to the decree starts on execution within three years of the final decree, it would enure to the benefit of the other parties as well so as to give a fresh start of limitation under Art. 182 (5). 25 Pat. 95=27 P.L.T. 205. See also I.L.R. (1945) Kar. 445=1945 S. 3; 50 C.W.N. 155. Under Expl. 1 to Art. 182, the execution of a decree against a joint judgment-debtor would be sufficient against all and would keep alive the decree against all, the suspension of the running of limitation against one of the judgment-debtors owing to the supervening of insolvency so far as he is concerned, cannot keep the remedy of the decree-holder alive against all of them, because there is no bar to the decree-holder executing the decree against the other judgment-debtors during the pendency of the insolvency proceedings against one of them. 1938 P.W.N. 397=19 Pat.L.T. 831=1938 Pat. 395; 197 I.C. 480=1942 P. 285. Though by reason of sec. 164, Companies Act, the District Judge has the same jurisdiction and the same powers as the High Court, yet the District Judge by virtue of sec. 164 does not become the High Court for purpose of Art. 183, Limitation Act. Hence to a payment order passed by the District Judge under powers conferred by sec. 164, Art. 183 has no application and the only article applicable is Art. 182. 178 I.C. 288=1938 Lah. 368.

EXPL. II.—The term "representatives" in Explanation 2, does not apply to transferees pendente lite. If the application against the judgment-debtors is in time, it must be in time against transferees pendente lite. (1944) Nag. 852.

ART. 183: SCOPE AND APPLICATION.—The provisions of Art. 183 regarding acknowledgment as well as payments are self-contained and must be read independently of secs. 19 and 20 of the Limitation Act. 10 P. 213=132 I.C. 109=1931 P. 218. The proviso to Art. 183, dealing with revival, has application only if the application for execution on the face of it was made more than 12 years after the date of the decree; where the application is within 12 years. Art. 183 is no bar to execution. 45 Bom.L. R. 400=A.I.R. 1943 Bom. 238. According to law, decree bears the same date as the judgment, and the right to enforce the decree under Art. 183 of the Limitation Act would prima facie accrue from the date of the judgment. Ordinarily, prepartion of the decree (including assessment of costs) does take a little time but there is no provision of law allowing this time to be deducted in computing the period for an application for execution. I.L.R. (1939) Lah. 319=41 P.L. R. 105=1939 Lah. 110. The word "payment" is used in Art. 183 in a wider sense than in sec. 20 and not qualified in any way as to the mode in which the payment is to be made or as to the person who is to make it. A sum of money realised in execution in partial satisfaction of the decree amounts to "payment" and provides a fresh starting point for limitation. 1931 Pat. 218. "Money" secured by decree includes costs, and payment of costs would save limitation. 10 P. 213=1931 Pat. 218. To constitute a revivor of the decree, there must be expressly or by implication a determination that the decree is still capable of execution and the decree-holder is entitled to enforce it. 41 C.L.J. 159=1925 C. 668. See also 32 C.W.N. 336=55 C. 578=1928 C. 686; 15 P. 102=17 Pat.L.T. 317=163 I.C. 411 =1936 P. 398; 40 Bom.L.R. 1180=1939 Bom. 51; 19 Pat.L.T. 193=1938 Pat. 372; 19 Pat. 909=1940 Pat. 596. "Revivor" means a decision holding that the decree was still capable of execution. Per Mitter, J., in 1936 Pat. 398. Application for transfer of decree is not revival of decree. See 54 I.A. 129=54 C. 500=1927 P.C. 73=52 M.L.J. 565 (P.C.). An application for transmission of a decree does not operate as revivor within the meaning of Art. 183 though it may be a step-in-aid of execution under Art. 182. 54 Cal. 500=54 I.A. 129 =52 M.L.J. 565 (P.C.). The revivor contemplated by Art. 183, is an order in execution against a particular person consequent upon a notice. When that person is a minor on the date of the decree a notice served on his guardian would be sufficient and would operate as a revivor though in fact he has become a major subsequently. The failure on the part of the minor to get himself declared a major cannot affect the proceedings taken by the decree-holder, or render them illegal. 58 L. W. 174=1945 M.W.N. 334=A.I.R. 1945 Mad. 325=(1945) 1 M.L.J. 284.

"Revivor"—Meaning of—Order for arrest of judgment-debtor within one year of decree—Subsequent transfer of decree for execution and application for execution in transferee Court beyond 12 years—Prior order for arrest—If "revivor". 23 Pat. 923=1945 Pat. 182. Although the term "revivor" has not been anywhere defined or explained in the Limitation Act, it is well-settled that to constitute "revivor" of the decree there must be expressly or by implication a determination that the decree is still capable of execution and the decree-holder is entitled to enforece it. In other words there must be an order for execution which amounts to a decision that the decree is capable of execution. 21 Pat.L.T. 431=1940 P.W.N. 896=1940 Pat. 596. An order of revivor of a decree against two persons jointly, e.g., partners of a firm against whom the decree has been passed, when made in an application for execution against one of them only, does not keep the decree alive against the other. No one can be prejudicially affected by any judicial order to which he is not a party. Art. 182 contains a distinct provision which is an exception to this general rule. A similar exception cannot be imported into Art. 183 which is silent on the point. 21 Pat.L.T. 431=1940 Pat. 596. An application under O. 21, r. 50 (2), C. P. Code, for leave to execute a decree passed against a firm by the original side of the High Court against a person alleged to be a partner is one to enforce the decree and is, therefore, governed by Art. 183. The period of limitation commences, not from the date of adjudication of that person as partner but from the date of the decree. 48 C.W.N. 645. A notice issued under O. 21, r. 16, C. P. Code, does not operate as revivor to extend the period of limitation under Art. 183, nor is the application for transfer of a decree an application in execution. 28 C.W.N. 963=1925 C. 23. See also 1940 Pat. 596; 1938 Pat. 372; 15 P. 102=1936 Pat. 398. On this section, see also 13 R. 325=1935 R. 106.

ARTS. 183 AND 181.—An application for execution of a conditional decree was passed by the High Court is governed by Art. 183 and not by Art. 181. In the case of conditional decrees, the proper practice is for the decree-holder to apply for the execution of the decree on notice to the judgment-debtor and to file in support of his application a petition alleging default. If the judgment-debtor does not deny default or if his denial is not believed, the decree-holder obtains the order he seeks. It is not necessary for him to file an application merely to establish default as a preliminary to a further application for a substantive order. 41 C.W.N. 1133. The tranmission order being a sine qua non for execution proceedings an application under O. 45, r. 15, is one for enforcing an order in Council of His Majesty and is covered by Art. 183, and therefore the residuary Art. 181 cannot apply. 1942 Pesh. 14=199 I.C. 46. An application for leave to execute a decree against the legal representatives of the judgment-debtor is governed, not by Art. 181, but by Art. 183. I.L.R. (1939) 2 Cal. 173=1940 Cal. 171. Restitution—Application for, in consequence of order of His Majesty in Council—Article applicable. See 44 C.W.N. 438=71 C. L.J. 127=I.L.R. (1940) 1 Cal. 486=1940 C. 260.

An Act to consolidate and amend the law relating to the grant of loans to Local Authorities.

WHEREAS it is epxedient to consolidate and amend the law relating to the borrowing powers of local authorities; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Preamble.

Short title and extent.

1. (1) This Act may be called THE LOCAL AUTHORITIES LOANS ACT, 1914.

(2) It extends to the whole of British India, including the Sonthal Parganas.

Definitions.

2. In this Act, "local authority" means any person legally entitled to the control or management of any local or municipal fund, or legally entitled to impose any cess, rate, duty or tax within any local area;

"funds," used with reference to any local authority, includes any local or municipal fund to the control or management of which such authority is legally entitled, and any cess, rate, duty or tax which such authority is legally entitled to impose, and any property vested in such authority;

"prescribed" means prescribed by rules made under this Act; and

"work" includes a survey, whether incidental to any other work or not.

[1]["The Government" or "the appropriate Government" means, in relation to cantonment authorities and in relation to port authorities in major ports, the Central Government, and in relation to other local authorities, the Provincial Government.]

Borrowing powers of local authorities.

3. (1) A local authority may, subject to the prescribed conditions, borrow on the security of its funds or any portion thereof for any of the following purposes, namely:—

(i) the carrying out of any works which it is legally authorised to carry out,

(ii) the giving of relief and the establishment and maintenance of relief works in times of famine or scarcity,

(iii) the prevention of the outbreak or spread of any dangerous epidemic disease,

(iv) any measures which may be connected with or ancillary to any purposes specified in clauses (ii) and (iii),

(v) the repayment of money perviously borrowed in accordance with law:

Provided that nothing in clause (v) shall be deemed to empower a local authority to fix a period for the repayment of any money borrowed thereunder which, when the period fixed for the repayment of the money previously borrowed is taken into account, will exceed the maximum period fixed for the repayment of a loan by or under any enactment for the time being in force:

[1] [a]Provided further that, in the case of loans other than loans made by the [2][appropriate Government], no amount exceeding twenty-five lakhs of rupees shall be borrowed unless the terms, including the date of flotation, of such loan have been approved by the [3][appropriate Government].

(2) Nothing in this section shall be deemed to authorize any local authority—

(a) to borrow or spend money for any purpose for which, under the law for the time being in force, it is not authorized to apply its funds, or

(b) to borrow money by means of the issue of bills or promissory notes payable within any period not exceeding twelve months.

Power of appropriate Government to make rules.

4. (1) The [1][appropriate Government] may make rules consistent with this Act as to—

(i) the nature of the funds on the security of which money may be borrowed;

(ii) the works for which money may be borrowed;

(iii) the manner of making applications for permission to bororw money;

(iv) the inquiries to be made in relation to such loans, and the manner of conducting such inquiries;

(v) the cases and the forms in which particulars of applications and proceedings, and orders thereon, shall be published;

(vi) the cases in which the [2][appropriate Government] may make loans [3][* * * * * * *];

[4][(vii) the cases in which local authorities may take loans from persons other than the [2][appropriate Government];

(viii) the manner of recording and enforcing the conditions on which money is to be borrowed;

(ix) the manner and time of making or raising loans;

(x) the inspection of any works carried out by means of loans;

(xi) the instalments, if any, by which loans shall be re-paid, the interest to be charged on loans, and the manner and time of re-paying loans and of paying the interest thereon;

(xii) the sum to be charged against the funds which are to form the security for the loan, as costs in effecting the loan;

(xiii) the attachment of such funds, and the manner of disposing of or collecting them;

(xiv) the accounts to be kept in respect of loans;

(xv) the utilization of unexpended balances of loans either in the reduction in any way of the debt of the local authority, or in carrying out any works which that authority is legally authorised to carry out; and the sanction necessary to such utilization; and as to all other matters incidental to carrying this Act into effect.

(2) [5][* * * * * *]

(3) All rules made under this Act shall be published [6][* * *] in the Official Gazette. and on such publication, shall have effect as if enacted in this Act.

Remedy by attachment if loan not repaid.

5. (1) Subject to the provisions of section 26 of the Indian Paper Currency Act, 1910, the local authorities mentioned in Schedule I and any other local authority to which the [1][appropriate Government] may, by notification in the Official Gazette, extend the provisions of this section, may, with the previous sanction of the [1][appropriate Government] borrow money by means of the issue of bills or promissory notes payable within any period, not exceeding twelve months, for any purpose for which such local authority may lawfully borrow money under any law for the time being in force:

Provided that the amount of the bills or promissory notes, which may be so issued, shall not exceed, when the amount of the other moneys, for the time being borrowed by such local authority is taken into account, the total amount which such local authority is empowered by law to borrow.

(2) The [1][appropriate Government] may, by general or special order, regulate the conditions on which money may be borrowed or repaid under this section.

Loans not to be effected except under this Act.

7. Except as provided by or under this Act, no local authority shall, for any purpose, borrow money upon, or otherwise charge, its funds; and any contract otherwise made for that purpose after the passing of this Act shall be void:

Provided that nothing herein contained shall be deemed—

(a) to preclude any local authority from exercising the borrowing powers conferred on it by any special enactment now or hereafter in force; or

(b) to affect the power conferred on any local authority by any such enactment to charge its funds, by guaranteeing the payment of interest on money to be applied to any purpose to which the funds of the local authority can legally be applied.

Application of Act to loans existing previous to the fifth September, 1871.

[2][8. The remedy mentioned in section 5 shall be available for the recovery of any money lent by the Secretary of State in Council to any local authority before the fifth day of September, eighteen hundred and seventy-one, and the interest due on such money.]

THE LOCAL AUTHORITIES PENSIONS AND GRATUITIES ACT (I OF 1919).[2]

Year.	No.	Short title.	Amendments.
1919	I	The Local Authorities Pensions and Gratuities Act.	Amended, XXXVIII of 1920, A.O., 1937.

[26*th February*, 1919.

An Act to extend the powers of local authorities in regard to the granting of pensions and gratuities.

WHEREAS it is expedient to extend the powers of local authorities in regard to the granting of pensions and gratuities; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Short title and extent.

1. (1) This Act may be called THE LOCAL AUTHORITIES PENSIONS AND GRATUITIES ACT, 1919.

(2) It extends to the whole of British India, including the Sonthal Parganas.

Definition.

2. In this Act "officer" means any person who has undertaken [3][service under the Crown] and who, immediately prior to undertaking such service, was paid and employed solely by a local authority and, but for undertaking such service, would in the ordinary course have continued in such employment, [4][and the 'appropriate Government' means, in relation to cantonment authorities and port authorities in major ports, the Central Government, and in relation to other authorities, the Provincial Government].

Power to grant extraordinary pensions and gratuities.

3. Notwithstanding anything contained in any enactment or in any rule made thereunder regulating the powers of local authorities, and without prejudice to any powers conferred by or under any such enactment, a local authority may grant a pension or gratuity to any officer thereof who may, since the fourth day of August, 1914, have been wounded or otherwise incapacitated in [3][service under the Crown] and to the widow or child of any such officer who may have died in consequence of injuries received or illness contracted since the fourth day of August, 1914, in the course of such service.

Provision as to pensions and gratuities.

4. (1) Such pension or gratuity may be granted in addition to any pension or gratuity payable to the officer or his wife or child, as the case may be, under any general or special orders of His Majesty in Council or of [5][the Central Government or any Provincial Government], but shall not, save with the sanc-

[16*th March*, 1912

An Act to consolidate and amend the law relating to Lunacy.

WHEREAS it is expedient to consolidate and amend the law relating to lunacy: It is hereby enacted as follows:—

PART I.
PRELIMINARY.
CHAPTER I.

Short title and extent.

1. (1) This Act may be called THE INDIAN LUNACY ACT, 1912.

(2) It extends to the whole of British India, including British Baluchistan. the Sonthal Parganas, and the Pargana of Spiti.

LEG. REF.

[1] Substituted for "established under the Indian High Courts Acts, 1861 to 1911" by A.O., 1937.

SEC. 1: OBJECT OF THE ACT.—The law does not contemplate that a person alleged to be a lunatic should be exposed to the publicity and harassment of a trial unless there is some foundation for apprehension that he is incapable to manage his affairs. 9 I.C. 207=8 A.L.J. 179. See also 19 C. W.N. 45.

APPLICABILITY OF THE ACT.—The Act is not absolutely exhaustive. 42 C.W.N. 92 =I.L.R. (1938) C. 180=1937 C. 735. Act XXXV of 1858 had no application to a Hindu coparcener who has no separate property. 23 M.L.J. 706=17 I.C. 473=1913 M.W.N. 79. See also 25 C. 585. 2. Nothing contained in Part II shall be deemed to affect the powers of any High Court which is or hereafter may be [1][constituted by His Majesty by Letters Patent], over any person found to be a lunatic by inquisition or over the property of such lunatic, or the rights of any person appointed by such Court as guardian of the person or manager of the estate of such lunatic.

Definitions.

3. In this Act, unless there is anything repugnant in the subject or context,—

(1) "asylum" means an asylum [1][or mental hospital] for lunatics established or licensed by [any Government in British India][2]:

(2) "cost of maintenance" in an asylum includes the cost of lodging, maintenance, clothing, medicine and care of a lunatic and any expenditure incurred in removing such lunatic to and from an asylum [1][together with any other charges specified in this behalf by the [3][Provincial Government], in exercise of any power conferred upon [4][it] by this Act]:

(3) "District Court" means the principal Civil Court of original jurisdiction in any area outside the local limits for the time being of the presidency-towns:

(4) "criminal lunatic" means any person for whose [5][detention] in, or removal to an asylum, jail or other place of safe custody an order has been made in accordance with the provisions of section 466 or section 471 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898, or of section 30 of the Prisoners Act, 1900, [6][or of section 103-A of the Indian Army Act, 1911]:

(5) "lunatic" means an idiot or person of unsound mind:

(6) "Magistrate" means a Presidency Magistrate, District Magistrate, sub-Divisional Magistrate or a Magistrate of the first class specially empowered by the Provincial Government to perform the functions of a Magistrate under this Act:

(7) "medical officer" means a 'gazetted' [7][medical officer in the service of the Crown] and includes a medical practitioner declared by general or special order of the Provincial Government to be a medical officer for the purposes of this Act:

(8) "medical practitioner" means a holder of a qualification to practise medicine and surgery which can be registered in the United Kingdom in accordance with the law for the time being in force for the registration of medical practitioners, and includes any person declared by general or special order of the Provincial Government to be a medical practitioner for the purposes of this Act:

[7] Substituted for 'medical officer of Bovernment' by A.O., 1937.

SEC. 3, CL. (1): Where there is no provision in the order of appointment of joint managers for the estate of lunatic, the office of the survivor manager terminates on the death of the co-manager. 61 Cal. 986=60 C.L.J. 14=38 C.W.N. 1054=1935 C. 33. As to appointment of manager in respect of the lunatic's interests in Hindu coparcenary property, see 1942 All. 267=1942 A.L.J. 197=I.L.R. (1942) All. 518.

SEC. 3, CL. (2).—Under the Lunacy Act, the Court has no power to award costs to an unsuccessful applicant out of the estate of the alleged lunatic, even though the application is bona fide and in the best interests of the lunatic. In the absence of a provision in the Act, similar to S. 109 of the English Lunacy Act of 1890, the Court has no discretion to award costs. 58 M. 281=152 I. C. 882=40 L.W. 710=1935 M. 91=67 M. SEC. 3 (5).—The elaborate procedure prescribed by the Act should be strictly fol-

(9) "prescribed" means prescribed by this Act or by rule made thereunder:

(10) "reception order" means an order made under the provisions of this Act for the reception into asylum of a lunatic other than a lunatic so found by inquisition:

(11) "relative" includes any person related by blood, marriage or adoption: and

(12) "rule" means a rule made under this Act.

PART II.

RECEPTION, CARE AND TREATMENT OF LUNATICS.

CHAPTER II.

RECEPTION OF LUNATICS.

Reception of persons in asylum.

[1]4. (1) No person other than a criminal luantic or a lunatic so found by inquisition shall be received or detained in an asylum without a reception order save as provided by sections 8, 16 and 98:

Provided that any person in charge of an asylum may, with the consent of two of the visitors of such asylum, which consent shall not be given except upon a written application from the intending boarder, receive and lodge as a boarder in such asylum any person who is desirous of submitting himself to treatment.

(2) A boarder received in an asylum under the proviso to sub-section (1) shall not be detained in the asylum for more than twenty-four hours after he has given to the person in charge of the asylum notice in writing of his desire to leave such asylum.

Reception orders on petition.

Application for reception order.

5. (1) An application for a reception order shall be made by petition accompanied by a statement of particulars to the Magistrate within the local limits of whose jurisdiction the alleged lunatic ordinarily resides, shall be in the form prescribed and shall be supported by two medical certificates on separate sheets of paper, one of which certificates shall be from a medical officer.

(2) If either of the medical certificates is signed by any relative, partner or assistant of the lunatic or of the petitioner, the petition shall state the fact and, where the person signing is a relative, the exact manner in which he is related to the lunatic or petitioner.

LEG. REF.

[1]MADRAS AMENDMENT.—In sub-S. (1) of sec. 4 of the Indian Lunacy Act, 1912, for the words and figures "save as provided by secs. 8, 16 and 98", the words, figures and letter "save as provided by secs. 8, 16 and 98 of this Act and by sec. 39-A of the Prisons Act, 1894" shall be substituted (Madras Act XIV of 1938).

lowed, the Court should not consider itself relieved of its responsibility by the mere circumstance that some or all of the relatives of the person concerned have declared that he is a lunatic. The Court ought to form its own independent judgment on the point. 122 I.C. 570=1930 L. 289. Unsoundness of mind includes imbecility, lunacy or mental aberration. 7 B. 15. See also 1905 A.W. N. 8; 4 C.L.J. 115. But mere weakness of intellect is not. 4 C.L.J. 115. As to what is lunacy, see also 24 W.R. 124; 20 W.R. 55.

LUNATIC.—The term "Lunatic" also includes one who is so found by a competent Court on proper evidence. 2 A.L.J. 154; 31 C. 210. A man is not a lunatic simply because he had delusions on one or two points and is incapable of managing his own affairs. 9 I.C. 207=8 A.L.J. 179.

SEC. 3 (11).—The brother of the wife is related by marriage to the husband of his sister and is therefore a "relative" within S. 3 (11) of the Act and he is competent to make an application for inquisition under S. 62 of the Act. A narrow construction should not be placed upon the term "relative" as defined in S. 3 (11). 22 C.W.N. 547=43 I.C. 511.

SEC. 4.—See 4 L. 1=73 I.C. 696=1924 L 55.

(3) The petition shall also state whether any previous application has been presented for an inquiry into the mental capacity of the alleged lunatic in any Court; and if such application has been made, a certified copy of the order made thereon shall be attached to the petition.

(4) No application for a reception order shall be entertained in any area outside the Presidency-towns unless the Provincial Government has, by notification in the Official Gazette, declared such area as an area in which reception orders may be made.

Application by whom to be presented.

6. [1][(1) Subject to the provisions of sub-section (3), the petition shall be presented by the husband or wife of the alleged lunatic, or, if there is no husband or wife or the husband or wife is prevented by reason of insanity, absence from India or otherwise from making the presentation, by the nearest relative of the alleged lunatic who is not so prevented.]

(2) [1][If the petition is not presented by the husband or wife, or, where there is no husband or wife, by the nearest relative of the alleged lunatic, the petition] shall contain a statement of the reasons why it is not so presented, and of the connection of the petitioner with the alleged lunatic, and the circumstances under which the presents the petition.

(3) No person shall present a petition unless he has attained the age of majority as determined by the law to which he is subject, and as within fourteen days before the presentation of the petition, personally seen the said lunatic.

(4) The petition shall be signed and verified by the petitioner, and the statement of prescribed particulars by the person making such statement.

Procedure upon petition for reception order.

7. (1) Upon the presentation of the petition the Magistrate shall consider the allegations in the petition and the evidence of lunacy appearing by the medical certificates.

(2) If he considers that there are grounds for proceeding further, he shall personally examine the alleged lunatic unless for reasons to be recorded in writing he thinks it unnecessary or inexpedient so to do.

(3) If he is satisfied that a reception order may properly be made forthwith, he may make the same accordingly.

(4) If he is not so satisfied, he shall fix a date (notice whereof shall be given to the petitioner and to any other person to whom in the opinion of the magistrate notice should be given) for the consideration of the petition, and he may make such further or other inquiries of or concerning the alleged lunatic as he thinks fit.

Detention of alleged lunatic pending inquiry.

8. Upon the presentation of the petition, the Magistrate may make such order as he thinks fit for the suitable custody of the alleged lunatic pending the conclusion of the inquiry.

Consideration of petition.

9. The petition shall be considered in private in the presence of the petitioner, the alleged lunatic (unless the Magistrate in his discretion otherwise directs), any person appointed by the alleged lunatic to represent him and such other persons as the Magistrate thinks fit.

Order.

10. (1) At the time appointed for the consideration of the petition, the Magistrate may either make a reception order or dismiss the petition, or may adjourn the same for further evidence or inquiry and may make such order as to the payment of the costs of the inquiry by the person upon whose application it was made, or out of the estate of the alleged lunatic if found to be of unsound mind, or otherwise as he thinks fit.

(2) If the petition is dismissed, the Magistrate shall record in writing his reasons for dismissing the same, and shall deliver or cause to be delivered to the petitioner a copy of such order.

Further provisions as to reception orders on petition.

11. No reception order shall be made under section 7 or section 10, save in the case of a lunatic who is dangerous and unfit to be at large, unless—

(a) the Magistrate is satisfied that the person in charge of an asylum is willing to receive the lunatic, and

(b) the petitioner or some other person engages in writing to the satisfaction of the Magistrate to pay the cost of maintenance of the lunatic.

Power to appoint substitute for the person upon whose application a reception order has been made.

[1][11-A. (1) The Magistrate may, subject to the provisions of this section by order in writing (hereinafter referred to as an order of substitution), transfer the duties and responsibilities under this Act of the person on whose petition a reception order has been made to any other person who is willing to undertake the same, and such other person shall thereupon be deemed for the purposes of this Act to be the person on whose petition the reception order was made, and all references in this Act to such last-mentioned person shall be construed accordingly:

Provided that no such order of substitution shall release the person upon whose petition the reception order was made or, if he is dead, his legal representative from any liability incurred before the order of substitution was made.

(2) Before making any order of substitution, the Magistrate shall send a notice to the person upon whose petition the reception order was made, if he is alive, and to any relative of the lunatic to whom, in the opinion of the Magistrate, notice should be given; the notice shall specify the name of the person in whose favour it is proposed to make such order and the date, which shall be not less than twenty days from the sending of the notice, upon which any objection to the making of the order will be considered.

(3) On such date or any subsequent date to which the proceedings may be adjourned ,the Magistrate shall consider any objection made by any person to whom notice has been sent, or by any other relative of the lunatic, and shall receive all such evidence as may be produced by or on behalf of any such persons and such further evidence, if any, as the Magistrate thinks necessary, and may thereafter make or refrain from making an order of substitution;

Provided that, if the person on whose petition the reception order was made is dead and any other person is willing and, in the opinion of the Magistrate, fitted to undertake the duties and responsibilities under this Act of such first-mentioned person, the Magistrate shall make such an order.

(4) If in proceedings under this section any question arises as to the person to whom the duties and responsibility under this Act of a person upon whose petition a reception order has been made shall be entrusted, the Magistrate shall give preference to the person who is the nearest relative of the lunatic unless, for reasons to be recorded in writing, the Magistrate considers that such preference would not be in the interests of the lunatic.

(5) The Magistrate may make such order for the payment of the costs of an inquiry under this section by any person who is a party thereto or out of the estate of the lunatic, as he thinks fit.

Reception order in case of lunatics from foreign States of India.

[1][11-B. (1) When an arrangement has been made with any foreign European State with respect to the reception of lunatics in asylums in British India. the Central Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette, direct that reception orders may be made under this Act in the case of any lunatic or class of lunatics residing in the territories in India of such foreign European State, and shall in such notification specify the province or provinces within which such reception orders may be made.

(2) On publication of a notification under sub-section (1), the provisions of this Act as to the making of reception orders on petition and for temporary detention in suitable custody shall apply in the case of such lunatics, with the following modifications, namely:—

(a) an application for a reception order may be made by petition presented by such officer or agent of the foreign State in which the alleged lunatic ordinarily resides, as may by general or special order be approved by the Provincial Government in this behalf:

(b) the functions of the Magistrate shall be performed by such officer as the Provincial Government may, by general or special order, appoint in this behalf, and such officer shall be deemed to be the Magistrate having jurisdiction over the alleged lunatic for all the purposes of the said provisions:

(c) for the purposes of sections 5 and 18 (1), the expressions "medical officer" and "medical practitioner" shall include such person or class of persons as the Provincial Government may specify in this behalf;

(d) the Magistrate may in his discretion extend the period prescribed by section 19 within which the alleged lunatic must have been medically examined; and

(e) sections 6 (1), (2), (3), 11, [1a][11-A] and 34 of the Act, shall not apply, and with such other modifications, restrictions or adaptations as the Central Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette ,direct for the purpose of facilitating the application of the said provisions.

(3) A reception order made under this section shall be deemed to be a reception order made under section 7 or section 10, as the case may be.

Reception orders otherwise than on petition.

Reception order in case of a European lunatic soldier, sailor or airman.

12. When any European who is subject to the provisions of the Army Act [2][the Naval Discipline Act or that Act as modified by the Indian Navy (Dicipline) Act, 1934,] [3][the Air Force Act or the Indian Air Force Act, 1932] has been declared a lunatic in accordance with the provisions of the military [2][,Naval] [4][or air force] regulations in force for the time being, and it appears to any administrative medical officer that he should be removed to an asylum, such administrative medical officer may, if he thinks fit, make a reception order under his hand for the admission of the said lunatic into any asylum which has been duly authorized for the purpose by the Central Government.

1.C. 696=1924 L. 55. Great care is to be taken before declaring a person a lunatic. 5 W.R. (Mis.) 5.

Powers and duties of police in respect of wandering or dangerous lunatics and lunatics cruelly treated or not under proper care and control.

13. (1) Every officer in charge of a police station may arrest or cause to be arrested all persons found wandering at large within the limits of his station whom he has reason to believe to be lunatics, and shall arrest or cause to be arrested all persons within the limits of his station whom he has reason to believe to be dangerous by reason of lunacy. Any person so arrested shall be taken forthwith before the Magistrate.

(2) Every officer in charge of a police-station who has reason to believe that any person within the limits of his station is deemed to be a lunatic and is not under proper care and control, or is cruelly treated or neglected by any relative or other person having the charge of him, shall immediately report the fact to the Magistrate.

Reception order in case of wandering and dangerous lunatics.

14. Whenever any person is brought before a Magistrate under the provisions of sub-section (1) of section 13, the Magistrate shall examine such person, and if he thinks that there are grounds for proceeding further, shall cause him to be examined by a medical officer, and may make such other inquiries as he thinks fit; and if the Magistrate is satisfied that such person is a lunatic and a proper person to be detained, he may, if the medical officer who has examined such person gives a medical certificate with regard to such person, make a reception order for the admission of such lunatic into an asylum:

Provided that, if any friend or relative desires that the lunatic be sent to a licensed asylum and engages in writing to the satisfaction of the Magistrate to pay the cost of maintenance of the lunatic in such asylum, the Magistrate shall, if the person in charge of such asylum consents, make a reception order for the admission of the lunatic into the licensed asylum mentioned in the engagement:

Provided further that if any friend or relative of the lunatic enters into a bond with or without sureties for such sum of money as the Magistrate thinks fit, conditioned that such lunatic shall be properly taken care of, and shall be prevented from doing injury to himself or to others, the Magistrate, instead of making a reception order, may, if he thinks fit, make him over to the care of such friend or relative.

Order in case of lunatic cruelly treated or not under proper care and control.

15. (1) If it appears to the Magistrate, on the report of a police-officer or the information of any other person, that any person within the limits of his jurisdiction deemed to be a lunatic is not under proper care and control or is cruelly treated or neglected by any relative or other person having the charge of him, the Magistrate may cause the alleged lunatic to be produced before him, and summon such relative or other person as has or ought to have the charge of him.

SEC. 13.—See 5 W.R. (Mis.) 5; 9 C. 341=9 I.A. 152 (P.C.).

SECS. 14, 15 (3) AND 16.—Sec. 16 which applies only to temporary detention for specific time and purpose, also applies to a case where Magistrate acting under sec. 14 thinks detention necessary for observation. In such a case, by reason of sec. 15 (3), the two provisos of sec. 14 will also apply if necessary. 29 S.L.R. 431=165 I.C. 119=1936 Sind 156.

SEC. 15.—Words "report of Police Officer etc," do not suggest personal presentation of a written complaint. Information contained in official correspondence is sufficient. 29 S.L.R. 431=165 I.C. 119=1936 Sind 156. Where a lunatic is not 'under proper care and control,' it is not necessary, though desirable, to formally summon the relatives. But omission to do so does not render the proceedings illegal. (Ibid.)

SECS. 15 AND 88.—A Magistrate who passes a reception order against a lunatic under S. 15 has no jurisdiction to pass an order for the payment of the costs of the maintenance of the lunatic. He must under the provisions of S. 88 apply to the High Court or the District Court for such an order. 10 P.L.R. 496.

(2) If such relative or other person is legally bound to maintain the alleged lunatic, the Magistrate may make an order for such alleged lunatic being properly cared for and treated, and, if such relative or other person wilfully neglects to comply with the said order, the Magistrate may sentence him to imprisonment for a term which may extend to one month.

(3) If there is no person legally bound to maintain the alleged lunatic, or if the Magistrate thinks fit so to do, he may proceed as prescribed in section 14, and upon being satisfied in manner aforesaid that the person deemed to be a lunatic is a lunatic and a proper person to be detained under care and treatment may, if a medical officer gives a medical certificate with regard to such lunatic, make a reception order for the admission of such lunatic into an asylum.

Detention of alleged lunatic pending report by medical officer.

16. (1) When any person alleged to be a lunatic is brought before a Magistrate under the provisions of section 13 or section 15, the Magistrate may, by an order in writing authorize the detention of the alleged lunatic in suitable custody for such time not exceeding ten days as may be, in his opinion necessary to enable the medical officer to determine whether such alleged lunatic is a person in respect of whom a medical certificate may be properly given.

(2) The Magistrate may, from time to time, for the same purpose by order in writing, authorize such further detention of the alleged lunatic for periods not exceeding ten days at a time as he thinks necessary:

Provided that no person shall be detained in accordance with the provisions of this section for a total period exceeding thirty days from the date on which he was first brought before the Magistrate.

Commissioner of Police, etc., to act in the Presidency-town.

17. All acts which the Magistrate is authorized or required to do by sections 14, 15 or 16 may be done in the Presidency-towns [1][* * *] by the Commissioner of Police; and all duties which an officer in charge of a police station is authorized or required to perform may be performed in any of the Presidency-towns by an officer of the police force not below the rank of an inspector.

Further provisions as to reception orders and medical certificates.

Medical certificates.

18. (1) Every medical certificate under this Act shall be made and signed by a medical practitioner or a medical officer, as the case may be, and shall be in the form prescribed.

(2) Every medical certificate shall state the facts upon which the person certifying has formed his opinion that the alleged lunatic is a lunatic, distinguishing facts observed by himself from facts communicated by others; and no reception order on petition shall be made upon a certificate founded only upon facts communicated by others.

(3) Every medical certificate made under this Act shall be evidence of the facts therein appearing and of the judgment therein stated to have been formed by the person certifying on such facts, as if the matters therein appearing had been verified on oath.

LEG. REF.

SEC. 16.—A Gazetted Resident Medical Officer of a hospital is a medical officer under this section. 29 S.L.R. 431=165 I. C. 119=1936 Sind 156. It is competent to Magistrate to vary and shorten the period of detention originally ordered, on medical report. (Ibid.) Under the Lunacy Acts IV of 1912 and X of 1914 the Magistrates or Courts are themselves competent to direct the reception of a criminal lunatic into any asylum prescribed for the purpose without reporting the case for orders of the Local Government under S. 471 (1), Cr.P. Code. 8 L.B.R. 290=30 I.C. 654.

Time and manner of medical examination of lunatic.

19. (1) A reception order required to be founded on a medical certificate shall not be made unless the person who signs the medical certificate, or, where two certificates are required, each person who signs a certificate has personally examined the alleged lunatic, in the case of an order upon petition, not more than seven clear days before the date of the presentation of the petition, and, in all other cases not more than seven clear days before the date of the order.

(2) Where two medical certificates are required, a reception order shall not be made unless each person signing a certificate has examined the alleged lunatic separately from the other.

Authority for reception.

20. A reception order, if the same appears to be in conformity with this Act, shall be sufficient authority for the petitioner or any person authorised by him, or in the case of an order not made upon petition, for the person authorized so to do by the person making the order, to take the lunatic and convey him to the place mentioned in such order and for his reception and detention therein, or in any asylum to which he may be removed in accordance with the provisions of this Act, and the order may be acted on without further evidence of the signature or of the jurisdiction of the person making the order:

(a) After the expiry of thirty days from the date on which it was made, unless the lunatic has been admitted to the place mentioned therein within that period, or

(b) After the discharge, under the provisions of this Act, of the lunatic from such place or from any asylum to which he may have been removed.]

Copy of reception order to be sent to person in charge of asylum.

21. Any authority making a reception order under this Part shall forthwith send a certified copy of the order to the person in charge of the asylum into which such lunatic is to be admitted.

Restriction as to asylums into which reception orders may direct admission.

22. Subject to the provisions of section 85, no Magistrate shall make a reception order for the admission of any lunatic into [2][any Government asylum] outside the province in which the Magistrate exercises jurisdiction.

Detention of lunatics pending removal to asylum.

Detention of lunatics pending removal to asylum.

23. When any reception order has been made under sections 7, 10, 14 or 15, the Magistrate may, for reasons to be recorded in writing, direct that the lunatic, pending his removal to an asylum, be detained in suitable custody in such place as the Magistrate thinks fit.

Reception and detention of criminal lunatics.

Reception and detention of criminal lunatics.

24. An order under section 466 or section 471 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898, or under section 30 of the Prisoners Act, 1900 [3][or under section 103-A of the Indian Army Act, 1911], directing the reception of a criminal lunatic into any asylum which is prescribed for the reception of criminal lunatics shall be sufficient authority for the reception and detention of any person named therein in such asylum or in any other asylum to which he may be lawfully transferred.

Reception after inquisition.

Reception after inquisition.

25. A lunatic so found by inquisition may be admitted into an asylum—

(1) in the case of an inquisition under Chapter IV, on an order made by, or under the authority of, the High Court;

(2) in the case of an inquisition under Chapter V, on an order made by the District Court.

Order for payment of cost of maintenance of lunatic.

26. (1) When any lunatic has been admitted into an asylum in accordance with the provisions of section 25, the High Court or the District Court, as the case may be, shall, on the application of the person in charge of the asylum, make an order for the payment of the cost of maintenance of the lunatic in the asylum, and may from time to time direct that any sum of money payable under such order shall be recovered from the estate of the lunatic or of any person legally bound to maintain him:

Provided that if at any time it shall appear to the satisfaction of the Court that the lunatic has not sufficient property, and that no person legally bound to maintain such lunatic has sufficient means for the payment of such cost, the Court shall certify the same instead of making such order for the payment of the cost as aforesaid.

(2) An order under sub-section (1) shall be enforced in the same manner and shall be of the same force and effect and subject to the same appeal as a decree made by the Court in a suit in respect of the property or person therein mentioned.

Amendment of order or certificate.

Amendment of order or certificate.

27. If, after the reception of any lunatic into any asylum on a reception order, it appears that the order upon which he was received or the medical certificate or certificates upon which such order was made is or are defective or incorrect, the same may at any time afterwards be amended by the person or persons signing the same with the sanction of two or more of the visitors of the said asylum, one of whom shall be a medical officer.

CHAPTER III.

CARE AND TREATMENT.

Visitors.

Appointment of visitors.

28. (1) The Provincial Government shall appoint for every asylum not less than three visitors, one of whom at least shall be a medical officer.

(2) The Inspector-General of Prisons (where such office exists) shall be a visitor ex officio of all the asylums within the limits of his jurisdiction.

Monthly inspection by visitors.

29. Two or more of the visitors, one of whom shall be a medical officer, shall, once at least in every month, together inspect every part of the asylum of which they are visitors, and see and examine, as far as circumstances will permit, every lunatic and boarder therein, and the order and certificate for the admission of every lunatic admitted since the last visitation of the visitors, and shall enter in a book to be kept for that purpose any remarks which they may deem proper in regard to the management and condition of the asylum and the inmates thereof.

Inspection of criminal lunatics by Inspector-General or visitors.

30. (1) When any person is [1][detained] under the provisions of section 466 or section 471 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898 [2][or under the provisions of section 103-A of the Indian Army Act, 1911] the Inspector-General of Prisons, if such person is [1][detained] in a jail or the visitors of the asylum or any two of them, if he is [1][detained] in an asylum, may visit him in order to ascertain his state of mind; and he shall be visited once at least in every six months by such Inspector-General or by two of such visitors as aforesaid; and such Inspector-General or visitors shall make a special report as to the state of mind of such person to the authority, under whose order he is [1][detained].

(2) The Provincial Government may empower the officer in charge of the jail in which such person may be [1][detained] to discharge all or any of the functions of the Inspector-General under sub-section (1).

Discharge of lunatics.

Order of discharge from asylum by visitors.

31. (1) Three of the visitors of any asylum, of whom one shall be a medical officer, may, by order in writing, direct the discharge of any person detained in such asylum, and such person shall thereupon be discharged:

Provided that no order under this sub-section shall be made in the case of a person detained under a reception order under section 12, or, in the case of a criminal lunatic, otherwise than as provided by section 30 of the Prisoners Act, 1900.

(2) When such order is made, if the person is detained under the order of any public authority, notice of the order of discharge shall be immediately communicated to such authority.

Discharge of lunatics in other cases and of European military lunatics.

32. (1) A lunatic detained in an asylum under a reception order, made on petition, shall be discharged if the person on whose petition the reception order was made so applies in writing to the person in charge of the asylum:

Provided that no lunatic shall be discharged under the provisions of sub-section (1) if the officer in charge of the asylum certifies in writing that the lunatic is dangerous and unfit to be at large.

(2) A person detained in an asylum under a reception order made under section 12 shall be detained therein until he is discharged therefrom in accordance with the military [3][,naval] [4][or air force] regulations in force for the time being, or until the officer making the order applies for his transfer to the military [3][,naval] [4][or air force] authorities in view to his removal to England.

(3) Whenever it appears to the officer in charge of an asylum that the discharge of a person therein detained under an order made under section 12 is necessary either on account of his recovery, or for any other purpose, such person shall be brought before the visitors of the asylum, and on the visitors recording their opinion that the discharge should be made, the General or other Officer commanding the division, district, brigade or force, or other officer authorized to order the admission of such persons into an asylum, shall forthwith direct him to be discharged, and such discharge shall take place in accordance with the military [3][,naval] [4][or air force] regulations in force for the time being.

Order of discharge on undertaking of relative for due care of the lunatic.

33. When any relative or friend of a lunatic detained in any asylum under the provisions of sections 14, 15 or 17 is desirous that such lunatic shall be delivered over to his care and custody, he may make application to the authority under whose order the lunatic is detained, and such authority, if it thinks fit in consultation with the person in charge of the asylum and with the visitors or with one of them being a medical officer and upon such relative or friend entering into a bond with or without sureties for such sum of money as the said authority thinks fit conditioned that such lunatic shall be properly taken care of and shall be prevented from doing injury to himself or to others may make an order for the discharge of such lunatic, and such lunatic shall thereupon be discharged.

Discharge of person subsequently found on inquisition not to be of unsound mind.

34. If any lunatic detained in an asylum on a reception order made under sections 7, 10, 14, 15 or 17 is subsequently found on an inquisition under Chapter IV or Chapter V not to be of unsound mind and incapable of managing himself and his affairs, the person in charge of the asylum shall forthwith, on the production of a certified copy of such finding, discharge the alleged lunatic from the asylum.

Removal of lunatics.

Removal of lunatics and criminal lunatics.

35. Escape and recapture.

Order to justify detention and recapture after escape.

36. Every person received into an asylum under any such order as is required by this Act, may be detained therein until he is removed or discharged as authorized by law, and in case of escape may, by virtue of such order, be retaken by any police-officer or by the person in charge of such asylum, or any officer or servant belonging thereto, or any other person authorized in that behalf by the said person in charge, and conveyed to and received and detained in such asylum:

Provided that in the case of a lunatic not being a criminal lunatic or a lunatic in respect of whom a reception order has been made under section 12, the power to retake such escaped lunatic under this section shall be exercisable only for a period of one month from the date of his escape.

PART III.

JUDICIAL INQUISITION AS TO LUNACY.

CHAPTER IV.

PROCEEDINGS IN LUNACY IN PRESIDENCY-TOWNS.

Inquisition.

Jurisdiction in lunacy in Presidency-towns.

37. The Courts having jurisdiction under this Chapter shall be the High Courts of Judicature at Fort William, Madras and Bombay.

Court may order inquisition as to persons alleged to be insane.

38. (1) The Court may upon application by order direct an inquisition whether a person subject to the jurisdiction of the Court who is alleged to be lunatic, is of unsound mind and incapable of managing himself and his affairs.

(2) Such order may also contain directions for inquiries concerning the nature of the property belonging to the alleged lunatic, the persons who are his relatives, the time during which he has been of unsound mind, or such other matters as to the Court may seem proper.

SECS. 37 AND 38: SCOPE OF SECTIONS.—The Lunacy Act contemplates the question of lunacy or sanity at the time of the enquiry which shall not extend to the ascertainment of the period at which the alleged lunatic first became of unsound mind. 27 I.C. 459=19 C.W.N. 45. See also 4 L. 1=73 I.C. 696=1924 L. 56. Time of commencement of lunacy is beyond scope of inquiry. 13 M.I.A. 519. As to finding of lunacy in case of lucid intervals, see 18 M. 472. In order to find a person to be a lunatic the incapacity to manage his affairs must be on account of unsoundness of mind. 1905 A.W.N. 8; 4 C.L.J. 115. Where D had two places of residence, one in Patna and the other in Calcutta and his wife instituted proceedings for his inquisition in Patna, held, that as resident in Calcutta D was subject to the jurisdiction of the High Court and that therefore the District Court of Patna had no jurisdiction to entertain the proceedings. 48 C. 577=65 I.C. 57=25 C. W.N. 178=1921 C. 309=32 C.L.J. 314.

INQUISITION PROCEEDINGS.—A Judge has got discretion under this Act to stop proceedings in an inquisition for proper grounds; a petitioner is not entitled to have the enquiry conducted so long as he is able to tender witnesses for examination. 33 I. C. 857=3 L.W. 402. Where a person has been found a lunatic under the Act the presumption is that he continues to be of unsound mind until the contrary is shown. 3 L.W. 290=33 I.C. 578.

SEC. 38.—The Original Side of the Calcutta High Court has no jurisdiction to direct an inquisition or appoint a guardian of person or property in the case of an Indian not resident in Calcutta. 58 C. 919= 133 I.C. 188=1932 C. 91. In an application for an order directing an inquisition under the Lunacy Act, what has to be found is that the person is of unsound mind and that the unsoundness of mind is such as to make him incapable of managing his affairs. The Court must hold that both unsoundness of mind and incapacity to manage his affairs are present and that the latter is due to the former. 58 M. 281=1935 M. 91=152 I.C. 882=40 L.W. 710=67 M.L.J. 797.

SECS. 38 AND 41.—Court's duty before ordering inquisition. To have an inquisition into the state of health, the state of mind, the state of property and the general capacity of a person is a thing which affects that person so prejudicially that it ought not to be taken except it be first ordered on a careful consideration of evidence. 28 C.W.

Application by whom to be made.

39. Application for such inquisition may be made by any relative of the alleged lunatic, or by the Advocate-General.

Notice of time and place of inquisition.

40. (1) Notice shall be given to the alleged lunatic of the time and place at which it is proposed to hold the inquisition.

(2) If it appears that personal service on the alleged lunatic would be ineffectual, the Court may direct such substituted service of the notice as it thinks fit.

(3) The Court may also direct a copy of such notice to be served upon any relative of the alleged lunatic and upon any other person to whom in the opinion of the Court notice of the application should be given.

Powers of Court in respect of attendance and examination of lunatic.

41. (1) The Court may require the alleged lunatic to attend at such convenient time and place as it may appoint for the purpose of being personally examined by the Court, or by any person from whom the Court may desire to have a report of the mental capacity and condition of such alleged lunatic.

(2) The Court may likewise make an order authorizing any person or persons therein named to have access, to the alleged lunatic for the purpose of a personal examination.

Rules respecting attendance and examination of females alleged to be lunatic.

42 The attendance and examination of the alleged lunatic under the provisions of section 41 shall, if the alleged lunatic be a woman who, according to the manners and customs of the country, ought not to be compelled to appear in public, be regulated by the law and practice for the examination of such persons in other civil cases.

Power to direct District Court to make inquisition in certain cases.

43 (1) If the alleged lunatic is not within the local limits of the jurisdiction of the Court, and the inquisition cannot conveniently be made in the manner hereinbefore provided, the Court may direct the inquisition to be made before the District Court within whose local jurisdiction the alleged lunatic may be; and such District Court shall accordingly proceed to make such inquisition in the same manner as if the alleged lunatic were subject to its jurisdiction, and shall certify its finding upon the matters of inquisition to the Court directing the inquisition.

(2) The record of evidence taken upon the inquisition shall be transmitted, together with any remarks the Court may think fit to make thereon, to the Court by which the inquisition was directed.

SEC. 41.—Cross-examination of a lunatic as witness is not contemplated by this section. 7 W.R. 426; 8 A.L.J. 179. Non-appearance of a lunatic is no ground for striking off the case from the file. (Ibid.)

SEC. 42.—S. 42 lays down that the attendance and examination of the alleged lunatic, if she be a woman who according to the manners and customs of the country ought not to be compelled to appear in public shall be regulated by the law and practice for the examination of such persons, in other civil cases. The section in terms refers only to the attendance and examination of the lunatic in Court but the principle would equally apply to her attendance and examination before a doctor. The proper course for the Court under such circumstances would be to have the lady examined by a lady doctor. 7 O.W.N. 483=1930 O. 301.

SEC. 43.—See 3 Agra Mis. 3; 11 W.R. 109.

Amendment of finding of District Court if defective or insufficient in form.

44. If the finding of the District Court appears to the Court directing the inquisition to be defective or insufficient in point of form, it may either amend the same or refer it back to the Court which made the inquisition to be amended.

Proceedings on finding of Court.

45. The finding of the Court on the inquisition or the finding of the District Court to which the inquisition may have been referred under the provisions of section 43 with such amendments as may be made under the provisions of section 44, as the case may be, shall have the same effect, and be proceeded on in the same manner in regard to the appointment of a guardian of the person and a manager of the estate of the lunatic as the findings referred to in section 12 of the Lunacy (Supreme Courts) Act, 1858, immediately before the commencement of this Act.

Judicial powers over person and estate of lunatic.

Custody of lunatics and management of their estates

46. (1) The Court may make orders for the custody of lunatics so found by inquisition and the management of their estates.

(2) When upon the inquisition it is specially found that the person to whom the inquisition relates is of unsound mind so as to be incapable of managing his affairs, but that he is capable of managing himself, and is not dangerous to himself or to others, the Court may make such orders as it thinks fit for the management of the estate of the lunatic including proper provision for the maintenance of the lunatic and of such members of his family as are dependent on him for maintenance, but it shall not be necessary to make any order as to the custody of the person of the lunatic.

Powers of Manager in respect of management of lunatic's estates.

47. The Court, on the appointment of a manager of the estate of a lunatic, may direct by the order of appointment, or by any subsequent order, that such manager shall have such powers for the management of the estate as to the Court may seem necessary and proper, reference being had to the nature of the property, whether movable or immovable, of which the estate may consist:

Provided that no manager so appointed shall without the permission of the Court—

(a) mortgage, charge or transfer by sale, gift, exchange or otherwise, any immovable property of the lunatic; or (b) lease any such property for a term exceeding five years.

Such permission may be granted subject to any condition or restriction which the Court thinks fit to impose.

Power to make order concerning any matter connected with the lunacy.

48. The Court may, on application made to it by petition concerning any matter whatsoever connected with the lunatic or his estate, make such order, subject to the provisions of this Chapter, respecting the application, as in the circumstances it thinks fit.

SEC. 48.—The language of S. 48 is not mandatory but permissive. By the use of the word "may" a discretion is given to the Court to make an order under the section. The words "concerning any matter whatsoever connected with the lunatic or his estate" are very wide, and empower the Court by the proceedings mentioned in the section to decide a question as to whether the properties referred to in the application before the Court form part of the estate of the lunatic. The intention of the legislature is to provide a summary procedure in regard to matters concerning lunatics and their estates. The Court should, however,

The Court may, if it appears to be just or for the lunatic's benefit order that any property, movable or immovable, of the lunatic, and whether in possession, reversion, remainder, or contingency, be sold, charged, mortgaged, dealt with or otherwise disposed of as may seem most expedient for the purpose of raising or securing or repaying with or without interest money to be applied or which has been applied to all or any of the following purposes, namely:—

(1) the payment of the lunatic's debts or engagements;

(2) the discharge of any incumbrance on his property;

(3) the payment of any debt or expenditure incurred for the lunatic's maintenance or otherwise for his benefit;

(4) the payment of or provision for the expenses of his future maintenance and the maintenance of such members of his family as are dependent on him for maintenance, including the expenses of his removal to Europe, if he shall be so removed, and all expenses incidental thereto;

(5) the payment of the costs of any inquiry under this Chapter, and of any costs incurred by order or under the authority of the Court.

Execution of conveyances and powers by manager under order of Court.

50. (1) The manager of the lunatic's estate shall in the name and on behalf of the lunatic execute all such conveyances and instruments of transfer relative to any sale, mortgage or other disposition of his estate as the Court may order.

(2) Such manager shall, in like manner, under the order of the Court exercise all powers whatsoever vested in a lunatic, whether the same are vested in him for his own benefit or in the character of trustee or guardian.

Court may order performance of contract.

51. Where a person, having contracted to sell or otherwise dispose of his estate or any part thereof, afterwards becomes lunatic, the Court may, if the contract is such as the Court thinks ought to be performed, direct the manager of the estate to execute such conveyances and to do such other acts in fulfilment of contract as it shall think proper.

Dissolution and disposal of property of partnership on a member becoming lunatic.

52. (1) Where a person, being a member of a partnership firm, is found to be a lunatic, the Court may, on the application of the other partners, or of any person who appears to the Court to be entitled to require the same, dissolve the partnership.

(2) Upon such dissolution or upon a dissolution by decree of Court or otherwise by due course of law, the manager of the estate may, in the name and on behalf of the lunatic, join with the other partners in disposing of the partnership property upon such terms, and shall do all such acts for carrying into effect the dissolution of the partnership, as the Court shall think proper.

The use of the word "petition" in S. 48 of the Act is used in contradistinction to a "suit" and indicates that matters properly the subject of the provisions of the section can be brought before the Court by a proceeding other than a suit. The Court having been seized of the matter regarding the lunatic and his estate by means of an original petition under which it is found that the person is of unsound mind and incapable of managing his affairs, it is not necessary that any further proceedings arising in respect of the matter should have to be prosecuted by means of an original petition. 53. Where a lunatic has been engaged in business the Court may, if it appears to be for the lunatic's benefit that the business premises should be disposed of, order the manager of the estate to sell and dispose of the same, and the moneys arising from such sale shall be applied in such manner as the Court may direct.

Manager may dispose of lease.

54. Where a lunatic is entitled to a lease or under-lease, and it appears to be for the benefit of his estate that it should be disposed of, the manager of the estate may, by order of the Court surrender, assign or otherwise dispose of the same to such person for such valuable or nominal consideration, and upon such terms, as the Court thinks fit.

Assumption of charge by Court of Wards of land belonging to a lunatic in certain cases.

55. If a lunatic is possessed of any immovable property situate beyond the local limits of the jurisdiction of the Court which by the law in force in the Province wherein such property is situated, subjects the proprietor, if disqualified, to the jurisdiction of the Court of Wards, the said Court of Wards may assume the charge of such property and manage the same according to the law for the time being in force for such management:

Provided that—

(1) in such case, no further proceedings in respect of the lunacy shall be taken under any such law, nor shall it be competent to the Court of Wards or to any Collector to appoint a guardian of the person of the said lunatic or a manager of the estate except of the immovable property which so subjects the proprietor as aforesaid;

(2) the surplus of the income of such property, after providing for the payment of the Government revenue and expenses of management, shall be disposed of from time to time in such manner as the High Court may direct;

(3) nothing contained in this section shall affect the powers given to the High Court by sections 49, 50 and 51 or (except so far as relates to the management of the said immovable property which so subjects the proprietor as aforesaid) the powers given by any other section.

Power to apply property for lunatic's maintenance without appointing manager in certain cases.

56. (1) If it appears to the Court, having regard to the situation and condition in life of the lunatic and his family and the other circumstances of the case to be expedient that his property should be made available for his or their maintenance in a direct and inexpensive manner it may, instead of appointing a manager of the estate, order that the property if money or if of any other description the produce thereof, when realized, be paid to such person as the Court may think fit, to be applied for the purpose aforesaid.

Where any such stock or Government securities or share in a company is or are standing in the name of, or vested in, any person residing out of British India and not in any part of the United Kingdom, the Court upon being satisfied that such person has been declared lunatic, and that his personal estate has been vested in a person appointed for the management thereof, according to the law of the place where he is residing, may order some fit person to make such transfer of the stock, securities or shares or of any part thereof, to or into the name of the person so appointed or otherwise, and also to receive and pay over the dividends and proceeds as the Court thinks fit.

General.

Power to apply property for lunatic's maintenance in case of temporary lunacy.

59. If it appears to the Court that the unsoundness of mind of a lunatic is in its nature temporary, and that it is expedient to make temporary provision for his maintenance or for the maintenance of such members of his family as are dependent on him for their maintenance, the Court may, in like manner as under section 56, direct his property or a sufficient part of it to be applied for the purpose aforesaid.

Proceedings in lunacy to cease or to be set aside if Court finds that the unsoundness of mind has ceased.

60 (1) When any person has been found under this Chapter to be of unsound mind, and it is subsequently shown to the Court that there is reason to believe that such unsoundness of mind has ceased, the Court may make an order for inquiring whether such person is still of unsound mind and incapable of managing himself and his affairs.

(2) The inquiry shall be conducted as far as may be in the manner prescribed in this Chapter for an inquisition into the unsoundness of mind of an alleged lunatic; and if it is found that the unsoundness of mind has ceased, the Court shall order all proceedings in the lunacy to cease or to be set aside on such terms and conditions as to the Court may seem fit.

Power of Court to make rules.

SEC. 62.—Adjudication of lunatic, when made. 30 C.W.N. 180=1926 C. 155. Under S. 65 it is open to the Courts to find that a man is of unsound mind so as to be incapable of managing himself and is not dangerous to himself or to others. Both conditions must be satisfied before a man can be found to be a lunatic under the Act. The mere fact that a man's mental condition is weak will not enable such an order being passed. 90 I.C. 878=1926 C.

Power of District Court to institute inquisition as to persons alleged to be lunatic.

Courts mentioned in section 37 is possessed of property and is alleged to be a lunatic, the District Court, within whose jurisdiction such person is residing may, upon application, by order direct an inquisition for the purpose of ascertaining whether such person is of unsound mind and incapable of managing himself and his affairs.

155. It is indubitable that an order directing an inquisition into a man's state of mind is a very serious thing and that such an order is intended by the statute to be a judicial determination carefully made upon adequate materials. It will not be wise to make such an order without serving a notice upon the lunatic first. In such an application the Judge should then consider carefully whether the case is one which calls for an order directing an inquisition. 54 C. 836 =1927 C. 636. Where lunatic is served with notice, inquisition can proceed ex parte, even though the lunatic cannot be traced thereafter. See 96 I.C. 956=1926 S. 223. Orders for the custody of lunatic and for the management of their estate do not come into question at all until there has been a finding of lunacy as a result of an inquisition. There is no question of interim orders on such matters pending the determination as to the person's state of mind. Where notices were issued on a petition for inquisition and on the date of hearing evidence was recorded and orders were passed simultaneously ordering an inquisition and declaring the person to be a lunatic. Held, that the procedure adopted was wrong in law. 54 C. 836=103 I.C. 725=1927 C. 636. Applicants in cases under S. 62 should come into Court fortified with a valid medical certificate of insanity. 96 I. C. 778=24 A.L.J. 906=49 A. 3. Where the fact of lunacy is bein disputed, Court should not have its conclusions on mere personal observation, but follow the procedure laid down in this section. 27 Punj.L.R. 649= 1926 L. 586. [See also cases under Ss. 38 and 41, supra.] An inquisition under S. 62 once started must be prosecuted to the very end. Before such an inquisition is ordered or started, there ought to be a careful and thorough preliminary enquiry and the Judge ought to satisfy himself that there is a real ground for an inquisition. An application for an inquisition should ordinarily be supported by affidavit or by examination on oath of the applicant and by a medical certificate of some doctors as to the condition of the alleged lunatic. It would also be desirable in many cases that the Judge should seek some personal interview with the alleged lunatic with a view to satisfy himself that there is a real ground for supposing the existence of an abnormal mental condition which might bring the person within the Lunacy Act. 42 A. 504=58 I.C. 617; 49 A. 3=1927 A. 225 (1). On the section, see also 29 M. 310.

JURISDICTION.—The alleged lunatic was a person ordinarily residing within the District Court of Nadia where he had his house and family. In 1927, however, he was for sometime living temporarily in Calcutta for the purpose of his treatment and during that time the Chief Presidency Magistrate of Calcutta had passed an order directing the authorities of the mental hospital to receive the alleged lunatic. In 1928 an application was made to the District Court, Nadia, for an inquisition under the Lunacy Act. Held, that at the date of the application the alleged lunatic was not subject to the jurisdiction of the High Court of Calcutta so as to take away the jurisdiction of the District Court to make an order for inquisition. 35 C.W.N. 543=134 I.C. 1135=1931 C. 711. Where a lunatic is a permanent resident within the jurisdiction of a particular District Court and has properties in that district and his wife applies to the District Court for the appointment of a person as manager of his properties, that District Judge has jurisdiction to take cognizance of the application, and to direct inquisition under S. 62, notwithstanding the fact that the lunatic temporarily resides in a mental hospital outside the jurisdiction of that Court. 1929 C. 512. Temporary removal of a lunatic to the mofussil does not oust the jurisdiction of the High Court over the lunatic and an application under S. 62 in relation to such lunatic must be made on the Original Side of the High Court. 48 C. 577=1921 C. 309 =57 I.C. 768=32 C.L.J. 314. A temporary removal vests jurisdiction over the lunatic in the District Court in whose jurisdiction he is removed unless the lunatic is at the same time subject to the jurisdiction of the High Court. It is not necessary that the property of the lunatic must be within the jurisdiction of the District Judge. 48 C. 577=1921 C. 309.

SECS. 62 AND 65.—Where an application is made to ascertain whether certain persons are of sound mind by an inquisition, the Judge should form his independent judgment on the point. After examining the parties he may reject the petition in limine if he thinks that no prima facie case for enquiry is disclosed. Or he may after examining the pleadings of the parties or as a result of his own personal interview with the alleged lunatic come to the conclusion

Lunacy.

Application by whom to be made.

63. (1) Application for such inquisition may be made by any relative of the alleged lunatic or by any public Curator appointed under the Succession (Property Protection) Act, 1841 (hereinafter referred to as the Curator), or by the Government Pleader, as defined in the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908, or if the property of the alleged lunatic consists in whole or in part of land or any interest in land, by the Collector of the District in which it is situate.

(2) If the property or any part thereof is of such a description that it would by the law in force in any Province where such property is situate subject the proprietor, if disqualified, to the jurisdiction of the Court of Wards, the application may be made by the Collector on behalf of the Court of Wards.

Regulation of proceedings of District Courts.

64. The provisions of sections 40, 41 and 42 shall regulate the proceedings of the District Court with regard to the matters to which they relate.

Inquisition by District Court and finding thereon.

65. (1) The District Court, if it thinks fit, may appoint two or more persons to act as assessors to the Court in the said inquisition.

(2) Upon the completion of the inquisition, the Court shall determine whether the alleged lunatic is of unsound mind and incapable of managing himself and his affairs or may come to a special finding that such alleged lunatic is of unsound mind so as to be incapable of managing his affairs, but that he is capable of managing himself and is not dangerous to himself or to others.

Inquisition by subordinate Court on commission issued by District Court and proceedings thereon.

66. (1) If the alleged lunatic resides at a distance of more than fifty miles from the place where the District Court is held to which the application is made, the said Court may issue a commission to any subordinate Court to make the inquisition, and such subordinate Court shall thereupon conduct the inquisition in the manner hereinbefore provided in this Chapter.

that there are grounds for supposing that the mental condition is such as to bring him within the Lunacy Act. In that case he must order an "inquisition" and proceed in the manner mentioned in S. 65 (a). It is only when these findings have been arrived at as a result of the inquisition that the jurisdiction of the Court to proceed further with the case arises. In determining these questions the paramount consideration is the benefit of the luantic. 122 I.C. 570=1930 L. 289.

SECS. 63 AND 80: "CURATOR"—MEANING OF.—The word "curator" is used in the Lunacy Act in the sense of a public curator appointed under the Succession (Property Protection) Act. FINDING AS TO LUNACY—INTERFERENCE BY HIGH COURT.—A person who is not sufficiently intelligent to manage his own affairs, is not necessarily of unsound mind. Under S. 65 there must be a finding that the alleged lunatic is of unsound mind and incapable of managing himself and his affairs. The High Court has power to interfere to correct a wrong finding under S. 65 (2). 30 N.L.R. 224=148 I.C. 462=1934 N. 27.

SECS. 65 AND 67.—For purposes of S. 65 the degree of unsoundness of mind of a person has to be found in relation to his capacity to manage the affairs of his estate. Where it is found that a person could not look after his property, but could at best only look to his physical needs, a Court would be stultifying the scope of the Act if it deprived such a person of the protection that law gives him. A suitable person should be appointed for his estate as contemplated by S. 67 (2). I.L.R. (1939) All. 510=1939 All. 333.

(2) On the completion of the inquisition, the subordinate Court shall transmit the record of its proceedings with the opinions of the assessors if assessors have been appointed, and its own opinion on the case; and the District Court shall thereupon proceed to dispose of the application in the manner provided in section 65, sub-section (2):

Provided that the District Court may direct the subordinate Court to make such further or other inquiries as it thinks fit before disposing of the application.

Judicial powers over person and estate of lunatic.

Custody of lunatics and management of their estates

67. (1) The Court may make orders for the custody of lunatics so found by inquisition and the management of their estates.

(2) When upon the inquisition it is specially found that the person to whom the inquisition relates is of unsound mind so as to be incapable of managing his affairs, but that he is capable of managing himself and is not dangerous to himself or to others, the Court may make such orders as it thinks fit for the management of the estate of the lunatic including proper provisions for the maintenance of the lunatic and of such members of his family as are dependent on him for maintenance, but it shall not be necessary to make any order as to the custody of the person of the lunatic.

Court of Wards to be authorized in certain cases to take charge of estate of lunatic.

68. If the estate of a lunatic so found or any part thereof consists of property which, by the law for the time being in force, subjects the proprietor, if disqualified, to the jurisdiction of the Court of Wards, the Court of Wards shall be authorized to take charge of the same.

Power to direct Collector to take charge of person and estate of lunatic in certain cases.

69. (1) If the estate of a lunatic so found consists in whole or in part of land or any interest in land, but is not of such a nature that it would subject the proprietor, if disqualified, to the jurisdiction of the Court of Wards, the District Court may direct the Collector to take charge of the person and estate of the lunatic:

Provided that no such order shall be made without the consent of the Collector previously obtained.

(2) The Collector shall thereupon appoint a manager of the estate, and may appoint a guardian of the person of the lunatic.

Control over proceedings of Collector.

70. All proceedings of the Collector in regard to the person or estate of a lunatic under this Chapter shall be subject to the control of the Provincial Government or of such authority as it may appoint in this behalf.

The right of action in respect of such rent would rest in the heir entitled to take the property after the death of the lunatic. Whether or not the manager appointed under S. 67 would have power to realise assets outstanding at the time of the lunatic's death in respect of the claim arising subsequent to the death of the lunatic, the Court has no jurisdiction to sanction the institution of proceedings. 56 L W. 129=A.I.R. 1943 Mad. 265=(1943) 1 M.L.J. 22 (2). Power of District Court to appoint guardian and manager and take security from manager.

71. (1) In all other cases the District Court shall appoint a manager of the estate of the lunatic and may appoint a guardian of his person:

Provided that a District Court may, instead of appointing a manager of the estate of a lunatic, exercise any of the powers conferred on the High Court under sections 56 and 59.

(2) Any person who has been appointed by the District Court or Collector to manage the estate of a lunatic shall, if so required, enter into a bond in such form and with such sureties as to the Court or the Collector, as the case may be, may seem fit, engaging duly to account for what he may receive in respect of the property of the lunatic.

Restriction on appointment of legal heir of lunatic to be guardian of his person.

72. The legal heir of a lunatic shall not be appointed to be the guardian of the person of such lunatic unless the Court or the Collector, as the case may be, for reasons to be recorded in writing, considers that such an appointment is for the benefit of the lunatic.

Remuneration of managers and guardians.

73. A guardian of the person of a lunatic or a manager of his estate appointed under this Chapter shall be paid such allowance, if any, as the Court or the Collector, as the case may be, thinks fit for his care and pains in the execution of his duties.

Duties of guardian.

74. (1) The person appointed to be guardian of a lunatic's person shall have the care of his person and maintenance.

(2) When a distinct guardian is appointed, the manager shall pay to the guardian such allowance as may be fixed by the District Court or the Collector, as the case may be, for the maintenance of the lunatic and such members of his family as are dependent on him for their maintenance.

Powers of manager.

75. (1) Every manager of the estate of a lunatic appointed as aforesaid may exercise the same powers in the management of the estate as might have been exercised by the proprietor if not a lunatic, and may collect and pay all just claims, debts and liabilities due to or by the estate of the lunatic:

Payment into public treasury and investment of proceeds of estate.

78. All sums received by a manager on account of any estate in excess of what may be required for the current expenses of the lunatic or of the estate, shall be paid into the public treasury on account of the estate, and shall be invested from time to time in any of the securities specified in section 20 of the Indian Trusts Act, 1882, unless the Court or the Collector, as the case may be, for reasons to be recorded in writing, directs that such sums be in the interests of the lunatic otherwise invested or applied.

Relative may sue for an account.

79. Any relative of a lunatic may with the leave of the District Court sue for an account from any manager appointed under this Chapter, or from any such person after his removal from office or trust, or from his legal repre-

SEC. 77.—Where accounts filed by manager of lunatic's estate are impugned under this section, some kind of inquiry and record should be made. Reasons also should be shown in passing orders, as the orders are appealable. 161 I.C. 591 (2)=1936 Rang. 51.

SECS. 77 AND 83.—Order passed under S. 77 simply to the effect that the accounts are passed, implies that the objections to the accounts are rejected, and hence appeal lies under S. 83. 161 I.C. 591 (2)=1936 Rang. 51.

SECS. 77 AND 79: CLAIMS FOR ACCOUNTS AGAINST MANAGER—APPLICATION OR SUIT.—Where a large number of items of expenditure by the manager of the estate of a lunatic are questioned and it appears to be also necessary to inquire into the amount of profits likely to have been realised from the estate, it is not a matter that can be enquired into conveniently by the District Judge in an application, and leave should be granted to file a suit against the manager for account or against his legal representatives as the case may be. (1944) 2 M.L.J. 377=1945 Mad. 89.

SEC. 79: SUIT AGAINST SURETY FOR MANAGER—LEAVE OF COURT—NECESSITY—ASSIGNMENT OF SECURITY BOND—DUTY OF COURT.—No sanction is necessary to sue a surety, who has executed a security sentative in case of his death, in respect of any estate then or formerly under his care or management or of any sums of money or other property received by him on account of such estate.

Removal of managers and guardians.

80. (1) The District Court, for any sufficient cause, may remove any manager appointed by it not being the Curator, and may appoint such Curator or any other fit person in his place, and may compel the person so removed to make over the property in his hands to his successor and to account to such successor for all money received or disbursed by him.

(2) The Court may also for any sufficient cause, remove any guardian of the person of the lunatic appointed by it, and may appoint any other fit person in his place.

(3) The Collector, for any sufficient cause, may remove any manager of the estate of a lunatic or guardian of the person of a lunatic appointed by him and may appoint any other fit person in place of such manager or guardian; and the District Court, on the application of the Collector, may compel any manager removed under this section to make over the property and all accounts in his hands to his successor and to account to such successor for all money received or disbursed by him.

Penalty on manager for refusing to deliver accounts or property.

81. The District Court may impose a fine not exceeding five hundred rupees on any manager of the estate of a lunatic who wilfully neglects or refuses to deliver his accounts or any property in his hands within the time fixed by the Court, and may realize such fine as if it were a sum due under a decree of the Court, and may also commit the recusant to the civil jail until he delivers such accounts or property.

Proceedings in lunacy to cease or to be set aside if Court finds that the unsoundness of mind has ceased.

82. (1) When any person has been found under this Chapter to be of unsound mind, and it is subsequently shown to the District Court that there is reason to believe that such unsoundness of mind has ceased, such Court may make an order for inquiring whether such person is still of unsound mind and incapable of managing himself and his affairs.

bond along with the manager. Nor is there any express provision in the Act for the assignment of the security as in cases under the Guardians and Wards Act. If there are sufficient circumstances to indicate that some amount is likely to be due from the manager to the estate, the proper course would be to assign the security bond even before the suit is filed, if there be a prima facie case, as it would be necessary and desirable to have the matter decided in the presence of the sureties and the manager or his legal representatives as to whether any amount had become payable from the manager to the estate of the lunatic. (1944) 2 M.L.J. 377=1945 Mad. 89.

SEC. 81: ORDER IMPOSING FINE FOR CONTUMACIOUS CONDUCT—IF "DECREE" UNDER SCH. II, ART. 2, COURT-FEES ACT.—Although the fine imposed on a guardian of a lunatic by the Court for contumacious conduct under S. 81 can be recovered as if it were due under a decree of Court, it is doubtful if the order imposing the fine can be said to have the force of decree under Sch. II, Art. 2, Court-Fees Act, for the purposes of appeal. 150 I.C. 664=36 P.L.R. 179=1934 L. 853 (1).

SEC. 82.—The District Judge under this Act is partly a judicial and partly an administrative authority. The enquiry into the state of mind of a person affected is to satisfy his own mind, the relatives to whom notices are issued, being merely amici curiae and not parties to the proceedings. They are allowed to be heard and have no right to be heard. 36 I.C. 705=19 O.C. 353. Where material is placed before a Judge to show that a lunatic had come to his normal soundness of mind, the Judge should proceed with the inquiry prescribed by law irrespective of the fact that certain proceedings were pending in Court relating to his rights as if he were a lunatic. 88 I.C. 580 =1925 L. 533. It is sufficient to invite the application of S. 88 if the father as the manager of a joint Hindu family is liable to maintain his son as a member thereof. In that case he is a person legally bound to maintain the lunatic within the meaning of the section and it does not matter for the purposes of the section whether under the

(2) The inquiry shall, as far as may be, be conducted in the same manner as is prescribed in this Chapter for an inquisition into the unsoundness of mind of an alleged lunatic, and if it is found that the unsoundness of mind has ceased, the Court shall order all proceedings in the lunacy to cease or to be set aside on such terms and conditions as to the Court may seem fit.

Appeals.

83. An appeal shall lie to the High Court from any order made by a District Court, under this Chapter.

MISCELLANEOUS.

CHAPTER VI.

ESTABLISHMENT OF ASYLUMS.

Provincial Government may establish or license the establishment of asylums.

84. The Provincial Government may establish or licence the establishment of asylums at such places as it thinks fit [1][if it is satisfied that provision has been or will be made for the curative treatment therein of persons suffering from mental diseases].

Power to cancel licence if provision for curative treatment is insufficient.

[2][84-A. If in any licensed asylum no provision for curative treatment has been made, or the Provincial Government considers that the provision made is insufficient, the Provincial Government may require the person in charge of the asylum to take such measures for making or supplementing such provision as it may deem necessary, and, if such person does not comply with the requisition within a reasonable time, the Provincial Government may revoke the licence.]

Provision for admission of lunatics in asylums outside a province.

[3][85. The Magistrate or Courts exercising jurisdiction in any province may send lunatics or any class of lunatics to any asylum situate in any other province in accordance with any general or special order of the Provincial Government made in that behalf with the consent of the Provincial Government of such other province.]

CHAPTER VII.

EXPENSES OF LUNATICS.

Payment of cost of maintenance in licensed asylums in certain cases by Government.

86. (1) When any lunatic is admitted to a licensed asylum under a reception order or an order under section 25, and no engagement has been taken from the friends or relatives of the lnatic or order made by the Court for the payment of expenses under the provisions of this Act, the cost of maintenance of such lunatic shall, subject to the provision of any law for the time being in force, be paid by the Government to the person in charge of such asylum.

(2) The paymaster of the military circle within which any asylum is situated shall pay to the officer in charge of such asylum the cost of maintenance

Publication of rules.

92. All rules made under section 91 shall be published in the Official Gazette, and shall thereupon have effect as if enacted in this Act.

CHAPTER IX.

SUPPLEMENTAL PROVISIONS.

Penalty for improper reception or detention of lunatic.

93. Any person who—

(a) otherwise than in accordance with the provisions of this Act receives or detains a lunatic or alleged lunatic in an asylum, or

(b) for gain detains two or more lunatics in any place not being an asylum, shall be punishable with imprisonment which may extend to two years or with fine or with both.

Provision as to bonds

94. The provisions of Chapter XLII of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898, shall, so far as may be, apply to bonds taken under this Act.

Pension of lunatic payable by Government.

95. (1) When any sum is payable in respect of pay, pension, gratuity, or other similar allowance to any person [2][by the Secretary of State or any Government in British India] and the person to whom the sum is payable is certified by a Magistrate to be a lunatic, the Government officer under whose authority such sum would be payable if the payee were not a lunatic may pay so much of the said sum as he thinks fit to the person having charge of the lunatic, and may pay the surplus, if any, or such part thereof, as he thinks fit for the maintenance of such members of the lunatic's family as are dependent on him for maintenance.

(2) [3][The Secretary of State or, as the case may be, the Government concerned] shall be discharged of all liability in respect of any amounts paid in accordance with this section.

Use of forms in Schedule.

96. Subject to any rules, the forms set forth in the First Schedule, with such variation as the circumstances of each case may require, shall be used for the respective purposes therein mentioned, and if used shall be sufficient.

Protection to persons acting under Act.

SCHEDULE II.

[Repealed by Act XVII of 1914.]

THE INDIAN LUNACY (MADRAS AMENDMENT) ACT (XV OF 1938).

[See Madras Act XII of 1943].

An Act further to amend the Indian Lunacy Act, 1912, in its application to the Province of Madras for certain purposes.

WHEREAS it is expedient further to amend the Indian Lunacy Act, 1912, in its application to the Province of Madras for the purposes hereinafter appearing; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Short title.

1. This Act may be called THE INDIAN LUNACY (MADRAS AMENDMENT) ACT, 1938.

Insertion of new section 33-A in Act IV of 1912.

2. After section 33 of the Indian Lunacy Act, 1912 (hereinafter referred to as the said Act), the following section shall be inserted, namely:—

Temporary order of discharge of lunatic in interests of his health.

"33-A. If the person in charge of any asylum in which a lunatic is detained under the provisions of sections 14, 15 or 17, is satisfied that in the interests of the health of the lunatic, it is necessary to discharge him temporarily, the person aforesaid may order such discharge for such period as he may think fit and subject to such conditions as the Provincial Government may by rule prescribe."

Amendment of section 88, Act IV of 1912.

3. In section 88 of the said Act, for the words and figures "on reception order made under section 14, section 15 or section 17," the words and figures "on a reception order made under sections 7, 10, 14, 15 or 17 or on an order made under sections 8 or 16" and for the words "authority which made the reception order" the words "authority which made the reception or other order aforesaid" shall be substituted.

Amendment of section 89, Act IV of 1912.

4. In sub-section (1) of section 89 of the said Act, for the words "may make an order for the recovery of the cost of maintenance of such lunatic together with the costs of the application out of such estate or from such person," the following words shall be substituted, namely:—

"may make an order for the recovery of the whole or any portion of the cost of maintenance of such lunatic and of the costs of the application, out of such estate or from such person:

Provided that an order directing recovery out of such estate shall be made only after making due allowance for the needs of the wife, children and other dependants, if any, of the lunatic."

Amendment of section 91, Act IV of 1912.

5. In sub-section (1) of section 91 of the said Act, after clause (c), the following clause shall be inserted, namely:—

"(cc) to prescribe the conditions subject to which lunatics may be discharged temporarily under section 33-A."

THE MAINTENANCE ORDERS ENFORCEMENT ACT (XVIII OF 1921).[1]

An Act to facilitate the enforcement in British India of Maintenance Orders made in other parts of His Majesty's Dominions and Protectorates and vice versa.

WHEREAS it is expedient to facilitate the enforcement in British India of Maintenance Orders[2] made in other parts of His Majesty's Dominions and Protectorates and vice versa; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

LEG. REF.

[1] For Statement of Objects and reasons, see Gazette of India, 1921, Pt. V, p. 5. For Report of Select Committee, see ibid., Pt. V, p. 127.

[2] For extension by the Colony of Seychel-

Short title and extent.

1. (1) This Act may be called THE MAINTENANCE ORDERS ENFORCEMENT ACT, 1921.

(2) It extends to the whole of British India including the Sonthal Parganas and British Baluchistan.

Definition.

2. In this Act, unless there is anything repugnant in the subject or context,—

"Court of summary jurisdiction" means the Court of a Chief Presidency Magistrate or of a District Magistrate;

"dependants" means such persons as a person against whom a maintenance order is made is liable to maintain according to the law in force in the part of His Majesty's Dominions in which the maintenance order is made;

"maintenance order" means a decree or order, other than an order of affiliation, made by a Court in the exercise of civil or criminal jurisdiction for the periodical payment of sums of money towards the maintenance of the wife or other dependants of the person against whom the order is made;

"prescribed" means prescribed by rules made under this Act;

"proper authority" means the authority appointed by or under the law of a reciprocating territory to receive and transmit documents to which this Act applies; and

"reciprocating territory" means any part of His Majesty's Dominions outside British India in respect of which this Act for the time being applies.

Reciprocal arrangements.

3. (1) If the Central Government is satisfied that provisions have been made by the Legislature of any part of His Majesty's Dominions for the enforcement within that part of maintenance orders made by Courts in British India, the Central Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette, declare that this Act applies in respect of that part of His Majesty's Dominions and thereupon it shall apply accordingly.

(2) The Central Government may, by like notification, declare that this Act applies in respect of any British portectorate, or in respect of any State in India, and where such a declaration has been made, this Act shall apply as if such protectorate or State were a reciprocating territory.

Registration in British India of maintenance orders made in other parts of His Majesty's Dominions.

4. (1) Where a maintenance order has, whether before or after the passing of this Act, been made against any person by any Court in any reciprocating teritrtory, and a certified copy of the order has been transmitted by the proper authority of that territory to the Central Government, the Central Government shall send a copy of the order to the prescribed officer of a Court in British India for registration, and, on receipt thereof, the order shall be registered in the prescribed manner.

(2) The Court in which an order is to be so registered as aforesaid shall, if the Court by which the order was made was, in the opinion of the Central Government, a Court of superior jurisdiction, be a High Court, and, if the Court was not, in its opinion, a Court of superior jurisdiction, be a Court of summary jurisdiction.

5. Where a Court in British India has, whether before or after the com-les and New South Wales of their respective Maintenance Orders Legislation to British India, see Gazette of India, 1924 Pt. I, pp. 316 and 1021.

SEC. 1.—Jurisdiction of Magistrate under this section is limited by sec. 488, Cr. P. Code. This Act confers no jurisdiction on Magistrates in India to award any sum they think fit as maintenance payable to wife and children who are in India and whose husbands or fathers are in England. This Act is merely an extension of the principle laid down in sec. 488, Cr. P. Code, and was enacted to meet cases where the wife and children are in India and the husband in England and vice versa. 1937 M. W. N. 1127.

Transmission of maintenance order made in British India.

mencement of this Act, made a maintenance order against any person, and it is proved to that Court that the person against whom the order was made is resident in a reciprocating territory, the Court shall send to the Central Government, for transmission to the proper authority of that territory, a certified copy of the order.

Power of summary courts to make provisional maintenance orders against persons resident in His Majesty's Dominions outside British India.

6. (1) Where application is made to a Court of summary jurisdiction in British India for a maintenance order against any person, and it is proved that that person is resident in a reciprocating territory, the Court may, in the absence of that person, if after hearing the evidence it is satisfied of the justice of the application, make any such order as it might have made if that person had wilfully neglected to attend the Court; but in such case the order shall be provisional only and shall have no effect unless and until confirmed by a competent Court in such territory.

(2) The evidence of every witness who is examined on any such application shall be reduced to writing, and such deposition shall be read over to, and signed by, him.

(3) Where such an order is made, the Court shall send to the Central Government, for transmission to the proper authority of the reciprocating territory in which the person against whom the order is made is alleged to reside, the depositions so taken and a certified copy of the order together with a statement of the grounds on which the making of the order might have been opposed if the person against whom the order is made had been duly served with a summons and had appeared at the hearing and such information as the Court possesses for facilitating the identification of that person and ascertaining his whereabouts.

(4) Where any such provisional order has come before a Court in a reciprocating territory for confirmation, and the order has by that Court been remitted to the Court of summary jurisdiction which made the order for the purpose of taking further evidence, the Court shall, after giving the prescribed notice, proceed to take the evidence in like manner and subject to the like conditions as the evidence in support of the original application.

(5) If it appears to the Court hearing such evidence that the order ought not to have been made, the Court may rescind the order but in any other case the depositions shall be sent to the Central Government and dealt with in like manner as the original depositions.

(6) The confirmation of an order made under this section shall not affect any power of a Court of summary jurisdiction to vary or rescind that order:

Provided that, on the making of a varying or rescinding order, the Court shall send a certified copy thereof to the Central Government for transmission to the proper authority of the reciprocating territory in which the original order was confirmed, or to which it was sent for confirmation and that, in the case of an order varying the original order, the order shall not have any effect unless and until confirmed in like manner as the original order.

7. (1) Where a maintenance order has been made by a Court in a reciprocating territory and the order is provisional only, and has no effect unless and until confirmed by a Court of summary jurisdiction in British India, and a certified copy of the order, together with the depositions of the witnesses and a statement of the grounds on which the order might have been opposed, has been transmitted to the Central Government, and it appears to the Central Government that the person against whom the order has been made is resident in British India, the Central Government may send the said documents to the prescribed officer of a Court of Summary jurisdiction, with a requisition that a summons be issued calling upon the person to show cause why that order should not be confirmed, and, upon receipt of such documents and requisition, the Court shall issue such a summons and cause it to be served upon such person.

(2) A summons issued under sub-section (1) shall for all purposes be deemed to be a summons issued by the Court in the exercise of its original criminal jurisdiction.

(3) At the hearing it shall be open to the person to whom the summons was issued to arise any defence which he might have raised in the original proceedings had he been a partly thereto, but no other defence, and the certificate from the Court which made the provisional order stating the grounds on which the making of the order might have been opposed if the person against whom the order was made had been a party to the proceedings shall be conclusive evidence that those grounds are grounds on which objection may be taken.

(4) If at the hearing the person served with the summons does not appear or, on appearing, fails to satisfy the Court that the order ought not to be confirmed, the Court may, notwithstanding any pecuniary limit imposed on its power by any law for the time being in force in British India, confirm the order either without modification or with such modifications as to the Court after hearing the evidence may seem just:

Provided that no sum shall be awarded as maintenance under this section, or shall be recoverable as such, at a rate exceeding that proposed in the provisional order.

(5) If the person to whom the summons was issued appears at the hearing and satisfies the Court that for the purpose of any defence it is necessary to remit the case to the Court which made the provisional order for the taking of any further evidence the Court may for that purpose send a certified copy of the record to the Central Government for transmission to that Court through the proper authority of the reciprocating territory, and may adjourn the proceedings.

(6) Where a provisional order has been confirmed under this section, it may be varied or rescinded in like manner as if it had originally been made by the confirming Court, and where on an application for rescission or variation the Court is satisfied that it is necessary to remit the case to the Court which made the provisional order for the purpose of taking any further evidence, the Court may for that purpose send a certified copy of the record to the Central Government for transmission to that Court through the proper authority of the reciprocating territory, and may adjourn the proceedings.

Enforcement of maintenance orders.

8. (1) Subject to the provisions of this Act, where an order has been registered under this Act in a High Court, the order shall, from the date of such registration, be of the same force and effect, and all proceedings may be taken thereon as if it had been an order originally obtained in the High Court in the exercise of its civil jurisdiction, or in such Civil Court subordinate to that High Court as may be named by the High Court in this behalf, and that Court shall have power to enforce the order accordingly.

(2) A Court of summary jurisdiction in which an order has been registered under this Act or by which an order has been confirmed under this Act, and the officers of such Court, shall have such powers and perform such duties, for the purpose of enforcing the order, as may be prescribed.

Payment of charges for transmission of sums awarded as maintenance and other costs and charges.

9. A Court in registering or confirming an order for maintenance in accordance with the provisions of this Act shall direct that the charges for the transmission to the Court, from which the order has been received or in which the provisional order has been made, as the case may be, of the sum awarded as maintenance shall be borne by the person against whom the order has been so made or confirmed, and shall be recovered from him in addition to the sum awarded as maintenance and in addition to, and in the same manner as, such other costs and charges as may be awarded or levied by the Court.

Proof of documents signed by officers of Court.

10. For the purposes of this Act, any document purporting to be signed by a judge or officer of a Court outside British India shall, until the contrary is proved, be deemed to have been so signed without proof of the signature of judicial or official character of the person appearing to have signed it, and the officer of a Court by whom a document is signed shall, until the contrary is proved, be deemed to have been the proper officer of the Court to sign the document.

Depositions to be evidence.

11. Depositions taken in a Court in any reciprocating territory may, for the purposes of this Act, be received in evidence in proceedings before Courts of summary jurisdiction under this Act.

Rule-making power.

12. The Central Government may make rules for the purpose of carrying into effect the purposes of this Act, and in particular may make rules, for the levy of the costs or charges for anything done under this Act and for all matters which are directed or permitted to be prescribed.

THE INDIAN MAJORITY ACT (IX OF 1875).[1]

Year.	No.	Short title.	Amendment.
1875	IX	The Indian Majority Act.	Amended, VIII of 1890, S. 52.

[2nd March, 1875.

An Act to amend the Law respecting the age of majority.

Preamble.

WHEREAS, in the case of persons domiciled in British India, it is expedient to prolong the period of nonage, and to attain more uniformity and certainty respecting the age of majority than now exists; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Short title.

1. This Act may be called THE INDIAN MAJORITY ACT, 1875.

relating to dower, it is essential that the minor should have made the gift, at the time of or by reason of or in consideration of the marriage. 1913 M.W.N. 365= 24 M.L.J. 49.

SEC. 2: SCOPE OF SECTION.—See 1928 C. 303=47 C.L.J. 372. In considering the age of majority for purpose of marriage in the case of Mahomedans reference should be made to the provisions of the Mahomedan Law. 1923 L. 102. The capacity of minors as regards questions of marriage, adoption, etc., is the same as if this Act had not been passed. 42 M.L.J. 129=1922 M. 1 (2). Relinquishment of claim to dower—Mahomedan lady of 15 years of age—Age of majority is governed by this Act. 41 M. 1026=35 M.L. J. 468. See also 17 Pat. 303=1939 Pat. 133. "To act in the matter of dower" means to act or do such acts as may relate to the dower. 80 I.C. 914=1925 C. 322. See also 24 M.L.J. 49. A contract entered into by a Mahomedan husband, who is a minor under this Act, but a major according to his personal law, to pay dower to his wife is valid and there is nothing in S. 11, Contract Act, invalidating the same. 80 I. C. 914=1925 C. 322. Majors under personal law though not under this Act can fix amount and nature of dower. 1925 Cal. 322. As to power of a Mahomedan minor to execute post-nuptial agreement for divorie in favour of wife, see 47 C.L.J. 372. S. 2 only governs the performance of marriage or effecting of divorce by persons who, though not major according to the Act, are so according to their personal law. But the relinquishment by a Mahomedan wife of the whole or part of her dower fixed at the time of the marriage or changing its character from prompt into deferred does not fall within the exception provided by S. 2 of the Act. Once a marriage is performed, and the dower settled, the dower becomes property of the wife. It is a debt payable to her and any transfer or relinquishment of the same, is not a matter in any way connected with marriage, and such an act must be governed by the ordinary law of the land. The operation of the section cannot be extended beyond what is specified therein. So an ekrarnama executed by a Mahomedan wife who is a minor under Act, but a major under tht Mohamedan law, surrendering a portion of her dower debt and making the other portion a deferred instead of prompt cannot be valid and binding on her, and cannot operate either to reduce the amount of the dower or change its character. 17 Pat. 303=1939 P. 133. A breach of promise of marriage is a matter of marriage within S. 2. Nothing contained in that shall affect the capacity of any person to act in matters of marriage. 46 I.C. 421. A Hindu widow of age 15 might validly adopt if she had attained sufficient maturity of understanding to comprehend the nature of the Act. 43 B. 481=50 I.C. 736. The Act does not affect the religion or religious rites or usages of any class. The age of majority fixed by the Act does not apply to offices which involve the performance of religious duties. 28 I.C. 934. Under this section in the case of an Indian Christian, the age of majority for purposes of a divorce suit is 21, and if one of the parties is below that age, a guardian should be appointed to him or her. 79 I.C. 535=1925 S. 95.

SEC. 2 (a).—The expression "capacity to act in the matter of marriage" means the capacity to be a party to a valid marriage and relates to the acts of the parties by which their status is changed. It does not refer and is not applicable to a pre-nuptial agreement to contract a marriage in future. 14 R. 215=1936 R. 212 (F.B.). The words 'to act in the matter of marriage' in S. 2 (a) must be construed in a restricted sense and means only, to enter into the contract of marriage. S. 2 (a) of the Majority Act merely relieves a Mahomedan girl of some of the consequences of her minority, but she remains a minor none the less. That being so the provisions of O. 32, R. 1, C. P. Code, still apply. Hence a Mahomedan girl of 15 can file a suit for dower only through her next friend. 1942 O.W.

(b) the religion or religious rites and usages of any class of Her Majesty's subjects in India; or

(c) the capacity of any person who before this Act comes into force has attained majority under the law applicable to him.

Age of majority of persons domiciled in British India.

3. Subject as aforesaid, [1][every minor of whose person or property or both a guardian, other than a guardian for a suit within the meaning of Chapter XXXI of the Code of Civil Procedure, has been or shall be appointed or declared by any Court of Justice before the minor has attained the age of eighteen years, and every minor of whose property the superintendence has been or shall be assumed by any Court of Wards before the minor has attained that age] shall,

N. 22=1942 Oudh 243=17 Luck. 572. The right of a Mahomedan wife of sixteen and over to sue for a divorce under the Mahomedan Law is expressly saved by the section. 55 B. 160=32 Bom.L.R. 1372=1931 B. 76. See also 1941 L. 394. A Mahomedan woman who is a major under the personal law is capable of relinquishing the dower as consideration for obtaining khula, khula being a form of divorce recognised by the Mahomedan Law and therefore coming within the exception mentioned in S. 2. 1932 A. L.J. 781=1932 A. 649=54 A. 806.

SEC. 3.—The words "Court of Justice" in the Act means a Court of Justice which has jurisdiction to do an act. 26 I.C. 708= 10 N.L.R. 159. The civil status of a person is always to be determined by the law of his domicile; a person not domiciled in British India is not entitled to the benefit of S. 3 of the Act though he may reside or have dealing in British India, because the age of majority is determined by the law of domicile. But the subject of an Indian State, which has adopted the Indian Majority Act as its law, is governed by the Act and hence attains majority only at the age of twenty-one and he is therefore entitled to the extended period of minority when his estate is taken over for management by the Court of Wards. 48 Bom.L.R. 244. Person cannot be major with respect to one and minor with respect to another property. 46 A. 744= 1924 A. 892. Married woman governed by the Succession Act—Guardian appointed by Court—Age of minority extends to 21 years of age—Incapacity to make a will. 1924 C. 644=28 C.W.N. 527. Under S. 3, minority is extended to the completion of the twenty-first year when a guardian of the property of the minor has been appointed. 31 Bom.L.R. 1009=1929 B. 475; 134 I.C. 293=1931 L. 394. Where the mother has been appointed guardian of her two minor sons forming a joint Hindu family, the age of majority for the latter is 21 years. 35 A. 150=18 I.C. 251. Act has modified the Hindu Law on the question of minority except in respect of marriage and adoption. A Hindu who has not attained the age of majority cannot make a will. 36 B. 622=17 I.C. 86=14 Bom.L.R. 748. Where once a guardian has been appointed under the Act, however that guardianship may terminate, the minor cannot attain majority until the age of 21. 1924 L. 127. Once a guardian of a minor is validly appointed by a Court, the minor's age of majority becomes fixed by law at 21, and nothing which may subsequently transpire can have the effect of reducing it again to 18. 57 I.C. 678=11 L.W. 596. An invalid order of appointment (as a conditional order of appointment of a person on his furnishing security) has not the effect of postponing the age to 21. 49 M. 809=1927 M. 36=51 M.L.J. 726 (F.B.). "Appointed" —Meaning—Orders appointing guardian on condition of furnishing security—Security not furnished—Effect on order of appointment— Minority—If extended. See 47 Bom.L.R. 83. In order to extend the minority of a person to 21 years under S. 3, there must in the first instance be a lawful appointment of a guardian. An appointment which is not lawful but null and void cannot extend the period of minority. S. 19 of the Guardians and Wards Act specifically prohibits the Court from making an appointment of a guardian for a person whose father is alive and who is not unfit to be guardian. An appointment of guardian for such a minor is not a lawful appointment, as it is one which cannot be made under the Guardians and Wards Act. The Court has the power to vacate or rescind such an order which should never have been made. Nor would such an order extend the period of minority to 21 years under S. 3 of the Act. 32 S.L.R. 215. The grant of letters of administration does not amount to the appointment of a guardian of the property of the minor concerned so as to extend the period of the minority under S. 3. See 18 I.C. 378=24 M.L.J. 450. Release of the minor from the guardianship of the appointed guardian does not make him a major so as to affect limitation. Such a minor becomes major after the age of 21 years. 58 I.C. 196. Whether age of majority is postponed to 21 if the order of appointment of guardian is invalid, see 99 I.C. 213=1927 M. 36. Where an appointment of guardian to a minor is notwithstanding anything contained in the Indian Succession Act (X of 1865,)[1] or in any other enactment, be deemed to have attained his majority when he shall have completed his age of twenty-one years and not before.

Subject as aforesaid, every other person domiciled in British India shall be deemed to have attained his majority when he shall have completed his age of eighteen years and not before.

Age of majority how computed.

4. In computing the age of any person, the day on which he was born is to be included as a whole day, and he shall be deemed to have attained majority, if he falls within the first paragraph of section 3, at the beginning of the twenty-first anniversary of that day, and if he falls within the second paragraph of section 3, at the beginning of the 18th anniversary of that day.

1892	II	The Marriage Validation Act.	Repealed in part, Act X of 1914.

[29*th January*, 1892.

An Act to validate certain marriages solemnized under Part VI of the Indian Christian Marriage Act, 1872.

WHEREAS provision is made in Part VI of the Indian Christian Marriage Act, 1872, for the solemnization of marriages between persons of whom both are Native Christians, but not of marriages between persons of whom one only is a Native Christian;

AND WHEREAS persons licensed under section 9 of the said Act have in divers parts of British India, through ignorance of the law, permitted marriages to be solemnized in their presence under the said part between persons of whom one is a Native Christian and the other is not a Native Christian;

AND WHEREAS it is expedient that such marriages, having been solemnized in good faith, should be validated; It is hereby enacted as follows—

2. In this Act the expression "Native Christian" has the same meaning as in the Indian Christian Marriage Act, 1872.

Validation of irregular marriages.

3. All marriages which have already been solemnized under Part VI of the Indian Christian Marriage Act, 1872, between persons of whom one only was a Native Christian, shall be as good and valid in law as if such marriages had been solemnized between persons of whom both were Native Christians;

Provided that nothing in this section shall apply to any marriage which had been judicially declared to be null and void, or to any case where either of the parties has, since the solemnization of such marriage and prior to the commencement of this Act, contracted a valid marriage.

Validation of records of irregular marriages.

4. Certificates of marriages which are declared by the last foregoing section to be good and valid in law, and register-books, and certified copies of true and duly authenticated extracts therefrom, deposited in compliance with the law for the time being in force, in so far as the register-books and extracts relate to such marriages as aforesaid, shall be received as evidence of such marriages as if such marriages had been solemnized between persons of whom both were Native Christians.

Application of Act to marriages under Act V of 1865.

5. References in this Act to the Indian Christian Marriage Act, 1872, shall, so far as may be requisite, be construed as applying also to the corresponding portions of the Indian Marriage Act, 1865.[1] for the enjoyment of wages and earnings by women married before the first day of January, 1866, and for insurances on lives by persons married before or after that day:

AND WHEREAS by the Indian Succession Act, 1865, section 4, it is enacted that no person shall by marriage acquire any interest in the property of the person whom he or she marries, nor become incapable of doing any act in respect of his or her own property, which he or she could have done, if unmarried:

AND WHEREAS by force of the said Act all women to whose marriages it applies are absolute owners of all property vested in, or acquired by, them, and their husbands do not by their marriage acquire any interest in such property, but the said Act does not protect such husbands from liabilities on account of the debts of their wives contracted before marriage, and does not expressly provide for the enforcement of claims by or against such wives:

It is hereby enacted as follows:—

I.—Preliminary.

Short title.

1. This Act may be called THE MARRIED WOMEN'S PROPERTY ACT, 1874.

Extent and application.

2. It extends to the whole of British India, and, so far as regards [1][British subjects, to all Indian States].

But nothing herein contained applies to any married woman who at the time of her marriage professed the Hindu, Muhammadan, Buddhist, Sikh or Jaina religion, or whose husband, at the time of such marriage, professed any of those religions.

And the [2][Provincial Government] may from time to time, by order, either retrospectively from the passing of this Act or prospectively, exempt from the operation of all or any of the provisions of this Act the members of any race, sect or tribe, or part of a race, sect or tribe, to whom [3][it] may consider it impossible or inexpedient to apply such provisions.

The [2][Provincial Government] may also revoke any such order, but not so that the revocation shall have any retrospective effect.

All orders and revocations under this section shall be published in the Official Gazette.

of them" "Married woman" in S. 2 does not apply to a daughter of the assured, even if she is married 37 M. 483=25 M L J. 65 (F.B.).

SEC 6.—[See also cases cited under Ss. 1 and 2, supra.] S. 2 of Act XIII of 1923 declares that the provisions of S. 6 of the Married Women's Property Act of 1874 shall apply in the case of any policy effected by any Hindu in Madras after 31st December, 1913. It does not further enact that they shall not apply to policies effected before that date Those policies are governed by the old Act. 52 M. 936= 1929 M. 825=57 M.L.J. 793 The Act does not apply to Hindus. A Hindu wife cannot claim the benefit of its provision. 37 B. 471=19 I.C. 736=15 Bom.L.R. 320. (See also cases cited under S. 1, supra.) S. 6 does not apply to a policy of assurance effected by a Hindu on his own life for the benefit of his wife and children, and the money due on it forms part of the estate of the deceased available for payment of his debts 20 C.L.J. 44=18 C.W.N. 1335=25 I C. 220 But see also 35 M. 162; 37 B. 471; 25 M.L J. 65=37 M. 483 (F.B.). Life insurance policy—Wife's claim as nominee of deceased husband. See 1928 C. 518=114 I.C. 658. The Act does not apply to Hindus. The Governor-General in Council has no power to exempt the Hindu, Mahomedan and Buddhist communities from the operation of the Act. 18 C W.N. 1335=20 C.L.J. 44. Act does not apply where a wife claims to recover the money due to her under a policy of life insurance as the nominee of her deceased husband. 1928 C. 518=47 C.L.J. 587=32 C.W.N. 634=55 C. 1315. Where a Hindu male insured his life "for the benefit of his wife and children" and died leaving a daughter, held, that S. 6 creates a trust in favour of the daughter and the amount of the policy is not available to the creditors, but in cases contemplated by S. 6 the beneficiaries have no cause of action apart from the Act. 25 M.L.J. 65=37 M. 483 (F.B.). But see 20 C.L.J. 44, supra. In order to constitute a trust "for the benefit of the wife" within the meaning of S. 6 of the Married Women's Property Act. it is not necessary that the words "for the benefit of the wife" or other words equivalent thereto should appear in the policy of insurance. If on a reading of the words used in the policy, it appears that the assured has intended, in the event of his death, that the policy should enure for the benefit of his wife, then the policy may be deemed to be for her benefit. 55 M. 171=1932 M 220= 62 M.L.J. 111. The word "policy" in S. 6 means a document or documents evidencing the contract between the parties and constituting the policy. If the document known as the "policy" stands alone, and does not incorporate in it any other document, only the "policy" can be looked at, but if it expressly incorporates another document, e.g., where the policy contains a provision making the proposal and declaration of the assured part of the policy then such proposal or other document must be deemed and treated as part of the policy of insurance.

When the sum secured by the policy becomes payable, it shall, unless special trustees are duly appointed to receive and hold the same, be paid to the Official Trustee of the [1][Province] in which the office at which the insurance was effected is situate, and shall be received and held by him upon the trusts expressed in the policy, or such of them as are then existing.

LEG. REF.

[1] Substituted by A.O., 1937, for "Presidency".

The Court must therefore in such a case look to the proposal or declaration also to discover to whom the insurance money is payable in a case when the "policy" proper does not itself contain any words indicating to whom the money shall be paid. I.L.R. (1938) Mad. 909=1938 Mad. 604=(1938) 2 M.L.J. 22 (F.B.).

LIFE INSURANCE POLICY—BENEFIT RESERVED FOR WIFE—SUIT TO ENFORCE—FORM.—The plaintiff's husband had insured his life for her benefit with a certain company at Calcutta. The business of the said company was subsequently taken over by the defendant company. The insured subsequently obtained a loan from the defendants and he later on surrendered his policy on receipt of a certain amount. After her husband's death the plaintiff sued to recover the insurance amount on the ground that a trust had been created in her favour. She stated that the Official Trustee had refused to move in the matter unless she furnished funds. Held, that the contract having been completed in Calcutta, the proper person to sue was the Official Trustee of Bengal. Held, further, S. 59 of the Trusts Act had no application because it was not shown that the execution of the trust had become impracticable or that the Official Trustee had disclaimed trusteeship. 57 M. 536=1934 M. 264=66 M.L.J. 667. Before S. 6 (1) can apply to an insurance policy, the policy must be "expressed on the face of it to be for the benefit of his wife". A mere assignment of a policy in favour of the wife does not bring the policy within the terms of S. 6 (1) of the Act. There must be a declaration expressly incorporated in the policy to the effect that the policy was for the benefit of the wife of the assured, to bring within the purview of S. 6 (1). I.L.R. (1946) Kar. 154.

INSURANCE MONEY PAYABLE TO ASSURED—TRUST — ATTACHABILITY IN EXECUTION. —S. 6 applies to Mahomedans and would govern a policy effected by a Mahomedan male on his own life for the benefit of his children. A trust is therefore created in favour of the person or persons for whose benefit the policy is effected though the interest taken by them is contingent. Such interest may be transferred and may also be released by the beneficiaries as it is not in the nature of a mere right to sue. The effect of such release is to revoke the trust. 54 L.W. 544=1942 Mad. 136=(1941) 2 M.L.J. 740. Where a policy of life assurance is expressed to be for the benefit of and to be payable to the assured or his wife if the assured predeceased his wife, no trust is created in favour of the wife at once. There is no vested interest in the wife until the happening of the event contemplated by the policy, namely, the death of the husband. The latter during his lifetime is not fettered by any trust in favour of his wife, as the trust would arise only on his death; and an assignment of the policy by him to a stranger during his lifetime is valid and enforceable against the wife on the death of the assured. 45 L.W. 480=(1937) 1 M.L.J. 735=1937 Mad. 645. See also I.L.R. (1946) Kar. 154. The circumstance that the benefit to the wife under a policy of insurance effected by the husband is of a contingent character, i.e., depending on her surviving her husband if he died before the named date mentioned in the policy, does not prevent it from being a benefit under S. 6 of this Act. There will therefore arise a trust in favour of the wife under S. 6. I.L.R. (1937) M. 990=1937 M.W.N. 303=1937 Mad. 571=45 L.W. 616. An endowment policy on the life of the husband which nominates the wife to receive the amount payable in the event of the husband's death, falls within S. 6 of the Act, and creates a trust in favour of the wife. The fact that the wife's interest is rendered contingent by special provision in the nomination does not prevent or affect the creation of a valid trust. I.L.R. (1940) 1 Cal 64=44 C.W.N. 218=1940 Cal. 217. Where the money usder a policy of insurance is made payable to "self or wife," the words "self or wife" can be construed to mean that the policy is to be for the benefit of the assured or in the event of his death, before the policy matures, it is to be for the benefit of his wife. That is the only reasonable interpretation to be placed upon the words "self or wife"; there is therefore a trust created in favour of the wife of the assured in the event of the assured dying before the policy matures. And there can be a contingent trust under S. 6 of the Act. I.L.R. (1938) Mad. 909=1938 Mad. 604=(1938) 2 M.L.J. 22 (F.F.). Where a policy of life insurance effected by a person contained a statement that the amount due thereon should be paid to the assured at the expiry of the period of 15 years, or to his wife on the death of the assured if earlier, the policy must be taken to be for the benefit of the wife of

And in reference to such sum he shall stand in the same position in all respects as if he had been duly appointed trustee thereof by a High Court, under Act No. XVII of 1864 [1][to constitute an Office of Official Trustee], section 10.

Nothing herein contained shall operate to destroy or impede the right of any creditor to be paid out of the proceeds of any policy of assurance which may have been effected with intent to defraud creditors.

[2][(2) Notwithstanding anything contained in section 2, the provisions of sub-section (1) shall apply in the case of any policy of insurance such as is referred to therein which is effected by any Hindu, Muhammadan, Sikh or Jain, in Madras, after the thirty-first day of December, 1913, or in any other part of British India, after the first day of April, 1923:

Provided that nothing herein contained shall affect any right or liability which has accrued or been incurred under any decree of a competent Court passed before the first day of April, 1923.]

the assured, although the verba impissima "the policy is for the benefit of the wife" are not to be found in the policy. A trust in favour of the wife attaches itself to the policy under S. 6 from the very moment of its birth, although the wife is not entitled to claim anything under the policy unless and until the event referred to in the policy happens It is not open to a creditor of the assured to treat it as the property of the assured. I.L.R. (1938) Mad. 867=1938 Mad 413=(1938) 1 M.L.J. 281. Where there is no mention in the policy itself that it was for the benefit of the wife and children but there is a statement in the proposal form that the object of the policy was for "family provision," such statement is not sufficient to bring the policy within the ambit of S. 6. Most married men taking out insurance policies on their lives payable only at death do so with the intention of making provision for their family, but it does not follow that they intend to divest themselves of all interest in the policy and to create an irrevocable trust in favour of the wife or children. I L.R. (1940) Nag. 509=1938 Nag. 321. A policy of life assurance contained the words "to the person or persons legally entitled thereto" against the column in the policy headed "to whom payable" The object of the policy as stated in the application by the assured was "for the maintenance of the family." Held, that no trust was created in favour of the wife and children of the assured in respect of the amount payable under the policy as the requirements of the section had not been fulfilled; that the word "family" in the application was much wider than the words "wife and children", who alone, under S. 6 of this Act, could be the proper objects of the trust; that the policy alone and not the application for the issue of the policy was the document to be looked at for purposes of the Act; and that consequently the amount due under the policy could be attached after the death of the assured for a debt due by him. 1936 M. 635 =71 M.L.J. 39. The sum payable under an insurance policy was payable at death or at fifty-five to the insured, but in the event of his death before his wife, it was to go to the wife, and failing his wife, to the insured, his executors etc. The insured having died before he reached fifty-five: Held that the policy formed part of his estate, and the amount could be attached in execution of a decree against the deceased. 58 B. 513=36 Bom. L R. 608=1934 B. 296.

OFFICIAL TRUSTEE.—S. 6 does not at all require as a condition precedent to the creation of a trust in favour of the wife that the money should be made payable to the Official Trustee. The object of the section is to create a valid trust in respect of the policy moneys without any trust deed or any other document being executed either in favour of the beneficiary or in favour of a trustee and without any trustee being nominated. The fact that the insured has not named a trustee whether such trustee be the Official Trustee or not is no ground for holding that the money made pavable to a wife is not for her benefit. 32 S L.R. 138=1938 Sind 20. Under S. 6 (1), para. 2 of the Act the Official Trustee, unless other trustees are appointed, is the person to receive the proceeds of an insurance policy and he is bound to hold it upon the trusts created. I.L.R. (1939) 2 Cal. 526 =1940 Cal 169. The Official Trustee, mentioned in S. 6 of the Act is not the legal person referred to in the Official Trustees Act of 1913, who is a corporation sole. The Official Trustee referred to in S. 6, who was appointed under the provisions of S 10 of the Act, XVII of 1864, has altogether disappeared. That Office no longer exists and to that extent the provisions of S. 6 of this Act cannot be put into operation. The result is that to enforce the provisions of that section with regard to any policy which is issued under it, trustees must be appointed either by deed executed by the husband in his lifetime, or by the Court under the IV.—Legal Proceedings by and against Married Women.

[1]7. A married woman may maintain a suit in her own name for the recovery of property of any description which, by force of the said Indian Succession Act, 1865, or of this Act, is her separate property; and she shall have, in her own name, the same remedies, both civil and criminal, against all persons, for the protection and security of such property, as if she were unmarried, and she shall be liable to such suits, processes, and orders in respect of such property as she would be liable to if she were unmarried.

Married women may take legal proceedings.

8. If a married woman (whether married before or after the first day of January, 1866), possesses separate property, and if any person enters into a contract with her with reference to such property, or on the faith that her obligation arising out of such contract will be satisfied out of her separate property, such person shall be entitled to sue her, and, to the extent of her separate property, to recover against her whatever he might have recovered in such suit had she been unmarried at the date of the contract and continued unmarried at the execution of the decree:

Wife's liability for post-nuptial debts.

(b) affect the liability of a husband for debts contracted by his wife's agency expressed or implied.]

V.—Husband's liability for Wife's debts.

[3]9. A husband married after the thirty-first day of December, 1865, shall not, by reason only of such marriage, be liable to the debts of his wife contracted before marriage, but the wife shall be liable to be sued for, and shall, to the Restrictions of nominations and elections.

5. (1) No person shall be eligible for nomination or election under clause (a) or (b) of sub-section (1) of section (3) unless he possesses a recognised medical qualification or a medical qualification granted by a British Indian University.

(2) No person shall be eligible for nomination under clause (a) of sub-section (1) of section 3 unless he resides in the province concerned, and, where a Provincial Medical Register is maintained in that province, unless he is enrolled on that register.

(3) No person shall be eligible for election under clause (b) of sub-section (1) of section 3 unless he has had at least four years' experience as a Professor, Assistant Professor, Lecturer or Reader in Medical Colleges or Schools.

(4) No person may at the same time serve as a member in more than one capacity.

Incorporation of the Council.

6. The Council so constituted shall be a body corporate by the name of the Medical Council of India, having perpetual succession and a common seal, with power to acquire and hold property both movable and immovable, and to contract, and shall by the said name sue and be sued.

Term of office.

7. (1) An elected President shall hold office for a term not exceeding five years and not extending beyond the expiry of the term for which he has been nominated or elected to be a member of the Council.

(2) A member, other than a nominated President, shall hold office for the term of five years from the date of his nomination or election or until his successor shall have been duly nominated or elected, whichever is longer.

(3) Where the said term of five years is about to expire in respect of any member, his successor may be nominated or elected at any time within three months before the said term expires, but shall not assume office until the said term has expired.

Meetings of the Council.

8. (1) The Council shall hold its first meeting at such time and place as may be appointed by the [Central Government] and thereafter the Council shall meet at least once in each year at such time and place as may be appointed by the Council.

(2) Until otherwise provided by Regulations, ten members of the Council shall form a quorum, and all the acts of the Council shall be decided by a majority of the members present and voting.

Officers, Committees and servants of the Council.

9. (1) The Council shall—

(a) elect from amongst its members a vice-President;

(b) constitute from amongst its members an Executive Committee, and such other Committees for general or special purposes as the Council deems necessary to carry out the purposes of this Act;

(c) appoint a Secretary, who may also, if deemed expedient, act as Treasurer;

(d) appoint or nominate such other officers and servants as the Council deems necessary to carry out the purposes of this Act;

(e) require and take from the Secretary, or from any other officer or servant, such security for the due performance of his duties as the Council deems necessary: and

(f) with the previous sanction of the [Central Government] fix the remuneration and allowances to be paid to the President, Vice-President, members, officers and servants of the Council.

(2) Notwithstanding anything contained in clause (c) of sub-section (1), for the four years from the commencement of this Act, the Secretary of the Council shall be be a person appointed by the [Central Government], who shall hold office during the pleasure of the [Central Government].

The Executive Committee.

10. (1) The Executive Committee shall consist of seven members, of whom five shall be elected by the Council from amongst its members.

(2) The President and Vice-President of the Council shall be members ex officio of the Executive Committee, and shall be President and Vice-President, respectively, of that Committee.

(3) In addition to the powers and duties conferred and imposed upon it by this Act, the Executive Committee shall exercise and discharge such powers and duties as the Council may confer or impose upon it by any Regulations which may be made in this behalf.

Recognition of medical qualifications granted by medical institutions in British India.

11. (1) The medical qualifications granted by medical institutions in British India which are included in the First Schedule shall be recognised medical qualifications for the purposes of this Act.

(2) Any medical institution in British India which grants a medical qualification not included in the First Schedule may apply to the [Central Government] to have such qualification recognised, and the [Central Government] after consulting the Council, may, by notification in the [Official Gazette] amend the First Schedule so as to include such qualification therein.

(3) Such notification may also direct than an entry shall be made in the last column of the First Schedule against sech medical qualification declaring that it shall be a recognised medical qualification only when granted after a specified date.

(4) The Council shall, as soon as may be and without application being made, make all necessary arrangements for the inspection of the medical courses and examinations of the Universities of Patna [1][* * *] and Andhra, and shall submit their recommendations to the [Central Government] regarding the inclusion in the First Schedule of the medical qualifications granted by these Universities.

Non-Indian qualifications in Second Schedule to be recognised.

12. The medical qualifications granted by medical institutions outside British India which are included in the Second Schedule shall be recognised medical qualifications for the purposes of this Act, and shall be sufficient qualification for enrolment on any Provincial Medical Register.

Transitory arrangements for modifying the Second Schedule.

13. (1) At any time during the period of four years after the commencement of this Act the Council may enter into negotiations with the authority in any State or country outside British India which is entrusted by the law of such State or country with the maintenance of a register of medical practitioners, for the settling of a scheme of reciprocity for the recognition of medical qualifications, and the course of such negotiations shall be reported to the [Central Government] along with the decisions of the Council to recognise or to refuse to recognise the medical qualifications proposed by such authority for recognition in British India.

(2) In so far as the decisions of the Council to recognise medical qualifications are accepted by the [Central Government], they shall be embodied in a resolution and published in the [Official Gazette], and such resolution shall specify or indicate with sufficient accuracy all medical qualifications finally approved for recognition in British India:

Provided that where any such resolution specifies or indicates a medical qualification which is not included in the Second Schedule, the [Central Government] may, by notification in the [Official Gazette], amend the Second Schedule so as to include such qualification therein, and such amendment may further direct that such qualification shall be deemed to be a recognised medical qualification for the purposes of this Act only when granted after a specified date.

(3) Within one month before the expiry of the period of four years from the commencement of this Act, the [Central Government] shall frame a schedule to include all medical qualifications which have been specified or indicated by [1][it] in resolutions made under sub-section (2), and shall publish the said schedule in the [Official Gazette], and such schedule shall be substituted for the Second Schedule with effect from the expiry of the said period of four years, and shall then have force as if it had been enacted in this Act:

Provided that the [Central Government] shall include in the said schedule all medical qualifications included in the Second Schedule which were granted before the expiry of the said period of four years.

Permanent arrangements for modifying the Second Schedule.

14. (1) At any time after the expiry of the period of four years after the commencement of this Act, the Council may complete or may enter into negotiations with the authority in any State or country outside British India which by the law of such State or country is entrusted with the maintenance of a register of medical practitioners, for the settling of a scheme of reciprocity for the recognition of medical qualifications, and in pursuance of any such scheme the [Central Government] may, by notification in the [Official Gazette], amend the Second Schedule so as to include therein any medical qualification which the Council has decided should be recognised.

(2) Such notification may also direct that an entry shall be made in the last column of the First Schedule against such medical qualification declaring that it shall be a recognised medical qualification only when granted after a specified date.

(3) The [Central Government], after consultation with the Council, may, by notification in the [Official Gazette], amend the Second Schedule by directing that an entry be made therein in respect of any medical qualification declaring that it shall be a recognised medical qualification only when granted before a specified date.

(4) Where the Council has refused to recognise any medical qualification which has been proposed for recognition by any such authority, that authority may apply to the [Central Government], and the [Central Government], after considering such application and after consulting the Council, may, by notification in the [Official Gazette], amend the Second Schedule so as to include such qualification therein, and the provisions of sub-section (2) shall apply to such notification.

Power to require information as to courses of study and examinations.

15. Every medical institution in British India which grants recognised medical qualification shall furnish such information as the Council may from time to time, require as to the courses of study and examinations to be undergone in order to obtain such qualification, as to the ages at which such courses of study and examinations are required to be undergone and such qualification is conferred, and generally as to the requisites for obtaining such qualification.

Inspection of examinations.

16. (1) The Executive Committee shall appoint such number of medical inspectors as it may deem requisite to attend at any or all of the examinations held by medical institutions in British India for the purpose of granting recognised medical qualifications.

(2) Inspectors appointed under this section shall not interfere with the conduct of any examination, but they shall report to the Executive Committee on the sufficiency of every examination which they attend and on any other matters in regard to which the Executive Committee may require them to report.

(3) The Executive Committee shall forward a copy of any such report to the medical institution concerned, and shall also forward a copy, with the remarks of such institution thereon, to the [Central Government].

Visitors at examinations.

[1][16-A. (1) The Council may appoint such number of visitors as it may deem requisite to attend at any or all of the examinations held by medical institutions in British India for the purpose of granting recognized medical qualifications.

(2) Any person, whether he is a member of the Council or not, may be appointed as a visitor under this section; but a person who is appointed as an inspector under section 16 for any examination shall not be appointed as a visitor for the same examination.

(3) Visitors appointed under this section shall not interfere with the conduct of any examination, but they shall report to the President of the Council on the sufficiency of every examination which they attend and on any other matters in regard to which the Council may require them to report.

(4) The report of a visitor shall be treated as confidential unless in any particular case the President of the Council otherwise directs.]

Withdrawal of recognition.

17. (1) When, upon report by the executive Committee [1][or by a visitor appointed under section 16-A] it appears to the Council that the courses of study and examination to be gone through in any medical institution in British India in order to obtain a recognised medical qualification or that the standards of proficiency required from candidates at any examination held for the purpose of granting such qualification are not such as to secure to persons holding such qualification the knowledge and skill requisite for the efficient practice of medicine, the Council shall make a representation to that effect to the [Central Government].

(2) After considering such representation, the [Central Government] may send it to the [Provincial Government] of the province in which the medical institution is situated, and the [Provincial Government] shall forward it, along with such remarks as it may choose to make, to the medical institution, with an intimation of the period within which the medical institution may submit its explanation to the [Provincial Government].

(3) On the receipt of the explanation or, where no explanation is submitted within the period fixed, then on the expiry of that period, the [Provincial Government] shall make its recommendations to the [Central Government].

(4) The [Central Government], after making such further inquiry, if any, as [2][it] may think fit, may, by notification in the [Official Gazette], direct that an entry shall be made in the First Schedule against the said medical qualification declaring that it shall be a recognized medical qualification only when granted before a specified date.

LEG. REF.

[1] Inserted by Act IV of 1942.

[2] Substituted by A.O., 1937, for "he".

Power to make regulations.

18. (1) The Council may, with the previous sanction of the [Central Government], make Regulations generally to carry out the purposes of this Act, and, without prejudice to the generality of this power, such Regulations may provide for—

(a) the management of the property of the Council;

(b) the summoning and holding of meetings of the Council, the times and place where such meetings are to be held, the conduct of business thereat and the number of members necessary to constitute a quorum;

(c) the resignation of members of the Council and the filling of casual vacancies;

(d) the powers and duties of the President and Vice-President;

(e) the mode of appointment of the Executive Committee and other Committees, the summoning and holding of meetings, and the conduct of business of such Committees;

(f) the tenure of office, and the powers and duties of the Secretary and other officers and servants of the Council;

(g) the appointment, powers, duties and procedure of medical [1][inspectors and visitors]; and

(h) any matter for which under this Act provision may be made by Regulations.

(2) Until the first Council is constituted under this Act, any Regulations which may be made under sub-section (1) may be made by the [Central Government] and any Regulation so made may be altered or rescinded by the Council in exercise of its powers under sub-section (1).

Information to be furnished by Council and publication thereof.

19. (1) The Council shall furnish such reports copies of its minutes, abstracts of its accounts, and other information to the [Central Government] as [2][it] may require.

(2) The [Central Government] may publish, in such manner as [2][it] may think fit, any report, copy, abstract or other information furnished to [3][it] under this section or under section 16.

Commissions of inquiry.

20. (1) Whenever it is made to appear to the [Central Government] that the Council is not complying with any of the provisions of this Act, the [Central Government] may refer the particulars of the complaint to a Commission of Inquiry consisting of three persons, two of whom shall be appointed by the [Central Government] one being a Judge of a High Court established by Letters Patent of the Crown, and one by the Council; and such Commission shall proceed to inquire in a summary manner and to report to the [Central Government] as to the truth of the matters charged in the complaint, and in case of any charge of default or of improper action being found by the Commission to have been established, the Commission shall recommend the remedies, if any, which are in its opinion necessary.

(2) The [Central Government] may require the Council to adopt the remedies so recommended within such time as, having regard to the report of the Commission, [2][it] may think fit; and if the Council fails to comply with any such requirement, the [Central Government] may amend the Regulations of the Council, or make such provision or order or take such other steps as may seem necessary to give effect to the recommendations of the Commission.

(3) A Commission of Inquiry shall have power to administer oaths, to enforce the attendance of witnesses and the production of documents, and shall

THE MEDICAL DIPLOMAS ACT (XX III OF 1939).

[26*th September*, 1939.

An Act to make the provision referred to in sub-section (1) of section 120 of the Government of India Act, 1935.

WHEREAS it is expedient to make the provision relating to medical diplomas granted in the United Kingdom or Burma which is referred to in sub-section (1) of section 120 of the Government of India Act, 26, Geo. V, c. 2, 1935;

It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Short title and extent.

1. (1) This Act may be called THE MEDICAL DIPLOMAS ACT, 1939.

(2) It extends to the whole of British India.

Definitions.

2. In this Act—

(a) "diploma" has the meaning assigned to it in sub-section (7) of section 120 of the Government of India Act, 1935;

(b) "United Kingdom" means the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland.

Conditions for excluding from practice British subjects domiciled in the United Kingdom or India who hold medical diplomas granted in the United Kingdom on the ground of inadequacy of such diplomas.

3. So long as the condition set out in sub-section (3) of section 120 of the Government of India Act, 1935, continues to be fulfilled, a British subject domiciled in the United Kingdom or India who, by virtue of a medical diploma granted to him in the United Kingdom, is, or is entitled to be, registered in the United Kingdom as a qualified medical parctitioner shall not by or under any law for the time being in force be excluded from practising medicine, surgery or midwifery in British India or in any part thereof, or from being registered as qualified so to do, on the ground that such diploma does not furnish a sufficient guarantee of his possession of the requisite knowledge and skill for the practice of medicine, surgery and midwifery, except in accordance with the following conditions, namely:—

(a) Notice of every proposal for excluding the holders of any such diploma from practice or registration shall be given in such form and in such manner as the Central Government may by rules made in this behalf prescribe, to the university or other body granting that diploma, and where such proposal is not made by the Central Government, to the Central Government also.

(b) No such proposal shall become operative until the expiration of twelve months after the notices referred to in clause (a) have been given.

(c) Such a proposal shall not become operative, or, as the case may be, shall cease to operate, if His Majesty's Privy Council, on an application made to them under sub-section (2) of section 120 of the Government of India Act, 1935, determine that the diploma in question ought to be recognised as furnishing such a sufficient guarantee as aforesaid.

Conditions for excluding from practice British subjects domiciled in Burma who hold medical diplomas granted in the United Kingdom or Burma on a similar ground.

4. A British subject domiciled in Burma who, by virtue of a medical diploma granted to him in the United Kingdom or Burma, is, or is entitled to be, registered in the United Kingdom as a qualified medical practitioner shall not by or under any law for the time being in force, be excluded from practising medicine, surgery or midwifery in British India or in any part thereof, or from being registered as qualified so to do on the ground that such diploma does not furnish a sufficient guarantee of his possession of the requisite knowledge and skill for the practice of medicine, surgery and midwifery, except in accordance with conditions such as are set out in clauses (a), (b) and (c) of section 3.

An Act to amend the Law relating to Fraudulent Marks on Merchandise.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the law relating to fraudulent marks on merchandise; It is hereby enacted as follows;

Title, extent and commencement.

1. (1) This Act may be called THE INDIAN MERCHANDISE MARKS ACT, 1889.[1]

(2) It extends to the whole of British India; [2][* * *].

(3) It shall come into force on the first day of April, 1889.

Definitions.

2. In this Act, unless there is something repugnant in the subject or context,—

[3][(1) "mark" has the meaning assigned to that expression in clause (f) of sub-section (1) of section 2 of the Trade Marks Act, 1940:

(1-A) "trade-mark" means a "registered trade mark" as defined in clause (j) of sub-section (1) of section 2 of the Trade Marks Act, 1940, or a mark used in relation to goods for the purpose of indicating or so as to indicate a connection in the course of trade between the goods and some person having the right as proprietor to use the mark:]

[3] Substituted by Act II of 1941.

(2) "trade description" means any description, statement or other indication, direct or indirect,—

(a) as to the number, quantity, measure, guage or weight of any goods; or

(b) as to the place or country in which, or the time at which, any goods were made or produced; or

(c) as to the mode of manufacturing or producing any goods; or

(d) as to the material of which any goods are composed; or (e) as to any goods being the subject of an existing patent, privilege or copyright;

and the use of any [1][mark] which according to the custom of the trade is commonly taken to be an indication of any of the above matters shall be deemed to be a trade description within the meaning of this Act;

(3) "false trade description" means a trade description which is untrue in a material respect as regards the goods to which it is applied, and includes every alteration of a trade description, whether by way of addition, effacement or otherwise, where that alteration makes the description untrue in a material respect, and the fact that a trade description is a trade mark or part of a trade mark shall not prevent such trade description being a false trade description within the meaning of this Act;

(4) "goods" means anything which is the subject of trade or manufacture; and

(5) "name" includes any abbreviation of a name.

Amendment of the Indian Penal Code.

3. [Substitution of new sections for sections 478 to 489 of the Indian Penal Code.] Rep. by Act I of 1938.

Trade Descriptions.

4. (1) The provisions of this Act respecting the application of a false trade description to goods, or respecting goods to which a false trade description is applied, shall extend to the application to goods of any such [2][marks], or arrangement or combination thereof, whether including a trade mark or not, as are or is reasonably calculated to lead persons to believe that the goods are the manufacture or merchandise of some person other than the person whose manufacture or merchandise they really are, and to goods having such [1][marks], or arrangement or combination, applied thereto.

Provisions supplemental to the definition of false trade description.

(2) The provisions of this Act respecting the application of a false trade description to goods, or respecting goods to which a false trade description is applied, shall extend to the application to goods of any false name or initials of a person, and to goods with the false name or initials of a person applied, in like manner as if such name or initials were a trade description, and for the purpose of this enactment the expression false name or initials means as applied to any goods, any name or initials—

SECS. 2 (2), 4 AND 7.—Where a design covers the whole body of goods and is part and parcel of the goods themselves, it is not a trade mark but a "design" under the Patent asnd Designs Act, 1911. Nor is it a "Trade description" within S. 2 (2) of this Act. 8 S.L.R. 39=25 I.C. 998.

(a) not being a trade mark, or part of a trade mark, and

(b) being identical with, or a colourable imitation of, the name or initials of a person carrying on business in connection with goods of the same description and not having authorized the use of such name or initials, [1][and

(c) being the name or initials of a fictitious person or of a person not carrying on business in connection with the goods of the same description.]

(3) A trade description which denotes or implies that there are contained in any goods to which it is applied more yards, feet or inches than there are contained therein standard yards, standard feet or standard inches is a false trade description.

Application of trade descriptions.

5. (1) A person shall be deemed to apply a trade description to goods who—

(a) applies it to the goods themselves, or

(b) applies it to any covering, label, reel or other thing in or with which the goods are sold or are exposed or had in possession for sale or any purpose of trade or manufacture, or

(c) places, encloses or annexes any goods which are sold, or are exposed or had in possession for sale or any purpose of trade or manufacture, in, with or to any covering, label, reel or other thing to which a trade description has been applied, or

(d) uses a trade description in any manner reasonably calculated to lead to the belief that the goods in connection with which it is used are designated or described by that trade description.

(2) A trade description shall be deemed to be applied whether it is woven, impressed or otherwise worked into or annexed or affixed to the goods or any covering, label, reel or other thing.

(3) The expression "covering" includes any stopper, cask, bottle, vessel, box, cover, capsule, case, frame or wrapper, and the expression "label" includes any band or ticket.

CORPORATION—LIABILITY TO PROSECUTION.—There is no warrant for holding that a corporation cannot be prosecuted and convicted under S. 6 on the ground that "mens rea" is an essential ingredient of an offence under S. 6. A corporation can apply a false trade mark to goods. A corporation through its agents can entertain an intention to apply a false description to goods. 44 Cr.L.J. 574=45 Bom.L.R. 300=1943 Bom. 182.

"MENS REA"—INTENTION—NATURE OF.—"Mens rea" merely means a criminal intention. In the case of most crimes against property, that does involve an intention to do something dishonest or fauduleut in the ordinary sense; but in the case of S. 6 of the Act, if mens rea be required, it would amount to no more than this that there must be an intention to do that which the Act prohibits. 1943 Bom. 182.

Penalty for applying a false trade description.

6. If a person applies a false trade description to goods, he shall, subject to the provisions of this Act, and unless he proves that he acted without intent to defraud, be punished with imprisonment for a term which may extend to three months or with fine which may extend to two hundred rupees, and in case of a second or subsequent conviction with imprisonment which may extend to one year, or with fine, or with both.

Penalty for selling goods to which a false trade description is applied.

7. If a person sells, or exposes or has in possession for sale or any purpose of trade or manufacture, any goods or things to which a false trade description is applied, [1][or which, being required by notification under section 12-A to have applied to them an indication of the country or place in which they were made or produced, are without the indication required by such notification] he shall, unless he proves—

(a) that, having taken all reasonable precautions against committing an offence against this section, he had at the time of the commission of the alleged offence no reason to suspect the genuineness of the trade description, [1][or that any offence against this section had been committed in respect of the goods], and

(b) that, on demand made by or on behalf of the prosecutor he gave all the information in his power with respect to the persons from whom he obtained such goods or things, or be punished with imprisonment for a term which may extend to three months, or with fine which may extend to two hundred rupees, and in case of a second or subsequent conviction with imprisonment which may extend to one year, or with fine, or with both.

Penalty for tampering with, altering or effacing a mark applied in pursuance of section 12-A.

[1][7-A. If a person tampers with, alters or effaces a mark which has been applied to any goods to which it is required to be applied by notification made under section 12-A, he shall, unless he proves that he acted without intent to defraud, be punished with imprisonment for a term which may extend to six months or with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees, and, in the case of a second or subsequent conviction, with imprisonment which may extend to two years, or with fine, or with both.]

OFFENCE—INTENT—PROOF OF—NECESSITY—MISDESCRIPTION—IF OFFENCE.—A conviction under S. 6 does not involve the proof of any intention. The offence is made absolute. If a person applies a false trade description to goods, he is liable to be convicted, whatever his intention may have been. Intention is material only under the proviso, and by way of defence. He can escape the consequences of the Act by proving that he acted without intent to defraud. An intent to defraud, no doubt, generally involves an intent to cheat in some form or other, and to cause loss to some one, but there is sufficient intention to defraud if there is an intention to defraud the purchaser. Where there is only a misdescription of goods, without the knowledge that it was a misdescription, it is impossible to say that there is an intent to defraud. 45 Bom.L.R. 300=1943 Bom. 182.

(3) When a forfeiture is directed on an acquittal and the goods or things to which the direction relates are of value exceeding fifty rupees, an appeal against the forfeiture may be preferred, within thirty days from the date of the direction, to the Court to which in appealable cases appeals lie from sentences of the Court which directed the forfeiture.

(2) The notification may specify the manner in which such indication shall be applied. that is to say, whether to the goods themselves or in any other manner, and the times or occasions on which the presence of the indication shall be necessary, that is to say whether on importation only, or also at the time of sale, whether by wholesale or retail or both.

(3) No notification under this section shall be issued, unless application is made for its issue by persons or associations substantially representing the interests of dealers in or manufacturers, producers, or users of the goods concerned, or unless the Central Government is otherwise convinced that it is necessary in the public interest to issue the notification, not without such inquiry as the Central Government may consider necessary.

(4) The provisions of section 23 of the General Clauses Act, 1897, shall apply to the issue of a notification under this section as they apply to the making of a rule or bye-law the making of which is subject to the condition of previous publication.

(5) A notification under this section shall not apply to goods made or produced beyond the limits of British India and imported into British India if in respect of those goods the Chief Customs Officer is satisfied at the time of importation that they are intended for exportation whether after transhipment in or transit through British India or otherwise.]

Supplemental Provisions.

Evidence of origin of goods imported by sea.

13. In the case of goods brought into British India by sea, evidence of the port of shipment shall, in a prosecution for an offence against this Act or section 18 of the Sea Customs Act, 1878, as amended by this Act, be prima facie evidence of the place or country in which the goods were made or produced.

Cost of defence or prosecution.

14. (1) On any such prosecution as is mentioned in the last foregoing section or on any prosecution for an offence against any of the sections of the Indian Penal Code, as amended by this Act, which relate to trade, property and other marks, the Court may order costs to be paid to the defendant by the prosecutor or to the prosecutor by the defendant, having regard to the information given by and the conduct of the defendant and prosecutor respectively.

(2) Such costs shall, on appilcation to the Court, be recoverable as if they were a fine.

Limitation of prosecution.

15. No such prosecution as is mentioned in the last foregoing section shall be commenced after the expiration of three years next after the commisison of the offence, or one year after the first discovery thereof by the prosecutor, whichever expiration first happens.

Authority of the Central Government to issue instructions as to administration of this Act.

16. (1) The Central Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette, issue instructions[1] for observance by Criminal Courts in giving effect to any of the provisions of this Act.

(2) Instructions under sub-section (1) may provide, among other matters, for the limits of variation, as regards number, quantity, measure, gauge or weight, which are to be recognised by Criminal Courts as permissible in the case of any goods.

Implied warranty on sale of marked goods.

17. On the sale or in the contract for the sale of any goods to which a trade mark or mark or trade description has been applied, the seller shall be deemed to warrant that the mark is a genuine mark and not counterfeit or falsely used, or that the trade description is not a false trade description within the meaning of this Act, unless the contrary is expressed in some writing signed by or on behalf of the seller and delivered at the time of the sale or contract to and accepted by the buyer.

Savings.

18. (1) Nothing in this Act shall exempt any person from any suit or other proceeding which might, but for anything in this Act, be brought against him.

The word ''offence'' in S. 15 does not mean the very first such offence. If such an interpretation of the section be good law a person infringing another's trade mark may merely do so once, clandestinely, sit quiet for three years and then make a public use of it without any fear of a criminal prosecution. 26 S.L.R. 241=139 I.C. 335=1932 S. 94. The word 'offence' means the offence in respect of which the prosecution is launched. The limitation prescribed by S. 15 is three years from the date of commission of the offence charged and one year from the date of discovery by the prosecutor of the offence charged, which ever is less. 1940 Rang. J. 55 The language of S. 15 is perfectly plain and there is nothing in the rest of the Act to control the natural meaning of the words. The starting point of limitation in all cases under S. 15 is the date of the offence charged. I.L.R. (1937) Bom. 183; 1939 N. L.J. 55. There is nothing in the section to suggest that in a case of series of infringements the prosecution should be commenced within three years from the date of the first offence. 1931 M. 276=131 I.C. 848. See also 1930 Cal. 274; 1928 Cal. 495. The owner of a trade mark should not wait for several years while his trade mark is infringed continuously and then bring a criminal complaint in respect of some recent infringement. If the goods of a manufacturer from the mark he has used are known by a particular name the adoption by a rival trader of any mark which would cause his goods to bear the same name in the market may be as much a violation of the rights of that rival as an actual copy of his device. In such cases dissimilarity of the rival mark is not a complete defence. A trade mark applied by a shirt maker to his shirts may be an infringement of a similar mark applied by a manufacturer to his cloth. 36 I.C. 168=17 Cr.L. (2) Nothing in this Act shall entitle any person to refuse to make a complete discovery or to answer any question or interrogatory in any suit or other proceeding, but such discovery or answer shall not be admissible in evidence against such person in any such prosecution as is mentioned in section 14.

(3) Nothing in this Act shall be construed so as to render liable to any prosecution or punishment any servant of a master resident in British India who in good faith acts in obedience to the instructions of such master, and on demand made by or on behalf of the prosecutor, has given full information as to his master and as to the instructions which he has received from his master.

Definition of piece-goods.

[1]19. For the purpose of section 12 of this Act and clause (f) of section 18 of the Sea Customs Act, 1878, as amended by this Act, the Central Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette, declare what classes of goods are included in the expression 'piece-goods, such as are ordinarily sold by length or by the piece.'

Determination of character of goods by sampling.

20. (1) The Central Government may make rules,[2] for the purposes of this Act, to provide with respect to any goods which purport or are alleged to be of uniform number, quantity, measure, gauge or weight, for the number of samples to be selected and tested and for the selection of the samples.

[3]"(1-A) The Central Government may make rules providing for the manner in which for the purposes of section 12 cotton yarn and cotton thread shall be marked with the particulars required by that section, and for the exemption of certain premises used for the manufacture, bleaching, dyeing or finishing of cotton yarn or cotton thread from the provisions of that section."

(2) With respect to any goods for the selection and testing of samples of which provision is not made in any rules for the time being in force under sub-section (1), the Court or officer of Customs, as the case may be, having occasion to ascertain the number, quantity, measure, gauge or weight of the goods, shall, by order in writing, determine the number of samples to be selected and tested and the manner in which the samples are to be selected.

(3) The average of the results of the testing in pursuance of rules under sub-section (1) or of an order under sub-section (2) shall be prima facie evidence of the number, quantity, measure, gauge or weight, as the case may be, of the goods.

(4) If a person having any claim to, or in relation to, any goods of which samples have been selected and tested in pursuance of rules under sub-section (1) or of an order under sub-section (2), desires that any further samples of the goods be selected and tested, they shall, on his written application and on the payment in advance by him to the Court or officer of Customs, as the case may be, of such sums for defraying the cost of the further selection and testing as the Court or officer may from time to time require, be selected and tested to such extent as may be permitted by rules to be made by the Central Government in this behalf or as, in the case of goods with respect to which provision is not made in such rules, the Court or officer of Customs may determine in the circumstances to be reasonable, the samples being selected in manner prescribed under sub-section (1), or in sub-section (2), as the case may be.

(5) The average of the results of the testing referred to in sub-section (3) and of the further testing under sub-section (4) shall be conclusive proof of the number, quantity, measure, gauge or weight, as the case may be, of the goods.

(6) Rules under this section shall be made after previous publication.

Information as to commission of offence.

21. An officer of the Government whose duty it is to take part in the enforcement of this Act shall not be compelled in any Court to say whence he got any information as to the commission of any offence against this Act.

Punishment of abetment in India of acts done out of India.

22. If any person, being within British India, abets the commission, without British India, of any act which, if committed in British India, would, under this Act, or under any section of that part of Chapter XVIII of the Indian Penal Code which relates to trade, property and other marks, be an offence, he may be tried for such abetment in any place in British India in which he may be found, and be punished therefor with the punishment to which he would be liable if he had himself committed in that place the act which he abetted.

THE MERCHANT SEAMEN (LITIGATION) ACT (XXI OF 1946).

[23*rd April*, 1946.

An Act to provide for the special protection in respect of civil and revenue litigation of serving merchant seamen.

WHEREAS it is expedient to provide for special protection in respect of civil and revenue litigation of serving merchant seamen; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Short title, extent and commencement.

1. (1) This Act may be called the Merchant Seamen (Litigation) Act, 1946.

(2) It extends to the whole of British India.

(3) It shall come into force on such date as the Central Government may, by notification in the official Gazette, appoint.

Interpretation.

2. (1) In this Act, unless there is anything repugnant in the subject or context,—

(a) "agreement" means articles of agreement entered into by a seaman whereby he engages himself to serve on board a sea-going ship;

(b) "Court" means a Civil or Revenue Court;

(c) "master" means a person, other than a pilot or harbour master, having command or charge of a sea-going ship;

(d) "prescribed" means prescribed by rules made under this Act;

(e) "proceeding" includes any suit, appeal or application;

(f) "seaman" means every person, other than a person subject to naval law, who is employed or engaged under an agreement on board any sea-going ship in any capacity, other than that of pilot or apprentice but including that of master;

(g) "shipping master" means, in relation to any seaman, a shipping master appointed—

(i) for the port at which the seaman entered into, or is believed to have entered into, an agreement, or

(ii) where the seaman did not enter into his agreement in British India, for the port to which the seaman has returned, or is expected to return, on the completion of his latest voyage, and includes a deputy shipping master or any person carrying out the functions of a shipping master.

(2) For the purposes of this Act a seaman shall be deemed to be a serving seaman during any period commencing on the date on which he enters into an agreement and ending thirty days after the date on which he is finally discharged from such agreement.

Particulars to be furnished in plaints, etc.

3. If any person presenting any plaint, application or appeal to any Court has reason to believe that any adverse party is a serving seaman, he shall make a statement accordingly in the plaint, application or appeal.

Power of Collector to intervene in case of unrepresented seaman.

4. If any Collector has reason to believe that any seaman who ordinarily resides or has property in his district and who is a party to any proceeding pending before any Court, is unable to appear therein or is a serving seaman, the Collector may certify the facts in the prescribed manner to the Court.

Notice to be given in case of unrepresented sea-man.

5. (1) If a Collector has certified under section 4, or if a Court has reason to believe that a seaman who is a party to any proceeding before the Court, is unable to appear therein, or is a serving seaman, the Court shall suspend the proceeding and shall give notice thereof in the prescribed manner to the shipping master:

Provided that the Court may refrain from suspending the proceeding and giving the notice—

(a) if the proceeding is one instituted or made by the seaman, alone or conjointly with others, with the object of enforcing a right of pre-emption, or

(b) if the interests of the seaman in the proceeding are, in the opinion of the Court, either identical with those of any other party thereto and adequately represented by such other party, or merely of a formal nature.

(2) If it appears to the Court before which any proceeding is pending that a seaman though not a party to the proceeding is materially concerned in the outcome of the proceeding and that his interests are likely to be prejudiced by his inability to attend, the Court may suspend the proceeding and shall give notice thereof in the prescribed manner to the shipping master.

Postponement of proceedings.

6. (1) If on receipt of a notice under section 5, the shipping master certifies to the Court in the prescribed manner that the seaman is a serving seaman, the Court shall thereupon postpone the proceeding in respect of the seaman for the prescribed period, or if no period has been prescribed, for such period as it thinks fit:

Provided that if by reason of the continued absence of the seaman the question of any further postponement of the proceeding in respect of the seaman arises, the Court shall in deciding the question have regard to the purposes of this Act.

(2) If the shipping master either certifies that the seaman is not for the time being a serving seaman or fails within two months from the date of the receipt of the notice under section 5 to certify that the seaman is a serving seaman, the Court may, if it thinks fit, continue the proceeding.

Power to set aside decrees and orders passed against serving seaman.

7. (1) Where in any proceeding before a Court a decree or order has been passed against any seaman while he was a serving seaman, the seaman, or if he dies while he is a serving seaman, his legal representative, may apply to the said Court to have the decree or order set aside, and if the Court, after giving an opportunity to the opposite party of being heard, is satisfied that the interests of justice require that the decree or order should be set aside as against the seaman, the Court shall, subject to such conditions, if any, as it thinks fit to impose, make an order accordingly, and may, if it appears that any opposite party in the proceeding has failed to comply with the provisions of section 3, award, subject to such conditions as may be prescribed, damages against such opposite party.

(2) The period of limitation for an application under sub-section (1) shall be sixty days from the date on which the seaman first ceases to be a serving seaman after the passing of the decree or order, or where the summons or notice was not duly served on the seaman in the proceeding in which the decree or order was passed, from the date on which the applicant had knowledge of the decree or order, whichever is later; and the provisions of section 5 of the Indian Limitation Act, 1908 (IX of 1908), shall apply to such applications.

(3) Where the decree or order in respect of which an application under sub-section (1) is made is of such a nature that it cannot be set aside as against the seaman only, it may be set aside as against all or any of the parties against whom it was made.

(4) Where a Court sets aside a decree or order under this section, it shall appoint a day for proceeding with the suit, appeal or application, as the case may be, in respect of which the decree or order was passed.

Modification of law of limitation where seaman is a party.

8. In computing the period of limitation provided in this Act or in the Indian Limitation Act, 1908 (IX of 1908), or in any other law for the time being in force, for any suit, appeal or application to a Court to which a seaman is a party, the period or periods during which the seaman has been a serving seaman, and if the seaman has died while he was a serving seaman, the period from the date of his death to the date on which his next of kin was first informed, by the shipping master or otherwise, of his death, shall be excluded:

Provided that this section shall not apply in the case of any suit, appeal or application instituted or made with the object of enforcing a right of pre-emption except in such areas and in such circumstances as the Central Government may, by notification in the official Gazette, specify in this behalf.

Reference in matters of doubt to shipping masters.

9. If any Court is in doubt whether, for the purposes of section 7 or section 8, a seaman is or was at any particular time or during any particular period a serving seaman, it may refer the question to the shipping master, and the certificate of the shipping master shall be conclusive evidence on the question.

Power to make rules.

10. The Central Government, after consulting the High Courts concerned, may by notification in the official Gazette make rules to provide for all or any of the following matters, namely:—

(a) the manner and form in which any notice or certificate under this Act shall be given;

(b) the period for which proceedings or any class of proceedings shall be postponed under sub-section (1) of section 6;

(c) the conditions subject to which damages may be awarded under sub-section (1) of section 7, and the amount of such damages;

(d) any other matter which is to be or may be prescribed, and generally, any matters incidental to the purposes of this Act.

THE MESNE PROFITS AND IMPROVEMENTS ACT (XI OF 1855).[1]

Declared in force throughout B.I., except as regards the Scheduled Districts, Act XV of 1874, S. 3.

Year.	No.	Short Title	Amendments.
1885	XI	The Mesne Profits and Improvements Act, 1855.	Repealed in part (locally), IV of 1882.

[27*th March*, 1855.

An Act relating to mesne profits and to improvements made by holders under defective titles in cases to which the English Law is applicable.

WHEREAS it is expedient, in cases to which the English law is applicable, to limit the liability for mesne profits and to secure to bona fide holders under defective titles the value of improvements made by them; It is enacted as follows:—

Preamble.

No person chargeable with rent bona fide paid to holder under defective title

1. No person shall be chargeable with any rents or profits of any immovable property which he has bona fide paid over to any person of whom he bona fide held the same, notwithstanding it may afterwards appear that the person to whom such payment was made had no right to receive such rents or profits.

Value of improvements made by bona fide holders under defective titles secured to them.

2. If any person shall erect any building or make an improvement upon any lands held by him bona fide in the belief that he had an estate in fee-simple, or other absolute estate, and such person, his heirs or assigns, or his or their under-tenants, be evicted from such lands by any person having a better title, the person who erected the building or made the improvement, his heirs or assigns, shall be entitled either to have the value of the building or improvement so erected or made during such holding and in such belief, estimated and paid or secured to him or them, or, at the option of the person causing the eviction, to purchase the interest of such person in the lands at the value thereof, irrespective of the value of such building or improvement:

Provided that the amount to be paid or secured in respect of such building or improvement shall be the estimated value of the same at the time of such eviction.

Amount how fixed

Act to apply only to cases governed by English Law.

3. Nothing in this Act contained shall extend to any case to which the English Law is not applicable.

THE METAL TOKENS ACT (I OF 1889).[1]

[1*st February*, 1889.

An Act for the Protection of Coinage and other purposes.

WHEREAS it is expedient to prohibit the making, or the possession for issue or the issue, by private persons, of pieces of metal for use as money;

AND WHEREAS it is also expedient to amend section 28 of the Indian Penal Code;

It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Title and extent.

1. (1) This Act may be called THE METAL TOKENS ACT, 1889.

(2) It extends to the whole of British India; [2][*]

(3) [2][* * * * *]

Definition.

2. In this Act "issue" means to put a piece of metal into circulation for the first time for use as money in British India, such piece having been made in contravention of this Act or brought into British India by sea or by land in contravention of any notification for the time being in force under section 19 of the Sea Customs Act, 1878.

Prohibition of making by private persons of pieces of metal to be used as money.

3. No piece of copper or bronze or of any other metal or mixed metal, which, whether stamped or unstamped, is intended to be used as money, shall be made except by the authority of the Central Government.

Penalty for unlawful making, issue or possession of such pieces.

4. (1) In either of the following cases, namely:—

(a) if any person makes in contravention of the last foregoing section, or issues or attempts to issue, any such piece as is mentioned in that section,

(b) if, after the expiration of three months from the commencement of this Act, any person has in his possession, custody or control any such piece as is mentioned in the last foregoing section, with intent to issue the piece, the person shall be punished,

(i) if he has not been previously convicted under this section, with imprisonment which may extend to one year, or with fine, or with both; or

(ii) if he has been previously convicted under this section, with imprisonment which may extend to three years, or with fine, or with both.

(2) If any person is convicted of an offence under sub-section (1), he shall, in addition to any other punishment to which he may be sentenced, forfeit all such pieces as aforesaid, and all instruments and materials for the making of such pieces, which may have been found in his possession, custody or control.

(3) If in the trial of any such offence the question arises whether any piece of metal or mixed metal was intended to be used or to be issued for use as money, the burden of proving that the piece was not intended to be so used or issued shall lie on the accused person.

This Act has been declared in force in Upper Burma (except the Shan States) by the Burma Laws Act, 1898 (XIII of 1898), in the Arakan Hill District by Regulation I of 1916, S. 2, Bur. Code.

It had been previously extended there by notification under S. 5 of the Scheduled Districts Act, 1874 (XIV of 1874), see Burma Gazette, 1893, Pat. I, p. 154.

[2] The word "and" at the end of sub-S. (2) and sub-S. (3) were repealed by Act X of 1914, S. 3 and Sch. II.

Cognizance of offences under the last foregoing section.

5. (1) The offence of making, in contravention of section 3, any such piece as is mentioned in that section shall be a cognizable offence.

(2) Notwithstanding anything in the [1]Code of Criminal Procedure, 1882, no other offence punishable under section 4 shall be a cognizable offence, or beyond the limits of a presidency-town be taken cognizance of by any Magistrate, except a District Magistrate or Sub-Divisional Magistrate, without the previous sanction of the District Magistrate or Sub-Divisional Magistrate.

Application of certain of the foregoing provisions of this Act to importation of pieces of metal for use as money.

6. If at any time the Central Government sees fit, by notification under section 19 of the Sea Customs Act, 1878, to prohibit or restrict the bringing by sea or by land into British India of any such pieces of metal as are mentioned in section 3, [2][it] may by the notification[3] direct that any person contravening the prohibition or restriction shall be liable to the punishment to which he would be liable if he were convicted under this Act of making such pieces in British India, instead of to the penalty mentioned in section 167 of the Sea Customs Act, 1878, and that the provisions of sub-section (3) of section 4 and sub-section (1) of section 5, or of either sub-section, in relation to the offence of making such pieces shall, notwithstanding anything in the Sea Customs Act, 1878, apply, so far as they can be made applicable, to the offence of contravening the prohibition or restriction notified under section 19 of that Act.

7. [Addition to section 98, Act X of 1882.] Rep. by the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898 (V of 1898).

Prohibition of receipt by local authorities and railways as money of metal which is not coin

8. (1) No piece of metal which is not coin as defined in the Indian Penal Code shall be received as money by or on behalf of any railway-administration or local authority.

(2) If any person on behalf of a railway-administration, or on behalf of a local authority, or on behalf of the lessee of the collection of any toll or other impost leviable by a railway-administration or local authority, receives as money any piece of metal which is not such coin as aforesaid, he shall be punished with fine which may extend to ten rupees.

rate, not exceeding six and one-quarter per centum ad valorem, as may from time to time be fixed by the Central Government by notification in the official Gazette:

Provided that until the 1st day of April 1947, the rate of duty so fixed shall not exceed two and one-half per centum ad valorem.

(2) On the last day of each month or as soon thereafter as may be convenient, there shall be paid to the credit of a fund to be called the Mica Mines Labour Welfare Fund (hereinafter referred to as the Fund) the proceeds of the duty of customs recovered during that month after deduction of the expenses, if any, for collection and recovery.

The Mica Mines Labour Welfare Fund.

3. (1) The fund shall be applied by the Central Government to meet expenditure incurred in connexion with measures in the opinion of the Central Government necessary or expedient to promote the welfare of labour employed in the mica mining industry.

(2) Without prejudice to the generality of sub-section (1), the Fund may be utilized to defray—

(a) the cost of measures for the benefit of labour employed in the mica mining industry directed towards—

(i) the improvement of public health and sanitation, the prevention of disease, and the provision and improvement of medical facilities,

(ii) the provision and improvement of water supplies and facilities for washing,

(iii) the provision and improvement of educational facilities,

(iv) the improvement of standards of living, including housing and nutrition, the amelioration of social conditions and the provision of recreational facilities,

(v) the provsion of transport to and from work;

(b) the grant to a Provincial Government, a local authority or the owner, agent or manager of a mica mine, of money in aid of any scheme approved by the Central Government for any purpose for which the Fund may be utilised;

(c) the cost of administering the Fund, including the allowances, if any, of members of the Advisory Committees constituted under section 4, and the salaries and the allowances, if any, of officers appointed under section 5.

(d) any other expenditure which the Central Government may direct to be defrayed from the Fund.

(3) The Central Government shall have power to decide whether any particular expenditure is or is not debitable to the Fund, and its decision shall be final.

(4) The Central Government shall publish annually in the official Gazette report of the activities financed from the Fund, together with an estimate of receipts and expenditure of the Fund and a statement of accounts.

Advisory Committees.

4. (1) The Central Government shall constitute two Advisory Committees, one for the Province of Madras and one for the Province of Bihar, to advise the Central Government on any matters arising out of the administration of this Act or the Fund.

(2) The members of the Advisory Committees shall be appointed by the Central Government, and shall be of such number and chosen in such manner as may be prescribed by rules made under this Act:

Provided that each Committee shall include an equal number of members representing mica mine owners and workmen employed in the mica mining industry, and that at least one member of each Committee shall be a woman, and at least one member of each Committee shall be a member of the Legislature of the Province concerned.

(3) The Chairman of each Advisory Committee shall be appointed by the Central Government.

(4) The Central Government shall publish in the official Gazette the names of all members of the Advisory Committees.

Appointment and powers of officers.

5. (1) The Central Government may appoint Inspectors, Welfare Administrators and such other officers as it thinks necessary to administer the Fund or to supervise or carry out the activities financed from the Fund.

(2) Every officer so appointed shall be deemed to be a public servant within the meaning of section 21 of the Indian Penal Code (XLV of 1860).

(3) Any Inspector or Welfare Administrator may—

(a) with such assistance, if any, as he thinks fit, enter at any reasonable time any place which he considers it necessary to enter for the purpose of supervising or carrying out the activities financed from the Fund, and (b) do within such place anything necessary for the proper discharge of his duties.

Power to make rules.

6. (1) The Central Government may, by notification in the official Gazette, make rules to carry into effect the purposes of this Act.

(2) Without prejudice to the generality of the foregoing power, such rules may provide for—

(a) the making of refunds, remissions and recoveries of the duty of customs imposed by sub-section (1) of section 2;

(b) the composition of the Advisory Committees constituted under section 4, the manner in which the members thereof shall be chosen, the term of office of such members, the allowances, if any, payable to them, and the manner in which the Advisory Committees shall conduct their business;

(c) the conditions governing the grant of money from the Fund under clause (b) of sub-section (2) of section 3;

(d) the form of the estimate and statement referred to in sub-section (4) of section 3;

(e) the conditions of service and the duties of all officers appointed under section 5;

(f) the furnishing by owners or agents or managers of mica mines of statistical or other information, and the punishment by fine of failure to comply with the requirements of any rule made under this clause.

THE MINES MATERNITY BENEFIT ACT (XIX OF 1941).

[26th November, 1941.

An Act to regulate the employment of women in mines for a certain period before and after childbirth and to provide for payment of maternity benefit to them.

WHEREAS it is expedient to regulate the employment of women in mines for a certain period before and after childbirth and to provide for payment of maternity benefit to them; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

day of her delivery, and such absence shall be treated as a period of authorized absence on leave.

(3) The examination referred to in the proviso to sub-section (1) or in sub-section (2) shall, if the woman so desires, be carried out by a woman.

(4) The absence of a woman in the period during which she is entitled to maternity benefit under this Act shall be treated as authorized absence on leave.]

Right to and liability for payment of maternity benefit

5. (1) Every woman, [1][other than a woman to whom the provisions of sub-section (2) apply,] employed in a mine who has been continuously employed in that mine or in mines belonging to the owner of that mine for a period of not less than six months preceding the date of her delivery shall, if she complies with the conditions imposed by this Act, be entitled to receive, and the owner of the mine shall be liable to make her, in accordance with the provisions of this Act, a payment at the rate of [1][twelve annas] a day for every day [2][* * * *] during the four weeks immediately preceding and including the day of her delivery and for each day of the four weeks following her delivery.

[(2) Every woman who has worked below ground in a mine or mines of the same owner for not less than ninety days in all during a period not exceeding six months immediately preceding the date on which clause (a) of sub-section (2) of section 3 becomes applicable to her case shall, if she complies with the other conditions imposed by this Act, be entitled to receive, and the owner of the mine shall be liable to make to her, in accordance with the provisions of this Act, a payment at the rate of six rupees a week for the ten weeks immediately preceding her delivery and for the six weeks following her delivery.] (Inserted by Act X of 1945.)

[2][Provided that no such payment shall be made for any day on which she attends work and receives payment therefor during the four weeks preceding her delivery.] (Added by Act XVIII of 1943.)

Explanation.—Periods of casual absence as defined by rules made under section 15 or authorised absence on account of illness or leave shall count as employment in determining whether employment has been continuous.

Payment of bonus

6. (1) The Central Government may by rules made under section 15 provide that a woman entitled to maternity benefit under this Act shall, if at the time of her delivery she utilized the services of a qualified midwife or other trained person, receive in addition to the maternity benefit due to her a bonus not exceeding in amount three rupees:

Provided that she shall not receive such bonus if at the place chosen by her for her confinement she would have been entitled free of charge to the services of a qualified midwife or other trained person provided by the owner of the mine.

(2) Such rules may further provide for the determination by the Provincial Government of the amount of the bonus and of the qualifications which shall be possessed by qualified midwives and other trained persons for the purposes of this section.

Notice of delivery to be given to manager.

7. A woman entitled to maternity benefit under this Act unless she has given the notice referred to in sub-section (1) [1][or sub-section (2) as the case may be,] of section 4, shall on being delivered of a child give notice of her delivery in the prescribed manner to the manager before the expiry of seven days from the date of her delivery, and shall before the expiry of six months from such date furnish proof of the presrcibed nature to the manager both of her delivery and of the date of her delivery:

Provided that a woman giving notice under section 4 or this section may therein nominate a person for the purposes of sub-section (2) of section 9.

Payment of maternity benefit.

8. (1) Where a woman entitled to maternity benefit has given the notice referred to in sub-section (1) of section 4 and has obtained permission to absent herself from work up to the date of her delivery, the manager shall either at once or within three days pay to her maternity benefit for four weeks in advance.

[1][(1-A) Where a woman entitled to maternity benefit has given the notice referred to in sub-section (2) of section 4, the manager shall within three days pay to her maternity benefit for ten weeks in advance, unless within the said three days as a result of the examination referred to in that sub-section he obtains a certificate that she is not pregnant or not likely to be delivered of a child within ten weeks or the woman refuses to submit to such examination.]

(2) A woman entitled to maternity benefit who has been delivered of a child shall, on furnishing the proof referred to in section 7,—

(a) if she has received an advance payment under sub-section (1) [1][or sub-section 1-A] be paid the balance of the maternity benefit due to her at the end of the fourth week from the date of her delivery or within three days of the furnishing of proof, whichever date is later;

(b) if she has received no such advance payment,—

(i) if the proof is furnished before the end of the fourth week from the date of delivery, be paid at once or within three days so much of the maternity benefit as is then due to her, and be paid the balance at the end of the said fourth week;

(ii) if the proof is furnished after the end of the fourth week from the date of delivery, be paid at once or within three days the whole amount of the maternity benefit due to her.

Disposal of maternity benefit in case of death of women entitled to receive it.

9. (1)If a woman entitled to maternity benefit who has received an advance under sub-section (1) [1][or sub-section 1-A] of section 8 dies before being delivered of the child, the advance shall not be recoverable.

(2) If a woman entitled to maternity benefit having been delivered of a child dies before payment of the maternity benefit, or where an advance under sub-section (1) [1][or sub-section 1-A] of section 8 has been made, of the balance of the maternity benefit due to her is made the amount due to her up to the date of her death shall, on the prescribed proof of the birth and date of the birth of the child and of the death and date of death of the woman being furnished at any time before the expiry of six months from the date of delivery, be paid if the child is living to the person who undertakes the care of the child, and if the child is not living to the person nominated by her under the proviso to section 7 or if she has made no such nomination to the legal representative of the deceased woman.

Prohibition of dismissal during or on account of absence from work owing to confinement

10. (1) When a woman absents herself from work in accordance with [2][sub-section (1) of section 3 or in circumstances under which in accordance with this Act the absence is to be treated as authorized absence on leave] it shall be unlawful for the manager to dismiss her during or on account of such absence, or to give notice of dismissal on such a day that the notice will expire during such absence.

LEG. REF.

[1] Substituted and inserted by Act X of 1945.

[2] Substituted by Act X of 1945.

(2) The dismissal of a woman at any time within six months before she is delivered of a child, if the woman but for such dismissal would have been entitled to maternity benefit under this Act, shall not have the effect of depriving her of that maternity benefit if the Chief Inspector is satisfied that her dismissal was without sufficient cause.

Power of Chief Inspector or Inspector to direct payments to be made.

11. (1) Any woman claiming that maternity benefit to which she is entitled under this Act and any person claiming that a payment due under sub-section (2) of section 9 is improperly withheld may make a complaint to the Chief Inspector or any Inspector, [1][or any other officer authorized in this behalf by the Central Government].

(2) On receipt of such complaint or on his own motion without any such complaint being made, the Chief Inspector or Inspector [1][or other officer] may make inquiry or cause an inquiry to be made, and if satisfied that a payment has been wrongfully withheld may direct the payment to be made in accordance with his orders.

Penalty for contravention of Act by a woman

12. Any woman who does any work for which she receives payment in cash or kind after she has been permitted under sub-section (1) of section 4 to absent herself from work, or who engages in employment in any mine in contravention of [2][sub-section (1) of section 37], shall be punishable with fine which may extend to ten rupees, and, if she is entitled to maternity benefit under this Act, shall forfeit her right to any maternity benefit not already paid to her.

Penalty for contravention of Act by owner or manager.

13. (1) Any owner or manager of a mine, who contravenes any provision of this Act for which no express penalty is provided, shall be punishable with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees.

(2) The Court imposing the fine may, if the contravention has resulted in depriving a woman of any maternity benefit due to her, order the whole or any part of the fine when paid to be applied in payment of compensation to the woman for any loss caused to her by the contravention of the provision on account of which the fine has been imposed, and an Appellate Court or the High Court in exercise of its powers of revision may also make such order.

Cognisance of cases

14. (1) No prosecution under this Act shall be instituted except by or with the sanction of the Chief Inspector, [1][or of an officer authorized in this behalf by the Central Government].

(2) No Court inferior to that of a Magistrate of the first class shall try an offence punishable under this Act or any rule made thereunder.

(3) No Court shall take cognizance of an offence punishable under this Act or any rule made thereunder, unless complaint thereof is made within six months of the date on which the offence is alleged to have been committed:

Provided that in computing the said period of six months any time spent in obtaining the sanction of the Chief Inspector required by sub-section (1) shall be excluded.

Power of Central Government to make rules

15. (1) The Central Government may, subject to the condition of previous publication, by notification in the official Gazette, make rules to carry out the purposes of this Act.

(2) In particular and without prejudice to the generality of the foregoing power, such rules may—

(a) require the maintenance of registers and records for the purposes of this Act and prescribe the form thereof;

LEG. REF.

[1] Inserted by Act X of 1945.

[2] Substituted by Act X of 1945.

(b) prescribe the form of the notices referred to in section 4 and section 7, and require mines to supply copies thereof to women workers;

(c) regulate the examination of women [1][referred to in] section 4, and the grant of the certificates therein referred to;

(d) prescribe the nature of and the method of furnishing the proof referred to in section 7, section 8 and section 9;

(e) regulate the manner of applying for and paying maternity benefit;

(f) assign duties to, and regulate the powers of, the Chief Inspector and Inspectors [2][and the officers authorized by the Central Government referred to in section 11 and sub-section (1) of S. 14], for the purposes of this Act.

(3) Any rule made under this section may provide that a contravention thereof shall be punishable with fine which may extend to fifty rupees.

Abstract of this Act and the rules made thereunder to be exhibited in mines

16. The manager of every mine in which women are employed shall cause an abstract in the local Indian language of the provisions of this Act and of the rules made thereunder to be exhibited in the mine in such manner that they may come to the notice of every woman employed in the mine.

(2) For any contravention of the provisions of this section the manager shall be punishable with fine which may extend to one hundred rupees.

Power of Central Government to exempt mines from operation of Act

17. The Central Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette, exempt any mine or class of mines from the operation of this Act.

Act binding on Crown.

18. The provisions of this Act shall be binding on the Crown.

[1][(jj) where work of the same kind is carried out by two or more sets of workers working during different periods of the day, each of such sets is called a 'relay';]

(k) "serious bodily injury" means any injury which involves, or in all probability will involve, the permanent loss of the use of, or permanent injury to, any limb, or the permanent loss of or injury to the sight or hearing, or the fracture of any limb or the enforced absence of the injured person from work for a period exceeding twenty days; and (l) "week" means the period between midnight on Saturday night and midnight on the succeeding Saturday night.

CHAPTER II.

INSPECTORS.

Chief Inspector and Inspectors.

4. (1) The Central Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette, appoint a duly qualified person to be Chief Inspector of Mines for the whole of British India, and duly qualified persons to be Inspectors of Mines subordinate to the Chief Inspector.

(2) No person shall be appointed to be Chief Inspector or an Inspector, or having been appointed shall continue to hold such office who is or becomes directly or indirectly interested in any mine or mining rights in India.

(3) The District Magistrate may exercise the powers and perform the duties of an Inspector subject to the general or special orders of the Central Government:

Provided that nothing in this sub-section shall be deemed to empower a District Magistrate to exercise any of the powers conferred by section 19 or section 32.

(4) The Chief Inspector and every Inspector shall be deemed to be a public servant within the meaning of the Indian Penal Code.

Functions of Inspectors

5. (1) The Chief Inspector may, by order in writing, prohibit or restrict the exercise by any Inspector named, or any class of Inspectors specified, in the order, of any power conferred on Inspectors by this Act, and shall, subject as aforesaid, declare the local area or areas within which, or the group or class of mines with respect to which, Inspectors shall exercise their respective powers.

(2) The Inspector shall give information to owners, agents and managers of mines, situate within the local area or areas or belonging to the group or class of mines, in respect of which he exercises powers under sub-section (1) as to all regulations and rules which concern them respectively and as to the places where copies of such regulations and rules may be obtained.

Powers of Inspectors of Mines.

6. The Chief Inspector and any Inspector may—

(a) make such examination and inquiry as he thinks fit in order to ascertain whether the provisions of this Act and of the regulations, rules and bye-laws and of any orders made thereunder are observed in the case of any mine;

(b) with such assistants (if any) as he thinks fit, enter, inspect and examine any mine or any part thereof at any reasonable time by day or night, but not so as unreasonably to impede or obstruct the working of the mine;

(c) examine into, and make inquiry respecting, the state and condition of any mine or any part thereof, the ventilation of the mine, the sufficiency of [10] Substituted for "Local Government" by A.O., 1937.

(d) two persons nominated by owners of mines or their representatives in such manner as may be prescribed;

[1][(e) two persons to represent the interest of miners, who shall be nominated in accordance with the following provisions:—

(i) if there are one or more registered trade unions having in the aggregate as members not less than one quarter of the miners, the said persons shall be nominated by such trade union or trade unions in such manner as may be prescribed;

(ii) if sub-clause (i) is not applicable and there are one or more registered trade unions having in the aggregate as members not less than 1,000 miners, one of the said persons shall be nominated by such trade union or trade unions in such manner as may be prescribed and the other by the Central Government;

(iii) if neither sub-clause (i) nor sub-clause (ii) is applicable, the said persons shall be nominated by the Central Government.

Explanation.—In this clause "miner" means a person employed, otherwise than in a position of supervision or management, in any of the mines for which the Mining Board is constituted.]

(2) The chairman shall appoint a person to act as secretary to the Board.

(3) The Central Government may give directions as to the payment of travelling expenses incurred by the secretary or any member of any such Mining Board in the performance of his duty as such secretary or member.

Committees.

11. (1) Where under this Act any question relating to a mine is referred to a Committee, the Committee shall consist of—

(a) a chairman nominated by the Central Government or by such officer or authority as the Central Government may authorise in this behalf;

(b) a person nominated by the chairman and qualified by experience to dispose of the question referred to the Committee; and

(c) two persons of whom one shall be nominated by the owner, agent or manager of the mine concerned, and the other shall be nominated by the Central Government to represent the interests of the persons employed in the mine.

(2) No Inspector or person employed in or in the management of any mine concerned shall serve as chairman or member of a committee appointed under this section.

(3) Where an owner, agent or manager fails to exercise his power of nomination under clause (c) of sub-section (1), the Committee may, notwithstanding such failure, proceed to inquire into and dispose of the matter referred to it.

(4) The Committee shall hear and record such information as the Chief Inspector or the Inspector, or the owner, agent or manager of the mine concerned, may place before it, and shall intimate its decision to the Chief Inspector or the Inspector and to the owner, agent or manager of the mine, and shall report its decision to the Central Government.

(5) On receiving such report the Central Government shall pass orders in conformity therewith unless the Chief Inspector or the owner, agent or manager of the mine has lodged an objection to the decision of the Committee, in which case the Central Government may proceed to review such decision and to pass such orders in the matter as it may think fit. If an objection is lodged by the Chief Inspector, notice of the same shall forthwith be given to the owner, agent or manager of the mine.

LEG. REF.

[1] Cl. (e) inserted by Act V of 1935.

(6) The Central Government may give directions as to the remuneration, if any, to be paid to the members of the Committee or any of them, and as to the payment of the expenses of the inquiry including such remuneration.

Powers of Mining Boards.

12. (1) Any Mining Board constituted under section 10 and any Committee constituted under section 11 may exercise such of the powers of an Inspector under this Act as it thinks necessary or expedient to exercise for the purpose of deciding or reporting upon any matter referred to it.

(2) Every Mining Board constituted under section 10 and every Committee appointed under section 11 shall have the powers of a Civil Court under the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908, for the purpose of enforcing the attendance of witnesses and compelling the production of documents and material objects; and every person required by any such Mining Board or Committee to furnish information before it shall be deemed to be legally bound to do so within the meaning of section 176 of the Indian Penal Code.

Recovery of expenses.

13. The Central Government may direct that the expenses of any inquiry conducted by a Mining Board constituted under section 10 or by a Committee appointed under section 11 shall be borne in whole or in part by the owner or agent of the mine concerned, and the amount so directed to be paid may, on application by the Chief Inspector or an Inspector to a Magistrate having jurisdiction at the place where the mine is situated or where such owner or agent is for the time being resident, be recovered by the distress and sale of any movable property within the limits of the Magistrate's jurisdiction belonging to such [1][owner or agent].

CHAPTER IV.

MINING OPERATIONS AND MANAGEMENT OF MINES.

Notice to be given of mining operations.

14. The owner, agent or manager of a mine shall, in the case of an existing mine within one month from the commencement of this Act, or, in the case of a new mine, within three months after the commencement of mining operations, give to the District Magistrate of the district in which the mine is situated notice in writing in such form and containing such particulars relating to the mine as may be prescribed.

Managers.

15. (1) Save as may be otherwise prescribed, every mine shall be under one manager who shall have the prescribed qualifications and shall be responsible for the control, management and direction of the mine, and the owner or agent of every mine shall appoint himself or some other person, having such qualifications, to be such manager.

(2) If any mine is worked without there being a manager for the mine as required by sub-section (1), the owner and agent shall each be deemed to have contravened the provisions of this section.

LEG. REF.

[1] These words were substituted for the words "owner, agent or manager" by S. 2 and Sch I of the Repealing and Amending Act, 1925 (XXXVII of 1925).

SEC. 15 (2): 'MINE'—MEANING OF—WORKING OF MINE.—In addition to excavations, machinery, etc., works which are incidental to or connected with mining operations clearly fall within the definition of mine in S. 3 (f) of the Act. Whether a particular kind of work comes within the mischief of the definition or not must always be a question of fact. That term is not confined to actual mining operations, that is to say, such operations as relate to the actual raising of coal. 61 Cal. 445=38 C.W.N. 418=48 I.C. 739=35 Cr.L.J. 742=59 C.L.J. 122=1934 Cal. 387.

Duties and responsibilities of owners, agents and managers.

16. (1) The owner, agent and manager of every mine shall be responsible that all operations carried on in connection therewith are conducted in accordance with the provisions of this Act and of the regulations, rules and bye-laws and of any orders made thereunder.

(2) In the event of any contravention of any such provisions by any person whomsoever, the owner, agent and manager of the mine shall each be deemed also to be guilty of such contravention unless he proves that he had taken all reasonable means, by publishing and to the best of his power enforcing those provisions, to prevent such contravention:

Provided that the owner or agent shall not be so deemed if he proves—

(a) that he was not in the habit of taking, and did not in respect of the matter in question take, any part in the management of the mine; and

(b) that he had made all the financial and other provisions necessary to enable the manager to carry out his duties; and

(c) that the offence was committed without his knowledge, consent or connivance.

(3) Save as hereinbefore provided, it shall not be a defence in any proceedings brought against an owner or agent of a mine under this section that a manager of the mine has been appointed in accordance with the provisions of this Act.

CHAPTER V.

PROVISIONS AS TO HEALTH AND SAFETY.

Conservancy.

17. There shall be provided and maintained for every mine, latrine and urinal accommodation of such kind and on such scale, and such supply of water fit for drinking, as may be prescribed.

Medical appliances.

18. At every mine in respect of which the Central Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette, declare this section to apply,[1] such supply of ambulances as stretchers, and of splints, bandages and other medical requirements, as may be prescribed, shall be kept ready at hand in a convenient place and in good and serviceable order.

Powers of Inspectors when causes of danger not expressly provided against exist or when employment of persons is dangerous

19. (1) If, in any respect which is not provided against by any express provision of this Act or of the regulations, rules or bye-laws or of any orders made thereunder, it appears to the Chief Inspector or the Inspector that any mine, or any part thereof or any matter, thing or practice in or connected with the mine, or with control, management or direction thereof, is dangerous to human life or safety, or defective so as to threaten, or tend to, the bodily injury of any person, he may give notice in writing thereof to the owner, agent or manager of the mine, and shall state in the notice the particulars in which he considers the mine, or part thereof, or the matter, thing or practice, to be dangerous or defective and require the same to be remedied within such time as he may specify in the notice.

[2][(1-A) Without prejudice to the generality of the provisions contained in sub-section (1), the Chief Inspector or the Inspector may, in any area to which the Central Government may by notification in the Official Gazette declare that this sub-section applies, by order in writing addressed to the owner, agent or manager of a mine,—

[1][* ] prohibit the extraction or reduction of pillars in any part of the mine if, in his opinion, such operation is likely to cause the crushing of pillars or the premature collapse of any part of the workings or otherwise endanger the mine, or if, in his opinion, adequate provision against the outbreak of fire has not been made by providing for the sealing off and isolation of the part of the mine in which such operation is contemplated and for restricting the area that might be affected by a fire; [1][ *] and the provisions of sub-sections (3), (4), (5) and (6) shall apply to an order made under this sub-section as they apply to an order made under sub-section (2).]

(2) If the Chief Inspector or an Inspector authorised in this behalf by general or special order in writing by the Chief Inspector is of opinion that there is urgent and immediate danger to the life or safety of any person employed in any mine or part thereof, he may, by an order in writing containing a statement of the grounds of his opinion, prohibit, until the danger is removed, the employment in or about the mine or part thereof of any person whose employment is not in his opinion reasonably necessary for the purpose of removing the danger.

(3) Where an order has been made under sub-section (2) by an Inspector, the owner, agent or manager of the mine may, within ten days after the receipt of the order, appeal against the same to the Chief Inspector who may conform, modify or cancel the order.

(4) The Chief Inspector or the Inspector making a requisition under sub-section (1) or an order under sub-section (2), and the Chief Inspector making an order (other than an order of cancellation) in appeal under sub-section (3), shall forthwith report the same to the Central Government and shall inform the owner, agent or manager of the mine that such report has been so made.

(5) If the owner, agent or manager of the mine objects to a requisition made under sub-section (1) or to an order made by the Chief Inspector under sub-section (2), or sub-section (3). he may, within twenty days after the receipt of the notice containing the requisition or of the order or after the date of the decision of the appeal, as the case may be, send his objection in writing, stating the grounds thereof, to the Central Government, which shall refer the same to a Committee.

(6) Every requisition made under sub-section (1), or order made under sub-section (2), or sub-section (3), to which objections is made under sub-section (5) shall be complied with pending the receipt at the mine of the decision of the Committee:

Provided that the Committee may, on the application of the owner, agent or manager, suspend the operation of a requisition under sub-section (1) pending its decision on the objection.

Nothing in this section shall affect the powers of a Magistrate under section 144 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898.

Notice to be given of accidents.

[2][20. (1)] When any accident occurs in or about a mine causing loss of life or serious bodily injury, or when an accidental explosion, ignition, outbreak of fire or irruption of water occurs in or about a mine, the owner, agent or manager of the mine shall give such notice of the occurrence to such authorities, and in such form, and within such time, as may be prescribed.

LEG. REF.

[2] Sec. 20 has been re-numbered as sub-sec. (1) of sec 20 and sub-secs (2) and (3) added by Act V of 1935

[1][(2) The Central Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette, direct that accidents other than those specified in sub-section (1) which cause bodily injury resulting in the enforced absence from work of the person injured for a period exceeding 48 hours shall be entered in a register the prescribed form or shall be subject to the provisions of sub-section (1).

(3) A copy of the entries in the register referred to in sub-section (2) shall be sent by the owner, agent, or manager of the mine, within fourteen days after the 30th day of June and the 31st day of December in each year, to the Chief Inspector.]

Power of Government to appoint Court of inquiry in case of accidents

21. (1) When any accidental explosion, ignition, outbreak of fire or irruption of water or other accident has occurred in or about any mine, the Central Government, if it is of opinion that a formal inquiry into the causes of, and circumstances attending, the accident ought to be held, may appoint a competent person to hold such inquiry, and may also appoint any person or persons possessing legal or special knowledge to act as assessor or assessors in holding the inquiry.

(2) The person appointed to hold any such inquiry shall have all the powers of a Civil Court under the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908, for the purpose of enforcing the attendance of witnesses and compelling the production of documents and material objects; and every person required by such person as aforesaid to furnish any information shall be deemed to be legally bound to do so within the meaning of section 176 of the Indian Penal Code.

(3) Any person holding an inquiry under this section may exercise such of the powers of an Inspector under this Act as he may think it necessary or expedient to exercise for the purposes of the inquiry.

(4) The person holding an inquiry under this section shall make a report to the Central Government stating the causes of the accident and its circumstances, and adding any observations which he or any of the assessors may think fit to make.

Publication of reports.

22. The Central Government may cause any report submitted by a Committee under section 11 [2][and shall cause every report submitted] by a Court of inquiry under section 21, to be published at such time and in such manner as it may think fit.

CHAPTER VI.

HOURS AND LIMITATION OF EMPLOYMENT.

Weekly day of rest.

[3][22-A. No person shall be allowed to work in a mine on more than six days in any one week.

Hours of work above ground.

22-B. (1) A person employed above ground in a mine shall not be allowed to work for more than fifty-four hours in any week or for more than ten hours in any day.

(2) The periods of work of any such person shall be so arranged that, along with his intervals for rest, they shall not in any day spread over more than twelve hours, and that he shall not work for more than six hours before he has had an interval for rest of at least one hour.

(3) Persons belonging to two or more relays shall not be allowed to do work of the same kind above ground at the same moment:

Provided that for the purposes of this sub-section person shall not be deemed to belong to separate relays by reason only of the fact that they receive their intervals for rest at different times.

Hours of work below ground.

22-C. (1) A person employed below ground in a mine shall not be allowed to work for more than nine hours in any day.

(2) Work of the same kind shall not be carried on below ground in any mine for a period spreading over more than nine hours in any day except by a system of relays so arranged that the periods of work for each relay are not spread over more than nine hours.

(3) No person employed in a mine shall be allowed to be in any part of the mine below ground except during the periods of work shown in respect of him in the register kept under sub-section (1) of section 28.

Special provision for night relays.

22-D. Where a worker works in a relay whose period of work extends over midnight, the ensuing day for him shall be deemed to be the period of twenty-four hours beginning at the end of the period of work fixed for the relay, and the hours he has worked after midnight, shall be counted towards the previous day.]

Prohibition of employment of certain persons.

[1][23. No person shall be allowed to work in a mine who has already been working in any other mine within the preceding twelve hours.]

[2][23-A. Repealed by Act V of 1935.]

Notices regarding hours of work.

[2][23-B. (1) The manager of every mine shall cause to be posted outside the office of the mine a notice in the prescribed form stating the time of the commencement and of the end of work at the mine and, if it is proposed to work by a system of [3][relays], the time of the commencement and of the end of work for each [3][relay]. [The notice shall also state the time of the commencement and of the end of the intervals for rest fixed for persons employed above ground.] A copy of each such notice shall be sent to the Chief Inspector, if he so requires.

(2) In the case of a mine at which mining operations commence after the 14th day of April, 1930, the notice referred to in sub-section (1) shall be posted not less than seven days before the commencement of work.

(3) Where it is proposed to make any alteration in the time fixed for the commencement or for the end of work in the mine generally or for any [3][relay or in the rest intervals fixed for persons employed above ground], an amended notice in the prescribed form shall be posted outside the office of the mine not less than seven days before the change is made, and a copy of such notice shall be sent to the Chief Inspector not less than seven days before such change. [3][* * *].]

[3][(4) No person shall be allowed to work in a mine otherwise than in accordance with the notice required by sub-section (1).]

Supervising staff.

24. Nothing in [4][section 22-A, section 22-B, section 22-C, section 23, or sub-section (4) of section 23-B] shall apply to persons who may by rules be defined to be persons holding positions of supervision or management or employed in a confidential capacity.

LEG. REF.

[1] Substituted and added by Act V of 1935.

[2] Secs. 23-A and 23-B added by Act XIII of 1928.

[3] (i) In sec. 23-B, sub-sec. (1) for the word "shifts" the word "relays" and for the word "shift" the word "relay" have been substituted by Act V of 1935. (ii) After the word "relay" as so substituted new sentence within brackets has been inserted by ibid. (iii) In sub-sec (3) for the word "shift" the words "relay or in the rest intervals fixed for persons employed above ground" have been substituted and all the words after the words "before such change" have been omitted by ibid.; (iv) after sub-sec. (3) sub-sec. (4) has been inserted by ibid.

Exemption from provisions regarding employment.

25. In case of an emergency involving serious risk to the safety of the mine or of persons employed therein, the manager may, subject to the provisions of section 19, permit persons to be employed in contravention of [1][section 22-A, section 22-B, section 22-C, section 23, or sub-section (4) of section 23-B] on such work as may be necessary to protect the safety of the mine or of the persons employed therein:

Provided that, where such occasion arises, a record of the fact shall immediately be made by the manager and shall be placed before the Chief Inspector or the Inspector at his next inspection of the mine.

Children.

26 No child shall be employed in a mine, or be allowed to be present in any part of mine which is below ground.

Young persons not to be allowed underground without certificates of fitness.

[2][26-A. No person who has not completed his seventeenth year shall be allowed to be present in any part of a mine which is below ground, unless—

(a) a certificate of fitness in the prescribed form and granted to him by a qualified medical practitioner is in the custody of the manager of the mine, and

(b) he carries while at work a token giving a reference to such certificate.]

Disputes as to age.

27. (1) If any question arises between the Chief Inspector or the Inspector and the manager of any mine as to whether any person is a child, [3][or has not completed his seventeenth year], the question shall, in the absence of a certificate as to the age of such person granted in the prescribed manner, be referred by the Chief Inspector or the Inspector for decision to a qualified medical practitioner.

(2) Every certificate as to the age of a person which has been granted in the prescribed manner and any certificate granted by a qualified medical practitioner on a reference under sub-section (1) shall, for the purposes of this Act, be conclusive evidence as to the age of the person to whom it relates.

Register of employees.

[4][28. (1) For every mine there shall be kept in the prescribed form and place a register of all persons employed in the mine showing, in respect of each such person,—

(a) the nature of his employment,

(b) the periods of work fixed for him,

(c) the intervals for rest, if any, to which he is entitled,

(d) the days of rest to which he is entitled, and

(e) where work is carried on by a system of relays, the relay to which he belongs.

(2) The entries in the register prescribed by sub-section (1) shall be such that workers working in accordance therewith would not be working in contravention of any of the provisions of this Chapter.

(3) No person shall be employed in a mine until the particulars required by sub-section (1) have been recorded in the register in respect of such person and no person shall be employed except during the periods of work shown in respect of him in the register.

(4) For every mine to which the Central Government may, by general or special order, declare this sub-section to be applicable, there shall be kept in the prescribed form and place a register which shall show at any moment the name of every person then working below ground in the mine.]

(i) for the protection from injury, in respect of any mine when the workings are discontinued, of property vested in His Majesty or any local authority or railway company as defined in the Indian Railways Act, 1890;

(j) for requiring notices, returns and reports in connection with any matters dealt with by rules to be furnished by owners, agents and managers of mines, and for prescribing the forms of such notices, returns and reports, the persons, and authorities to whom they are to be furnished, the particulars to be contained in them, and the times within which they are to be submitted; and (k) generally to provide for any matter not provided for by this Act or the regulations, provision for which is required in order to give effect to this Act.

Power of Central Government to require rescue stations to be established.

[6][30-A. The Central Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette, make [7][rules] under this section—

[6][(a) requiring the establishment of central rescue stations for groups of specified mines or for all mines in a specified area, and prescribing how and by whom such stations shall be established;

(b) providing for the management of central rescue stations, and regulating the constitution, powers and functions of, and the conduct of business by, the authorities (which shall include representatives of the owners and managers of, and of the miners employed in, the mines or grops of mines concerned) charged with such management;

(c) prescribing the position, equipment, control, maintenance and functions of central rescue stations;

(d) providing for the levy and collection of a duty of excise (at a rate not exceeding six pies per ton) on coke and coal produced in and despatched from mines specified under clause (a) in any group or included under clause (a) in any specified area, the utilisation of the proceeds thereof for the creation of a central rescue station fund for such group or area and the administration of such funds; persons acting in the management of, or employed in, the mine as such owner, agent or manager may deem necessary to prevent accidents and provide for the safety, convenience and discipline of the persons employed in the mine.

(2) If any such owner, agent or manager—

(a) fails to submit within two months a draft of bye-laws after being called upon to do so by the Chief Inspector or Inspector, or

(b) submits a draft of bye-laws which is not in the opinion of the Chief Inspector or Inspector sufficient, the Chief Inspector or Inspector may—

(i) propose a draft of such bye-laws as appear to him to be sufficient, or

(ii) propose such amendments in any draft submitted to him by the owner, agent or manager as will, in his opinion, render it sufficient, and shall send such draft bye-laws or draft amendments to the owner, agent or manager, as the case may be, for consideration.

(3) If within a period of two months from the date on which any draft bye-laws or draft amendments are sent by the Chief Inspector or Inspector to the owner, agent or manager under the provisions of sub-section (2), the Chief Inspector or Inspector and the owner, agent or manager are unable to agree as to the terms of the bye-laws to be made under sub-section (1), the Chief Inspector or Inspector shall refer the draft bye-laws for settlement to the Mining Board or, where there is no Mining Board, to such officer or authority as the Central Government may, by general or special order, appoint in this behalf.

(4) (a) When such draft bye-laws have been agreed to by the owner, agent or manager and the Chief Inspector or Inspector, or, when they are unable to agree, have been settled by the Mining Board or such officer or authority as aforesaid, a copy of the draft bye-laws shall be sent by the Chief Inspector or Inspector to the Central Government for approval.

(c) Before the Central Government approves the draft bye-laws, whether with or without modifications, there shall be published, in such manner as the Central Government may think best adapted for informing the persons affected, notice of the proposal to make the bye-laws and of the place where copies of the draft bye-laws may be obtained, and of the time (which shall not be less than thirty days) within which any objections with reference to the draft bye-laws, made by or on behalf of persons affected, should be sent to the Central Government.

(d) Every objection shall be in writing and shall state—

(i) the specific grounds of objection, and

(ii) the omissions, additions or modifications asked for.

(e) The Central Government shall consider any objection made within the required time by or on behalf of persons appearing to it to be affected, and may approve the bye-laws either in the form in which they were published or after making such amendments thereto as it thinks fit.

(5) The bye-laws, when so approved by the Central Government, shall have effect as if enacted in this Act, and the owner, agent or manager of the mine shall cause a copy of the bye-laws, in English and in such vernacular or vernaculars as may be prescribed, to be posted up in some conspicuous place at or near the mine, where the bye-laws may be conveniently read or seen by the persons employed; and, as often as the same become defaced, obliterated or destroyed, shall cause them to be renewed with all reasonable despatch.

(6) The Central Government may, by order in writing, rescind, in whole or in part, any bye-law so made, and thereupon such bye-law shall cease to have effect accordingly.

Posting up of extracts from Act, regulation regulations

33. There shall be kept posted up at or near every mine, in English and in such vernacular or vernaculars as may be prescribed, the prescribed abstracts of the Act and of the regulations and rules.

CHAPTER VIII.

PENALTIES AND PROCEDURE.

Obstruction.

34. (1) Whoever obstructs the Chief Inspector, an Inspector or any person authorised under section 7 in the discharge of his duties under this Act, or refuses or wilfully neglects to afford the Chief Inspector, an Inspector or such person any reasonable facility for making any entry, inspection, examination or inquiry authorised by or under this Act in relation to any mine, shall be punishable with imprisonment for a term which may extend to three months, or with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees, or with both.

(2) Whoever refuses to produce on the demand of the Chief Inspector or Inspector any registers or other documents kept in pursuance of this Act, or prevents or attempts to prevent or does anything which he has reason to believe to be likely to prevent, any person from appearing before or being examined by an inspecting officer acting in pursuance of his duties under this Act, shall be punishable with fine which may extend to three hundred rupees.

Falsification of records, etc.

35. Whoever—

(a) counterfeits, or knowingly makes a false statement in, any certificate, or any official copy of a certificate, granted under this Act, or

(b) knowingly uses as true any such counterfeit or false certificate, or

(c) makes or produces or uses any false declaration, statement or evidence knowing the same to be false, for the purpose of obtaining for himself or for any other person a certificate, or the renewal of a certificate, under this Act, or any employment in a mine, or

(d) falsifies any plan or register or record the maintenance of which is required by or under this Act, or

(e) makes, gives or delivers any plan, return, notice, record or report containing a statement, entry or detail which is not to the best of his knowledge or belief true, shall be punishable with imprisonment for a term which may extend to three months, or with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees. or with both.

Omission to furnish plans, etc.

36. Any person who, without reasonable excuse the burden of proving which shall lie upon him, omits to make or furnish in the prescribed form or manner or at or within the prescribed time any plan, return, notice, register, record or report required by or under this Act to be made or furnished shall be punishable with fine which may extend to two hundred rupees.

Contravention of provisions regarding employment of labour.

37. Whoever, save as permitted by section 25, contravenes any provision of this Act or of any regulation, rule or by-law or of any order made thereunder prohibiting, restricting or regulating the employment or presence of persons in or about a mine shall be punishable with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees.

SEC. 35.—This section prescribes punishments for not preparing a plan, and it is very unlikely that in such circumstances an incorrect plan would be submitted. 64 C.L. J. 308=1936 Cal. 727=41 C.W.N. 203.

Notice of accidents.

38. [1][(1)] Whoever, in contravention of the provisions [1][of sub-section (1)] of section 20, fails to give notice of any accidental occurrence shall, if the occurrence results in serious bodily injury, be punishable with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees or, if the occurrence results in loss of life, be punishable with imprisonment which may extend to three months or with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees, or with both.

[1][(2) Whoever in contravention of a direction made by the Central Government under sub-section (2) of section 20 fails to record in the prescribed register or to give notice of any accidental occurrence shall be punishable with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees.]

Disobedience of orders.

39. Whoever contravenes any provision of this Act or of any regulation, rule or bye-law or of any order made thereunder for the contravention of which no penalty is hereinbefore provided shall be punishable with fine which may extend to one thousand rupees, and, in the case of a continuing contravention, with a further fine which may extend to one hundred rupees for every day on which the offender is proved to have persisted in the contravention after the date of the first conviction.

Contravention of law with dangerous results.

40. (1) Notwithstanding anything hereinbefore contained, whoever contravenes any provision of this Act or of any regulation, rule or bye-law or of any order made thereunder shall be punishable, if such contravention results in loss of life, with imprisonment which may extend to one year, or with fine which may extend to two thousand rupees, or with both; or, if such contravention results in serious bodily injury, with imprisonment which may extend to six months, or with fine which may extend to one thousand rupees, or with both; or, if such contravention otherwise causes, injury or danger to workers or other persons in or about the mine, with imprisonment which may extend to one month, or with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees, or with both.

(2) Where a person having been convicted under this section is again convicted thereunder, he shall be punishable with double the punishment provided by sub-section (1):

(3) Any Court imposing, or confirming in appeal, revision or otherwise, a sentence of fine passed under this section may, when passing judgment, order the whole or any part of the fine recovered to be paid as compensation to the person injured, or, in the case of his death, to his legal representative:

Provided that, if the fine is imposed in a case which is subject to appeal, no such payment shall be made before the period allowed for presenting the appeal has elapsed, or, if an appeal has been presented, before the decision of the appeal.

Prosecution of owner, agent or manager.

41. No prosecution shall be instituted against any owner, agent or manager for any offence under this Act except at the instance of the Chief Inspector or of the District Magistrate or of an Inspector authorised in this behalf by general or special order in writing by the Chief Inspector.

LEG. REF.

1 (i) Sec. 38 has been re-numbered as sub-sec. (1) and in the said section so re-numbered, after the word "provisions" the words "of sub-sec. (1)" have been inserted by Act V of 1935; (ii) to the section so re-numbered sub-sec. (2) has been newly inserted by ibid.

Limitation of prosecutions.

42. No Court shall take cognizance of any offence under this Act unless complaint thereof has been made within six months of the date on which the offence is alleged to have been committed.

Cognizance of offences.

43. No Court inferior to that of a Presidency Magistrate or Magistrate of the first class shall try any offence under this Act which is alleged to have been committed by any owner, agent or manager of a mine or any offence which is by this Act made punishable with imprisonment.

Reference to Mining Board or Committee in lieu of prosecution in certain cases.

44. (1) If the Court trying any case instituted at the instance of the Chief Inspector or of the District Magistrate or of an Inspector under this Act is of opinion that the case is one which should, in lieu of a prosecution, be referred to a Mining Board or a Committee, it may stay the criminal proceedings, and report the matter to the Central Government with a view to such reference being made.

(2) On receipt of a report under sub-section (1), the Central Government may refer the case to a Mining Board or a Committee, or may direct the Court to proceed with the trial.

CHAPTER IX.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Decision of question whether a mine is under this Act.

45. If any question arises as to whether any excavation or working is a mine within the meaning of this Act, the Central Government may decide the question, and a certificate signed by a Secretary to the Central Government shall be conclusive on the point.

Power to exempt from operation of Act.

46. (1) The Central Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette, exempt[1] [2][either absolutely or subject to any specified conditions] any local area or any mine or group or class of mines or any part of a mine or any class of persons from the operation of all or any specified provisions of this Act:

Provided that no local area or mine or group or class of mines shall be exempted from the provisions of section 26 unless it is also exempted from the operation of all the other provisions of this Act.

[3][(2) * * * * * * * *]

Power to alter or rescind orders.

47. The Central Government [4][* * * * ] may reverse or modify any order passed under this Act [5][ * * * *].

THE MORTGAGED ESTATES ADMINISTRATION ACT (XXIII OF 1855).[1]

Short title given, Act XIV of 1897.
Rep. in pt. Act XVI of 1874.
Rep. (except as to descents or devises occurring or made before 1st January, 1866), Act VIII of 1868.
Declared in force throughout B.I., except as regards the Scheduled Districts Act XV of 1874, sec. 3.

[13*th August*, 1855.

An Act to amend the Law relating to the administration of the Estates of deceased persons charged with money by way of mortgage.

WHEREAS it is expedient that the law, under which the real and personal assets of deceased persons subject to the English law are administered, should be amended: It is enacted as follows:—

Preamble.

Heir or devisee of land not to claim payment of mortgage out of personality.

1. [2][*] If any person shall die seised of, or entitled to, any estate or interest in any land or other hereditaments within [3][British India] which shall, at the time of his death, be charged with the payment of any sum or sums of money by way of mortgage, and such person shall not by his will or deed or other document have signified any contrary or other intention, the heir or devisee to whom such land or hereditaments shall descend or be devised shall not be entitled to have the mortgage-debt discharged or satisfied out of the personal estate or any other real estate of such person, but the land or hereditaments so charged shall, as between the different persons claiming through or under the deceased person, be primarily liable to the payment of all mortgage-debts with which the same shall be charged, every part thereof, according to its value bearing a proportionate part of the mortgage-debts charged on the whole thereof:

Proviso as to right of mortgagee to satisfaction, from personal assets.

Provided always that nothing herein contained shall affect or diminish any right of the mortgagee of such lands or hereditaments to obtain full payment or satisfaction of his mortgage-debt, either out of the personal estate of the person so dying as aforesaid or otherwise:

Proviso as to claims made prior to this Act.

Provided also that nothing herein contained shall affect the rights of any person claiming under or by virtue of any will, deed or document, already made, or to be made, before this Act shall have come into operation.

THE MOTOR VEHICLES ACT (IV OF 1939).

[Amended by Acts XL of 1939, XXVI of 1940, XX of 1942, I of 1943, VI of 1945 and Ordinance XXIII of 1942.]

N.B.—Amending Act XL of 1939 came into force on 29th September, 1939; but sections 2 and 3 of that Act shall be deemed to have taken effect on the 1st day of July, 1939 (see Act XL of 1939).

[16*th February*, 1939.

An Act to consolidate and amend the law relating to motor vehicles.

WHEREAS it is expedient to consolidate and amend the law relating to motor vehicles in British India; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

LEG. REF.

1 SHORT TITLE.—"The Mortgaged Estates Administration Act, 1855". See the Indian Short Titles Act (XIV of 1897).

Based on the Real Estates Charges Act, 1854 (17 and 18 Vict., c. 113). Repealed, except as to descents or devises occurring or made before 1st January, 1866, by the Repealing Act (VIII of 1868).

2 The words "After this Act shall have come into operation" rep. by Act XVI of 1874.

3 Substituted by A.O., 1937, "the territories in the possession of, and under, the Government of the East India Company."

CHAPTER I.

PRELIMINARY.

Short title extent and commencement.

1. (1) This Act may be called THE MOTOR VEHICLES ACT, 1939.

(2) It extends to the whole of British India.

(3) It shall come into force on the 1st day of July, 1939; but [1][section 38 and Chapter IV shall not have effect until the 1st day of April, 1940, or such earlier date as the Provincial Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette, appoint, and] Chapter VIII shall not have effect until the 1st day of July, [2][1946].

Definitions.

2. (Cf. Eng. Act, S. 121.) In this Act, unless there is anything repugnant in the subject or context,—

(1) "axle weight" means in relation to an axle of a vehicle the total weight transmitted by the several wheels attached to the axle to the surface whereon the vehicles rests;

(2) "certificate of registration" means the certificate issued by a competent authority to the effect that a motor vehicle has been duly registered in accordance with the provisions of Chapter III;

(3) (Cf. S. 61, Eng. Act, 1930) "contract carriage" means a motor vehicle which carries a passenger or passengers for hire or reward under a contract expressed or implied for the use of the vehicle as a whole at or for a fixed or agreed rate or sum and from one point to another without stopping to pick up or set down along the line of route passengers not included in the contract; and includes a motor cab notwithstanding that the passengers may pay separate fares;

Explanation.—"Contract carriage" does not include a motor vehicle, possession of which has been temporarily transferred in accordance with an express agreement of hire for use as a private vehicle and which is used is accordance with the terms of such agreement;

(4) "delivery van" means any goods vehicle the registered laden weight of which does not exceed 5,000 pounds avoirdupois;

(5) (Cf. Eng. Act, 1930, S. 121) "driver" includes; where a separate person acts as steersman of a motor vehicle, that person as well as any other person engaged in the driving of the vehicle;

(6) "fares" includes sums payable for a season ticket or in respect of the hire of a contract carriage;

LEG. REF.

1 Inserted by Act XL of 1939.

2 Substituted for the figures "1943" by Act I of 1943.

SEC. 1: "EXTENT".—Some provinces are not in favour of introducing compulsory insurance immediately. It is therefore proposed to allow five years (which period has now expired) as the period in which it may be introduced. (Statement of Objects and Reasons).

JURISDICTION OF CIVIL COURT—REJECTION BY COLLECTOR OF APPLICATION FOR REFUND OF MOTOR TAX—INTERFERENCE.—While the Civil Court can only go into the question whether the Collector has disposed of an application for refund of motor vehicles tax under the Motor Vehicles Act, bona fide on the materials placed before him, the Collector's rejection of an application without applying his mind to the reasonableness or unreasonableness of the time taken in surrendering the licence is a matter which the civil Court can go into. 57 L.W. 464=1944 Mad. 675 (1)=(1944) 2 M.L. J. 102.

SEC. 2: DEFINITIONS.—"The alterations made by the Select Committee in the various definitions are aimed generally at attaining greater clarity. We have inserted a new definition, that of 'fares', and have removed an unnecessary definition of 'Regional Transport Authority'. The alteration of the definition of 'heavy transport vehicle' has the effect of raising the limit of weight at which a transport vehicle passes from the category of light transport vehicles to that of heavy transport vehicles". (Select Com. Rep.).

(7) "goods" includes live-stock, and anything (other than equipment ordinarily used with the vehicle) carried by a vehicle except living persons, but does not include luggage or personal effects carried in a motor car or in a trailer attached to a motor car or the personal luggage of passengers travelling in the vehicle;

(8) "goods vehicle" means any motor vehicle constructed or adapted for use for the carriage of goods, or any motor vehicle not so constructed or adapted when used for the carriage of goods solely or in addition to passengers;

(9) "heavy transport vehicle" means a transport vehicle the registered axle weight of which exceeds 10,600 pounds avoirdupois, or the registered laden weight of which exceeds 14,500 pounds avoirdupois;

(10) "invalid carriage" means a motor vehicle the unladen weight of which does not exceed five hundred weights, specially designed and constructed, and not merely adapted, for the use of a person suffering from some physical defect or disability, and used solely by or for such a person;

(11) "licence" means the document issued by a competent authority authorising the person specified therein to drive a motor vehicle or a motor vehicle of any specified class or description;

(12) "licensing authority" means an authority empowered to grant licences, appointed by the Provincial Government by rule made under section 21;

(13) "light transport vehicle" means any public service vehicle other than a motor cab, or any goods vehicle other than a heavy transport vehicle or a delivery van;

(14) "locomotive" means a motor vehicle which is itself not constructed to carry any load (other than equipment used for the purpose of propulsion), the unladen weight of which exceeds 16,000 pounds avoirdupois; but does not include a road-roller;

(15) "motor cab" means any motor vehicle constructed, adapted or used to carry not more than six passengers excluding the driver, for hire or reward;

(16) "motor car" means any motor vehicle other than a transport vehicle, locomotive, road-roller, tractor, motor cycle or invalid carriage;

(17) "motor cycle" means a motor vehicle, other than an invalid carriage, with less than four wheels, the unladen weight of which, inclusive of any side-car attached to the vehicle, does not exceed 900 pounds avoirdupois;

(18) "motor vehicle" means any mechanically propelled vehicle adapted for use upon roads whether the power of propulsion is transmitted thereto from an external or internal source and includes a chassis to which a body has not been attached and a trailer; but does not include a vehicle running upon fixed rails or used solely upon the premises of the owner;

SEC. 2, CL. (16).—See 25 C.W.N. 21=33 C.L.J. 19=61 I.C. 641.

CL. (18): DEFINITIONS AND DESCRIPTIVE TERMS—USE OF THE TERM "MOTOR VEHICLES".—A motor car or vehicle is an automobile; and an automobile may be defined as a "wheeled vehicle, propelled by steam, electricity, or gasoline, and used for the transportation of persons or merchandise. The Courts, without making clear distinctions, have generally used the terms automobile, motor vehicle, motor-car, and in the earlier cases, horseless carriage, as being synonymous with each other. Except where special provision is made to the contrary, a motor cycle is considered as falling within statutes which use such terms and the same is generally true of a traction engine. Questions frequently arise as to whether statutes regulating the use of various classes of vehicles and not directly referring to automobiles are broad enough to apply to these machines, which, in many instances, were unknown at the time of the passage of the law. The better view seems to be that an automobile is to be classed as a vehicle, and it may properly be considered as being a vehicle for hire under the terms of ordinances prohibiting the standing of such vehicle in the streets elsewhere than at public hack stands. Whether an automobile falls within the meaning of the word "carriage" depends somewhat on the nature of the statute in which it is used. (See 25 C.W.N. 21=61 I.C. 641). In a penal statute it may not be so included, while in a statute which should receive a liberal construction it will be so

(19) "owner" means, where the person in possession of a motor vehicle is a minor, the guardian of such minor, and in relation to a motor vehicle which is the subject of a hire purchase agreement, the person in possession of the vehicle under that agreement;

(20) "permit" means the document issued by a Provincial or Regional Transport Authority authorising the use of a transport vehicle as a contract carriage, or stage carriage, or authorising the owner as a private carrier or public carrier to use such vehicle;

(21) "prescribed" means prescribed by rules made under this Act;

(22) "private carrier" means an owner of a transport vehicle other than a public carrier who uses that vehicle solely for the carriage of goods which are his property or the carriage of which is necessary for the purposes of his business not being a business of providing transport, or who uses the vehicle for any of the purposes specified in sub-section (2) of section 42;

(23) "public carrier" means an owner of a transport vehicle who transports or undertakes to transport goods, or any class of goods, for another person at any time and in any public place for hire or reward, whether in pursuance of the terms of a contract or agreement or otherwise, and includes any person, body, association or company engaged in the business of carrying the goods of persons associated with that person, body, association or company for the purpose of having their goods transported;

(24) (Cf. Madras Traffic Control Act) "public place" means a road, street, way or other place, whether a thoroughfare or not, to which the public have a right of access, and includes any place or stand at which passengers are picked up or set down by a stage carriage;

(25) (Cf. English Act, 1930, S. 121) "public service vehicle" means any motor vehicle used or adapted to be used for the carriage of passengers for hire or reward, and includes a motor cab, contract carriage, and stage carriage;

(26) "registered axle weight" means in respect of any vehicle the axle weight certified and registered by the registering authority as permissible for that vehicle;

(27) "registered laden weight" means in respect of any vehicle the total weight of the vehicle and load certified and registered by the registering authority as permissible for that vehicle;

(28) "registering authority" means an authority empowered to register motor vehicles under Chapter III;

(29) "stage carriage" means a motor vehicle carrying or adapted to carry more than six persons excluding the driver which carries passengers for included. An automobile is a "carriage" within the broad meaning of that word, but it has been held not to be a carriage within the meaning of a law requiring municipalities to keep their highways reasonably safe and convenient for travellers, with their horses, teams and carriages. (See 36 I.C. 877—a case under a taxing Act).

SEC. 2 (24): 'PUBLIC PLACE'—TEST.—The mere fact that a place would be styled as a public place for the purposes of the Gambling Act and the Penal Code, does not necessarily mean, that it is a public place as defined in sec. 2, Motor Vehicles Act. To make it a public place under the Motor Vehicles Act, it must be a road, street, way or a place over which the public have a right to pass or to which the public are granted access. On the two sides of the motor stand of the petitioners there were houses while the city wall ran along the third side. The fourth side, however, was open and looked towards a public street. The land was privately owned and had been leased by the petitioners. Through the portion leased by them ran a deep city drain which could only be crossed by means of a bridge and it was over the bridge that the lorries of the petitioners were parked. Petitioners were keeping their lorries in an enclosed place except that apparently there was no gate at the bridge. Held, that the place was not a public place within the meaning of sec. 2, Motor Vehicles Act. 1938 Lah. 817.

hire or reward at separate fares paid by or for individual passengers, either for the whole journey or for stages of the journey;

(30) "tractor" means a motor vehicle which is not itself constructed to carry any load (other than equipment used for the purpose of propulsion) the unladen weight of which does not exceed 16,000 pounds avoirdupois; but excludes a road-roller;

(31) (See Sch. IX) "traffic signs" includes all signals, warning sign posts, direction posts, or other devices for the information, guidance or direction of drivers of motor vehicles;

(32) "trailer" means any vehicle other than a side-car drawn or intended to be drawn by a motor vehicle;

(33) "transport vehicle" means a public service vehicle, a goods vehicle, a locomotive or a tractor other than a locomotive or tractor used solely for agricultural purposes;

(34) "unladen weight" means the weight of a vehicle or trailer including all equipment ordinarily used with the vehicle or trailer when working, but excluding the weight of a driver or attendant; and where alternative parts or bodies are used the unladen weight of the vehicle means the weight of the vehicle with the heaviest such alternative part or body;

(35) "weight" means the total weight transmitted for the time being by the wheels of a vehicle to the surface on which the vehicle rests.

CHAPTER II.

LICENSING OF DRIVERS OF MOTOR VEHICLES.

Necessity for driving licence.

3. (Cf. English Act, S. 4.) (1) No person shall drive a motor vehicle in any public place unless he holds an effective licence issued to himself authorising him to drive the vehicle; and no person shall so drive a motor vehicle as a paid employee or shall so drive a public service vehicle unless his licence specifically entitles him so to do.

(2) A Provincial Government may prescribe the conditions subject to which sub-section (1) shall not apply to a person receiving instruction in driving a motor vehicle.

[(3) Nothing contained in sub-section (1) shall for a period of twelve months after the commencement of this Act invalidate a licence to drive a motor vehicle issued by a competent authority under the provisions of the Indian Motor Vehicles Act, 1914.—This sub-section is omitted by Act XX of 1942.]

SEC. 3.—"This section makes a distinction between professional and private drivers. Some provinces already have the distinction and others have an implied distinction in that drivers who intend to work as chauffeurs have photographs on their licences". (Statement of Objects and Reasons.)

SELECT COMMITTEE REPORT.—"The amendment in sub-cl. (1) is merely a drafting amendment, and the revision of sub-cl. (2) merely clarifies the intention. The added sub-cl. (3) makes explicit provision for the continuance for one year of licenses issued under the superseded Act of 1914. It is then intended that all such licences shall be replaced by licences issued under the new Act, in the manner and in the form provided by the Act".

Where a person whose driving licence has expired, does not apply for a renewal until some days afterwards, he is contravening sec. 3 (1), if he drives the car after the expiry and before the renewal of his licence. The subsequent application for and grant of the licence cannot have the effect of cancelling the offence committed by him before he obtained a renewal. 54 L.W. 730=1942 Mad. 196=(1941) 2 M.L. J. 1040.

R. 24 (b) of the Burma Motor Vehicles Rules does not treat the conductor of a bus as a person in charge of it though in practice he attends to the passengers. In the case of overloading or carrying passengers on the footboard, the person to be prosecuted, would seem to be the owner or person in charge of the vehicle, and not the conductor. 1941 Rang.L.R. 587. There is no provision in the Motor Vehicles Rules or in the Act which authorises a head-constable to demand the name and address of a person who has committed an offence under r. 7 (1). 197 I.C. 136=1941 Lah. 422.

Age limit in connection with driving of motor vehicles.

4. (Cf. English Act, S. 9.) (1) No person under the age of eighteen years shall drive a motor vehicle in any public place.

(2) Subject to the provisions of section 14, no person under the age of twenty years shall drive a transport vehicle in any public place.

[(3) Nothing contained in sub-section (1) or sub-section (2) shall prevent any person who, before the commencement of this Act, possessed a licence to drive a motor vehicle from obtaining a licence to drive a motor vehicle of the same class.—This sub-section is omitted by Act XX of 1942.]

Responsibility of owners of motor vehicles for contraventions of sections 3 and 4.

5. No owner or person in charge of a motor vehicle shall cause or permit any person who does not satisfy the provisions of section 3 or section 4 to drive the vehicle.

SEC. 4.—"Although most provinces agree to the 21-year minimum age limit for drivers of transport vehicles and have such provision in their existing rules, one or two others see no necessity for this restriction. Sub-cl. (3) will therefore enable them to allow drivers under 21 to drive transport vehicles, particularly delivery vans, within the province only". (Statement of Objects and Reasons.)

REPORT OF SELECT COMMITTEE.—"We have reduced the minimum age qualifying a person to drive a locomotive tractor or transport vehicle from 21 years to 20 years. We have eliminated the provision allowing Provincial Governments to modify the requirements of sub-cl. (2), and we have provided that any person who possessed a licence under the pre-existing law should not by reason of the change in the law be deprived of his licence".

SEC. 5.—This section deals with the responsibility of owners of motor vehicles for contravention of the rules as to the necessity of driving licence (sec. 3) and age limit for driver (sec. 4). The Select Committee "have eliminated the provision that the owner of a vehicle may be presumed to have consented to the illegal use of his car". (Select Committee Report.)

RESPONSIBILITY OF OWNER FOR DRIVER'S ACTS.—The question often arises as to the responsibility of the owner of an automobile for injuries occasioned by the machine while in the hands of his servants. The general test of the master's liability is whether there was authority expressed or implied for doing the act in question. If it is done in the course of, and within the scope of, his employment, the master will be liable for the act, but a master is not liable for every wrong which the servant may commit during the continuance of the employment, and liability can occur only when that which is done is within the real or apparent scope of the master's business. The driver of an automobile, employed by the owner, is the servant and agent of the latter, and his acts in operating an automobile within the lines of his employment are the acts of a servant for which his employer is responsible. Whether a driver, at the time of an accident, was acting within the scope of his employment generally involves an inquiry into the contract of employment and the relation of his acts at the time of accident to the service he actually performed pursuant to his employment. The owner of an automobile is not liable to one who is injured, by the negligence of his chauffeur while operating the machine without his knowledge or permission, and for a purpose other than that for which he was employed, as where the driver is on an errand personal to himself, or is making a travel for his own purposes; and if a chauffeur takes out his master's automobile in violation of instructions that it must not be taken out without the express orders of himself or his wife, the owner may be relieved from liability in the event of the occurrence of an accident. It is usually held that a chauffeur may act on directions to take out the machine, given by a member of his employer's immediate family and household whose authority to give him orders would naturally be presumed. A statute regulating the speed and operation of motor vehicles may, however, expressly make the owner liable for any violation of the Act. Where a motor bus owner allowed his driver to drive his omnibus without a licence and, when charged, pleaded that the expiry of the licence was without his knowledge, held, that he was guilty. A man cannot entrust his car to another person and plead that he presumed that he was licensed. He must assure himself that he was licensed. 105 I.C. 674 (1)=1927 M. 1080=53 M.L.J. 757 (1)=51 M. 187. The word "allow" does not mean "does not prevent". The word "ordinary" involves permission, express or implied, from the circumstances. Where the owner of a motor car was charged for having "allowed" his car to be taken by his driver into British India without a licence, held, that, in the absence of evidence that the car had ever been used in that way before or that the owner knew it would be used in that way on the occasion in question, the owner was not liable. 34 Bom.L.R. 897=139 I.C. 270=1932 B. 474. Where a particular intent or state of mind is not of the essence of an offence, a master can be made criminally liable for his servant's acts if an act is expressly prohibited, but not otherwise; and he cannot be so made liable if the Act provides for liability for permitting and causing a certain thing unless it can be shown that the act was done with the master's knowledge and assent, express or implied. Where a motor bus is driven by a person who has no licence, without the knowledge of the owner, the owner cannot be convicted. Nor can he be convicted on the ground that his licensed driver had given the unlicensed driver permission to drive. (1924 C. 985, Rel. on; 38 C. 415 and 45 C. 430, Dist.) 110 I.C. 326=47 C.L.J. 460=29 Cr.L.J. 694=1928 C. 410. On this subject, see also 7 Pat.L.T. 542=1926 P. 446 (As to owner's liability in case of contravention of rules, see 45 C. 430=42 I.C. 601=26 C. L.J. 37. As to the liability of owner who was not present and who had prohibited driving at excessive speed, see 51 C. 948 =82 I.C. 137=1924 C. 985).

RESPONSIBILITY OF OWNER FOR CHILD'S ACTS.—As to whether children of the owner of an automobile are servants within the meaning of the rules making a master responsible for the acts of his servants, the young son of the owner may be found to be the agent of his father in operating the latter's automobile, where it was purchased mainly at his solicitation, with the understanding that he was to learn to run it for the benefit of the family; and when the son of the owner of an automobile with his father's permission uses the machine while a member of his father's family, to take on a pleasure ride guests or other members of the family, the son is considered to be acting as the servant of the owner, and the father may be held liable in damages for an accident occasioned by the son's negligence. If the son disobeys his father's express commands, his actions in using his father's automobile may be beyond the scope of his authority, and accordingly the owner may not be held responsible for injuries occasioned by the son's negligent management of the car. In the case of a daughter, accustomed to drive her father's automobile whenever she so desires, asking permission when the father is at home, but sometices taking it without permission when he is away from home, she cannot be considered as being in her father's employ at a time when she is driving for her own pleasure and negligently injures a person on the highway.

FATHER PLACING MOTOR-CYCLE IN COMPLETE CONTROL OF MINOR SON IN VIOLATION OF STATUTE.—In the case of Hopkins v. Droppers, (198 N.W. 738), an American Supreme Court held a father liable who had placed a motor-cycle under complete control of his 15 year old son and permitted him to drive the motor-cycle on a public highway in violation of the rules. In the course of the opinion the Court said: "But it is claimed by the defendant's counsel that the statute imposes no liability upon any one except the operator of the machine and that the penalties for violation are imposed on him alone and that the minor alone is responsible for breaches of the criminal law. It is probably true that under the terms of the statute the adult defendant would not be liable in a criminal action for any of the acts stated in the complaint. But this is beside the point. The real question is whether under such a state of facts he has incurred any civil liability" * * * The Court concluded: "There remains to be considered the question what is the rule of liability when a father places under the complete control of his son a car or motor-cycle knowing its use by him is forbidden by statute as a criminal act. This is a new problem and the precedents are few in number. In Wilson v. Brauer, 97 N.J. Law 482, it appeared that the owner of an automobile authorised a beginner, who had no driver's permit and knew nothing of the operation of the car, to run it upon the streets of a city for the purpose of learning. By reason of his inexperience, injury was caused to a pedestrian. It was held, that the owner was liable and that such liability rested, not upon his ownership, but upon the combined negligence of the owner and that of the driver. These cases do not stand on any theory that motor machines are dangerous instrumentalities, or of agency, but are based on the ground that if a father knows that his minor child under his control is committing a tort or violating a statute, and makes no effort to restrain him, he will be regarded as authorising or consenting to the act and held civilly liable for the consequences if that act is the proximate cause of injury to others. These cases apply the principle that a father might be held responsible for injury caused by the negligent acts of his sons committed with his consent. (50 Am. Rep. 381). From the averments in this case it appears, among other things, that the defendant father brought and placed in the complete control of his son, whom he knew or ought to have known was an inexperienced driver, for his free use in a crowded city, a machine which, if carelessly managed might cause serious injury to others, and that by so doing he knowingly countenanced and encouraged his minor son to violate a statute of the state; and that these acts and the negligence of the son were the proximate cause of the injury complained of. The general object of those statutes are clear. These statutes amount to a legislative declaration that a minor is unfit to drive motor machines on the public streets unless accompanied by an adult, and a violation of the statute is negligence. When the father authorised this violation of law, he failed in that duty which every good citizen owes to the public. He failed to observe for the safety of other persons that degree of care which the circumstances justly demanded. Although the motor-cycle was not in itself a dangerous instrumentality, it was a machine of such a nature that when negligently driven it might menace the safety of other persons. This is a well-known fact and one which in the exercise of ordinary care the father could reasonably anticipate. It is argued the parent in this case could hardly foresee or anticipate the injury complained of. This argument is met by repeated decisions of Courts. "It is not required that the 'specific' injury or 'such' an injury as is complained of was or ought to have been specifically anticipated as the natural and probable consequences of the wrongful act. It is sufficient if the facts and circumstances are such that the consequences attributable to the wrongful conduct charged were within the field of reasonable anticipation; that such consequences might be the natural and probable results thereof, though they may not have been specifically contemplated or anticipated by the person so causing them". (Chicago Legal News.)

AUTOMOBILES—THE FAMILY PURPOSE DOCTRINE.—The following extracts from a recent American Law Journal may also be read in this connection:—"Courts have in all recent cases uniformly upheld the family purpose doctrine either by actual decision or by dictum. The doctrine places liability on the owner of an automobile, which is purchased and maintained for the pleasure of his, or her family for negligent injuries inflicted by the vehicle while it is being used by some member with his consent, express or implied, on the theory that it is the owner's business to furnish pleasure for the family. The Court has based its decisions mainly on the principal and agent, and master and servant, theory. It is preferable rather to support the doctrine on the relationship of master and servant, rather than on that of principal and agent, since a principal is liable only for torts (expressly or impliedly) authorized, while a master is liable for all torts committed by the servant, while engaged within the scope of the master's employment. (Salmond on Tort, p. 93.) However, the status of master and servant does not exist unless one of the family is employed in the owner's business. It cannot be seriously contended that it is the father's business or employment to furnish his family with an automobile for their convenience and pleasure, because it is not looked upon as a necessity. It can hardly be said that it is the father's business to furnish his son such pleasure as driving at a reckless speed over a dangerous road, or while intoxicated. A case contrary to the doctrine explodes this idea with this sly bit of sarcastic humor, "if son took his best girl riding, prima facie it was father's little outing by proxy".

The conclusion, therefore, must be reached that the owner is simply making a gift of the use of the automobile to one of his family, and that a bailor and bailee relation only exists. It is a well-known principle of law that the negligence of the bailee cannot be attributed to the bailor, Certainly this was the law before the automobile became a widely used source of locomotion. The automobile has not been regarded as an inherently dangerous instrument, so as to cause the owner to be liable as an insurer, since it plays such an integral part in our daily economic life. The automobile, being a lawful means of travel, is not a nuisance per se. There is the ground of public policy. This ground, it is admitted, should be availed of only where no other logical theory presents itself on which to rest liability, and weighty reasons exist for its utilization. The frequent accidents, which occur on account of the negligent operation of a parent's car by a member of his family, who is likely to be financially irresponsible, has been given a considerable amount of thought in coming to a decision on this point. Practically, an uncollectible judgment is an empty form, and constitutes a valueless remedy for the evil. While an automobile is not dangerous per se, its potential danger in the hands of a careless driver, especially a member of the family who has permission to use the car at his own pleasure, should have an important bearing on the result. Likewise the family purpose doctrine puts the financial responsibility of the owner behind the car, and relieves the injured party from the difficult task of meeting the owner's claim that at the time of the accident the car was not being used for his pleasure or business. It also protects the injured person as fully as if the owner were driving the car himself, thus achieving justice in his case. For these reasons it seems that the advantages to be gained completely outweigh any disadvantages that might accrue from its adoption. And public policy has been used in other branches of the law".

RESPONSIBILITY FOR ACTS OF DRIVER OF LOANED AUTOMOBILE.—Although the general rule is well established that a master may lend a servant, with his consent, to another person for services in the business of the latter, and that while he is engaged in the business of the borrower and subject to his directions and control, he is considered as being a servant of the new master, who accordingly becomes liable for his negligence, nevertheless the courts have refused to apply this rule to cases in which an automobile and driver have been temporarily loaned by the owner and employer to another. This is due to the fact that the operation of an automobile can be trusted safely only to an expert, and it is of importance that the control and management of the machine should not be abandoned to the hirer. Accordingly it has been decided that when the owner of an automobile lends it, with a licensed driver in charge, under an agreement for a specified amount for the use of the car with the driver for a definite period, although the chauffeur is to be under the general directions of the hirer as to route and kindred matters, the owner is liable for an injury to a third person caused by the negligence of the chauffeur while operating the car for the borrower. In like manner, Restrictions on the holding of licences.

6. (1) No person shall, while he holds any licence for the time being in force, hold any other licence except a licence issued in accordance with the provisions of section 14, or a document authorising, in accordance with the rules made under section 92, the person specified therein to drive a motor vehicle.

(2) No holder of a licence shall permit it to be used by any other person.

(3) Nothing in this section shall prevent a licensing authority having the jurisdiction referred to in sub-section (1) of section 7 from adding to the classes of vehicle which the licence authorises the holder to drive.

Grant of licence.

7. (1) Any person who is not disqualified under section 4 for driving a motor vehicle and who is not for the time being disqualified for holding or obtaining a licence may apply to the licensing authority having jurisdiction in the area in which he ordinarily resides or carries on business or, if the application is for a licence to drive as a paid employee, in which the employer resides or carries on business, for the issue to him of a licence.

(2) Every application under sub-section (1) shall be in Form A as set forth in the First Schedule, shall be signed by, or bear the thumb impression of, the applicant in two places, and shall contain the information required by the form.

(3) Where the application is for a licence to drive as a paid employee or to drive transport vehicle, or where in any other case the licensing autho-a person who has hired an automobile as a delivery wagon, together with a driver, is not responsible for injuries occasioned to a third person from a defect in the machine, especially when the hirer of the car had no right to make repairs. When an automobile is loaned without a chauffeur the foregoing rules are not applied, and the owner ordinarily is not responsible for the neligence of the chauffeur of the borrower during the time it is loaned, but the person to whom the machine has been loaned assumes responsibility for accidents occurring through its negligent use while it is in his possession and the owner is not liable. (Ame. Rul. Case Law.)

AUTOMOBILES AS INHERENTLY DANGEROUS MACHINES—LIMITATION ON THE OBLIGATIONS OF THE OWNER.—An automobile is not inherently a dangerous machine, and the rules requiring extraordinary care of dangerous instrumentalities do not apply to such a means of conveyance. Therefore the owner is not responsible for injuries which may be sustained by strangers from its careless and wrongful use while in the possession of another who is using it without his consent. The owner of an automobile may keep it at a public garage, where it is possible for his chauffeur or others to obtain it without his authority, and in the event of their doing so he is not accountable to a person who may be run over by it in consequence of the negligence of the driver, for it is not enough to show that the accident would not have occurred without the facilities afforded by the owner of the motor vehicle, or that the owner made it possible for another person to take out the machine without permission and operate it at pleasure. A servant has no implied authority to engage a stranger to do work on behalf of his master so as to render the master liable for the stranger's acts or defaults except in a case of necessity. Where a driver who was in charge of a bus allowed a third person who did not have a licence to drive the bus without the knowledge of the owner, the owner could not be convicted and his licence could not be cancelled. 47 C.L.J. 460=1928 C. 410.

SEC. 6: SELECT COMMITTEE REPORT.—"The change in sub-clause (1) is consequential on the omission of original sub-clause (3) of clause 4. We have added to sub-clause (2) a provision allowing a Court to presume that a licence used by a person other than the holder of the licence was so used with the consent of the holder, because we think that without this provision this very prevalent improper practice cannot be successfully checked. The new sub-clause (3) explicitly saves the power to add further classes of vehicle to those specified in an existing licence."

SEC. 7, CL. (1): SELECT COMMITTEE REPORT.—"The insertion made is to facilitate the obtaining of a licence by a person employed in a place far from his ordinary residence. It seems appropriate that he should be able to apply to the licensing authority of the locality in which his employment lies".

CL. (2).—We have omitted the word "left". (Select Committee Report.)

CL. (3).—The consensus of opinion of Provincial Governments is that medical certificates should be obligatory for all drivers other than owner drivers, and even from the latter the licensing authority rity for reasons to be stated in writing so requires, the application shall be accompanied by a medical certificate in Form C, as set forth in the First Schedule, signed by a registered medical practitioner.

(4) Every application for a licence to drive as a paid employee and every application for a licence to drive a transport vehicle shall be accompanied by three clear copies of a recent photograph of the applicant.

(5) If, from the application or from the medical certificate referred to in sub-section (3), it appears that the applicant is suffering from any disease or disability specified in the Second Schedule or any other disease or disability which is likely to cause the driving by him of a motor vehicle of the class which he would be authorised by the licence applied for to drive to be a source of danger to the public or to the passengers, the licensing authority shall refuse to issue the licence:

Provided that—

(a) a licence limited to driving an invalid carriage may be issued to the applicant, if the licensing authority is satisfied that he is fit to drive such a carriage,

(b) the applicant may, except where he suffers from a disease or disability specified in the Second Schedule, claim to be subjected to a test of his fitness or ability to drive a motor vehicle of a particular construction or design, and, if he passes such test to the satisfaction of the licensing authority and is not otherwise disqualified, the licensing authority shall grant him a licence to drive such motor vehicle as the licensing authority may specify in the licence.

(6) No licence shall be issued to any applicant unless he passes to the satisfaction of the licensing authority the test of competence to drive specified in the Third Schedule, [or

(b) where the application is made within twelve months from the commencement of this Act, he satisfies the licensing authority that he was at the commencement of this Act the holder of a current licence granted under the provisions of the Indian Motor Vehicles Act, 1914, entitling him to drive a vehicle of the class or description which he would be entitled to drive under the licence applied for:] (Portions within brackets omitted by Act XX of 1942):

should be empowered to demand a medical certificate if he is not satisfied as to the applicant's general appearance of fitness. (Statement of Objects and Reasons). "We think a licensing authority which exacts a medical certificate should state its reasons for the demand." (Select Committee Report.)

CL. (4).—The consensus of opinion of Provincial Governments is that photographs should be submitted by these two classes of applicants. (Statement of Objects and Reasons.) "By substituting "transport vehicle" for "public service vehicle" we have extended the scope of the provisions of this sub-clause to vehicles used for the carriage of goods. The other change made is self-explanatory." (Select Committee Report.)

CL. (5).—"The diseases and disabilities which disqualify a person for obtaining a licence are set forth in the Second Schedule. We have accordingly substituted a reference to this Schedule for the reference to Form C. We have also provided that a person confronted with the danger of being held disqualified on the grounds mentioned in that Schedule should have a right to appeal to a Medical Board before he is actually refused a licence." (Select Committee Report).

CL. (6).—"Since the intention is that licences should be valid throughout British India, allapplicants for new licences should pass the test specified in the Third Schedule in driving the class of vehicle specified in the application. An exception is made of existing licences under the Indian Motor Vehicles Act, 1914, as it would be impracticable to insist on their passing the driving test. The proviso will meet the case of applicants particularly from overseas who have previously held licences granted in their own countries. (Statement of Objects and Reasons.) "The change made in cl. (b) is for the purpose of avoiding hardship in cases where a licence issued under the 1914 Act might have expired for lack of renewal. It would be unreasonable that an applicant in such a case should have to undergo a test. We have slightly amplified the condition to be satisfied by an applicant for a motor car licence before he can be exempted from the test: and we have made a provision similar to that contained in the Madras Motor Vehicle Rules for the acceptance of certificates given by recognised automobile associations." (Select Committee Report.)

Provided that, where the application is for a licence to drive a motor cycle or a motor car, the licensing authority shall exempt the applicant from Part I of the test specified in the Third Schedule, if the licensing authority is satisfied that the applicant has previously held a licence to drive and has had not less than twelve months' recent experience of driving a motor cycle or a motor car, as the case may be:

Provided further that where the application is for a licence to drive a motor vehicle (not being a transport vehicle) otherwise than as a paid employee, the licensing authority may exempt the applicant from [1][* * *] the test specified in the Third Schedule if the applicant possesses a driving certificate issued by an automobile association recognised in this behalf by the Provincial Government.

(7) The test of competence to drive shall be carried out in a vehicle of the type to which the application refers, and, for the purposes of Part I of the test,—

(a) a person who passes the test in driving a motor car or a motor cab or a delivery van shall be deemed to have passed the test for all of these vehicles;

(b) a person who passes the test in driving a light transport vehicle shall be deemed also to have passed the test in driving the vehicles referred to in clause (a); and

(c) a person who passes the test in driving a heavy transport vehicle shall be deemed also to have passed the test in driving any motor vehicle other than a motor cycle.

(8) When an application has been duly made to the appropriate licensing authority and the applicant has satisfied such authority of his physical fitness and of his competence to drive and has paid to the authority a fee of five rupees, the licensing authority shall grant the applicant a licence unless the applicant is disqualified under section 4 for driving a motor vehicle or is for the time being disqualified for holding or obtaining a licence:

Provided that [2][* * *] a licensing authority may issue a licence to drive a motor cycle or a motor car notwithstanding that it is not the appropriate licensing authority, if the licensing authority is satisfied that there is good reason for the applicant's inability to apply to the appropriate licensing authority.

Form and contents of licence.

8. (1) Every licence, except a licence issued under section 14, shall be in Form D as set forth in the First Schedule and shall have affixed thereto one of the signatures or thumb impressions given on the form of application for the licence and, in the case of a licence to drive as a paid employee or to drive a transport vehicle, one of the photographs referred to in sub-section (4) of section 7.

(2) A licence shall specify whether the holder is entitled to drive as a

CL. (7).—"The change made in sub-clause (c) ensures that the test for driving a heavy transport vehicle will cover locomotives and tractors". (Select Committee Report.)

CL. (8).—"We have omitted the reference to residence in the last two lines of the clause preceding the proviso. The change made in clause 7 (1) would necessitate an alteration in any case, but the words are unnecessary since an application cannot be duly made except to the licensing authority specified in clause (7) (1). The other changes are consequential on the omission: the appropriate authority being the authority specified in clause 7 (1)". (Report of Select Committee.)

(k) motor vehicle of a specified description.

Extent of validity of licence.

9. (1) Subject to any rules made by a Provincial Government under sub-section (3), a licence issued under the foregoing sections shall be effective throughout British India.

(2) Subject, in the case of international driving permits issued in pursuance of the International Convention relative to motor traffic concluded at Paris on the 24th day of April, 1926, or of any Convention modifying the same, to any rules made by the Central Government under section 92 and subject in any other case to the provisions of sub-section (4), a licence to drive a motor vehicle issued by a competent authority in any Indian State or in the French or Portuguese Settlements bounded by India shall, if the holder is ordinarily resident in the State or Settlement in which the licence was issued, be valid throughout British India as if it were a licence issued under this Act:

specially adapted for him. (Statement of Objects and Reasons.) "We have included road-rollers as a separate class instead of leaving them to be covered by the expression "motor vehicle of a specified description". (Select Committee Report.)

SEC. 9, CL. (1).—"There are varying opinions as to how far licences should have all India validity. One or two provinces are in favour of extending all-India validity to all licences including those to drive public service vehicles. On the other hand, one province would not extend all-India validity to a licence to drive a goods vehicle. One or two would like power to impose special restrictions in special areas. The majority however feel that drivers of public service vehicles should be under stricter supervision in view of their responsibility for the safety of the public. It is therefore proposed that licences to drive public service vehicles should by provincial rules only be valid in the province when endorsed to that effect, and that, in view of the stringency of the specified test for drivers, all-India validity should be extended to all other forms of licences'. (Statement of Objects and Reasons.)

CL. (2).—The position in respect of the validity of licences issued in States is chaotic. Most provinces have rules extending validity to licences issued in States specified in a schedule to the rules but these have not been uniformly amended and frequently differ in consequence. It is proposed therefore that licences issued by States to bona fide residents should generally be valid. (Statement of Objects and Reasons.)

CL. (3).—The general opinion is that while licensing authority should judge as to a person's competence and physical fitness to drive, the transport authority in the discharge of its special responsibility for the control of public service vehicles should have the final say as to the persons by whom such vehicles should be driven. There is however some difference of opinion in this matter, and it is therefore left to the rule making powers of Provincial Governments. (Statement of Objects and Reasons.)

SELECT COMMITTEE REPORT.—"We have recast this clause in order to secure that there shall be reciprocity in connection with the recognition in British India of licences issued outside it. For this purpose we have provided that the privilege of having its licences recognised as valid in British India may be withdrawn from any State or Territory if it is found that the recognition is not mutual, or that the issue of licences in that State or territory is not adequately controlled. In consequence of these changes the references in sub-clauses (2) and (3) to controlling rules to be made by the Provincial Government, and to prescribed conditions have been removed. The other small changes of wording and arrangement made in sub-clause (3) are drafting changes only".

Provided that such holder is not disqualified under any of the provisions of this Act for holding or obtaining a licence in British India.

(3) A Provincial Government may, by rules made under section 21,

(a) provide that a specification entitling the holder of a licence to drive a public service vehicle shall be made in the licence only by or under the authority of the Regional Transport Authority constituted under Chapter IV,

(b) regulate the submission of applications for such licences to the said authority, or

(c) require as a condition of its validity in a province that a licence entitling the holder to drive a public service vehicle shall be counter-signed by a prescribed authority in the province.

(4) If the Central Government is satisfied that licences issued in British India under this Act are not effective in any Indian State or French or Portuguese Settlement bounded by India or are effective subject to unreasonable conditions or that like conditions and requirements to those imposed by this Act are not imposed in a reasonable degree upon the issue of licences in any State or Settlement as aforesaid, the Central Government shall, by notification in the official Gazette, declare that licences generally or any particular class of licence issued in any such State or Settlement shall not be valid in British India.

Currency of licences.

10. A licence issued under the foregoing sections shall, subject to the provisions contained in this Act as to the cancellation of licences and the disqualification of holders of licences for holding or obtaining licences, be effective without renewal for a period of twelve months only from the date of issue or last renewal.

Renewal of licences.

11. (1) Any licensing authority may on application made to it renew a licence issued under the provisions of this Act.

(2) An application for the renewal of a licence shall be made in Form B as set forth in the First Schedule and shall contain the declaration required by that form: provided that where the applicant does not or is unable to subscribe to the said declaration the provisions of sub-section (5) of section 7 shall apply.

(3) The fee payable for the renewal of a licence shall be three rupees, if the application for renewal is made previous to, or not more than fifteen days subsequent to, the date on which the licence is due to expire and shall be five rupees in any other case, unless the licensing authority is satisfied that the holder was prevented by good cause from applying for the renewal of the licence within fifteen days after its expiry.

(4) When the authority renewing the licence is not the authority which issued the licence, it shall intimate the fact of renewal to the authority which issued the licence.

Revocation of licence on grounds of diseaes or disability.

12. Notwithstanding anything contained in the foregoing sections, a licensing authority may at any time revoke a licence issued by it, or may require, as a condition of continuing to hold such licence, the holder thereof to furnish a fresh medical certificate in Form C as set forth in the First Schedule signed as required by sub-section (3) of section 7, if the licensing authority has reasonable grounds to believe that the holder of the licence

SEC. 11.—"A uniform renewal fee is necessary. Provision is made for the renewal at ordinary rates of an expired licence by a person who, for example, has been ill for a sustained period or out of India on long leave and so genuinely unable to renew his licence in time". is, by virtue of any disease or disability, unfit to drive a motor vehicle.

Orders refusing or revoking licences and appeals therefrom.

13. (1) Where the licensing authority refuses to issue or revokes or refuses to renew any licence, it shall do so by an order communicated to the applicant or the holder, as the case may be, giving the reasons in writing for such refusal or revocation.

(2) Any person aggrieved by the refusal of a licensing authority to grant or renew a licence or by the revocation of a licence may, within thirty days of the service on him of the order of such refusal or revocation, appeal to the prescribed authority, who shall decide the appeal after giving the licensing authority an opportunity of being heard, and the decision of the appellate authority shall be binding on the licensing authority.

(3) The order of a licensing authority shall, unless the appellate authority, conditionally or unconditionally, directs otherwise, be in force pending the disposal of an appeal under sub-section (2).

Licences to drive motor vehicles, the property of the Central Government.

14. (1) The authority specified in Part A of the Fourth Schedule may grant licences, valid throughout British India, to persons who have completed their eighteenth year to drive motor vehicles which are the property [1][or for the time being under the exclusive control] of the Central Government.

(2) A licence issued under this section shall specify the class or classes of vehicle which the holder is entitled to drive and the period for which he is so entitled.

(3) A licence issued under this section shall not entitle the holder to drive any motor vehicle except a motor vehicle which is the property [1][or for the time being under the exclusive control] of the Central Government.

(4) The authority issuing any licence under this section shall at the request of any Provincial Government furnish such information respecting any person to whom a licence is issued as that Government may at any time require.

LEG. REF.

1 Inserted by Act XX of 1942.

CL. (3).—We have allowed a more generous period of grace after the expiry of a licence. (Select Committee Report).

Sec. 11 (3) has nothing whatever to do with the effectiveness of the licence. It merely enables a licensee to obtain his licence at a lower rate, if he applies within fifteen days of the expiration of his old licence. Accused, a motor driver, had a driving licence which expired on 2nd February, 1941. On 17th February, 1941, his licence was examined and was found to have expired. On the same day, however, he got a renewal of his licence with effect from 2nd February, 1941. On 13th June, 1941, a complaint was filed against him under sec. 11 (3) read with sec. 112 of the Act and convicted. Held, that though the accused could not claim renewal except for one year from the date of application, the licensing authority having issued him a renewal as from 2nd February, 1941, there was an effective licence on the date of the alleged offence and hence he was not guilty. 201 I.C. 770=43 Cr.L.J. 778=44 Bom.L.R. 449 =1942 Bom. 216.

SEC. 12.—The change made by the Select Committee is merely a drafting improvement. (Select Committee Report.)

SEC. 13.—Sub-clause (2) provides the necessary check upon irregular or arbitrary use of power by licensing authorities. (Statement of Objects and Reasons.)

SELECT COMMITTEE REPORT.—"We have inserted a period of limitation for the making of an appeal. We have also removed the reference to District Magistrates and Presidency Magistrates as appellate authorities, and have provided that the appellate authority should be determined by the Provincial Government".

SEC. 14.—The intention of this is to continue and regularise the present arrangement under which Army and Air Force drivers are licensed by Army and Air Force authorities. This is done at present by a long-standing agreement with Provincial Governments, who have tacitly accepted the arrangement or formally granted exemption under sec. 13 of the existing Act of 1914. The holders of these licences will however be subject to the ordinary law (including punishment by Courts, suspension and endorsement of licence) and in addition will not be enabled by the licences to drive any vehicle other than one owned by the Central Government. (Statement of Objects and Reasons.)

Power of licensing authority to disqualify for holding a licence.

15. (1) If a licensing authority is satisfied after giving him an opportunity of being heard that any person,—

(a) is a habitual criminal or a habitual drunkard, or

(b) is using or has used a motor vehicle in the commission of a cognisable offence, or

(c) has by his previous conduct as driver of a motor vehicle shown that his driving is likely to be attended with danger to the public, it may, for reasons to be recorded in writing, make an order disqualifying that person for a specified period for holding or obtaining a licence.

(2) Upon the issue of any such order a person affected, if he is the holder of a licence, shall forthwith surrender his licence to the licensing authority making the order, if the licence has not already been surrendered, and the licensing authority shall—

(a) if the licence is a licence issued under this Act, keep it until the disqualification has expired or has been removed, or

(b) if it is not a licence issued under this Act, endorse the disqualification upon it and send it to the licensing authority by which it was issued.

(3) Any person aggrieved by an order made by a licensing authority under this section may, within thirty days of the receipt of the order, appeal to the prescribed authority, and such appellate authority shall give notice to the licensing authority and hear either party if so required by that party and may make such inquiry into the matter as it thinks fit. An order made by any such appellate authority shall be final.

Power of Regional Transport Authority to disqualify.

16. (1) A Regional Transport Authority constituted under Chapter IV may for reasons to be recorded in writing and subject to any prescribed conditions declare any person disqualified, for a specified period, for holding or obtaining a license to drive a public service vehicle in the province.

(2) Any person aggrieved by an order of a Regional Transport Authority made under sub-section (1) may within thirty days of the receipt of intimation of such order appeal against the order to the prescribed authority.

Power of Court to disqualify.

17. (Cf. Eng. Art, Ss. 6 and 7.) (1) Where a person is convicted of an offence under this Act, or of an offence in the commission of which a motor vehicle was used, the Court by which such person is convicted may, subject to the

SEC. 15.—This repeats, in a form amplified to meet present requirements, the provision in sec. 18 (1) of the old Act of 1914. (Statement of Objects and Reasons.)

SELECT COMMITTEE REPORT.—"The clause has been recast, so as to state specifically the reasons for which a disqulification under this section may be ordered, and the power of disqualification has been given to the licensing authority instead of to the Provincial Government. A right of appeal against any such order is also given".

SEC. 16.—"Transport authorities are responsible for seeing that public service vehicles are run in the best interests of and to the safety of the travelling public. It seems only reasonable therefore that they should have a deciding word as to the persons by whom public service vehicles are driven". (Statement of Objects and Reasons.)

REPORT OF SELECT COMMITTEE.—"We have provided that reasons are to be stated for a disqualification made under this clause, and that the disqualification shall be for a specified period only. We have also provided for an appeal". The practice of issuing summons under sec. 16 of the charging the accused merely with an offence under that section without indicating the nature of the charge against him, should be condemned. Where such a summons was issued to the accused and the case itself was taken up before the date fixed and the accused was not granted time to produce his defence, his conviction is not legal and is liable to be set aside. I.L.R. (1940) Lah. 678=1941 Lah. 114. On this section, see also 1941 Lah. 422; 1941 Rang. L.R. 587=1942 R. 51.

SEC. 17.—"Some Provincial Governments have made rules under sec. 18 (1-A) of provisions of this section, in addition to imposing any other punishment authorised by law, declare the person so convicted to be disqualified, for such period as the Court may specify, for holding any licence or for holding a licence to drive a particular class or description of vehicle.

(2) A Court shall not order the disqualification of an offender convicted for the first or second time of an offence punishable under section 115.

(3) A Court shall order the disqualification of an offender convicted of an offence punishable under section 117, and such disqualification shall be for a period of not less than six months.

(4) A Court shall order the disqualification of an offender convicted of an offence against the provisions of clause (c) of sub-section (1) of section 87 or of section 89, and such disqualification shall be for a period of not less than one month.

(5) A Court shall, unless for special reasons to be recorded in writing it thinks fit to order otherwise, order the disqualification of an offender—

the Indian Motor Vehicles Act, 1914, delegating to licensing authorities power to suspend or cancel licences. Since disqualification is a severe punishment it is considered more satisfactory to leave its infliction to the decision of the Court, after a proper trial. The offences themselves, however, are grouped in two categories: those for which disqualification should be obligatory, and those for which disqualification may be left to the discretion of the Court". (Statement of Objects and Reasons.)

SELECT COMMITTEE REPORT.—"The words omitted from sub-cl. (1) we consider to be unnecessary, and to be dangerously wide. The verbal change in sub-cls. (2) and (3) is for clarity only. We have omitted sub-cl. (4). We consider that it would be unfair thus to penalize the driver of an uninsured vehicle in many cases, as the primary responsibility for insuring the vehicle rests on the owner. We have also omitted sub-cl. (9) which applied the provisions of this clause to abetments of certain offences. By our amendment of sub-cl. (10) we have deprived the appellate Court of power to make an order of disqualification which the lower Court did not see fit to make".

DEGREE OF CARE REQUIRED OF OPERATORS.—Although automobiles are comparatively new in use, there is nothing novel in the principles of law to be applied with respect to travel in them on the highways. The general principles applicable to the use of all vehicles upon public highways apply to automobiles and may be summarised in the statement that a driver must use that degree of care and caution which an ordinarily careful and prudent person would exercise under the same circumstances. The right of the driver of a horse and that of the driver of a motor vehicle to use the highway are equal, and each is equally restricted in the exercise of his rights by the corresponding rights of the other. Each is required to regulate his own use by the observance of ordinary care and caution to avoid receiving injury, or inflicting injury upon the other. The degree of care required in the use and operation of an automobile upon the streets of a city depends not only upon the condition of the streets, but also upon the dangerous character of the machine or vehicle, and its liability to do injury to others lawfully using such streets. The more dangerous its character, the greater is the degree of care and caution required in its use and operation. The duty of care which an operator of an automobile is bound to exercise is commensurate with the risk of injury to other vehicles and pedestrians on the road; and this risk of injury is considered to be as great as, if not greater than, the risk of injury to vehicles and pedestrians travelling on and across streets upon which street cars are operated by electric power.

In the application of these principles conditions frequently arise under which conduct amounting to reasonable care in the case of a light and slow moving wogon does not amount to proper and necessary care in the operation of a heavy and rapidly moving automobile. All operators of motor vehicles in addition to exercising reasonable care and caution for the safety of others who have the right to use the highways must do whatever the rules and statute require whenever the conditions therein referred to arise; and a failure to comply with regulations imposed by law or ordinance may, in itself, constitute negligence and render the operator liable for consequential damages. Nevertheless, if the driver of an automobile complies with all the requirements of a statute regulating the operation of motor vehicles, he may yet be liable for the failure to exercise ordinary care to avoid injury to another traveller on the highway.

ANTICIPATION OF PRESENCE OF OTHERS.—It is part of the duty of an operator of a motor vehicle to keep his machine always under control so as to avoid collisions with pedestrians and other persons using the highway. He has no right to assume that the road is clear, but under all circumstances and at all times he must be vigilant and must anticipate and expect the presence of others. Accordingly, the fact that he did not know that any one was on the highway is no excuse for conduct which would have amounted to recklessness if he had known that another vehicle or person was approaching. Drivers of motor vehicles must be specially watchful in anticipation of the presence of others at places where other vehicles are constantly passing, and where men, women and children are liable to be crossing, such as corners, at the inter-section of streets, or near street cars from which passengers may have alighted or may be about to alight, or in other similar places or situations where people are likely to fail to observe an approaching automobile. It will be the duty of the driver of an automobile, when he has occasion to turn the corner of a street, to slow down the machine in anticipation of the presence of persons in the highway at the street crossing. The duty to anticipate the presence of others applies to private lanes which are open to the public use, and reasonable care must be taken in operating an automobile in such a lane, so as not to injure even a person who, as a mere licensee, may be driving a horse and carriage through the lane as a short cut between two highways.

PRESUMPTION THAT OTHERS WILL EXERCISE DUE CARE.—The duty of care between persons using the highway is mutual, and each person may assume that others travelling on the highway will comply with this obligation. Hence a pedestrian has a right to assume that the driver of an automobile will exercise proper caution in approaching crossings, and that he will not turn a sharp corner and run without warning against a person travelling on foot. In like manner a person operating an automobile has the right to act upon the assumption that every person whom he meets will also exercise ordinary care and caution according to the circumstances, and will not negligently or recklessly expose himself to danger, but rather make an attempt to avoid it; but when an operator of a motor vehicle has had time to realize, or by the exercise of a proper care and watchfulness should realize that a person whom he meets is in a somewhat helpless condition or apparently unable to avoid the approaching machine, he must exercise increased exertion to avoid a collision. A person cannot always rely upon another to use his utmost effort to escape from a place of danger, and if the driver of an automobile sees another in danger of being run down, he should not rely on the other's alertness in getting out of the way, but he must slacken speed and if necessary stop.

DUTY OF PEDESTRIANS.—It is the duty of a pedestrian, travelling in public streets of the city, reasonably to exercise for his personal safety the faculties with which he is endowed by nature, for self-protection, and a person is not entitled to walk the streets with closed eyes and inattentive mind.

DUTY AS TO RIDERS ON BICYCLES.—A person operating an automobile and one riding a bicycle owe to each other the duty to use reasonable care to avoid collision. A bicycle rider must be vigilant under all circumstances and keep a proper lookout for automobiles.

DUTY AS TO FRIGHTENED HORSES.—Whenever a person operating an automobile knows, or in exercise of ordinary care should know, that his machine is frightening the horse of an approaching team and that his further progress will increase the peril of the persons in the carriage, it is his duty, apart from the provisions of any statute, to take such steps for their safety as ordinary prudence may suggest, including the moderation of his pace, or, when necessary, the stopping of his automobile especially when he has received a signal requesting him to stop. (See sec. 86). As a matter of prudence and ordinary caution, at the indication of a horse becoming alarmed the person in charge of a motor vehicle must go as far as practicable to the side of the road and remain stationary until the horse has passed. It is the duty of the driver of an automobile to stop it when a horse or other animal becomes frightened, or shows that it is about to become frightened, by the approach of the motor vehicle, and the failure to stop upon the signal as required by statute is usually regarded as negligence. However, it is sometimes considered necessary that a signal be actually made in order to establish a case of negligence. The degree of care required in the use of motor cycles appears to be intermediate between that required in the use of automobiles and of bicycles. The operator of a motor cycle upon the streets of a city is not required to anticipate that a horse will be frightened at his cycle, although it is his duty to stop the machine when he discovers that the horse is frightened by it and likely to get beyond control. Where the accused had been driving cars regularly for about 13 years and had obtained a large number of good certificates from a variety of masters, and where he had never before had a conviction for bad driving, held, that the verdict that he was unfit to hold a licence because he was not a good driver was ridiculous in view of his record and must be cancelled. 88 I.C. 998 =23 A.L.J. 790=26 Cr.L.J. 1254=1925 All. 798. The general rule is that the fine imposed on an accused person should not be excessive, having regard to his pecuniary means. The best way to stop dangerous driving, by persons who earn their livelihood by driving motor vehicles, is for the Court, on conviction of the offender, to exercise its powers under which such Court "shall cause particulars of the conviction to be endorsed" on any licence held by the accused, and may (1) cancel or suspend that licence, or even (2) declare the accused disqualified for obtaining a licence either permanently or for such period as it thinks fit. The exercise of that power will have a very deterrent effect, especially in the case of persons who earn their livelihood

(a) who having been convicted of an offence punishable under section 116 is again convicted of an offence punishable under that section,

(b) who is convicted of an offence punishable under section 120, or

(c) who is convicted of an offence punishable under section 123:

Provided that the period of disqualification shall not exceed, in the cases referred to in clauses (a) and (b), two years, or, in the case referred to in clause (c), one year.

(6) A Court ordering the disqualification of an offender convicted of an offence punishable under section 116 may direct that the offender shall, whether he has previously passed the test of competence to drive specified in the Third Schedule or not, remain disqualified until he has subsequent to the making of the order of disqualification passed that test to the satisfaction of the licensing authority.

(7) The Court to which an appeal lies from any conviction of an offence of the nature specified in sub-section (1) may set aside or vary any order of disqualification made by the Court below, and the Court to which appeals ordinarily lie from any Court may set aside or vary any order of disqualification made by that Court, notwithstanding that no appeal lies against the conviction in connection with which such order was made.

Effect of disqualification order.

18. (1) A person in respect of whom any disqualification order is made shall be debarred to the extent and for the period specified in such order from holding or obtaining a licence and the licence, if any, held by such person at the date of the order shall cease to be effective during such period.

(2) The operation of a disqualification order made under section 17 shall not be suspended or postponed while an appeal is pending against such order or against the conviction as a result of which such order is made, unless the appellate Court so directs.

(3) Any person in respect of whom any disqualification order has been made may at any time after the expiry of six months from the date of the order apply to the Court or other authority by which the order was made, to remove the disqualification; and the Court or authority, as the case may be, may, having regard to all the circumstances, either remove or vary the order of disqualification:

Provided that where an application has been made under this section a second application thereunder shall not be entertained before the expiry of a further period of three months.

APPEAL—ORDER OF DISQUALIFICATION —IF PUNISHMENT.—An order of disqualification for holding a driving licence which is passed on conviction under secs. 78, 86 and 116 of the Motor Vehicles Act in addition to sentences of fine amounting to Rs. 45 in all, cannot be regarded as a punishment. The punishment which has to be specified under sec. 367 (2), Cr. P. Code, cannot include an order of disqualification for holding a licence. Hence no appeal lies in such a case. 57 L.W. 469=(1944) 2 M.L. J. 152=1945 Mad 27.

SEC. 18.—The change made in sub-cl. (2) by the Select Committee transfers to the appellate Court the power to stay an order of disqualification pending appeal. In sub-cl. (3) we have removed the reference to conduct of the person disqualified subsequent to the order of disqualification, leaving the decision to be based on general circumstances of which such conduct might be one. (Select Committee Report). "In order to secure a reasonable measure of uniformity in respect of the endorsement of licences, the offences in respect of which the Courts shall be bound to endorse licences are specified in the Fifth Schedule. Licences will therefore invariably be endorsed by the Courts for these offences and by the Courts or other competent authority in respect of any period of disqualification. The offences specified in the Schedule will be those in respect of which endorsement is necessary. Other offences not specified will be of a technical nature and, although no specific provision is made, the intention is that they should not be endorsed". (Statement of Objects and Reasons.)

Endorsements.

19. (Cf. Eng. Act, S. 8) (1) The Court or authority making an order of disqualification shall endorse or cause to be endorsed upon the licence, if any, held by the person disqualified particulars of the order of disqualification and of any conviction of an offence in respect of which an order of disqualification is made; and particulars of any removal or variation of an order of disqualification made under sub-section (3) of section 18 shall be similarly so endorsed.

(2) A Court by which any person is convicted of an offence specified in the Fifth Schedule shall, whether or not an order of disqualification is made in respect of such conviction, endorse or cause to be endorsed particulars of such conviction on any licence held by the person convicted.

(3) Any person accused of an offence specified in the Fifth Schedule shall when attending the Court bring with him his licence if it is in his possession.

Transfer of endorsement and issue of licence free from endorsement.

20. (Cf. Eng. Act, S. 8.) (1) An endorsement on any licence shall be transferred to any new or duplicate licence obtained by the holder thereof until the holder becomes entitled under the provisions of this section to have a licence issued to him free from endorsement.

(2) Where a licence is required to be endorsed and the licence is at the time not in the possession of the Court or authority by which the endorsement is to be made then—

(a) if the person in respect of whom the endorsement is to be made is at the time the holder of a licence, he shall produce the licence to the Court or authority within five days, or such longer time as the Court or authority may fix, or

(b) if, not being then the holder of a licence, he subsequently obtains a licence, he shall within five days after obtaining the licence produce it to the Court or authority; and if the licence is not produced within the time specified it shall on the expiration of such time be of no effect until it is produced for the purpose of endorsement.

(3) A person whose license has been endorsed shall, if during a continuous period of three years since the last endorsement was made no further order of endorsement has been made against him, be entitled, on surrendering his licence and on payment of a fee of five rupees, to receive a new licence free from all endorsements. If the endorsement was only in respect of exceeding a speed limit, he shall be entitled to have a clean licence issued on the expiration of one year from the date of the order:

Provided that in reckoning the said period of three years and one year, respectively, any period during which the said person was disqualified for holding or obtaining a licence shall be excluded.

SEC. 20.—"In order to secure uniformity in respect of the issue of a clean licence after three years' clean driving, in conformity with the views expressed by the majority of Provincial Governments, it is proposed that in the Schedules specifying offences , convictions in respect of which are to be endorsed on licences, shall be divided into two parts—Part A will contain the more serious offences, endorsements in respect of which should never be expunged and must be repeated on any new licence issued, and Part B will specify the offences the endorsements in respect of which can be expunged after three years' clean period of driving. Thus, in the event of any person being prosecuted for an offence under this Act, his licence will furnish a record of all previous convictions of a serious nature, as well as recent convictions of a less serious nature and upon demand by the prosecution for the disqualification of the holder the Courts may normally be expected to disqualify a habitual offender. The power of licensing authorities to disqualify will therefore not be as necessary as it is held to be at present". (Statement of Objects Reasons.)

SELECT COMMITTEE REPORT.—"The change made in sub-cl. (3) liberalises the provisions of the sub-clause, and follows the provisions of the English law. The changes

(4) When a licence is endorsed by or an order of endorsement is made by any Court, the Court shall send particulars of the endorsement or order, as the case may be, to the licensing authority by which the licence was last renewed and to the licensing authority which granted the licence.

(5) Where the holder of a licence is disqualified by the order of any Court for holding or obtaining a licence, the Court shall take possession of the licence and forward it to the licensing authority by which it was granted or last renewed and that authority shall keep the licence until the disqualification has expired or has been removed and the person entitled to the licence has made a demand in writing for its return to him:

Provided that, if the disqualification is limited to the driving of a motor vehicle of a particular class or description, the Court shall endorse the licence to this effect and shall send a copy of the order of disqualification to the licensing authority by which the licence was granted and shall return the licence to the holder.

(6) Where on an appeal against any conviction or order of a Court which has been endorsed on a licence, the appellate Court varies or sets aside the conviction or order, the appellate Court shall inform the licensing authority by which the licence was last renewed and the licensing authority which granted the licence, and shall amend or cause to be amended the endorsement of such conviction or order.

Power to make rules.

21. (1) A Provincial Government may make rules for the purpose of carrying into effect the provisions of this Chapter.

(2) Without prejudice to the generality of the foregoing power, such rules may provide for—

(a) the appointment, jurisdiction, control and functions of licensing authorities and other prescribed authorities;

[1][(b) the conduct and hearing of appeals that may be preferred under this Chapter, the fees to be paid in respect of such appeals and the refund of such fees:

Provided that no fee so fixed shall exceed two rupees;]

(c) the issue of duplicate licences to replace licences lost, destroyed or mutilated, the replacement of photographs which have become obsolete, and the issue of temporary licences to persons receiving instruction in driving, and the fees to be charged therefor;

SEC. 21: SELECT COMMITTEE REPORT.—"The change made in cl. (d) of sub-cl. CHAPTER III.

REGISTRATION OF MOTOR VEHICLES.

Necessity for registration.

22. (1) No person shall drive any motor vehicle and no owner of a motor vehicle shall cause or permit the vehicle to be driven in any public place or in any other place for the purpose of carrying passengers or goods unless the vehicle is registered in accordance with this Chapter and the certificate of registration of the vehicle has not been suspended or cancelled and the vehicle carries a registration mark displayed in the prescribed manner.

(2) Nothing in this section shall apply to a motor vehicle while being driven within the limits of jurisdiction of one registering authority to or from the appropriate place of registration for the purpose of being registered under sections, 23, 25 or 39 or to a motor vehicle exempted from the provisions of this Chapter while in the possession of a dealer in motor vehicles.

SEC. 22.—Cf. Indian Motor Vehicles Act, 1914, sec. 10. Sub-cl. (2) usually appears at present in provincial rules. (Statement of Objects and Reasons.)

REPORT OF SELECT COMMITTEE.—"The change made in sub-cl. (1) has the effect of bringing within the scope of this clause vehicles used for the carriage of passengers or goods in such areas as privately owned mill areas, tea gardens, and mine areas to which we think it is desirable that the provisions regarding registration should extend. The change made in sub-cl. (2) is intended to make it impossible for a person residing up-country to drive an unregistered car for long distances from a port".

LICENSING OF MOTOR VEHICLES.—The identification of automobiles by a system of licensing and the requirement that each machine must carry a registration number conspicuously displayed is one of the precautions taken to reduce the danger of injury to pedestrians and other travellers from the careless management of automobiles, and to furnish a means of ascertaining the identity of persons violating the laws and ordinances regulating the speed and the operation of machines upon the highways. Registration laws applying to motor vehicles generally include almost all kinds of vehicles propelled by mechanical power. Motor cycles are also generally included. The legislature has enacted rules requiring every automobile to be registered and to display a registration number in such a manner that it may be plainly visible, and prohibits the operation of an automobile in a street or other public place unless it complies with such regulations. The licence which is issued at the time of registration of a machine is sometimes to the operator, and in other instances to the owner of the machine, and occasionally to both. The business of operating a motor vehicle is one which the legislature regulates in all its details. As an incident to the enforcement of a system of registering and licensing motor vehicles the state or municipality exacts a fixed fee upon the issuing of each licence, and such charges are usually treated as reasonable licence fees and not as taxes.

THE PROPER WAY OF PROVING AN ENTRY IN THE REGISTER OF MOTOR VEHICLES would be either that the Register itself should be produced by a proper official or a duly authenticated copy of the material part of the Register placed before the Court. A mere statement by the Commissioner of Police made in answer to a letter written by the Corporation, without his being called or the Register produced, cannot be accepted in proof of the ownership of a car. 36 C. W.N. 1147=1933 C. 178. It is ultra vires of the local Government to fix a time limit in the registration certificate and to make a corresponding change in the Schedule D as no power was given by sec. 11 of the Indian Motor Vehicles Act to make rules for that purpose. R. 6 of the Bombay Motor Vehicle Rules as amended is invalid and inoperative. 46 B. 646=24 Bom.L.R. 50=23 Cr.L.J. 163 =1922 B. 42. See also 1933 Bom. 460. R. 7 framed by the Bombay Government under sec. 11, Motor Vehicles Act, is not ultra vires as the words "incidental to registration" in sec. 11 are wide enough to cover renewal of certificates. 146 I.C. 3= 35 Bom.L.R. 1027=1933 B. 460 (F.B.). See also 1922 B. 42.

INJURY TO UNREGISTERED AUTOMOBILE OR OCCUPANT.—There has been considerable discussion in the cases as to the liability for injuries to persons riding on the highway in an automobile which has not been regis-

23. [1][(1)] Subject to the provisions of section 25 and section 39, every owner of a motor vehicle shall cause the vehicle to be registered by a registering authority in the province in which he has the residence or place of business where the vehicle is normally kept.

Registration where to be made.

tered as required by law, and some close distinctions have been sought to be drawn. It is, of course, a general principle of law that a person who does an unlawful act is not thereby necessarily put outside the protection of the law, and merely because he is a law-breaker he is not barred of redress for an injury which he may sustain, nor liable for an injury suffered by another. To put him beyond the pale of the law for the purposes of a recovery by or against him the unlawful act must have a connection with the injury suffered. Notwithstanding this salutary principle it has been laid down by some Courts that where the statutes prohibit the use of unregistered automobiles on the highways, a person riding in such an automobile is a trespasser on the highway and the only duty owing to him by persons lawfully on the highway is not wantonly or wilfully to injure him,

The rule which in effect renders an unlicenced automobile and its occupants outlaws on the highways can hardly be said to have the support of reason, and where the statute requires the registration of automobiles merely on pain of a penalty for a violation. the rules have been held not to apply. (Ame. Rul. Case-law.)

REGULATIONS AS TO NON-RESIDENTS.—The highways, whether urban or rural, are primarily intended for the use of the public; and the absolute dominion over them is lodged in the legislature although the control of the roads and streets is commonly delegated to the local municipalities within which they are located. Nevertheless their use remains in the public at large, subject only to such limitations as the municipalities are authorised by law to impose. The local authorities generally have power to lay a licence tax upon automobiles of residents of the municipality and upon persons residing outside of the corporate limits who employ their machines in furtherance of business or occupations carried on within the city limits; but they do not have the right to levy such tax on motor vehicles of non-residents whose business or pleasure casually carries them into or through the city, since this might result in compelling the owners of automobiles to obtain licences not only from the authorities of the place where their business had its headquaters, but also from every neighbouring town into which their casual engagements might call them. (Ame. Rul. Case-law.)

SECS. 22 & 42.—If a lorry is permitted to be driven on a particular day without registration and permit contrary to the provisions of secs. 22 (1) and 42 (1) of the Motor Vehicles Act, the owner cannot be charged for a number of separate offences, although it is seen at different places on the same day. The offence is using the lorry on the particular day and it is only one offence. 43 Cr.L.J. 673=44 P.L.R. 101=A.I.R. 1942 Lah. 125.

SECS. 23, 28 AND 29.—The increasing interprovincial circulation of vehicles makes it very desirable that registration shall have all-India validity. The object of these sections therefore is that a certificate of registration as such when once taken out shall be valid in perpetuity throughout British India, and shall remain as a history of the vehicle during the vehicle's life. But if the vehicle is transferred from one province to another for a period greater than twelve months, the owner will have to apply in the new province for the allotment of a fresh distinguishing mark (registered number) which will be entered in the certificate of registration. The documents and record of registration will then be transferred to the new province. This will necessitate amendment of some Provincial Taxation Acts, but it is felt that the disadvantages of linking registration to taxation out-weigh the advantages. (Statement of Objects and Reasons.)

SEC. 23: SELECT COMMITTEE REPORT.—"We have re-arranged this clause by converting the proviso into a separate sub clause. We have provided that a registration already in existence shall for a limited period be deemed to be a registration made under the new law, and have given to owners a right during that period to have it converted into a registration under the new law without payment of a registration fee. As the new law requires certain particulars to be carried exhibited on a vehicle, and to be entered in certificates of registration, we have provided by the new sub-cl. (3) a means by which, if necessary, this object can be secured even before a new registration is accomplished."

provide that within a prescribed period certificates of registration of any prescribed class of transport vehicles deemed to be registered under this Act by virtue of sub-section (2) shall be presented to a prescribed authority for the entry therein of all or any of the particulars specified in section 37.] (Sub-sections (2) and (3) omitted by Act XX of 1942.)

Registration how to be made.

24. (1) An application by or on behalf of the owner of a motor vehicle for registration shall be in Form E as set forth in the First Schedule, shall contain the information required by that form, and shall be accompanied by the prescribed fee.

(2) The registering authority shall issue to the owner of a motor vehicle registered by it a certificate of registration in Form G as set forth in the First Schedule and shall enter in a record to be kept by it particulars of such certificate.

(3) The registering authority shall assign to the vehicle, for display thereon in the prescribed manner, a distinguishing mark (in this Act referred to as the registration mark) consisting of one of the groups of letters allotted to the province by the Sixth Schedule followed by a number containing not more than four figures.

Temporary registration.

25. (1) Notwithstanding anything contained in section 23, the owner of a motor vehicle may apply to any registering authority to have the vehicle temporarily registered in the prescribed manner and for the issue in the prescribed manner of a temporary certificate of registration and a temporary registration mark.

(2) A registration made under this section shall be valid only for a period not exceeding one month, and shall not be renewable.

Production of vehicle at time of registration.

26. The registering authority may before proceeding to register a motor vehicle require the person applying for registration of the vehicle to produce the vehicle either before itself or such authority as the Provincial Government may by order appoint in order that the registering authority may satisfy itself that the particulars contained in the application are true and that the vehicle complies with the requirements of Chapter V and of the rules made thereunder.

Refusal of registration.

27. The registering authority may refuse to register any motor vehicle if the vehicle is mechanically defective or fails to comply with the requirements of Chapter V or of the rules made thereunder, or if the applicant fails to furnish particulars of any previous registration of the vehicle, and it shall furnish the applicant whose vehicle is refused registration with the reasons in such writing for refusal.

SEC. 24.—"The range of vehicles is extending farther and farther bevond provincial boundaries and the desirability of uniform distinguishing marks is becoming more evident". (Statement of Objects and Reasons.)

SEC. 25.—The amendment by the Select Committee in cl. (2) simplifies the wording without making any material change in the effect of the clause. (Select Committee Report.)

SECS. 26 AND 27.—These provisions already appear in provincial rules. (Statement of Objects and Reasons.)

SEC. 26.—The object of the change is to enable the authority referred to be appointed more expeditiously than would be the case if the authority were to be prescribed by rules the making of which is subject to previous publication. (Select Committee Report.)

SEC. 27: SELECT COMMITTEE REPORT.—"We have provided later in sec. 35 for an appeal against a refusal to register under this section. Accordingly we provide here that the reasons for any such refusal shall be recorded.

Effectiveness in British India of registration.

28. (1) Subject to the provisions of section 29, a motor vehicle registered in accordance with this Chapter in any province [1][* * * * * * ] shall not require to be registered elsewhere in British India and a certificate of registration issued or in force under this Act in respect of such vehicle shall be effective throughout British India; [ * *][1]

(2) Subject, in the case of international motor vehicle certificates issued in pursuance of the International Convention relative to motor traffic concluded at Paris on the 24th day of April, 1926 [1][or any convention modifying the same], to any rules made by the Central Government under section 92, and subject in any other case to the provisions of [2][* * *] section 23 and sub-section (3) and sub-section (4) of this section, a motor vehicle registered by a competent authority in any Indian State or in the French or Portuguese Settlements bounded by India shall not require to be registered in British India:

Provided that there is in force in respect of the vehicle a certificate conforming to and containing substantially the same particulars as the certificate of registration in Form G as set forth in the First Schedule issued by such competent authority in respect of such vehicle.

(3) A certificate complying with the requirements of the proviso to sub-section (2) shall be effective throughout British India, as if it were a certificate of registration issued under this Act.

(4) Sub-section (2) shall not apply to any motor vehicle previously registered in British India, if the certificate of registration of the vehicle in British India is for the time being suspended or cancelled for any reason other than that of a permanent removal of the vehicle from British India.

(5) If at any time the Central Government is satisfied that motor vehicles registered in British India under this Act are not permitted to be driven in any Indian State or French or Portuguese Settlement without fresh registration in such State or Settlement, or are permitted to be driven only subject to unreasonable conditions or that like conditions and requirements to those imposed under this Act (including the specification of the particulars required by Form G as set forth in the First Schedule) are not imposed in a reasonable degree upon the issue and for the continued effectiveness of certificates of registration in any State or Settlement as aforesaid, the Central Government shall, by notification in the Official Gazette, declare that certificates of registration generally or in respect of any patricular class of motor vehicle issued in any such State or Settlement shall not be effective in British India.

Assignment of fresh registration mark on removal to another province.

29. (1) When a motor vehicle registered in one province has been kept in another province for a period exeeeding twelve months, the owner of the vehicle shall apply to the registering authority, within whose jurisdiction the vehicle then is, for the assignment of a new registration mark and shall present the certificate of registration to that registering authority.

SEC. 28: SELECT COMMITTEE REPORT.—"In cl. (1) minor changes have been made in the drafting, and we have omitted the reference to liability to provincial taxation as unnecessary and possibly misleading. We have added a proviso affording the Provincial Government a means of securing when it thinks necessary a record of the particulars regarding transport vehicles which are required under sec. 37 (old 36). Cls. (2) and (3) have been recast in order to provide that the recognition of a registration effected in a State of Foreign Settlement shall, as has already been provided in sec. 9 in the case of licences, be conditional on reciprocal treatment in such States or Settlements of a registration effected in British India, and on the existence of adequate measures for the control of registration".

SEC. 29.—A minor drafting change has been made by the Select Committee. (Select Committee Report).

section (1), shall assign the vehicle, a registration mark in accordance with the Sixth Schedule to be carried thenceforth on the vehicle and shall enter the mark upon the certificate of registration before returning it to the applicant and shall, in communication with the registering authority by whom the vehicle was previously registered, arrange for the transfer of the registration of the vehicle from the records of that registering authority to its own records.

(3) A Provincial Government may make rules under section 41 requiring the owner of a motor vehicle not registered within the province, which is brought into or is for the time being in the province, to furnish to a prescribed authority in the province such information with respect to the motor vehicle and its registration as may be prescribed.

Change of residence or place of business.

30. (1) If the owner of a motor vehicle ceases to reside or have his place of business at the address recorded in the certificate of registration of the vehicle, he shall, within thirty days of any such change of address, intimate his new address to the registering authority by which the certificate of registration was issued, or, if the new address is within the jurisdiction of another registering authority, to that other registering authority, and shall at the same time forward the certificate of registration to the registering authority in order that the new address may be entered therein.

(2) A registering authority other than the original registering authority making any such entry shall communicate the altered address to the original registering authority.

(3) Nothing in sub-section (1) shall apply where the change of the address recorded in the certificate of registration is due to a temporary absence not intended to exceed six months in duration or where the motor vehicle is neither used nor removed from the address recorded in the certificate of registration.

Transfer of ownership.

31. (1) Within thirty days of the transfer of ownership of any motor vehicle registered under this Chapter, the transferee shall report the transfer to the registering authority within whose jurisdiction he resides and shall forward the certificate of registration to that registering authority together with the prescribed fee in order that particulars of the transfer of ownership may be entered therein.

(2) A registering authority other than the original registering authority making any such entry shall communicate the transfer of ownership to the original registering authority.

Alteration in motor vehicle.

32. (1) If a motor vehicle is so altered that the particulars contained in the certificate of registration are no longer accurate, the owner of the vehicle shall, within fourteen days of the making of any such alteration, report the alteration to the registering authority within whose jurisdiction he resides and shall forward the certificate of registration to that authority together with the prescribed fee in order that particulars of the alteration may be entered therein:

SECS. 30 AND 32.—"These reproduce the substance of what already appears in provincial rules, but to facilitate matters for the vehicle owner they enable him to report a change of address or of ownership, or alteration in the vehicle to a registering authority who is convenient for the purpose". (Statement of Objects and Reasons.)

SEC. 30: SELECT COMMITTEE REPORT.—In cl. (1) we have extended the time limit given for compliance with the provisions of the clause. The change made in cl. (2) and repeated in the similar secs. 31 (2), 32 (2), 33 (3), 34 (2) is merely a simplification of the wording, made possible by the insertion of the explanatory cl. (7) in sec. 34.

SEC. 31.—In cl. (1) the Select Committee had extended the time limit for compliance with the provisions of the section.

SECS. 31 AND 34.—As to necessity for fresh registration on change of ownership of vehicle, see 45 C.W.N. 111.

SEC. 32.—The proviso added to cl. (1) makes a provision to be found in certain provincial rules. The changes in cl. (2) are formal only. (Select Committee Report.)

Provided that it shall not be necessary to report any change in the unladen weight of the motor vehicle consequent on the addition or removal of fittings or accessories if such change does not exceed two per cent. of the weight entered in the certificate of registration.

(2) A registering authority other than the original registering authority making any such entry shall communicate the details of the entry to the original registering authority.

Suspension of registration.

33. (1) A registering authority or other prescribed authority, which has reason to believe that any motor vehicle within its jurisdiction is in such a condition that its use in a public place would constitute a danger to the public, or that it fails to comply with the requirements of Chapter V or of the rules made thereunder. may, after giving the owner an opportunity of making any representation he may wish to make, for reasons to be recorded in writing supend the certificate of registeration of the vehicle until the defects are remedied to its satisfaction.

(2) An authority other than a registering authority shall, when making a suspension order under sub-section (1), intimate in writing the fact of suspension and the reasons therefor to the registering authority within whose jurisdiction the vehicle is at the time of the suspension.

(3) Where the registration of a motor vehicle has been suspended under sub-section (1) for a continuous period of not less than one month, the registering authority, within whose jurisdiction the vehicle was when the registration was suspended, shall, if it is not the original registering authority, inform that authority of the suspension; and when the suspension has continued without interruption for a period of not less than six months, the registering authority, within whose jurisdiction the vehicle was when the registeration was suspended, may, if it is the original registering authority, cancel the registration, and, if it is not the original registering authority, shall forward the certificate of registration to that authority which may cancel it forthwith.

(4) The owner of a motor vehicle shall, on the demand of a registering authority or other prescribed authority which has suspended the certificate of registration of the vehicle under this section, surrender the certificate of registration and any token or card issued to authorise the use of the vehicle in a public place.

(5) A certificate of registration and any token or card surrendered under sub-section (4) shall be returned to the owner when the order suspending registration has been rescinded and not before.

Cancellation of registration.

34. (1) If a motor vehicle has been destroyed or has been rendered permanently incapable of use, the owner shall, within fourteen days or as soon as may be, report the fact to the registering authority within whose jurisdiction he resides and shall forward to that authority the certificate of registration of the vehicle together with any token or card issued to authorise the use of the vehicle in a public place.

SEC. 33.—This appears in substance in provincial rules, but additional provision is included requiring that if a defective vehicle is not repaired within a reasonable period its registration shall be cancelled. (Statement of Objects and Reasons.)

(2) The registering authority shall, if it is the original registering authority, cancel the registration and the certificate of registration, or, if it is not, shall forward the report and the certificate of registration to the original registering authority and that authority shall cancel the registration and the certificate of registration.

(3) Any registering authority may order the examination of a motor vehicle within its jurisdiction by such authority as the Provincial Government may by order appoint and, if upon such examination and after giving the owner an opportunity to make any representation he may wish to make it is satisfied that the vehicle is in such a condition that its use in a public place would constitute a danger to the public and that it is beyond reasonable repair, may cancel the registration of the vehicle.

(4) If a registering authority is satisfied that a motor vehicle has been permanently removed out of British India, the registering authority shall cancel the registration.

(5) A registering authority cancelling the registration of a motor vehicle under section 33 or under this section shall communicate the fact in writing to the owner of the vehicle and the owner of the vehicle shall forthwith surrender to that authority the certificate of registration of the vehicle and any token or card issued to authorise the use of the vehicle in a public place.

(6) A registering authority making an order of cancellation under this section shall, if it is the original registering authority, cancel the certificate of registration and the entry relating to the vehicle in its records, and, if it is not the original registering authority, forward the certificate of registration to that authority, and that authority shall cancel the certificate of registration and the entry relating to the motor vehicle in its records.

(7) The expression "original registering authority" in this section and in sections 30, 31, 32 and 33 means the registering authority in whose records the registration of the vehicle is recorded.

Appeals.

35. (1) Any owner of a motor vehicle aggrieved by an order of refusal under section 27 to register a motor vehicle or under sub-section (1) of section 38 to issue a certificate of fitness or by an order of suspension or cancellation made under section 33 or 34 or by an order of cancellation under sub-section (3) of section 38 may, within thirty days of the date on which he has received notice of such order, appeal against the order to the prescribed authority.

(2) The appellate authority shall give notice of the appeal to the original authority and after giving opportunity to the original acthority and the appellant to be heard either personally or by pleader in the appeal pass such orders as it thinks fit:

Provided that orders of the original authority shall remain in force pending the disposal of the appeal unless the appellate authority otherwise directs.

(3) we have provided for the appointment of the examining authority by order of the Provincial Government instead of by rule made after previous publication, and have provided that an owner shall have an opportunity of being heard. In cl. (4) the change made ensures that all orders of suspension or cancellation shall be communicated in writing to owners of vehicle. Cl. any transport vehicle other than a motor cab, unless the application for registration is accompanied by a document in Form F as set forth in the First Schedule signed by the maker of the vehicle or an assembler duly authorised by the maker in this behalf stating the greatest laden weight and greatest axle weights for which the vehicle is and the several axles are designed: [* * *][1]

(2) Where a transport vehicle or chassis as the case may be, has affixed to it a metal plate, bearing the stamp of the maker or assembler and identified as appertaining to the particular vehicle or chassis to which it is attached, which contains the particulars specified in sub-section (1), that plate may at the discretion of a registering authority be deemed to be the document referred to in sub-section (1).

Special particulars to be recorded on registration of transport vehicle.

37. (1) A registering authority, when registering a transport vehicle other than a motor cab shall enter in the record of registration and shall also enter in the certificate of registration of the vehicle the following particulars, namely:—

(a) the unladen weight of the vehicle;

(b) the number, nature and size of the tyres attached to each wheel;

(c) the registered laden weight of the vehicle and the registered axle weights pertaining to the several axles thereof fixed in accordance with sub-section (2) with reference to the particulars of the tyres entered in the certificate of registration; and

(d) if the vehicle is used or adapted to be used for the carriage of passengers solely or in addition to goods, the number of passengers for whom accommodation is provided;

and the owner of the vehicle shall have the said particulars exhibited in the prescribed manner on the vehicle.

(2) Notwithstanding any statement contained in the document referred to in sub-section (1) of section 36 as supplied by the maker or assembler of a transport vehicle, the registered weight to be recorded by the registering authority for any axle shall not exceed the permissible weight for that axle calculated in accordance with the Seventh Schedule, nor shall the registered laden weight of the vehicle exceed the sum of the several axle weights as so determined:

Provided that where it appears to a Provincial Government that heavier weights than those specified in the Seventh Schedule may be permitted in a particular locality for vehicles of a particular type, the Provincial Government may by notification in the Official Gazette direct that the provisions of this sub-section shall apply with such modifications as may be specified in the notification.

SECS. 36 AND 37.—"In order to check overloading the maximum permissible weight and axle weights must be specified in the registration certificate. The registering authority has no means of determining these and it is proposed therefore to require the manufacturer to certify in respect of every chassis. To guard against the possibility of the certified weight being incorrectly specified, it is proposed that the legal weight on any axle shall be governed by the size of the pneumatic tyres attached to the wheels of that axle in accordance with scheduled permissible loans on tyres of different sizes." (Statement of Objects and Reasons)

SEC. 36: SELECT COMMITTEE REPORT.—"In addition to the minor formal amendments, we have by an added proviso to cl. (1) excluded from the operation of the section transport vehicles already registered, owing to the practical difficulty that might be experienced in complying with the requirements contained in the section. We have omitted cls. (2) and (3) dealing with the import of cars and have accordingly omitted the reference to Customs Collector in cl. (4)".

(3) When by reason of an alteration in the number, nature or size of tyres attached to the vehicle the regitsered laden weight or any registered axle weight recorded in the certificate of registration no longer accords with the laden weight or the axle weight as determined in accordance with sub-section (2), the provisions of section 32 shall apply, and the registering authority shall enter in the certificate of registration a revised registered laden weight and registered axle weights.

Certificate of fitness of transport vehicle.

38. (1) Subject to the provisions of section 39, a transport vehicle shall not be deemed to be validly registered for the purposes of section 22, unless it carries a certificate of fitness in Form H as set forth in the First Schedule, issued by the prescribed authority, to the effect that the vehicle complies for the time being with all the requirements of Chapter V and the rules made thereunder. Where the prescribed authority refuses to issue such certificate it shall supply the owner of the vehicle with its reasons in writing for such refusal.

(2) Subject to the provisions of sub-section (3), a certificate of fitness shall remain effective for three years, unless a shorter period, not being in any case less than six months, is specified in the certificate by the prescribed authority.

(3) The issuing authority or other prescribed authority may for reasons to be recorded in writing cancel a certificate of fitness at any time, if satisfied that the vehicle to which it relates no longer complies with all the requirements of this Act and the rules made thereunder; and on such cancellation the certificate of registration of the vehicle and any permit granted in respect of the vehicle under Chapter IV shall be deemed to be suspended until a new certificate of fitness has been obtained.

[(4) Notwithstanding anything contained in sub-section (1), a Provincial Government may, until the expiry of one year from the commencement of this Act, by rules made under section 41, dispense with the necessity for a certificate of fitness in the case of all or any transport vehicles in respect of which certificates of registration and permits had already been issued before the commencement of this Act.] (Sub-section (4) omitted by Act XX of 1942.)

SEC. 38.—A registration is not to be renewed annually, it is necessary to provide that transport vehicles shall be brought up periodically, or as required, for mechanical inspection. It is proposed to do this by attaching to the registration certificate a certificate of fitness which will specify the date by which the vehicle has to be re-examined. One real advantage to be derived from these certificates is that the inspection will take place as and when due, and there will be no necessity for any disorganisation of passenger service due to all vehicles being called up for examination at a particular time. (Statement of Objects and Reasons.)

CL. (1): REPORT OF SELECT COMMITTEE.—"We have introduced a reference by way of a saving clause to sec. 39. We have added provision for communication in writing of the reasons for a refusal to grant a certificate of fitness.

CL. (2) has been revised so as to secure that while a certificate issued in respect of a new vehicle shall remain effective for three years, any other certificate shall require annual renewal. (Select Committee Report.)

(2) A transport vehicle registered under this section shall carry a certificate of fitness in Form H as set forth in the First Schedule issued by the authority referred to in sub-section (1).

(3) An authority registering a vehicle under sub-section (1) shall assign a registration mark in accordance with the provisions contained in the Fourth Schedule and shall issue a certificate in respect of the vehicle that the vehicle has been registered under this section.

(4) If a vehicle registered under this section ceases to be the property [or under the exclusive control][1] of the Central Government, the provisions of section 23 shall thereupon apply.

(5) The authority registering a vehicle under sub-section (1) shall furnish to any Provincial Government all such information regarding the general nature, over all dimensions, and axle weights of the vehicle as the Provincial Government may at any time require.

Application of Chapter III to trailers.

40. (1) The registration mark assigned to a trailer shall be displayed in the prescribed manner on the side of the vehicle.

(2) No person shall drive a motor vehicle to which a trailor is or trailers are attached unless the registration mark of the motor vehicle so driven is displayed in the prescribed manner on the trailer or on the last trailer in the train, as the case may be.

Power to make rules.

41. (1) A Provincial Government may make rules for the purpose of carrying into effect the provisions of this Chapter.

(2) Without prejudice to the generality of the foregoing power, such rules may provide for—

(a) the conduct and hearing of appeals that may be preferred under this Chapter; [2][the fees to be paid in respect of such appeals and the refund of such fees];

(b) the appointment, functions and jurisdiction of registering and other prescribed authorities;

(c) the issue of certificates of registration and duplicate certificates of registration to replace certificates lost, destroyed or mutilated;

(d) the temporary registration of motor vehicles, and the issue of temporary certificates of registration and marks;

(e) the manner in which registration marks and the particulars referred to in sub-section (1) of section 37, and other prescribed particulars shall be exhibited;

CONTROL OF TRANSPORT VEHICLES.

Necessity for Permits.

42. (1) No owner of a transport vehicle shall use or permit the use of the vehicle in any public place, save in accordance with the conditions of a permit granted or countersigned by a Regional or Provincial Transport Authority authorising the use of the vehicle in that place in the manner in which the vehicle is being used:

Provided that a stage carriage permit shall, subject to any conditions that may be specified in the permit, authorise the use of the vehicle as a contract carriage:

LEG. REF.

[1] Added and inserted by Act XX of 1942.

SECS. 42, 52 AND 53.—The bona fide private carrier should not be required to justify his application in the face of opposition by other providers of transport although the private carrier will, in other respects, e.g., weight and speed limits, and safety regulations, be under the same obligation as the public carrier. All provinces, save one, have agreed that a differentiation between the two classes is necessary and that a private carrier should have a permit for identification on the road and to show that the vehicle is being rightly used. One province would make no distinction but the Bill follows the English practice in which this distinction is made. In England a private carrier's permit is easily obtained because the granting of the permit is not open to opposition by providers of public transport.

SEC. 42: GENERAL.—This Chapter legislates specifically for the control of transport vehicles, i.e., vehicles carrying passengers for hire or reward, or goods whether for hire or reward or otherwise. Such vehicles are divided into four classes, namely:—

(a) Stage carriages, i.e., motor buses on regular or quasi regular services;

(b) contract carriages, i.e., taxis and other motor cabs, and buses used for special occasions;

(c) private carriers (of goods); and (d) public carriers (of goods).

The general scheme is that the control of these separate classes of vehicles should be in the hands of transport authorities constituted for specified areas within the province; and that for the purpose of co-ordination, hearing appeals, etc., there should also be constituted a transport authority for the province. The constitution of these bodies is a matter upon which the Provincial Governments have particularly been consulted.

All motor transport vehicles must be covered by a permit issued by the transport authority of an area, and the effectiveness of every permit will depend on the observance by the holder of recognised general conditions such as the satisfactory maintenance of the vehicle, the observance of prescribed speed limits, and the avoid-

Provided further that a stage carriage permit may, subject to any conditions that may be specified in the permit, authorise the use of the vehicle as a goods vehicle either when carrying passengers or not:

Provided further that a public carrier's permit shall, subject to any conditions that may be specified in the permit, authorise the holder to use the vehicle for the carriage of goods for or in connection with a trade or business carried on by him.

(2) In determining for the purposes of this Chapter, whether a transport vehicle is or is not used for the carriage of goods for hire or reward,—

(a) the delivery or collection by or on behalf of the owner of goods sold, used or let on hire or hire-purchase in the course of any trade or business carried on by him other than the trade or business of providing transport,

(b) the delivery or collection by or on behalf of the owner of goods which have been or which are to be subjected to a process or treatment in the course of trade or business carried on by him, or shall not be deemed to constitute a carrying of the goods for hire or reward; but the carriage in a transport vehicle of goods by a person not being a dealer in such goods who has acquired temporary ownership of the goods for the purpose of transporting them to another place and there relinquishing ownership shall be deemed to constitute a carrying of the goods for hire or reward.

(c) the carriage of goods in a transport vehicle by a manufacturer of or agent or dealer in such goods whilst the vehicle is being used for demonstration purposes

(3) Sub-section (1) shall not apply—

(a) to any transport vehicle owned by or on behalf of the Central Government or a Provincial Government other than a vehicle used in connection with the business of an Indian State Railway;

(b) to any transport vehicle owned by a local authority or by a person acting under contract with local authority and used solely for road cleansing, road watering or conservancy purposes;

ance of overloading the vehicle or overworking the drivers". (Statement of Objects and Reasons.)

SEC. 42 (4).—This sub-clause will enable Provincial Governments to deal with the private bus, control over which they may deem desirable. (Statement of Objects and Reasons.)

SUB-CL. (1) AND CLS. (a) AND (b) OF SUB-CL. (2).—"The alterations are formal. The new clause inserted in sub-cl. (2) is a provision contained in the English Road Traffic Act, 1933, which we consider desirable. In sub-cl. (3) we have added two new classes of vehicle to those exempted from the provisions of sub-cl. (1), namely, vehicles used for certain public purposes and vehicles used for State purposes by the Governments of Indian States or the Foreign Settlements. Certain minor changes of a formal or consequential nature, are also made in the sub-clause'. (Select Committee Report.) See 55 L.W. 754=1943 Mad. 41=(1942) 2 M.L.J. 577 (as to the meaning of the term "using" the car and "permitting the use" of the car). Permit requiring issuing of tickets to passengers—Employee of owner failing to issue tickets—Liability of owner—Driver and conductor not liable. I.L.R. (1945) Nag. 742=1945 N. 263=1945 N.L.J. 333.

SECS. 42 AND 48.—An agent of manager of the owner cannot be considered to be the owner within the meaning of that term, occurring in secs. 42 (1) and 48 (d). I.L.R. (1943) Nag. 64=1942 N.L.J. 308=1943 Nag. 22.

SECS. 42 AND 123.—There is no rule under the Motor Vehicles Act placing upon the driver or the conductor the duty of seeing that goods are not carried in a vehicle contrary to the conditions of its permit but it is the duty of the conductor under R. 218 of the Rules to exercise supervision over the loading of the vehicle with passengers, luggage and goods. Secs. 42 (1) and 123 of the Act are controlled by the rules under the Act which separately lay down the responsibilities of the driver and the conductor. The driver of a vehicle cannot therefore be convicted under secs. 42 (1) and 123 (1) for carrying goods contrary to the conditions of the permit, for contravention of a rule from the due observance of which he has been statutorily exempted and responsibility solely rests upon the conductor. 56 L.W. 110=A.I.R. 1943 Mad. 347=(1943) 1 M.L.J. 176. Use of motor car for carrying newspapers from office to Railway station would amount to using it as a "Goods Vehicle". To do so without permit is an offence under sec. 123. 1945 M.W.N. 430=58 L.W. 320 =1945 Mad. 440=(1945) 2 M.L.J. 68.

(c) to any transport vehicle used solely for public, fire brigade or ambulance purposes;

(d) to any transport vehicle used solely for the conveyance of corpses;

(e) to any transport vehicle used for towing a disabled vehicle or for removing goods from a disabled vehicle to a place of safety;

(f) to any transport vehicle used for any other public purpose prescribed in this behalf;

(g) to any transport vehicle owned by, and used solely for the purposes of, any educational institution which is recognised by the Provincial Government or whose managing committee is a society registered under the Societies Registration Act, 1860;

(h) subject to any prescribed conditions, to any transport vehicle owned by the Government of any Indian State or French or Portuguese Settlement bounded by India used for Government purposes unconnected with any commercial enterprise; or

(i) to any trailer used for any purpose other than the carriage of goods for hire or reward when drawn by a motor vehicle constructed for the carriage of not more than six passengers excluding the driver.

(4) Subject to the provisions of sub-section (3), sub-section (1) shall, if the Provincial Government by rule made under section 68 so prescribes, apply to any motor vehicle adapted to carry more than nine passengers excluding the driver.

Power to Provincial Government to control road transport.

43. (1) A Provincial Government, having regard to—

SEC. 43: SELECT COMMITTEE REPORT.—"This new clause vests in the Provincial Government certain powers of co-ordinating road and rail transport. In the provisions of the Bill relating to Transport Authorities we have revised the references to transport generally by using such expressions as "road transport" and "road passenger transport", indicating thereby that these Authorities will, in considering the relevant factors which are to be weighed by them, confine themselves to the interests of road traffic. We consider that under existing conditions, the Provincial Government itself is the authority in the best position to weigh against each other the conflicting interests of rail traffic and road traffic. The clause contains the considerations to which in our opinion regard should be had, and the powers which we think should be exercisable".

The following extracts from Disney's Carriage by Railway may be read in this connection.

THE RAILWAY COMPANIES' NEW ROAD TRANSPORT POWERS —ORIGIN OF THESE POWERS IN ENGLAND.—"No railway company has ever been expressly prohibited by any Act of Parliament from engaging in road transport in the fullest sense of the term. But no railway company has ever been in the same position as an ordinary limited company. A limited company which requires no compulsory powers can avail itself of the Companies Act, to arrogate to itself by its Memorandum of Association power which embraces every form of activity on the face of the globe. But you cannot build a railway without acquiring land compulsorily and therefore a railway company cannot come into existence without a special Act of Parliament. In granting compulsory powers, Parliament always stands on its dignity and the public interest, and no Act of Parliament authorising a company to make a railway has ever empowered that company to do more than carry on the railway as an effective enterprise. It is and always has been for the Courts to determine what objects the company may lawfully pursue in furtherance of that—its main—purpose. In arriving at this determination the Courts have always held that the objects a railway company may lawfully pursue, and the powers they lawfully use in furtherance of these objects, must either be expressly conferred or derived by reasonable implication from its provisions. In other words, any operations in which at railway company may engage, must be either expressly authorised or impliedly authorised as incidental to the main purpose for which the company was created. From the first the railway companies were fettered by the difficulty of proving that it could be incidental to the main purpose for which a railway company was created to engage in road transport in the full sense of the term. It was, however, soon found that the railway companies could not be confined to the metals. Goods must be brought to the point where the railway journey begins and must be taken from the point at which the journey terminates; for the world at large does not live at Ry. Stats. It was, therefore, recognised at an early stage in the history of railways that it was appropriate to the railway companies that they should bring the goods to the point where the railway journey begins, and that they should on the completion of the journey distribute what they had carried by rail to the various consignees on the road. Collection and delivery services were mentioned and recognised in a very early English statute the Regulation of Railways Act, 1873, and the Railway Commissioners were empowered by that enactment to decide what was a reasonable sum to be paid to any railway company therefor. By 1888 a large collection and delivery traffic had grown up, and in the Rates and Charges Order of that year "the collection or delivery of merchandise outside the terminal station" is enumerated among the services for which a railway company may undertake and charge for. The Railways Act, 1921, carried the matter still further; for sec. 49 of that Act not only authorised a railway company to make reasonable charges for collection and delivery, but imposed a general obligation to collect and deliver at any place such merchandise as is for the time being ordinarily collected and delivered by the company at that place—Quite apart from this very important and substantial service of collection and delivery, many of the old railway companies in England (which are now amalgamated or absorbed in the four great companies) had from time to time acquired by special Acts of Parliament certain very limited powers of engaging in road transport, i.e., to convey passengers and their luggage (but not goods) to or from any of the Company's railways by road vehicles mechanical or horse-drawn. Apart from these limited powers, which were not of much use, and without any statutory authority, in the beginning of 1928, the Great Western Railway fleet of omnibuses, 287 in number, ran a mileage of 3,814,013 miles and conveyed over 8 million passengers. This was done openly for many years, and the services were advertised in the company's time tables; and though it would have been difficult for the company to establish that what they were doing was legal, no one did in fact apply for an injunction to restrain them. By 1928 the English Railway Companies found themselves seriously threatened by competition in the shape of mechanically propelled long-distance road transport. The invention of the motor car had gradually resulted in one of those commercial revolutions which Cobden—the only English statesman who began life as a commercial traveller—declared to be more important than the political revolutions chronicled by history. Great road transport companies had been built up, and the business of carrying goods for long distances and over wide areas by heavy lorries had been developed on an extensive scale. Motor omnibuses and motor coaches carried passengers on inviting terms from one end of the country to another. The railway monopoly, it it ever existed, had become a thing of the past. In fact, the railway companies were faced with the gravest of human misfortunes, a steady withdrawal of custom. They accordingly represented to Parliament that as a result of this new and growing competition they were suffering materially in their financial resources. They pointed out that the new traffic bade fair to become as extensive and as highly organised and capitalised as railway traffic itself; that whereas the railway companies were subject to public control at every turn, this formidable new rival of theirs were subject to little, if any; and that whereas the road transport undertaker had his track provided for him, the railway companies not only had to provide their own, but had to pay rates on it when provided, and then to contribute to the maintenance of the competitive track. The railway companies further pointed out that the whole system of railway rates, charges and fares had been fundamentally changed since the war. The consequence is that for the future, if a railway company is rendered less prosperus by having its traffic taken away from it, it will be not only the shareholder as in the past, but all the users of railways passengers as well as traders who will suffer Thus the prosperity of the railway companies are also matters of public concern. Such were the reasons which induced Parliament to pass the Four Railway (Road Transport) Act of 1928 and to confer on each of the four great railway companies a general power to act as a carrier by road, subject to certain statutory restrictions. Parliament was impressed by the twin facts that there was a real menace to the railway industry in the country and that the prosperity of the whole trading community is now dependent on the prosperity of the railways. The Acts, which are in substance identical, begin by authorising each of the companies to convey by road passengers and passenger's luggage, parcels and merchandise in any district to which access is affording by its system.

GENERAL PROVISIONS OF THE ENGLISH ACTS.—The general power to engage in road transport within a specified sphere thus conferred on each of the railway companies is subject to the following restrictions:—(a) None of the companies may convey by any road vehicle any passenger who on any one journey is both taken up and set down in the area consisting of the Metropolitan Police District and the City of London; (b) Where a local authority is maintaining an adequate and satisfactory service of tramcars or omnibuses, no railway company is to compete; (c) No road vehicle run by a railway company is to use any railway bridge whose use under like circumstances is prohibited to similar vehicles not belonging to the company; (d) If the Local authority is at any time of opinion that the interests of the public are prejudicially affected by the exercise of the new powers by any one of the railway companies, he may after inquiry direct the company in question to make (a) the advantages offered to the public, trade and industry by the development of motor transport, and

(b) the desirability of co-ordinating road and rail transport, and

(c) the desirability of preventing the deterioration of the road system, and

(d) the desirability of preventing uneconomic competition among motor vehicles, and after having heard the representatives of the interests affected and having consulted the Provincial and Regional Transport Authorities concerned, may, by notification in the Official Gazette,—

(i) prohibit or restrict throughout the province or in any area or on any route within the province, subject to such conditions as it may think desirable, the conveying of long distance goods traffic generally or of prescribed classes of goods, by private or public carriers; or

(ii) fix maximum or minimum fares or freights for stage carriages and public carriers to be applicable throughout the province or within any area or on any route within the province.

(2) The Provincial Government shall permit, at such intervals of time as it may fix, the interests affected by any notification issued under sub-section (1) to make representations urging the cancellation or variation of the notification on the following grounds, namely:—

(a) that the railways are not giving reasonable facilities or are taking provision to his satisfaction for the protection of the public interest; and if the company fails to do so, the authorities may by proper procedure withdraw the concession. In the case of every regular service of electrical or mechanical vehicles, the railway company must provide such reasonable services in regard to the conveyance of mails as the Postmaster-General may from time to time require. Each company may demand and take in respect of the new traffic the fixed rates or such reasonable fares, rates and charges as they may think fit. All passenger fares must be exhibited in a conspicuous position inside the vehicle. In the case of passenger fares any local authority interested, and in the case of merchandise charges any trader interested or any representative body of traders, may apply to the Railway Rates Tax Tribunal to reduce any fare, rate or charge on the ground that it is unreasonable; and the tribunal, after hearing all parties whom they consider entitled to be heard, may make such modification as may to them seem just. Any such modification may be reviewed by the tribunal at any time upon the railway company's application. The Acts confer on the railway companies extensive powers of entering into working agreements with local authorities, companies bodies and persons owning or running road vehicles for hire or as public service vehicles. Any such agreement must be notified to the State Officer in charge of traffic and transport and he must be informed whether or not such agreement is an agreement whereby the business of any company, body or person is controlled by the railway company through shareholding or nomination of directors or as the result of a loan or other financial transaction or otherwise. Any road transport service provided by a company, body or person whose business is for the time being thus controlled is subject to the provision of the Acts as regards fares, rates and charges withdrawal of service, and competition with local authorities. In the interests of the motor manufacture industry each of the railway companies is expressly prohibited from manufacturing any part of any road motor vehicle to be used in pursuance of the new road transport powers, except the body. The Acts repeal all the pre-existing special express powers of engaging in road transport conferred by earlier private Acts. The railway companies recognise that a considerable amount of rail traffic has been permanently diverted on to the road; but they believe that by a proper co-ordination of road and rail services they will be able to recover for the rails some traffic that is at present on the roads, and to share in the traffic which was once rail traffic, but has now left the rails for ever." (Disney's Carriage by Railway, Chap. XVIII, pp. 269-274).

SEC. 51-A of the Indian Railways Act may also be read in this connection. The section runs as follows:—

"51-A. (1) Any railway company, not being a company for which the Statute 42 and 43 Vict., Chap. 41 provides, may frame a scheme for the provision and maintenance of a motor transport or air-craft service for passengers, animals or goods with a terminus at or near a station on the railway owned or managed by such company.

Additional power to provide and maintain transport services.

(2) The scheme shall be submitted to the general controlling authority, which may sanction it, subject to such modifications and conditions as it may prescribe.

unfair advantage of the action of the Provincial Government under this section; or (b) that conditions have changed since the publication of the notification; or

(c) that the special needs of a particular industry or locality require to be considered afresh;

(3) If the Provincial Government, after considering any representation made to it under sub-section (2) and having heard the representatives of the interests affected and the Provincial and Regional Transport Authorities is satisfied that any notification issued under sub-section (1) ought to be cancelled or varied, it may cancel the notification or vary it in such manner as it thinks fit.

Transport authorities.

44. (1) The Provincial Government shall, by notification in the Official Gazette, constitute for the province a Provincial Transport Authority to exercise and discharge the powers and functions specified in sub-section (3), and shall in like manner constitute Regional Transport Authorities to exercise and discharge throughout such areas (in this Chapter referred to as regions) as may be specified in the notification, in respect of each Regional Transport Authority, the powers and functions conferred by or under this chapter on such Authorities:

Provided that in the North-West Frontier Province and in Chief Commissioners' Provinces the Provincial Government may abstain from constituting any Regional Transport Authority:

Provided further that the area specified as the region of a Regional Transport Authority shall in no case be less than entire district, or the whole area of a Presidency-town.

(2) A Provincial Transport Authority or a Regional Transport Authority shall consist of such number of officials and non-officials as the Provincial Government may think fit to appoint; but no person who has any financial interest whether as proprietor, employee or otherwise in any transport undertaking shall be appointed as or continue as a member of a Provincial or Regional Transport Authority, and, if any person being a member of any such Authority acquires a financial interest in any transport undertaking, he shall, within four weeks of so doing, give notice in writing to the Provincial Government of the acquisition of such interest and shall vacate office.

(3) A Provincial Transport Authority shall exercise and discharge throughout the province the following powers and functions, namely:—

(3) The scheme shall be published in the Official Gazette and thereupon the railway company shall, subject to sub-sec. (4), have the power to provide and maintain a service in accordance therewith.

(4) In respect of any service provided and maintained by any railway company under this section,—

(a) the company shall be deemed not to be a railway administration for the purposes of this Act or of any other enactment affecting railways, and no property used exclusively for purposes of the service shall be deemed to be included in the railway or its rolling-stock; and

(b) all enactments and rules for the time being in force relating to motor vehicles, air-craft and roads shall apply accordingly.

(5) The general controlling authority may, by notification in the Official Gazette after giving to the railway company six months' notice of its intention so to do, withdraw its sanction to any scheme sanctioned under sub-sec. (2) or may modify the scheme or impose further conditions on it."

SEC. 44 (1).—"The extent of the region and the constitution of the regional authority are left entirely to Provincial Governments, as it is impossible to specify in the Bill, except by way of the general indication given in cl. (3), a constitution which would suit the different conditions, sizes of region, etc., prevailing in each province". (Statement of Objects and Reasons.)

CL. (2).—The constitution of the provincial authority is permissive. It may be required for purposes of co-ordination or to settle differences between regional authorities or to increase control over through routes. Some statutory basis is therefore required. (Statement of Objects and Reasons)

CLS. (3) AND (4).—"This indicates how authorities may be constituted. What may suit one province may not suit another; but if a composite authority is constituted con-

(a) to co-ordinate and regulate the activities and policies of the Regional Transport Authorities, if any, of the province;

(b) to perform the duties of a Regional Transport Authority where there is no such Authority and, if it thinks fit or if so required by a Regional Transport Authority, to perform those duties in respect of any route common to two or more regions;

(c) to settle all disputes and decide all matters on which differences of opinion arise between Regional Transport Authorities; and (d) to discharge such other functions as may be prescribed.

(4) For the purpose of exercising and discharging the powers and functions specified in sub-section (3), a Provincial Transport Authority may, subject to such conditions as may be prescribed, issue directions to any Regional Transport Authority and the Regional Transport Authority shall be guided by such directions.

[(5) The Provincial Transport Authority and any Regional Transport Authority. if authorized in this behalf by rules made under section 68, may delegate such of its powers and functions to such authority or person and subject to such restrictions, limitations and conditions as may be prescribed by the said rules.] (Added by Act XX of 1942.)

General provision as to applications for permits.

45. Every application for a permit shall be made to the Regional Transport Authority of the region or of one of the regions in which it is proposed to use the vehicle and, if the applicant resides or has his principal place of business in any one of those regions, to the Regional Transport Authority of that region.

Application for stage carriage permit.

46. An application for a permit to use a motor vehicle as a stage carriage (in this Chapter referred to as a stage carriage permit) shall contain the following particulars, namely:

(a) the type and seating capacity of the vehicle in respect of which the application is made;

(b) the route or routes on which or the area within which it is intended to use the vehicle;

(c) the time table, if any, of the service to be provided; and (d) such other matters as may be prescribed.

Procedure of Regional Transport Authority in considering application for stage carriage permit.

47. (1) A Regional Transport Authority shall, in deciding whether to grant or refuse a stage carriage permit, have regard to the following matters, namely:—

taining representatives of transport interests then it is only equitable that the main transport interests should be accorded equal representation". (Statement of Objects and Reasons.)

SELECT COMMITTEE REPORT.—"The clause has been recast to make it mandatory on Provincial Governments to establish Provincial Transport Authorities, and except in the smaller provinces Regional Transport Authorities also, and to secure that the area of jurisdiction of the Regional Authorities shall be reasonably large. We have provided that both Provincial and Regional Authorities shall be bodies composed of officials and non-officials but have not otherwise fettered the discretion of the Provincial Government in constituting them except by excluding persons having a financial interest in a transport undertaking. We have set forth more fully the functions of Provincial Transport Authorities, and have given them a power to issue directions to Regional Transport Authorities".

SEC. 45.—See 1943 N.L.J. 190.

SEC. 46: SELECT COMMITTEE REPORT.—"We have omitted the requirement that proposed fares are to be disclosed. Such a provision would encourage rival applicants to underbid each other. The other alteration is formal".

SECS. 47, 48 AND 55 "lay down the general principles which should guide transport authorities in granting permits for stage or contract carriages or public carriers. These embody the accepted principles of public necessity and convenience, the prevention of uneconomic competition, and the suitability of the roads to carry the forms of transport requiring the permits. In the case of public goods traffic, the principle adopted is that, while the transport of perishables

(b) the advantages to the public of the service to be provided, including the saving of time likely to be effected thereby and any convenience arising from journeys not being broken;

(c) the adequacy of existing road passenger transport services between the places to be served, the fares charged by those services and the effect upon those services of the service proposed;

(d) the benefit to any particular locality or localities likely to be afforded by the service;

(e) the operation by the applicant of other transport services and in particular of unremunerative services in conjunction with remunerative services; and

(f) the condition of the roads included in the proposed route or routes; and shall also take into consideration any representations made by persons already providing road transport facilities along or near the proposed route or routes or by any local authority or police authority within whose jurisdiction any part of the proposed route or routes lie or by any association interested in the provision of road transport facilities.

(2) A Regional Transport Authority shall refuse to grant a stage carriage permit if it appears from any time table furnished that the provisions of this Act relating to the speed at which vehicles may be driven are likely to be contravened:

Provided that before such refusal an opportunity shall be given to the applicant to amend the time table so as to conform to the said provisions.

Power to restrict the number of stage carriages and impose conditions on stage carriages permits.

48. A Regional Transport Authority may, after consideration of the matters set forth in sub-section (1) of section 47,—

[1][(a) limit the number of stage carriages or stage carriages of any specified type for which stage carriage permits may be granted in the region or in any specified area or on any specified route within the region.]

1 issue a stage carriage permit in respect of a particular stage carriage or a particular service of stage carriages;

1 regulate timings of arrival or departure of stage carriages whether they belong to a single or more owners; or by short distance transport by road in order to avoid delay and damage caused by terminal transhipment should not be interfered with, long distance traffic should be left primarily to railways". (Statement of Objects and Reasons)

SEC. 47 (1): REPORT OF SELECT COMMITTEE.—"The words omitted from clause (a) are redundant, and would, if retained, include a reference to rail transport, which we desire to eliminate. We similarly eliminate a reference to rail transport by our insertion of the word "road" in cl. (c). We have omitted as irrelevant the provision requiring consideration of the character, qualifications and financial stability of the applicant. The other alterations are formal".

"Cl. (2) of the original clause has been omitted in view of our transfer of this power to the Provincial Government". (See sec. 43.) "We have added a proviso to sub-cl. (2) containing a reasonable relaxation". (Select Committee Report).

SEC. 48 (d) (ii).—"It has been urged from more than one quarter that a route permit holder in return for the security given to him against unreasonable competition should maintain a regular service, i.e., have the responsibilities of a public utility company". (Statement of Objects and Reasons.)

REPORT OF SELECT COMMITTEE.—"We have omitted the provision for a condition in a permit enabling the Regional Transport Authority to inflict daily fines, and to regulate fares. We have combined the two separate provisions relating to the exhibiting of fare and time tables, and their observation. We have confined the provision relating to halting stations to municipal areas and similar inhabited areas, and we have inserted a provision enabling the issue of tickets to be insisted on".

SEC. 48 (c): POWER OF R. T. A.—WHETHER CAN BE DELEGATED TO SECRETARY.—The power of regulation of timings of arrival and departure of stage carriages is under sec. 48 (c), possessed by the R. T. A. and not by the Secretary, and there is no

1 attach to a stage carriage permit any prescribed condition or any one or more of the following conditions, namely:—

(i) that the service specified in the permit shall be commenced not later than a specified date and be continued for a specified period;

(ii) that the service may be varied only in accordance with specified conditions;

[2][(ii-a) that the stage carriage or stage carriages shall be used only on specified routes or in a specified area;]

(iii) that copies of the fare table and time table shall be exhibited on the stage carriage and that the fare table and time table so exhibited shall be observed;

(iv) that not more than a specified number of passengers and not more than a specified amount of luggage shall be carried on any specified vehicle at any one time;

(v) that within municipal limits and in such other areas and places as may be prescribed, passengers shall not be taken up or set down at or except at specified points; or (vi) that tickets shall be issued to passengers for the fares paid.

Application for contract carriage permit.

49. An application for a permit to use a motor vehicle as a contract carriage (in this Chapter referred to as a contract carriage permit) shall contain the following particulars, namely:—

(a) the type and seating capacity of the vehicles;

(b) the area for which the permit is required;

(c) in the case of a motor vehicle other than a motor cab, the manner in which it is claimed that the public convenience will be served by the vehicle; and (d) any other particulars which may be prescribed.

Procedure of Regional Transport Authority in considering application for contract carriage permit.

50. A Regional Transport Authority shall, in deciding whether to grant or refuse a contract carriage permit, have regard to the extent to which additional contract carriages may be necessary or desirable in the public interest; and shall also take into consideration any representations which may then be made or which may previously have been made by persons already holding contract carriage permits in the region or by any local authority or police authority in the region to the effect that the number of contract carriages for which permits have already been granted is sufficient for or in excess of the needs of the region or any area within the region.

Power to restrict the number of contract carriages and impose conditions on contract carriage permits.

51. A Regional Transport Authority may, after consideration of the matters set forth in section 50,— legal provision for delegation of such authority to the Secretary. 1943 N.L.J. 194.

SEC. 48 (e): POWER TO ALTER OF FARE MENTIONED IN FARE TABLE APPROVED BY THE REGIONAL TRANSPORT AUTHORITY.—A permit-holder cannot alter the fares mentioned in the fare table approved by the Regional Transport Authority without the sanction of that authority. I.L.R. (1944) Nag. 173= 1944 N.L.J. 29=A.I.R. 1944 Nag. 89. (See also notes of sec. 42.)

SEC. 49.—The change made in clause (a) is prompted by the consideration that at the time an application for a permit is made the vehicle may not have been registered. (Select Committee Report.)

SEC. 50: SELECT COMMITTEE REPORT.—"We have omitted clauses (b) and (c). The essential part of clause (b) is already covered by clause (a), and in other respects it is too wide as including a reference to rail-transport. Clause (c) we have omitted for the same reason as influenced us in omitting the similar provision in sec. 47."

SEC. 51: REPORT OF SELECT COMMITTEE.—"The alteration of clause (c) is a drafting amendment only. We have omitted the provision enabling restrictions to be placed on (a) limit the number of contract carriages generally or contract carriages of any specified type for which contract carriage permits may be granted in the region or any specified area within the region;

(b) fix in the case of motor cabs the fares which may be charged;

(c) require that every motor cab shall carry a copy of the fare table for inspection by passengers;

(d) require that any motor cab shall be fitted with a taxi meter; or (e) impose on the use of a contract carriage any other condition which may be prescribed.

Application for private carrier's permit.

52. An application for a permit to use a transport vehicle for the carriage of goods for or in connection with a trade or business carried on by the applicant (in this Chapter referred to as a private carrier's permit) shall contain the following particulars, namely:—

(a) the type and carrying capacity of the vehicle;

(b) the nature of the goods which the applicant expects normally to carry in connection with his trade or business;

(c) the area for which the permit is required; and (d) any other particular which may be prescribed.

Procedure of Regional Transport Authority in considering application for a private carrier's permit.

53. (1) A Regional Transport Authority shall, in deciding whether to grant or refuse a private carrier's permit, have regard to the condition of the roads to be used by the vehicle or vehicles in respect of which the application is made, and shall satisfy itself that the vehicle or vehicles for which the permit is required will not be used except in connection with the business of the applicant.

(2) The Regional Transport Authority may in granting a private carrier's permit impose conditions to be specified in the permit relating to the description of goods which may be carried, or the area in which the permit shall be valid, or the maximum laden weight and axle weights of any vehicle used.

(3) If the applicant is the holder of a private carrier's permit which has been suspended or has been the holder of a private carrier's permit which has been revoked, the Regional Transport Authority may at its discretion notwithstanding anything contained in sub-section (1) refuse the application.

Application for public carrier's permit.

54. An application for a permit to use a motor vehicle for the carriage of goods for hire or reward (in this Chapter referred to as a public carrier's permit) shall contain the following particulars, namely:—

(a) the routes on which or the area in which it is intended to use the vehicle;

(b) the type and carrying capacity of the vehicle;

(c) the manner in which it is claimed that a public need will be served by the vehicle;

the use of a contract carriage as a stage carriage. Clause (e) has been recast, to secure that the Provincial Government will control the nature of any additional conditions imposed."

SEC. 52: REPORT OF SELECT COMMITTEE.—"The change in clause (a) follows that made in sec. 49. The omission of the words 'within the region' in clause (d) is necessitated by the fact that a permit might be required for two or more regions."

SEC. 53 (1).—The roads generally are not fit for sustained heavy traffic and this is a consideration which must be taken into account. (Statement of Objects and Reasons.)

CL. (2).—For instance, the owner of a sugar mill might hold a private carrier's permit to carry cane, sugar, coal and mill stores within a radius of fifty miles from his mill. If found outside that radius or carrying other goods, breach of the conditions would occur. (Statement of Objects and Reasons.)

CL. (1): REPORT OF SELECT COMMITTEE.—"The omission removes a reference to rail transport, a matter whose consideration we have transferred by the new clause (43) to the Provincial Government. The other changes are formal."

CL. (2).—A reference to axle weights has been inserted. (Select Committee Report).

SEC. 54 (c) to (e).—The justification for (d) Such particulars as the Regional Transport Authority may require with respect to any business as a carrier of goods for hire or reward carried on by the applicant at any time before the making of the application, and of the rates charged by the applicant;

(e) particulars of any agreement or arrangement, affecting in any material respect the provision within the region of the Regional Transport Authority of facilities for the transport of goods for hire or reward, entered into by the applicant with any other person by whom such facilities are provided, whether within or without the region; and (f) any other particulars which may be prescribed.

Procedure of Regional Transport Authority in considering application for public carrier's permit.

55. A Regional Transport Authority shall, in deciding whether to grant or refuse a public carrier's permit, have regard to the following matters, namely:—

(a) the interests of the public generally;

(b) the advantages to the public of the service to be provided and the convenience afforded to the public by the provision of such service;

(c) the adequacy of existing road transport services for the carriage of goods upon the routes or within the area to be served and the effect upon those services of the service proposed;

(d) the benefit to any particular locality or localities likely to be afforded by the service;

(e) the need for providing for occasions when vehicles are withdrawn from service for overhaul or repair; and

(f) the condition of the roads included in the proposed routes or area; and shall also take into consideration any representations made by persons already providing road transport facilities along or near to the proposed route or routes or by any local authority within whose jurisdiction any part of the proposed route or routes lies.

Power to restrict the number of and attach conditions to public carrier's permits.

56. The Regional Transport Authority may, after consideration of the matters set forth in section 55,—

(a) limit the number of transport vehicles or transport vehicles of any specified type for which public carrier's permits may be granted in the region or in any specified area or on any specified routes within the region; or

(b) attach to a public carrier's permit all or any of the following conditions namely:—

(i) that the vehicle shall be used only on specified routes or in a specified area,

(ii) that the laden weight and the axle weights of any vehicle used shall not exceed a specified maximum, using the roads for heavy goods traffic where alternative facilities exist depends to a large extent on the nature of the goods to be carried. For some the longer time taken by rail or water will be sufficient justification, for others the time factor can be largely discounted. Regional authorities will have to exercise their discretion. (Statement of Objects and Reasons.) It is desirable that the applicant should be called upon to show public need, i.e., with reference to particular classes of goods, or that certain firms had agreed to employ him. (Statement of Objects and Reasons)

SEC. 54.—"The change in clause (b) follows that already made in secs. 49 and 52. We have omitted two clauses requiring the weight of the vehicle and the classes of goods carried to be stated, and have in their place inserted two requirements contained in the English Road Traffic Act, 1933." (Select Committee Report.)

SEC. 55.—These conditions are of common application; (d) is intended to indicate that regional authorities should consider any representation that if they allow much highly rated traffic to be diverted from rail to road other railway freights will inevitably be raised. (Statement of Objects and Reasons.)

SELECT COMMITTEE REPORT.—The changes made are mainly in accordance with those already made in such sections as 47 and 53. Clause (h) has been omitted because the substance is sufficiently covered by clauses (a) and (c).

(iii) that such records as may be prescribed relating to the plying of the vehicle shall be maintained, and

(iv) any other prescribed condition appropriate to the service to be provided by the vehicle which the Regional Transport Authority thinks proper to impose in the public interest or with a view to prevent uneconomic competition between road transport services.

Procedure in applying for and granting permits.

57. (1) An application for a contract carriage permit or a private carrier's permit may be made at any time.

(2) An application for a stage carriage permit or a public carrier's permit shall be made not less than six weeks before the date on which it is desired that the permit shall take effect, or, if the Regional Transport Authority appoints dates for the receipt such applications, on such dates.

(3) On receipt of an application for a stage carriage permit or a public carrier's permit, the Regional Transport Authority shall make the application available for inspection at the office of the Authority and shall publish the application or the substance thereof in the prescribed manner together with a notice of the date before which representations in connection therewith may be submitted and the date, not being less than thirty days from such publication, on which, and the time and place at which, the application and any representations received will be considered.

(4) No representation in connection with an application referred to in sub-section (3) shall be considered by the Regional Transport Authority unless it is made in writing before the appointed date and unless a copy thereof is furnished simultaneously to the applicant by the person making such representation.

(5) When any representations such as is referred to in sub-section (3) is made, the Regional Transport Authority shall dispose of the application at a public hearing at which the applicant and the person making the representation shall have an opportunity of being heard either in person or by a duly authorised representative.

(6) When any representation has been made by the persons or authorities referred to in section 50 to the effect that the number of contract carriages for which permits have already been granted in any region or any area within a region is sufficient for or in excess of the needs of the region or of such area, whether such representation is made in connection with a particular application for the grant of a contract carriage permit or otherwise, the Regional Transport Authority may take any such steps as it considers appropriate for the hearing of the representation in the presence of any persons likely to be affected thereby.

(7) When a Regional Transport Authority refuses an application for a permit of any kind, it shall give to the applicant in writing its reasons for the refusal.

SEC. 57 (3): WHETHER MANDATORY.— The provisions of sec. 57 (3) are unequivocal and mandatory. A permit granted without complying with these provisions is, therefore, liable to be cancelled. 1943 N.L.J. 388.

SEC. 57 (7) is mandatory that when a representation has been made the R. T. A. shall dispose of the application at a public hearing. 1943 N.L.J. 194.

SECS. 57 AND 58: PERMIT OTHER THAN TEMPORARY PERMIT ISSUED WITHOUT FOLLOWING PROCEDURE.—If a permit which is not a temporary permit issued under sec. 62 is issued by a competent Transport Authority without an application from the owner of the vehicle and without following the procedure laid down in sec. 57 of the Act, that permit will be a valid permit if not revoked or till revoked by the appellate tribunal. Such a permit will attract to it the provisions of the first paragraph of sec. 58 and will be valid for a period of three years even though on the face of it is for a shorter term. It is not competent to the Civil Court to determine whether such a permit is a good permit or not. 48 C.W.N. 142.

SECS. 57 AND 64.—The R. T. A. after refusing to grant a permit to a party becomes "functus officio" in respect of that matter. It would be acting without jurisdiction in granting the permit some time later to the same party, which had failed to avail itself of its remedy to appeal under sec. 64, and which had presented no fresh application

Duration and renewal of permits.

58. (1) A permit other than a temporary permit issued under section 62 shall be effective without renewal for such period, not less than three years and not more than five years, as the Regional Transport Authority may in its discretion specify in the permit:

Provided that in the case of a permit issued or renewed within two years of the commencement of this Act, the permit shall be effective without renewal for such period of less than three years as the Provincial Government may prescribe.

(2) A permit may be renewed on an application made and disposed of as if it were an application for a permit:

Provided that, other conditions being equal, an application for renewal shall be given preference over new applications for permits.

General conditions attaching to all permits.

59. (1) Save as provided in section 61, a permit shall not be transferable from one person to another except with the permission of the transport authority which granted the permit and shall not without such permission operate to confer on any person to whom a vehicle covered by the permit is transferred any right to use that vehicle in the manner authorised by the permit.

(2) The holder of a permit may, with the permission of the authority by which the permit was granted, replace by another vehicle of the same nature and capacity any vehicle covered by the permit.

(3) The following shall be conditions of every permit—

(a) that the vehicle or vehicles to which the permit relates are at all times so maintained as to comply with the requirements of Chapter V and the rules made thereunder;

(b) that the vehicle or vehicles to which the permit relates are not driven at a speed exceeding the speed lawful under this Act;

(c) that any prohibition or restriction imposed and any maximum or minimum fares or freights fixed by notification made under section 43 are observed in connection with any vehicle or vehicles to which the permit relates;

(d) that the vehicle or vehicles to which the permit relates are not driven in contravention of the provisions of section 72;

(e) that the provisions of this Act limiting the hours of work of drivers are observed in connection with any vehicle or vehicles to which the permit relates; and (f) that the provisions of Chapter VIII so far as they apply to the holder of the permit are observed.

Cancellation and suspension of permits.

60. (1) The transport authority which granted a permit may cancel the permit or may suspend it for such period as it thinks fit—under sec. 57, to the R. T. A. 1943 N.L.J. 188. See also 1943 N.L.J. 115.

SEC. 58.—"The period of validity of a permit has been fixed at a minimum of three years with a possible maximum of five years and a saving proviso has been inserted securing preference for holders of permits over applicants for new permits." (Select Committee Report.) See Notes under secs. 57 and 64. See 1943 N.L.J. 117.

SEC. 59: SELECT COMMITTEE REPORT.—"The changes made in sub-clause (1) enable permits to be transferred with the permission of the Transport Authority. In sub-clause (3) we have added two additional conditions to those deemed to be attached to the holding of a permit."

SECS. 59 AND 60.—A motor service to which a permit was issued lost all its vehicles. It then included in its service vehicles belonging to another service and the 'B' parts issued to them on those vehicles. The address and the Managing Director of the service were all changed. The R. T. A. cancelled the permit. Held, that the service had ceased to exist, that the permit was transferred without permission and vehicles replaced without permission as required by sec. 59 (1) and (2), Motor Vehicles Act and that a contravention of sec. 60 (1) (b), Motor Vehicles Act, had occurred for which cancellation of the permit was appropriate. 1943 N.L.J. 193.

SEC. 60: SELECT COMMITTEE REPORT.—"The changes made in sub-clauses (1) and (2) are formal. Sub-clause (3) has been (a) on the breach of any conditions specified in sub-section (3) of section 59, or of any condition contained in the permit, or

(b) if the holder of the permit uses or causes or allows a vehicle to be used in any manner not authorised by the permit, or

(c) if the holder of the permit ceases to possess the vehicle or vehicles covered by the permit, or

(d) if the holder of the permit has obtained the permit by fraud or misrepresentation:

Provided that no permit shall be cancelled unless an opportunity has been given to the holder of the permit to submit his explanation.

(2) Where a transport authority cancels or suspends a permit, it shall give to the holder in writing its reasons for the revocation or suspension.

Transfer of permit on death of holder.

61. (1) Where the holder of a permit dies, the person succeeding to the possession of the vehicles covered by the permit may, for a period of three months, use the permit as if it had been granted to himself:

Provided that such person has, within thirty days of the death of the holder, informed the transport authority which granted the permit of the death of the holder and of his own intention to use the permit:

Provided further that no permit shall be so used after the date on which it would have ceased to be effective without renewal in the hands of the deceased holder.

(2) The transport authority may, on application made to it within three months of the death of the holder of a permit, transfer the permit to the person succeeding to the possession of the vehicles covered by the permit.

Temporary permits.

62. [1][(1)] A Regional Transport Authority may, at its discretion, and without following the procedure laid down in section 57, grant permits, to be effective for a limited period not in any case to exceed four months, to authorise the use of a transport vehicle temporarily—

(a) for the conveyance of passengers on special occasions such as to and from fairs and religious gatherings, or

(b) for the purposes of a seasonal business, or

(c) to meet a particular temporary need, and may attach to any such permit any condition it thinks fit.

Validation of permits for use outside region in which granted.

63. (1) Except as may be otherwise prescribed, a permit granted by the Regional Transport Authority of any one region shall not be valid in any other region, unless the permit has been countersigned by the Regional Transport Authority of that other region, and a permit granted in any one province shall not be valid in any other province unless countersigned by the Provincial Transport Authority of that other province or by the Regional Transport Authority concerned.

omitted as unnecessary, particularly in view of the new provisions now inserted as sec. 61."

SEC. 61: REPORT OF SELECT COMMITTEE.—"Provision is here made on comprehensive lines for the temporary transfer of permits on the death of a holder."

SEC. 62: REPORT OF SELECT COMMITTEE.—"We have reduced the period of validity of a temporary permit from six to four months. Cl. (a) has been omitted as unnecessary; but we have added a power to delegate the function of issuing temporary permits so that they may be issued without the necessity for a formal meeting of the Transport Authority".

SEC. 63.—"Provision has been made for rules whereby provincial authorities may make mutual arrangements for validating permits outside their jurisdiction without countersignature".

may attach to the permit any condition which it might have imposed if it had granted the permit, and may likewise vary any condition attached to the permit by the Authority by which the permit was granted.

(3) The provisions of this Chapter relating to the grant, revocation and suspension of permits shall apply to the grant, revocation and suspension of counter-signatures of permits.

(4) Notwithstanding anything contained in sub-section (1), a Regional Transport Authority of one region may issue a temporary permit under clause (a) or clause (c) of sub-section (1) of section 62 to be valid in another region or province with the concurrence given generally or for the particular occasion, of the Regional Transport Authority of that other region or of the Provincial Transport Authority of that other province, as the case may be.

Appeals.

64. Any person—

(a) aggrieved by the refusal of the Provincial or a Regional Transport Authority to grant a permit, or by any condition attached to a permit granted to him, or

(b) aggrieved by the revocation or suspension of the permit or by any variation of the conditions thereof, or

(c) aggrieved by the refusal to transfer the permit to the person succeeding on the death of the holder of a permit, or

(d) aggrieved by the refusal of the Provincial or a Regional Transport Authority to countersign a permit, or by any condition attached to such countersignature, or

(e) aggrieved by the refusal of renewal of a permit, or

(f) being a local authority or police authority or an association which, or a person providing transport facilities who, having opposed the grant of a permit, is aggrieved by the grant thereof or by any condition attached thereto, or

(g) being the holder of a licence, who is aggrieved by the refusal of a Regional Transport Authority to grant an authorisation to drive a public service vehicle, may, within the prescribed time and in the prescribed manner, appeal to the prescribed authority who shall give such person and the original authority an opportunity of being heard.

CL. (4).—This is necessary particularly for temporary permits for vehicles for feasts, weddings, funerals, etc. (Statement of Objects and Reasons.)

REPORT OF SELECT COMMITTEE.—"In sub-cl. (1) the added words clarify the procedure where the permit is to be used in two separate provinces. The alteration in sub-cl. (4) adds a necessary reference which was omitted in the Bill".

FIXATION OF PERMIT FEES.—The Local Government has nothing to do with the fixation of the permit fees. That falls within the jurisdiction of the Provincial Transport Authority. 48 C.W.N. 142=I.L.R. (1944) 1 C 631=1945 C. 260.

SEC. 64: REPORT OF SELECT COMMITTEE.—"A reference to the Provincial Transport Authority has been inserted in cl. (a), and an additional ground of appeal has been added by the new cl. (c). The change in original cl. (c), now (d), is consequential on that made in sec. 47 (1)". See notes under sec. 57.

SECS. 64 AND 44 (3) (a): DUTY OF APPELLATE TRIBUNAL.—The duty of the appellate tribunal is only to consider appeals preferred under sec. 64, Motor Vehicles Act. It cannot issue directions under sec. 44 (3) (a). 1943 N.L.J. 190.

SECS. 64 (f) AND 57: RIGHT OF APPEAL.—PERSON NOT OPPOSING GRANT OF PERMIT.—It is only the person, or authority who has validly opposed the grant of a permit who can make an appeal under sec. 64 (f) of the Motor Vehicles Act. If an authority or person does not oppose the grant of a permit, as provided in sec. 57, Motor Vehicles Act he cannot be said to be aggrieved if the R.T A. passes an order which turns out to be to his prejudice; when power is given under law to oppose in a certain way, then that power must be exercised in that particular way, and cannot be exercised in a manner not warranted by law. 1943 N.L.J. 115.

SECS. 64 AND 58: RIGHT OF APPEAL.—Sec. 64, provides for an appeal by a person aggrieved by refusal to grant a permit, by a person, who opposed the grant of a permit, aggrieved by the grant thereof and by a person aggrieved by the refusal of Restriction of hours of work of drivers.

65. (1) No person shall cause or allow any person who is employed by him for the purpose of driving a transport vehicle or who is subject to his control for such purpose to work—

(a) for more than five hours before he has had an interval of rest of at least half an hour; or

(b) for more than nine hours in one day; or

(c) for more than fifty-four hours in the week.

(2) The Provincial Government may by rule made under section 68 grant such exemptions from the provisions of sub-section (1) as it thinks fit to meet cases of emergency or of delays by reason of circumstances which could not be foreseen.

(3) The Provincial Government [1][or, if authorized in this behalf by the Provincial Government by rules made under section 68, the Provincial or a Regional Transport Authority], may require persons employing any persons whose work is subject to any of the provisions of sub-section (1) to fix beforehand the hours of work of such persons as to conform with those provisions, and may provide for the recording of the hours so fixed.

(4) No person shall work or shall cause or allow any other person to work outside the hours fixed or recorded for the work of such persons in compliance with any rule made under sub-section (3).

(5) The Provincial Government may prescribe the circumstances under which any period during which the driver of a vehicle although not engaged in work is required to remain on or near the vehicle may be deemed to be an interval for rest within the meaning of sub-section (1).

Voidance of contracts restrictive of liability.

66. Any contract for the conveyance of a passenger in a stage carriage or contract carriage, in respect of which a permit has been issued under this Chapter, shall, so far as it purports to negative or restrict the liability of any person in respect of any claim made against that person in respect of the death of, or bodily injury to, the passenger while being carried in, entering or alighting from the vehicle, or purports to impose any conditions with respect to the enforcement of any such liability, be void.

Power to make rules as to stage carriages and contract carriages.

67. (1) A Provincial Government may make rules to regulate, in respect of stage carriages and contract carriages,—

(a) the conduct of persons licensed to act as drivers of, and the licensing of and the conduct of conductors of, such vehicles when acting as such; and (b) the conduct of passengers in such vehicles.

SECS. 64 AND 59 (1): RIGHT OF APPEAL.—ORDER OF R.T.A. TRANSFERRING A PERMIT FOR A SERVICE OF STAGE CARRIAGE.—There is no provision in sec. 64, Motor Vehicles Act, for an appeal against an order of the R.T.A. transferring under sec. 59 (1), Motor Vehicles Act, read with R. 68 of the C.P. and Berar Motor Vehicles Rules, 1940, a permit for a service of stage carriage from one company to another. 1943 N.L.J. 117.

SEC. 65.—"These provisions are desirable but are not likely to be generally enforced until more regularly times services are established. But they will be used against an owner in the event of an accident where the driver has been grossly over-worked, and also in well-known cases of abuse." (Statement of Objects and Reasons.)

SELECT COMMITTEE REPORT.—"The clause has been recast and expanded. A limit of fifty-four hours' work per week has been introduced. The limit for a period of continuous work has been raised from ten to eleven hours. Provision has been made for the keeping of records of working hours in order to facilitate enforcement of the provisions of the clause."

(2) Without prejudice to the generality of the foregoing provision, such rules may—

(a) authorise the removal from such vehicle of any person infringing the rules by the driver or conductor of the vehicle, or, on the request of the driver or conductor, or any passenger by any police officer;

(b) require a passenger who is reasonably suspected by the driver or conductor, of contravening the rules to give his name and address to a police officer or to the driver or conductor on demand;

(c) require a passenger to declare, if so requested by the driver or conductor, the journey he intends to take or has taken in the vehicle and to pay the fare for the whole of such journey and to accept any ticket provided therefor;

(d) require, on demand being made for the purpose by the driver or conductor or other person authorised by the owner of the vehicle, production during the journey and surrender at the end of the journey by the holder thereof of any ticket issued to him;

(e) require a passenger, if so requested by the driver or conductor, to leave the vehicle on the completion of the journey the fare for which he has paid;

(f) require the surrender by the holder thereof on the expiry of the period for which it is issued of a ticket issued to him;

(g) require the maintenance of complaint books in stage carriages and prescribe the conditions under which passengers can record any complaints in the same.

Power to make rules for the purposes of this Chapter.

68. (1) A Provincial Government may make rules for the purpose of carrying into effect the provisions of this Chapter.

(2) Without prejudice to the generality of the foregoing power, rules under this section may be made with respect to all or any of the following matters, namely:—

(a) the period of appointment and the terms of appointment of and the conduct of business by Regional and Provincial Transport Authorities and the reports to be furnished by them;

(b) the conduct and hearing of appeals that may be preferred under this Chapter, [the fees to be paid in respect of such appeals and the refund of such fees][1];

(c) the forms to be used for the purposes of this Chapter, including the forms of permits;

(d) the issue of copies of permits in place of permits lost or destroyed;

(e) the documents, plates and marks to be carried by transport vehicles, the manner in which they are to be carried and thelanguages in which any such documents are to be expressed;

(f) the badges and uniform to be worn by drivers and conductors of stage carriages and contract carriages;

(g) the fees to be paid in respect of permits, duplicate permits, plates and badges;

[2][(gg) the exemption of prescribed persons or prescribed classes of persons from payment of all or any or any portion of the fees payable under this Chapter;]

LEG. REF.

1 Added by Act XX of 1942.

2 Inserted and substituted by Act XX of 1942.

SEC. 68: REPORT OF SELECT COMMITTEE.—Cl. (f) has been omitted as sec. 65 adequately provides for all matters connected with hours of work. The other changes made are self-explanatory, and are aimed at supplementing minor deficiencies in the rule-making power.

SEC. 68—RULE 69.—Document extending

(h) the custody, production and cancellation on revocation or expiration of permits, and the return of permits which have become void or have been revoked;

(i) the conditions subject to which a permit issued in one region shall be valid in another region;

(j) the authorities to whom, the time within which and the manner in which appeals may be made;

(k) the construction and fittings of, and the equipment to be carried by stage and contract carriages, whether generally or in specified areas;

(l) the determination of the number of passengers a stage or contract carriage is adapted to carry and the number which may be carried;

(m) the conditions subject to which goods may be carried on stage and contract carriages partly or wholly in lieu of passengers;

(n) the safe custody and disposal of property left in a stage or contract carriage;

(o) prohibiting the painting or marking of a stage or a contract carriage in such colour or manner as to induce any person to believe that the vehicle is used for the transport of mails;

(p) the conveyance in stage or contract carriages of corpses or persons suffering from any infectious or contagious disease or goods likely to cause discomfort or injury to passengers and the inspection and disinfection of such carriages, if used for such purposes;

(q) the provision of taxi meters on motor cabs requiring approval or standard types of taxi meters to be used and examining, testing and sealing taxi meters;

(r) prohibiting the picking up or setting down of passengers by stage or contract carriages at specified places or in specified areas or at places other than duly notified stands or halting places and requiring the driver of a stage carriage to stop and remain stationary for a reasonable time when so required by a passenger desiring to board or alight from the vehicle at a notified halting place;

(s) the requirements (including the provision of proper sanitary arrangements) which shall be complied with in any duly notified stand or halting place;

(t) requiring the owners of transport vehicles to notify any change of address or to report the failure of or damage to any vehicle used for the conveyance of passengers for hire or reward;

(u) requiring the person in charge of a stage carriage to carry any person tendering the legal or customary fare;

(v) the conditions under which and the types of containers or vehicles in which animals or birds may be carried and the seasons during which animals or birds may or may not be carried;

[(w) the licensing of and the regulation of the conduct of agents or canvassers who engage in the sale of tickets for travel by public service vehicles or otherwise solicit custom for such vehicles;] (Substituted by Act XX of 1942.)

(x) the inspection of transport vehicles and their contents and of the permits relating to them;

(y) the carriage of persons other than the driver in goods vehicles;

(z) the records to be maintained and the returns to be furnished by the owners of transport vehicles; and (z-a) any other matter which is to be or may be prescribed.

CHAPTER V.

CONSTRUCTION, EQUIPMENT AND MAINTENANCE OF MOTOR VEHICLES.

General provision regarding construction and maintenance.

69. Every motor vehicle shall be so constructed and so maintained as to be at all times under the effective control of the person driving the vehicle.

Power to make rules.

70. (1) A Provincial Government may make rules regulating the construction, equipment and maintenance of motor vehicles and trailers.

(2) Without prejudice to the generality of the foregoing power, rules may be made under this section governing any of the following matters either generally in respect of motor vehicles or trailers or in respect of motor vehicles or trailers of a particular class or in particular circumstances, namely:—

(a) the width, height, length and overhang of vehicles and of the loads carried;

(b) seating arrangements in public service vehicles and the protection of passengers against the weather;

(c) the size, nature and condition of tyres;

(d) breaks and steering gear;

(e) the use of safety glass;

(f) signalling appliances, lamps and reflectors;

(g) speed governors;

(h) the emission of smoke, visible vapour, sparks, ashes, grit or oil;

(i) the reduction of noise omitted by or caused by vehicles;

(j) prohibiting or restricting the use of audible signals at certain times or in certain places;

(k) prohibiting the carrying of appliances likely to cause annoyance or danger;

(l) the periodical testing and inspection of vehicles by prescribed authorities;

(m) the particulars other than registration marks to be exhibited by vehicles and the manner in which they shall be exhibited; and (n) the use of trailers with motor vehicles.

SEC. 69: MANUFACTURERS' LIABILITY.—Since automobiles are manufactured for the purpose of travelling over highways at a rapid speed, it is indispensable to their being so employed that they should be safely and properly constructed with reference to the use for which they are intended. The danger of injury to their occupants from defects in material or construction is so great that there is imposed upon manufacturers a duty of exercising a high degree of care in their construction and equipping them in such manner as will make them reasonably safe when used with proper care. If an automobile is defectively or insufficiently constructed it becomes immediately dangerous to life and limb, because no matter how competent the drivers employed to operate it, they are helpless to protect themselves from undiscovered and unknown defects. Accordingly a manufacturer of an automobile will normally be charged with notice of the unsafe condition in a machine if the faulty construction is so patent that no person engaged in its manufacture could fail to observe it If a defect of this character is concealed from the purchaser at the time of sale and is unknown to him at the time of an accident which it causes, the manufacturer may be held responsible in damages to any one who is thereby injured.

SEC. 70.—"The rule-making powers outlined in this section are unavoidable. Although uniformity, in respect of rules in this Chapter, is desirable, such rules cannot conveniently be incorporated in the Bill owing to periodical changes in the design of vehicles from time to time". (Statement of Objects and Reasons.)

SELECT COMMITTEE REPORT.—"We have added a power to regulate seating accommodation and provision for the comfort of passengers in passenger-carrying vehicle".

REGULATIONS AS TO SAFETY APPLIANCES AND STOPPING.—Acts governing motor vehicles generally provide that automobiles must be equipped with safety devices such as lamps, bells and horns, and require them to carry lighted lamps between sunset and sunrise, and to give warning of danger by sounding a horn; and in like manner a municipal corporation is also authorised to carry signal and other safety appliances.

CHAPTER VI.

CONTROL OF TRAFFIC.

71. (1) No person shall drive a motor vehicle or cause or allow a motor vehicle to be driven in any public place at a speed exceeding the maximum speed fixed for the vehicle by or under this Act or by or under any law for the time being in force:

Limits of speed.

Provided that such maximum speed shall in no case exceed the maximum fixed for the vehicle in Eighth Schedule.

(2) The Provincial Government or any authority authorised in this behalf by the Provincial Government may, if satisfied that it is necessary to restrict the speed of motor vehicles in the interests of public safety or convenience or because of the nature of any road or bridge, by notification in the official Gazette, fix such maximum speed limits as it thinks fit for motor vehicles or any specified class of motor vehicles or for motor vehicles to which a trailer is attached, either generally or in a particular area or on a particular road or roads.

SEC. 71, CL. (1), AND THE EIGHTH SCHEDULE.—"It may with some force be argued that speed limits are connected with the local strength of roads and should be left for local prescription. But, as in the case of permissible weights, there are advantages in making speeds uniform. It is true that motor transport vehicles will ply within the province but there will always be a good deal of traffic across provincial borders. There are other practical reasons why general speed limits should be uniform and imposed by the Act, e.g., insurance risks may vary with permissible speed and it is desirable that premium rates should be uniform throughout India. If mechanical speed governors are introduced, as is to be hoped, they must be set for a certain speed and be sealed by some authority. A governor set for the legal speed in one province may be illegal in another if there is a difference in speed limits. Uniform reasonable speed limits coupled with the compulsory use of speed governors will tend to reduce not only accidents but also premium rates". (Statement of Objects and Reasons.)

SELECT COMMITTEE REPORT.—"The changes made are intended to express more clearly the intention of the clause as drafted. In the case of certain vehicles the Eighth Schedule fixes no maximum speed limit. But where such maximum speeds are fixed they are to be effective for the purposes of sub-clause (1)".

REGULATION AS TO SPEED.—Limitation upon the speed of automobiles operated on the public streets and highways are primarily intended for the protection of travellers and drivers of bullock and horse-drawn vehicles. The law establishes a uniform maximum rate of speed, such as so many miles per hour, for all motor vehicles operated anywhere in the country roads, or it may make special regulations for particular localities, such as a prohibition against driving faster than 5 miles per hour or a "common travelling pace" in a designated congested locality. The state may also expressly leave to the municipalities the right of determining within certain limits the proper maximum speed of motor vehicles. In the absence of express or implied prohibition by the legislature a municipality may also pass ordinances fixing within reasonable limits the speed at which motor vehicles may be operated within its boundaries, and it is within the province of a city corporation to prescribe different rates of speed for automobiles in different portions of the city according to the width of the streets, their use, and the density of population. In view of the danger to traffic involved in the use of automobiles on country roads, especially in the night time, an ordinance prohibiting the running of automobiles on country roads between sunset and sunrise may be not unreasonable under certain conditions. (Am. Rul. Case-law.)

Under sec. 71 (2) which permits the restricting of speed within certain areas, the notification is the fixing, and therefore until the restriction has been notified, the speed limit is not fixed. A notification is therefore a condition precedent to the commission of an offence of exceeding the speed limit and is not merely a method of publishing the speed fixed. 55 L.W. 827 (2)= 1943 M. 217=(1942) 2 M.L.J. 670.

SEC. 71 (2) is mandatory and it is necessary before the imposition of speed limit can be enforced that there should be a prior notification in the Gazette. 56 L.W. 73= 1943 Mad. 391 (1)=(1943) 1 M.L.J. 153.

To sustain a conviction under sec. 71 (1) it must be shown that the speed limit has been "fixed" under sec. 71 (2) and that the accused exceeded it. The fixing of the speed by the proper authority, such as the Road Transport Board is the publication in the Official Gazette. Publication in the District Gazette is not publication in the "Official Gazette" under sec. 71 (2). When there has been no publication or notification in the Gazette of India or in the Gazette of the Province, a notification in the District Gazette does not amount to "fixing" the speed limit and a person exceeding such limit published in the District Gazette is not guilty of exceeding the speed "fixed" and cannot be convicted under sec. 71 (1). 56 L.

Limits of weight and limitations on use.

72. (1) The Provincial Government may prescribe conditions for the issue of permits for heavy transport vehicles by the Provincial or Regional Transport Authorities and may prohibit or restrict the use of such vehicles in any area or route within the province:

Provided that any permit issued before the commencement of this Act may be continued or renewed by the competent authority for a period not exceeding three years under the conditions upon which the permit was originally issued, unless the Provincial Government directs otherwise.

(2) Except as may be otherwise prescribed, no person shall drive or cause or allow to be driven in any public place any motor vehicle which is not fitted with pneumatic tyres.

(3) No person shall drive or cause or allow to be driven in any public place any motor vehicle or trailer—

(a) the unladen weight of which exceeds the unladen weight specified in the certificate of registration of the vehicle, or

(b) the laden weight of which exceeds the registered laden weight specified in the certificate of registration, or

(c) any axle weight of which exceeds the maximum axle weight specified for that axle in the certificate of registration.

(4) Where the driver or person in charge of a motor vehicle or trailer driven in contravention of sub-section (2) or clause (a) of sub-section (3) is not the owner, a Court may presume that the offence was committed with the knowledge of or under the orders of the owner of the motor vehicle or trailer.

Power to have vehicle weighed.

73. Any person authorised in this behalf by the Provincial Government may, if he has reason to believe that a goods vehicle or trailer is being used in contravention of section 72, require the driver to convey the vehicle to a weighing device, if any, within a distance of one mile from any point on the forward route or within a distance of five miles from the destination of the vehicle for weigh-

W. 326=1943 Mad. 491=(1943) 1 M.L.J. 344.

SEC. 72.—"The object is two-fold. Firstly to put a stop to gross overloading by specifying a maximum permissible weight and axle weight which is reasonable for vehicles at present in general use. Secondly, a reasonable limit is imposed which will generally apply but can be varied upwards or downwards by Provincial Governments to suit local conditions." (Statement of Objects and Reasons.)

SELECT COMMITTEE REPORT.—"We have omitted sub-cl. (1) which imposed maximum limits on the laden weight and axle weight of motor vehicles, while retaining the prohibition of the driving in public places of vehicles not fitted with pneumatic weight, which we have increased, respectively, from 12,500 and 9,000 pounds to 14,500 and 10,600 will be found included in the definition in cl. 2 (8) of a "heavy transport vehicle". For the prohibition (subject to a power to prescribe otherwise) of the driving of vehicles exceeding these weights, which was contained in sub-clause (1) which we have omitted, we have substituted a provision enabling the Provincial Government to prescribe conditions for the issue by Transport Authorities of permits to drive heavy transport vehicles, and to prohibit or restrict their use in the Province, adding a saving clause to cover any such vehicles which are already plying under permits when the Act comes into force."

SUB-CLAUSE (4).—"We have confined the presumption of knowledge to those cases only in which it seems to us equitable to suppose that the driver would have that knowledge." (Select Committee Report.)

Rule 50-A of the C. P. Motor Vehicles Rules, cannot apply to the case of a motor omnibus carrying passengers and luggage, for it applies only to motor vehicles used exclusively for the carriage of goods. R. 63 (3) seems to suggest that it is the duty of the conductor to calculate the number of passengers allowed after extra luggage has been put on the bus, and any way R. 60 makes it clear that in all cases, where the driver is not responsible, the conductor is held responsible, for the fulfilment of the rules. Where both the conductor and driver are charged for carrying luggage in excess of the weight allowed, as the rule requires the conductor to see that the weight of the luggage carried is not in excess of the weight allowed, the conductor alone is liable. 1939 N.L.J. 95.

ment: and if on such weighment the vehicle is found to contravene in any respect the provisions of section 72 regarding weight, he may, by order in writing, direct the driver to convey the vehicle or trailor to the nearest place, to be specified in the notice, where facilities exists for the storage of goods and not to remove the vehicle or trailer from that place until the laden weight or axle weight has been reduced or the vehicle has otherwise been treated so that it complies with section 72.

Power to restrict the use of vehicles.

74. The Provincial Government or any authority authorised in this behalf by the Provincial Government, if satisfied that it is necessary in the interests of public safety or convenience, or because of the nature of any road or bridge, may by notification in the official Gazette prohibit or restrict, subject to such exceptions and conditions as may be specified in the notification, the driving of motor vehicles or of any specified class of motor vehicles or the use of trailers either generally in a specified area or on a specified road.

Power to erect traffic signs.

75. (1) The Provincial Government or any authority authorised in this behalf by the Provincial Government may cause or permit traffic signs to be placed or erected in any public place for the purpose of regulating motor vehicle traffic.

(2) Traffic signs erected under sub-section (1) for any purpose for which provision is made in the Ninth Schedule shall be of the size, colour and type and shall have the meanings set forth in the Ninth Schedule, but the Provincial Government or any authority empowered in this behalf by the Provincial Government may make or authorise the addition to any sign set forth in the said Schedule, of transcriptions of the words, letters or figures thereon in such script as the Provincial Government may think fit, provided that the transcriptions shall be of similar size and colour to the words, letters or figures set forth in the Ninth Schedule.

(3) Except as provided by sub-section (1) no traffic sign shall, after the commencement of this Act, be placed or erected on or near any road; but all traffic signs erected prior to the commencement of this Act by any competent authority shall for the purposes of this Act be deemed to be traffic signs erected under the provisions of sub-section (1).

(4) A Provincial Government may, by notification in the official Gazette empower any District Magistrate or Superintendent of Police [1][or in the Presidency towns), the Chief Presidency Magistrate or the Commissioner of Police,] to remove or cause to be removed any sign or advertisement which is so placed in his opinion as to obscure any traffic sign from view or any sign or advertisement which is in his opinion so similar in appearance to a traffic sign as to be misleading.

LEG. REF.

1 Inserted by Act XX of 1942.

SEC. 73: SELECT COMMITTEE REPORT.—"The first change confines the scope of the clause to goods vehicles, the class of vehicle really concerned. The second change provides agai st the possibility of a vehicle being diverted from its route and thus unreasonably delayed on its journey."

SEC. 75 (2): SELECT COMMITTEE REPORT.—"The alteration of sub-clause (2) is designed to ensure that the use of additional traffic-directions such as glass reflectors or other signs not contained in the Ninth Schedule is still possible, while securing at the same time that the more important signs which are set out in the Ninth Schedule are uniform throughout the road systems of Brit sh India. Should any new signs be subsequently added to these later by an amendment of the Schedule, the wording of the sub-clause, will require them to be adopted uniformly for the purpose for which they are intended."

SECS. 75 AND 78 AND NINTH SCHEDULE.—The signs included in the Ninth Schedule have from time to time been standardised for use in India in consultation with Provincial Governments. (Statement of Objects and Reasons.)

Parking places and halting stations.

76. The Provincial Government or any authority authorised in this behalf by the Provincial Government may, in consultation with the local authority having jurisdiction in the area concerned, determine places at which motor vehicles may stand either indefinitely or for a specified period of time, and may determine the places at which public service vehicles may stop for a longer time than is necessary for the taking up and setting down of passengers.

Main roads.

77. A Provincial Government or any authority authorised in this behalf by the Provincial Government may, by notification in the official Gazette or by the erection at suitable places of the appropriate traffic sign referred to in Part A of the Ninth Schedule designate certain roads as main roads for the purposes of the regulations contained in the Tenth Schedule.

Duty to obey traffic signs.

78. (1) Every driver of a motor vehicle shall drive the vehicle in conformity with any indication given by [1][a mandatory traffic sign] and in conformity with the driving regulations set forth in the tenth Schedule and shall comply with all directions given him by any police officer for the time being engaged in the regulation of traffic in any public place.

[(2) In this section "mandatory traffic sign" means a traffic sign included in Part A of the Ninth Schedule, or any traffic sign of similar form (that is to say, consisting of or including a circular disc displaying a device, word or figure and having a red ground or border) erected for the purpose of regulating motor vehicle traffic under sub-section (1) of section 75.] (Added by Act XX of 1942.)

Signals and signalling devices.

79. The driver of a motor vehicle shall on the occasions specified in the Eleventh Schedule make the signals specified therein:

LEG. REF.

1 Inserted by Act XX of 1942.

SECS. 78 AND 79 AND THE TENTH AND ELEVENTH SCHEDULES.—"The substance of these Schedules appears in varying form in provincial rules, but it is desirable that driving regulations and signals should be uniform in respect of motor vehicles. For instance, a driver coming to a strange town should not be liable to commit an offence in passing a tram-car owing to local variations in traffic rules." (Statement of Objects and Reasons.)

SEC. 78.—It is an essential feature of the section imposing a liability on drivers to respond to signals that it is not for them to speculate why the signal was given and to act accordingly. If the applicant disregarded the signals made from a lorry standing at a distance, the fact that a later stage the accident happened in spite of his best efforts is no excuse. 146 I.C. 208=34 Cr.L.J. 1260=1933 Nag. 177. The Act of 1914 requires that a driver should stop in three sets of circumstances, firstly that traffic may be regulated, secondly that a name and address may be obtained with a view to prosecution, and thirdly for the purpose of enforcing any of the provisions of the Act, such as checking the licence and inspecting a bus where it is suspected to be over-loaded and it is not necessary that the police officer stopping the vehicle should be engaged in regulating traffic. 31 Cr.L.J. 639=1930 M. 445=57 M.L.J. 457. Where there is no evidence to the effect that the police officer whose signal was disobeyed was in uniform a conviction under the rules for disobeying the signal cannot be sustained. 43 C.W.N. 278.

SECS. 78 AND 112: BURDEN OF PROOF—CHARGE OF EXCEEDING SPEED LIMIT.—In a prosecution for an offence under sec. 78 read with sec. 112 for exceeding the speed limit laid down under sec. 71 (2) of the Motor Vehicles Act, it is the duty of the prosecution, in order to bring home the offence to the accused to prove (1) that a certain speed has been laid down under the Act as the maximum speed that a vehicle should attain, and (2) that the accused exceeded that speed limit. It is not sufficient to prove merely that there were two posts on the road on which the number "10" was painted to indicate that the speed should not exceed 10 miles an hour. It has further to be proved that the speed had been fixed by some authority empowered to fix a speed under sec. 71 (2). When that is not proved, a conviction is unsustainable. 55 L.W. 722=1943 Mad. 61=(1942) 2 M.L.J. 629.

SEC. 79: SELECT COMMITTEE REPORT.—"As we have omitted clause (115) which made the driving of a vehicle without due care and attention a separate offence, we have deleted the second proviso to this clause as a consequential amendment."

Provided that the signal of an intention to turn to the right or left or to stop may be given by a mechanical or an electrical device of a prescribed nature affixed to the vehicle.

80. No person shall drive or cause or allow to be driven in any public place any motor vehicle with a left hand steering control unless it is equipped with a mechanical or electrical signalling device of a prescribed nature and in working order.

Leaving vehicle in dangerous position.

81. No person in charge of a motor vehicle shall cause or allow the vehicle or any trailer to remain at rest on any road in such a position or in such a condition or in such circumstances as to cause or be likely to cause danger, obstruction or undue inconvenience to other users of the road.

Riding on running board.

82. No person driving or in charge of a motor vehicle shall carry any person or permit any person to be carried on the running board or otherwise than within the body of the vehicle.

Obstruction of driver.

83. No person driving a motor vehicle shall allow any person to stand or sit or any thing to be placed in such a manner or position as to hamper the driver in his control of the vehicle.

Stationary vehicles.

84. No person driving or in charge of a motor vehicle shall cause or allow the vehicle to remain stationary in any public place unless there is in the driver's seat a person duly licensed to drive the vehicle or unless the mechanism has been stopped and a brake or brakes applied or such other measures taken as to ensure that the vehicle cannot accidentally be put in motion in the absence of the driver.

Pillion riding.

85. No driver of a two-wheeled motor cycle shall carry more than one person in addition to himself on the cycle and no such person shall be carried otherwise than sitting on a proper seat securely fixed to the cycle behind the driver's seat.

Duty to produce licence and certificate of registration.

86. (1) The driver of a motor vehicle in any public place shall, on demand by any police officer in uniform, produce his licence for examination.

(2) The owner of a motor vehicle, or in his absence the driver or other person in charge of the vehicle, shall, on demand by a registering authority or any person authorised in this behalf by the Provincial Government, produce the certificate of registration of the vehicle and, where the vehicle is a transport vehicle, the certificate of fitness referred to in section 38.

SECS. 80 TO 83, will standardise similar provisions in provincial rules. (Statement of Objects and Reasons.)

SEC. 85: SELECT COMMITTEE REPORT.—"We have omitted the reference to riding astride. It is unnecessary in Indian conditions to require that a pillion passenger shall be seated astride the cycle."

SEC. 86: SELECT COMMITTEE REPORT.—"The addition to sub-clause (2) makes a provision regarding the certificate of fitness which was not adequately provided for in the sub-clause as originally drafted. In sub-clause (3) consequential amendments are made, the necessity for personal appearance is dispensed with, and the period allowed for production of the required documents is extended. The redraft of the proviso to sub-clause (3) expresses more clearly the degree to which the relaxation given by sub-clause (3) may be extended to the drivers who are normally expected to have such documents with them." "Upon demand" means then and there on the spot. 21 Cr.L.J. 724=58 I.C. 148=43 A. 123=1921 A. 277. The term should not be interpreted to mean "within a reasonable time after demand." The word "demand" connotes something imperative, that brooks no delay. I.L.R. 1936 Nag. 164 =164 I.C. 351=37 Cr.L.J. 1012=1936 Nag. 150. Where the driver of a motor vehicle fails to produce his licence immediately on demand having kept it in a not easily accessible part of the car but produces it subsequently after very little delay, the offence committed is of a technical nature and it is a case in which the prosecution might properly have been waived. (Ibid.) No person is a driver unless driving. Further it is only a police officer who can demand the licence, and an order requiring the driver to attend a Magistrate's house or Court with

(3) If the licence or certificates, as the case may be, are not at the time in the possession of the person to whom demand is made, it shall be a sufficient compliance with this section if such person produces the licence or certificates within ten days at any police station in British India which he specifies to the police officer or authority making the demand:

Provided that, except to such extent and with such modifications as may be prescribed, the provisions of this sub-section shall not apply to a driver driving as a paid employee, or to the driver of a transport vehicle or to any person required to produce the certificate of registration or the certificate of fitness of a transport vehicle.

Duty of driver to stop in certain cases.

87. (1) The driver of a motor vehicle shall cause the vehicle to stop and remain stationary so long as may reasonably be necessary—

(a) when required to do so by any police officer in uniform, or

(b) when required to do so by any person in charge of an animal if such person apprehends that the animal is, or being alarmed by the vehicle will become, unmanageable, or

(c) when the vehicle is involved in the occurrence of an accident to a person, animal or vehicle or of damage to any property, whether the driving or management of the vehicle was or was not the cause of the accident or damage, and he shall give his name and address and the name and address of the owner of the vehicle to any person affected by any such accident or damage who demands it provided such person also furnishes his name and address.

(2) The driver of a motor vehicle shall, on demand by a person giving his own name and address and alleging that the driver has committed an offence punishable under section 116, give his name and address to that person.

(3) In this section the expression "animal" means any horse, cattle, elephant, camel, ass, mule, sheep or goat.

his licence is illegal. 101 I.C. 668=49 A. 754=1927 A. 478. But see also 1926 P. 446. Under sec. 8 (of the old Act) the failure to produce the driving licence on demand by the police officer is an offence but not the mere non-carrying of it on person. 33 P.L.R. 278=1932 L. 363. SEC. 87.—This reproduces the existing sec. 4 of the Indian Motor Vehicles Act, 1914, with the additional definition of "animal." (Statement of Objects and Reasons.)

SELECT COMMITTEE REPORT.—"The change in clause (b) is designed to secure that the mere alarm of an animal will not justify the person in charge in stopping the driver of a vehicle."

CL. (2).—The redraft makes it clear that the allegation regarding commission of an offence must be one made at the time by the person demanding the driver's name, and that such person must himself be ready to supply his own name and address.

CL. (3).—We consider it advisable to exclude dogs from the denotation of animal, particularly in view of clause (c) of sub clause (1). (Select Committee Report.)

88. The owner of a motor vehicle the driver of which is accused of any offence under this Act shall, on the demand of any police officer authorised in this behalf by the Provincial Government, give all information regarding the name and address of and the licence held by the driver which is in his possession or could by reasonable diligence be ascertained by him.

Duty of owner of motor vehicle to give information.

89. When any person is injured as the result of an accident in which a motor vehicle is involved, the driver of the vehicle or other person in charge of the vehicle shall—

90. When any accident occurs in which a motor vehicle is involved, any person authorised in this behalf by the Provincial Government may, on production if so required of his authority, inspect the vehicle and for that purpose may enter at any reasonable time any premises where the vehicle may be and may remove the vehicle for examination:

The law provides that the operator of any motor vehicle on any public highway must stop upon signal by a police officer or by the driver of any vehicle drawn by horses, and that upon signal by any one riding or driving a horse which appears frightened, such operator must stop the motor of the machine and all motive power, and remain stationary unless a movement forward shall be deemed necessary to avoid accident or injury, until the horse appears to be under control. Where the statute requires the operator of an automobile to stop upon signal, there must be an actual signal before he will be held responsible for negligence for violating the law. As a matter of common prudence when an automobile approaches or comes up behind a vehicle drawn by horses, the driver must manage and control his machine in such a manner as to exercise every reasonable precaution to prevent the frightening of the horses, and to ensure the safety and protection of any person riding or driving them or even that the driver of a motor vehicle at the indication of a horse becoming alarmed must go to the side of the road and remain stationary until the horse has passed. Where there was no evidence to show that the driver of a motor vehicle knew that an accident had as a matter of fact taken place or had reason to so believe, his failure to stop his vehicle cannot amount to an offence. 173 I.C. 860=39 Cr.L.J. 382=1938 Pat. 268.

SELECT COMMITTEE REPORT.—"We have omitted the opening words of clause (a) because there might be no police officer present and the injured person might be unconscious. We have also provided that an injured person shall not be taken to hospital against his will."

REPORTING ACCIDENT.—If there is no police officer present, the driver or person in charge of the motor vehicle shall report the accident without delay at the nearest police station. 1929 A.L.J. 1044=30 Cr. Sec. 562 (1) (a) only applies to a certain limited class of cases such as theft and so on under the I.P.C., but does not apply to an offence under a totally different Act such as the Motor Vehicles Act. 28 Bom.L.R. 297=27 Cr.L.J. 528=1926 Bom. 230.

"ACCIDENT," MEANING OF.—The word "accident" is not defined in the Motor Vehicles Act or in any of the rules framed thereunder. mated to the owner of the vehicle, and the vehicle shall be returned without unnecessary delay.

Power to make rules.

91. (1) The Provincial Government may make rules for the purpose of carrying into effect the provisions of this Chapter.

(2) Without prejudice to the generality of the foregoing power, such rules may provide for—

(a) the nature of the mechanical or electrical signalling devices which may be used on motor vehicles;

(b) the removal and the safe custody of vehicles including their loads which have broken down or which have been left standing or have been abandoned on roads;

(c) the installation and use of weighing devices;

(d) the exemption from all or any of the provisions of this Chapter of Fire Brigade vehicles, ambulances and other special classes of vehicle, subject to such conditions as may be prescribed;

(e) the maintenance and management of parking places and stands and the fees, if any, which may be charged for their use;

(f) prohibiting the driving down hill of a motor vehicle with the gear disengaged either generally or in a specified place;

(g) prohibiting the taking hold of or mounting of a motor vehicle in motion;

(h) prohibiting the use of foot-paths or pavements by motor vehicles;

(i) generally, the prevention of danger, injury or annoyance to the public or any person, or of danger or injury to property or of obstruction to traffic; and

(j) any other matter which is to be or may be prescribed.

CHAPTER VII.

MOTOR VEHICLES TEMPORARILY LEAVING OR VISITING BRITISH INDIA.

Power of Central Government to make rules.

92. (1) The Central Government may, by notification in the official Gazette, make rules for all or any of the following purposes, namely:—

(a) the grant and authentication of travelling passes, certificates or authorisations to persons temporarily taking motor vehicles out of British India to any place outside India or to persons temporarily proceeding out of British India to any place outside India and desiring to drive a motor vehicle during their absence from British India;

(b) prescribing the conditions subject to which motor vehicles brought temporarily into British India from outside India by persons intending to make a temporary stay in British India may be possessed and used in British India; and

(c) prescribing the conditions subject to which persons entering British India from any place outside India for temporary stay in British India may drive motor vehicles in British India.

(2) No rule made under this section shall operate to confer on any person any immunity in any province from the payment of any tax levied in that province on motor vehicles or their users.

SEC. 91, CL. (2): SELECT COMMITTEE REPORT.—"We have redrafted clause (d) without altering the substance. We have added 'stands' for which partial provision is made in sec. 68 to parking-places in clause (e). We have added two specific rule-making powers, and a general rule-making power in clause (i) which is reproduced from the 1914 Act.

SEC. 92.—"Under this, rules can be made not only to deal with vehicles, covered by an International Convention but also those coming from and going to countries which are not signatories to any Convention." (Statement of Objects and Reasons.)

(3) Rules made under clauses (b) and (c) of sub-section (1) shall, in case of motor vehicles and persons entering British India from the French and Portuguese Settlements bounded by India, be applicable only to motor traffic to which The International Convention relating to motor traffic concluded at Paris on the 24th day of April, 1926 [1][or any convention modifying the same], applies.

(4) Nothing in this Act or in any rule made thereunder by a Provincial Government relating to—

(a) the registration and identification of motor vehicles, or

(b) the requirements as to construction, maintenance and equipment of motor vehicles, or

(c) the licensing and the qualifications of drivers of motor vehicles shall apply to any motor vehicle to which or to any driver of a motor vehicle to whom any rules made under clause (b) or clause (c) of sub-section (1) apply.

CHAPTER VIII.

INSURANCE OF MOTOR VEHICLES AGAINST THIRD PARTY RISKS.

Definitions.

93. In this Chapter—

(a) "authorised insurer" means an insurer in whose case the requirements of the Insurance Act, 1938, or of the corresponding law of a reciprocating territory with respect to the registration of insurers are complied with, and includes, where the business of insuring motor vehicles against third party risks is carried on by the Central Government on a Provincial Government or the Government of an Indian State which is a reciprocating territory, such Government".] (Substituted by Act XXVII of 1947.)

(b) "certificate of insurance" means a certificate issued by an authorised insurer in pursuance of sub-section (4) of section 95; and includes [2][a cover note complying with such requirements as may be prescribed, and] where more than one certificate has been issued in connection with a policy, or where a copy of a certificate has been issued, all those certificates or that copy, as the case may be;

[(c) 'reciprocating territory' means any such Indian State or such area administered by the Crown Representative as may be notified by the Central Government in the Official Gazette to be a reciprocating territory for the purposes of this Chapter.] (Clause (c) of S. 93 added by Act XXVII of 1947.)

Necessity for insurance against third party risk.

94. (1) No person shall use except as a passenger or cause or allow any other person to use a motor vehicle in a public place, unless there is in force in relation to the use of the vehicle by that person or that other person, as the case may be, a policy of insurance complying with the requirements of this Chapter.

Explanation.—A person driving a motor vehicle merely as a paid employee, while there is in force in relation to the use of the vehicle no such policy as is required by this sub-section, shall not be deemed to act in contravention of the sub-section unless he knows or has reason to believe that there is no such policy in force.

[(2) Subject to any prescribed conditions, sub-section (1) shall not apply to any vehicle owned by any of the following authorities, namely:—

(i) the Central Government;

(ii) the Crown Representative;

[2] Inserted by Act XXVII of 1947.

SEC. 94: GENERAL.—The provisions relating to compulsory insurance in respect of third party risks follows closely the recommendations of the Motor Vehicles Insurance Committee and are almost wholly adapted from the English law. (Statement of Objects and Reasons.)

(iii) any Provincial Government;

(iv) the Government of any Indian State;

(v) the Government of the French or Portuguese Settlements bounded by India;

(vi) any local authority in British India exempted from the operation of sub-section (1) by order of the Central Government or of a Provincial Government;

(vii) any local authority established or continued by the authority of the Crown Representative exempted from the operation of sub-section (1) by order of the Central Government;

(viii) any local authority in an Indian State wherein policies of insurance are required by provision of law to be taken out in relation to the use of motor vehicles, which has been exempted from the operation of such provision.] (Substituted by Act XXVII of 1947.)

Requirements of policies and limits liability.

95. (1) In order to comply with the requirements of this Chapter, a policy of insurance must be a policy which—

(a) is issued by a person who is an authorised insurer, [1][or by a co-operative society allowed under section 108 to transact the business of an insurer] and

(b) insures the person or classes of person specified in the policy to the extent specified in sub-section (2) against any liability which may be incurred by him or them in respect of the death of or bodily injury to any person caused by or arising out of the use of the vehicle in a public place, [1][in British India or in a reciprocating territory]:

Provided that a policy shall not [1][* * *] be required—

(i) to cover liability in respect of the death, arising out of and in the course of his employment, of the employee of a person insured by the policy or in respect of bodily injury sustained by such an employee arising out of and in the course of his employment [other than a liability arising under the workmen's compensation Act, 1923, in respect of the death of or bodily injury to, any such employee—

(a) engaged in driving the vehicle, or

(b) if it be a public service vehicle, engaged as a conductor of the vehicle or in examining tickets on the vehicle, or

(c) if it be a goods vehicle, being carried in the vehicle.] (Inserted by Act XXVII of 1947).

LEG. REF.

[1] Substituted and omitted by Act XXVII of 1947.

REPORT OF SELECT COMMITTEE.—"The change made in the first line confines liability for a contravention of the clause to the owner of the vehicle, who is the person in possession of knowledge whether the vehicle is or is not insured."

SUB-CL. (2)—"We have removed the proviso for the making of deposits instead of insuring. We see little prospect of such a provision being extensively utilised, and none but wealthy corporations could avail themselves of it. We have added local authorities to the bodies exempted under the sub-clause, as these are accorded exemption in the English Act. We have also added State-owned railways in the view that their financial position makes it unnecessary for them to insure against third party risks. (Select Committee Report.)

SEC. 95.—"The limits of cover are those recommended by the Motor Vehicles Insurance Committee. In sub-sec. (3) power is given to Provincial Governments to require, in addition, that the liability of an owner in respect of claims arising under the Workmen's Compensation Act shall also be covered by insurance". (Statement of Objects and Reasons.)

SUB-CL. (1).—"The changes in cl. (b) are formal, and clarifying only. Those in the proviso, cl. (i), are formal also. In cl. (ii) the wording has been altered to agree with that used in sub-cl. (2) (b) and a reference has been inserted to cover workmen being conveyed to work. This follows the English Act. The new additional cl. (iii) is also taken from the English Act. In sub-cl. (2) we have reduced the limit of liability fixed by the clause in two cases. We have inserted the words "in respect of any one accident" to clarify the intention of the

(ii) except where the vehicle is a vehicle in which passengers are carried for hire or reward or by reason of or in pursuance of a contract of employment, to cover liability in respect of the death of or bodily injury to persons being carried in or upon or entering or mounting or alighting from the vehicle at the time of the occurrence of the event out of which a claim arises, or

(iii) to cover any contractual liability.

(2) Subject to the proviso to sub-section (1), a policy of insurance shall cover any liability incurred in respect of any one accident up to the following limits, namely:—

[(a) where the vehicle is a goods vehicle, a limit of twenty thousand rupees in all, the liabilities, if any, arising under the Workmen's Compensation Act, 1923, in respect of the death of, or bodily injury to, employees other than the driver being carried in the vehicle being limited to six such employees.] (Substituted by Act XXVII of 1947.)

(b) where the vehicle is a vehicle in which passengers are carried for hire or reward or by reason of or in pursuance of a contract of employment, in respect of persons other than passengers carried for hire or reward, a limit of twenty thousand rupees; and in respect of passengers a limit of twenty thousand rupees in all, and four thousand rupees in respect of an individual passenger, if the vehicle is registered to carry not more than six passengers excluding the driver or two thousand rupees in respect of an individual passenger, if the vehicle is registered to carry more than six passengers excluding the driver;

(c) where the vehicle is a vehicle of any other class, the amount of the liability incurred.

[(3) A Provincial Government may prescribe that a policy of insurance shall in order to comply with the requirements of this Chapter cover any liability arising under the provisions of the Workmen's Compensation Act, 1923, in respect of the death of or bodily injury to any paid employee engaged in driving or otherwise in attendance on or being carried in a motor vehicle.] (N.B.— Sub-section (3) omitted by Act XXVII of 1947.)

(4) A policy shall be of no effect for the purposes of this Chapter unless and until there is issued by the insurer in favour of the person by whom the policy is effected a certificate of insurance [1][* * * *] in the prescribed form and containing the prescribed particulars of any conditions subject to which the policy is issued and of any other prescribed matters; and different forms, particulars and matters may be prescribed in different cases.

(5) Notwithstanding anything elsewhere contained in any law, a person issuing a policy of insurance under this section shall be liable to indemnify the person or classes of person specified in the policy in respect of any liability which the policy purports to cover in the case of that person or those classes of person.

Duty of insurers to satisfy judgments against persons insured in respect of third party risks.

96. (1) If, after a certificate of insurance [1][* * * *] has been issued under sub-section (4) of section 95 in favour of the person by whom a policy has been effected, judgment in respect of any such liability as is required to be covered by a policy under clause (b) of sub-section (1) of section 95 (being a liability covered by sub-clause The other change in cl. (b) is consequential on that made in sub-cl. (1), proviso cl. (ii). In sub-cl. (4) we have made a formal amendment, and we have inserted a provision allowing cover-notes to serve in lieu of a certificate of insurance. The changes in sub-cl. (5) are formal only". (Statement of Objects and Reasons.)

SEC. 96.—"Sub-cl. (2) is a variation of sec. 38 of the English Road Traffic Act, 1930, and sec.. 12 of the English Road Traffic Act, 1934. Those sections provide that an insure could not repudiate liability on account of the breach of certain specified conditions that the isurer might have in-the terms of the policy) is obtained against any person insured by the policy, then, notwithstanding that the insurer may be entitled to avoid or cancel or may have avoided or cancelled the policy, the insurer shall, subject to the provisions of this section, pay to the person entitled to the benefit of the decree any sum not exceeding the sum assured payable thereunder, as if he were the judgment-debtor, in respect of the liability, together with any amount payable in respect of costs and any sum payable in respect of interest on that sum by virtue of any enactment relating to interest on judgments.

(2) No sum shall be payable by an insurer under sub-section (1) in respect of any judgment unless before or after the commencement of the proceedings in which the judgment is given the insurer had notice through the Court of the bringing of the proceedings, or in respect of any judgment so long as execution is stayed thereon pending an appeal; and an insurer to whom notice of the bringing of any such proceedings is so given shall be entitled to be made a party thereto and to defend the action on any of the following grounds, namely:—

(a) that the policy was cancelled by mutual consent or by virtue of any provision contained therein before the accident giving rise to the liability, and that either the certificate of insurance was surrendered to the insurer or that the person to whom the certificate was issued has made an affidavit stating that the certificate has been lost or destroyed, or that either before or not later than fourteen days after the happening of the accident the insurer has commenced proceedings for cancellation of the certificate after compliance with the provisions of section 105; or

(b) that there has been a breach of a specified condition of the policy, being one of the following conditions, namely:—

(i) a condition excluding the use of the vehicle—

(a) for hire or reward, where the vehicle is on the date of the contract of insurance a vehicle not covered by a permit to ply for hire or reward, or

(b) for organised racing and speed testing, or

(c) for a purpose not allowed by the permit under which the vehicle is used, where the vehicle is a public service vehicle or a goods vehicle, or

(d) without side-car being attached, where the vehicle is a motor cycle; or

(ii) a condition excluding driving by a named person or persons or by any person who is not duly licensed, or by any person who has been disqualified for holding or obtaining a driving licence during the period of disqualification; or

(iii) a condition excluding liability for injury caused or contributed to by conditions of war, civil war, riot or civil commotion; or

(c) that the policy is void on the ground that it was obtained by the non-serted in the policy. The general effect of this provision has been given close attention by the Cassel Committee whose report has recently been published and they have recommended that, instead of specifying conditions for breach of which an insurer would not be able to avoid liability, it would be better to specify those for breach of which liability could be avoided. The draft of sub-cl. (3) follows their recommendations in this respect. It is more satisfactory as it defines the exact position of the insurer in relation to the conditions he may impose." (Statement of Objects and Reasons.)

SELECT COMMITTEE REPORT.—"Sub cls. (2), (3) and (4) of the Bill have been replaced by two new sub-clauses which together with the new sub-clause now numbered sub-cl. (6) have the effect of considerably simplifying legal proceedings in connection with any contested claim. The effect of our provisions is to secure that such proceedings shall be confined to one suit only, in which the insurer shall have a right on receiving notice through the Court to contest his liability on certain of the grounds contained in the Bill as drafted. We have, however, excluded several of the conditions contained in the draft Bill for breach of which an insurer might have a licence declared cancelled. Sub-cls. (1), (6) and (7), now numbered (1), (4) and (5), remain unchanged except for formal and consequential amendments."

disclosure of a material fact or by a representation of fact which was false in some material particular.

[(2-A) Where any such judgment as is referred to in sub-section (1) is obtained from a Court in a reciprocating territory and in the case of a foreign judgment is, by virtue of the provisions of section 13 of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908, conclusive as to any matter adjudicated upon by it, the insurer (being an insurer registered under the Insurance Act, 1938 (V of 1938), and whether or not he is registered under the corresponding law of the reciprocating territory) shall be liable to the person entitled to the benefit of the decree in the manner and to the extent specified in sub-section (1) as if the judgment were given by a Court in British India:

Provided that no sum shall be payable by the insurer in respect of any such judgment unless, before or after the commencement of the proceedings in which the judgment is given, the insurer had notice through the Court in the reciprocating territory of the bringing of the proceedings and the insurer to whom notice is so given is entitled under the corresponding law of the reciprocating territory, to be made a party to the proceedings and to defend the action on grounds similar to those specified in sub-section (2).] (Inserted by Act XXVII of 1947.)

(3) Where a certificate of insurance [1][* * *] has been issued under sub-section (4) of section 95 to the person by whom a policy has been effected, so much of the policy as purports to restrict the insurance of the persons insured thereby by reference to any conditions other than those in clause (b) of sub-section (2) shall, as respects such liabilities as are required to be covered by a policy under clause (b) of sub-section (1) of section 95, be of no effect:

Provided that any sum paid by the insurer in or towards the discharge of any liability of any person which is covered by the policy by virtue only of this sub-section shall be recoverable by the insurer from that person.

(4) If the amount which an insurer becomes liable under this section to pay in respect of a liability incurred by a person insured by a policy exceeds the amount for which the insurer would apart from the provisions of this section be liable under the policy in respect of that liability, the insurer shall be entitled to recover the excess from that person.

(5) In this section the expressions "material fact" and "material particular" mean, respectively, a fact or particular of such a nature as to influence the judgment of a prudent insurer in determining whether he will take the risk and, if so, at what premium and on what conditions, and the expression "liability covered by the terms of the policy" means a liability which is covered by the policy or which would be so covered but for the fact that the insurer is entitled to avoid or cancel or has avoided or cancelled the policy.

(6) No insurer to whom the notice referred to in sub-section (2) [1][or sub-section 2-A] has been given shall be entitled to avoid his liability to any person entitled to the benefit of any such judgment as is referred to in sub-section (1) [1][or sub-section 2-A] otherwise than in the manner provided for in sub-section (2) [1][or in the corresponding law of the reciprocating territory, as the case may be].

Rights of third parties against insurers on insolvency of the insured.

97. (1) Where under any contract of insurance effected in accordance with the provisions of this Chapter a person is insured against liabilities which he may incur to third parties then—

(a) in the event of the person becoming insolvent or making a composition or arrangement with his creditors, or

(b) where the insured person is a company, in the event of a winding up order being made or a resolution for a voluntary winding up being passed with respect to the company or of a receiver or manager of the company's business or undertaking being duly appointed, or of possession being taken by or on behalf of the holders of any debentures secured by a floating charge of any property comprised in or subject to the charge, if, either before or after that event, any such liability is incurred by the insured person, his rights against the insurer under the contract in respect of the liability shall notwithstanding anything to the contrary in any provision of law, be transferred to and vest in the third party to whom the liability was so incurred.

(2) Where an order for the administration of the estate of a deceased debtor is made according to the law of insolvency, then, if any debt provable in insolvency is owing by the deceased in respect of a liability to a third party against which he was insured under a contract of insurance in accordance with the provisions of this Chapter, the deceased debtor's rights against the insurer in respect of that liability shall, notwithstanding anything to the contrary in any provision of law, be transferred to and vest in the person to whom the debt is owing.

(3) Any condition in a policy issued for the purposes of this Chapter purporting either directly or indirectly to avoid the policy or to alter the rights of the parties thereunder upon the happening to the insured person of any of the events specified in clause (a) or clause (b) of sub-section (1) or upon the making of an order for the administration of the estate of a deceased debtor according to the law of insolvency shall be of no effect.

(4) Upon a transfer under sub-section (1) or sub-section (2) the insurer shall be under the same liability to the third party as he would have been to the insured person, but—

(a) if the liability of the insurer to the insured person exceeds the liability of the insured person to the third party, nothing in this Chapter shall affect the rights of the insured person against the insurer in respect of the excess, and

(b) if the liability of the insurer to the insured person is less than the liability of the insured person to the third party, nothing in this Chapter shall affect the rights of the third party against the insured person in respect of the balance.

Duty to give information as to insurance.

98. (1) No person against whom a claim is made in respect of any liability referred to in clause (b) of sub-section (1) of secction 95 shall on demand by or on behalf of the person making the claim refuse to state whether or not he was insured in respect of that liability by any policy issued under the provisions of this Chapter, or would have been so insured if the insurer had not avoided or cancelled the policy, nor shall he refuse, if he was or would have been so insured, to give such particulars with respect to that policy as were specified in the certificate of insurance issued in respect thereof.

(2) In the event of any person becoming insolvent or making a composition or arrangement with his creditors or in the event of an order being made for the administration of the estate of a deceased person according to the law of insolvency, or in the event of a winding up order being made or a resolution for a voluntary winding up being passed with respect to any company or of a receiver or manager of the company's business or undertaking being duly appointed or of possession being taken by or on behalf of the holders of any debentures secured by a floating charge on any property comprised in or subject to the charge, it shall be the duty of the insolvent debtor, personal representative of the deceased debtor or company as the case may be, or the official assignee or receiver in insolvency, trustee, liquidator, receiver or manager, or person in possession of the property to give at the request of any person claiming that the insolvent debtor, deceased debtor or company is under such liability to him as is covered by the provisions of this Chapter, such information as may reasonably be required by him for the purpose of ascertaining whether any rights have been transferred to and vested in him by section 97, and for the purpose of enforcing such rights, if any; and any such contract of insurance as purports whether directly or indirectly to avoid the contract or to alter the rights of the parties thereunder upon the giving of such information in the events aforesaid, or otherwise to prohibit or prevent the giving thereof in the said events, shall be of no effect.

(3) If, from the information given to any person in pursuance of sub-section (2) or otherwise, he has reasonable ground for supposing that there have or may have been transferred to him under this Chapter rights against any particular insurer, that insurer shall be subject to the same duty as is imposed by the said sub-section on the persons therein mentioned.

(4) The duty to give the information imposed by this section shall include a duty to allow all contracts of insurance, receipts for premiums and other relevent documents in the possession or power of the person on whom the duty is so imposed to be inspected and copies thereof to be taken.

Settlement between insurers and insured persons.

99. (1) No settlement made by an insurer in respect of any claim which might be made by a third party in respect of any liability of the nature referred to in clause (b) of sub-section (1) of section 95 shall be valid unless such third party is a party to the settlement.

(2) Where a person who is insured under a policy issued for the purposes of this Chapter has become insolvent, or where, if such insured person is a company, a winding up order has been made or a resolution for a voluntary winding up has been passed with respect to the company, no agreement made between the insurer and the insured person after liability has been incurred to a third party and after the commencement of the insolvency or winding up, as the case may be, nor any waiver, assignment or other disposition made by or payment made to the insured person after the commencement aforesaid shall be effective to defeat the rights transferred to the third party under this Chapter, but those rights shall be the same as if no such agreement, waiver, assignment or disposition or payment has been made.

Saving in respect of sections 97, 98 and 99.

100. (1) For the purposes of sections 97, 98 and 99, a reference to "liabilities to third parties" in relation to a person insured under any policy of insurance shall not include a reference to any liability of that person in the capacity of insurer under some other policy of insurance.

(2) The provisions of sections 97, 98 and 99 shall not apply where a company is wound up voluntarily merely for the purposes of reconstruction or of an amalgamation with another company.

Insolvency of insured persons not to affect liability of insured or claims by third parties.

101. Where a certificate of insurance has been issued to the person by whom a policy has been effected, the happening in relation to any person insured by the policy of any such event as is mentioned in sub-section (1) or sub-section (2) of section 97 shall, notwithstanding anything in this Chapter, not affect any liability of that person of the nature referred to in clause (b) of sub-section (1) of section 95; but nothing in this section shall affect any rights against the insurer conferred under the provisions of sections 97, 98 and 99 on the person to whom the liability was incurred.

SECS. 100 (2) TO 103.—"This is as recommended by the Motor Vehicles Insurance Committee". (Statement of Objects and Reasons.)

Effect of death on certain causes of action.

102. Notwithstanding anything contained in section 306 of the Indian Succession Act, 1925, the death of a person in whose favour a certificate of insurance [1][* * * *] had been issued, if it occurs after the happening of an event which has given rise to a claim under the provisions of this Chapter, shall not be a bar to the survival of any cause of action arising out of the said event against his estate or against the insurer.

Effect of certificate of insurance.

103. When an insurer has issued a certificate of insurance in respect of a contract of insurance between the insurer and the insured person then—

(a) if and so long as the policy described in the certificate has not been issued by the insurer to the insured, the insurer shall, as between himself and any other person except the insured, be deemed to have issued to the insured person a policy of insurance conforming in all respects with the description and particulars stated in such certificate; and

(b) If the insurer has issued to the insured the policy described in the certificate, but the actual terms of the policy are less favourable to persons claiming under or by virtue of the policy against the insurer either directly or through the insured than the particulars of the policy as stated in the certificate, the policy shall, as between the insurer and any other person except the insured, be deemed to be in terms conforming in all respects with the particulars stated in the said certificate.

Duty to surrender certificate on cancellation of policy.

104. (1) Whenever the period of cover under a policy of insurance issued under the provisions of this Chapter is terminated or suspended by any means before its expiration by effluxion of time, the insured person shall within seven days, after such termination or suspension deliver to the insurer by whom the policy was issued the latest certificate of insurance given by the insurer in respect of the said policy, or, if the said certificate has been lost or destroyed make an affidavit to that effect.

(2) Whoever fails to surrender a certificate of insurance or to make an affidavit, as the case may be, in accordance with the provisions of this section shall be punishable with fine which may extend to fifteen rupees for every day that the offence continues subject to a maximum of five hundred rupees.

Duty of insurer to notify registering authority cancellation or suspension of the policy.

105. Whenever a policy of insurance issued under the provisions of this Chapter is cancelled or suspended by the insurer who has issued the policy, the insurer shall within seven days notify such cancellation or suspension to the registering authority in whose records the registration of the vehicle covered by the policy of insurance is recorded or to such other authority as the Provincial Government may prescribe.

Production of certificate of insurance.

106. (1) Any person driving a motor vehicle in any public place shall on being so required by a police officer in uniform [2][authorized in this behalf by the Provincial Government] produce the certificate of insurance relating to the use of the vehicle:

[Provided that if the driver of a motor vehicle within seven days from the date on which the production of the certificate of insurance was so required produces the certificate at such police station as may have been specified by him at the time its production was required, he shall not be liable to conviction under this sub-section by reason only of failure to produce the certificate to the police officer.] (Proviso omitted by Act XXVII of 1947.)

(2) If, where owing to the presence of a motor vehicle in a public place an accident occurs involving bodily injury to another person, the driver of the vehicle does not at the time produce the certificate of insurance to a police officer, he shall produce the certificate of insurance at the police station at which he makes the report required by section 89:

[Provided that no person shall be liable to conviction under this sub-section by reason only of failure to produce his certificate of insurance if within seven days from the occurrence of the accident he produces the certificate at such police station as may be specified by him to the police officer at the site of the accident or to the officer in charge of the police station at which he reported the accident.] (Proviso omitted by Act XXVII of 1947.)

[(2-A) No person shall be liable to conviction under sub-section (1) or sub-section (2) by reason only of the failure to produce the certificate of insurance if, within seven days from the date on which its production was required under sub-section (1) or, as the case may be, from the date of occurrence of the accident, he produces the certificate at such police station as may have been specified by him to the police officer who required its production or, as the case may be, to the police officer at the site of the accident or to the officer in charge of the police station at which he reported the accident:

Provided that, except to such extent, and with such modifications, as may be prescribed, the provisions of this sub-section shall not apply to a driver of a transport vehicle.] (Inserted by Act XXVII of 1947.)

(3) The owner of a motor vehicle shall give such information as he may be required by or on behalf of a police officer empowered in this behalf by the Provincial Government to give for the purpose of determining whether the vehicle was or was not being driven in contravention of section 94 and on any occasion when the driver was required under this section to produce his certificate of insurance.

(4) In this section the expression "produce his certificate of insurance" means produce for examination the relevant certificate of insurance or such other evidence as may be prescribed that the vehicle was not being driven in contravention of section 94.

Production of certificates of insurance on application for authority to use vehicle.

107. A Provincial Government may make rules requiring the owner of any motor vehicle when applying whether by payment of a tax or otherwise for authority to use the vehicle in a public place to produce such evidence as may be prescribed by those rules to the effect that either—

(a) on the date when the authority to use the vehicle comes into operation there will be in force the necessary policy of insurance in relation to the use of the vehicle by the applicant or by other persons on his order or with his permission, or (b) the vehicle is a vehicle to which section 94 does not apply.

Co-operative insurance.

(a) the society shall establish and maintain a fund of not less than twenty-five thousand rupees for the first fifty vehicles or fractional part thereof and pro rata for every additional vehicle in the possession of members of, [1][and insured with,] the society and the said fund shall be lodged in such custody as the Provincial Government may prescribe and shall not be available for meeting claims or other expenses except in the event of the winding up of the society;

[(b) the insurance business of the society shall, except to the extent permitted under clause (cc), be limited to transport vehicles owned by its members and its liability shall be limited as specified in sub-section (2) of section 95.] (Substituted by Act XXVII of 1947.)

(c) the society shall, if required by the Provincial Government, re-insure against claims above [1][such amount as may be specified by the Provincial Government];

[(cc) the society may, if permitted by the Provincial Government and subject to such conditions and limitations as may be imposed by it, accept reinsurances from other societies allowed to transact the business of an insurer under this section;] (Inserted by Act XXVII of 1947.)

(d) the provisions of this Chapter, in so far as they relate to the protection of third parties and to the issue and production of certificates, shall apply in respect of any insurance effected by the society;

(e) an independent authority not associated with the society shall be appointed by the Provincial Government to facilitate and assist in the settling of claims against the society;

(f) the society shall operate on an insurance basis, that is to say,—

(i) it shall levy its premiums in respect of a period not exceeding twelve months, during which period the insured shall be held covered in respect of all accidents arising, subject to the limits of liability specified in [1][* * * *] sub-section (2) of section 95;

(ii) it shall charge premiums estimated to be sufficient, having regard to the risks, to meet the capitalised value of all claims arising during the period of cover, together with an adequate charge for expenses attaching to the issue of policies and to the settlement of claims arising thereunder;

(g) the society shall furnish to the Superintendent of Insurance the returns required to be furnished by insurers under the provisions of the Insurance Act, 1938, and the Superintendent of Insurance may exercise in respect thereof any of the powers exercisable by him in respect of returns made to him under the said Act; and

[(h) the society shall, in respect of any business transacted by it of the nature referred to in clause (i) of the proviso to sub-section (1) of section 95, be deemed to be an insurer within the meaning of sub-section (1) of section 10 and sub-section (6) of section 13 of the Insurance Act, 1938 (V of 1938).] (Substituted by Act XXVII of 1947).

[(2) The provisions of the Insurance Act, 1938, relating to the winding up of insurance companies shall, to the exclusion of any other law inconsistent therewith and subject to such modifications as may be prescribed, apply to the winding up of a co-operative society allowed to transact the business of an insurer under this section as if it were an insurance company; but save as hereinbefore provided, the Insurance Act, 1938, shall not apply to any such society.] (Substituted by Act XXVII of 1947.)

LEG. REF. XXVII of 1947.

Duty to furnish particulars of vehicle involved in accident.

109. A registering authority or the officer in charge of a police station shall, if so required by a person who alleges that he is entitled to claim compensation in respect of an accident arising out of the use of a motor vehicle, or if so required by an insurer against whom a claim has been made in respect of any motor vehicle, furnish to that person or to that insurer, as the case may be, on payment of the prescribed fee any information at the disposal of the said authority or the said police officer relating to the identification marks and other particulars of the vehicle and the name and address of the person who was using the vehicle at the time of the accident or was injured by it.

Power to appoint persons to investigate and report on accidents.

110. A Provincial Government may, by notification in the official Gazette, appoint a person or a body of persons to investigate and report on accidents involving the death of or bodily injury to any person arising out of the use of motor vehicles and the extent to which their claims to compensation have been satisfied and to advise and assist such persons or their representatives in presenting their claims for compensation:

Provided that nothing in this section shall confer on any such person or body of person the right to adjudicate in any way on the liability of the insurer or on the amount of damages to be awarded except at the express desire of the insurer concerned.

Power to make rules.

111. (1) The Central Government may make rules for the purpose of carrying into effect the provisions of this Chapter.

(2) Without prejudice to the generality of the foregoing power, such rules may provide for—

(a) the forms to be used for the purposes of this Chapter;

(b) the making of applications for and the issue of certificates of insurance;

(c) the issue of duplicates to replace certificates of insurance [1][mutilated, defaced] lost or destroyed;

(d) the custody, production, cancellation and surrender of certificates of insurance;

(e) the records to be maintained by insurers of policies of insurance issued under this Chapter;

(f) the identification by certificates or otherwise of persons or vehicles exempted from the provisions of this chapter;

(g) the furnishing of information respecting policies of insurance by insurers;

(h) the carrying into effect of the provisions of section 108;

(i) adapting the provisions of this Chapter to vehicles brought into British India by persons making only a temporary stay therein by applying those provisions with prescribed modifications; and

(j) any other matter which is to be or may be prescribed.

CHAPTER IX.

OFFENCES, PENALITIES AND PROCEDURE.

General provision for punishment of offences.

112. Whoever contravenes any provision of this Act or of any rule made thereunder shall, if no other penalty is provided for the offence, be punishable with fine which may extend to twenty rupees, or, if having been previously convicted of any offence under this Act he is again convicted of an offence under this Act, with fine which may extend to one hundred rupees.

SEC. 112: CRIMES INCIDENT TO OPERATION. —Where the legislature has power to prohibit the operation of motor vehicles on the highways, the prohibition is generally enforced by providing for fines or other punishment to be imposed upon a violation of the regulations properly established. Laws regulating the use of automobiles are generally enforced, among other methods, by making it an offence to operate a motor vehicle faster than at designated rates of speed (sec. 115), or without complying with the registration laws, and by providing that whoever operates a motor vehicle while in an intoxicated condition shall be liable to punishment (sec. 117.) So also, if a person knows that an accident has occurred through his operation of an automobile, it shall amount to an offence if he leaves the place of accident without stopping and giving his name, residence, including street and house number, and operator's licence number to the injured party, or for a police officer (see sec. 88). As part of the penalty for violating the provisions of the statutes and ordinances regulating the speed and operation of auto- injured party, or to a police officer (see suspension of the right to run the machine for a given period (sec. 17). For absence of name-plate on the car only the owner can be convicted, not the person who from time to time may have the use of the car. 7 Pat.L. T. 542=97 I.C. 48=1926 P. 446. Separate sentences cannot be passed under sec. 5 of the Motor Vehicles Act (1914) and sec. 337 of the Indin Penal Code, for they are the same offences. 1931 M.W.N. 397. It is not sufficient to absolve drivers of motor vehicles from the consequences of rash driving merely to show that the person to whom or to whose property they have caused injury was himself negligent. 133 I.C. 601=1931 A.L.J. 770=1931 A. 708. Driver proved to have been under the influence of liquor—Collision as the result of rash driving—Separate offences—Separate conviction valid. 30 Bom.L.R. 636=1928 B. 231=112 I.C. 101. Reckless driving—Endorsement of particulars of conviction on the licence. See 5 Cr. R. 247. Sec. 5 of the old Act has not specified the definition of reckless and negligent driving. Where there is nothing to show that at the time complained of, the traffic on the road was such that the speed at which the accused was driving the motor vehicle can be considered to be either negligent or reckless, a conviction under sec. 5 cannot be sustained. 173 I.C. 860=1938 P. 268. An error of judgment alone is not sufficient to convict a man. There must be "criminal negligence" which means "gross or culpable neglect or failure to exercise reasonable and proper care". 59 C. 113=36 C.W.N. 246 (2)=1932 C. 461. The accused was driving on a wrong side of the road at a sharp corner entering into a thoroughfare of considerable traffic with the result that he came into collision with a motor bicycle, the side-car of which was damaged. It was due to the presence of mind of the person who was riding the motor bicycle that no further damage occurred. Held, that an offence under sec. 279, Penal Code, was committed. The offence of the accused was more serious than that contemplated by sec. 5 of Act VIII of 1914. That section refers to a person who is driving a car in a manner which would in ordinary circumstances be proper, but owing to the special condition of the road at the time he is riding on it, is improper. 84 I.C. 253=16 S.L.R. 147=26 Cr.L.J. 253=1921 Sind 97. The words in sec. 112 of the Motor Vehicles Act "convicted of any offence under this Act" mean only convicted of an offence under the present Act and does not include convictions under the old Act of 1914 and so the latter cannot be taken into consideration in fixing the fine payable. 16 Luck. 644=1941 O.W.N. 351=1941 Oudh 250. Where the registered owner of a motor lorry for private use suffers his driver to carry goods of another person for hire, he is guilty under R. 138 of the Motor Vehicles Rules which is punishable under sec. 112 of the Motor Vehicles Act. 52 L. W. 948=1941 M. 352=(1941) 1 M.L.J. 470.

SUMMONS UNDER THE ACT IS TO BE IN THE FORM PRESCRIBED UNDER SEC. 68, CR.P. CODE. —The procedure of issuing summonses by the Magisterial Courts purporting to charge motorists, owners or drivers of offences under the Act without giving the slightest particulars of the offence alleged is not justified by law. Sec. 68, Cr. P. Code, incorporates the form of summons, which is a statutory form, contained in Sch. 5 to the Code, which summons is to be issued to accused persons. 108 I.C. 230=26 A.L.J. 331=29 Cr.L.J. 357 =1928 A. 261. The practice of issuing summons under sec. 16 of the Motor Vehicles Act (1914) charging the accused merely with an offence under that section without indicating the nature of the charge against him, should be condemned. Where such a summons was issued to the accused and the case itself was taken up before the date fixed and the accused was not granted time to produce his defence, his conviction is not legal and is liable to be set aside. I.L.R. (1940) Lah. 678=1941 L. 114.

CHARGE, FORM OF.—Whewe the offence with which accused was charged was really one under sec. 5 of the Act of 1914, but the charge mentioned secs. 16 and 17 and fully stated the facts and the offence he was alleged to have committed, held, that as the accused knew the charge he had to meet, the mistake in the number of the sections could not be said to have prejudiced the accused, 59 C. 113=36 C.W.N. 246 (2)=1932 C. 461. Prosecutions for motoring offences should be lodged promptly; otherwise the motorist may be unable to recollect as to what happened and to give his own explanation. 1939 A. M.L.J. 94.

EVIDENCE AND PROOF.—See (1942) 2 M.L. J. 629 cited under sec. 78. The Courts will take judicial notice of facts which are commonly and generally known with reference to automobi es, such as the fact that their use as vehicles for travelling is comparatively recent, that they make an unusual noise, and can be and usually are made to travel on public highways at a speed many times greater than that of ordinary vehicles drawn by animals, and that many of them can be operated at the rate of at least forty miles an hour. Certain facts concerning automobiles will be presumed in the absence of evidence to the contrary. Thus a person using a public highway with his automobile will be presumed to have registered and to have obtained a licence for his machine. Certain other facts must be directly proved, such as negligence on the part of a person opearting an automobile, and the burden of proof is on the person alleging that he has sustained an injury from such negligence. Sin e it is not negligence per se to use an automobile on a public highway, and since damage alone will never support an action for negligence, there is no presumption as to the negligence of a driver of an automobile arising from the mere fact that while it was being operated on a public street it collided with another vehicle or a pedestrian, and proof of such fact alone does not make out a prima facie case of negligence. The common law rule in this respect may be chaned by statute, which may expressly provide that where any person suffers loss or damage by reason of a motor vehicle on a highway, the burden of proof shall be on the owner or driver.

BURDEN OF PROOF.—Apart from express statutory provision, a plaintiff claiming damages for personal injury in a running down case wou'd have to prove that he was injured, that h's injury was due to the defendant's fault and the fact and extent of his loss and damage; hence unless he succeeds in establishing all these matters, he must fail. It may be by virtue of a statute, he need only establish the first and the third elements, i.e., that he was injured by the defendant and the extent of his damages. If he establishes those two matters, the onus is removed from him and it is then for the defendant to establish to the reasonable satisfaction of the Court or jury, that the loss, damage or injury did not arise through the negligence or improper conduct of himself or his servants. This the defendant may do in various ways, as for instance by satisfactory proof of a latent defect, or by proof that the plaintiff was the author of his own injury; or by proof that the circumstances were such that neither party was to blame because neither party could avoid the other. But the onus placed on the defendant is not in law a shifting or transitory onus. It remains on the defendant until the very end of the case when the question m st be determined whether or not the defendant has sufficiently shown that he did not in fact cause the accident by his negligence. If, on the whole of the evidence, the defendant establishes this to the satisfaction of the jury, he will be entitled to judgment; if however the issue is left in doubt or the evidence is balanced, even then defendant will be held liable in virtue of the statutory onus, whereas in that event but for the statute the plaintiff would fail, because but for the statute the onus would be on him. A fortiori the defendant will be held liable, if the evidence actually establishes his negligence. 1932 A.C. 690=139 I.C. 663= 1932 P.C. 246 (P.C.) (Case under Manitoba Motor Vehicles Act). See also (1942) 2 M.L.J. 629=1943 Mad. 61.

SENTENCE.—It is inequitable to exact from a person the enhanced fine under sec. 112 unless he has suffered a first conviction and after that conviction he has again offended. 44 P.L.R. 101=A.I.R. 1942 Lah. 125.

BOMBAY MOTOR VEHICLES RULES (1940), R. 93 (2) AND (4).—Sub-r. (2) of r. 93 of the Bombay Motor Vehicles Rules lays down unconditionally the number of persons that may be carried in a goods vehicle; this provision applies not only when the goods vehicle is loaded with goods but also even when it does not happen to carry any goods. This is clear from sub-r. (4) which contemplates a goods vehicle being used for carrying persons when it is not loaded with goods at all. Where the driver of a motor lorry used as a goods vehicle carries more than six persons in it without a permit though the vehicle is not loaded with goods at the time, he is guilty of a breach of r. 93 (2) of the Bombay Motor Vehicles Rules, and is liable to conviction under sec. 112. 44 Bom.L.R. 225=A.I.R. 1942 Bom. 184.

MADRAS MOTOR VEHICLES RULES, R. 138. —Where the registered owner of a motor lorry for private use suffers his driver to carry goods of another person for hire, he is unquestionably guilty of an offence under r. 138 of the Motor Venhicles Rules which is punishable under sec. 112 of the Act. 52 L.W. 948=A.I.R. 1941 Mad. 352= (1941) 1 M.L.J. 470.

AND U. P. MOTOR VEHICLES RULES (1940), Rr. 2 (g) AND 79 (viii).—R. 2 (g) of the Motor Vehicles Rules merely means that the word 'Magistrate' means a stipendiary Magistrate where this word is used in the rules. The mere fact that a person was Disobedience of orders, obstruction and refusal of information.

113. Whoever wilfully disobeys any direction lawfully given by any person or authority empowered under this Act to give such direction, or obstructs any person or authority in the discharge of any functions which such person or authority is required or empowered under this Act to discharge, or, being required by or under this Act to supply any information, withholds such information or gives information which he knows to be false or which he does not believe to be true, shall, if no other penalty is provided for the offence, be punishable with fine which may extend to two hundred rupees.

Offences relating to licences.

114. Whoever, being disqualified under this Act for holding or obtaining a licence, drives a motor vehicle in a public place or applies for or obtains a licence or, not being entitled to have a licence issued to him free of endorsement, applies for or obtains a licence without disclosing the endorsements made on a licence previously held by him or, being disqualified under this Act for holding or obtaining a licence, uses in British India a licence such as is referred to in sub-section (2) of section 9, shall be punishable with imprisonment for a term which may extend to three months, or with fine which may extend to two hundred and fifty rupees, or with both, and any licence so obtained by him shall be of no effect.

Driving at excessive speed.

115. (Cf. Eng. Act, section 11.) (1) Whoever drives a motor vehicle in contravention of section 71 shall be punishable with fine which may extend to one hundred rupees.

(2) Whoever causes any person who is employed by him or is subject to his control in driving to drive a motor vehicle in contravention of section 71 shall be punishable with fine which may extend to two hundred rupees.

charged with certain acts made offences by r. 79 (viii) is no reason for holding that the Magistrate trying the case must be such a Magistrate as is defined in the rules and that an Honorary Special 'Magistrate' is incompetent to try it. 1941 O.W.N. 193 (1) =A.I.R. 1941 Oudh 266.

SEC. 115: SELECT COMMITTEE REPORT.—(Old cl. 115).—We have omitted this clause penalising careless driving. We consider its terms too wide and we regard as misguided the attempt to instil road-courtesy by coercion.

[See notes under sec. 71, supra.] While a speed of eighteen or twenty miles an hour in a sparsely settled portion of a city may not be negligence, and a motorman may assume that automobiles preceding him and travelling in the same direction will not pass on to the tracks without precautions to ascertain whether a car is approaching, yet similar conduct in a densely populated and busy portion of a city would be indefensible.

HOMICIDE.—One who wilfully or negligently drives automobile on a public street at a prohibited rate of speed or in a manner expressly forbidden by statute, and thereby causes the death of another, may be guilty of homicide; and this is true although the person who is recklessly driving the machine uses, as soon as he sees a pedestrian in danger, every effort to avoid injuring him, provided that the operator's prior recklessness was responsible for his inability to control the car and prevent the accident which resulted in the death of the pedestrian. With reference to the responsibility for a homicide so caused, it may be stated that the owner of an automobile, who is in occupation thereof at the time of a collision, is not responsible criminally where it is operated by a driver over whom he has only general control, and where he could have done nothing to prevent collision. (Ame. Jul. Case-law).

EVIDENCE OF SPEED.—An adult person of reasonable intelligence and ordinary experience in life is presumed to be capable, without proof of further qualification, to express an opinion as to how fast an automobile which came under his observation was going at a particular time, and the Courts have liberally admitted as evidence of speed the opinions of witnesses who actually saw the machine in motion at the time in question; and the force of such evidence does not appear materially to be weakened by vague expressions such as that the automobile was "going like an express train" or that it went "very fast" the rate there after being "estimated as being twenty-five or thirty miles an hour". (Ame. Jul. Case-law.) When the speed of a motor vehicle is described by such general expressions as that it went a good deal faster than a horse trot", it went "pretty fast",—it has been decided that excessive speed is not proved, especially where the machine in question actually ran but little more than its length after striking a pedestrian. (Ibid.)

(3) No person shall be convicted of an offence punishable under sub-section (1) solely on the evidence of one witness to the effect that in the opinion of the witness such person was driving at a speed which was unlawful, unless that opinion is shown to be based on an estimate obtained by the use of some mechanical timing device.

(4) The publication of a time table under which, or the giving of any direction that, any journey or part of a journey is to be completed within a specified time shall, if in the opinion of the Court it is not practicable in the circumstances of the case for that journey or part of a journey to be completed in the specified time without infringing the provisions of section 71, be prima facie evidence that the person who published the time table or gave the direction has committed an offence punishable under sub-section (2).

Motor Vehicles Act, 1914, and possible suspension of the licence under sec. 18. The offence is one which should be penalised heavily and be accompanied by disqualification (suspension of licence). This has been provided for in sec. 17 (5). It has also been made cognisable, but the proviso has been added to sec. 128 to prevent undue detention of an accused person in custody". (Statement of Objects and Reasons.)

SELECT COMMITTEE REPORT.—"We have extended the scope of the clause by omitting the words 'in a public place'. We consider that dangerous driving anywhere should be punishable. We have also omitted the word 'recklessly', with the intention of confining the clause to the clear case where danger is or is likely to be caused to the public. We have provided here and in other offences where an enhanced penalty is provided for a subsequent conviction that that conviction must be within three years of a previous conviction".

RECKLESS DRIVING—FACTS TO BE PROVED. —Sec. 5 of the old Motor Vehicles Act, 1914, has not specified the definition of reckless and negligent driving. Where there is nothing to show that at the time complained of, the traffic on the road was such that the speed at which the accused was driving the motor vehicle can be considered to be either negligent or reckless, a conviction cannot be sustained. 173 I.C. 860 =39 Cr.L.J. 382=A.I.R. 1938 Pat. 268.

OFFENCE UNDER SEC. 5 OF THE ACT OF 1914 AND OFFENCE UNDER SEC. 279, I. P. CODE—DISTINCTION BETWEEN.—Per Baguley, J.—Sec. 5, Motor Vehicles Act (1914), deals with reckless driving dangerous to the public having regard to all the circumstances of the case. Sec. 279, Penal Code, refers to driving in a manner so rash or negligent as to endanger human life or to be likely to cause hurt or injury to any other person. The difference between these two sections seems to be this. A man may drive a motor vehicle in a manner dangerous to the public, even if there is no person actually on the spot to be endangered, the public being regarded as some kind of an all-pervading presence which may reasonably be expected to be at the place at the time. For instance, if a man drives out of a side-road and dashes across a main road into another side-road at sixty miles an hour he may not endanger any person at all because there happened at the moment to be nobody there to be endangered, but he is certainly driving in a manner 'dangerous to the public' having regard to the amount of traffic which may reasonably be expected to be there. Still his offence cannot come under sec. 279, Penal Code, because there is not "any other person" who is likely to be hurt. For an offence under sec. 279, Penal Code, there must definitely be some other person to be endangered. So, if in driving across the main road in this manner some passer-by only saves his life by a wild leap to safety, then the driver of the vehicle is driving in a manner so rash and negligent as at least to be likely to cause hurt to that person who only saved his life by his agility, and an offence under sec. 279, Penal Code, has been committed. 175 I.C. 639=39 Cr.L.J. 642=A.I.R. 1938 Rang. 161.

ARREST OF OFFENDER—LEGALITY.—For the commission of an offence under the Motor Vehicles Act a person cannot be arrested. The power of arrest given under sec. 57, Cr. P. Code, will also be of no avail unless and until such offender fails to give his correct name and address. A. I.R. 1938 Rang. 161.

SECS. 116 AND 117: RECKLESS AND DANGEROUS DRIVING — ILLUSTRATIVE CASES UNDER THE OLD ACT.—Driving an automobile along a thickly populated city at a speed in excess of that permitted by law is usually sufficient evidence of negligence when the action is against the operator of an automobile for damages sustained in a collision with the machine. While running at night an automobile should carry proper lights, so that others may see it, and to enable its operator, in connection with such time or which might reasonably be expected to be in the place, shall be punishable on a first conviction for the offence with imprisonment for a term which may extend to six months, or with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees, and for a subsequent offence if committed within three years of the commission of a previous similar offence with imprisonment for a term which may extend to two years, or with fine which may extend to one thousand rupees, or with both.

other means of illumination as may be available, to see far enough ahead to do whatever ordinary care may demand in order to avoid a collision with any other vehicle. The statutes require the display of lights on automobiles. Running at night without proper lights, in violation of the statutory requirements, is evidence of negligence, and such disregard of the safety of others may, independently of the provisions of any statute, amount to negligence at common law. Since it is the duty of the operator of an automobile to give reasonable warning of his approach, his silent approach behind a horse-drawn vehicle and failure to sound his horn may amount to negligence, but the blowing of a horn or whistle, or the ringing of a bell or gong without any attempt to moderate the speed, will not be a sufficient compliance with the duty of care imposed upon the operators of automobiles if the circumstances demand that the speed should be slackened or the machine stopped, and if such a course is practicable. Noises which are incident to the normal operation of motor vehicles are not themselves evidence of negligence, and if a horse is frightened by ordinary noises such as are usually made when an automobile is propelled at the legal speed, there ordinarily can be no recovery for injuries which may result. Apart from the provisions of any statute it seems to be the duty of the operator of an automobile, when he begins to "crank up" a noisy machine, to keep a watchful eye on horses standing near by, and if they manifest symptoms of fright, to stop at once until they can be removed. Automobiles, in the absence of any special statutory directions are governed by the same rules of the road as apply to the management of other vehicles using the highway. By these rules, it is the duty of a traveller to avoid collision with those whom he meets and to yield way enough for others to pass in safety. A driver disregarding the rules of the road and choosing to go on the wrong side of the street on account of an obstruction on the other side, is bound to exercise greater care to avoid accident than is normally required of one proceeding on the right side of the street. The mere fact of deviating from the line of traffic does not necessarily amount to rashly or negligently or recklessly or dangerously driving. 28 Bom L.R. 1066=97 I.C. 973=1926 B. 564. See also 173 I.C. 860=1938 P. 268. The law or usage of the road is not the criterion of negligence. The test is whether the accident could have been avoided by the accused if he had exercised that care and diligence which ordinarily cautious persons using the road in similar circumstances would have done. 30 N.L.R. 317=148 I.C. 341=35 Cr.L.J. 696=1934 N. 65. The person in charge of the car, though he may not be the owner, to whose orders the driver is in fact submitting at the time of the accident, or immediately thereafter is amenable to this section. 108 I.C. 230=26 A.L.J. 331=29 Cr.L.J. 357=1928 A. 261. Where there was no evidence to show that the driver of a motor vehicle knew that an accident had as a matter of fact taken place or had reason to so believe, his failure to stop his vehicle cannot amount to an offence. 1938 P. 268. Where two automobiles are travelling in the same direction, the one ahead has the superior right and may maintain its position in the centre of the highway, if there is sufficient space on its left to enable the machine approaching from its rear safely and conveniently to pass. If there is not room for passage then it must, upon request or equivalent notice, if practicable and safe, turn aside so as to leave sufficient room, and if at the moment this is not possible, it becomes the duty of the rear car to wait until a place is reached where it may be done. Two cars were going under 15 miles per hour along the road from South to North, and while another car came in the opposite direction from North to South, G's baby car, passed the two cars going towards the North. G was going about 25 miles per hour. The road was at the place 40 to 50 feet wide and would give ample room for 4 cars to pass abreast with any amount of room to spare. There was no traffic of any kind on the road at the time except the 4 cars. G was not shown to be over the wrong side of the road. Held, that there would be ample room for a very small car like that of G to pass without trenching on the right hand side of the road. Even if he did go slightly over the middle line the car coming in the opposite direction had 20 feet in which to swing to its left. G's driving could not therefore be assumed to be reckless or negligent; an estimate speed of 25 mile per hour could not be regarded as anything out of the ordinary, on that road. 115 I.C. 900=30 Cr.L.J. 539=1929 R. 14. A motor driver is bound not to drive in a manner which would be dangerous to the public. In determining whether the manner of driving was dangerous to the public or not regard must be had to all the circumstances of the case and the amount of traffic which actually was at the time in the place. 97 I.C. 973=28 Bom L.R. 1066=27 Cr.L.J. 1213=1926 Bom. 564. per side of the road and where he ought to have drawn in behind the water-cart passing in the same direction as the accused and not have attempted to force his way past it in front of the coming car, held, that such conduct on the part of the accused came within the purview of old sec. 5 and that the conviction was proper. 23 A.L.J. 790=26 Cr.L.J. 1254=1925 A. 798. Since an automobile is not inherently a dangerous machine, in the absence of statute the law does not impose on the owner or operator of an automobile the duty of chaining it to a post or otherwise fastening it so as to make it impossible for persons tampering with the machine to start it; but statutes and rules generally provide that every motor vehicle shall be equipped with a lock, key or other device to prevent it from being set in motion by unauthorised persons while standing unattended in any highway, park or other public place. Apart from the requiremet of rules of this character it is not negligence to leave an automobile unattended for a reasonable time in the street, after disconnecting the power from the batteries and setting the brakes.

ACTS UNDER STRESS OF SUDDEN DANGER.—The general principles which require one to act in such a manner as to avoid injury to himself or others, and to take those steps to avoid accidents which would be taken by a reasnoably prudent person under like circumstances, are not enforced in all their rigour in situations of sudden danger This is in recognition of the fallibility of human nature in sudden crises and the greater probability of errors of judgment occurring where a danger is imminent, and where a person is compelled instantly, without delaying for deliberation, to adopt some course of conduct to avoid injury. The frequent use of automobiles on public highways continually gives rise to situations which involve sudden danger, where one or more persons, without an instant's delay, must determine on and adopt a mode of proceeding which will minimize the chance of collision and injury to themselves and others. Frequently a pedestrian may be compelled to act quickly when he suddenly sees an automobile approaching, and if he decides that he has sufficient time to escape in a given direction he will not necessarily be held to be guilty of contributory negligence, although his judgment is shown to have been erroneous and in consequence he is run down and injured. But where a pedestrian delibertely attempts to cross in front of an approaching car, knowing that his chances of getting over to the other side in safety are about evenly balanced he may be charged with having assumed the risk of injury and may be guilty of contributory negligence. However, the driver of an automobile may be found to be negligent in turning from side to side, instead of stopping the machine to avoid hitting a pedestrian, who, warned by a signal of the approach of the car, has become confused and is dodging back and forth to avoid being hit, and the pedestrian will not necessarily be charged with contributory negligence (Ame. Rul. Case-law.) sive use cannot be lawfully granted, even temporarily, by a municipality to any individual or association for the purpose of holding races and speed contests. Such a use of the roads and streets of a community amounts to a nuisance at common law, and the operation on them of motor vehicles travelling at dangerous speeds is illegal, and constitutes gross negligence as to any person who may be injured. Such a use of the public highways cannot be justified by the passage of an ordinance by the local authorities, and where a state law has fixed a maximum rate of speed for motor vehicles which is necessarily exceeded in the races, the ordinance itself is wholly void, and may operate to make the municipality a participator in the violation of the law, so that it may become liable in damages for injuries which persons may sustain during the races. act a fine from all the owners separately. 44 P.L.R. 101=1942 Lah. 125.

The driving of a transport vehicle on the public road without a licence or permit authorising the use of that vehicle in that place contravenes sec. 42 (1) of the Act; and whoever drives such a vehicle in a public place without such a permit is punishable under sec. 123 (1) of the Act. That the permit is to be obtained by the owner makes no difference and a driver cannot escape liability for such driving on that ground. 54 L.W. 480=1941 Mad. 845=(1941) 2 M.L.J. 349.

The sanctioned carrying capacity of a vehicle is determined under the rules framed under sec. 68 of the Act and the responsibility of exceeding it exclusively belongs to the conductor; under Rr. 218 and 219, this duty devolves on the driver only in the absence of the conductor. In the case of a driver of a vehicle who holds a permit in Form P. S. P., which contains no express condition for the use of the vehicle that its seating capacity shall not be exceeded, overloading is not a breach of the conditions of the permit punishable under sec. 123 (1) read with sec. 42 (1) of the Act, and the driver cannot therefore be convicted when there is a conductor on the vehicle. 56 L.W. 72=(1943) M.W.N. 60 (2)=1943 Mad. 283 =(1943) 1 M.L.J. 130. See also 55 L.W. 216=1942 M.W.N. 223=1941 M. 845=(1941) 2 M.L.J. 349.

Sec. 42 (1) applies only to the owners of transport vehicles but sec. 123 applies to any one who drives a motor vehicle or causes or allows a motor vehicle to be used in contravention of the provisions of sec. 42 (1). Sec. 123 is clearly much wider than sec. 42 (1) and a person who is responsible for charging increased fares commits an offence under sec. 123 (1), even though he is not the owner of the vehicle in question. SEC. 124: SELECT COMMITTEE REPORT.—"The alterations made are partly consequential on the changes made by us in sec. 72. A reference to sec 74 has been inserted."

USE OF BRIDGES BY HEAVY MOTOR VEHICLES.—As a general rule, bridges are constructed for ordinary use in an ordinary manner, and not for an unusual or extraordinary use, either by crossing at great speed, or by the passing of vehicles of unusual weight, and the duty imposed on public authorities to keep the local bridges in repair is properly performed by keeping a bridge in a reasonably safe condition for travel by the ordinary methods in vogue in the neighbourhood, and by the people who commonly use the bridge. (Ame. Rule, Case-law). A person undertaking to use or travel upon a bridge in an unusual or extraordinary manner, or with a traction engine or a very heavy vehicle not suitable or adapted for the public use in the transaction of usual and ordinary affairs of business, takes every possible risk of loss and damage upon himself; and he can have no remedy for injuries sustained, although they are the direct result of defects and imperfections for which there would be a liability in case of injury to individuals in the lawful and proper use of the highway. (Ibid., 1171.) The proper test is not whether a traction engine or motor vehicle was of greater weight, and more dangerous, than ordinary wagons and teams, but whether the bridge was at the time being put to an unusual use and method of travel involving extraordinary peril, or whether the circumstances were such that a person of ordinary prudence, in the exercise of ordinary care in the situation, would reasonably apprehend and anticipate that it would be dangerous to go in such manner upon the bridge. Surely, no man would be justified in driving a heavily laden motor bus over a temporary crude bridge on a small stream made by villagers for the easy passage of workmen engaged in normal agricultural operations.

RIGHT TO USE STEAM ROLLERS ON HIGHWAYS.—A municipality or a contractor acting under its authority may lawfully use steam rollers or other machines operated by steam, for the purpose of constructing or repairing streets and roads. Certain noises normally accompany the operation of a steam roller, and these do not of themselves constitute a nuisance on negligence, and, generally, there can be no recovery against a municipality for frightening a horse to death by negligently starting a roller and suddenly blowing off steam and smoke, since a claim for death from fright is generally considered as being too speculative and too remote to furnish the basis of an action for damages in the absence of any direct injury. (2 Ame. Rule, Case-law, 1170). However, if the engineer of a steam roller sees the initial signs of fright and uneasiness in a horse, and, giving no heed to them, continues the blowing of the whistle and the original cause of the fright until the horse breaks entirely away from control, liability for consequential injuries may ensue although the noises were usual and normal. LEG. REF.

[1] Inserted by Act XX of 1942.

SEC. 130.—This provides for speedy action in technical prosecutions. (Statement of Objects and Reasons.)

REPORT OF SELECT COMMITTEE.—"The new sub-clause inserted as sub-clause (2) is intended to secure the presentation of the driving licence to enable the Court to record the endorsement which is required by the Fifth Schedule and cl. 19 (2), althoughgh the convicted person is not himself required to attend Court."

SEC. 131.—"This provision is reasonable in the interest of the motorist, to prevent

(a) he was warned at the time the offence was committed that the question of prosecuting him would be taken into consideration, or

(b) within fourteen days from the commission of the offence, a notice specifying the nature of the offence and the time and place where it is alleged to have been committed was served on or sent by registered post to him or the person registered as the owner of the vehicle at the time of the commission of the offence, or

(c) within twenty-eight days of the commission of the offence, a summons for the offence was served on him:

Provided that nothing in this section shall apply where the Court is satisfied that—

(a) the failure to serve the notice or summons referred to in this subsection was due to the fact that neither the name and address of the accused nor the name and address of the registered owner of the vehicle could with reasonable diligence have been ascertained in time, or (b) such failure was brought about by the conduct of the accused.

Jurisdiction of Courts.

132. No Court inferior to that of a Presidency Magistrate or a Magistrate of the second class shall try any offence punishable under this Act or any rule made thereunder.

CHAPTER X.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Publication of and commencement of rules.

133. (1) Every power to make rules given by this Act is subject to the condition of the rules being made after previous publication.

(2) All rules made under this Act shall be published in the official Gazette and shall, unless some later date is appointed, come into force on the date of such publication.

(3) All rules made under this Act by the Central Government or by any Provincial Government shall be laid for not less than fourteen days before the Central or Provincial Legislature, as the case may be, as soon as possible after they are made, and shall be subject to such modifications as the Legislature may make during the session in which they are so laid.

him from being charged, after an unduly lenghty period, in connection with an alleged offence the circumstances of which may no longer be easily remembered." (Statement of Objects and Reasons.)

REPORT OF SELECT COMMITTEE.—"We have omitted the sub-clause which provided for a presumption that the provisions of the clause had been complied with until the contrary was proved."

SEC. 133 (3): SELECT COMMITTEE REPORT.—"We have added a sub-clause requiring rules made under the Act to be submitted to the Legislature concerned after they are made and have given to the Legislature power to modify them." See Notes under sec. 112.

SEC. 133: CASES UNDER THE OLD ACT.—See 47 I.C. 444=27 P.R. (Cr.) 1918; 53 I.C. 825=10 L.W. 399. In respect of a motor cycle, if a breach of R. 40 of the rules framed under the Act is alleged, the cycle should, if possible, be examined by a police officer with some knowledge of motor cycles, to see whether the silencer was defective. Irrespective of the fact whether the rider is the owner of the motor cycle or not, it is an offence to ride a motor vehicle without a silencer. 1939 A.M.L.J. 94. Before the new rules under the Motor Vehicles Act, 1939, came into operation, the old rules must be read subject to the provisions of the Act of 1939 after that Act has come into force. Under Rr. 4 (4) and 6 (2) of the Motor Vehicles Rules of 1930 read in the light of ss. 31 and 34 of the Act of 1939, a motor vehicle must be registered afresh when its ownership is transferred, unless the vehicle in question has been destroyed or has become permanently incapable of use. The mere fact that it was not in use at the time when the ownership changed in not enough. 45 C.W.N. 111. (a)—Non-lighting of car—Absent owner. 26 M.L.T. 331=53 I.C. 825. See also 1922 Nag. 71. Sec. 16, Motor Vehicles Act (1914), has not any necessary ingredient of rashness or negligence in it and R. 27, Motor Act Rules, merely lays down the rule of the road, breach of which need not necessarily involve rashness or negligence. Consequently where rashness or negligence enters into the offence, the conviction under sec. 279, I. P. Code, is not only proper but more appropriate. 136 I.C. 571=1932 A. 69. The fact that an unlicensed person was charged with driving a motor car without a licence and pleaded guilty to that charge is not sufficient to justify a Court in convicting the motor driver of having allowed him to drive, where he was not specifically charged with that offence under Motor Vehicles Act. 119 I.C. 536=30 Cr.L.J. 1077=1930 Sind 64. Where the owner of a motor car was sentenced to a fine on his pleader admitting him to be "guilty" for not having given information as to the death of a person by motor accident; held, (1) that there was no such offence as that for which the owner was convicted either under sec. 16 (old Act) or under any other provision of the Act; (2) that the summons issued by the Magistrate did not contain the necessary particulars and was invalid in law and consequently need not have been obeyed; (3) that the admission as to guilt by the pleader did not constitute an estoppel or admission preventing the person proceeded against from impugning the validity of the proceedings; (4) that the practice of persons summoned absenting themselves and pleading "guilty" deserved condemnation, and would really go in aggravation of an offence. Essentials of a valid summons pointed out. 26 A.L.J. 331=108 I.C. 230=1928 A. 261. Omission in a summons to specify the sections of the Act, or rules made thereunder for breach of which a person was being prosecuted is a serious defect. 1928 A. 492 =50 A. 876=111 I.C. 127=29 Cr.L.J. 799. (Case-law discussed.) See also 13 Luck. 437 =1937 O.W.N. 815=170 I.C. 476=1937 Oudh 444; 1937 O.W.N. 283=13 Luck. 126 =166 I.C. 978. Sec. 16 (old Act) is a penal clause, and it is the duty of a Court issuing a summons to specify in it what particular rules the accused had contravened. The procedure of issuing summonses by Magistrates purporting to charge motorists, owners or drivers of offences under the Act, without giving the slightest particulars of the offence charged, is not justified by law. A summons not in the prescribed form may be disregarded, and proceedings thereon will be invalid. 150 I.C. 941=35 Cr.L.J. 1161 (2) =11 O.W.N. 828=1934 Oudh 370 (2). Where the accused was hauled before the Court on a summons under sec. 16 (old Act) in which he was not given notice of the charge, and was tried, convicted and sentenced in one day without an opportunity being given to him of meeting the prosecution case after the close of the prosecution evidence, the conviction and sentence are liable to be set aside in revision. I.L.R. (1937) All. 130=165 I.C. 716 (1)=1936 A.W.R. 874=1936 A.L.J. 1011=1936 A. 761. The "B" permit granted to the driver is only valid within the district of the Superintendent of Police and if it is driven into another district, it must be countersigned by the Superintendent of the latter district. 151 I.C. 727=35 Cr.L.J. 1400=36 Bom.L. R. 366=1934 B. 201. As to power of municipalities to tax motor vehicles plying for hire, see 88 I.C. 1045=41 C.L.J. 566=26 Cr.L.J. 1269=1925 C. 1026. Suspension of a permit for an offence of overloading a motor cannot be permitted. 110 I.C. 803 =29 Cr.L.J. 771=10 P.L.T. 429=1929 P. 64. Taking petrol charges from a person who uses the accused's motor lorry does not amount to hiring. The mere payment to the accused of the cost of petrol used while his lorry is at the disposal of the person so paying such charges is not payment for the use of the lorry. It is equivalent to mere replacement in the petrol tank of the petrol used. The accused therefore cannot be convicted of an offence of plying his lorry for hire, though he had no G Permit. 41 L.W. 498=1935 M. 577=68 M.L.J. 481. See also I.L.R. (1939) Kar. 391=A.I.R. 1939 Sind 85; 1938 Mad. 233=46 L.W. 959=1938 M. W.N. 30. "Plying for hire" means the act of soliciting custom. Where a person who owned a motor lorry purchased goods at one place and after transporting them to another place sold the goods there to their customers but it did not appear that he solicited custom at any time, the owner of the lorry was not liable to be convicted for breach of the Punjab Motor Vehicles Plying for Hire Rules. 132 I.C. 702=1931 L. 569. See also 1939 Sind 85. The expression "to ply for hire" ordinarily means to exhibit a vehicle in such a way as to invite those who may desire to do so to hire it or to travel in it on payment of the usual fares, and also to offer its use on payment to any member of the public, thereby soliciting custom. The owner of a bus driving it on a private errand cannot therefore be said to have been using it as a motor vehicle plying for hire. 32 Bom.L.R. 337=1930 B. 161; 116 I.C. 885= 30 Cr.L.J. 700=10 L. 505=1929 L. 422. The owner of a lorry plying for hire without a renewal of registration or permit and without any directions painted on the body was charged and convicted under sec. 16, Motor Vehicles Act. The rules alleged to have been contravened were rules 78, 79 and 81, U. P. Motor Rules, and sec. 8 of the Motor Vehicles Act. The judgment did not contain a discussion of the Rules, and it appeared from the judgment that the Magistrate had got confused with R. 16 and sec. 16 of the Act, and that the case proceeded as though the accused was being charged with having contravened R. 16 of the U. P. Motor Rules. The summons merely informed the accused that he had to appear and answer to a charge under sec. 16 of the Act. Held, the proceedings were invalid and must be set aside. 150 I.C. 941 =35 Cr.L.J. 1161 (2)=11 O.W.N. 828= 1934 Oudh 370. Driver stopping motor bus in front of a hotel to pick up pasengers from there, is "loitering" on the road and makes the driver guilty of an offence under R. 220 of the Rules. (1945) 2 M.L.J. 574=1946 M. 175.

BOMBAY RULES.—R. 21 of the Bombay Motor Vehicles Rules framed by the Local Government under sec. 11 of the Motor Vehicles Act (1914) is not ultra vires of the Local Government. A notification issued by a District Magistrate under R. 21, prohibiting the driving on certain roads of the District of, inter alia, any motor vehicle, public or private, the maximum weight of goods in which exceeds one and a half tons is a valid notification and a breach of it amounts to an offence. I.L.R. (1939) B. 19. 40 Bom.L.R. 1099=1938 Bom. 506.

BURMA RULES.—Burma Motor Vehicles Rules—R. 24 (b)—Conductor, if in charge of the bus—Over loading—Who is to be charged. See 1942 Rang. 51 (2).

CALCUTTA RULES.—Absent master is not criminally liable for fast driving where he had cautioned the driver not to exceed the regulation speed and to drive with due care and caution. 51 C. 948=28 C.W.N. 854=25 Cr.L.J. 1209=1924 C. 985. See also 25 C.W.N. 21=1921 C. 107. Before the new rules under the Motor Vehicles Act, 1939, came into into operation, the old rules must be read subject to the provisions of the Act of 1939 after that Act has come into force. Under Rr. 4 (4) and 6 (2) of the Motor Vehicles Rules of 1930 read in the light of secs. 31 and 34 of the Act of 1939, a Motor Vehicle must be registered afresh when its ownership is transferred, unless the Vehicle in question has been destroyed or has become permanently incapable of use. The mere fact that it was not in use at the time when the ownership changed is not enough. 45 C. W. 111.

C. P. RULES.—The rules framed by the Governor-in-Council, Central Provinces, under the Motor Vehicles Act, do not pro prio vigore apply to the subject of any State. They become applicable by virtue of a reciprocity arrangement concluded in 1930 with the Central Provinces States. 1939 N.L.J. 355.

(C. P. AND BERAR, R. 70—STANDARD RATE OF FARES — VARIATION — SANCTION.—A variation in the standard rate of fares originally quoted and accepted by the R.T.A. requiries the sanction of the R.T.A. A variation of the rate is a variation of a condition under R. 70 of the C. P. and Berar Motor Vehicles Rules, 1940. A refusal to sanction an application under R. 70, Motor Vehicles Rules, for a subsequent variation of conditions of a permit does not amount to such imposition of conditions of a permit as would afford grounds for an appeal. 1943 N.L.J. 411.

MADRAS RULES.—Though R. 30 (a) may be primarily intended to apply to motor vehicles which are used for the express purpose of letting for hire, yet even if a motor vehicle is used only once for such a purpose, then on that one occasion it is none the less let for hire even though the owner does not ordinarily use his lorry for the purposes of reward. The not taking out of a 'G' permit in such a case constitutes an offence under sec. 16 of the old Act. 46 L.W. 959 =1938 M.W.N. 30=1938 M. 233. See also 1939 Sind 85. If a driver of a motor bus stops the bus in front of a hotel so that he may pick up some passengers from the hotel, it would amount to "loitering" on the road, and make the driver guilty of offence under R. 220 of the Motor Vehicles Rules. (1945) 2 M.L.J. 574. In a prosecution of the owner of a motor lorry under sec. 16 of the old Act for overloading the lorry in contravention of R. 15-A, of the Motor Vehicle Rules the burden is on the prosecution to show that the accused knew that the lorry was overloaded. When the lorry in question with the load is shown to be proceeding from a place far away from the place where the owner of the lorry has his business, it cannot be held that the accused knew of the overloading. 48 L.W. 319=1938 M. 998=(1938) 2 M.L.J. 582. See also 1938 Mad. 743=(1938) 1 M.L.J. 800.

The word "conductor" in R. 83 of the Motor Vehicles Rules must be taken as used in its ordinary sense and the meaning of Rr. 78 and 83 read together is that no vehicle authorized to carry more than twelve passengers shall be driven unless there is carried on it an attendant, and that such an attendant where the vehicle is a stage carriage, must have a licence according to the provisions of R. 83. Hence where there is no conductor, or attendant with the necessary licence in such a carriage the owner would be guilty of contravention of those rules. 1946 A.L.J. 311=1946 A.L.W. 335=1946 A.W.R. (H.C.) 437.

"LETTING FOR HIRE" in R. 30 (a) (1) (i) of the Madras Rules framed under the Motor Vehicles Act of 1914, need not be one definite and localised act. When a motor lorry is engaged for a journey from Calicut in the district of Malabar to Pollachi in the district of Coimbatore for hire, the vehicle must be said to have been let for hire not merely at Calicut, but along the public roads in the Presidency of Madras in the districts of Malabar and Coimbatore, and, therefore, the owner who obtain no special permit in Form G commits an offence under sec. 16 of the Motor Vehicles Act (1914) not only in the District of Malabar but also in the district of Coimbatore if the lorry gets beyond the limits of the district of Malabar on its journey to Pollachi. The framers of the rules must reasonably be held to have intended that permits should be taken out for every area through which vehicles engaged or plied for hire travel. 177 I.C. 314=47 L.W. 774=1938 Mad. 743=(1938) 1 M.L.J. 800. In a prosecution under sec. 16 of the Motor Vehicles Act (1914) for violation of R. 30 (a) (1) (i) of the Madras Motor Vehicles Rules, it is incumbent on the prosecution to prove by evidence that the vehicle in question was not provided with G permit. Failure to let in evidence of this essential fact is a fatal defect. (1938) 1 M.L.J. 800.

Where the registered owner of a motor lorry for private use suffers his driver to carry goods of another person for hire, he is guilty under R. 138 of the Motor Vehicles rules which is punishable under sec. 112 of the Motor Vehicles Act. 52 L.W. 948=1941 M. 352=(1941) 1 M.L.J. 470.

PATNA RULES.—Conditions of the permit apply to the licensed vehicles for the period of the licence irrespective of whether it was in use at the time as a carriage standing or plying for hire or the use was gratuitous. 9 P. 169=1929 P. 522. The person responsible for having a board fixed upon the vehicle under r. 12 is owner and not the person who, from time to time, may have the use of the car. Where a car is purchased by an estate for the use of its manager the manager cannot be said to be the owner under r. 12. 97 I.C. 48—7 P.L.T. 542=27 Cr.L.J. 1072=1926 P. 446. As to R. 20 (5) regarding reflecting mirrors, see 18 Pat.L.T. 62=166 I.C. 741=1937 Pat. 3. In r. 46, a person merely driving his vehicle cannot be said to be 'plying his vehicle. It means that the person driving, stops to take up or put down passengers for reward. 17 Pat.L.T. 378=163 I.C. 399=1936 Pat. 321 (1). In R. 61 'attendant' does not mean a mere cleaner. 17 Pat.L.T. 162=161 I.C. 703 (1)=1936 P. 172.

U. P. RULES.—There is nothing in the wording of the U. P. Rules to show that R. 11 applies to cars registered outside the United Provinces. It is clear from the definition of "Registering Authority" in r. 3 that this expression, as used in R. 11 means the authority who had registered the car under the rules in force in the United Provinces. Where therefore the applicant's car is not registered in the United Provinces but brought there for a short period, r. 11 has no application to his case. 120 I.C. 272=31 Cr.L.J. 40=1930 A.L.J. 527=1930 A. 34. See also 150 I.C. 941=1934 Oudh 370; 1927 A. 478. Violation of rules under this section—Rules framed by U. P. Government—R. 12 cl. (a)—"Front portion of vehicle"—Meaning of. 46 I.C. 1004=19 Cr.L.J. 860=16 A.L.J. 623. The permit accorded permission to the owner of the lorry to ply within the district and the road on which it was permitted to ply was also specified therein. The permit did not, however, specify the maximum number of passengers. The road on which the lorry was driven was not specified in the charge, and it was also then carrying a greater number of passengers than could be taken in a lorry. The owner was thereupon convicted for violation of Rr. 79 and 81 of the Motor Vehicles Rules Held, that (i) as the maximum number of passengers was not specified in the permit, the conviction for violation of R. 81 was bad; (ii) the words "within the district" were merely descriptive of the route specifically described and did not justify the lorry being plied in other routes within the district and that the conviction for violation of R. 81 was correct. 143 I.C. 582=34 Cr. L.J. 620=1933 A.L.J. 499=1933 A. 465. R. 22 applies only to a person licensed to drive in another province and not licensed in the United Provinces. 101 I.C. 668=49 A. 754=25 A.L.J. 574=28 Cr.L.J. 492=1927 A. 478. U. P. Government Rule N 22 applies only to a person licensed in United Provinces. 49 A. 754=101 I.C. 668=25 A.L.J. 574=1927 All. 478.

OUDH RULES.—R. 2 (g) of the Motor Vehicles Rules merely means that the word 'Magistrate' means a stipendiary Magistrate where this word is used in the rules. The mere fact that a person was charged with certain acts made offences by R. 79 (viii) is no reason for holding that the Magistrate trying the case must be such a Magistrate as is defined in the rules and that an Honorary Special Magistrate is incompetent to try it. 1941 O. A. 145=1941 O.W. N. 193 (1)=1941 O. 266.

PUNJAB RULES.—Where the driver of a motor lory does not use the lorry in conformity with the conditions specified in the road certificate, the owner of the lorry is guilty of an offence under sec. 16, read with R. 3, Punjab Motor Vehicles Plying for Hire Rules, 1922, even though he is not present when the breach of the condition takes place. Where, therefore, a driver was found carrying 17 (when only ten could be carried under the road certificate) and one passenger was sitting on mudguard, which was prohibited. Held, that there being clear breach of the road certificate, the owner was liable under R. 3, Punjab Motor Vehicles Plying for Hire Rules, 1922, although he was not present. (38 C. 415; 45 C. 430 and 1924 C. 985, Relied on; 27 P.R. 1918; 1928 C. 410 and 1924 R. 63. Dist.) 1930 L. 865. Unless the wording of the rules is beyond doubt, the manufacturers' specifications regarding maximum load which can be carried cannot be read as part of the rules made by the Punjab Government. When the rule making authority has deliberately made a distinction between private lorries and public lorries and has specified that public lorries shall not carry more than a specified amount of weight, it is reasonable to assume that it was not intended that any such limitation should apply to vehicles which are not public motor vehicles. Hence the owner of private lorries cannot be convicted under R. 23 of the Punjab Motor Vehicles Rules read with sec. 16, on the ground that his lorry was carrying a load in excess of its carrying capacity. 1938 Lah. 691=40 P. L.R. 942. R. 23 of Punjab Rules makes the driver as well as owner responsible for breach of rules. Driver cannot escape liability in case of overloading on the ground of the presence of the checker and ticket seller. 17 Lah. 604=38 P.L.R. 1015=1937 L. 132. Rule 49—Superintendent of Police fixing only week for inspection but not date—Inspector fixing particular date within that week—Lorry driver failing to produce his lorry on that date but producing it on subsequent date during that week—Driver not liable to conviction. 39 P.L.R. 130=169 I. C. 426=1936 Lah. 23.

BURMA RULES.—Owner of a Motor car is not criminally liable for negligence of the driver in driving the car without properly

Per Baguley, J.—The power to seize a licence given under rules framed by Local Government from its owner and keep it for a certain time cannot in any way help to carry into effect the provisions of the Act It is not even a temporary suspension of the licence because it provides that a temporary substitute is to be given for it, and sec. 18 only provides for a licence to be cancelled or suspended by Local Government or by a Court trying the holder of a licence for a offence. R. 38-B must therefore be held to be ultra vires. 175 I.C. 639=39 Cr.L.J. 642=1938 Rang. 161.

THE SCHEDULES: SELECT COMMITTEE REPORT.—"A new form for Drivers' Licence has been substituted in the First Schedule for Form D contained in the Bill. Other forms in that Schedule have been amended either for the purpose of bringing the contents and the wording into harmony with the provisions of the Bill as now amended, or to remove superfluities, or to supply omissions. In the Fifth Schedule, the amendments made by us to cl. 20 abolishing perpetual endorsement have rendered the headings to Parts A and B unnecessary. We have eliminated from the list of offences entailing endorsement that of driving an uninsured vehicle, and we have also removed ten minor offences from Part B. In the Sixth Schedule we have provided for a system of Registration Marks consiting of three letters followed by four figures the first two letters being indicative of the Province, the third possibly indicative of the registering authority. In the Eighth Schedule, we have inserted a speed limit for a class of vehicle not already provided for. In the Tenth Schedule, we have added an additional driving signal".

[1][(5)] While, under the provisions of sub-section (2), any rules made by a Provincial Government under section 11 of the Indian Motor Vehicles Act 1914, continue to be in force—

LEG. REF.

1 Inserted by Act XL of 1939.

TABLE B.

For each high pressure pneumatic tyre, fitted to a wheel on the axle, of a nominal size—	The permissible weight in pounds is—
30×5	2,000
33×5	2,000
34×5	2,000
35×5	2,000
32×6	2,650

40×9	5,100
42×9	5,300
44×10	6,150

Explanation.—The figures "5.00-17" etc., in Table A represent, respectively, the nominal sectional diameter of the tyre and the diameter of the wheel rim; and the figures "30—5" ect., in Table B represent, respectively, the over-all diameter of wheel and tyre and the nominal sectional diameter of the tyre, all figures being in inches. The actual sectional diameter of the tyre when mounted on its appropriate rim and inflated shall in no case be less than the nominal sectional diameter.

Note.—Tyres may be calibrated in so-called metric sizes, for example, "170—120". In that case the first number represents the sectional diameter of the tyre in millimetres and the second number represents the diameter of the rim in inches. The permissible weight in pounds for each such tyre shall be determined by dividing the nominal sectional diameter of the tyre in millimetres by the figure 25-4, the quotient being the nominal sectional diameter in inches. The permissible weight given in Table A for the nearest equivalent nominal sectional diameter in inches and the actual rim diameter shall be the permissible weight for that tyre.

THE EIGHTH SCHEDULE.

DRIVING REGULATIONS.

1. The driver of a motor vehicle shall drive the vehicle as close to the left hand side of the road as may be expedient, and shall allow all traffic which is proceeding in the opposite direction to pass him on his right hand side.

2. Except as provided in regulation 3, the driver of a motor vehicle shall pass to the right of all traffic proceeding in the same direction as himself.

3. The driver of a motor vehicle may pass to the left of a vehicle the driver of which having indicated an intention to turn to the right has drawn to the centre of the road and may pass a tram-car or other vehicle running on fixed rails, whether travelling in the same direction as himself or otherwise, on either side :

Provided that in no case shall he pass a tram-car at a time or in a manner likely to cause danger or inconvenience to other users of the road or pass on the left hand side a tram-car which when in motion would be travelling in the same direction as himself, while the tram-car is at rest for the purpose of setting down or taking up passengers.

4. The driver of a motor vehicle shall not pass a vehicle travelling in the same direction as himself—

(a) if his passing is likely to cause inconvenience or danger to other traffic proceeding in any direction, or

(b) where a point or corner or a hill or an obstruction of any kind renders the road ahead not clearly visible.

5. The driver of a motor vehicle shall not, when being overtaken or being passed by another vehicle, increase speed or do anything in any way to prevent the other vehicle from passing him.

6. The driver of a motor vehicle shall slow down when approaching a ro ad intersection, a road junction or a road corner, and shall not enter any such intersection or junction until he has become aware that he may do so without endangering the safety of persons thereon.

7. The driver of a motor vehicle shall on entering a road intersection , if the road entered is a main road designated as such, give way to the vehicles proceeding along that road, and in any other case give way to all traffic approaching the intersection on his right hand.

8. The driver of a motor vehicle shall, when passing or meeting a procession or a body of troops or police on the march or when passing workmen engaged on road repair, drive at a speed not greater than fifteen miles anhour.

9. The driver of a motor vehicle shall—

(a) when turning to the left, drive as close as may be to the left hand side of the road from which he is making the turn and of the road which he is entering ;

(b) when turning to the right, draw as near as may be to the centre of the road along which he is travelling and cause the vehicle to move in such a manner that—

(i) as far as may be practicable it passes beyond, and so as to leave on the driver's right hand, a point formed by the intersection of the centre lines of the intersecting roads : and (ii) it arrives as near as may be at the left hand side of the road which the driver is entering.

THE ELEVENTH SCHEDULE.

SIGNALS.

1. When about to turn to the right or to drive to the right hand side of the road in order to pass another vehicle or for any other purpose, a driver shall extend his right arm in a horizoutal position outside of and to the right of his vehicle with the palm of the hand turned to the front.

2. When about to turn to the left or to drive to the left hand side of the road a driver shall extend his right arm and rotate it in an ante-clockwise direction.

3. When about to slow down, a driver shall extend his right arm with the palm downward and to the right of the vehicle and shall move the arm so extended up and down several times in such a manner that the signal can be seen by the driver of any vehicle which may be behind him.

4. When about to stop a driver shall raise his right forearm vertically outside of and to the right of the vehicle, palm to the front.

5. When a driver wishes to indicate to the driver of a vehicle behind him that he desires that driver to overtake him, he shall extend his right arm and hand horizontally outside of and to the right of the vehicle and shall swing the arm backwards and forwards in a semi-circular motion.

" Cl. 3. (6) The Motor Vehicles Act, 1939, shall have effect subject to the following modifications, namely :—

(a) Notwithstanding anything contained in section 62 of that Act a permit under that section may be granted, and shall be granted in any case in which the Provincial Government so directs, to be effective for a period exceeding four months ;

(b) Notwithstanding anything contained in Chapter IV of that Act but without prejudice to the provisions of section 60, the transport authority which granted a permit may at any time cancel the permit or may suspend it for such period as it thinks fit, if in the opinion of the transport authority it is no longer in the public interest that the service should continue and the vehicle or vehicles covered by the permit can be more usefully employed elsewhere; and the transport authority shall cancel or suspend a permit issued by it so required by the Provincial Government ;

(c) If, in any particular case the Provincial Government thinks fit so to order, the authority empowered to grant a permit under Chapter IV of that Act shall not in deciding to grant or refuse a permit, be bound to take into consideration representations made by any person, authority or association other than the applicant or to follow the procedure laid down in section 57, and may accept an application for a stage carriage permit or a public carrier's permit though made less than six weeks before the date on which it is desired that the permit shall have effect ;

(d) The Provincial Government may exempt from all or any of the provisions of Chapter IV of that Act, all or any transport vehicles used or required for use in connexion with work considered by the Provincial Government to be work connected with the defence of British India or the prosecution of war. THE MULTI-UNIT CO-OPERATIVE SOCIETIES ACT (VI OF 1942.)

[2nd March, 1942.

An Act to provide for the incorporation, regulation and winding up of co-operative societies with objects not confined to one province.

WHEREAS it is expedient to provide for the incorporation, regulation and winding up of co-operative societies with objects not confined to one province; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Short title, extent and application.

1. (1) This Act may be called THE MULTI-UNIT CO-OPERATIVE SOCIETIES ACT, 1942.

(2) It extends to the whole of British India.

(3) It applies to all co-operative societies with objects not confined to one province incorporated before the commencement of this Act under the Co-operative Societies Act, 1912, or under any Act relating to co-operative societies in force in any province, and to all co-operative societies with objects not confined to one province to be incorporated after the commencement of this Act.

Co-operative societies to which this Act applies registered before commencement of this Act.

2. (1) A co-operative society to which this Act applies which has been registered in any province under the law relating to co-operative societies in force in that province shall be demed to be duly registered in that other province to which its objects ex end to be duly registered in that other province under the law there in force relating to co-operative Societies, but shall, save as provided in sub-sections (2) and (3), be subject for all the purposes of registration, control and dissolution to the law rela ing to co-operative societies in force for the time being in the province in which it is actually registered.

(2) Where any such co-operative society has established before the commencement of this Act or establishes after the commencement of this Act a branch or place of business in a province other than that in which it is actually registered, it shall, within six months from the commencement of this Act or the date of establishment of the branch or place of business, as the case may be, furnish to the Registrar of Co-operative Societies of the province in which such branch or place of business is situated a copy of its registered by-laws, and shall at any time it is required to do so by the said Registrar submit any returns and supply any information which the said Registrar might require to be submitted or supplied to him by a co-operative society actualy registered in that province.

(3) The Registrar of Co-operative Societies of the province in which a branch or place of business such as is referred to in sub-section (2) is situated may exercise in respect of that branch or place of business any powers of audit and of inspection which he might exercise in respect of a co-operative society actually registered in the province.

Co-operative societies to which this Act applies registered after commencement of this Act.

3. (1) A society which might, if its objects were confined to one province, be registered as a co-operative society in any province under the law relating to co-operative societies in force in that province, shall, notwithstanding that its objects are not confined to the province in which its principal place of business is to be situated, be deemed for the purposes of registration as a co-operative society to be situated wholly in that province, and may be registered by the Registrar of Co-operative Societies of that province in accordance with the law relating to co-operative societies for the time being in force in that province, and if so registered shall be deemed in any other province to which its objects extend to be duly registered in that other province under the law there in force relating to co-operative societies but shall, save as provided in sub-sections (2) and (3), be subject for all the purposes of registration, control and dissolution to the law relating to co-operative societies in force for the time being in the province in which it is actually registered.

(2) Where any such co-operative society establishes a branch or place of business in a province other than that in which it is actually registered, it shall within six months from the date of establishment of the branch or place of business furnish to the Registrar of Co-operative Societies of the province in which such branch or place of business is situated a copy of its registered by-laws, and shall at any time it is required to do so by the said Registrar submit any returns and supply any information which the said Registrar might require to be submitted or supplied to him by a co-operative society actually registered in that province.

(3) The Registrar of Co-operative Societies of the province in which a branch or place of business such as is referred to in sub-section (2) is situated may exercise in respect of that branch or place of business any powers of audit and of inspection which he might exercise in respect of a co-operative society actually registered in that province.

Appointment and powers of Central Registrar of Co-operative Societies.

4. (1) The Central Government may, if it thinks fit, appoint a Central Registrar of Co-operative Societies.

(2) The Central Registrar of Co-operative Societies, if appointed, shall exercise in respect of any co-operative society to which this Act applies, to the exclusion of Provincial Registrars, the powers and functions exercisable by the Registrar of Co-operative Societies of the province in which such society is actually registered.

Penalty for failure to furnish information required under this Act.

5. If any co-operative society fails to furnish the information which it is required to furnish by or under sub-section (2) of section 2 or sub-section (2) of section 3, or to submit any return required to be submitted under either of those sub-sections, the society and any officer or member of the society responsible for the failure, shall each liable to fine which may extend to fifty rupees, and the registration of the society may, at the discretion of the Registrar of Co-operative Societies of the province in which the society is actually registered, be cancelled.

Power of Central Government to make rules.

6. The Central Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette, make rules for carrying into effect the provisions of this Act.

Certain buildings within the Municipality of Ahmedabad consisted of several tenements. Each tenement was given a separate census number. Within the compound of each of the buildings there was a general provision made for the disposal of waste water of each of the tenements, and there was also a water closet or urinal in each of the compounds. But each seperate tenement was not seperately connected with the Municipal drainage system; nor was there a separate water closet or urinal attached to each tenement. The separate tenements were used for shops, godowns and offices, but not for residential purposes. THE MUSLIM PERSONAL LAW (SHARIAT) APPLICATION ACT (XXVI OF 1937)

[7th October, 1937.

An Act to make provision for the application of the Muslim Personal Law (Shariat) to Muslims in British India.

WHEREAS it is expedient to make provision for the application of the Muslim Personal Law (Shariat) to Muslims in British India; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Short title and extent.

1. (1) This Act may be called THE MUSLIM PERSONAL LAW (SHARIAT) APPLICATION ACT, 1937.

(2) It extends to the whole of British India excluding the North-West Frontier Province.

Application of Personal Law to Muslims.

2. Notwithstanding any custom or usage to the contrary, in all questions (save questions relating to agricultural land), regarding intestate succession, special property of females, including personal property inherited or obtained under contract or gift or any other provision of Personal Law, marriage, dissolution of marriage, including talaq, ila, zihar, lian, khula and mubaraat, maintenance, dower, guardianship, gifts, trusts and trust properties, and wakfs (other than charities and charitable institutions and charitable and religious endowments) the rule of decision in cases where the parties are Muslims shall be the Muslim Personal Law (Shariat).

Power to make a declaration.

3. (1) Any person who satisfies the prescribed authority—

(a) that he is a Muslim, and

SEC. 1.—The Muslim Personal Law Application Act, 1937, cancelled the provisions of sec. 4 of the Ajmere Regulation of 1877. This cancellation will however not affect the subject-matter of suits instituted before the date of the enactment of that Act (i.e.) in 1937. The result is that suits instituted before 1937 must be decided under the provisions of the Regulation of 1877. 1940 A. M.L.J. 9.

SEC. 2.—The effect of sec. 2 of the Shariat Act is to make the Mussalman Law expressly applicable to subjects which under may by declaration in the prescribed form and filed before the prescribed authority declare that he desires to obtain the benefit of [1][the provisions of this section] and thereafter the provisions of section 2 shall apply to the declarant and all his minor children and their descendants as if in addition to the matters enumerated therein adoption, wills and legacies were also specified.

(2) Where the prescribed authority refuses to accept a declaration under sub-section (1), the person desiring to make the same may appeal to such officer as the Provincial Government may, by general or special order, appoint in this behalf, and such officer may, if he is satisfied that the appellant is entitled to make the declaration, order the prescribed authority to accept the same.

Rule-making Power.

4. (1) The Provincial Government may make rules to carry into effect the purposes of this Act.

(2) In particular and without prejudice to the generality of the foregoing powers, such rules may provide for all or any of the following matters, namely:—

(a) for prescribing the authority before whom and the form in which declarations under this Act shall be made;

(b) for prescribing the fees to be paid for the filing of declarations and for the attendance at private residences of any person in the discharge of his duties under this Act; and for prescribing the times at which such fees shall be payable and the manner in which they shall be levied.

(3) Rules made under the provisions of this section shall be published in the Official Gazette and shall thereupon have effect as if enacted in this Act.

the terms of previous Acts and Regulations had to be decided on principles of equity and good conscience. That section can have no effect in regard to decisions which expressly interpret Mussalman Law so as to substitute for them the views of Muslim jurists on the same point. I.L.R. (1940) 2 Cal. 464=44 C.W.N. 974=1940 Cal. 501. In matters of succession and inheritance a Khoja is governed by Hindu Law on the ground of custom. In the matter of wills also Khojas were before the Shariat Act of 1937, governed by the Hindu Law and the Courts were therefore bound to construe the wills of Khojas according to Hindu Law. Even after the Shariat Act, so far as testate succession is concerned, the Hindu Law governs Khojas. The Legislature in the Shariat Act did not consider that the law of simple gifts and the law of gifts through the medium of a trust were the same; there is no warrant for qualifying the expression "trust and wakfs" used in sec. 2 of the Act as inter vivos trusts and wakfs. Hence although a Khoja, after the passing of the Act, can still will away the whole of his property, in the matter of construction of a will to the extent he has created trusts or wakfs by his will, the validity of those trusts and wakfs must be determined by Mahomedan Law and not by Hindu Law. So also with regard to the making of the will, its form, its revocation or revocation of parts of it, a Khoja (or a Cutchi Memon) is governed by Mahomedan Law, though in matters of construction of a will, he is governed by Hindu Law. 48 Bom.L.R. 642.

SEC. 5.—A petition under sec. 5 (now repealed) which was pending before the District Judge on the date when the repealing Act of 1939 came into force does not automatically lapse, and a final order passed by him on that petition after the repeal of the Act is not, therefore, ultra vires. There being no provision in the repealing Act of 1939 affecting proceedings which had been initiated under Act of 1937 when it was in force and were pending at the time of its repeal, the matter is governed by sec. 6 (e) of the General Clauses Act. THE MUSSALMAN WAKF VALIDATING ACT (VI OF 1913.)[2]

Year	No.	Short title	Amendments.
1913	VI	The Mussalman Wakf Validating Act.	See XXXII of 1930.

PREFATORY NOTE.—The following is the Statement of Objects and Reasons annexed to the Bill:—

The object of this Bill is to remove disabilities and great hardship that has been created by the recent decisions of the Privy Council in Abdul Fata Mohamed Ishak and others v. Russomoy Dhur Chowdhury and others (L.R. 22 Ind. App. 76) and other cases. The power of a Mussalman to make a settlement for or in favour of his family, children and descendants or what is known as wakf-alal-aulad in the Mussalman Law, is paralysed.

In the case above cited it was held that under Mussalman Law, a perpetual family settlement expressly made as wakf is not legal and valid merely because there is an ultimate gift to the poor and it confirmed the decision in Ashunulla Chowdhury v. Amarchand Khundu, reported in L.R. 17 Ind. App. 37, the principle of which was approved in a subsequent case of Abdul Gafur v. Nizamuddin (L.R. 19 Ind. App. 170) where it was laid down that a gift is not good as wakf unless there is a substantial dedication of the property to charitable uses at some period of time or other.

The decision does not fix any limit of time, it simply says "some period of time or other". It does not define what is "substantial dedication". Thus it introduces the greatest uncertainty in the law, and is generally opposed to the true principles and correct exposition of the Mussalman jurisprudence. The Bill is intended only to reproduce the Mussalman Law of Wakf-alal-aulad in a codified form with certain safeguards for the authenticity of the wakf-nama and for prevention of fraud upon creditors or otherwise.

It is not intended to codify or define the general law of Wakf which must be governed by the Mussalman Law. The Bill is a simple one and the important provisions are as follows:—

Clause 3.—Defines the power of a person professing Mussalman faith to create wakf.

Clauses 4 and 5.—Are intended to secure authenticity of Wakf-nama and prevent fraud upon creditors or otherwise.

Clause 10.—Deals with testamentary wakf.

Clause 11.—Deals with registration of wills and empowers the persons mentioned therein to have the will registered.

[7th March, 1913.

An Act to declare the rights of Mussalmans to make settlements of property by way of "wakf" in favour of their families, children and descendants.

WHEREAS doubts have arisen regarding the validity of wakfs created by persons professing the Mussalman faith in favour of themselves, their families, children and descendants and ultimately for the benefit of the poor or for other religious, pious or charitable, purposes; and whereas it is expedient to remove such doubts; It is hereby enacted as follows—

Short title and extent.

1. (1) This Act may be called THE MUSSALMAN WAKF VALIDATING ACT, 1913.

(2) It extends to the whole of British India.

Definitions.

2. In this Act, unless there is anything repugnant in the subject or context.—

(1) "Wakf" means the permanent dedication by a person professing the Mussalman faith of any property for any purpose recognized by the Mussalman law as religious, pious or charitable.

(2) "Hanafi Mussalman" means a follower of the Mussalman faith who conforms to the tenets and doctrines of the Hanafi School of Mussalman law.

SEC. 1.—The Mussalman Wakf Validating Act is not retrospective in its effect. 1922 P.C. 107=43 M.L.J 385=49 Cal. 830 =49 I.A. 153 (P.C.); 54 I.A. 372=1927 P. W.N. 76. The Act merely defines what is valid wakf but it does not purport to deal with the validity or otherwise of wakfs, the objects of which are indefinite or uncertain. 130 I.C. 556=1931 S. 75. The Act of 1913 was intended to expand the law relating to the creation of a wakf and not to restrict it and a wakf which would have been considered a good wakf before the Act was passed could not possibly be considered a bad wakf owing to anything contained in the Act. 4 Luck. 101=1929 O. 25. The Mussalman Wakf Validating Act of 1913 had no retrospective effect and it was only by the later Act of 1930 that it was made to apply to wakfs created before 1913 and then only if any right, title, obligation or liability already existing was not affected. A mortgage created before 1930 cannot, therefore, be affected by these Acts. 13 Luck. 723=1938 O.W.N. 67=1938 Oudh 69. If there can be a valid wakf subsequent to the Mussalman Wakf Validating Act apart from the provisions of the Act, where the wakf makes provision for the family of the wakif the test to be applied to ascertain its validity would be the same as that applied to cases decided before Act VI of 1913, namely, that if the effect of the deed was to give the property substantially to charitable uses it would be valid, but if the effect of the deed was to give the property in substance to the settlor's family then it would be invalid under Mahomedan Law. 1940 A.L.J. 504=1940 All. 462. The Wakf Validating Act allows the settlement of properties in perpetuity in favour of the family, children or descendants of a person belonging to the Mussalman faith. 112 I.C. 623 (2)=1929 A. 180. Under the Act, where a dedication is made in favour of one's own descendants, generation after generation, it is not necessary that there should be an immediate or concurrent gift in favour of religious or charitable object. It is enough if there is an ultimate gift in favour of such objects as are considered pious, religious, charitable or meritorious under Mahomedan Law. 112 I.C. 623 (2)=1929 A. 180. The Mussalman Wakf Act, 1923, applies to such wakfs as are defined in sec. 2 (e) of that Act and does not apply to such other wakfs as are expressly excluded from the operation of the definition. The exception covers a wakf such as is described in sec. 3 of the Mussalman wakf Validating Act (1913), under which any benefit is for the time being claimable for himself by the person by whom the wakf was created or by any of his family or descendants. 7 O.W.N. 986=1930 O. 509. An illusory charitable gift made before the Act is void. 50 I.C. 77=6 O.L.J. 80. A trust for slaves and dependants is not within the terms of the Wakf Validating Act, VI of 1913 or Act XXXII of 1930 giving retrospective effect to the earlier Act. 59 I.A. 74=34 Bom.L.R. 510=54 A. 93= 1932 P.C. 81=62 M.L.J. 371 (P.C.). The fact that a wakf is made under Act VI of 1913 does not exclude the principles of Muhammadan Law from application. 16 L. 432=1935 L. 626. The ultimate gift to religious or charitable purposes must be implied from the terms of the document and cannot be implied from the mere fact that the testator was purporting to make a wakf. Where a settlor directed that the dwelling-house should be used by himself and his heirs and as regards income from the properties, he directed that a specified fraction should be spent on charity, the remainder being spent on himself and his heirs, but there was no provision as to the destination of the income after the failure of heirs, held, that the wakf was invalid both under the Mahomedan Law and under the Mussalman Wakf Validating Act. 60 C. 901=37 C.W.N. 741 =1933 C. 716. SEC. 2.—Mere use of the word "wakf" in a deed after Act VI of 1913 cannot necessarily imply a dedication to the poor and will not make a valid dedication in law. The ultimate object of the wakf should be implied by use of proper words. It must

"Family" in sec. 3 of the Act would include (1) all those persons residing in the same house as the settlor and dependent upon him for maintenance and (2) all those connected with the settlor through a common progenitor or by ties of common lineage. 44 Bom.L.R. 256=I.L.R. If the ultimate gift to the poor or to pious, religious and charitable purposes is postponed till after the extinction of the family, children or descendants of the wakif, the wakf would be valid although the ultimate gift to such purposes is remote. If such an ultimate gift is more remote, that is, if it is to take effect on the extinction of a more extended group of persons as for instance heirs how low so ever of the wakif, the dedication by way of wakf substantially for the maintenance of the wakif's family, children and descendants would not be valid under the Wakf Validating Act. For the body of the heirs would include even the distant kindred, most of whom would not be descendants how low so ever of the wakif and could not be regarded as members of his family. I.L.R. (1940) 2 Cal. 464=44 C.W.N. 974=1940 Cal. 501. See also 44 Bom.L.R. 256=1942 Bom. 155. A wakf which is against the Mahomedan Law of Inheritance and which excludes the principal heir is not invalid under sec. 3 of the Act. The words "which in all other respects is in accordance with the provisions of Mussalman Law" in that section do not refer to the Law of Inheritance but the law of wakfs as governed by Mussalman Law. Further sub-cl. (a) allows a wakf for the maintenance and support wholly or partially of his family, children or descendants. The expression "family, children and descendants" does not mean the family or children or descendants as a class but may mean only some persons of a particular class. Under Mahomedan Law, a valid wakf can be created in favour only of some members of the family or some of the children or descendants, whether males or females and to the exclusion of others. I.L.R. (1938) Lah. 435=40 P.L.R. 220=1938 Lah. 453. The maintenance and support of the family, children or descendants of the wakif, does not come within the phrase "other purpose recognised by Mussalman Law as pious" used in the proviso to sec. 3 for maintenance of these persons or class of persons is expressly mentioned in the body of that section. I.L.R. (1940) 2 Cal. 464=44 C.W.N. 974=1940 Cal. 501. The Mussalman Wakf Validating Act has not effected any change in the law. The proviso to sec. 3 of the Act does not make valid a wakf which is religious and pious only without being also charitable. The object of the Act was to declare the rights of Mussalmans to make settlements of property by way of wakf in favour of their families, etc 40 L.W 806=58 M 204=1935 M. 29=68 M.L J. 107. A bequest "for charitable and religious purposes" is void for uncertainty. Both these objects are void for uncertainty individually as they are correlated with each other; even if one of them be held to be uncertain the entire wakf must fail and such bequests cannot be enforced by the Courts. 1935 L. 596. The executant of a wakfnama provided that the surplus income of certain properties should be utilized towards certain pious works, towards the maintenance of a certain private tomb. There was a further clause that the settlor could make arrangement regarding the tank, garden, etc., mentioned in the deed. Held, that there was an ultimate benefit for a pious or charitable purpose and that the dedication was valid. 59 C. 402 =35 C.W.N. 1159=1932 C. 93. Held, also that the reservation clause regarding the tank, gardens, etc., did not affect the dedication (governing principles applicable to the construction of a wakfnama stated). Effect of use of the word 'wakf' indicated. (Ibid.) A wakf describing the ultimate object of the benefit as charitable purposes highly commendable according to 'Hanafi school' (umur-i-kair men jo hamaujib mzyab hanafia zeada munasib hun kharch hore) is not valid according to Mussalman Wakf Validating Act unless the author specifies a particular object and that particular object is recognised by the Mahomedan Law as religious, pious or charitable and is of a permanent character. 15 Luck. 586=1940 O.W.N. 689=1940 Oudh 324 (F.B.). See also 26 I.A. 71. The mere use of the word "wakf" in a deed after the passing of Act VI of 1913 cannot necessarily imply a dedication to the poor. The ultimate object of the wakf has to be implied by use of other words. 1930 A. 837. The object of the proviso to sec. 3 is that it should appear on the construction of the instrument of wakf that the ultimate benefit is either expressly or impliedly reserved for the poor or for any other purpose recognised by the Mahomedan Law as a religious or charitable purpose of a permanent character. The word "wakf" therefore used in sec. 3 should not only satisfy the definition of that word given in sec. 2 but should also satisfy the limitations of the proviso before a wakf can be adjudged to be lawful within the meaning of the Act. 8 O.W.N. 1302. When a definite rule of Mahomedan Law is laid down by the Legislature it must follow that it overruled certain interpretations which did not find favour with the Legislature. 1930 A. 837 =52 A. 748. Where a person executed a wakfnama and placed the mutawalli in possession of certain properties, but the deed did not contain any direction for an ultimate benefit to religious or charitable purposes, held, that a valid wakf was not constituted. 129 I.C. 163=6 Luck. 382=1931 O. 133. Where the annual profits of the wakf properties were Rs. 700 a year and after deducting the expenses which were specified in the wakfnama, the aggregate, of which came to Rs. 225, the balance of Rs. 475 was to be spent by the mutwallis in equal proportions for the maintenance of themselves and their children, held, that that wakf was valid by virtue of cls. (a) and (b) of sec. 3 of the Act provided the requirements of the proviso attached to the section were fulfilled. 8 O.W.N. 1302= 7 Luck. 300=1932 O. 71 Under the Act it is open to a Mussalman to create a wakf of property which would be perfectly valid, even although the income during his own lifetime was devoted entirely to his own support, and, so long as he remained alive; such a wakf would be valid even if he did not spend anything upon religious and charitable purposes, in his lifetime. 1927 O. 162. Where a man has set aside property with the direction that his expenditure upon religious and charitable objects shall be made from a portion of the income of the property and he has expended sums upon religious and charitable objects, the conclusion would be that he utilised a portion of the income at any rate for such objects. Under the Hanafi law this is sufficient. 4 O.W.N. 360=102 I.C. 77=1927 O. 162; 53 I.C 764 =24 C.W.N. 18. A wakfnama though not governed by the Act will be valid if the dominating purpose and intention of the grantor was a charitable purpose and the secondary and subsidiary object was to secure for his daughters any surplus that might remain after defraying the expenses. 41 I.C. 684 (2). The expression "family" includes only those persons residing in the house of the dornor for whose maintenance, the donor is responsible, and remote cousins in the fourth and fifth degree do not come within the term. 13 O. & A.L.R. 896. A wakf may be validly created in favour of certain members of the family to the exclusion of others. Considerations of expediency cannot prevail with the Court to introduce words into a section which are not there. The ancient Mussalman text-writers do not discountenance the idea of a settlement in favour of some only of a class, though it may be at variance with the principles of the law of inheritance. 125 I.C. 33=1930 S. 318. A daughter-in-law living in the same house as the settlor and maintained by him is undoubtedly a member of the family of the settlor. 52 A. 368=1930 A.L.J. 109 =1939 A. 169; 51 A. 40=1928 A. 576. Where the executant of a wakfnama provided that "religious and charitable objects should continue to be performed permanently and in perpetuity so that they may benefit my soul," held, that the wakf satisfied the requirements of the proviso to sec. 3, even though there was no specification in the deed itself of such religious and charitable objects. 7 Luck. 300. A wakfnama in which provision out of his property is made for the maintenance of his deceased brother's wife and another deceased brother's children, is valid; the deceased brother's son comes within the meaning of the word "family", as used in sec. 3 (a) of the Act. 11 Lah.L.J. 404=1929 L. 721. The word "family", in sec. 3 (a) was intended to be used in a very large and extensive sense. Technically the word "family" may be taken to mean the collective body of persons who live in one house and under one head or manager. Popularly the term indicates persons descended from one common

(a) for the maintenance and support wholly or partially of his family, children or descendants, and

(b) where the person creating a wakf is a Hanafi Mussalman, also for his own maintenance and support during his lifetime or for the payment of his debts out of the rents and profits of the property dedicated:

Provided that the ultimate benefit is in such cases expressly or impliedly reserved for the poor or for any other purpose recognised by the Mussalman law as a religious, pious or charitable purpose of a permanent character.

progenitor and having a common lineage. The nephews of the settlor are in this sense the members of his family. It could never have been the object of the legislature to exclude persons who were related by blood, merely by reason of the fact that they did not reside in the house of the settlor or that the settlor was not normally responsible for their maintenance. 1930 A.L.J. 109=52 A. 368=1930 A. 169; 51 A. 40; 138 I.C. 616 (A.). "Family" as including non-resident relative—Provision in deed for maintenance of such persons—Whether renders deed invalid. See 4 Luck. 101=1929 O. 25. Where the author of a wakf does not divest himself of the property, the wakf is not valid. In the absence of an express reservation of any ultimate benefit to the poor in a wakf, no such final reservation can be implied on a failure of heirs of the donor. 10 O. & A.L.R. 896. The word "descendants" in S. 3, cl. (a) includes persons descended from the settlor both in the male and in the female line. The descendants in the female line not residing in the house of the settlor and not maintained by him are within the Act and cannot be excluded from its purview. 1930 A.L.J. 109=15 Luck. 586=1930 A. 169. Under S. 3 (b) it is lawful for a person to create a wakf for the payment of his debts out of the rents and profits of the property dedicated. 49 C. 477=34 C.L.J. 444=1922 C. 429.

SEC. 3 (a): "FAMILY"—ADOPTED SON.—The word "family" in S. 3 (a) is used by the Legislature in its broad popular sense so as to include all persons descended from a common progenitor. 1940 A.L.J. 399=1940 All. 383. From the fact that M was adopted by A who had executed a wakf and resided with him during his lifetime, he (M) must be held to be a dependent relation of A and therefore comes within the definition of family in S. 3. 1935 L. 414. The word "family" as used in S. 3 (a) of the Act includes the brother or the descendants of the brother so as to entitle them to claim to be the subjects of a valid wakf. 16 Lah. 782=1935 L. 251. The fact that a person cannot take benefit under the wakf on the ground that he is not a member of the family of the wakf, is not sufficient to set it aside in its entirety. 1935 L. 414.

SEC. 3, PROVISO: SCOPE.—The proviso to S. 3 does not effect any change in the Muslim conception but simply states what the Muslim law is. The effect of that proviso must, therefore, be judged by the principles propounded by Muslim jurists. According to them there are two distinct principles: One is analogous to the cypres doctrine. The other principle is that a wakf will not fail for mere vagueness or uncertainty of the object. For when the object is not specified by the wakf, the usufruct is to be applied to the benefit of the poor. The proviso to S. 3 states that the ultimate benefit in a wakf-alal-aulad can also be impliedly reserved for the poor or for any purpose recognised by the Mussalman Law as religious, pious, or charitable purpose of a permanent character. Those purposes need not be expressed in clear terms in the wakfnama. If in the wakfnama the wakf designs the ultimate gift to "proper acts of charity", these words used in the wakfnama will imply a gift to the poor, which is an effective gift, and the wakf will comply with the provisions of the Act. Further, if the wakf deed manifests an overriding intention to give to charity in the contingency of the failure of the descendants of the wakf that would call in the application of the cypres doctrine. Per Khundkar, J.—If the objects of the wakf are indicated with reasonable certainty, it is not necessary that they should be named. A gift for "Kar-i-khair" (works of charity) in a deed of wakf cannot be condemned as vague and indeterminate, as the objects of the donor's bounty are possible of ascertainment by reference to the principles of Mahomedan Law. Even if the expresison "Kar-i-khair" does not indicate the objects of bounty intended by the wakif with sufficient certainty, the doctrine of cypres could be invoked. 74 C.L.J. 261 =1942 Cal. 180=46 C.W.N. 561. See also 1940 Oudh 324 (F.B.); 1941 All. 235=I. L.R. (1941) All. 443. The proviso to S. 3 of the Mussalman Wakf Validating Act is imperative, and the absence of an express or implied provision for the ultimate reversion of the property to some charity makes the wakf absolutely invalid. 165 I.C. 515. The word "impliedly" in the proviso to S. 3 of Act VI of 1913 has not been defined anywhere; but it must mean that the reservation of the benefit for the poor, etc., can be indirectly inferred from the recitals in the deed coupled with surrounding circumstances. 1936 A.L.J. 231=1936 A. 404. But where a deed of wakf-alal-aulad contains no such indication and it is impossible to say that the wakif had any such purpose in view even as a remote possibility, and indeed where the wakif does not seem to have contemplated the extinction of the line of his descendants at all, it is difficult to say that any reservation of such benefit is implied. (Ibid.) A mere recital in the deed that the wakf-alal-aulad was being made in accordance with law, Act VI of 1913, does not imply that the requirements of that Act were fulfilled. Where among other things a deed of wakf recited that 'if, may God forbid, there be extinction of my descendants, at any time, the amounts allotted above to my heirs, shall be utilised for some charitable purposes according to the scheme to be prepared by Court and the Court shall, in that case, have power to utilise the money only for such kar-i-khair as would be correct and valid according to entire Mahomedan religion,' it was held that the words kar-i-khair were used in a larger sense so that money may be devoted not only to objects of khairat but for objects which might or might not be charitable and that the settlor deliberately used a wider language to give a greater discretion to the Court and to the mutwalli to administer the trust. It was held further that the condition laid down in the proviso to S. 3 of the Mussalman Wakf Validating Act had not been duly complied with and the wakf failed for uncertainty. I. L. R. (1941) All. 443=1941 A.L.J. 269=1941 All. 235. It is clear from the preamble to the Mussalman Wakf Validating Act that the intention in passing the Act was that it should cover private trusts only because there was no doubt regarding the validity of public wakfs. The proviso to S. 3 of the Act would be quite meaningless if the Act applied to public wakfs by which the benefit is reserved immediately and not ultimately for public purposes. 11 B.R. 293.

IMPLIED RESERVATION OF ULTIMATE BENEFIT —"WAKF-FI-SABI-LILLAH" IN PERPETUITY.— The reservation of the ultimate benefit contemplated by the proviso to S. 3 of the Wakf Validating Act can either be made expressly or impliedly. The answer to the question whether the reservation of the ultimate benefit for those purposes has been made by a deed of wakf must depend on the intention of the wakif as disclosed by the deed. In a case where the words "wakf-fi-sabi-lillah" have been used and wakf has been created in perpetuity, and there is provision for the appointment of the mutawallis for all time to come, and a portion of the usufruct of the wakf property has been reserved for pious and charitable purposes, and the wakif had in contemplation the possible extinction of the line of his descendants who were to be the principal recipients of the profits of the wakf property, the conclusion is that the wakif intended by implication to reserve the ultimate benefit for the purposes enumerated in the proviso. 1935 A.L.J. 647=1935 A. 616. The performance of fateha ceremonies is a 'religious, pious or charitable purpose' within the meaning of the proviso to S. 3. 1940 A.L.J. 399=1940 A.W.R. (H.C.) 352=1940 All. 383. Where the whole of the trust property is not given to charity as an ultimate bequest, the provisions of the Mussalman Wakf Validating Act cannot be said to be complied with. The wakf cannot be validated under the Act. 48 Bom.L.R. 67. It is open to a settlor under the Hanafi law to reserve for his own maintenance and support during his lifetime the income of the trust property. The Act, however, does not permit a Hanafi Mussalman to reserve the income of the trust property during his life for his own benefit and for such use as he may put it to. 48 Bom.L.R. 67. Under the ordinary law it is not open to a person to tie up his property in perpetuity and give the income of it to his children and his descendants. But the law has made an exception in the case of Mussalmans. The Mussalman Wakf Validating Act makes it lawful for a Mussalman to tie up his property in perpetuity for the maintenance and support of his family, children or descendants provided he makes a provision that the ultimate benefit goes to a charitable object recognised by the Mahomedan law as charitable and the charitable object is of a permanent nature. It is open to him to postpone the benefit being conferred upon charity till the extinction of all his family and his descendants. 48 Bom.L.R. 67. There is nothing in the Mahomedan Law to prevent a Mussalman from creating a trust for charity, by way of a gift to charity in praesenti, although there is a provision in the deed of trust or wakf that the trustees should not spend the money gifted on charity so long as he was alive and gave the income to him, provided the charitable object is such as is recognised as good under the Mahomedan Law. 48 Bom.L.R. 67. The kindred of the settlor and their descendants are not the objects of a wakf contemplated by S. 3 of the Wakf Validating Act, as they do not come within the category "of his family, children or descendants." I.L.R. (1946) Lah. 300. The introduction as beneficiaries of a class of persons who are outside the scope of the Mussalman Wakf Validating Act between the settlor's descendants and the ultimate beneficiary, namely, charity, does not render the wakf bad in its inception. Their interest can be cut out as

4. No such wakf shall be deemed to be invalid merely because the benefit reserved therein for the poor or other religious, pious or charitable purpose of a permanent nature is postponed until after the extinction of the family, children or descendants of the person creating the wakf.

Wakfs not to be invalid by reason of remoteness of benefit to poor, etc.

5. Nothing in this Act shall affect any custom or usage whether local or prevalent among Mussalmans of any particular class or sect.

Saving of local sectarian custom.

THE MUSSALMAN WAKF VALIDATING ACT (XXXII OF 1930).

[25*th July*, 1930.

An Act to give retrospective effect to the Mussalman Wakf Validating Act, 1913.

WHEREAS the Mussalman Wakf Validating Act, 1913, does not apply to wakfs created before its enactment;

AND WHEREAS it is expedient to validate such wakfs without infringing any rights contrary thereto which may htve already accrued or been acquired; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

1. This Act may be called THE MUSSALMAN WAKF VALIDATING ACT, 1930.

Short title.

2. The Mussalman Wakf Validating Act, 1913, shall be deemed to apply to wakfs created before its commencement: beneficiaries and the interest of charity thus accelerated. I.L.R. (1946) Lah. 300. Where the bequest is for purposes one of which is charitable and the other merely benevolent and discretion is left to the trustee to spend the income on either object as he pleases, the whole bequest is bad for uncertainty. I.L.R. (1946) Lah. 300. It is a sufficient compliance with the Mussalman Wakf Validating Act if a wakf deed provides that the ultimate benefit is for religious and charitable purposes even though the objects are not specifically stated. Where the words used in a wakf-deed are "mahabi aur khairati kam" which freely translated would mean "religious and charitable works" and the overriding intention of the settlor is to leave the ultimate benefit to charity, the wakf is not void for uncertainty and vagueness. I.L.R. (1946) Lah. 300.

Act VI of 1913 to apply retrospectively.

SECS. 3 AND 4.—Neither of Ss. 3 and 4 make the Act retrospective in its operation; consequently if a wakf created before the passing of the Act was illusory and therefore invalid in the eye of the Mahomedan Law, it would not be validated by reason of any retrospective operation of that Act. 41 A. 1=48 I.C. 94 (2)=16 A.L.J. 841. On the construction of a wakf created by the will of a cutchi menon; Held, (1) that there was no uncertainty with regard to the property dedicated and the dedication was not subject to any contingency, so as to render the dedication invalid on those grounds; the fact that the properties dedicated included part of the residue of the testator's movables did not affect its validity in view of the Mussalman Wakf Validating Act; (2) that all the objects for which the trustees were directed to devote the income in the event of the family becoming extinct were valid objects of wakf; the observance of the anniversaries of the death of the testator and the members of his family, involving feeding of the poor, constituted a valid object of wakf and the reading of the Koran in public and in private houses was not only religious and pious but was also charitable as it was for the benefit of all Mussalmans; and (3) that even if some of the objects were invalid, the wakf would not be rendered invalid as the Cypres doctrine could be applied in carrying out the directions of the will. 1944 M.W.N. 505=1944 Mad. 505= (1944) 2 M.L.J. 92=I.L.R. THE MUSSALMAN WAKF ACT (XLII OF 1923).

Year.	No	Short title.	Amendment.
1923	XLII	The Mussalman Wakf Act.	Sections 2 to 13 came into force in the Madras Presidency on 1st July 1931

[5th August, 1923.

An Act to make provision for the better management of wakf property and for ensuring the keeping and publication of proper accounts in respect of such properties.

WHEREAS it is expedient to make provision for the better management of wakf property and for ensuring the keeping and publication of proper accounts in respect of such properties; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Preliminary.

Short-title extent and commencement.

1. (1) This Act may be called THE MUSSALMAN WAKF ACT, 1923;

(2) It extends to the whole of British India, including British Baluchistan and the Sonthal Parganas;

(3) This section shall come into force[1] at once; and

LEG. REF.

1 Secs. 2 to 5 and 7 to 13 were brought into force in the Punjab with effect from the 14th May, 1924, see Punjab Gazette, 1924. Pt. I, p. 418.

Secs. 2 to 13 were brought into force in the Presidency of Bombay including Sind from the first June, 1925, see Bombay Government Gazette, 1925, Pt. I, p. 1414. All provisions of the Act were brought into force in Bihar and Orissa from the 3rd September, 1925, see Bihar and Orissa Gazette, 1925, Pt. II, p. 1192.

Secs. 2 to 13 were brought into force in the Presidency of Bengal with certain modifications from the 1st June, 1927, see Notification No. 230, T. Mis., dated the 5th May, 1927, Calcutta Gazette. Pt I, p. 1008.

Secs. 2 to 13 were brought into force in Ajmer-Merwara from 1st February, 1928, see Gazette of India, 1928, Pt. II-A, p. 20.

Secs. 2 to 5 and 7 to 13 were brought into force in the N.W.F.P. with effect from 24th February, 1928, see N.W.F.P. Gazette, 1928, Pt. I-A, 183.

SEC. 1.—If part of the purpose of a wakf is to provide for the wakif himself or any member of his family or his descendants, the provisions of the Act will not come into force till after the death of such persons. 170 I.C. 530=1937 O.W.N. 798=1937 Oudh 454. Where a plea is raised before a District Judge that the Mussalman Wakf Act is inapplicable to a particular wakf, the District Judge may refuse to decide it, but if he finds it convenient and desirable to determine the question on the materials before him, he is within his jurisdiction in doing so. I.L.R. (1941) N. 613=1940 N.L.J. 98=1940 Nag. 161. See also 1938 Pat. 127 =19 P.L.T. 617.

As amended by Bombay Act XVIII of 1935—Applicability to Bombay Presidency.

All that Bombay Act XVIII of 1935, amending Act XLII of 1923 did was to amend with the necessary sanction the Act of the Central legislature, and both must be read together and both apply to the Bombay Presidency. 191 I.C. 429=1940 Sind 219.

The absence of any provisions as to appeal only indicates that the results of an inquiry under the Act are not intended to be final and conclusive. But if the requirements of sec. 115, C. P. Code, are fulfilled, a revision from an order under the Act would lie to the High Court under that section. 9 O.W.N. 538=1932 O. 210=7 Luck. 601 (F.B.). Where the plaintiff's case was a valid wakf and that respondents were the mutwallis thereof, but they only denied that the deed of endowment created any trust to which the Charitable and Religious Trusts Act of 1920 could be applicable, it does not deprive the District Judge of his jurisdiction to proceed under Act XLII of 1923.

(4) The [Provincial Government] may by notification in the [Official Gazette], direct that the remaining provisions of this Act, or any of them which it may specify, shall come into force in the Province, or any specified part thereof, on such date as it may appoint in this behalf.

Definitions.

2. In this Act, unless there is anything repugnant in the subject or context,—

(a) "benefit" does not include any benefit which a mutwalli is entitled to claim solely by reason of his being such mutwalli;

(b) "Court" means the Court of the District Judge or, within the limits of the ordinary original civil jurisdiction of a High Court, such Court subordinate to the High Court as the [Provincial Government] may, by notification in the [Official Gazette], designate in this behalf;

(c) "mutwalli" means any person apponted either verbally or under any deed or instrument by which a wakf has been created or by a Court of competent jurisdiction to be mutwalli of a wakf, and includes a naib-mutwalli or other person appointed by a mutwalli to perform the duties of the mutwalli, and, save as otherwise provided in this Act, any person who is for the time being administering any wakf property;

(d) "prescribed" means prescribed by rules made under this Act; and

(e) "wakf" means the permanent dedication by a person professing the Mussalman faith of any property for any purpose recognized by the Mussal-

SEC. 2 (b).—A wakf created originally to provide facilities for travellers on a road, i.e., to subserve a charitable purpose with a provision that any surplus income that might arise in future should be enjoyed by the original creater of the wakf and the members of his family, is not a wakf which is excluded from the purview of the Mussalman Wakf Act of 1923, as such a wakf is not one falling under sec. 3 of the Mussalman Wakf Validating Act of 1913. See 3 of the Act of 1913 cannot apply to wakfs which subserve two purposes partly charitable and partly private but must apply only to wakfs originally designed to serve one purpose only and that is private. 55 L.W. 828=1942 M.W.N. 712=(1942) 2 M.L. J. 672.

An application under sec. 2 of the Mussalman Wakf Act for registration of wakf estate has to be presented in the Court of the District Judge which is the Court competent to entertain the application. The Court of an Additional District Judge is a Court different from that of the District Judge, but under sec. 8 (2) of the Bengal, Agra and Assam Civil Courts Act, it is competent to the District Judge to transfer the application for registration of a wakf estate to the Additional District Judge and on such transfer the Additional District Judge has jurisdiction to deal with the matter. The Additional District Judge has all the powers which the District Judge has and has jurisdiction to pass any order which the District Judge could pass including an order reconsidering or reviewing a prior order, even though such prior order is one passed by the District Judge prior to the transfer to the Additional Judge. The inherent power to review conferred by sec. 151, C. P. Code, can be exercised by the Additional District Judge and he is therefore competent to vacate an order passed by the District Judge before the application was transferred [illegible] to the Additional District Judge. 1942 P.W.N. 94.

SEC. 2 (c).—A District Judge has no jurisdiction to pass an order appointing a mutwalli under sec. 2 (c) of the Act. 34 P. L.R. 81=1933 L. 27.

SEC. 2 (e).—"Wakf" as denfied by sec. 2 (e) means the permanent dedication by a person professing the Mussalman faith of any property for any purpose recognised by the Mahomedan Law as religious, pious or charitable. The purpose of benefiting Madressa is a purpose recognised as charitable by the Mahomedan Law. It is not however necessary that the dedication should be by a beneficial owner. There may be a dedication by a trustee as well, though of course he must keep within the terms of the trust. Where certain persons collect monies for the purpose of building a Madressa and then build the same, and the trustees purchase immmovable property out of the funds of the Madressa and execute a declaration of trust admitting the purchase for the support of the Madressa and declaring that they hold the property upon trust, in substance for the Madressa; there is a good dedication for the purpose of a wakf. I L.R. (1941) Bom. 328 =43 Bom.L.R. 152=1941 Bom. 152. Where a testator by his will bequeathed the whole of his property owned by him on the date of the will and also property which he may acquire thereafter in favour of his two sons in equal shares, but no list of the property was attached to the will, and the testator further stated that there was some wakf property attached to the imambara of which he was a mutwalli and prescribed a scheme of succession to the office of mutwalli, but the recitals in the will neither fixed with any man law as religious, pious or charitable, but does not include any wakf, such as is described in section 3 of the Mussalman Wakf Validating Act, 1913, under which any benefit is for the time being claimable for himself by the person by whom the wakf was created or by any of his family or descendants.

Statements of Particulars.

Obligation to furnish particulars relating to wakf.

3. (1) Within six months from the commencement of this Act every mutwalli shall furnish to the Court within the local limits of whose jurisdiction the property of the wakf of which he is the mutwalli is situated, or to any one of two or more such Courts, a statement containing the following particulars, namely:—

(a) a description of the wakf property sufficient for the identification thereof;

(b) the gross annual income from such property;

(c) the gross amount of such income which has been collected during the five years preceding the date on which the statement is furnished, or of the period which has elapsed since the creation of the wakf, whichever period is shorter;

(d) the amount of the Government revenue and cesses, and of all rents, annually payable in respect of the wakf property;

(e) an estimate of the expenses annually incurred in the realisation of the income of the wakf property, based on such details as are available of any such expenses incurred within the period to which the particulars under clause (c) relate;

(f) the amount set apart under the wakf for—

(i) the salary of the mutwalli and allowances to individuals;

(ii) purely religious purposes;

(iii) charitable purposes;

(iv) any other purposes; and

(g) any other particulars which may be prescribed.

(2) Every such statement shall be accompanied by a copy of the deed or instrument creating the wakf or, if no such deed or instrument has been exe-definiteness the property which was the subject matter of the wakf, nor indicated the nature of the wakf, and there was no evidence of any dedication of property or of any purpose for which the wakf was founded. Held, that there was no evidence to justify the treatment of any property as wakf property. 7 O W N 986=1930 O. 509. Some of the terms of a wakf were as follows: (1) as long as the founders live, they shall appropriate one-third of the proceeds of the wakf properties themselves and apply two-thirrds to other charities; (2) after their death, two thirds of the wakf properties shall be enjoyed by their children and the remaining one-third should go to meet the charities; and (3) in the event of non-existence of any child begotten by the founder, such a person from among their relatives as may be most nearly related to them shall be appointed mutwalli and shall get Rs. 10 a month as a salary, shall live in their dwelling-house and shall appropriate the balance of the proceeds of the tanks and gardens left after defraying the expenses of persons attached to the Madrasha and Khanka. Held, that the wakf did not come under sec. 3 of Act VI of 1913, but came within the exception of sec. 2 (e) of the Act of 1923. 37 C.W.N. 395=60 C. 790=1933 C. 581.

SEC. 3.—The provisions of the Mussalman Wakf Act of 1923 are applicable to a united wakf, i.e., one that is partly a public wakf, that is devoted entirely to religious purposes, and partly a private wakf. Where, in the case of such a wakf, it is found that at least half the income is in open ert of any family obligation, such part of the wakf is governed by the Act of 1923, and under sec. 3 of the Act, the mutwalli can be called upon to file a statement of accounts and to pay contribution 212 I. C. 372=45 Bom. L. R. 1055=1944 Bom. 91. Applicability—Kinds of wakf governed by. See 1943 M. 234=(1942) 2 M. L. J. 672. If a mutwalli has complied with the provisions of sec. 3, no question as to whether he denies the wakf or admits it can arise, because by his conduct in furnishing particulars of the wakf property, he must be deemed to have admitted the wakf and his own position as mutwalli. 1932 A. 362=54 A. 475.

SEC. 3 (2): INQUIRY UNDER—SCOPE OF.—The inquiry must be summary and will not cuted or a copy thereof cannot be obtained, shall contain full particulars, as far as they are known to the mutwalli, of the origin, nature and objects of the wakf.

(3) Where—

(a) a wakf is created after the commencement of this Act, or

(b) in the case of a wakf such as is described in section 3 of the Wakf Validating Act, 1913, the person creating the wakf or any member of his family or any of his descendants is at the commencement of this Act alive and entitled to claim any benefit thereunder, the statement referred to in sub-section (1) shall be furnished, in the case referred to in clause (a), within six months of the date on which the wakf is created or, if it has been created by a written document, of the date on which such document is executed, or, in the case referred to in clause (b), within six months of the date of the death of the person entitled to such benefit as aforesaid, or of the last survivor of any such persons, as the case may be.

Publication of particulars and requisition of further particulars.

4. (1) When any statement has been furnished under section 3, the Court shall cause notice of the furnishing thereof to be affixed in some conspicuous place in the Court-house and to be published in such other manner, if any, as may be prescribed, and thereafter any person may apply to the Court by a petition in writing, accompanied by the prescribed fee, for the issue of an order requiring the mutwalli to furnish further particulars or documents.

(2) On such application being made, the Court may, after making such inquiry, if any, as it thinks fit, if it is of opinion that any further particulars or documents are necessary in order that full information may be obtained regarding the origin, nature or objects of the wakf or the condition or management of the wakf property, cause to be served on the mutwalli an order requiring him be conclusive between the contending parties in any future controversy as regards the origin nature and objects of the wakf but the Act does not exclude such inquiry altogether. 7 Luck. 601=1932 O. 210 (F.B.) There is no jurisdiction conferred upon a District Judge to call upon the mutawalli of a wakf suo motu to furnish particulars regarding the finances of the wakf. There is no provision in the Mussalman Wakf Act for any exercise of the powers of the Court of its own accord. 1945 M.W.N. 577=(1945) 2 M.L.J. 269.

ACT (AS AMENDED BY BOMBAY ACT OF 1935), SEC. 3.—Sec. 3 of the Mussalman Wakf Act applies to any property of a wakf within the jurisdiction of the local Court. So that if one finds mutwalli with property within the local limits of the Small Causes Court at Bombay, it is clear that he has to furnish the required particulars, although other properties of the wakf may be situate, and those who benefit from the wakf may be resident outside Bombay or outside British India. I.L.R. (1941) Bom. 328=43 Bom.L.R. 152= 1941 Bom 152

SECS. 3, 4 AND 5.—The Court of District Judge has jurisdiction, to take proceedings under the same Act, when the alleged wakf is not admitted or denied by the alleged mutwalli. 7 Luck. 601=1932 O. 210 (F.B.). Per Young, C. J.—The Mussalman Wakf Act merely confers administrative powers upon the "Court". The object is to have on record full particulars of all wakf property and to enforce that the Mutwalli shall honestly carry out the provisions of the trust imposed upon him, and to have in a convenient place information available to the public, or to any beneficiary of the wakf, in order that they may see whether the wakf property is being properly administered and, if it is not, that any one may file an information against the mutwalli so that the penalty imposed by sec. 10 of the Act may be inflicted upon him. The "Court" is nowhere in the Act said to be acting in its judicial capacity. I.L.R. (1941) Lah. 395= 43 P.L.R. 208=1941 Lah. 145 (F.B.).

SECS. 3, 9 AND 10.—There is no jurisdiction for the District Judge to appoint receiver in a proceeding started on an application for direction on a mutwalli to file particulars and accounts contemplated by Act XLII of 1923. An order therefore appointing a receiver being without jurisdiction is liable to be set aside in revision, though no appeal lies against such an order. 165 I.C. 740=40 C.W.N. 1300=1936 C. 420.

to furnish such particultrs or documents within such time as the Court may direct in the order.

Statement of Accounts, and Audit.

Statement of accounts.

5. Within three months after the thirty-first day of March next following the date on which the statement referred to in section 3 has been furnished, and thereafter within three months of the thirty-first day of March in every year, every mutwalli shall prepare and furnish to the Court to which such statement was furnished a full and true statement of accounts, in such form and containing such particulars as may be prescribed, of all moneys received or expended by him on behalf of the wakf of which he is the mutwalli during the period of twelve months ending on such thirty-first day of March or, as the case may be during that portion of the said period during which the provisions of this Act have been applicable to the wakf:

Provided that the Court may, if it is satisfied that there is sufficient cause for so doing, extend the time allowed for the furnishing of any statement of accounts under this section.

Audit of accounts.

6. Every statement of accounts shall, before it is furnished to the Court under S. 5, be audited—

(a) in the case of a wakf the gross income of which during the year in question, after deduction of the land-revenue and cesses, if any, payable to the Government, exceeds two thousand rupees by a person who is the holder of a certificate granted by the [1][Central Government] under S. 144 of the Indian Companies Act, 1913, or is a member of any institution or association the mem-

SEC. 5.—The Mussalman Wakf Act does not apply to a wakf which is a settlement partly for the benefit of poor relations and partly for the benefit of a section of the public belonging to the Shia community. 119 I.C. 365=1930 O. 53. Sec. 5 does not by itself contemplate the intervention of other persons for compelling the mutwalli to file his accounts except possibly as a mere reminder to the judge that the accounts have not been filed with a view to induce the Judge to take proceedings under sec. 10. 52 A. 167=1930 A. 81. On the wording of sec. 5 there cannot be any offence under that section unless a statement has been delivered under sec. 3 of the Act; sec. 5 cannot come into operation unless sec. 3 has been complied with. I.L.R. (1941) Bom. 328=1941 Bom. 152.

District Judge has power to scrutinise the accounts and disallow items and order an amended statement of account to be filed. I.L.R. (1943) Nag. 338=1943 Nag. 238. Mutawalli failing to furnish accounts cannot plead that his predecessor had failed to comply with sec. 3 and that he continued the same practice. 1943 O.W.N. 42=1943 Oudh 212.

SECS. 5 AND 10: LIABILITY TO FURNISH ACCOUNTS—POWER OF DISTRICT JUDGE TO ADJUDICATE.—Apart from proceedings under sec. 10 of the Wakf Act, there is no provision of law by which the District Judge can decide on merits the question as to the nature of the wakf or adjudicate upon the question whether a person is liable to furnish accounts under sec. 5 of the Act. If the case falls under the Act, then sec. 5 lays down a substantive law which makes it incumbent upon the mutawalli to file the statement as required by sec. 5. There is provision in the Act by which he can ask the District Judge to adjudicate upon whether he is liable to furnish accounts under sec. 5 or not. 1940 O. W.N. 598=1940 Oudh 813.

Mussalman Wakf (Bombay Amendment Act XVIII of 1935):-

SEC. 6-A.—A Court has to see that the law is enforced. When there is special order made apparently under sec. 6-A of the Mussalman Wakf Act, as amended by Bombay Amendment Act of 1935, directing certain particulars and accounts to be delivered by a mutwalli of wakf, and that order is disobeyed, the mutwalli disobeying such order is on the face of it guilty of contempt of Court and that is a matter which the Court can deal with under the Contempt of Courts Act, 1926. 44 Bom.L.R. 231=1942 Bom. 152.

SECS. 6-C AND 6-F.—No appeal lies from the decision of a District Judge in an enquiry under sec. 6-C. 44 Bom.L.R 231=1942 Bom. 152=I.L.R. (1942) Bom. 240. An inquiry under sec. 6-C (1) (i), is confined to cases where the existence of the wakf is admitted. Where the existence of the wakf is denied, the Court has no jurisdiction to inquire into its existence. I.L.R. (1945) Bom. 257=46 Bom.L.R. 925=1945 Bom. 157.

bers of which have been declared under that section to be entitled to act as auditors of companies throughout British India; or (b) in the case of any other wakf, by any person authorized in this behalf by general or special order of the said Court.

General Provisions.

Mutwalli entitled to pay costs of audit, etc., from wakf funds.

7. Notwithstanding anything contained in the deed or instrument creating any wakf, every mutwalli may pay from the income of the wakf property any expenses properly incurred by him for the purpose of enabling him to furnish any particulars, documents or copies under S. 3 or S. 4 or in respectof the preparation or audit of the annual accounts for the purposes of this Act.

Verification.

8. Every statement of particulars furnished under S. 3 or S. 4, and every statement of accounts furnished under S. 5, shall be written in the language of the Court to which it is furnished, and shall be verified in the manner provided in the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908, for the signing and verification of pleadings.

Inspection and copies.

9. Any person shall, with the permission of the Court and on payment of the prescribed fee, at any time at which the Court is open, be entitled to inspect in the prescribed manner, or to obtain a copy of, any statement of particulars or any document furnished to the Court under S. 3, or S. 4, or any statement of accounts furnished to it under S. 5, or any audit report made on an audit under S. 6.

SECS. 6-C AND 6-M.—The question whether certain property is wakf property is one of the matters which the Court can inquire into under sec. 6-C of the Mussalman Wakf Act as amended by Bombay Amendment Act of 1935, but is not a matter which can be referred to the Wakf Committee under sec. 6-M. The Court has therefore no jurisdiction to refer to the Wakf Committee for investigation and report the question whether a property is wakf property and if so for what purpose. 44 Bom.L.R. 231=I.L.R. (1942) Bom. 240=1942 Bom. 152.

SEC. 6-D.—In the case of a wakf whose property is situate beyond the local limits of the jurisdiction of a District Court, the mutwalli cannot be called upon by that Court to contribute to the Wakf Administration Fund under the Mussalman Wakf (Bombay Amendment) Act of 1935. The only wakfs which can be called upon to make a contribution to that Fund are the wakfs to which under the principal Act (Mussalman Wakf Act of 1923) the Court directing a contribution to be made has jurisdiction. There is nothing in the Act which extends the jurisdiction of the Court to cases in which the mutwallis reside within the district or in which they apply the income within the district. The jurisdiction of the Court is confined entirely to cases in which the wakf property is situate within the limits of its jurisdiction. I.L.R. (1939) Bom. 611=41 Bom.L.R. 934=1939 Bom. 447.

SEC. 6-F.—Where a notice issued to an accused person under sec. 10-B and R. 26 of the Mussalman Wakf Act as amended by the Bombay Amendment Act of 1935, does not specify that an inquiry under sec. 6-C of the Act is being held, it is open to the accused to say that he had no idea that an inquiry under sec. 6-C was being held, and the findings recorded by the Judge in respect of the matter cannot be considered to be final within the meaning of sec. 6-F of the Act. 44 Bom.L.R. 231=I.L.R. SEC. 6-M.—Where the Wakf Committee to which a matter has been referred by the Court under sec. 6-M of the Mussalman Wakf Act, as amended by the Bombay Amendment Act of 1935 makes a report to the Court after making an inquiry, and the matter again comes before the Court, it is not competent to the Judge to accept evidence which had been filed before the committee or documents which have not been proved. Evidence given before the committee is not made evidence in proceedings before the Court and the Judge should therefore hear the accused and take evidence himself. I.L.R. sec. 5, supra. There is nothing in the Mussalman Wakf Act to indicate that it was the intention of the legislature that the Court designated to receive the particulars referred to in the Act is to enter into an elaborate inquiry as to the existence of the wakf or to determine the right to mutwalliship between rival claimants. By leaving the right to mutwalliship undecided, the object of the Act is not frustrated because secs. 5 and 10 act as preventive against applications under sec. 3 being made by persons who are not actually mutwallis. 19 Pat.L.T. 617=1938 Pat. 137. See also 1940 Nag. 161 Interpretation of the Statute. 9 O.W.N. 538=1938 O. 210=7 Luck. 601 (F.B.). It is necessary for a Court to decide whether the person who is alleged to be in default is or is not the mutwalli of a 'wakf' within the meaning of the Act. The mere fact that the party denies that he is mutwalli is immaterial if there is other evidence to show that he occupies that position. 1932 A.L.J. 266=1932 A 389. An offence under the section is an offence within the meaning of sec. 4 (o) of the Cr. P. Code, and consequently triable by a Magistrate and not by the District Judge. 22 S. L. R. 141=1928 S. 43. All that is needed to bring home an offence under sec. 10 read with sec. 3 to a defaulting mutwalli is to establish by evidence that he is a mutwalli in respect of property which is wakf within the meaning of the Act. Whether the character of the property as wakf and his own position as mutawalli are admitted or are established by evidence, if denied. Sec. 10 is equally applicable. 54 A. 475=1932 A.L.J. 262=1932 A. 262. Under sec. 10 the District Judge has the power to punish a mutwalli if, without any reasonable cause, the burden of proving which shall lie upon him, he fails to furnish statement of particulars of documents or statement of accounts. That is purely a penal proceeding in the course of which the judge may enquire as to whether a wakf is one to which the Act is applicable. But, till that stage arises, the judge cannot hold any such enquiry and compel a mutwalli, who is not admitting the applicability of the Act to file accounts. 52 A. 167=1930 A. 81. In case of prosecution under sec. 10, the Magistrate has jurisdiction to proceed with the inquiry as to whether the property is wakf or not. On a prosecution under sec. 10 it is clearly necessary in the first place for the prosecution to show that the person charged is a mutwalli of the wakf. If that fact is denied, the Magistrate may hear evidence on the point and determine it in the usual way. If he finds that the person charged is a mutwalli, then the next question is whether there has been default under the Act. If the default is proved or admitted and the person charged says that he had reasonable cause for making default, then the burden of proof of that is upon him. (52 All. 167, Foll.) 58 B. 302=36 Bom.L.R. 311=1934 Bom. 169. Where the existence of the wakf is denied by the defendants, the District Judge has no jurisdiction to proceed with an application asking for action under sec. 10. The District Court cannot go into the question as to whether the properties, are wakf properties. The only order that can be passed is that the applicant should get the matter settled by insituting a regular suit. 57 A. 754=1935 A.L.J. 307=1925 A. 254; I.L.R. (1941) Lah. 395=1941 Lah. 145. See also I.L.R. (1939) Nag. 564=1939 N.L.J. 249=1939 Nag. 205; 1940 Nag. 161; 1938 Pat. 137. Under sec. 10 the District Judge can impose fine but not a sentence of imprisonment in default of payment of the fine. 1932 A. 389. The District Judge and not the Criminal Court is the proper authority to enforce the provision contained in sec. 10. 54 A. 475=1932 A. 362. The District Judge is the proper Court to decide whether fine should be imposed under sec. 10 of the Act. He has to decide whether statements of accounts furnished are true or not and whether they had been furnished within due time. It cannot have been intended that, after he has decided that statements are untrue or are not furnished within due time and that a fine ought to be imposed, he must send the case to a Magistrate to try what was intended to be decided in Civil Courts. I.L.R. (1937) Nag. 532=1937 Nag. 135. It is not correct to hold that the District Court is the Court which can impose the fine provided in sec. 10. Sec. 10 of the Act creates an offence and says in so many words that the omission described in the section is an offence. Since there is no Court mentioned in the Act as the Court which shall try offences under sec. 10, it follows that the Court which can try those offences is the ordinary Criminal Court, i.e., the Court indicated in the Cr. P. Code, which can try such offences, in view of sec. 29 (2); Cr. P. Code. It would be contry to all principle that the Court of the District Judge should have power to punish offences under sec. 10, for in such case the Court of the District Judge would be virtually in the position of prosecutor and Judge at the same time. 1941 Lah. 145. Quaere: whether in proceedings under sec. 10, the District Judge has jurisdiction to hold an enquiry into the nature of the property where

(2) In particular and without prejudice to the generality of the foregoing power, such rules may provide for all or any of the following matters, namely:—

(a) the additional particulars to be furnished by mutwallis under clause (g) of sub-section (1) of S. 3;

(b) the fees to be charged upon applications made to a Court under sub-section (1) of S. 4;

(c) the form in which the statement of accounts referred to in S. 5 shall be furnished, and the particulars which shall be contained therein;

(d) the powers which may be exercised by auditors for the purpose of any audit referred to in S. 6, and the particulars to be contained in the reports of such auditors;

(e) the fees respectively chargeable on account of the allowing of inspections and of the supply of copies under S. 9;

After the Bombay Amending Act of 1935, so far as Bombay Presidency and presumably Sind is concerned, it is not now the scheme of the Act that offences under the Act should be punished only by the District Court as the only Court contemplated by the Act, for the Amending Act has now created other offences besides the offence under sec. 10 and added sec. 10-B which applies genrally to offences committed under the Act as a whole. The scheme of the Act is that offences under the Act are ordinary criminal proceedings to be tried by the ordinary Criminal Courts with the proviso that sanction for prosecutions must be given by a Court in the manner prescribed and that no Criminal Court of the Second or Third Class Magistrate shall be competent to try an offence under that Act. 39 Cr.L.J. 805 =1938 Sind 149.

When such power may be exercised.

4. The power conferred by the first clause of section 3 shall be exercisable only when the coins referred to in such notification comply with the following conditions (that is to say)— in the case of coins of gold, silver or bronze,

(a) their fineness is identical with that for the time being prescribed by law for coins of the Central Government of the same metal;

in the case of coins whether of gold, silver, bronze or copper,

(b) they are identical in weight with some coins of the Central Government of the same metal, which may for the time being be legally coined at any Mint of the Central Government, or bear such relation thereto as is approved by the Central Government;

(c) the devices upon their obverse and reverse differ from the devices on coins now made or issued by any such [Indian State], and have been approved by the Central Government;

(d) upon each of such coins its value in money of the Central Government is inscribed in the English language;

(e) the [Indian State] for which they are coined has undertaken to abstain during a term of not less than thirty years from the date of the notification, from coining in its own Mint gold, silver, bronze, or copper, as the case may be, and has also undertaken that no coins resembling coins for the time being a legal tender in British India, shall, after the expiration of the said term, be struck under its authority or with its permission at any place within or without its jurisdiction;

(f) such State has formerly declared that a tender of payment of money, if made in coins of the Central Government of the same metal, shall, in the territories subject to such State, be a legal tender in the cases in which payment made in such coins would, under the law for the time being in force, be a legal tender in British India;

(g) such State has also agreed that the law and rules for the time being in force respecting the cutting and breaking of coin of the Central Government reduced in weight by reasonable wearing or otherwise, or counterfeit, or called in by proclamation, shall apply to the coins made for such State under this Act, and that it will defray the cost of cutting and breaking them; and

(h) such State has also agreed not to issue the same coins below their nominal value, and not to allow any discount or other advantage to any person in order to bring them into circulation.

[Indian] States authorized to send metal to British India Mint for coinage

5. It shall be lawful for any such State to send to any Mint in British India metal to be made into coin under this Act; and, subject to the Mint Rules for the time being in force, and to the provisions hereinafter contained, the Mint-master shall receive such metal and convert it into coin, provided that it be fit for coinage.

Nothing herein contained shall be deemed to entitle any such State to have coins made under this Act at any Mint of the Central Government of any metal which is not for the time being legally coined at such Mint.

Power to impose a charge for coinage.

6. The Central Government may impose on any metal sent to a Mint for coinage under this Act the duty (if any) leviable on the same metal under the Indian Coinage Act, 1870[1], and also a charge sufficient to defray the expenses of coinage over and above the expenses of assay and refining; and the Mint-master shall coin such metal at the charge so imposed.

LEG. REF.

1 See now the Indian Coinage Act (III of 1906).

7. The Central Government may, from time to time, with reference to the reasonable requirements of the population of any [Indian State], fix the maximum number of any coins of any particular metal that shall be coined under this Act.

Power to limit number of coins to be made under this Act for any Indian State.

On service of petition, citation to respondent.

8. A copy of the petition shall be served upon the respondent, and the Court shall thereupon issue a citation under the seal of the Court and signed by the Judge.

Form of citation

9. In ordinary cases the citations shall be in the form in the second schedule to this Act, or as near thereto as the circumstances of the case will allow.

But where the respondent is exempt by law from personal appearance in Court, or where the Judge shall so direct, the citation shall be in the form in the third schedule to this Act, or as near thereto as the circumstances of the case will allow.

Service of citation.

10. A copy of the citation sealed with the seal of the Court shall be served on the respondent; and the provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure, as to the service and endorsement of summonses shall apply, mutatis mutandis, to citations under this Act.

Penalty on respondent not obeying citation

11. If the respondent shall not obey such citation and comply with every other requirement made upon her or him under the provisions of this Act, she or he shall be liable to punishment under section 174 of the Indian Penal Code.

Points to be proved on appearance of petitioner.

12. On the day fixed in the citation the petitioner shall appear in Court, and the following points shall be proved—

(1) the identity of the parties;

(2) the marriage between the petitioner and the respondent;

(3) that the male party to the suit has completed the age of sixteen years, and that the female party to the suit has completed the age of thirteen years;

(4) the desertion or repudiation of the petitioner by the respondent;

(5) that such desertion or repudiation was in consequence of the petitioner's change of religion;

(6) and that such desertion or repudiation had continued for the six months immediately before the commencement of the suit.

First interrogation of respondent.

13. The respondent, if such points be proved to the satisfaction of the Judge, shall thereupon be asked whether she or he refuses to cohabit with the petitioner, and, if so, what is the ground of such refusal.

In ordinary cases such interrogation and every other interrogation prescribed by this Act shall be made by the Judge, but when the respondent is exempt by law from personal appearance in Court, or when the Judge shall in his discretion excuse the respondent from such appearance, the interrogation shall be made by commissioners acting under such commission as hereinafter mentioned.

18. Notwithstanding anything hereinbefore contained, if it shall appear at any stage of the suit that both or either of the parties had not attained puberty at the date of their marriage, and that such marriage has not been consummated, and if, in answer to the interrogatories made pursuant to section 13 of this Act, the respondent shall refuse to cohabit with the petitioner, and allege, as the ground for such refusal, that the petitioner has changed his or her religion, the Judge shall thereupon pass such a decree as last aforesaid.

Decree if respondent so refuse in case of unconsummated marriage, either party being impubes at time of marriage.

19. When any decree dissolving a marriage shall have been passed under the provisions of this Act, it shall be as lawful for the respective parties thereto to marry again as if the prior marriage had been dissolved by death, and the issue of any such re-marriage shall be legitimate, any Native law to the contrary notwithstanding:

Liberty to parties to marry again.

Provided always that no minister of religion shall be compelled to solemnize the marriage of any person whose former marriage may have been dissolved under this Act, or shall be liable to any suit or penalty for refusing to solemnize the marriage of any such person.

20. In suits instituted under this Act, the Judge shall order a commission to issue to such persons whether males or females, or both, as he shall think fit, for the examination on interrogatories or otherwise of any persons so exempt as aforesaid.

Judge to order commission to issue for examination of exempted persons.

The provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure shall, so far as practicable, apply to commissions issued under this section.

21. At any stage of a suit instituted under this Act, cohabitation as man and wife shall be sufficient presumptive evidence of the marriage of the parties, and proof of the respondent's refusal or voluntary neglect to cohabit with the petitioner after his or her change of religion and after knowledge thereof by the respondent, shall be sufficient evidence of the respondent's desertion or repudiation of the petitioner and shall also be sufficient evidence that such desertion or repudiation was in consequence of the petitioner's change of religion, unless some other sufficient cause for such desertion or repudiation be proved by the respondent.

Proof of marriage and desertion or repudiation of petitioner in consequence of conversion.

22. The provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure as to the summoning and examination of witnesses shall apply in suits instituted under this Act.

Civil Procedure Code applied.

23. If at any stage of the suit it be proved that the male party to the suit is or was at the institution thereof under the age of sixteen years, or that the female party to the suit is or was at the same time under the age of thirteen years, or that the petitioner and the respondent are cohabiting as man and wife, or the Court is satisfied by the evidence adduced that the respondent is ready and willing so to cohabit with the petitioner, the Court shall pass a decree dismissing the suit and stating the ground of such dismissal.

Dismissal of suit if either party under age required by Act, or if parties cohabiting, or, respondent willing to cohabit.

24. If, at any time within twelve months after a decree dismissing the suit upon any of the grounds mentioned in the last preceding section, the respondent again desert or repudiate the petitioner upon the ground of his or her change of religion, the suit may be revived by summoning the respondent; and,

Revival of suit after such dismissal.

upon proof of the former decree and of such renewed repudiation or desertion, the suit shall re-commence at the stage at which it had arrived immediately before the passing of such decree; and after the proofs, interrogations, interview and adjournment which may then be requisite under the provisions hereinbefore contained, the Judge shall pass a decree of the nature mentioned in section 16 of this Act.

Petitioner's cruely or adulery to bar suit.

25. If at any stage of the suit it be proved that the respondent has deserted or repudiated the petitioner solely or partly in consequence of the petitioner's cruelty or adultery, the Court shall pass a decree dismissing the suit and stating the ground of such dismissal.

A suit dismissed under this section shall not be revived.

Male petitioner's cohabitation with one of several wives to bar suit.

26. If the petitioner, being a male, has at the time of the institution of the suit two or more wives, he shall make them all respondents; and if at any stage of the suit it be proved that he is cohabiting with one of such wives as man and wife, or that any one of such wives is ready and willing so to cohabit with him, the Court shall pass a decree dismissing the suit and stating the ground of such dismissal.

The provisions as to revival contained in section 24 of this Act shall apply, mutatis mutandis, to a suit dismissed under this section.

Dissolution of marriage not to affect status or right of children.

27. A dissolution of marriage under the provisions of this Act shall not operate to deprive the respondent's children (if any) by the petitioner of their status as legitimate children or of any right or interest which they would have had, according to the Native law applicable to them, by way of maintenance, inheritance or otherwise, in case the marriage had not been so dissolved as aforesaid.

Power to Court to award alimony.

28. If a suit be commenced under the provisions of this Act, and it appear to the Court that the wife has not sufficient separate property to enable her to maintain herself suitably to her station in life and to prosecute or defend the suit, the Court may, pending the suit, order the husband to furnish the wife with sufficient funds to enable her to prosecute or defend the suit and also for her maintenance pending the suit.

If the suit be brought by a husband against a wife, the Court may by the decree order the husband to make such allowance to his wife for her maintenance during the remainder of her life as the Court shall think just, and having regard to the condition and station in life of the parties.

Any allowance so ordered shall cease from the time of any subsequent marriage of the wife.

No appeal under Act, but Judge may state case raising question whether conversion has dissolved marriage.

29. No appeal shall lie against any order or decree made or passed by any Court in any suit instituted under this Act; but if, at any stage of the suit, the respondent shall allege by way of defence that the marriage between the parties has been dissolved by the conversion of the petitioner, and that consequently the petitioner is not a Native husband or a Native wife (as the case may be) within the meaning of this Act, the Judge, if he shall entertain any doubt as to the validity of such defence, shall either of his own motion or on the application of the respondent, state the case and submit it with his own opinion thereon for the decision of the High Court.

30. Every such case shall concisely set forth such facts and documents as may be necessary to enable the High Court to decide the questions raised thereby, and the suit shall be stayed until the judgment of such Court shall have been received as hereinafter provided.

Case to state necessary facts and documents, and suit to be stayed.

31. Every such case shall be decided by at least three Judges of the High Court, if such Court be the High Court at any of the presidency-towns; and the petitioner and respondent may appear and be heard in the High Court in person or by advocate or vakil.

Case to be decided by three Judges.

32. If the High Court shall not be satisfied that the statements contained in the case are sufficient to enable it to determine the questions raised thereby, the High Court may refer the case back to the Judge by whom it was stated, to make such additions thereto or alterations therein as the High Court may direct in that behalf.

High Court may refer case to Judge for additions or alterations.

33. It shall be lawful for the High Court, upon the hearing of any such case, to decide the questions raised thereby, and to deliver its judgment thereon containing the grounds on which such decision is founded;

High Court may decide questions raised, and Judge shall dispose of case accordingly.

and it shall send to the Judge by whom the case was stated a copy of such judgment under the seal of the Court and the signature of the Registrar, and the Judge shall, on receiving the same, dispose of the case conformably to such judgment.

34. Nothing contained in this Act [1][* * * ] shall be taken to render invalid any marriage of a Native convert to Roman Catholicism if celebrated in accordance with the rules, rites, ceremonies and customs of the Roman Catholic Church [1][ * *].

Saving of Roman Catholic marriages.

35. This Act shall extend to all the territories that are or shall become vested in Her Majesty or Her Successors by the [2]Statute 21 and 22 Vict., chap. 106, entitled "An Act for the better Gofernment of India," [3][* * * * *].

THE NATURALIZATION ACT (VII OF 1926).

N.B.—Throughout this Act, save as otherwise provided, for "a Local Government", or "the Local Government," or "such Local Government" the words "the Central Government" have been substituted by the Government of India (Adaptation of Indian Laws) Order, 1937.

Year.	No.	Short title.	Amendments.
1926	VII	The Indian Naturalization Act, 1926	Repealed in part, XII of 1927. Amended, I of 1935.

[26th February, 1926.

An Act to consolidate and amend the law relating to the naturalization in British India of aliens resident therein.

WHEREAS it is expedient to consolidate and amend the law relating to the naturalization in British India of aliens resident therein; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Short title, extent and commencement.

1. (1) This Act may be called THE INDIAN NATURALIZATION ACT, 1926.

(2) It extends to the whole of British India, including British Baluchistan and the Sonthal Parganas.

SEC. 1.—It cannot be held that the Naturalization Act of 1870 applies to the Punjab, and even if it does, the Maharaja of Faridkot cannot be said to be an alien. 10 L. 447=1929 L. 1.

SEC. 2 (a).—The expressions "British subject" and "natural-born British subject" are defined in secs. 27 and 1, respectively, of the British Nationality and Status of Aliens Act, 1914 (4 and 5, Geo. 5. Ch. 17), as follows:

"27. * * * The expression 'British subject' means a person who is a natural-born British subject or a person to whom a certificate of naturlization has been granted or a person who has become a subject of His Majesty by reason of any annexation of territory."

"1. (1) The following persons shall be deemed to be natural-born British subjects, namely:—

(a) any person born within His Majesty's dominions and allegiance; and (b) any person born out of his dominions whose father was, at the time of that person's birth, a British subject, and who fulfills any of the following conditions, that is to say, if either—

(i) his father was born within His Majesty's allegiance; or

(ii) his father was a person to whom a certificate of naturalization had been granted; or

(iii) his father had become a British subject by reason of any annxation of territory;

(iv) his father was at the time of that person's birth in the service of the Crown; or

(v) his birth was registered at a British consulate within one year or in special circumstances, with the consent of the Secretary of State, two years after its occurrence, or in the case of a person born on or after the first day of January, nineteen hundred and fifteen, who would have been a British subject if born before that date, within twelve months after the first day of August, nineteen hundred and twenty-two; and

(c) any person born on board a British ship whether in foreign territorial waters or not;

Provided that the child of a British subject, whether that child was born before or after the passing of this Act, shall be deemed to have been born within His Majesty's allegiance if born in a place where by treaty, capitulation, grant, usage, sufferance, or other lawful means, His Majesty exercises jurisdiction over British subjects:

Provided also that any person whose British nationality is conditional upon registration at a British consulate shall cease to be a British subject, unless within one year after he attains the age of twenty-one, or within such extended period as may be authorised in special cases by regulations made under this Act—

(i) he asserts his British nationality by a declaration of retention of British nationality, registered in such manner as may be prescribed by regulations made under this Act; and

(ii) if he is a subject or citizen of a foreign county under the law of which he

(3) It shall come into force on such date as the Central Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette, appoint.

Definitions.

2. In this Act, unless there is anything repugnant in the subject or context,

(a) "British subject" means a British subject as defined in section 27 of the British Nationality and Status of Aliens Act, 1914.

(b) "certificate of naturalization" means a certificate of naturalization granted under this Act; and

(c) "minor" means any person subject to the Indian Majority Act, 1875, who has not attained his majority within the meaning of that Act, or any other person who has not attained the age of eighteen years.

Grant of certificate of naturalization.

3. (1) The Central Government may grant a certificate of naturalization to any person who makes an application in this behalf and satisfies the Central Government—

(a) that he is not a minor;

(b) that he is neither a British subject nor a subject of any state in Europe or America or of any state of which an Indian British subject is prevented by or under any law from becoming a subject by naturalization;

(c) that he has, during a period of not less than five years immediately preceding the date of the application, either resided in British India or been in the service of the Crown [1][in India];

(d) that he is of good character;

(e) that he has an adequate knowledge of a language which has been declared by the Central Government, by notification in the Official Gazette, to be [2][one of the principal vernaculars of British India]; and

(f) that he intends, if the application is granted, to reside in British India or to enter or continue in the service of the Crown [1][In India];

Provided that nothing in clause (c) or clause (f) shall apply in the case of a woman who was a British subject previously to her marriage to a person not a British subject and whose husband has died or whose marriage has been dissolved.

(2) Nothing in this section shall be deemed to prevent the grant of a certificate of naturalization to any person to whom a certificate of naturalization has been issued under the Indian Naturalization Act, 1852.

Contents and form of application.

4. (1) Every application for a certificate of naturalization shall be in writing and shall state, to the best of the knowledge and belief of the applicant,—

(a) his age;

(b) his place of birth;

(c) his place of residence;

(d) his profession, trade or occupation;

(e) full particulars regarding his qualifications in respect of the matters referred to in clauses (a) to (f) of sub-section (1) of section 3;

can, at the time of asserting his British nationality, divest himself of the nationality of that foreign country by making a declaration of alienage or otherwise he divests himself of such nationanlity accordingly.

(2) A person born on board a foreign ship shall not be deemed to be a British subject by reason only that the ship was in British territorial waters at the time of birth.

(3) Nothing in this section shall, except as otherwise expressly provided, affect the status of any person born before the commencement of this Act.

(4) The certificate of a Secretary of State that a person was at any date in the service of the Crown, shall for the purposes of this section, be conclusive."

(f) whether he has at any time previously applied for the grant of a certificate of naturalization under the British Nationality and Status of Aliens Act, 1914, or the Indian Naturalization Act, 1852, or this Act;

(g) whether any such application has been rejected:

(h) whether any such certificate has been granted to him; and

(i) whether any such certificate granted to him has been revoked.

(2) Every such application shall be signed by the applicant and shall be accompanied by an affidavit sworn by him verifying that the statements contained therein are true to the best of his knowledge and belief.

(3) The Central Government shall satisfy itself as to the truth of the statements contained in the application, and for this purpose may cause to be made such further inquiry, if any, and may require such further evidence, if any, either by affidavit or otherwise, as it thinks necessary.

Grant of certificate.

5. (1) If the Central Government is satisfied that the applicant is qualified under section 3 for the grant of a certificate of naturalization and is otherwise a fit person for the grant of such certificate, it may grant a certificate reciting the qualifications of the applicant for such grant and conferring upon him all the rights, privileges and capacities of naturalization under this Act, except such rights, privileges, or capacities, if any, as may specifically be withheld by the certificate.

(2) Any such certificate may, if the applicant so requests, include the name of any minor child of the applicant, not being by birth a British subject, who was born before the date of the certificate and is for the time being resident in British India and under the control of the applicant; and shall grant to any child so included all the rights, privileges and capacities of naturalization under this Act, except such rights, privileges or capacities, if any, as may specifically be withheld by the certificate.

(3) The grant of a certificate of naturalization shall be in the absolute discretion of the Central Government, and no appeal shall lie from any refusal to grant any such certificate or to include in any such grant any particular right, privilege or capacity.

Oath of allegiance.

6. Every person to whom a certificate of naturalization has been granted shall, within thirty days from the date of the grant thereof, take and subscribe the following oath, namely:—

"I, A. B., of

do hereby swear (or affirm) that I will be faithful and bear true allegiance to His Majesty the King, Emperor of India, His heirs and Successors":

Provided that the Central Government may extend the time allowed under this section in any case in which it is satisfied that failure to take and subscribe the oath within that time was due to sufficient cause.

Effect of grant of certificate and taking of oath.

7. (1) No certificate of naturalization shall have effect until the person to whom it is granted has taken and subscribed the oath prescribed by section 6, but upon the taking and subscribing of such oath such person, [1][* * *], and any child of any such person who has been included in the certificate under subsection (2) of section 5, shall, when in British India, be deemed to be British subjects and be entitled to all the rights, privileges and capacities of a British subject born within British India, except such rights, privileges or capacities, if any, as may have been withheld from them respectively by the certificate, and shall within British India be subject to all the obligations, duties and liabilities of a British subject; [1][and the wife of any such person to whom a certificate of naturalization is granted after the commencement of the Indian Naturalization (Amendment) Act 1935, shall, if not already a British subject, in like manner be so deemed and be so entitled and so subject, if within one year, or such longer period as the Central Government may in special circumstances, allow from the date of the taking and subscribing of such oath by her husband, she makes to the Central Government a declaration that she desires to be deemed to be a British subject].

(2) When the person to whom a certificate of naturalization has been granted has taken and subscribed the oath prescribed by section 6, any wife thereafter married by, and any child thereafter born to, such person shall, if she or he is not a British subject and if such person aforesaid at the date of the marriage or birth, as the case may be, retains any rights, privileges or capacities of a British subject under this Act, be entitled to the same rights, privileges and capacities, and be subject to the same obligations, duties and liabilities, to which such person aforesaid was at that date entitled and subject.

Revocation of certificate.

8. (1) [2][Where the Central Government is satisfied that a certificate of naturalization granted under this Act, or the Indian Naturalization Act, 1852], was obtained by false representation or fraud or by concealment of material circumstances, or that the person to whom the certificate has been granted has shown himself by act or speech to be disaffected or disloyal to His Majesty, the Central Government shall, by order in writing, revoke the certificate.

(2) Without prejudice to the foregoing provisions, the Central Government shall, by order in writing, revoke such a certificate of naturalization as aforesaid in any case in which it is satisfied that the person to whom the certificate was granted—

(a) has, during any war in which His Majesty is engaged unlawfully traded or communicated with the enemy or with a subject of an enemy state, or been engaged in, or associated with, any business which is to his knowledge carried on in such a manner as to assist the enemy in such war; or

(b) has, within five years of the date of the grant of the certificate, been sentenced by any Court in His Majesty's dominions to transportation or to penal servitude, or to imprisonment for a term of not less than twelve months, or to pay a fine of not less than one thousand rupees: or

(c) was not of good character at the date of the grant of the certificate; or

(d) has since the date of the grant of the certificate been, for a period of not less than seven years, ordinarily resident out of His Majesty's dominions otherwise than as a representative of a British subject, firm or company carrying on business, or of an institution established, in His Majesty's dominions, or in the service of the Crown, and has not maintained substantial connection with His Majesty's dominions; or

(e) remains, according to the law of a state at war with His Majesty, a subject of that state; and that the continuance of the certificate is not conducive to the public good.

[3][* * * *]

(4) The Central Government may, if it thinks fit, before making an order under this section, refer the case for such inquiry as is hereinafter specified, and, in any case to which sub-section (1) or clause (a), clause (c) or clause (e) of sub-section (2) applies, the Central Government shall, by notice given to, or sent by post to the last known address of, the holder of the certificate, give him an opportunity of claiming that the case be referred for such inquiry, and, if the holder so claims in accordance with the notice, the Central Government shall refer the case for inquiry accordingly.

(5) An inquiry under this section shall be held by such person or persons and in such manner as the Central Government may direct in each case.

(6) Where a certificate is revoked under this section, the revocation shall have effect from such date as may be directed by the Central Government, and thereupon the certificate shall be given up and cancelled; and any person who, without reasonable cause the burden of proving which shall lie upon him, fails to give up his certificate within one month from the aforesaid date, shall be punishable with fine, which may extend to one thousand rupees.

(7) For the purposes of this section, any person who has acquired any of the rights, privileges or capacities of naturalization under sub-section (2) of section 5 or sub-section (2) of section 7 by reason of the grant to his parent of a certificate of naturalization, may, after he has attained majority, be deemed to be a person to whom a certificate of naturalization has been granted.

Effect of revocation of certificate.

9. (1) Where a certificate is revoked under section 8, the former holder thereof shall cease to be deemed to be a British subject.

(2) On such revocation, the Central Government may, by order in writing, direct that the wife and minor children (or any of them) of the person whose certificate is revoked shall cease to be deemed to be British subjects; but where no such direction is made, the status of the wife and minor children of the person whose certificate is revoked shall not be affected by the revocation:

[1][Provided that no such order shall be made in the case of a wife unless by reason of the acquisition by her husband of a new nationality she has also acquired that nationality]:

Provided [1][further] that, in the case of a wife who was at birth a British subject, no such order as aforesaid shall be made, unless the Central Government is satisfied that, if she had held a certificate of naturalization in her own right, the certificate could properly have been revoked under section 8, and the provisions of that section as to referring cases for inquiry shall apply to the making of any such order as they apply to the revocaton of a certificate.

Declaration of alienage.

10. (1) A declaration of alienage in such manner as may be prescribed by rules made under this Act may be made,—

(a) within one year of his attaining majority, by any child who has acquired any of the rights, privileges or capacities of naturalization under sub-section (2) of section 5, or sub-secction (2) of section 7; or

(b) within six months from the date of the revocation of a certificate under section 8, or of the death of, or of the dissolution of her marriage with, the holder of any such certificate as is therein referred to, by the wife of the person whose certificate has been revoked, or who has died, or whose marriage to her has been dissolved, as the case may be.

(2) Where a declaration of alienage has been made in the manner aforesaid, the person making the same, and the wife of any such person, and any children of any such person who are minors and are not by birth British subjects, shall cease to be deemed to be British subjects:

[1][Provided that the wife of any such person shall not cease to be deemed to be a British Subject under this sub-section, unless by reason of the acquisition by her husband of a new nationality she has also acquired that nationality.]

Inquiries.

11. Every person making an inquiry under the orders of the Central Government under sub-section (3) of section 4, and every person appointed to hold an inquiry under sub-section (5) of section 8, shall be deemed to be a public servant within the meaning of the Indian Penal Code, and shall for the purposes of such inquiry have the same powers as are vested in a Court under the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908, when trying a suit, in respect of the following matters:—

(i) enforcing the attendance of any person and examining him on oath;

(ii) compelling the production of documents and material objects; and

(iii) issuing commissions for the examination of witnesses; and every such inquiry shall be deemed to be a judicial proceeding within the meaning of sections 193 and 228 of the Indian Penal Code.

Oaths and affidavits.

12. (1) All oaths and affidavits for the purposes of this Act shall be sworn before a Magistrate or such other person as may be appointed in this behalf by the Central Government.

(2) The Magistrate or other person by whom an oath of alleigance is administered under section 6 shall grant to the person making the same a certificate in writing of his having taken and subscribed such oath and of the date of his taking and subscribing the same, and shall forward to the Central Government the oath so taken and subscribed, together with a copy of such certificate.

Power to make rules.

13. (1) The Central Government may [1][* * * *] by notification in the Officitl Gazette, make rules to give effect to the provisions of this Act.

(2) In particular and without prejudice to the generality of the foregoing powers, such rules may provide for all or any of the following matters, namely:—

(a) the form or forms in which certificates of naturalization shall be granted, and the manner in which they shall be recorded;

(b) the manner in which declarations of alienage shall be made and recorded;

(c) the recording of oaths of allegiance; and

(d) the fees which may be imposed for the issue of any certificate, whether of naturalization or otherwise, granted under this Act.

Limitation to the grant of naturalization under this Act.

14. Nothing contained in this Act shall be deemed to entitle to any of the rights, privileges or capacities of a British subject the child of any person who is himself so entitled by reason only of the inclusion of his name in a certificate of naturalization under sub-section (2) of section 5 or of the grant of a certificate of naturalization to his parent.

Application to certificates granted before separation of Burma and Aden.

[2][14-A. The provisions of this Act shall, after the separation[3] of Burma and Aden from India continue to apply, as respects British India, to certificates granted under this Act, or the Indian Naturalization Act, 1852, before the said separation by the Local Governments of Burma and Aden and any such certificates may after the said separation be revoked as respects British India accordingly.]

SCHEDULE.—[Repealed.]

THE NEGOTIABLE INSTRUMENTS ACT (XXVI OF 1881).[1]

[9th December, 1881.

An Act to define and amend the law relating to Promissory Notes, Bills of Exchange and Cheques.

Preamble.

WHEREAS it is expedient to define and amend the law relating to promissory notes, bills of exchange and cheques; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

CHAPTER I.

PRELIMINARY.

Short title.

1. This Act may be called THE NEGOTIABLE INSTRUMENTS ACT, 1881.

LEG. REF.

[1] For summary procedure on negotiable instruments, see the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 (Act V of 1908), Sch. I, Order XXXVII.

SECS. 1 AND 2: SCOPE OF THE ACT.—49 I. C. 388=21 Bom.L.R. 1. See also 18 C.W.N. 494=22 I.C. 500; 58 I.C. 313. The Contract Act is a general statute dealing with contracts. The Negotiable Instruments Act is a statute dealing with a particular form of contract, and the law laid down for special cases must always overrule the provisions of a general character. 1933 R. 131=144 I. C. 866. Act is based on the principles of English Law, and Courts can construe conformably to the provisions of the English Law. 52 I.C. 370=10 L.W. 39. There must be no reasonable possibility of ambiguity in the construction of a negotiable security which is meant to pass from hand to hand; its meaning should be instantly recognisable and not after an elaborate analysis. 1936 N. 252. The Act does not apply to hundis. 1932 L. 582=13 L. 300. Hundi drawn payable to bearer on demand is illegal, even though drawn in an oriental language. 58 I.C. 508=12 L.W. 12. Mercantile usage, however extensive, should not be recognized if contrary to the provisions of statute. 49 I.C. 388=21 Bom.L.R. 1. See also 15 W.R. 501; 23 I.C. 29; 144 I.C. 914=1933 N. 389;; 16 Bom.L.

Local extent. Saving of usages relating to hundis, etc.

It extends to the whole of British India; but nothing herein contained affects the Indian Paper Currency Act, 1871, section 21, or affects any local usage relating to any instrument in an Oriental language: Provided that such usages may be excluded by any words in the body of the instrument which indicate an intention that the legal relations of the parties thereto shall be governed by this Act; and it shall come into force on the first day of March, 1882.

Commencement.

2. [Repeal of enactments.] Repealed by the Amending Act 1891 (XII of 1891).

R. 434; 12 L.W. 12. Where any local usage is relied on, it should be alleged and established by the party who relies on it. 26 M 526=13 M.L.J. 252 (F.B.). Where a purchaser of a hundi by payment of cash fails to discharge his obligations under the contract represented by the hundi and loses hsi right to enforce the hundi, he cannot fall back upon his original consideration. 1936 N. 260. If a buyer of goods gives a cheque for the price to the seller who endorses it for value to a third party, the original debt cannot be said to be still outstanding and unpaid wihle the cheque is outstanding in the hands of that third party. Therefore, an action for the price by the seller, or if he has since been adjudicated insolvent, by the transferee of his assets from the Official Assignee, will not lie even after dishonour of the cheque, if at the date of the commencement of the action the cheque is still outstanding in the hands of the third party. 1942 C. 45=I.L.R. (1941) 2 Cal. 103. An endorsement on a hundi 'for collection only' is in the nature of a restrictive endorsement, giving the endorsee the right to receive payment of the Hundi and if necessary, to sue the acceptor for the amount but not to transfer his rights as endorsee to anybody else. 1942 M.L.R. 100 Civ.); 1942 Mad. 742 (1)=(1942) 2 M.L.J. 168; 1944 M. 500=(1944) 2 M.L.J. 82. In a suit on a negotiable instrument, it is open to the plaintiff to frame his case in an alternative and to sue both on the instrument and alternatively on the consideration. 46 C. 663=36 M.L.J. 429 (P.C.). See also 51 I.C. 945=29 C.L.J. 508; 1936 Pesh. 143. But where the suit is based wholly on a contract consisting of an inadmissible promissory note or hundi, it must fail because the note cannot be produced and the claim cannot be proved aliunde. 1936 Pesh. 143. If a person frames his suit alternatively on the promissory note executed by a Hindu father or on the consideration, he can obtain a decree against the father and sons, but not if the suit is only on the promissory note. In the latter case, he can only obtain a personal decree against the father and a decree against the sons to the extent of their interest in the joint family properties. 138 I.C. 168=15 N. L.J. 5. See also (1942) 2 M.L.J. 668=1943 M. 246. A contract of simple money debt is not required by law to be in writing. It may offer better evidence, but it is not necessary for the validity of the contract. It is on this principle that, when the promissory notes or other negotiable instruments are found unenforceable for defective stamp and other reasons, the creditor is permitted to fall back on his contract of loan, and oral evidence is admitted to prove the contract independently of the promissory notes. 26 N.L.R. 320=1930 N. 298. A suit on the original consideration after the dismissal of the suit on the note on account of material alteration is maintainable. 18 C.W.N. 617=41 I.A. 142 (P.C.). Decree on original consideration was given in 29 C.L.J. 508; 1924 L. 144=4 L. 198; 60 I.C. 107=1921 L. 217. In cases of negotiable ianstruments all equities which have to be pleaded should generally arise out of the very transaction itself and must not arise out of the transactions which are either collateral or independent in character. 1938 Mad. 897. A principal can sue on a pro-note executed in favour of his agent without obtaining an assignment from him. 1925 M. 130=21 L.W. 696=90 I.C. 1047. A common manager under sec. 301 of Succession Act is entitled to file a suit on a promissory note on behalf of the estate. 22 Pat.L.T. 569=1941 Pat. 403. See also 1941 Nag. 207; 7 Cut.L.T. 77. A plea of benami is only a plea in the nature of a resulting trust and there is nothing in the Act which justifies a payee, who is in the position of a trustee, insisting that the beneficiary should be precluded from proving that he is only a trustee. No rule precludes evidence to show that the payee was only a benamidar for another. 1935 M. 181=53 M. 693=68 M.L.J. 81 (F.B.). See also 1939 Pat. 347; 1940 Pat. 377=19 Pat. 404; 1936 Pesh. 143; 41 C.W.N. 1283=1937 C. 753; 44 A. 290=1922 A. 70=123 I.C. 395=1930 P. 313=27 N.L.R. 327=1932 N. 23. It is not correct to say that no person who is not named in the note can ever sue. There is no reason why the real owner should not be entitled to sue provided he is in a position to obtain a good discharge for the defendant. A person not a holder cannot of course claim the privileges of a 'holder' but that does not disentitle him from suing. 1941 N. L.J. 263=1941 Nag. 207. Where in a suit on a pro-note, the note is not admissible in evidence, the plaintiff may prove his case by other evidence. 1921 P. 318=60 I.C. 652= 2 P.L.T. 184. See also 9 R. 56=134 I.C. 737 =1931 R. 139=1931 N. 113=27 N.L.R. 56; 29 N.L.R. 131=1931 N. 57; 9 Mys.L.J. 476; 9 Mys.L.J. 438; 1931 A. 560; 134 I.C. 254= 131 A.L.J. 522; 9 O.W.N. 585=1932 O. 235 =7 Luck. 666; 9 O.W.N. 961=1933 O. 18; 1933 A. 280=144 I.C. 150. But see 34 Bom. L.R. 643=1932 B. 394; 1933 R. 161; 1933 N. 57 (2)=29 N.L.R. 131. Where the debt and the execution of the promissory note are contemporaneous, the debt can be proved only by the note and where it is sufficiently stamped, the plaintiff cannot apply by amendment to convert the suit into one on the original consideration. 139 I.C. 361=36 L.W. 432=1932 M. 687. See also 40 C.W.N. 696; 40 C.W.N. 473; 41 C.W.N. 537=1937 C. 241. In a suit on a promissory note the defendant admitted execution and pleaded discharge but raised the objection that the note was inadmissible in evidence. Held, that having regard to sec. 58 of the Evidence Act, the plaintiff was entitled to sue, and that having regard to sec. 36 of the Stamp Act, the admissibility of the document could not be reopened. 1932 M. 693=63 M.L.J. 303. See also 64 M.L.J. 79 =1933 M. 117. There is no bar under any law preventing the Court from using a promissory note which is stamped with an one anna stamp instead of two annas stamp as a piece of evidence supporting the plintiff's case as to loan. Where such a document has been received in evidence in the trial Court without objection on the part of the defendant, the appellate Court will not interfere. 134 I.C. 575=53 C.L.J. 254=1931 C. 480. A promissory note stamped with quarter anna postage stamps is a document bearing stamps of improper description and can be validated by the Collector under R. 18 of the Government of India Stamp Rules. 55 M. 627=1932 M. 390=62 M.L.J. 538 (F.B.). Hundi substituted for hundi on unstamped paper—Liability under former not put an end to. 1923 L. 396=4 L. 151=5 L.L.J. 361. Once the execution of a bond was admitted, the onus of proving total or partial failure of consideration lies on the defendant. 1921 L. 199=4 L.L.J. 199; 187 I.C. 225. The words 'payable on demand' have a legal meaning which convey that the amount is payable on the date of execution and no demand is necessary prior to suit. If, however, the words were "after demand" then a demand is necessary before a suit is instituted. 2 P.L.J. 451=40 I.C. 350. See also 1931 A.L.J. 230=1931 A. 302. I.L.R. (1942) Nag. 126. Where a hundi is silent as to interest, but there is a custof allowing interest if the hundi is not met within a certain time, the drawer is liable to pay interest. 62 I.C. 315. No doubt when a suit is based wholly on a contract consisting of an inadmissible promissory note or Hundi, it must fail because the note cannot be produced and the claim cannot be proved aliunde. tor a cause of action apart from the inadBut where it is possible to find for a credimissible security, it would be contrary to the elementary principles of justice to deprive the creditor of his money. 1936 Pesh. 143. A hundi is a Bill of Exchange drawn by one person who is called a drawer, on another person who is called a drawee, who is ordered to pay the amount thereof to a third person who is the holder. Thus three persons are parties to it and due to this very nature it is negotiable. A document which is only bilateral cannot be called a hundi. If, therefore, a hundi is drawn by a person on his own firm ordering the amount thereof to be paid to a creditor after certain days, the transaction virtually is that one person borrows money and passes a hundi drawn on himself as security for the debt to the creditor. It is thus a clear case of an execution of a promissory note pure and simple. 187 I.C. 225. Where a purchaser of a hundi by payment of cash fails to discharge his obligations under the contract represented by the hundi and loses his right to enforce the hundi, he cannot fall back upon his original consideration. 167 I.C. 907=9 R.N. 230= 1936 Nag. 260. A document recited that the executant had a certain sum of money belonging to another and the former agreed to pay interest at a certain rate, held, it was not a promissory note, though there was an acknowledgment of a debt. 1924 L. 684. A promissory note given for reducing a liability only operates as a conditional discharge of the liability. (21 M.L.J. 432; 26 M. 526, Ref. to.)=53 M. 826=1930 M. 874=59 M. L.J. 513. In the case of a promissory note executed in favour of two persons (who are partners of an unregistered firm) but not in favour of the firm of which they are partners, a suit by those two persons in their personal capacity is maintainable as they are the only persons who can sue on that instrument. The Court in construing the note is not entitled to look beyond what is found in it and to hold that the suit is not maintainable on the ground that the firm of which the payees are partners is unregistered. 56 L.W. 382=1943 M.W.N. 43 (2)=1943 Mad. 279= (1943) 1 M.L.J. 61. Where two brothers of a Hindu family were carrying on business in partnership but the contracts were in the name of one of them only and he alone borrowed funds in his own name and applied them for the business in a suit against both the brothers on a promissory note executed by him alone. Held, that both were liable. Though the note was executed only by one, he executed it on behalf of both and it must be deemed to be so executed. I.L.R. (1945) All. 387=1945 A.L.J. 113=1945 A.L.W. 161 =1945 All. 221. The drawee of a Shahjog hundi who pays the amount to a Shah is not absolved from liability to the owner, if the Shah has no title to the hundi (i.e.), when the endorsement is forged. 36 Bom.L.R. 929 =59 B. 97=1934 B. 400 (F.B.). See also 1942 M.L.R. 100 (circ.). 36 Bom.L.R. 941 =1934 B. 402=59 B. 252.

OF NOTES, BILLS AND CHEQUES.

"Promissory note."

4. A "promissory note" is an instrument in writing (not being a bank-note or a currency-note) containing an unconditional undertaking, signed by the maker, to pay a certain sum of money only to, or to the order of, a certain person, or to the bearer of the instrument.

two persons was in fact executed by one who forged the signature of the other but the original payee who had endorsed the note to the plaintiff was not a party to the fraud it was held that the pronote was not invalid, and that the executant who signed it and committed the forgery would be liable because he could not be permitted to take advantage of his own fraud. 1943 A.L.W. 509. See also 57 L.W. 390=1944 Mad. 471=(1944) 2 M.L.J. 5; (1943) 1 M.L.J. 380=1943 Mad. 511.

SEC. 3.—For case-law, see 29 A. 773; 13 B. 388; 31 C. 519; 18 M. 390=5 M.L.J. 203.

SEC. 4.—One of the most essential characteristics of a promissory note is certainty—certainty both as regards the person by whom and to whom payment is to be made. Any uncertainty in such matters would tend to restrict credit and to hamper commerce. 35 C.W.N. 53=1931 C. 387; 118 I.C. 673=1929 N. 274. There must be no reasonable possibility of ambiguity in the construction of a negotiable security which is meant to pass from hand to hand; its meaning should be instantly recognisable. 1936 Nag. 252. Where a document merely acknowledges that certain items of money mentioned therein have been borrowed and that the executant has to repay them on demand, it is not a promissory note because it does not contain an unconditional undertaking to pay. There is no promise to pay but only an admission of liability to pay, and, hence it is only an acknowledgment. 1938 A.L.J. 907=1938 A. 619. A document which acknowledges the receipt of a certain amount by cheque and contains a promise to pay that amount with interest at a certain rate after a certain specified time, is not a promissory note, as it is clearly not intended to be a negotiable instrument. 40 Bom.L.R. 1053=42 C.W.N. 989=1938 P.C. 121 (P.C.). See also I.L.R. (1939) Kar. 632=1939 Sind 281. There is an essential antithesis between the legal position of a surety and that of the executant of a promissory note and so a person who executes a promissory note cannot be held in law to have the position of a surety. 27 A. L.J. 1137=1929 A. 664. A promissory note does not cease to be such merely because the words "security for overdraft" are found printed upon it; it is still a promissory note. 55 L.W. 664=1942 M.W.N. 623=(1942) 2 M.L.J. 532=1943 Mad. 216. Promissory note—Instrument providing for place of payment does not cease to be promissory note. 46 Bom.L.R. 411=A.I.R. 1944 Bom. 235 (1). A document which is brought into existence for the purpose of recording an agreement to pay, and which is not a receipt for money and which has been described as a promissory note and duly stamped as such and contains an unconditional promise to pay, is a promissory note. 1945 N.L.J. 458. One C paid money to A whom B wished to be accommodate[1]. A passed promissory note to B who endorsed it to C. Held, that B was in the position of surety and the endorsement was for consideration as A was accommodated. 191 I.C. 56=1940 Sind 146. Where there is no mention in a document of the person to whom the money is payable on demand, it is not a negotiable instrument. 116 I.C. 111 (1)=1929 S. 164 (1); 177 I.C. 889=1938 Nag. 464; 1941 Nag. 1=192 I.C. 513. An instrument which contains the words "I am liable to pay" without any undertaking to pay is not a promissory note. 1934 M. 220=66 M.L.J. 315. A document alleged to be a promissory note contained the following terms. This (one) receipt is hereby executed by H and A, residents of Hoti, for Rs. 43,900 half of which amount comes to Rs. 21,950, received from the firm of L, for and on behalf of M of Hoti. This amount to be payable after two years. Interest at the rate of Rs. 5-4-0 per cent. per year to be charged. Dated 1st April, 1917. Stamp has been duly affixed.

(Sd.) H.
(Sd.) A.

The document was not drawn on a paper with an impressed stamp, and a stamp which was sufficient, if the document was a receipt, was affixed. Held, that the document was not a promissory note but was merely a receipt containing the terms on which the amount was to be refunded. Being primarily a receipt, even if coupled with the promise to pay, it was not a promissory note. As the document did not record or purport to record all the terms of the contract between the parties and as there was nothing in the document explaining how the money came to be received, the parties were not prevented from showing that it was paid by way of loan or deposit or for some other purpose. (8 C. 645, Overr.) 63 I.A. 279 =17 L. 557=40 C.W.N. 997=71 M.L.J 712 (P.C.). The nature of a document must be determined by its contents, and the description given in the plaint cannot change its character. A person wrote to another that he would be liable for payment of principal amount with interest due on promissory notes executed by his brother to the latter that he would pay the whole amount on demand after certain period and that his brother should not be asked for the amount. Held, that the letter was only a proposal and not a promissory note. 148 I.C. 964=1934 L. 93. The mere fact that a pro-note is addressed to a person of a particular place does not show that it is implied that payment is to be made at the place. I.L.R. (1940) 1 Cal. 323=44 C.W. N. 609=1940 Cal. 443. Where an instrument clearly indicates the promisor and the promisee, and contains a definite promise to pay, it amounts to a promissory note. There is no rule laying down in which part of the document the payee is to be named or by what kind of language. A signed letter which is in the following terms, namely, "30th, Panguni Siddhatri-Kallal A. T. N. A. T. credit, the same place R. M. M. R. Attestation by witnesses does not make a pronote a bond. 14 Luck. 438=1939 O.W.N. 168=1939 Oudh 107. Unconditional undertaking or unconditional personal liability means that the liability mentioned in the note should not be made contingent on some event. But a pro-note is not the less unconditional, simply because when the matter goes to a Court of law and the defendant raises some defence, the plaintiff has got to establish certain facts, and in the case of a note by a guardian, the transaction is for the benefit of the minor, before he can succeed against the minor. That fact does not make the liability a conditional liability. 58 M. 735=41 L.W. 514=68 M.L.J. 540 (F.B.). a particular person, not containing words prohibiting transfer, is an instrument payable to order. 27 N.L.R. 327=1932 N. 23.

PROMISSORY NOTE—ASSIGNMENT OF.—Although the proper mode of assignment is by endorsement only, yet in Punjab there can be an oral assignment of promissory note. (1932 Lah. 30 and 29 P.R. 1919, Rel. on.) 1936 Lah. 547. An assignment of a promissory note is possible without an endorsement of transfer on the note. A written assignment of a promissory note is valid and under the general law, such assignment gives to the assignee the right of suit upon the note. 13 Luck. 373=1937 O. W.N. 820=1937 Oudh 405.

CONSIDERATION FOR PRO-NOTE.—A promissory note having been given, consideration is to be presumed. The question then is not whether the plaintiff has formally and sufficiently proved that there was a stipulation for a fresh advance, but whether it is sufficiently shown by the other side that there was no consideration for the promissory note. I.L.R. (1938) Mad. 646 =42 C.W.N. 565=1938 P.C. 123=(1938) 1 M.L.J. 597 (P.C.). It cannot be said that the consideration for a promissory note is always the amount stated to be payable in the note. 189 I.C. 384=1940 Rang. 152. Where it is proved that the executant of promissory note did not receive any consideration for it, the instrument does not create any obligation between the holder and the executant. 167 I.C. 301=1936 Cal. 315. Where in a suit on a promissory note it appears that the note was executed for the amount of rent due by the defendant to the plaintiff, there is good consideration for the transaction and the suit should be decreed. The mere circumstance that in the body of the promissory note it was stated that the amount was advanced in cash is insufficient to justify a dismissal of the suit. 41 P.L.R. 49.

PROMISSORY NOTE—STAMP ACT.—A document which contains a promise to pay on a contingency will not be treated as a promissory not for the purposes of the Negotiable Instruments Act, but it may be regarded as such for the purposes of the Stamp Act. To determine whether a document is a promissory note or not the main question to be considered is not whether the instrument is negotiable or not though ordinarily negotiability of an instrument is a good test for that purpose, but to consider whether in substance and in primary intention of the parties the document was or was not a promissory note and whether it was intended to record a different kind of transaction altogether. A reference in the promissory note to a pre-existing account between the parties, made with a view to state the consideration for the note, neither makes the liability under the note a contingent one, nor the instrument any the less a promissory note. I.L.R. (1941) All. 264=1941 A.L.J. 36= 1941 All. 158. Promissory note executed abroad—Suit in British India—Need for affixing and cancellation of stamp. See (1941) 2 M.L.J. 301.

PROMISSORY NOTE INSUFFICIENTLY OR IMPROPERLY STAMPED.—Though a promissory note is not sufficiently stamped and hence inadmissible in evidence, a suit could be instituted on the original loan, which is always the cause of action, the promissory note being at the best evidence of the loan. 1939 A.M.L.J. 123. See also 43 LW.. 48 =1935 M. 206=67 M.L.J. 912; 1936 Cal. 170=40 C.W.N. 473; 1936 Nag. 225. If a promissory note is not admissible in evidence on account of its being insufficiently stamped, the plaintiff is entitled to sue on a cause of action which is independent of promissory note. It is not necessary that there should be an independent express contract prior to the execution of such a promissory note. The fact that the money has been lent implies a promise to repay it, and the plaintiff in such a case has a cause of action on the implied promise, which is independent of the promissory note. (39 C.W.N. 1235, Foll.) 40 C.W.N. 696= 1936 Cal. 127. Although a promissory note is inadmissible in evidence being insufficiently stamped, the creditor is entitled to sue on the basis of a separate contemporaneous agreement to pay. 1940 N.L.J. 658 =1940 Nag. 215. See also I.L.R. (1942) N. 126=1940 N.L.J. 601=1941 Nag. 1. A promissory note which is insufficiently stamped cannot be used as an acknowledgment or for any other purpose. 1940 N.L. J. 658=1940 Nag. 215. A decree cannot be passed on the basis of a pronote which is inadmissible in evidence for want of cancellation of the stamps even if the defendant admitted liability on it. 41 P.L.R. 356=1939 Lah. 31. A promissory note executed on 28th March, 1934, was affixed with revenue stamps, the use of which was made compulsory by the Government only from 1st April, 1934. Held, that these stamps must have been available before 1st April, 1934, and that a suit on the promissory note should not be dismissed merely on this ground especially when the defendant had admitted his liability. 1937 P.W.N. 663=1937 Pat. 560.

ORIGINAL CAUSE OF ACTION—HAND NOTE NOT DULY STAMPED.—Where in a suit on a hand note, the hand note is found to be inadmissible in evidence as not being duly stamped, oral evidence can be given of the original loan and the suit can be converted into a suit on the original loan. 172 I.C. 744=1937 Pat. 656=62 C.L.J. 289=40 C. W.N. 473=1936 Cal. 170. See also I.L.R. (1938) A. 741=1938 A.L.J. 773=1938 All. 504; 56 M. 268=1936 Mad. 179=70 M.L. J. 267 (F.B.); 1939 Lah. 31. Where the loan is independent of the hand note and the taking of the loan is completed before the execution of the hand note, a suit can lie on the original consideration when the hand note which evidences the loan is found to be inadmissible by reason of certain provisions of the statute. 41 C.W.N. 537=65 C.L.J. 151=1937 Cal. 241. See also 1940 Lah. 329. It is open to a creditor, in spite of the fact that the promissory note is not admissible in evidence, to recover his money by proving orally the advance of that loan. It would not, however, be open to him having regard to sec. 91 of the Evidence Act to prove the terms or the date or interest entered in the promissory note. 1940 O.W.N. 581=1940 Oudh 308. Where a promissory note is taken in the name of a benamidar, a suit by the true owner based, not on the note but on the original consideration namely, the loan, is not maintainable, inasmuch as the liability of the maker under the note to the holder thereof is kept in tact. I.L.R. (1938) 1 Cal. 450=41 C.W. N. 1283=1937 Cal. 753.

PLACE OF PAYMENT—PRESUMPTION—PRONOTE NOT SPECIFYING ANY PLACE.—If a pronote does not specify any place where payment is to be made, the presumption is that payment should be made at the place of residence or business of the creditor. 181 I.C. 396=40 P.L.R. 975=1939 Lah. 18. See also 44 C.W.N. 609=I.L.R. (1940) 1 C. 323.

RIGHT TO SUE—ONE OF SEVERAL PROMISEES—IF CAN SUE ALONE.—One of several promisees under a promissory note is not entitled to sue alone without joining the other promisees, either as plaintiffs or defendants. 1938 O.W.N. 148=1938 Oudh 61. See also 1936 Pat. 274. Where in the case of a jointly executed promissory note one of the executants makes certain payment and the promisee agrees to discharge him from his liability only reserving his right to sue the co-executant for the balance, the co-executant is liable for the balance subject of course to his right to sue his other co-executant for contribution. 171 I.C. 622= 1937 Rang. 137. In cases where the plaintiff sues the legal representative of a deceased person upon a promissory note and there is no proof of any independent acknowledgment by the deceased of the existence of the debt, the Court should scrutinize the claim with the greatest care. In particular, where the plaintiff is not called and the Court has to depend on other evidence the onus of proof on the plaintiff is not lightly discharged, and the validity and due execution of the promissory note must be proved with strictness. 1936 Rang. 399.

SECS. 4 AND 5.—As to distinction between promissory note and bill of exchange or hundi, see 1936 N. 260. A document containing a promise to pay a certain sum of money to a certain person after a certain date was executed on a paper on which was engraved the form of a stamp. The upper part of the stamp bore the word "hundi". The executant wrote the word "accepted" across the document over his signature. Held, that the document was a promissory note and not a bill of exchange, and that the words "hundi" and "accepted" in the document did not determine its character, which must be determined by looking to the provisions of the document itself. I. L.R. (1941) 2 Cal. 107=45 C.W.N. 609 =1941 Cal. 40 (F.B.). A document called a hundi and accepted by the maker is in fact a promissory note if it contains a promise and not an order to pay. 47 C.W.N. 658. A pro-note promising to pay on demand a certain sum with interest at 10 per cent. per annum with quarterly rests is for a "sum certain" and is therefore a negotiable instrument. 7 P. 41=1935 A.L.J. 651=1935 All. 410. Promissory note expressing promise to pay on demand a certain sum with interest with quarterly rests—Whether negotiable instrument. 1929 P. 136=7 P. 41. A promissory note executed in favour of the "Mohathameem Sahib Garu of Gadwal Samasthanam" is one in favour of a "certain person" within the meaning of sec. 4, read with the last part of sec. 5 of the Negotiable Instruments Act. 53 M. 968=1930 M. 1004=59 M.L.J. 548. The mere fact that a person chooses to give a certain title to a document by no means makes it that document, if the document described as promissory note does not amount to it. 1931 A.L.J. 230=1931 A. 302.

SECS. 4, 9 AND 13.—Debentures of the City of Bombay Improvement Trust, belonging to the appellants were entrusted by them to one F for collection of interest. By means of forged endorsements in his own favour, F pledged the debentures with

"Bill of exchange."

5. A "bill of exchange" is an instrument in writing containing an unconditional order, signed by the maker, directing a certain person to pay a certain sum of money only to, or to the order of, a certain person or to the bearer of the instrument.

A promise or order to pay is not "conditional." within the meaning of this section and section 4, by reason of the time for payment of the amount or any instalment thereof being expressed to be on the lapse of a certain period after the occurrence of a specified event which, according to the ordinary expectation of mankind, is certain to happen, although the time of its happening may be uncertain.

the Alliance Bank, endorsing them over to that Bank as security for debts owing by him to the Bank. Subsequently, the Alliance Bank surrendered the debentures to the improvement Trustees, who issued fresh debentures in the name of the Alliance Bank, the transaction being described in the present proceedings as a 'renewal' of the old debentures. Thereafter, the Alliance Bank, acting on F's instructions, endorsed over the new debentures in favour of the present respondents, the Mercantile Bank, to whom F had transferred his Loan Account. In a suit by the appellants, claiming as owners of these new debentures, delivery and transfer to them of these instruments by the respondents, the Mercantile Bank debentures were held to be promissory notes as defined in sec. 4 and so negotiable instruments under sec. 13 of the Negotiable Instruments Act; it was also held that the new debentures issued by the Trustees in exchange for the old ones though called "renewals", were in form and substance new and independent obligations and constituted in effect new contracts; that the respondents, the Mercantile Bank, having no reason to believe that there was any defect in the title of the transferors, the Alliance Bank, were holders in due course against whom the appellants had no right of action. (24 B. 65, Overr.) 58 I.A. 433=56 B. 1=54 C.L.J. 419=1932 P.C. 22=61 M.L.J. 837 (P.C.).

SECS. 4, 20 AND 78.—There is nothing in sec. 4 of the Act which in any way curtails the general authority conferred by sec. 20 on the person to whom a stamped and signed paper is delivered to convert it into a negotiable instrument payable to any specified person; where the promissory note contains a promise to pay unconditionally the sum mentioned to a certain person signing a bill or a hand note in blank without the name of the payee is an authority to a bona fide holder to insert a name, the name of a third person and it is not open to the executant (defendant) in a suit on it by the payee to plead that the person to whom he handed it describing it as a hand note had no authority to insert the name of the payee mentioned in it. In view of sec. 78, defendant cannot plead that payments have been made to some one else, i.e., the person to whom he handed the signed paper. 19 Pat. 404=21 Pat.L.T. 845=1940 P. 377. See also 1932 Pat. 524.

SEC. 5.—An instrument is not taken out of the definition for the reason that the drawer and the drawee are the same persons. 9 P. 717=127 I.C. 575=1930 P. 239. Although under sec. 5, where the drawer and the drawee are the same person, that person is not entitled to treat the instrument as a bill of exchange, still the holder of the bill may treat it as a bill of exchange. 9 P. 717. Where a document written on hundi paper was treated by the parties as hundi but it contained no promise to pay to the order of any person or to bearer, and the drawer and the drawee were the same person, held, that the document was a bond and fell within the purview of sec. 2 (5) (b) of the Stamp Act. 32 P.L.R. 753=1932 L. 22. A hundi payable to bearer but not on demand does not contravene the provisions of sec. 25 of the Paper Currency Act. 1927 A. 463=49 A. 457. Hundi insufficiently stamped is not admissible in evidence. 49 All. 457; 40 C.W.N. 696=1936 C. 127. A hundi may be written in more papers than one; but the aggregate value of the stamp papers used should represent the correct value of the stamp to which such hundi is liable. 23 C.W.N. 534 =51 I.C. 88; 58 I.C. 313. A bill of exchange may include a hundi, but not vice versa. 23 C.W.N. 534. See also 57 C. 695 =1930 C. 697.

WHETHER FOLLOWING ARE BILLS OF EXCHANGE.—Shahjog Hundi—Nature of. See 33 I.C. 247=22 C.L.J. 22; 19 C.W.N. 1326 =33 I.C. 250; 50 B. 765 28 Bom.L.R. 897 =1926 B. 471; 1932 L. 312. It is not a bill of exchange. 1936 A.L.J. 246=58 A. 858 =1936 A. 396. But it is a negotiable instrument independently of the provisions of this Act. (Ibid.) Mate's receipt, see 41 C. 670 (P.C.). Bank deposit receipt, 38 B. 618; Railway receipt, 38 B. 659. Delivery order, 38 C. 127; 40 I.C. 86. Although there is no provision in the Negotiable Instruments Act specifically allowing post-dated cheques, there is nothing forbidding them, and the second paragraph of sec. 5 contemplates (as indeed it must) the making of a bill of exchange payable at a future date. A post-dated cheque is therefore a cheque in proper form and therefore a bill of exchange within the meaning of the Act on the day on which it is drawn. It becomes on the date it bears a bill of exchange payable on demand and so a cheque. 46 C.W.N. 645=1942 Cal. 562= 203 I.C. 207.

SECS. 5 AND 17.—An instrument, called a "hundi" but in the form of a promissory

The sum payable may be "certain" within the meaning of this section and section 4, although it includes future interest or is payable at an indicated rate of exchange, or is according to the course of exchange, and although the instrument provides that, on default of payment of an instalment, the balance unpaid shall become due.

The person to whom it is clear that the direction is given or that payment is to be made may be a "certain person", within the meaning of this section and section 4, although he is misnamed or designated by description only.

"Cheque". 6. A "cheque" is a bill of exchange drawn on a specified banker and not expressed to be payable otherwise than on demand.

"Drawer," "Drawee." 7. The maker of a bill of exchange or cheque is called the "drawer;" the person thereby directed pay is called the "drawee."

note, becomes a bill of exchange, on the acceptance of a third party, though the bill is not addressed to him and he is not named as drawee, provided his acceptance is not inconsistent with the address. No party can be made liable as acceptor of a bill addressed to another but where no party is named in the address, the acceptor may be deemed, by his endorsement of acceptance, to have admitted himself to be the party addressed. 57 C. 695=1930 C. 697.

SEC 6: POST-DATED CHEQUES are cheques and after the due dates may be sued upon as cheques. 52 C. 677=90 I.C. 59=1925 C. 1007. Both under the Indian and English law, a post-dated cheque is not invalid by reason only that it is post-dated, but the certification of such a cheque before it is due is invalid. 71 I.A. 124=48 C.W.N. 810=57 L.W. 571=A.I.R. 1944 P.C. 58=(1944) 2 M.L.J. 275 (P.C.). A cheque is a bill of exchange and as such it is negotiable. The mere fact that the date of payment of a cheque is postponed to a future date does not make the cheque payable "otherwise than on demand." It is payable on demand after the due date. Therefore, a person who is holder in due course of a cheque without notice of any defect, is entitled to payment from the drawer. 1934 A.L.J. 892=1934 A. 695 (1).

SECS. 6 AND 7: CHEQUE—ACCEPTANCE—PRACTICE.—In practice cheques are not accepted. Acceptance is not necessary to create a liability to pay as between the drawer and the drawee bank. The liability depends on the contractual relationship between the bank and the drawer, its customer. It would certainly require strong and unmistakeable words to amount to an acceptance of a cheque. 71 I.A. 124=48 C.W.N. 810=57 L.W. 571=A.I.R. 1944 P.C. 58=(1944) 2 M.L.J. 275 (P.C.).

The certification or marking of a cheque by the drawee bank as good for payment does not constitute acceptance within the meaning of the Neg. Inst. Act, or the English Bills of Exchange Act or the Common Law. In England and India, the making of a cheque has so far been only judicially recognised to import a promise or undertaking to pay as between banker and banker for the purpose of clearance. A cheque presented for clearance after clearing hours may be marked by the drawee bank as good for payment and then be paid on the next day when clearing business is resumed. A party seeking to make the certifying bank liable as acceptor may put forward an alternative claim based on usage, or contract or estoppel. If a claim based on contract is set up, the question arising for consideration is whether the words used in the certification import a promise by the certifying bank to pay the amount of the cheque whether or not there are funds to meet it and if they do, whether there is any privity of contract between the parties, and if there is, whether there is consideration for the promise as between them. 71 I.A. 124=48 C.W.N. 810=57 L.W. 571=A.I.R. 1944 P.C. 58=(1944) 2 M.L.J. 275 (P.C.).

SEC. 7.—The definition of "drawer" in sec. The maker of a promissory note cannot missory note can also be called a drawer. 152 I.C. 1006=36 Cr.L.J. 217=1935 L. 153. The makers of a promissory note cannot raise the plea that no consideration passed for the transfer of the note to third party. Where the transferee sues on the note, he is entitled to recover what is payable to the original promisee. 138 I.C. 876=1932 A. 648. Oral acceptance of hundi is not sufficient. 1924 A. 129. See also 51 I.C. 250=29 P.R. 1919. It does not make the so-called acceptor liable to the holder of the bill. 1930 L. 471. Mere writing of figures on the hundi cannot amount to the signing of assent by the drawee unless it can be proved that it amounted to acceptance according to the mercantile usage of the locality. 1930 L. 471. Although in the normal course a cheque is not accepted by the drawee banker, there is nothing in the law that forbids him to accept it in which case he becomes liable to a holder in due course in the same way as any other acceptor. The certification of a cheque by the drawee bank is acceptance of the cheque within the meaning of the Act. The signature of a certifying banker is an acceptance. 1941 Cal. 372 =199 I.C. 802. The certification or marking of a cheque as "good" by the drawee bank is equivalent to acceptance and the bank will be liable to the holder of the cheque accor-

"Drawee in case of need."

When in the bill or in any indorsement thereon the name of any person is given in addition to the drawee to be resorted to in case of need, such person is called a "drawee in case of need."

"Acceptor."

After the drawee of a bill has signed his assent upon the bill, or, if there are more parts thereof than one, upon one of such parts, and delivered the same, or given notice of such signing to the holder or to some person on his behalf, he is called the "acceptor."

"Acceptor for honour."

[1][When a bill of exchange has been noted or protested for non-acceptance or for better security,] and any person accepts it supra protest for honour of the drawer or of any one of the indorsers, such person is called an "acceptor for honour."

"Payee."

The person named in the instrument, to whom or to whose order the money is by the instrument directed to be paid, is called the "payee".

"Holder."

8. The "holder" of a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque means any person entitled in his own name to the possession thereof and to receive or recover the amount due thereon from the parties thereto.

Where the note, bill or cheque is lost or destroyed, its holder is the person so entitled at the time of such loss or destruction.

SEC. 8: SCOPE AND EFFECT OF SECTION.—This section prevents a person suing on a negotiable instrument, who is not named as a payee nor entitled as endorsee or assignee. 56 I.C. 259=1 L. 169=19 I.C. 88.

ILLUSTATIVE CASES.—An alleged beneficial owner of a promissory note, whose name does not appear on the face of the instrument cannot sue on it. 29 I.C. 988=13 A. L.J. 695; nor in a suit on the instrument to beneficial owner a good defence. 49 A. 457=25 A.L.J. 402=1927 A. 463; 44 A. 290=20 A.L.J. 126=1922 A. 70. See also 153 I.C. 944=1935 M. 181=68 M.L.J. 81 (F.B.); 27 N.L.R. 327=1932 N. 23: 12 L. It is not open to the defendant to plead that the payee is only a benamidar and therefore is not entitled to recover the amount due under it. 28 I.C. 501=1915 M. W.N. 227. A suit on a negotiable instrument by one of the heirs of the promisee alone is not maintainable. 12 L.W. 532. See also 44 A. 290=1922 A. 70; 1930 R. 243. No one can maintain a suit on a promissory note except the holder thereof. The fact that the holder has been made a party and has admitted that he is only the plaintiff's benamidar makes no difference. 1939 Pat. 347; 1939 S. 144; 12 L.W. 532. See also 123 I.C. 395=1930 P. 313. It may be that the suit can be proceeded with, if it had been based on the consideration and not on the note. 35 C.W.N. 53=58 C. 752=1931 C. 387. Benamidar is a holder within the meaning of sec. 8 and is entitled to sue on promissory note. 1930 R. 243. In India benami transactions are recognised. The real owner can institute a suit on a promissory note executed in the name of his benamidar, if the benamidar, admits that he is the benamidar for the real owner. 1930 P. 313. On a pronote executed in the name of one of the partners, a suit can be maintained by the partnership itself. 105 I.C. 549=55 C. 551=1928 C. 148. An insolvent can sue on a pronote in his favour, if the Official Assignee does not interfere and object. 19 I.C. 88. A receiver appointed in a partition suit is entitled, when permitted by the Court, to maintain a suit on a promissory note which forms part of the assets of the joint family. The receiver can be said to be the holder of the promissory note under sec. 8. 41 C.W.N. 697.

JOINT HINDU FAMILY.—A member of a Hindu family, to whose share, on a partition a promissory note is allotted is entitled to sue on it without either an endorsement of the note or an assignment under sec. 130 of the T. P. Act. A suit by that member must be regarded as a suit on the original debt irrespective of the promissory note. 1937 M.W.N. 134. Where a promissory note executed in favour of a Hindu joint family firm is allotted at a subsequent partition to some of them, the latter can sue on the note impleading the other members of the family also as plaintiffs. The plaintiffs who constituted the firm are competent to sue on the note as holders of the instrument. The fact that there is no endorsement of the note in favour of the plaintiffs does not make the suit incompetent. 41 Bom.L.R. 219=1939 Bom. 147. In the case of a promissory note executed in the name of the manager of a Hindu joint family, the other coparceners are not "holders" of the instrument as defined by sec. 8 of the Act, and they cannot therefore sue on the note qua coparceners. The right of the holder to sue on the note is personal to him, and no other person can be said to have an interest in it merely by birth or by being a member of the coparcenary though the coparceners might sue to recover the debt apart from the promissory note. If the holder dies, a succession certificate may be granted to his heirs, and they may then recover upon the promissory note as his legal representatives. 40 Bom.L.R. 964=1938 Bom. 451. Hindu coparceners governed by the Mitakshara law, carrying on a joint family business, can institute in their individual names a suit to recover a debt on a promissory note obtained in the name of the family firm. The coparcenary can be described as the holder of a promissory note made in its collective name or business name, and such an instrument is made in its own name within the meaning of sec. 8. A suit on the note brought by all the adult coparceners who are capable in law of giving a satisfactory discharge, to recover the debt on the promissory note executed in their trade name is maintainable. I.L.R. (1940) Bom. 153=42 Bom.L.R. 248=1940 Bom. 164.

SECS. 8 AND 78: PROMISSORY NOTE—ASSIGNMENT—ASSIGNEE'S RIGHT TO SUE IN HIS OWN NAME, WITHOUT ENDORSEMENT.—A promissory note is a written acknowledgment of debt with a promise to repay. It is also a memorandum of contract and evidence of a chose in action. Thus, it may be transferred by assignment. A promissory note is also a negotiable instrument transferable merely by endorsement and delivery. As such, it is clothed with certain incidents intended to facilitate the business of merchants. The Negotiable Instruments Act has not affected the transferability of a promissory note by assignment as a chose in action, apart from endorsement. 61 C. 425=38 C.W.N. 465=1934 C. 549. See also 1935 O.W.N. 295=10 Luck. 732=1935 O. 264. Reading secs. 8 and 78 together it is clear that the person to whom payment should be made in order to discharge the maker or acceptor from all liability under the instrument is the "holder" of the instrument or his accredited agent, such as a banker acting as an agent for collection. The term "holder" does not include a person who though in possession of the instrument has not the right to recover the amount due thereon from the parties thereto. The property or ownership of a promissory note including the right to recover the amount due thereon therefore appears to be vested by statute only on the "holder" of the note. A plaintiff in a suit on a pro-note who though not the holder of the note can maintain the suit when the holder is a party to the suit and the plaintiff is able to give the drawer through the holder a valid discharge. But where the holder is not a party and the plaintiff is not in a position to secure the discharge of the defendants from all liability under the pro note, the suit would not be maintainable. 1946 A.W.R. (H.C.) 529=226 I.C. 358=1946 A.L.J. 297. A payee named in a promissory note is the only person who can institute a suit upon it, and it is not open to a defendant in that suit to plead that the payee is a mere benamidar. 1939 P.W.N. 178=1939 Pat. 347. See also 19 Pat. 404=1940 Pat. 377. A person who is not the holder or endorsee of a promissory note but who only claims to be the surviving coparcener of the holder of the note is not entitled to sue on it. It would, however, be different if the suit is based on the debt itself. I.L.R. (1939) Kar. 405=1939 Sind 144.

SEC. 9.—Whether a promissory note payable on demand does not become payable until a demand is actually made. 1923 L. 638. See also 47 C. 861. But see 2 P.L.J. 451=40 I.C. 350. When a negotiable instrument of any sort is handed over by a debtor to his creditor in discharge of a pre-existing debt the creditor becomes a holder in due course. 19 I.C. 789 (2)=15 Bom.L.R. 333.

"HOLDER IN DUE COURSE".—Where in a partition a promissory note is simply alotted to a person, but which note never comes into his possession, and the note is payable to a third person and not a bearer, the former person cannot be a holder in due course; that being so, he cannot make his assignees by a release deed holders in due course. 122 I.C. 345=1930 M. 197. The right of the real owner is not affected by the Act, if his name be disclosed to the maker of the instrument and if the maker does not make any payment to the holder and get a discharge from him. 1930 S. 4. No one can sue on a negotiable instrument as holder, unless he is named therein as the payee, or unless he becomes entitled to it as endorsee or bearer. 122 I.C. 345=1930 M. 197. Unless a person proves that he is a holder in due course within the meaning of sec. 9, he cannot have any higher or superior rights against the drawer than the intermediate holders themselves would have, and the fact that the person knows of the defect of title of the intermediate holders is enough to disentitle that person to the benefits of a holder in due course. 123 I.C. 596=1930 M. 141. See also 1938 Mad. 599=(1938) 1 M.L.J. 757. Where the defendant in a suit on a promis-

"Payment in due course."

10. "Payment in due course" means payment in accordance with the apparent tenor of the instrument in good faith and without negligence to any person in possession thereof under circumstances which do not afford a reasonable ground for believing that he is not entitled to receive payment of the amount therein mentioned.

SECS. 11 AND 12.—A bill drawn upon a resident in British India is an inland bill as defined in sec. 13 of the Act, wherever it may have been drawn, in or out of British India. 57 C. 730=1930 C. 692.

SEC. 13.—The Act does not purport to deal with all kinds of negotiable instruments. Whenever a question arises as to whether or not a document in an oriental language is a negotiable instrument, the point will have to be decided, not by looking to its definition in the Act, but independently of its provisions. The Courts will find out how such an instrument has been treated in the past, and if it appears that, according to usage or custom, such instruments have been treated as negotiable instruments, then they will be treated as such. 58 A. 856=1936 A.L.J. 246=1936 A. 396. The amendment of the Negotiable Instruments Act contained in Expl. (i) to sec. 13 (1) of the Act cannot be read into the definition of the bond as contained in sec. 2 (5) (b), Stamp Act, so as to make an instrument, which on the face of it is not payable to order, one payable to order by virtue of the said explanation and thus to take it out of the said definition. 168 I.C. 349=1937 N. 61=I.L.R. 1937 N. 510.

WHAT ARE NEGOTIABLE INSTRUMENTS.—An instrument, in order to be negotiable must fulfil the following conditions:—(1) it must be in a form capable of being sued on by the holder thereof pro-tempore in his own name; (2) it must by the custom of trade be transferable like cash by delivery. A 'pahaunch' is a writing merely chronicling the fact that a certain amount is received by the person signing it from another person. It is an ordinary receipt. Neither expressly nor impliedly does it create any obligation on the part of any one to pay the amount mentioned therein. It is neither a Bill of Exchange as defined by the Negotiable Instruments Act, nor a hundi, and is not negotiable. 32 S.L.R. 640=1938 Sind 24. A promissory note payable to a specified person or order is a negotiable instrument and the transfer must be by an endorsement and delivery. A verbal assignment of such a note is not recognised by law. 55 I.C. 718=10 L.B.R. 96. But in Punjab, where the T. P. Act is not in force, an oral assignment of the note is valid. 134 I.C. 121=1932 L. 30 (2). Shah Jog Hundis are negotiable instruments payable alternatively to one of several payees. 43 M.L.J. 480=16 L.W. 608=1923 M. 44. See also 58 I.C. 982=1 L. 429. A cheque from which the word 'bearer' is struck out without substitution of the word 'order' is not negotiable. 49 I.C. 388=21 Bom.L.R. 1. Share certificate with blank transfer deed enclosed is not negotiable instrument. 46 C. 331=48 I.C. 966. Where a hundi drawn in favour of payee or bearer is endorsed by the payee to a named person, it ceases to be a bearer hundi and it can be paid only to the endorsee named. 27 Bom.L.R. 34=80 I.C. 118=1921 S. 177.

DHANIJOGE HUNDIES payable to bearer are negotiable instruments. 1928 A. 549. They come under sec. 13—Holder, therefore, is entitled to benefit of sec. 22. 9 P. 717=127 I.C. 575=1930 P. 239.

ENDORSEMENT.—A promissory note payable to a particular person, is, in the absence of words prohibiting transfer or indicating an intention that it shall not be transferable, a negotiable instrument. Where such an instrument is not signed on the back either by the maker or by the holder, there is no endorsement. 76 I.C. 282=1925 S. 9. As to the effect of forged endorsement, see 52 B. 792=30 Bom.L.R. 1210=1928 B. 407; 30 Bom.L.R. 1222=52 B. 807=1928 B. 434; 30 Bom.L.R. 1225=52 B. 810=1928 B. 438; 36 Bom.L.R. 929=1934 B. 440. See also 1925 B. 173.

Explanation (i).—A promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque is payable to order which is expressed to be so payable or which is expressed to be payable to a particular person, and does not contain words prohibiting transfer or indicating an intention that it shall not be transferable.

Explanation (ii).—A promisosry note, bill of exchange or cheque is payable to bearer which is expressed to be so payable or on which the only or last indorsement is an indorsement in blank.

Explanation (iii).—Where a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque, either originally or by indorsement, is expressed to be payable to the order of a specified person, and not to him or his order, it is nevertheless payable to him or his order at his option.]

[1][(2) A negotiable instrument may be made payable to two or more payees jointly, or it may be made payable in the alternative to one of two, or one or some of several payees.]

Negotiation.

14. When a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque is transferred to any person, so as to constitute that person the holder thereof, the instrument is said to be negotiated.

Indorsement.

15. When the maker or holder of a negotiable instrument signs the same, otherwise than as such maker, for the purpose of negotiation, on the back or face thereof or on a slip of paper annexed thereto, or so signs for the same purpose a stamped paper intended to be completed as a negotiable instrument, he is said to indorse the same, and is called the "indorser."

SEC. 13 (1).—A bill payable to a particular person and not to bearer or order is nonetheless a negotiable instrument by virtue of Expl. 1 to sec. 13. 9 P. 717=1930 P. 239.

SECS. 13 (1), EXPL. AND 48: PROMISSORY NOTE—RIGHT OF SUIT ON—ALLOTMENT OF NOTE IN PARTITION—RIGHT OF ALLOTTEE TO SUE ON.—The payee of a promissory note is the only person who can sue on it; a person claiming to be owner thereof cannot sue on it in the absence of an indorsement in his favour by the holder. A person to whose share a promissory note in another's name is allotted on a partition cannot sue on it in the absence of an endorsement in his favour by the person in whose name it is executed. The partition does not operate as an assignment by operation of law. 36 Bom.L.R. 807=1934 B. 356.

SEC. 14.—A document is negotiable, if, by the custom of the money market, it is transferable like cash and the bona fide transferee obtains a good title although his transferor might have stolen it. A delivery order may or may not be negotiable; the question depends upon the conditions attached to it and the usage of trade under which it issued. 40 I.C. 86. See also 38 C. 127.

SEC. 15.—For an exception to sec. 15 in the case of Government securities, see the Indian Securities Act, 1886 (XIII of 1886), sec. 6. Where an endorser gets another person to write his name for him, it is validly 'signed' within the meaning of this section. 161 I.C. 528=1936 R. 27 (40 M. 1171, Rel. on.) A negotiable instrument may be transferred otherwise than by endorsement alone. It may be otherwise assigned, and the assignee may sue in his own name, the only difference being that the assignee will have only the right, title and interest of the assignor while the indorsee will have all the rights of a holder in due course. 51 I.C. 250. A promissory note can be transferred like any other chose in action. It can be effected by a deed without endorsement. 138 I.C. 262=35 L.W. 755=1933 M. 133 (1). A mere written acknowledgment of the receipt of money due under a pro-note signed by the payee, does not by itself amount to an indorsement within sec. 15. Nor does it amount to a transfer of an actionable claim under sec. 130 of the T. P. Act in the absence of words of transfer. 59 I.C. 943=1921 M. 122=39 M.L.J. 273. Whether a suit can be filed on an endorsement made by a stranger on the back of a note, who does not satisfy the definition of an indorser see 45 I.C. 186.

PROMISSORY NOTE IN FAVOUR OF PERSON AS AGENT—ENDORSEMENT BY PRINCIPAL.—Where upon a true construction of a promissory note itself, it is plain that the payee's name is mentioned therein as a payee in his capacity as agent of his firm and not in his personal capacity, the proprietor of that firm is really the true payee and can therefore endorse the promissory note under the provisions of sec. 15 of the Act. 1934 R. 289. See also 68 C.L.J. 405=1939 Cal. 256 (Pro-note in favour of managing agents of a bank).

16. [1][(1)] If the indorser signs his name only, the indorsement is said to be "in blank", and if he adds a direction to pay the amount mentioned in the instrument to, or to the order of, a specified person, the indorsement is said to be "in full", and the person so specified is called the "indorsee" of the instrument.

Indorsement "in blank" and "in full." "Indorsee."

[1][(2) The provisions of this Act relating to a payee shall apply with the necessary modifications to an indorsee.]

17. Where an instrument may be construed either as a promissory note or bill of exchange, the holder may at his election treat it as either, and the instrument shal be thenceforward treated accordingly.

Ambiguous instruments.

18. If the amount undertaken or ordered to be paid is stated differently in figures and in words, the amount stated in words shall be the amount undertaken or ordered to be paid.

Where amount is stated differently in figures and words.

19. A promissory note or bill of exchange, in which no time for payment is specified, and a cheque, are payable on demand.

Instruments payable on demand.

20. Where one person signs and delivers to another a paper stamped in accordance with the law relating to negotiable instruments then in force in British India, and either wholly blank or having written thereon an incomplete negotiable instrument, he thereby gives prima facie authority to the holder

Incohate stamped instruments.

LEG. REF.

[1] Inserted by Act V of 1914.

SEC. 16.—If an endorsement contains a direction to pay, though it may not contain actual words of direction, it contains a direction to pay within the meaning of the section. 19 I.C. 410=24 M.L.J. 296. The words on the back of a promissory note which were relied on as an indorsement were "Received the amount from T. K. A. (Sd.) K.A., Proprietor, A.N. Brothers". Held, that these words did not constitute an indorsement within the meaning of sec. 16 of the Negotiable Instruments Act, as there was no direction to pay the amount of the note to a specified person and as the alleged indorsement did not consist only of the signature of the indorsee's name. Nor did the words constitute an assignment, because there were no words of assignment nor did they convey an expression of intention to transfer. 43 L.W. 371=1936 M. 417=70 M.L.J. 467. As to endorsement, before pro-note becomes due, see 33 M. 34=3 I.C. 428=19 M.L.J. 509. An endorsement while it transfers the property in the note to the endorsee as the new holder, does not operate as an assignment to the endorsee of the debt due by the maker to the original payee. 1934 M. 350=67 M.L.J. 393. Where a person in whose favour a promissory note is executed makes an endorsement to the effect that he has sold the promissory note for a certain amount to the person named by him and that he has no further interest left in it, the endorsement is a perfectly good one, although it does not bear the words that the person named will be entitled to realise the amount by bringing a suit against the maker. Sec. 16 of the Act does not lay down any specific form or words which are necessary for an endorsement. 10 Luck. 732=1935 O.W.N. 295=1935 O. 264.

SEC. 16 (2).—See 50 B. 118=1926 B. 262=28 Bom.L.R. 226.

SEC. 17.—A hundi is sometimes a pro-note and sometimes a bill of exchange. 58 I.C. 313. The right of election given by sec. 17 of the Negotiable Instruments Act to the holder of an instrument to treat it a promissory not or as a bill of exchange is a promissory note or as a bill of exchange advantage of and that benefit should not be taken away by anything contained in the Stamp Act. Sec. 17 should in effect be read as a proviso to sec. 6 of the Stamp Act. 1932 M. 765=63 M.L.J. 548. Transfer of pro-note for collection—Burden of proof. See 39 L.W. 486=1934 M. 292.

SEC. 18.—See 1943 Nag. 99 I.L.R. 1943 N. 149.

SEC. 19.—A bill of exchange is payable on demand though the demand cannot be made on the day when the bill is drawn. 45 I.C. 22=8 L.W. 501. A note which does not fix any date for payment is payable on demand. (Ibid.)

SEC. 20.—Sec. 20 gives general authority to a person to whom a stamped and signed paper is delivered to convert it into a negotiable instrument payable to any specified person; it is open to a person who receives a blank incohate instrument to complete it thereof to make or complete, as the case may be, upon it a negotiable instrument, for any amount specified therein and not exceeding the amount covered by the stamp. The person so signing shall be liable upon such instrument, in the capacity in which he signed the same, to any holder in due course for such amount: provided that no person other than a holder in due course shall recover from the person delivering the instrument anything in excess of the amount intended by him to be paid thereunder.

"At sight," "On presentment," "After sight."

21. In a promissory note or bill of exchange the expressions "at sight" and "on presentment" mean on demand. The expression "after sight" means, in a promissory note, after presentment for sight, and, in a bill of exchange, after acceptance, or noting for non-acceptance or protest for non-acceptance.

"Maturity"..

22. The maturity of a promissory note or bill of exchange is the date at which it falls due.

Days of grace.

Every promissory note or bill of exchange which is not expressed to be payable on demand, at sight or on presentment is at maturity on the third day after the day on which it is expressed to be payable.

Calculating maturity of bill or note payables so many months after date or sight.

23. In calculating the date at which a promissory note or bill of exchange, made payable a stated number of months after date or after sight, or after a certain event, is at maturity, the period stated shall be held to terminate on the day of the month which corresponds with the day on which the instrument is dated, or presented for acceptance or sight, or noted in favour of any person besides himself. A hand note is a negotiable instrument, but if it is found as a fact that it was never negotiated, that would alter the position. 1941 P.W.N. 563=1941 P. 504. See also 1936 Nag. 260. Sec. 20 does not apply to cheques as a cheque does not require any stamp. Where therefore a blank cheque drawn by a person is dishonoured by the Bank, the "holder in due course" of such cheque cannot hold the drawer thereof liable for the amount stated therein on the dishonour of such a cheque, inasmuch as the cheque is not an instrument stamped instrument. 40 P.L.R. 77=1937 Lah. 816. The document, whose stamp has not been crossed by the signature, might still come under sec. 20 if the stamp had been cancelled in accordance with sec. 12 of the Stamp Act. 34 I.C. 315=38 A. 430. The delivery of a hundi paper signed, but left blank, cannot be taken to give prima facie authority to make thereon a negotiable instrument outside the maximum value covered by the stamp by attaching thereto other stamps. 54 I.C. 3. So long as the amount of a pro-note can be found out from the instrument itself without extraneous aid, the omission to state it in the body of the pro-note does not vitiate its character as such. 1923 R. 97. Though a payee can fill in a blank in an incohate instrument and sue on it himself or endorse it to some one else, no decree can be passed on such a blank instrument if it does not contain the name of the payee. Such an instrument is not negotiable. 17 I.C. 915. See also 13 Pat.L.T. 506 =1932 P. 324; 19 Pat. 404=21 P.L.T. 845 =1940 Pat. 377 cited under sec. 4 supra.

SECS. 20 AND 118.—If the plaintiff sues on a promissory note, and the defendant admits, or has had proved against him conclusively his signature and/or his thumb impression on the promissory note, but the defendant asserts that he did not sign the promissory note in the condition in which it is filed, the burden of proof lies on the defendant to show that the promissory note was not in its existing form at the time that he executed it. 1939 Rang.L.R. 397 =1939 Rang. 334 (F.B.).

SEC. 22.—The term "maturity" used in this section can have no application to a promissory note payable on demand. 1930 M.W.N. 1232. Time of presenting hundi for payment. 39 A. 86=37 I.C. 656. Hundi —Contract dispensing with days of grace—Whether permissible. 23 I.C. 437=26 M. L.J. 494. The provision in sec. 22 giving three days of grace affects only instruments which are not written in an oriental language. The instruments written in oriental languages will be governed by any local usage which may be proved in the case. Where it is admitted in the plaint that the hundi in question fell due on a certain date in accordance with the local usage or custom, the operation of sec. 22 is excluded, the three days of grace cannot be added. 186 I.C. 693=1940 Lah. 14.

Caliulating maturity of bill or note payable so many days after date or sight.

24. In calculating the date at which a promissory note or bill of exchange made payable a certain number of days after date or after sight or after a certain event is at maturity, the day of the date, or of presentment for acceptance or sight, or of protest for non-acceptance, or on which the event happens, shall be excluded.

When day of maturity is a holiday.

25. When the day on which a promissory note or bill of exchange is at maturity is a public holiday, the instrument shall be deemed to be due on the next preceding business day.

[1][Explanation.—The expression "public holiday" includes Sundays, New Year's Day, Christmas Day: if either of such days falls on a Sunday, the next following Monday; Good Friday; and any other day declared by the [2][Central Government] by notification in the Official Gazette, to be a public holiday.

SECS. 26, 27 AND 28: ACTION ON PROMISSORY NOTE—LIABILITY OF UNDISCLOSED PRINCIPALS.—In an action on a promissory note

Minor.

A minor may draw, indorse, deliver and negotiate such instrument so as to bind all parties except himself.

Nothing herein contained shall be deemed to empower a corporation to make, indorse or accept such instruments except in cases in which, under the law for the time being in force, they are so empowered.

Agency.

27. Every person capable of binding himself or of being bound, as mentioned in section 26, may so bind himself or be bound by a duly authorized agent acting in his name

A general authority to transact business and to receive and discharge debts does not confer upon an agent the power of accepting or indorsing bills of exchange so as to bind his principal.

An authority to draw bills of exchange does not of itself import an authority to indorse.

against a person whose name properly appears as party to the instrument, it is not open either by way of claim or defence to show that the signatory was in reality acting for an undisclosed principal. The sections of the Contract Act relating to the liability of an undisclosed principal do not override Ss. 26 to 28 of the Negotiable Instruments Act. 32 L.W. 551=1934 M. 327=66 M.L.J. 671. An objection by an endorser of a negotiable instrument that the signature of the endorser does not appear on face of the negotiable instrument, as it is signed by his agent without any mention being made that he is acting on behalf of his principal, cannot be upheld, when on a fair interpretation of the document, the name of the person liable is disclosed and the evidence shows that the agent signed the negotiable instrument under the implied directions and with the explicit knowledge of his principal. 187 I.C. 650=1939 Lah. 225. Promissory note by guardian of minor—Note not disclosing borrowing on behalf of minor—Debt incurred for purposes binding on minor—Liability of latter's estate. See 50 L.W. 374.

SEC. 27.—Where a partner of a firm executes a promissory note in his individual capacity and not on behalf of the firm, the executant alone is liable under the note. 142 I.C. 837=35 Bom.L.R. 68=1933 B. 101. Under S. 27, a promissory note executed by a partner of a firm can bind the firm only if it is executed by the partner in the name of the firm. It is sufficient that it is done in any other manner expressing or implying an intention to bind the firm, which, under the Partnership Act, would otherwise be sufficient to bind the firm. S. 22 of the Partnership Act must yield to the special provisions of the Negotiable Instruments Act. Though it is not necessary that the note should be signed by the partner in the name of the firm, the name of the firm as the party liable on the note should be sufficiently disclosed. Neither a recital that the borrowing is for the purpose of the firm nor the description of the executant in the preamble as a partner of the firm can be regarded as sufficient to make the firm liable. 56 L.W. 366=1945 M.W.N. 449=A.I.R. 1945 Mad. 439=(1945) 2 M.L.J. 113. The name of a person or firm to be charged upon a negotiable instrument must be clearly stated on the face or the back of the instrument, so that the responsibility is made plain and can be instantly recognised. The mere fact that the name is disclosed in "some way" is not sufficient. Consequently, the mere fact that a person executes a promissory note describing himself as the proprietor of a firm or writes on a newspaper with the name and description of a firm printed on it, cannot be held to be sufficient to hold the firm liable on the promissory note 15 Lah. 901=35 P.L.R. 590=1934 L. 815. Where the intention is to make a firm liable it is not necessary that the name of the firm should be written immediately above the signature of the person signing instrument. A hundi purported to come from a firm; on the instrument were words purporting to show the drawer as the firm. After giving compliments of the firm it proceeded "further we have drawn on you one receipt for Rs. 1,000." The signature of the partner of the firm who signed the hundi was preceded by the word "dustkhat". Held, that the prefixing of "dustkhat" to the signature denoted that the person incurred no personal liability on the instrument. It was the firm which was to be liable on the instrument and not the partner. 1930 S. 4. The effect of S. 27 is that the principal can only be made liable through his agent on a negotiable instrument, when the agent acts in his principal's name, that is, when he signs as agent and that an undisclosed principal cannot be sued on a negotiable instrument 118 I C. 673=1929 N. 274. See also 144 I.C. 866=1933 R. 131. Promissory note signed by managing agent of company—Articles of Association not permitting agent to sign—Company whether liable. See 1930 A.L.J. 1052. See also 171 I C. 412=1938 Lah. 41 (general authority to transact business of a firm does not include power to execute promissory note on behalf of firm). Suit based on a promissory note executed by manager of joint Hindu family, if maintainable against other members of the joint family. See 144 I.C. 411=29 N L. An indorsee of a promissory note executed by the managing member of a Hindu joint family is limited to his remedy on the note, unless the indorsement is so worded as to transfer the debt as well and the stamp law is complied with, and, therefore, in the case of an ordinary indorsement the indorsee cannot sue the non-executant coparceners on the ground of their liability under the Hindu Law. I.L.R. (1938) Mad. 568=47 L.W. 309=1938 Mad. 377=(1938) 1 M.L.J. 378 (F.B.). See also 20 Pat.L.T. 321=1939 P.W.N. 305=1939 Pat. 490. Where the original debt was borrowed by the defendant for the benefit of the family and a pronote executed for it and it is renewed by the execution of a fresh pronote by the elder brother of the defendant and a suit is brought on it against the defendant after the death of the executant, S. 27 of the Act can have no application and the defendant would be liable on the new pronote. 1941 O.W.N. 1112 =1941 O.A. 827=17 Luck. 226=1942 Oudh 161.

SECS. 27 AND 28: APPLICATION OF.—S. 28 applies both to instruments in English as well as in vernacular. 14 M.L T. 502=21 I C. 650. The principle of S. 28 applies also to the case of a payee. 40 I.C. 347=5 L W. 721. S. 28 does not apply where the suit is brought not on the pronote but on the consideration. In such a case the suit can be maintained against the principal as well. 27 N.L.R. 324;; 1936 O. W.N. 1008=165 I.C. 578 (2)=1937 O. 65 (Case of execution by servant). When deciding whether the maker of a promissory note has executed it as the agent or the representative of another, the Court cannot look beyond the instrument. In India, where a person executing an instrument in an Indian language, after giving his own description, adds that he is the agent of another, it means that he is acting as the other's agent in the matter of the execution of the document, and it is sufficient to exclude his personal responsibility. I.L.R. (1941) Mad. 513=1941 Mad. 417=(1941) 1 M. L.J. 441 (F.B.).

ILLUSTRATIVE CASES.—"Agent" in Ss. 27 and 28 means the agent of a person capable of contracting within the meaning of S. 26;.and where the agent is not liable the principal is. 41 Mad. 815=35 M.L.J. 90; 40 M. 1171. Liability of partners executing promissory note as principals. See 4 R. 551. Where the body of a promissory note executed by a trustee of a temple binds the executant and not the temple, the mere fact that the executant is described at the beginning of the note and after the signature as "adalthedar" or trustee, would not be a sufficient ground for excluding the liability of the maker on the note. It is clearly impossible to go outside the note to find out whether the maker intended to pledge his credit or intended to find the temple. 55 L.W. 258=1942 M. 468=(1942 1 M.L J. 535. SECS. 27, 28 AND 50.—An endorsee of a promissory note executed by the manager of a Hindu joint family cannot sue the other members of the family on the debt and recover the debt from their shares in the family properties. But if the promissory note is got back by a re-endorsement from the third party to whom it was endorsed, the creditor can file a suit on the original cause of action and there can be no objection to his filing a suit against the other members of the family seeking to make their shares of the family property liable for the debt. There is no distinction between a case where the promissory note itself is re-endorsed to the original creditor and a case where, after decree in a suit by the endorsee, the decree is transferred to the original creditor. SEC. 28: SCOPE OF.—This section is an exception to S. 230 of the Contract Act as regards the liability of agent. 18 Pat.L. T. 337=1937 P.W.N. 344=1937 Pat. 428. Where a person executing a promissory note alleges that he executed it on behalf of a firm of which he is a partner, unless the responsibility of the firm is made plain and can instantly be recognised as the instrument passes from hand to hand, ordinarily the person signing alone will be liable. 1936 N. 252. Where a promissory note is executed by a servant for a loan advanced to his master, and the name of the master does not apear as a party on the face of the promissory note, the master cannot be held liable under the instrument. 12 Luck. 472=1936 O.W.N. 1008=1937 O. 65. The essence of a tripartite arrangement between a third person, promisor not an agent of the third person, and promisee, was to conceal third person's indebtedness from the promisee and to make him believe that the promisor was the debtor. The promisor lent himself to the scheme fully understanding that its object was the deception of the promisee. Held, that the promisor was not induced by the promisee to believe that he would not be held liable upon his promissory note within the meaning of S. 28. 57 I.A. 1=34 C.W.N. 145=1929 P.C. 297.

PROMISSORY NOTE BY MAHANT.—Where a promissory note is executed by the mahant of a Math, describing himself as mahant but not as a shebait or any kind of agent of the deity of the Math, and there is nothing on the face of the note to suggest that he is contracting in such a way as to bind the deity, the deity cannot be made liable. In a suit on the promissory note only the executant can be held liable. 23 Pat.L.T. 665=1942 Pat. 337 (2). Where trustees or managers of temples or other charities borrow money on promissory notes under personal liability, neither S. 28 nor the principle underlying it can have any application. Hence a person making a note as trustee of a temple or other charity cannot claim the benefit of S. 28 as he cannot be said to be acting on behalf of a person capable of being bound by the undertaking or promise to pay. HINDU MINORS—PRONOTE BY MOTHER AS GUARDIAN—NO DESCRIPTION AS GUARDIAN IN SIGNATURE.—Plaintiff instituted a suit on a promissory note executed to him by the mother and guardian of two Hindu minors. The note which was in renewal of a prior note by her (which itself was in renewal of an earlier one executed by the father of the minors) described the minors in the body of the note "as represented by their mother and guardian" but she signed the note without any such description attached to her name. Held, that the intention of the maker, the debt being one incurred by the father originally, was to exclude her own personal liability and to make the wards liable; that the liability of the minors under the Hindu Law was not affected by the mere fact that the promissory note evidencing the debt was by a guardian; and the palintiff was entitled to a decree against the minors. 58 Mad. 735=1935 Mad. 447=68 M.L.J. 540 (F.B.).

PROMISSORY NOTE—EXECUTANT SIGNING HIS OWN NAME AND ALSO SIGNING AS GUARDIAN—PERSONAL LIABILITY.—The material part of the promissory note was as follows: "The balance is Rs. four hundred. This sum of rupees four hundred we have agreed to pay you and so we owe you. On demand we promise to pay you or your order this sum with interest thereon at one anna per mensem and get this returned. To this effect is the promissory note executed with our consent and in the handwriting of T.V.S. the guardian." Then defendant 2 (T.V.S.) signed his name alone across the stamp and again below the stamp as guardian for minors. Held, that the guardian also made himself personally liable. 154 I.C. 582=1935 M. 160. See also 1936 M. 417=70 M.L.J. 467 (case of principal and agent). See also 18 Pat.L.T. 337; 1936 M. 984—71 M.L.J. 738 (case of partnership).

SECS. 30, 37 AND 38.—The drawer of hundi is not a surety for acceptance, because the drawee does not become liable until he accepts. It follows that there is no principal for whom the drawer can stand surety. Therefore when there is no acceptance the liability of the drawer is as principal debtor under an implied contract of indemnity. His undertaking is conditional only and his liability does not arise unless the instrument is dishonoured, either by non-acceptance or by non-payment. 182 I.C. 842=1938 Nag. 262.

Liability of maker of note and acceptor of bill.

32. In the absence of a contract to the contrary, the maker of a promissory note and the acceptor before maturity of a bill of exchange are bound to pay the amount thereof at maturity according to the apparent tenor of the note or acceptance respectively, and the acceptor of a bill of exchange at or after maturity is bound to pay the amount thereof to the holder on demand.

In default of such payment as aforesaid, such maker or acceptor is bound to compensate any party to the note or bill for any loss or damage sustained by him and caused by such default.

Only drawee can be acceptor except in need or for honour.

33. No person except the drawee of a bill of exchange, or all or some of several drawees, or a person named therein as a drawee in case of need, or an acceptor for honour, can bind himself by an acceptance.

35. In the absence of a contract to the contrary, whoever indorses and delivers a negotiable instrument before maturity, without, in such indorsement expressly excluding or making conditional his own liability, is bound thereby to every subsequent holder in case of dishonour by the drawee, acceptor or maker to compensate such holder for any loss or damage caused to him by such dishonour, provided due notice of dishonour has been given to, or received by, such indorser as hereinafter provided.

Every indorser after dishonour is liable upon an instrument payable on demand.

SEC. 35.—The section does not apply to a promissory note payable on demand. The last paragraph does not mean that the indorser is liable even without a notice of dishonour since that would conflict with S. 93. It only means that after dishonour. the indorser is liable as upon an instrument payable on demand, that liability is akin to that of the maker but the liablity is subject to the condition fixed in the proviso embodied in the first part of the section. 1930 M. It cannot be said that the endorsements are without consideration within the meaning of S. 43 of the Act. Since the endorsements are part and parcel of the same transaction, the consideration for the same is the money received by him from the owner of the money. A negotiable instrument made, drawn, accepted, indorsed or transferred without consideration, or for a consideration which fails, creates no obligation of payment between the parties to the transaction. But if any such party has transferred the instrument with or without indorsement to a holder for consideration, such holder, and every subsequent holder deriving title from him, may recover the amount due on such instrument from the transferor for consideration or any prior party thereto.

The mere fact that S. 39 provides in respect of a bill of exchange for such reservation does not show that the main principle recognised as part of the law of contracts does not apply to other Negotiable Instruments. S. 39 would appear to be a provision inserted ex abundanti cautela. In the case of a promissory note for accommodation, the endorsee does not lose his rights against the maker-surety by reason of an indulgence to the payee (principal debtor) if the rights of the endorsee have been expressly reserved as against the surety. 57 M. 482=66 M.L.J. 180.

Exception II.—No party to the instrument who has induced any other party to make, draw, accept, indorse or transfer the same to him for a consideration which he has failed to pay or perform in full shall recover thereon an amount exceeding the value of the consideration (if any) which he has actually paid or performed.

Partial absence or failure of money consideration.

When the consideration for which a person signed a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque consisted of money, and was originally absent in part or has subsequently failed in part, the sum which a holder standing in immediate relation with such signer is entitled to receive from him is proportionally reduced.

Explanation.—The drawer of a bill of exchange stands in immediate relation with the acceptor. The maker of a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque stands in immediate relation with the payee, and the indorser with his indorsee. Other signers may by agreement stand in immediate relation with a holder.

CHAPTER IV.

OF NEGOTIATION.

Delivery.

46. The making, acceptance or endorsement of a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque is completed by delivery, actual or constructive.

As between parties standing in immediate relation, delivery to be effectual must be made by the party making, accepting or indorsing the instrument or by a person authorized by him in that behalf.

amount by reason of getting two benefits, one a small cash payment and the other the cancellation of an old promisosry note, S. 44 does not apply to such case. Nor does S. 45 apply because the consideration is not "ascertainable in money without collateral enuiry." 189 I.C. 384=1940 Rang. 152.

SEC. 45.—S. 45 is based on the English law which is stated by Chalmers in his book on Bills of Exchange as follows:—"Partial failure of consideration is a defence pro tanto against an immediate party when the failure is an ascertained and liquidated amount but not otherwise," that is, when a collateral enquiry becomes necessary for the purpose. 22 L.W. 265=1925 M. 1168 =49 M.L.J. 530.

SEC. 46.—It is open to the executant of a promissory note to show that there was no presently operative contract between the parties as is embodies in the note, that it was delivered only conditionally or for a special purpose only and not for the purpose of transferring aboslutely property therein. 1939 P.W.N. 200=20 Pat.L.T. 514=1939 Pat. 495. Delivery under S. 46 need not be to the person whose name is given in the instrument as payee or to any agent authorised by him in that behalf. There must no doubt be a delivery by the maker, or by some one authorised in that behalf. So long as there is a delivery with the intention of completing the transaction to the person who actually advanced the money under the instrument, that is sufficient to complete the transaction. The maker cannot, in a suit by an indorsee from the payee, question the title of the indorsee or the payee on the ground that the payee was only a benamidar, or on the ground that there was no delivery to the person whose name appears as payee. 50 L.W. 357=1939 Mad. 858=(1930) 2 M.L.J. 501.

SEC. 46, PARA. (3).—The words "as between such parties and any holder of the instrument other than a holder in due course" mean "as between the maker and the payee or the endorser and the endorsee or the endorsee and any holder other than a holder in due course or as between any one of such parties and any other." 50 A. 754 =26 A.L.J. 696=1928 A. 289.

SECS. 46 AND 50.—Endorsement alone is not sufficient to transfer the property in a negotiable instrument to the indorsee but the indorsement must be followed by delivery. 6 L.L.J. 230=79 I.C. 461=1924 L. 640. But if the instrument is delivered conditionally or for a specific purpose only, and not for the purpose of transferring property therein, the property does not pass to the endorsee. The endorser may limit the right of the endorsee by express words Where the endorsement contains no explicit words limiting the rights of the endorsee or is a blank endorsement, it is open to the endorser to lead evidence to show that it

As between such parties and any holder of the instrument other than a holder in due course, it may be shown that the instrument was delivered conditionally or for a special purpose only, and not for the purpose of transferring absolutely the property therein.

A promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque payable to bearer is negotiable by the delivery thereof.

A promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque payable to order is negotiable by the holder by indorsement and delivery thereof.

Effect of indorsement.

47. Subject to the provisions of section 58, a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque payable to bearer is negotiable by delivery thereof.

Exception.—A promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque delivered on condition that it is not to take effect except in a certain event is not negotiable (except in the hands of a holder for value without notice of the condition) unless such event happens.

Illustration.

(a) A, the holder of a negotioble instrument payable to bearer, delivers it to C's agent to keep for B, The instrument has been negotiated,

(b) A, the holder of a negotiable instrumeut payable to bearer, which is in the hands of A's banker, who is at the time the banker of B, directs the banker to transfer the instrument to B's credit in the banker's account with B. The banker does so, and accordingly now possesses the instrument as B's agent. The instrument has been negotiated and B has become the holder of it.

Negotiation by indorsement.

48. Subject to the provisions of section 58, a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque [1][payable to order] is negotiable by the holder by indorsement and delivery thereof.

SEC. 48.—S. 48 does not restrict the transfer of a negotiable instrument to the operation of endorsement. 16 P. 74=1937 P. 100 (F.B.). Where a promissory note is transferred or assigned by means of a registered instrument, such a transfer is valid and is not prohibited by S. 137 of the Transfer of Property Act. 1937 Pat. 100. It cannot be said that because it is possible to transfer a promissory note by endorsement and delivery, such a transfer if made under a formal sale deed is without effect. SECS. 48 AND 13 (1) EXPL.: PRO-NOTE,— RIGHT OF SUIT ON.—A suit on a pro-note can only be maintained by the person named as the payee; and none claiming to be the owner thereof can sue on it without an endorsement by the payee. Therefore, a person to whose share a pro-note in another's name is allotted on partition cannot sue on it without an endorsement by the original payee, as the partition does not transfer the pro-note to the allottee by operation of law. 36 Bom.L.R. 807=1934 B. 356.

Conversion of indorsement in blank into indorsement in full.

49. The holder of a negotiable instrument indorsed in blank may, without signing his own name, by writing above the indorser's signature a direction to pay to any other person as indorsee, convert the indorsement in blank into an indorsement in full; and the holder does not thereby incur the responsibility of an indorser.

Effect of indorsement

50. The indorsement of a negotiable instrument followed by delivery transfers to the indorsee the property therein with the right of further negotiation; but the indorsement may, by express words, restrict or exclude such right, or may merely constitute the indorsee an agent to indorse the instrument or to receive its contents for the indorser, or for some other specified person.

In a suit by an indorsee of a promissory note based upon the promissory note, which has been executed by a Hindu coparcener, neither the son nor the father of the executant can be made liable directly on the instrument in which neither of them is mentioned when the indorsement is not so worded as to transfer the debt itself and when no stamp duty has been paid on the indorsement. When what is transferred by the indorsement is only the property in the promissory note and nothing else, S. 8 of the Transfer of Property Act cannot apply and is of no avail to the indorsee. 50 L.W. 336=1939 Mad. 846=(1939) 2 M.L.J. 531 An ordinary endorsee of a promissory note obtains no other right under the endorsement apart from the property in the note, and cannot ask for relief against a person other than the maker on the basis of the debt evidenced by the note. Who may negotiate

51. Every sole maker, drawer, payee or indorsee, or all of several joint makers, drawers, payees or indorsees, of a negotiable instrument may, if the negotiability of such instrument has not been restricted or excluded as mentioned in section 50, indorse and negotiate the same.

Explanation.—Nothing in this section enables a maker or drawer to indorse or negotiate an instrument, unless he is in lawful possession or is holder thereof; or enables a payee or indorsee to indorse or negotiate an instrument unless he is holder thereof.

Indorser who excludes his own liability or makes it conditional.

52. The indorser of a negotiable instrument may, by express words in the indorsement, exclude his own liability thereon, or make such liability or the right of the indorsee to receive the amount due thereon depend upon the happening of a specified event although such event may never happen.

Where an indorser so excludes his liability and afterwards becomes the holder of the instrument, all intermediate indorsers are liable to him.

CHAPTER V.

OF PRESENTMENT.

Presentment for acceptance.

61. A bill of exchange payable after sight must, if no time or place is specified therein for presentment, be presented to the drawee thereof for acceptance, if he can, after reasonable search, be found, by a person entitled to demand acceptance, within a reasonable time after it is drawn, and in business hours on a business day. In default of such presentment, no party thereto is liable thereon to the person making such default.

If the drawee cannot, after reasonable search, be found, the bill is dishonoured.

If the bill is directed to the drawee at a particular place, it must be presented at that place; and if at the due date for presentment he cannot, after reasonable search, be found there, the bill is dishonoured.

[1][Where authorized by agreement or usage, a presentment through the post office by means of a registered letter is sufficient.]

Presentment of promissory note for sight.

62. A promissory note, payable at a certain period after sight, must be presented to the maker thereof for sight (if he can, after reasonable search, be found) by a person entitled to demand payment, within a reasonable time after it is made and in business hours on a business day. In default of such presentment, no party thereto is liable thereon to the person making such default.

Drawee's time for deliberation.

63. The holder must, if so required by the drawee of a bill of exchange presented to him for acceptance, allow the drawee [2][forty-eight] hours (exclusive of public holidays) to consider whether he will accept it.

64. Promissory notes, bills of exchange and cheques must be presented maker of the promissory note, it ceases to be negotiable. If it subsequently comes into the hands of a holder in due course, he acquires no right of action on the instrument. 1933 M. 300=64 M.L.J. 241. Where in spite of satisfaction of the promissory note at maturity, the note was not returned to the maker and was wrongfully retained by the wife of the payee who, after the payee's death, endorsed it to another person, the holder in whose favour "the waste paper" was endorsed was not entitled to succeed on the basis of the ruling in Lickbarrow v. Mason (viz., of two innocent persons, he who occasioned the third party's fraud must suffer), because the payee could not be said to have facilitated his wife's wrong doing. 1933 M. 300=64 M.L.J. 241. The liability of the acceptor, maker or drawee of a hundi is not affected by the fact that the hundi was not presented for payment on the due date. 1933 L. 176=34 P.L.R. 505.

SEC. 63.—Secs. 63 and 83 of the Act regulate the condition under which a presentment for acceptance is valid and consequences of complying with these conditions, and have no application to hundis payable on demand. 1923 A. 345. Even bankruptcy or death of the party or the loss of the bill or the note does not excuse non-presentment. Power to obtain duplicate in case of loss is a part of the mercantile laws of countries and ample scope is given to it by Courts of Equity in England both on bills lost before and after maturity and on notes as well. See 1924 L. 198.

SEC. 64.—S. 64 should be given its plain meaning and the exception to it must be read as more or less an independent rule of law. The result of non-presentment of hundis for payment is not the exemption of the acceptor from liability but the exemption of other parties to the hundis. 52 A. 696=1930 A. L.J. 818=1930 A. 648. Exception.—Where a promissory note is payable on demand and is not payable at a specified place, no presentment is necesary in order to charge the maker thereof.

of a promissory note payable on demand liable to the indorsee. 1930 M.W.N. 1232 =1931 M. 113. S. 64 absolves from liability all parties except the maker of a promissory note, acceptor of a bill of exchange and drawee of a cheque. One of the parties so absolved is the drawer of the bill of exchange. The principle on which this distinction is based is merely that "the maker, accepter or drawee" are the principal debtors, whereas the others are only sureties. On default in presentment, the holder of a hundi is bound to lose his remedy against the drawer as well as the endorser. The holder therefore cannot urge the loss as any excuse for non-presentment of the duplicate of the hundi and still claim his remedy against the drawer. 167 I.C. 907=1936 Nag. 260. A discharge of the principal is a discharge of the surety. When as a result of non-presentment of a Hundi to the drawee, the principal debtor is relieved of his obligation, so will the surety, the drawer of the liability. 167 I.C. 907=1936 Nag. 260. "Other parties" in S. 64 mean parties other than the holder. 59 I.C. 604. In the case of a promissory note the words "the other parties thereto" do not mean parties other than the maker of the promissory note, for in S. 69, Negotiable Instruments Act, it is specifically laid down that a promissory note made payable at a specified place must, in order to charge the maker thereof, be presented for payment at that place. 1935 Pesh. 132. Under the exception to S. 64, where the promissory note is payable on demand and at a specified place presentment is necessary in order to charge the promisor, but where the promisor makes a part-payment on account of the amount due such presentment is not necessary. 1933 L. 133=34 P.L.R. 804; 1935 Pesh. 132. In a case where the drawee and drawer of a hundi are the same, presentation for payment is not necessary, for no question of damage can arise as the facts are all known to the person drawing it. 44 A. 554=20 A.L.J. 437=1922 A. 379. (See also 8 Lah.L.J. 604, cited, under S. 76.) A mere demand for the money does not amount to presentment of the note; the holder must exhibit the note and offer to hand it over on receiving payment. 1935 Pesh 132. No dishonour can possibly occur unless the instrument is presented for payment by the holder to the drawee as required by the first part of S. 64 which is mandatory The second part of the section provides the penalty for non-presentment by stating in unequivocal terms that in default of such presentment the other parties thereto are not liable thereon to such holder. 28 N.L.R 134=1932 N.55. Where the holder of a hundi sues the drawer and the other parties to it without however having made any presentment of the hundi the onus is on him to prove that the drawer could not suffer damage by such non-presentation. 39 A. 364=39 I.C. 649. See also 1935 L. 623; 48 I.C. 364=41 A. 40.

"SPECIFIED PLACE".—A small town which is sufficient to indicate the address of the maker of a promissory note is a "specified place". 1936 Pesh. 202. SECS. 64 AND 66.—Though the parties to a promissory note (payable three months after date) other than the maker are discharged from their liability by reason of default in making presentment for payment, the maker is nevertheless liable except when the note is payable at a specified place. 30 L. 755 =1929 L. 240. See also 1931 L. 758; 1936 Nag. 260.

SECS. 64 AND 69.—In view of the provisions of Ss. 64 and 69, presentment is necessary to charge the maker of a promissory note payable on demand, only if the note is payable at a specified place. 1937 L. 259 =39 P.L.R. 958=18 Lah. 580.

SECS. 64 AND 76 (d): BILL OF EXCHANGE —DRAWER AND DRAWEE SAME PERSON—NO PRESENTATION NECESSARY.—By reason of the word "respectively" used in S. 64 of the Act, the word "maker" has reference to promissory notes and the word "drawee" to cheques. If this view is correct, no presentation is necessary in the case of a bill of exchange if there is no acceptor of the bill. Even assuming that S. 64 applies to the case of a drawee of a bill of exchange, where the same person is the drawer as well

SECS. 68 AND 69.—S. 6 discharges the maker of a pro-note, if a proper presentment is not made to him at the place specified in the pro-note, unless S. 76 (d) comes in to relieve the holder against the effect of S 69, and if no damage could have occurred by the non-presentment. It is open, however, to the maker to prove that damage had been caused to him by the non-presentment and that consequently the holder is not entitled to take advantage of the provisions of S. 76 (d) (1935 Pesh. 132, Foll.) 1936 Pesh. 202=195 I.C. 185=1941 Pesh. 45. "Specified place" in S. 69 of the Negotiable Instruments Act means a place so particularised that the promisee can know where he must present the instrument for payment. A promissory note which provides for the money under it being paid "at Poona, Bombay or elsewhere" is not a note falling under S. 69; it is not one payable at a "specified place", and so no presentment for payment is necessary. 60 B. 796=38 Bom.L.R. 395=1936 B. 218. But see 1937 L. 259. A city, town or village at large may be taken to be a specified place within the meaning of Ss. 64 and 69, but its presentment is only necessary, or indeed reasonably possible, if the maker has his residence or place of business there. In the absence of such residence or place of business the mere possession of the promissory note by the promisee in the city, town or village mentioned would be sufficient. 18 Lah. 580=39 P.L.R. 958=1937 Lah. 259. See also 39 P.L.R. 765=1937 Lah. 892. Presentment where no exclusive place specified.

70. A promissory note or bill of exchange not made payable as mentioned in sections 68 and 69, must be presented for payment at the place of business (if any), or at the usual residence, of the maker, drawee or acceptor thereof, as the case may be.

Presentment when maker, etc., has no known place of business or residence.

71. If the maker, drawee or acceptor of a negotiable instrument has no known place of business or fixed residence, and no place is specified in the instrument for presentment for acceptance or payment, such presentment may be made to him in person wherever he can be found.

Presentment of cheque to charge drawer.

72. [1][Subject to the provisions of section 84], a cheque must, in order to charge the drawer, be presented at the bank upon which it is drawn before the relation between the drawer and his banker has been altered to the prejudice of the drawer.

Presentment of cheque to charge any other person.

73. A cheque must, in order to charge any person except the drawer, be presented within a reasonable time after delivery thereof by such person.

Presentment of instrument payable on demand.

74. Subject to the provisions of section 31, a negotiable instrument payable on demand must be presented for payment within a reasonable time after it is received by the holder.

Presentment by or to agent, representative of deceased or assignee of insolvent.

75. Presentment for acceptance or payment may be made to the duly authorised agent of the drawee, maker or acceptor, as the case may be, or, where the drawee, maker or acceptor has died, to his legal representative, or, where he has been declared an insolvent, to his assignee.

Excuse for delay in presentment for acceptance or payment.

[2][75-A. Delay in presentment [2][for acceptance or payment] is excused if the delay is caused by circumstances beyond the control of the holder, and not imputable to his default, misconduct or negligence. When the cause of delay ceases to operate, presentment must be made within a reasonable time]

If the maker of a note does not reside at the place specified in the note itself for presentation, and the note is in the possession of the person in whose favour it has been executed, the provisions of S. 69 are held in abeyance and no presentment is necessary. 45 P.L.R. 133=1943 Lah. 121.

SEC. 70.—The general principle that a debtor must find out the creditor and make the payment due to him at the latter's place of business or residence is not applicable to the case of a negotiable instrument. The place where the maker of a promissory note resides or carries on business is the only place where a suit on the note can be instituted. 155 I.C. 953=1935 N. 144.

SECS. 70 AND 64.—No presentment is necessary in the case of a promissory note which is not payable at a specified place, when the suit is against the maker of the promissory note. 40 P.L.R. 975=1939 Lah. 18.

When presentment unnecessary.

76. No presentment for payment is necessary, and the instrument is dishonoured at the due date for presentment, in any of the following cases:—

(a) if the maker drawee or acceptor intentionally prevents the presentment of the instrument, or if the instrument being payable at his place of business, he closes such place on a business during the usual business hours, or if the instrument being payable at some other specified place, neither he nor any person authorised to pay it attends at such place during the usual business hours, or if the instrument not being payable at any specified place, he cannot after due search be found;

(b) as against any party sought to be charged therewith, if he has engaged to pay notwithstanding non-presentment;

(c) as against any party if, after maturity, with knowledge that the instrument has not been presented—he makes a part-payment on account of the amount due on the instrument, or promises to pay the amount due thereon in whole or in part; or otherwise waives his right to take advantage of any default in presentment for payment; made, the drawer cannot suffer damage from want of presentation of the note as required by S. 74, and therefore no presentation for payment is necessary under S. 76 (d). 39 P.L.R. 138=1937 L. 58.

SEC. 76.—[See also cases under S. 64, supra.] Presentment of hundi is not necessary, where the drawee has no residence or place of business or a known address at the place at which the hundi is due and on the date on which the hundi is due, nor is he to be found personally present there on that date. So also, presentment is not necessary under S. 76 (b) as against the party sought to be charged therewith, if he has engaged to pay notwithtsanding non-presentment. 187 I.C. 650=1939 Lah. 225. A defendant in a suit on a promissory note who does not contest the suit on the ground that no presentment has been made, waives his right to take advantage of the default in presentment, and the suit cannot therefore be dismissed on that ground. 45 P.L.R. 133=1943 Lah. 121. The acceptor of a bill of exchange is entitled to set off on the due date against the payee and pay only the balance. 35 I.C. 628=18 Bom.L.R. 689. A mere demand of money does not amount to a presentment for payment. In order to comply with the law the holder must exhibit the bill to the person from whom he demands payment and offer to deliver it on payment. 55 I.C. 610 (2)=1 L. 262. Even parol promise on the part of the endorser to pay the note is sufficient to constitute an engagement to pay notwithstanding non-presentment: 87 I.C. 488=47 A. 572=1925 A. 442. A defendant in a suit on a pro-note who pleads part-payment cannot urge non-presentment of the note as a bar to the suit. 210 I.C. 91=1943 Lah. 121.

SEC. 76 (b).—A promise to pay within the meaning of S. 76 (b) need not be expressed so long as it is clearly deducible from the language employed by the parties or their conduct. 187 I.C. 650=1939 Lah. 225. An endorsement by the notary public on a negotiable instrument to the effect that "Endorsers state if drawer does not pay the will pay at the request of the manager" imports a promise to pay by the endorses within the meaning of S 76 (b). 187 I.C. 650=1939 Lah. 225.

SEC. 76 (d).—Throughout the Act, a clear distinction has been made between the words "maker" and "drawer", the former word being used in a more general sense as applying to promissory notes, negotiable instruments and cheques, while the word "drawer" is restricted to bills of exchange or cheques only, and is nowhere used in connection with promissory notes. Therefore the operation of cl. (d) of S. 76 is limited to bills of exchange and cheques only and does not extend to promissory notes. 39 P.L.R. 765 =1937 L 259=I.L.R. 1937 L. 580; 1937 L. 892; 1936 Pesh. 202; 1941 Pesh. 45=47 C W.N. 658. S. 76 (d) applies to a case where the drawer has no funds with the drawee at the time the bill is being drawn or when it should have been presented, as also to a case where the drawer has no reasonable expectation that the drawee will accept for his accommodation. 1935 L. 413. Presentation on the exact date of the maturity of the hundi is not necessary when the drawer and the drawee are one and the same person. In such a case, no question of damage arises on account of the non-presentation on the due date. 1927 L. 72=8 Lah.L.J. 604=28 Punj.L.R. 24; 7 L. 43=27 Punj.L.R. 75=1926 L. 328. See also 1932 N. 55. Where the drawer and drawee are the same person no presentment on due date is necessary, because the drawer cannot suffer damage for want of presentation. No presentment is therefore necessary in the case of a hundi drawn on self in a shahjog form and payable to a respectable person at a particular place. 187 I.C. 650=1939 Lah. 225. See also 1941 Pesh. 45. Where no hardship is shown in the case of a note which has not passed into other hands but is still in the hands of the drawee, it is not open to the drawer to contend that he would suffer damage for want of presentation, especially when drawer admits execution of the note, and acknowledges that the money has passed. 1936 C. 489=166 I.C. 747. See also 1939 Lah. 225. The word "drawer" in S. 7 (d) includes the maker of a promissory note and the definition of "drawer" in S. 7 is not exhaustive. 37 P.L.R. 31=1935 Lah. 153; 1936 Pesh. 202. But see 1937 L. 892, infra. The word 'drawer' as used in Cl (d) of sec. 76, does not include the 'maker' of a pronote. 39 P.L.R. 765=1937 L. 892.

SECS. 76 (c) AND 64, EXCEP.—Under the exception to S. 64, where the promissory note is payable on demand and at a specified place, presentment is necessary in order to charge the promisor, but where the promisor makes a part-payment on account of the amount due, such presentment is not necessary. 1933 L. 133. See also 148 I.C. 1167=11 O.W.N. 660=1934 O. 254 (noted under S. 64 and 76, supra).

It may be that the suit can be maintained by the real payee if it had been based on the consideration and not on the note. 35 C.W.N. 53. See also 1930 P. 313=123 I.C. 395. Where promissory note is executed in favour of one person in lieu of consideration advanced by another, the promisor cannot pay money to the latter and be rid of his liability. 53 A. 5=1931 A. 108=1930 A.L.J. 1509; 1935 O.W.N. 269=1935 O. 278; 149 I.C. 1210=39 L.W. 520=1934 M. 591. Holder of promissory note though benamidar is alone entitled sue. I.L.R. (1944) Nag. 645=1944 N.L.J. 448=1944 Nag. 325. S. 78 of the Negotiable Instruments Act should be strictly construed, and a valid discharge of a promissory note can be given only by the payee thereof or the holder of the note. There is no such thing for this purpose as a benami promissory note taken in the name of one person but really meant for the benefit of another. No decree on a promissory note can be passed in favour of a person on the ground that he is the beneficial owner of the amount due under a promissory note, when he is neither the payee nor the holder of the promissory note in question. 50 L.W. 917 =1940 M. 90=(1939) 2 M.L.J. 812 The object of S. 78 of the Act is to secure a valid discharge to the maker of the note If the person who is ostensibly the holder of the promissory note is made a party to the suit and in his presence it is alleged that the plaintiff is the real beneficiary and that the ostensible holder was not the real holder of the instrument and he can prove his allegation by evidence or by the admission of the ostensible holder of the instrument, there is no reason why such a suit should not be maintained. 11 Pat.L.T.

79. When interest at a specified rate is expressly made payable on a promissory note or bill of exchange, interest shall be calculated at the rate specified, on the principal money due thereon, from the date of the instrument, until tender or realizatoin of such amount, or until such date after the institution of a suit to recover such amount as the Court directs.

When an indorsement bears out no accountability, it is not an indorsement for collection merely and the holder alone can sue on the note. 23 I.C. 545. Each payee of a promissory note is not entitled to bring a separate suit for the recovery of his own share. But one or more payee or payees can give a discharge without the concurrence of the others. 56 M. 544=24 M.L.J. 333 (F.B.). The holder in the section must be taken to mean all the payees jointly and not one or more of them. 36 M. 544. See also 1937 Rang. L.R. 1=1937 Rang. 227 (F.B.). Although under S. 78 payment must be made to the holder of the promissory note, yet if the holder who is the manager of a firm elects to treat the payment to his firm as the payment to himself, the payment is payment to the holder within the meaning of S. 78 and the debtor is discharged from the liability under the promissory note. 1936 C. 315. Where a promissory note was executed in the name of one of the partners of a partnership, a suit on the promissory note is maintainable by the partnership itself. 105 I.C. 549=1928 C. 148. The holder of a pronote is entitled to realise the debt, although the consideration had really come from a firm of which the holder was a member, for the consideration need not come from the promisee. 1932 L. 620 (2)=14 L. 19. A promissory note can only be discharged by payment to the holder of the note. The Court should not allow evidence to show that the promissory note was not really executed in the plaintiff's favour or evidence that the note has ben discharged by payment to the person really interested. 49 A. 457=100 I.C. 703=1927 A. 463. But see 105 I.C. 549=1928 C. 148=55 C. 551.

PROMISSORY NOTE EXECUTED IN FAVOUR OF ONE PARTNER—RIGHT OF ANOTHER PARTNER TO SUE.—The holder of a promisory note is the only man who can give a valid discharge within the meaning of S. 78 of the Act. Therefore, one partner cannot sue on a promissory note which was executed in favour of another partner. 152 I.C. 410=1934 R. 280.

PROMISSORY NOTE ALLOTTED TO SHARE OF PERSON BY AWARD—RIGHT OF SUCH PERSON TO SUE ON NOTE WITHOUT ENDORSEMENT.—A promissory note was allotted to the share of a person in a partition by an award. There was a further provision that the promisee was to endorse and hand over the note to the person. Held, that the award operated as a transfer, inter alia, of the promissory note and as such he was entitled to maintain a suit on it, even though it was not endorsed. The further provision did not operate so as to make the transfer conditional on such endorsement or postpone the effect of the transfer till such endorsement was actually made. 156 I.C. 335= 1935 M. 473.

SECS. 78 AND 80: PROMISSORY NOTE—ASSIGNMENT—ASSIGNEE'S RIGHT TO SUE IN HIS OWN NAME, WITHOUT ENDORSEMENT.—See 61 C. 425=38 C.W.N. 465=1934 C. 549 (noted under S. 8, supra).

SECS. 78 AND 32: BENAMI ASSIGNMENT OF PRONOTE—RELEASE OF MAKER BY REAL OWNER—ASSIGNEE NOT ENTITLED TO SUE ON NOTE.—Negotiable instruments can be enforced by an assignee only when the assignment has been effected in accordance with the provisions of the Act, and transfer of the rights of a party under a note to order to some one else, unless effected by operation of law, must be effected by indorsement and delivery and not otherwise. Where, therefore, a pronote is assigned by the real owner and the benamidar executes an acknowledgment admitting that he was merely a benamidar and the assignor was the real beneficiary, the assignee is not entitled to sue on the pronote, specially when the payee of the note has expressly released the maker. No consideration is required for such a release and the fact that it was collusive is immaterial. 13 P. 655=15 Pat. L.T. 576=1934 Pat. 382.

SEC. 79: SCOPE.—In a suit on a promissory note, which expressly specifies the rate of interest payable, the Court cannot reduce such rate to be paid up to a date fixed by it after the institution of the suit, unless it is exorbitant or penal or otherwise offends against the law. At the same time, it is not necessary that the Court should allow the stipulated rate up to the date of realisation. The requirements of S. 79 of the Negotiable Instruments Act are sufficiently complied with, if interest at the rate specified is allowed up to the date of decree Interest when no rate specified.

80. When no rate of interest is specified in the instrument, interest on the amount due thereon shall, [1][notwithstanding any agreement relating to interest between any parties to the instrument], be calculated at the rate of six per centum per annum from the date at which the same ought to have been paid by the party charged until tender or realization of the amount due thereon, or until such date after the institution of a suit to recover such amount as the Court directs.

Explanation.—When the party charged is the indorser of an instrument dishonoured by non-payment, he is liable to pay interest only from the time that he receives notice of the dishonour.

of the trial Court and thereafter at 6 per cent. per annum up to the date of realisation. 1934 L. 32=154 I.C. 470. Where a promissory note mentions specific rate of interest evidence is not admissible to prove an agreement to pay a different rate of interest. S. 79 provides that when a rate is provided, interest should be calculated at the rate specified. No question of awarding interest by way of damages can arise. I. L.R. SECS. 79 AND 80.—This Act must be read with other enactments passed subsequent thereto. If under the Usurious Loans Act which was passed after this Act but before the suit promissory note was executed, the Court has a discretion to reduce interest in a proper case, there is nothing in S. 79 of this Act which excludes such a discretion. 1931 A. 662=1931 A.L.J. 645=53 A. 776. The operation of S. 80 of the Act is not excluded by O. 37, R. 2 of the C.P. Code. On the other hand, O. 37, R. 2 makes S. 79 or 80, as the case may be, specifically applicable to a case filed under O. 37 of the C. P. Code. 56 M. 398=64 M.L.J. 117 =1933 Mad. 299. The Act does not apply to hundis and it is therefore permissible to the plaintiff to set up and prove a usage for the payment of interest at a rate exceeding 6 per cent. per annum, notwithstanding the provisions of S. 80. 1932 L. 582. Interest on those instruments to which S. 80 applies is payable from the date of execution, or from maturity or from presentation or from demand or from service of summons according to the circumstances of each case. Delivery of instrument on payment or indemnity in case of loss.

81. Any person liable to pay, and called upon by the holder thereof to pay, the amount due on a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque is before payment entitled to have it shown, and is on payment entitled to have it delivered up, to him, or, if the instrument is lost or cannot be produced, to be indemnified against any further claim thereon against him.

CHAPTER VII.

OF DISCHARGE FROM LIABILITY ON NOTES, BILLS AND CHEQUES.

Discharge from liability.

82. The maker acceptor or indorser respectively of a negotiable instrument is discharged from liability thereon—by cancellation;

(a) to a holder thereof who cancels such acceptor's or indorser's name with intent to discharge him and to all parties claiming under such holder;

by release;

(b) to a holder thereof who otherwise discharges such maker, acceptor or indorser, and to all parties deriving title under such holder after notice of such discharge;

by payment;

(c) to all parties thereto, if the instrument is payable to bearer, or has been indorsed in blank, and such maker, acceptor or indorser makes payment in due course of the amount due thereon.

Discharge by allowing drawee more than forty-eight hours to accept.

83. If the holder of a bill of exchange allows the drawee more than [1][forty-eight] hours, exclusive of public holidays to consider whether he will accept the same, all previous parties not consenting to such allowance are thereby discharged from liability to such holder.

When cheque not duly presented and drawer damaged thereby.

[2][84. (1) Where a cheque is not presented for payment within a reasonable time of its issue, and the drawer or person on whose account it is drawn had the right, at the time when presentment ought to have been made, as between himself and the banker, to have the cheque paid and suffers actual damage through the delay, he is discharged to the extent of such damage, that is to say, to the extent to which such drawer or person is a creditor of the banker to a larger amount than he would have been if such cheque had been paid.

If the Bank negligently pays the amount of the cheque thereafter, it is not a payment made in due course, so as to discharge the Bank. The Bank is not protected by its current account rule which states that "the Bank will register instructions from the drawer regarding cheques lost, stolen, etc., but cannot guarantee constituents against loss in such cases in event of a cheque being paid." I.L.R. (1940) 2 Cal. 578=1941 Cal. 110. SEC. 85-A: STOPPING PAYMENT OF DRAFT—POWERS OF BANK AND PURCHASER.—The issue of the draft is regarded in banking practice as a matter of purchase, the person at whose instance the draft is issued, being regarded as the purchaser. Ordinarily, a bank cannot stop payment of a draft unless there is some doubt as to the identity of the person presenting it as being or properly representing the person in whose favour it is drawn. The position of a bank in regard to its own drafts is not quite the same as its position in regard to cheques drawn on it, since it has taken on commitments of its own in favour of a third person at the instance of the purchaser. S. 85-A indicates that the question with regard to which a bank has to satisfy itself is that of the title of the person presenting the draft. If a draft is lost, for example, a risk may arise that it will be presented by some one who is not entitled to be the holder and there may be a forged endorsement. In such cases, the purchaser may reasonably ask the Bank to be on its guard against presentation by the wrong person; and if the bank does not exercise the necessary precautions, the purchaser may sue the bank for neligence. On the other hand, it does not appear that the purchaser is entitled to ask the issuing bank to stop payment on other grounds, such as matters relating to the consideration in respect of which the draft has been issued at his instance. 47 P.L.R. 196=1945 Lah. 213.

(c) where, no place of payment being specified on the order, it undertakes the payment at a specified place, and not otherwise or elsewhere; or where, a place of payment being specified in the order, it undertakes the payment at some other place and not otherwise or elsewhere;

SECS. 85-A, 10 AND 16: PAYMENT IN DUE COURSE—WHAT AMOUNTS TO.—Under S. 16 if the endorser signs his name only, the endorsement is said to be in blank and such an endorsement makes the negotiable instrument payable to the bearer. The endorsement must however be a genuine and valid endorsement. A bank issued a draft drawn on its branch for payment of certain sum to H and G. H alone appeared at the branch of the bank for the first time and presented the draft for payment. At that time the draft purported to be endorsed in blank on reverse by both H and G. The manager of the branch at first refused to cash the draft as he did not know H. Subsequently however he paid the amount when one L who had an account with the bank identified H and H guaranteed the signature of G. The manager took no steps to have the signature of G confirmed or identified by any one. Held, that in these circumstances the payment of the draft could not be said to have been made in good faith and without negligence. The payment therefore was not in due course within the meaning of Ss. 85-A and 10 and the bank was liable for the payment. 40 P.L.R. 863=1938 Lah. 520.

SEC. 86 (b).—See 35 I.C. 628.

SEC. 87: MATERIAL ALTERARION.—The question whether the alteration is a material one depends on whether it changes in any way the rights and liabilities of the parties thereto. It is immaterial whether the change is prejudicial or beneficial. And an endorsement postponing the payment which was payable on demand and altering the rate of interest constitutes material alteration. In such cases the actual position of the words written is immaterial. 162 I.C. 358 =1936 R. 136. Where the instrument appears to be altered, it is incumbent upon the person suing on the instrument to show that the alteration was not improperly made. 41 P.L.R. 356=1939 Lah. 31. Where it was the common intention of parties that interest was to be paid, but owing to an accidental omission the Sarkhat did not contain any such provision, an alteration to that effect made without reference to the debtors does not make the instrument void; oral evidence to prove the existence of agreement to pay interest is admissible, for proviso (2) to S. 92 of the Evidence Act makes any separate oral agreement as to any matter on which the document is silent, capable of proof and there is no prohibition in that respect. Further S. 87 itself postulates the possibility of such an agreement being proved by oral evidence. 1939 A.L.J. 46= 1939 All. 248. The alteration referred to in S. 87 refers to a deliberate alteration by a party to the instrument or by one on whom his interest had devolved and not by a stranger, particularly when no conduct can be imputed to the party in whose favour the alteration has been effected or from which either his complicity, laches or neligence may be inferred. A subsequent alteration by a stranger would not deprive the person who had advanced the money or to whom the money had become payable subsequently on account of the promisee's death, of his remedy to bring a suit for the money advanced to the maker by way of loan. S. 87 would not therefore stand in the way of a minor plaintiff, who was a minor on the date of the alteration in question, getting relief on the original cause of action. 50 L.W. 746=1940 Mad. 62=(1939) 2 M.L.J. 686. It is unnecessary that a material alteration, in order to render an instrument void under S. 87, should be one which is prejudicial to the person who pleads it. Even if it were beneficial, it still remains a material alteration. Where at the instance of the payee of a promissory note a party is sought fraudulently to be made liable on the note, e.g., by getting his signature forged on the note, even a party who has admittedly executed such a note can, in a suit by an endorsee of the note, escape liability by virtue of S. 87, as the forgery renders the whole note void. 1943 Mad. 511=(1943) 1 M.L.J. 380. The fact that an alteration does not ultimately involve any change in the rights and liabilities of the parties is not very germane to the consideration of the question whether it amounts to a material alteration within the meaning of S. 87. Whether the change be prejudicial or beneficial to the maker does not in the least matter. Where in a promissory note, subsequent to its execution, the words "the proprietor of the Karthika Stores," were inserted above the signature of the maker and below the date: Held, that the alteration was a material alteration rendering the instrument unenforceable though the plaintiff might ultimately make up his mind to sue the maker in his individual capacity only and had accepted the maker's case that he had nothing to do with the said stores at any time either as proprietor or in any other capacity. 55 L.W. 554=1942 Mad. 709 (2)=(1942) 2 M.L.J. 303. S. 87 would only apply to cases of fraudulent alteration by a party and to cases where due to his negligence it becomes possible for a stranger to make the alteration. The holder of a promissory note is not affected by a material alteration in the instrument when it has been made by a meddlesome or maliciously minded stranger and there has been no fraud or laches on the part of the holder. I.L.R. 1941) Mad. 295=1941 Mad. 383=(1941) 1 M.L.J. 153. When the plaintiff in a suit upon a promissory note is proved to have materially altered it, the Court would not grant him a decree even for the amount admitted by the defendant to be due. 25 I.C. 667; 50 B. 656=1927 B. 13. See also 55 I.C. 610= 1 L. 262. Under S. 87, a negotiable instrument is void if there is any material alteration, without the consent of the party against whom it is sought to be enforced, unless the alteration was made to carry out the common intention of the original parties. 21 L.W. 532=87 I.C. 48=1925 M. 99. See also 44 C. 154=35 I.C. 182; 160 I.C. 996 =1936 M. 154. Any alteration in the bill which changes the identity of the contract therein must be regarded as a material alteration. 55 I.C. 610=1 L. 262. The rule has now been well established that any alteration or change in an instrument which "causes it to speak a different language in legal effect from that which it originally spoke, which changes the legal identity or the character of the instrument either in its terms or the relation of the parties to it," is a material alteration or change. An alteration in the date of the instrument is a material alteration within the meaning of S. 87. Where the date of execution of a promissory note and the date of endorsement of a payment made by the maker are altered, the alteration of the dates is a material alteration. 50 L.W. 746=1940 Mad. 62= (1939) 2 M.L.J. 686. Addition of two attesting witnesses made subsequent to the execution of an improperly stamped promissory note in order to convert it into a bond and thereby opening up the possibility of suing upon it on payment of penalty is tantamount to material alteration which invalidates the instrument and destroys the right of action on it. 1930 L. 959. Pronote torn in a material portion affecting its validity in the place of origin, amounts to a material alteration. 38 M. 746=25 M.L.J. 572. An alteration of the name of the payee is a material alteration. 20 A.L.J. 987 (2)= 1923 A. 123. By and to whom notice should be given.

93. When a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque is dishonoured by non-acceptance or non-payment, the holder thereof, or some party thereto who remains liable thereon, must give notice that the instrument has been so dishonoured to all other parties whom the holder seeks to make severally liable thereon, and to some one of several parties whom he seeks to make jointly liable thereon.

Nothing in this section renders it necessary to give notice to the maker of the dishonoured promissory note or the drawee or acceptor of the dishonoured bill of exchange or cheque.

Mode in which notice may be given.

94. Notice of dishonour may be given to a duly authorized agent of the person to whom it is required to be given, or, where he has died, to his legal representative, or, where he has been declared an insolvent, to his assignee; may be oral or written; may, if written, be sent by post; and may be in any form; but it must inform the party to whom it is given, either in express terms or by reasonable intendment, that the instrument has been dishonoured, and in what way, and that he will be held liable thereon; and it must be given within a reasonable time after dishonour, at the place of business or (in case such party has no place of business) at the residence of the party for whom it is intended.

If the notice is duly directed and sent by post and miscarries, such miscarriage does not render the notice invalid.

Party receiving notice must transmit notice of dishonour.

95. Any party receiving notice of dishonour must, in order to render any prior party liable to himself, give notice of dishonour to such party within a reasonable time, unless such party otherwise receives due notice as provided by section 93.

SEC. 98 (g).—The "unconditional promise to pay" contemplated by Cl. (g) of S. 98, need not be express. Where an endorsement is made on a promissory note that a certain amount was paid towards the satisfaction of the interest of the note, the acknowledgment contained in such endorsement is, by implication, a clear promise to pay which under the section renders notice of dishonour unnecessary. 47 Bom.L.R. 336=1945 Bom. 359.

time, cause such facts to be noted and certified as aforesaid. Such certificate is called a protest for better security.

Contents of protest.

101. A protest under section 100 must contain—

(a) either the instrument itself, or a literal transcript of the instrument and of everything written or printed thereupon;

(b) the name of the person for whom and against whom the instrument has been protested;

(c) a statement that payment or acceptance, or better security, as the case may be, has been demanded of such person by the notary public; the terms of his answer, if any, or a statement that he gave no answer or that he could not be found;

(d) when the note or bill has been dishonoured, the place and time of dishonour, and, when better security has been refused, the place and time of refusal;

(e) the subscription of the notary public making the protest;

(f) in the event of an acceptance for honour or of a payment for honour, the name of the person by whom, of the person for whom, and the manner in which, such acceptance or payment was offered and effected.

[1][A notary public may make the demand mentioned in clause (c) of this section either in person or by his clerk or, where authorized by agreement or usage, by registered letter.]

Notice of protest.

102. When a promissory note or bill of exchange is required by law to be protested, notice of such protest must be given instead of notice of dishonour, in the same manner and subject to the same conditions; but the notice may be given by the notary public who makes the protest.

Protest for non-payment after dishonour by non-acceptance.

103. All bills of exchange drawn payable at some other place than the place mentioned as the residence of the drawee, and which are dishonoured by non-acceptance may, without further presentment to the drawee, be protested for non-payment in the place specified for payment, unless paid before or at maturity.

Protest of foreign bills.

104. Foreign bills of exchange must be protested for dishonour when such protest is required by the law of the place where they are drawn.

[2][104-A. For the purposes of this Act, where a bill or note is required to be protested within a specified time or before some further proceeding is taken, it is sufficient that the bill has been noted for protest before the expiration of the specified time or the taking of the proceeding; and the formal protest may be extended at any time thereafter as of the date of the noting.]

If the said parties carry on business or live in the same place, such notice is given within a reasonable time if it is despatched in time to reach its destination on the day next after the day of dishonour.

Reasonable time for transmitting such notice.

107. A party receiving notice of dishonour, who seeks to enforce his right against a prior party, transmits the notice within a reasonable time if he transmits it within the same time after its receipt as he would have had to give notice if he had been the holder.

OF ACCEPTANCE AND PAYMENT FOR HONOUR AND REFERENCE IN CASE OF NEED.

Acceptance for honour.

108. When a bill of exchange has been noted or protested for non-acceptance or for better security, any person not being a party already liable thereon may, with the consent of the holder, by writing on the bill, accept the same for the honour of any party thereto. [1][* * *]

How acceptance for honour must be made.

Acceptance not specifying for whose honour it is made.

110. Where the acceptance does not express for whose honour it is made, it shall be deemed to be made for the honour of the drawer.

Liability of acceptor for honour.

But an acceptor for honour is not liable to the holder of the bill unless it is presented (or in case the address given by such acceptor on the bill is a place other than the place where the bill is made payable), forwarded for presentment, not later than the day next after the day of its maturity.

When acceptor for honour may be charged.

112. An acceptor for honour cannot be charged unless the bill has at its maturity been presented to the drawee for payment, and has been dishonoured by him, and noted or protested for such dishonour.

Payment for honour.

113. When a bill of exchange has been noted or protested for non-payment, any person may pay the same for the honour of any party liable to pay the same: provided that the person so paying [1][or his agent in that behalf] has previously declared before a notary public the party for whose honour he pays, and that such declaration has been recorded by such notary public.

Right of payer for honour.

114. Any person so paying is entitled to all the rights, in respect of the bill, of the holder at the time of such payment, and may recover from the party for whose honour he pays all sums so paid with interest thereon and with all expenses properly incurred in making such payment.

Drawee in case of need.

115. Where a drawee in case of need is named in a bill of exchange, or in any indorsement thereon, the bill is not dishonoured until it has been dishonoured by such drawee.

Acceptance and payment without protest.

116. A drawee in case of need may accept and pay the bill of exchange without previous protest.

SECS. 113 AND 115.—S. 113 does not apply to a "drawee in case of need" in a bill of exchange. Where the vendor takes a bill of exchange to his own order, the property in the goods cannot pass to the purchaser until he accepts the bill and meets it on presentation. But when the purchaser accepts the bill and dishonours it on presentation the contract between him and the vendor comes to an end and thereafter when the bill is accepted and met on presentation by the "drawee in case of need" the property in the goods passes to the "drawee in case of need" unless the purchaser can show some new contract between him and the vendor. 1941 Rang. 270.

SECS. 115 AND 116.—The drawee in case of need of a bill of exchange cannot be made liable upon a bill which has never been accepted by him. the ordinary rules of evidence is excluded. 58 M. 693=1935 M. 181=68 M.L.J. 81 (F.B.).

SEC. 118: GENERAL.—The special rules of evidence laid down in S. 118 are intended to apply as between the parties to the instrument or those claiming under them. In other cases, the presumption can only be in terms enacted in S. 114 of the Evidence Act, ill. (e) which leaves it to the Court to apply the presumption or not according to circumstances. A suit against the undivided sons of a Hindu promisor governed by the Mitakshara law, on a promissory note executed by him, cannot be regarded as one against the heirs or representatives of the promisor, because it only seeks to enforce the Hindu Law theory of pious obligation in respect of property which the sons have taken by survivorship; since the pious obligation can arise only on the assumption of the existence of a debt due by the father, the onus of proving the existence of the debt is on the creditor. He must therefore prove that the promissory note was supported by consideration; and he cannot invoke S. 118 to throw the onus on the sons. I.L.R. (1937) M. 299=1937 M. 182=(1937) 1 M.L.J. 543. Even the onus under S. 118 of the Negotiable Instruments Act need not always be discharged by direct evidence. (1937) 1 M.L.J. 543. The provisions of S. 118 do not affect the question with regard to the admissibility in evidence of a document which depends entirely upon the document as it stands. 90 I.C. 685=27 Bom.L.R. 1122=1925 B. 527. On this section, see 9 I.C. 79; 8 I.C. 796=12 C. L.J. 470; 5 I.C. 891; 20 B. 367; 2 I.C. 539; 1938 Pat. 612 The presumption as to receipt of full consideration arising from a debtor's signature on a promissory note can only be available against the debtor personally and cannot be invoked against the official receiver or a creditor in insolvency proceedings. 108 I.C. 147=1928 A. 380. Where the promissory note sued upon is not a negotiable instrument, there is no presumption under S. 118 that it was made for consideration. 84 I.C. 866=1925 L. 272; 13 P.L.T. 506=1932 P. 224. See also 146 I.C. 709=10 O.W.N. 839=1933 O. 394. It is true that under S. 118 there is a presumption of consideration for a promissory note, while in a suit to recover a debt it is for the plaintiff to prove the consideration. But in a suit on the debt, if a promissory note is evidence of the debt, the presumption would still arise. I.L.R. (1940) Kar. 342=1940 Sind 217. Holder—Consideration—Presumption—Transferee from payee 80 I.C. 741=1924 L. 462. Transferee of a tainted pro-note, if holder in due course—Burden of proof. 1928 M. 1238. In a suit on a promissory note, the defendants contended that they had affixed their signature to a blank paper, that there was no cash consideration and that they had induced plaintiff to give evidence in a case by affixing their signature to the note. The Court thereupon cast the burden of proving consideration on the plaintiff. Held, that the Court erred in not taking into account the presumption nuder S. 118, Negotiable Instruments Act and in casting the onus on the plaintiff. 54 A. 375=1932 A. 164. A mere admission that the actual consideration was different from that described in the contract does not shift the burden of introducing evidence on to the payee. (1924 A. 256 and 15 C.P.L.R. 24, Foll.) I.L.R. 1936 N. 142=1936 N. 130.

SEC. 118, CL. (a): PRESUMPTION AS TO CONSIDERATION—SCOPE AND EXTENT.—The ordinary rule is that every negotiable instrument is to be presumed to be for consideration and the burden of proof rests on the defendant admitting execution to prove that it was not for consideration, but in a case where the parties go to trial on the question of want of consideration and the trial Court which hears the evidence and notes the demeanour of the witnesses forms an opinion against the plaintiff, the question as to any presumption of consideration passing under the instrument does not arise. Further, if the defence is minority at the time of the execution of the instrument and there are other suspicious circumstances, viz., the fact that the plaintiff has failed to produce his account books, although he admits that he keeps regular accounts, the presumption cannot be availed of. 10 Luck. 423=11 O.W. N. 1589=1935 O. 41. See also 1925 A. 154. S. 118 is imperative and the Court is bound to draw the initial presumption that every negotiable instrument was made for consideration, when its execution is admitted. Where the plaintiff has led evidence in the first instance to prove the consideration for a promissory note and has failed to establish the passing of consideration, he can fall back on the initial presumption in his favour. But when the Court has after a consideration of the entire evidence recorded a clear finding one way or the other, then the finding is based not on a mere presumption but on the evidence, and has to be accepted in second appeal. 57 A. 895=1935 A. 509; 3 A.L.J. 322=28 I.C. 390. Under S. 118 the only presumption that can be raised is that a promissory note has been executed for consideration, i.e., that the amount for which it is executed was advanced. But the section does not raise the further presumption that the amount was advanced for legal necessity. The burden of proving legal necessity for the loan is on the payee. 155 I.C. 607=1935 N. 127. S. 118 (a) does not limit the presumption as to the passing of consideration only to cases of consideration as stated in the negotiable instrument. Where the instrument itself mentions cash payment as the consideration for it and that is also the case of the plaintiff at the hearing, it must not be taken to be without consideration within the meaning of S. 43 of the Act simply because the defendant has succeeded in demolishing the plaintiff's case, when it appears from the evidence on record that there was consideration in a different form. 46 C.W.N. 340 =75 C.L.J. 404=1943 Cal. 22. In suits on simple loans it is open to a Court to determine in every case whether person who denies consideration has succeeded in supporting his denial by such direct or circumstantial evidence which may be sufficient in itself to rebut the presumption laid down in S. 118 of the Act. Merely because the debtor is a profligate young man and the creditor is a money-lender, the presumption under S. 118 is not rebutted so as to shift the burden of proof on to the creditor. 17 L. 107=1935 L. 599. Sec. 118 and Evidence Act, S. 114 Ill. (c) Explanation—Scope and effect of—Presumption as to consideration. See 1935 L. 599. The presumption that a pro-note was for consideration will not necessarily apply in a criminal trial. 59 I.C. 198=18 A.L. J. 1151. The initial presumption of consideration arising under S. 118, can be rebutted even by circumstantial evidence. 124 I.C. 717=1930 A. 568. Under S. 118 (a) if a pro-note is genuine, there is a presumption that there has been consideration and the onus of proving want of consideration is on the party who pleads want of consideration. 1934 M. 702=67 M.L.J. 658. The mere existence of an antecedent debt is consideration within the meaning of S 118. 19 I.C. 789=15 Bom.L.R. 333. The burden on the maker is not shifted by the mere fact that part of the consideration is shown not to have been paid in cash as represented in the promissory note. 122 I.C. 383=1930 N 187. The onus of proving want of consideration for a hundi is on the drawer, for there is a statutory presumption in favour of the passing of consideration of hundi. 58 I.C. 982=1 L. 429. Where the executant of a pro-note appeared to be a boy just emerged from minority without any ready money but with large expectation, the payee of the note should show that consideration passed. 31 I.C. 739 (20 B. 367; 29 M.L.J. 23, Foll.). that holder is a holder in due course. Provided that, where the instrument has been obtained from its lawful owner, or from any person in lawful custody thereof, by means of an offence or fraud, or has been obtained from the maker or acceptor thereof by means of an offence or fraud, or for unlawful consideration, the burden of proving that the holder is a holder in due course lies upon him.

from the technical rule laid down in SS 118, the ordinary presumption that a negotiable instrument has been executed for consideration is so much weakened that a clear denial by the executant as to the receipt of the consideration would be sufficient to shift the burden of proof and throw upon the creditor the obligation of satisfying the Court that he has in fact paid the consideration in full. I.L.R. (1943) All. 163=1942 A.L.J. 674=1943 All. 90. The circumstances showing that the plaintiff did not pay the whole of consideration money of the promissory note shifts on to him the burden of proving that the consideration money was paid in full. 30 I.C. 971=29 M.L.J. 236. See also 1933 L. 1029. Notwithstanding S. 118 of the Act, the burden of proving consideration for a promissory note executed by the insolvent is on the creditor and not the Official Assignee. 26 S.L.R. 279=1932 S. 197. A debtor who desires to show that there is nothing due on a promissory note executed by him, which is in the creditor's possession with no mark on it showing that it has been discharged, has a very heavy burden of proof. Even if there are a series of transactions between the same parties, if one of them sues upon a promissory note, as a rule it is no answer for the defendant to say that the claim is a matter of account. 151 I.C. 582=1934 R. 358. If a hand-note mentions one kind of consideration, but it is found that there is a consideration of a different nature, the suit is not liable to be dismissed for this reason. 165 I.C. 809=1936 P. 498. It cannot be said that when there is a denial of execution of a promissory note, the plaintiff is bound to prove not only execution but also the consideration. Once the document is proved the presumption provided by S. 118 applies. 193 I.C. 863=1941 O.W.N. 613. Where a defendant to a suit on promissory note admits the thumb-impression on the note but sets up fraud which he does not substantiate and there is no evidence for the defence, the Court is bound under S. 118, to draw a presumption that the note was for consideration. It is wrong to place the burden of proving the passing of consideration on the plaintiff in such a case and he is not bound to produce any such evidence. 1941 O.W.N. 1161.

So also in the case of an endorsement of a promissory note which has been discharged. 1936 M. 879= 71 M.L.J. 473. In order to place the burden of proof on the holder, the defendant must first prove that the circumstances specified in S. 118 (g) exist. SEC. 120.—The specific provision in S. 120 is subject to the general rule enacted in S. 26. 117 I.C. 133 (M). The fact that no consideration actually passed between the drawer of a cheque and the payee when the cheque was drawn, will not affect the right of the plaintiff who is a bona fide endorsee of the cheque to sue for the recovery of his money as a holder in due course. 12 Luck. 139=1936 O.W.N. 377=1937 Oudh 155. Though S. 120 precludes the maker of promissory note from denying the validity of the note, where money is not advanced as a simple loan unconditionally upon the promissory note, but is advanced after the note had been executed and on certain conditions previously agreed upon, the promisor is entitled to prove circumstances in repudiation of his liability. 34 P.L.R. 470=1933 L. 456. The payee of a negotiable instrument to bearer is not a "holder in due course". 24 I.C. 721. See also 26 A.L.J. 729 (F.B.). The condition precedent to the application of S. 120 is that there must be a properly stamped bill of exchange before the Court at which the Court is entitled to look. 48 A. 332=93 I.C. 63=1926 A. 359. See also 26 A.L.J. 729 (F.B.). As to whether "holder in due course" includes bearer of a promissory note who is made payee, see 26 A.L.J. 729=50 A. 839=1928 A. 371.

SS. 120 AND 121—APPLICABILITY—APPLICATION UNDER S. 19, MADRAS AGRICULTURISTS' RELIEF ACT.—Ss. 120 and 121 do not apply to applications under S. 19 of the Madras Agriculturists' Relief Act for relief of debtors who are agriculturists. The words "suit thereon" in Ss. 120 and 121 clearly show that the proceeding intented to be denoted by those words is a proceeding initiated by some one who is entitled to sue or take legal steps to recover the money due on a negotiable instrument, viz., by the promisee or payee; and they cannot apply to proceedings initiated by the maker or promisor for relief under a special Act like the Madras Act IV of 1938. There is consequently no estoppel in the way of an applicant under S. 19 of the Madras Act IV of 1938, which prevents him from establishing that a debt evidenced by a negotiable instrument executed after 1932, was really one incurred before 1932, by showing that the instrument was in renewal of an earlier instrument executed prior to 1932. So far as Madras Act IV of 1938 is concerned, there is no justification for regarding a debt incurred under a promissory note in a different way from other debts, as the object of the Act is to give relief to agriculturist debtors, whether the original debt was incurred under a negotiable instrument or otherwise. 50 L.W. 587=1940 Mad. 52=(1939) 2 M. L.J. 658. In a suit on a promissory note by the endorsee thereof, the maker or defendant (debtor) is not barred by S. 120 of the Negotiable Instruments Act from pleading or setting up any defence open to the promissor under Madras Act IV of 1938. The section only prevents the maker of the note from denying the validity of the instrument as originally made or drawn. It does not bar any defence which is independent of a plea that the instrument as originally made or drawn was invalid. 54 L.W. 577=(1941) 2 M.L.J. 808=1942 Mad. 169.

SECS. 120 AND 122.—An endorser of a negotiable instrument is estopped as against the endorsee from setting up the invalidity of the instrument. 42 M. 470=36 M.L.J. 301. The fact that no consideration actually passed between the drawer of a cheque and the payee when the cheque was drawn, will not affect the right of the plaintiff who is a bona fide endorsee of the cheque to sue for the recovery of his money as a holder in due course. 12 Luck. 139=161 I.C. 818= 1936 O.W.N. 377=1937 Oudh 155.

Estoppel against denying capacity of payee to indorse.

121. No maker of a promissory note and no acceptor of a bill of exchange [1][payable to order] shall, in a suit thereon by a holder in due course, be permitted to deny the payee's capacity, at the date of the note or bill, to indorse the same.

Estoppel against denying signature or capacity of prior party.

122. No indorser of a negotiable instrument shall, in a suit thereon by a subsequent holder, be permitted to deny the signature or capacity to contract of any prior party to the instrument.

CHAPTER XIV.

OF CROSSED CHEQUES.

Cheque crossed generally.

123. Where a cheque bears across its face an addition of the words "and company" or any abbreviation thereof, between two parallel transverse lines, or of two parallel transverse lines simply, either with or without the words "not negotiable", that addition shall be deemed a crossing, and the cheque shall be deemed to be crossed generally.

Cheque crossed specially.

124. Where a cheque bears across its face an addition of the name of a banker, either with or without the words "not negotiable", that addition shall be deemed a crossing, and the cheque shall be deemed to be crossed specially, and to be crossed to that banker.

Crossing after issue.

125. Where a cheque is uncrossed, the holder may cross it generally or specially.

Where a cheque is crossed generally or specially, the holder may add the words "not negotiable."

Where a cheque is crossed specially, the banker to whom it is crossed may again cross it specially to another banker, his agent, for collection.

Payment of cheque crossed generally.

126. Where a cheque is crossed generally, the banker on whom it is drawn shall not pay it otherwise than to a banker.

Payment of cheque crossed specially.

Where a cheque is crossed specially the banker on whom it is drawn shall not pay it otherwise than to the banker to whom it is crossed. or his agent for collection.

Payment of cheque crossed specially more than once.

127. Where a cheque is crossed specially to more than one banker, except when crossed to an agent for the purpose of collection, the banker on whom it is drawn shall refuse payment thereof.

Payment in due course of crossed cheque.

128. Where the banker on whom a crossed cheque is drawn has paid the same in due course, the banker paying the cheque, and (in case such cheque has come to the hands of the payee) the drawer thereof, shall respectively be entitled to the same rights, and be placed in the same position in all respects, as they would respectively be entitled to and placed in if the amount of the cheque had been paid to and received by the true owner thereof.

Payment of crossed cheque out of due course.

129. Any banker paying a cheque crossed generally otherwise than to a banker, or a cheque crossed specially otherwise than to the banker to whom the same is crossed, or his agent for collection, being a banker, shall be liable to the true owner of the cheque for any loss he may sustain owing to the cheque having been so paid.

LEG. REF.

[1] The words "payable to order" were substituted for the words "payable to, or to the order of a specified person" by Act VIII of 1919.

Cheque bearing "not negotiable".

130. A person taking a cheque crossed generally or specially, bearing in either case the words "not negotiable" shall not have and shall not be capable of giving, a better title to the cheque than that which the person from whom he took it had.

Non-liability of banker receiving payment of cheque.

131. A banker who has in good faith and without negligence received payment for a customer of a cheque crossed generally or specially to himself shall not, in case the title to the cheque proves defective, incur any liability to the true owner of the cheque by reason only of having received such payment.

[1][Explanation.—A banker receives payment of a crossed cheque for a customer within the meaning of this section notwithstanding that he credits his customer's account with the amount of the cheque before receiving payment thereof.]

Application of Chapter to drafts.

131-A. The provisions of this Chapter shall apply to any draft, as defined in section 85-A, as if the draft were a cheque. (Inserted by Act XXXIII of 1947.)

CHAPTER XV.

OF BILLS IN SETS.

Set of bills.

132. Bills of exchange may be drawn in parts, each part being numbered and containing a provision that it shall continue payable only so long as the others remain unpaid. All the parts together make a set; but the whole set constitutes only one bill, and is extinguished when one of the parts, if a separate bill, would be extinguished.

Exception.—When a person accepts or indorses different parts of the bill in favour of different persons, he and the subsequent indorsers of each part are liable on such part as if it were a separate bill.

Holder of first acquired part entitled to all.

133. As between holders in due course of different parts of the same set he who first acquired title to his part is entitled to the other parts and the money represented by the bill.

CHAPTER XVI.

OF INTERNATIONAL LAW.

Law governing liability of maker, acceptor or indorser of foreign instrument.

134. In the absence of a contract to the contrary, the liability of the maker or drawer of a foreign promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque is regulated in all essential matters by the law of the place where he made the instrument, and the respective liabilities of the

SEC. 131.—In considering the liability of a collecting bank in receiving payment on behalf of a customer of a cheque, the title to which is defective, the test of negligence is whether the transaction of paying in any given cheque coupled with circumstances antecedent and present was so out of the ordinary course that it ought to have aroused doubts in the banker's mind and caused him to make inquiry. 9 R. 585=1932 R. 6. Under S. 131, a banker, in order to escape the liability which the general law imposes on a person or party who converts the goods belonging to the true owner thereof, must discharge the burden of establishing that he received payment on behalf of a customer of his of a cheque not belonging to the customer but to some one else in good faith and without negligence. Negligence is essentially a question of fact and depends on the circumstance of each case. 48 Bom.L.R. 393.

SECS. 134 AND 137.—A suit was brought acceptor and indorser by the law of the place where the instrument is made payable.

Illustration.

A bill of exchange was drawn by A in California, where the rate of interest is 25 per cent., and accepted by B, payable in Washington, where the rate of interest is 6 per cent. The bill is indorsed in British India, and is dishonoured. An action on the bill is brought against B, in British India. He is liable to pay interest at the rate of 6 per cent. only; but if A is charged as drawer, A is liable to pay interest at the rate of 25 per cent.

Law of place of payment governs dishonour.

135. Where a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque is made payable in a different place from that in which it is made or indorsed, the law of the place where it is made payable determines what constitutes dishonour and what notice of dishonour is sufficient.

Illustration.

A bill of exchange drawn and indorsed in British India, but accepted payable in France, is dishonoured. The indorsee causes it to be protested for such dishonour, and gives notice thereof in accordance with the law of France, though not in accordance with the rules herein contained in respect of bills whih are not foreign. The notie is sufficient.

Instrument made, etc., out of British India, but in accordance with its law.

136. If a negotiable instrument is made, drawn, accepted or indorsed out of British India, but in accordance with the law of British India, the circumstance that any agreement evidenced by such instrument is invalid according to the law of the country wherein it was entered into does not invalidate any subsequent acceptance or indorsement made thereon in British India.

Presumption as to foreign law.

137. The law of any foreign country regarding promissory notes, bills of exchange and cheques shall be presumed to be the same as that of British India, unless and until the contrary is proved.

Power to make rules for notaries public.

SCHEDULE.

[ENACTMENTS REPEALED.]

Rep. by the Amending Act, 1891 (XII of 1891).

Rules relating to Notaries Public.

No. 1433, dated 30th September, 1886.—In exercise of the power conferred by section 139 of the Negotiable Instruments Act XXVI of 1881 (as amended by Act II of 1885), the Governor-General in Council is pleased to make the following Rules for the guidance and control of Notaries Public appointed under that Act, and fix the fees payable to those Notaries:—

1. Notaries Public shall, in transacting business under the Act, use the forms set forth in the Appendix to this Notification. (Forms omitted.)

2. Besides recording declarations of payment for honour (section 113), Notaries Public shall, following the practice existing in the Presidency-towns, also register notings and protests made by them. No particular form of register is necessary for these purposes, but Notaries Public shall keep a substantial blank book in which to enter copies of all the letters which they may write presenting bills for acceptance or payment or better security; of all bills[1] noted, or protested, or paid for honour, together with all endorsements thereon (including that made by themselves, to the effect that the bill has been noted or protested for non-acceptance or non-payment or want of better security); and of all protests made by themselves and of all declarations made by payers for honour. Notaries Public shall further, after examination of each entry in the book, affix their signature thereto, and, where demand of acceptance or payment or better security was made by a clerk, shall cause him to affix his signature also to the entry relating to the demand.

3. The book shall be known as the Notarial Register, and the pages thereof shall be numbered consecutively.

4. Every Notary Public shall permit the District Judge or such officer as the Local Government from time to time appoints in this behalf to inspect his register at such times, not oftener than twice a year, as the District Judge or officer may fix.

5. When the original instrument is an Oriental language, any noting or protest or entry in his register which has to be made in respect of the instrument, by a Notary Public may be made either in that language or in English.

6. In making presentments of bills or notes, Notaries Public shall observe the provisions of Chapter V of the Act:

Provided taht it shall not be necessary for a Notary Public to allow the drawer of a bill of exchange time for deliberation as provided by section 63.

7. Every Notary Public shall use a plain circular seal bearing if he has been appointed by name, his name and the name of the local area within which he has been appointed to exercise his functions and the circumscription "Notary Public", and, if he has been appointed by virtue of his office, the name of his office and of the local area within which he has been appointed to exercise his functions and the circumscription "Notary Public".

8. Every Notary Public shall have an office at such place within the local area for which he has been appointed as may be approved in this behalf by the District Judge.

9. Notaries Public shall charge fees at the rates mentioned below, namely:—

(1) For noting an instrument—

				Rs[2]
If the amount of the instrument does not exceed			Rs. 1,000	2
If it exceeds Rs.	1,000	but does not exceed	5,000	35
Do.	5,000	do	20,000	6
Do.	20,000	do	30,000	7
Do.	30,000	do	50,000	8
Do.	50,000

LEG. REF.

[1] In cases where the language of the bill is unknown to the Notary Public, and where it is impossible to find any one acquainted with the language of the bill to copy it into the register, an entry in the register of an abstract of the bill will be sufficient.

[2] In addition to the above fees, travelling allowance, at the rate of three annas a mile by rail and eight annas a mile by road, may be charged when the Notary Public is required to attend at any place more than one mile from his office.

(2) For protesting an instrument—
If the amount of the instrument does nos exceed			1,000	6
If it exceeds Rs.	1,000	but does not exceed	5,000	7
Do.	5,000	do	20,000	10
Do.	20,000	do	30,000	11
Do.	30,000	do	40,000	12
Do.	40,000	do	50,000	13
Do.	50,000	do	60,000	14
Do.	60,000	do	70,000	15
Do.	70,000	do	80,000	16
Do	80,000	do	90,000	17
Do	90,000	do	100.000	18
Do	100,000	do		22

(3) For recording a declaration of payment of honour, Rs. 2—8

(4) Duplicate protests,—half the charge for the original.

10. These rules shall come into force on the first day of January, 1887.

An Act to regulate Ferries in Northern India.

WHEREAS it is expedient to regulate ferries in the Punjab, the North-Western Provinces, Oudh, Central Provinces, Assam, and Ajmer and Merwara; It is hereby enacted as follows: –

Preamble.

I.—PRELIMINARY.

Short title.

1. This Act may be called THE NORTHERN INDIA FERRIES ACT, 1878.

Local extent.

It extends only to the [1]territories respectively administered by the Lieutenant-Governors of the Punjab and the North-Western Provinces and the Chief Commissioners of Oudh, the Central Provinces, Assam, and Ajmer and Merwara.

Commencement.

It shall come into force[2] in each of the said territories on such date as the Provincial Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette, fix in this behalf.

2. [Repealed.] Repealed by the Repealing Act (I of 1928), S. 2 and Sch.

Interpretation-clause.

3. In this Act the word "ferry" includes also a bridge of boats, pontoons or rafts, a swing-bridge, a flying-bridge and a temporary bridge, and the approaches to, and landing-place of, a ferry.

II.—PUBLIC FERRIES.

Power to declare, establish, define and discontinue public ferries.

4. The Provincial Government may from time to time—

(a) [3]declare what ferries shall be deemed public ferries, and the respective districts in which, for the purposes of this Act, they shall be deemed to be situate;

(b) [3]take possession of a private ferry and declare it to be a public ferry;

(c) establish new public ferries where, in its opinion, they are needed;

(d) define the limits of any public ferry;

4 change the course of any public ferry; and 5 discontinue any public ferry which it deems unnecessary.

Every such declaration, establishment definition, change or discontinuance shall be made by notification in the official Gazette.

[6][Provided that, when a river lies between two provinces, the powers conferred by this section shall, in respect of such river, be exercised jointly by

---

[1] At present corresponds to the Punjab, the N.W.F.P., the U.P., the C.P., Assam and Ajmer-Merwara.

[2] The Act was brought into force in the Punjab on 1st April, 1881, See Punjab Gazette, Pt. I, p. 139; the U.P. on the 1st January, 1879, see North-Western Provinces and Oudh Gazette, 1878, Pt. I, p. 2035; Assam on 1st April, 1879, see Assam Gazette, 1879, Pt. I, p. 187.

In the Act as applicable to Ajmer-Merwara—

(a) in section 4 for the words "the Commissioner of the Division in which such ferry is situate" the words "the Deputy Commissioner" shall be substituted.

(b) in sections 8 and 11 for the word "Commissioner" the words "Deputy Commissioner" shall be substituted.

(c) in section 12 for the words "the Commissioner of a division" the words "the Deputy Commissioner" shall be substituted, the words "within such division" in clause (a) shall be omitted, and for the word "Commissioner" where it occurs for the second and third time the words "Deputy Commissioner" shall be substituted.

(d) in sections 15, 16, 19, 24 and 31, for the words "the Commissioner of the division" the words "the Deputy Commissioner" shall be substituted. (Act VI of 1945.)

[3] For list of ferries declared to be public ferries in the Punjab, see Punjab Local Rules and Orders; for the North-West Frontier Province, see Gazette of India, 1915, Pt. I, p. 92.

[4] For notifications transferring ferries from one district to another, see Punjab Local Rules and Orders.

[6] Substituted for the original proviso by the Devolution Act (XXXVIII of 1920), sec. 2 and First Schedule.

the Provincial Governments of those provinces by notifications in their respective official Gazettes[1][* * *].

Provided also that, when any alteration in the course or in the limits of a public ferry is rendered necessary by changes in the river, such alteration may be made, by an order under his hand, by the [2]Commissioner of the Division in which such ferry is situate, or by such other officer as the Provincial Government may, from time to time, appoint by name or in virtue of his office in this behalf.

Claims for compensation.

5. Claims for compensation for any loss sustained by any person in consequence of a private ferry being taken possession of under section 4 shall be inquired into by the Magistrate of the district in which such ferry is situate, or such officer as he appoints in this behalf, and submitted for the consideration and orders of the Provincial Government.

Superintendence of public ferries.

6. The immediate superintendence of every public ferry shall, except as provided in section 7 [3][and section 7-A] be vested in the Magistrate of the district in which such ferry is situate, or in such other officer as the Provincial Government may, from time to time, appoint by name or in virtue of his office in this behalf.

and such Magistrate or officer shall, except when the tolls at such ferry are leased, make all necessary arrangements for the supply of boats for such ferry, and for the collection of the authorised tolls leviable thereat.

Management may be vested in municipality.

7. The Provincial Government may direct that any public ferry situate within the limits of a town be managed by the officer or public body charged with the superintendence of the municipal arrangements of such town;

[4][and thereupon the ferry shall be managed accordingly.]

Management may be vested in District Council or District or Local Board.

[5]7-A. The Provincial Government may direct that any public ferry, wholly or partly within the area subject to the authority of a District Council or a District Board or a Local Board in the Province, be managed by that Council or Board, and thereupon that ferry shall be managed accordingly.

Letting ferry tolls by auction.

[6][8. The tolls of any public ferry may, from time to time, be let by public auction for a term not exceeding five years with the approval of the [7]Commissioner, or by public auction, or otherwise than by public auction, for any term with the previous sanction of the Provincial Government.

The lessee shall conform to the rules made under this Act for the management and control of the ferry, and may be called upon by the officer in whom the immediate superintendence of the ferry is vested, or, if the ferry is

LEG. REF.

1 The words "and in any case where the said Local Governments fail to agree as regards the exercise of any such power, they shall exercise such power subject to the control of the Governor-General in Council" repealed by A.O., 1937.

2 In the North-West Frontier Province, for "Commissioner of the Division" read "Revenue Commissioner." See sec. 6 (1) (f) of Regulation VII of 1901.

3 These words in sec. 6 were added by the Punjab District Board Act (XX of 1883), sec. 79 in the Punjab; in the U.P. by the U.P. Local Boards Act (XIV of 1883), sec. 65; in the C.P. by C.P Act I of 1883, sec. 44; and in Assam by Assam Act VIII of 1926, sec. 43.

4 Substituted by the A.O., 1937 for "and may further.....paid, accordingly".

5 Substituted by ibid. for old sec. 7-A. The section is inapplicable to Ajmer-Merwara.

6 This section was substituted for the original sec. 8 by the Northern India Ferries (Amendment) Act (III of 1886), sec. 1.

7 In the N.W.F.P. References to "Commissioner" or "Commissioner of a Division" are to be construed as referring to Revenue Commissioner. See the N.W.F.P. Law and Justice Reg. (VII of 1901), sec. 1 (f). managed by a municipal or other public body under section 7 or section 7-A, then by that body, to give such security for his good conduct and for the punctual payment of the rent as the officer or body, as the case may be, thinks fit.

When the tolls are put up to public auction, the said officer or body, as the case may be, or the officer conducting the sale on his or its behalf, may, for reasons recorded in writing, refuse to accept the offer of the highest bidder, and may accept any other bid, or may withdraw the tolls from auction.]

Recovery of arrears from lessee.

9. All arrears due by the lessee of the tolls of a public ferry on account of his lease may be recovered from the lessee or his surety (if any) by the Magistrate of the district in which such ferry is situate as if they were arrears of land-revenue.

Power to cancel lease.

10. The Provincial Government may cancel the lease of the tolls of any public ferry on the expiration of six months' notice in writing to the lessee of its intention to cancel such lease.

When any lease is cancelled under this section, the Magistrate of the district in which such ferry is situate shall pay to the lessee such compensation as such Magistrate may, with the previou sanction of the Provincial Government award.

Surrender of lease.

11. The lessee of the tolls of a public ferry may surrender his lease on the expiration of one month's notice in writing to the Provincial Government of his intention to surrender such lease, and on payment to the Magistrate of the district in which such ferry is situate of such compensation as such Magistrate, subject to the approval of the [1]Commissioner, may in each case direct.

Power to make rules.

12. Subject to the control of the Provincial Government the [1]Commissioner of a division, or such other officer as the Provincial Government may, from time to time, appoint in this behalf, by name or in virtue of his office, may, from time to time, make rules consistent with this Act—

(a) for the control and the management of all public ferries [2]within such division and for regulating the traffic at such ferries;

[3][(b) for regulating the time and manner at and in which, and the terms on which, the tolls of such ferries may be let by auction, and prescribing the persons by whom auctions may be conducted;]

(c) for compensating persons who have compounded for tolls payable for the use of any such ferry when such ferry has been discontinued before the expiration of the period compounded for; and

(d) generally to carry out the purposes of this Act; and, when the tolls of a ferry have been let under section 8, such [1]Commissioner or other officer may, from time to time, (subject as aforesaid), make additional rules consistent with this Act—

(e) for collecting the rents payable for the tolls of such ferries;

(f) in cases in which the communication is to be established by means of a bridge of boats, pontoons or rafts, or a swing-bridge, flying-brodge, or temporary bridge, for regulating the time and manner at and in which such bridge

[2] These words are repealed in the North-West Frontier Province. See sec. 3 of the North-West Frontier Province Law and Justice Regulation (VII of 1901).

[3] This clause of sec. 12 was substituted for the original cl. (b) by the Northern India Ferries Amendment Act (III of 1886), sec. 1 (2).

The original clause was as follows:—

"(b) for regulating the time and manner at and in which, the terms on which, and the persons by whom, the tolls of such ferries may be let by auction."

shall be constructed and maintained and opened for the passage of vessels and rafts through the same, and (g) in cases in which the traffic is conveyed in boats, for regulating (1) the number and kind of such boats and their dimensions and equipment; (2) the number of the crew to be kept by the lessee for each boat; (3) the maintenance of such boats continually in good condition; (4) the hours during which, and the intervals within which, the lessee shall be bound to ply; and (5) the number of passengers, animals and vehicles, and the bulk and weight of other things, that may be carried in each kind of boat at one trip.

The lessee shall make such returns of traffic as the [1]Commissioner or other officer as aforesaid may, from time to time, require.

Private ferry not to ply within two miles of public ferry without sanction.

13. [2][Except with the sanction of the Magistrate of the district or of such other officer as the Provincial Government may, from time to time, appoint in this behalf, by name or in virtue of his office, no person shall establish, maintain or work a ferry to or from any point within a distance of two miles from the limits of a public ferry.]

Provided that, in the case of any specified public ferry, the Provincial Government may, by notification in the official Gazette, reduce or increase the said distance of two miles to such extent as it thinks fit:

Provided also that nothing hereinbefore contained shall prevent persons plying between two places, one of which is without, and one within, the said limits, when the distance between such two places is not less than three miles, or apply to boats [3][which do not ply for hire, or] which the Provincial Government expressly exempts from the operation of this section.

Person using approaches, etc., liable to pay toll.

14. Whoever uses the approach to, or landing place of, a public ferry is liable to pay the toll payable for crossing such ferry.

Tolls.

15. [5]Tolls, according to such rates as are, from time to time, fixed by the Provincial Government, shall be levied on all persons, animals, vehicles and other things crossing any river by a public ferry and not employed or transmitted on the public service.

Provided that the Provincial Government may, from time to time declare that any persons, animals, vehicles or other things shall be exempt from payment of such tolls.

Where the tolls of a ferry have been let under section 8, any such declaration, if made after the date of the [6][lease], shall entitle the lessee to such abatement of the rent payable in respect of the tolls as may be fixed by the [1]Commissioner of the division or such other officer as the Provincial Govern-

[2] Para. 1 of sec. 13 was substituted for the original para. 1 by the Northern India Ferries (Amendment) Act,, 1886 (III of 1886), sec. 2 (1).

The original paragraph was as follows—

"No person shall, except with the sanction of the officer charged with the superintendence of a public ferry, keep a ferry-boat for the purpose of plying for hire to or from any point within a distance of two miles from the limits of such public ferry,"

[3] These words in sec. 13 were added by Act III of 1886, sec. 2 (2).

[4] An explanation has been added to sec. 13 by C.P. Act XXIII of 1937 in the Central Provinces.

[5] So much of sec. 15 is repealed as provides for the exemption from tolls of any person, animals, vehicles or other things exempted by sec. 3 of the Indian Tolls (Army) Act (II of 1901).

ment may, from time to time, appoint, in this behalf by name or in virtue of his office.

Table of tolls.

16 The lessee or other person authorised to collect the tolls of any public ferry shall affix a table of such tolls, legibly written or printed in the vernacular language and, also if the Commissioner of the division so directs, in English in some conspicuous place near the ferry, and shall be bound to produce, on demand, a list of the tolls, signed by the Magistrate of the district or such other officer as he appoints in this behalf.

List of tolls.

Tolls, rents, compensation and fines are to form part of revenues of province.

[1][17. All tolls, rents, compensation and fines under this Act (other than tolls received by any lessee) shall form part of the revenues of the Province.]

Compounding for tolls.

18. The Provincial Government may, if it thinks fit, from time to time fix rates at which any person may compound for the tolls payable for the use of a public ferry.

III.—PRIVATE FERRIES.

Power to make rules.

19. The [2]Commissioner of the division may, with the previous sanction of the Provincial Government from time to time, make rules for the maintenance of order and for the safety of passengers and property at ferries other than public ferries.

Tolls.

20. The tolls charged at such ferries shall not exceed the highest rates for the time being fixed under section 15 for similar public ferries.

IV.—PENALTIES AND CRIMINAL PROCEDURE.

Penalty for breach of provisions as to table of tolls, list of tolls and return of traffic.

21. Every lessee or other person authorised to collect the tolls of a public ferry, who neglects to affix and keep in good order and repair the table of tolls mentioned in section 16, or who wilfully removes, alters or defaces such table, or allows it to become illegible.

or who fails to produce on demand the list of the tolls mentioned in section 16, and every lessee who neglects to furnish any return required under section 12.

shall be punished with fine which may extend to fifty rupees.

Penalty for taking unauthorised toll and for causing delay.

22. Every such lessee or other person as aforesaid and any person in possession of a private ferry asking or taking more than the lawful toll, or without due cause delaying any person, animal, vehicle or other thing, shall be punished with fine which may extend to one hundred rupees.

Penalty for breach of rules made under sections 12 and 19.

23. Every person breaking any rule made under section 12 or section 19 shall be punished with imprisonment for a term which may extend to six months, or with fine which may extend to two hundred rupees, or with both.

Cancelment of lease on default or breach of rules.

24. When any lessee of the tolls of a public ferry makes default in the payment of the rent payable in respect of such tolls, or has been convicted of an offence under section 23 or, having been convicted of an offence under section

SEC. 22.—Under this section it is an offence for a lessee to ask or take more than the lawful toll. It is no offence to ask for or take less. See 65 P.R. 1887 (Cr.).

21, or section 22, is again convicted of an offence under either of those sections, the Magistrate of the district may, with the sanction of the [1]Commissioner of the division, cancel the lease of the tolls of such ferry, and make other arrangements for its management during the whole or any part of the term for which the tolls were let.

Penalties on passengers offending.

25. Every person crossing by any public ferry, or using the approach to, or landing place thereof, who refuses to pay the proper toll, and every person—who, with intent to avoid payment of such toll, fraudulently, or forcibly crosses by any such ferry without paying the toll, or who obstructs any toll-collector or lessee of the tolls of a public ferry or any of his assistants in any way in the execution of their duty under this Act, or who, after being warned by any such toll-collector, lessee or assistant not to do so, goes or takes any animals, vehicles or other things into any ferry-boat, or upon any bridge at such a ferry, which is in such a state or so loaded as to endanger human life or property, or who refuses or neglects to leave, or remove any animals, vehicles or goods from, any such ferry-boat or bridge, on being requested by such toll-collector, lessee or assistant to do so, shall be punished with fine which may extend to fifty rupees.

Penalty for maintaining private ferry within prohibited limits.

[2][26. Whoever establishes, maintains or works a ferry in contravention of the provisions of section 13 shall be punished with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees, and with a further fine which may extend to one hundred rupees, for every day during which the ferry is maintained or worked in contravention of those provisions.]

Fines payable to lessee.

27. Where the tolls of any public ferry have been let under the provisions hereinbefore cotnained, the whole or any portion of any fine realised under section 25 or section 26 may, notwithstanding anything contained in section 17, be at the discretion of the convicting Magistrate or Bench of Magistrates, paid to the lessee.

Penalty for rash navigation and stacking of timber.

28. Whoever navigates, anchors, moors or fastens any vessel or raft, or stacks any timber, in a manner so rash or negligent as to damage a public ferry shall be punished with imprisonment for a term which may extend to three months, or with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees, or with both: and the toll-collector or lessee of the tolls of such ferry, or any of his assistants may seize and detain such vessel, raft or timber pending the inquiry and assessment hereinafter mentioned.

Power to arrest without warrant.

29. The police may arrest without warrant any person committing an offence against section 25 or section 28.

Power to try summarily.

30. Any Magistrate or Bench of Magistrates having summary jurisdiction under Chapter XVIII of the [3]Code of Criminal Procedure, may try any offence against this Act in manner provided by that Chapter.

Magistrate may assess damage done by offender.

31. Every Magistrate or Bench of Magistrates trying any offence under this Act may inquire into and assess the value of the damage (if any) done or caused by the offender to the ferry concerned, and shall order the amount of

V.—MISCELLANEOUS.

Power to take possession of boats, etc., on surrender or cancellation of lease.

32. When the lease of the tolls of any ferry is surrendered under section 11 or cancelled under section 24, the Magistrate of the district may take possession of all boats and their equipment and all other materials and appliances used by the lessee for the purposes of such ferry, and use the same (paying such compensation for the use thereof as the Provincial Government may in each case direct) until such a Magistrate can conveniently procure proper substitutes therefor.

Similar power in cases of emergency.

33. When any boats or their equipment or any materials or appliances suitable for setting up a ferry, are emergently required for facilitating the transport of officers, or troops of Her Majesty on duty, or of any other persons on the business of Her Majesty, or of any animals, vehicles or baggage belonging to such officers, troops or persons or of any property of Her Majesty, the Magistrate of the district may take possession of and use the same (paying such compenation for the use thereof as the [2][Central Government where the transport is in connection with the affairs of the Central Government, and the Provincial Government in other cases] may in each case direct) until such transport is completed.

Jurisdiction of Civil Courts barred.

34. No suit to ascertain the amount of any compensation payable, or abatement of rent allowable, under this Act shall be cognizable by any Civil Court.

Delegation of powers.

35. The Provincial Government may, from time to time, delegate,[3] under such restrictions as it thinks fit, any of the powers conferred on it by this Act to any [1]Commissioner of a division or Magistrate of a district, or to such other officer as it thinks fit, by name or by virtue of his office.

I.—Preliminary.

Short title.

1. This Act may be called THE INDIAN OATHS ACT, 1873.

Local extent.

It extends to the whole of British India, and, so far as regards [1][British subjects to all Indian States].

[Commencement.] Repealed by the Repealing Act, 1876 (XII of 1876).

2. [Repeal of enactments.] Repealed by the Repealing Act, 1873 (XII of 1873).

Saving of certain oaths and affirmations.

3. Nothing herein contained applies to proceedings before courts-martial, or to oaths, affirmations or declarations prescribed [2][by or under any Instruction under the Royal Sign Manual of His Majesty or] by any law which [3][no legislature or authority in British India has power to repeal].

II.—Authority to administer Oaths and Affirmations.

Authority to administer oaths and affirmations.

4. The following Courts and persons are authorized to administer, by themselves or by an officer empowered by them in this behalf, oaths and affirmations in discharge of the duties or in exercise of the powers imposed or conferred upon them respectively by law:—

(a) all Courts and persons having by law or consent of parties authority to receive evidence;

(b) the Commanding Officer of any military [4][naval], [5][or air force] station [4][or ship] occupied by troops in the service of Her Majesty:

SEC. 1.—Oaths Act cannot abrogate the provisions of the Evidence Act. 1926 N. 194=90 I.C. 378. Form of oath—When binding. See L.R. 5 A. 147 (Rev.). Power of Court to go into evidence when party agrees to abide by opponent's oath. 45 A. 724=1924 A. 126. An application for an oath under the Act must be one without any conditions, such as if the Court does not hold the evidence to be sufficient then defendants should take an oath. It is not open to a party to ask the Court to adjudicate and if the Court adjudicates against them then ask the Court to start a separate proceeding under the Oaths Act. 138 I.C. 606=1932 A.L.J. 481 =1932 A. 404. Evidence given under special oath is conclusive only as against the person who offers to be bound by it. 82 I. C. 359=26 Bom.L.R. 713=26 Cr.L.J. 1237 =1924 Bom. 511. Oath affecting third person—Whether admissible—Failure to take oath on the day fixed—Decision by Court without calling for further evidence. 88 I.C. 448=23 A.L.J. 513=1925 A. 604. Where the complainant offers to be bound by the statement made by the accused, if he made the statement after walking several steps towards the Ganges and the accused made the statement under these conditions, the statement being made on oath was conclusive proof of the facts set forth in it. L.R. 5 A 147 (Rev.) A party may have a perfectly true case and yet for peculiar reasons be unwilling to bind his conscience by a particular form of oath. The refusal to take the oath in such cases can be considered merely as a piece of evidence and as not proving the falsity of that party's claim. (22 B. 680, relied on). 32 P. L.R. 716=1932 L. 25. Agreement by parties to abide by the statement of the referee—Re-examination of refree proper. See 48 A. 276=1926 A. 266.

SEC. 4: CASE-LAW.—All Courts are authorised to administer oaths and affirmation. 34 P.R. 1916 (Cr.); 36 I. C. 171. See also 1939 Cal. 657= 43 C.W.N. 1033=I.L.R. (1939) 2 Cal. 459. Though the Act extends to the territories of Native Princes and States in alliance with His Majesty so far as regards the subjects of His Majesty, the Vyara Court in the Baroda State cannot be treated as a Court within the meanings of secs. 4 and 14 of the Act, in relation to proceedings which were Provided—

(1) that the oath or affirmation be administered within the limits of the station, and

(2) that the oath or affirmation be such as a Justice of the Peace is competent to administer in British India.

III.—Persons by whom Oaths or Affirmations must be made.

Oaths or affirmations to be made by—witness;

of parties

interpreters;

jurors.

5. Oaths or affirmations shall be made by the following persons:—

(a) all witnesses, that is to say, all persons who may lawfully be examined, or give, or be required to give, evidence by or before any Court or person having by law or consent authority to examine such persons or to receive evidence;

(b) interpreters of questions put to, and evidence given by, witnesses; and

(c) jurors.

[1][Provided that where the witness is a child under twelve years of age, and the Court or person having authority to examine such witness is of opinion that, though he understands the duty of speaking the truth, he does not understand the nature of an oath or affirmation, the foregoing provisions of this section and the provisions of section 6 shall not apply to such witness, but in any such case the absence of an oath or affirmation shall not render inadmissible any evidence given by such witness nor affect the obligation of the witness to state the truth.]

SEC. 5: APPLICABILITY.—Sec. 5 was intended to apply to an accused person while he is under trial. 101 I.C. 657=54 C. 52 =28 Cr.L.J. 481=1927 C. 307. The term "criminal proceeding" in S. 5 is not restricted to a proceeding relating to a case pending in a Criminal Court. It only denotes a proceeding before a Criminal Court as distinguished from a Civil Court. Therefore a confession made by a person to a magistrate under S. 164, Cr. P. Code, in the course of an investigation, comes within the ambit of S. 5 and the Magistrate acts illegally in recording it on solemn affirmation. But the illegality is cured under S. 537, Cr. P. Code, if there has been no future of justice, and the confession is admissible in evidence. 225 I.C. 544=47 Cr.L.J. 772=48 P.L.R. 382.

SCOPE OF SECTION.—Court deliberately abstaining from administering an oath or affirmation to the only eye-witness to the murder on the ground that she was only 6 to 7 years of age. 6 P.L.J. 147=61 I.C. 705=1921 P. 109.

EFFECT OF.—In every case where a witness is a competent witness, the provisions of secs. 5 and 6 should be complied with. 6 P.L.J. 147. Under sec. 5, the omission to take any oath or any other irregularity in the form in which it is administered does not invalidate the proceedings. The High Court declined to interefere with the order of a Municipal Commissioner who was the editor of a newspaper, who had, prior to the disposal of the case, made very strong remarks on the case in the newspaper of which he was editor, holding that there was nothing illegal in his order, though he would have exercised a wise discretion if he had refused to sit as one of the Commissioners in the case. 21 W.R. (Cr.) 31; 25 W.R. (Cr.) 6.

CHILD.—A child of tender years should be examined as a witness only after the Court has satisfied itself that the child is intellectually sufficiently developed to enable it to understand sufficiently what it has seen and afterwards inform the Court thereof. If the Court is satisfied that the child has intelligence, it should comply with the provisions of sec. 6. 120 I.C. 514=31 Cr.L.J. 114=1930 S. 129. See also 1921 P. 109. Child's evidence is not inadmissible merely because no oath was administered to it. Although sec. 5 is imperative, still sec. 13 governs cases of this sort. 22 I.C. 737. See also 47 L.W. 161=1938 M 490=(1938) 1 M.L.J. 289; 1941 O.W.N. 1246=17

Nothing herein contained shall render it lawful to administer, in a criminal proceeding, an oath or affirmation to the accused person, or necessary to administer to the official interpreter of any Court, after he has entered on the execution of the duties of his office, an oath or affirmation that he will faithfully discharge those duties.

Affirmation by natives or by persons objecting to oaths.

6. Where the witness, interpreter or juror is a Hindu or Muhammadan, or has an objection to making an oath,

he shall, instead of making an oath, make an affirmation,

In every other case the witness, interpreter or juror shall make an oath.

IV.—Forms of Oaths and Affirmations.

Forms of oaths and affirmations.

7. All oaths and affirmations made under section 5 shall be administered according to such forms as the High Court may from time to time prescribe.

And until any such forms are prescribed by the High Court, such oaths and affirmations shall be administered according to the forms now in use.

SECS. 5 AND 6.—If a Court thinks that a child, though of tender years, is capable of informing the Court of what it has seen or heard, it is obligatory on it to administer oath to the child as in the case of any other witness. Where the Court fails to do so on the ground that the child is not capable of realising the significance of an oath, the defect would be cured by sec. 13 of the Oaths Act. 58 A. 23=1935 A.L.J. 618=1935 A. 579. See also 1938 Mad. 490=(1938) 1 M.L.J. 289; 1939 Rang. 402; 17 Luck. 376.

SECS. 5, 6 AND 13.—Every person who is examined as a witness shall make an oath or affirmation and there is no exception in the case of a child of tender years. Therefore if a child is adjudged to be a competent witness, an oath or affirmation must be administered to him before he is examined; but an omission whether deliberate or inadverdent to do so does not render his evidence absolutely inadmissible. But it is for the Court to decide what weight may be given to such unsworn testimony of the child whose evidence must always be received with great caution. 1940 Rang.L.R. 104 =1939 Rang. 402. See now Amending Act XXXIX of 1939. SECS. 8 AND 11: SCOPE OF,—See 1937 All. 701; 1938 Bom. 465.

SEC. 8.—See 13 B. 389; 13 I.C. 215=5 S.L.R. 129. The word 'affect' in sec. 8 should be taken to mean 'to re-act upon in any way'. An oath in the name of a third person does not necessarily 'affect' that person. An oath in the form 'I swear by my children' is not one which is prohibited by sec. 8. 1937 A.M.L.J. 94. The ''oath or solemn affirmation'' referred to in sec. 8 et seq is in its nature and essence quite distinct from the oaths and affirmations contemplated by sec. 5. Under sec. 8 the oath or solemn affirmation may be as infinite alike in form and contents as racial custom or the dictates of any religious persuasion may sanction or require. Neither an invocation nor an oath or affirmation in the technical sense of these words is in any way an essential part of the so-called oath or solemn affirmation referred to in sec. 8 of the Act. 54 I.A. 301=2 Luck. 316=1927 P.C. 165=53 M.L.J. 1 (P. C.). Under sec. 8 of the oaths Act, for an oath to be administered by the Court it is necessary that it should not be against decency and that it should not affect the rights of a third party. Where during the trial the defendant offered to abide by the oath on talak of one of the witnesses for the plaintiff and that witness agreed to take the oath, but the defendant resiled from the offer later on. Held, that divorcing one's wife was not a very respectable form of oath and militated with decency and that it had also the effect of divorcing the wife who was a third party and that in the circumstances the refusal of the defendant to give an illegal oath did not affect the case at all. 189 I.C. 687=1940 Pesh. 26. Under sec. 8 the initiative should come from the parties and not from the Court. The dismissal of a suit was accordingly set aside on the ground that the lower Court might have been influenced by the refusal of the plaintiff to swear touching sacred books. 139 I.C. 836 (1)=56 C.L.J. 77=36 C.W.N. 786=1933 Cal. 116. SECS. 8 AND 9.—The parties to the suit stated that they constituted a third person J, as a Munhasir Ilahi and that they would be bound by his decision but before he was examined, the plaintiff stated that he would not be bound unless a special kind of oath was administered to J. That request was refused, J's statement recorded and in accordance therewith the plaintiff's suit dismissed. Held, that it was open to the plaintiff to resile from the agreement before the statement of J was recorded without assigning any reasons, sec. 8 not being applicable on the ground that the parties had in the first instance never intended to administer any oath at all to J. 146 I.C. 569=1933 A. SECS. 8 AND 11.—Where defendant agrees to abide by plaintiff's statement in the witness box but not in the form of any special oath as is referred to in sec. 8, the agreement is binding on him even apart from sec. 11, and he cannot be allowed to resile from it. 12 Luck. 349=164 I. C. 1116=1937 O. 67. The evidence given by a person to whom the special oath is administered at the instance of a party to a suit is, when the party offering to be bound by the special oath, is suing in a representative capacity, conclusive not only as against him but also the persons whom he is properly representing in that litigation, and the decree following the taking of special oath would, therefore, clearly operate as res judicata against the representatives as well in the absence of allegation and proof that the party acting in a representative capacity has been guilty of fraud or collusion or other vitiating circumstances. 40 Bom.L.R. 1005=1938 Bom. 465. See also 222 I.C. 210=1945

9. If any party to any judicial proceeding offers to be bound by any such oath or solemn affirmation as is mentioned in section 8, if such oath or affirmation is made by the other party to, or by any witness in, such proceeding, the Court may, if it thinks fit, ask such party or witness, or cause him to be asked, whether or not he will make the oath or affirmation:

Court may ask party or witness whether he will make oath proposed by opposite party.

The Act gives the Court a discretion to administer the oath or not and if a party after agreeing to an oath satisfies the Court that there is good ground for retracting, the Court would exercise a wise discretion in refusing to administer the oath but when a party puts forward frivolous reasons for retracting, the Court would be justified in administering the oath notwithstanding the retraction. 49 A. 388=100 I.C. 473=1927 A. 590. See also 1933 A.L.J. 69=1933 A. 184; 38 P.L.R. 1171=165 I.C. 513; 35 C.W.N. 130=1931 C. 549. It cannot be withdrawn after acceptance. 1933 A.L.J. 588=55 A. 298=1933 A. 463. Even if a party resiled from taking oaths, in matters to be proved by oaths, it is not equivalent to its proof. No decree can be passed under the circumstances against the resiling party. The Court then can proceed with the suit in ordinary manner drawing inference from the defaulter's conduct and can impose upon him appropriate costs. 1912 M.W.N. 361=15 I.C. 195. An agreement to an oath contained a provision that if owing to the challenger's failure to pay the cost of taking the oath, the same was not taken, it should be treated as equivalent to the oath having been taken. Held, that the provision introduced a method of decision which the law did not authorize and can have no legal consequences. (31 M. 1, Ref.) 52 I.C. 619. Where the agreement was to take the oath on a particular day but the oath was taken on a later day the burden lies on the person who relies on oath to show that time was not of the essence of the contract. 10 L.W. 140=52 I.C. 619. A duly authorized agent holding a special power of attorney enabling him to conduct the suit in a manner he may deem fit and in particular to withdraw or compromise, can make an offer under sec. 9 to be bound by the oath of the other party and to have the case decided in accordance therewith. 38 A. 131=32 I.C. 348. The word 'party' in sec. 9 includes a duly authorised agent. Where a vakalatnama authorises a counsel to get statements recorded, to do pairavi in the case and to take such steps as he thought advisable and the client agrees to whatever he might do in the conduct of the case, the authority is sufficient to justify counsel, when no other step is open to him, submitting the case to the test of oath of a man supposed to be honest. 1943 A.L.W. 489. See also 1933 All. 861=1933 A.L.J. 1127. The expression "any party to any judicial proceeding" in sec. 9 must be interpreted as including the pleader representing him in the case. If a pleader is authorised by the Vakalatnama in his favour to do all proper pairavi in the case and to represent his client in a litigation and to present all sorts of applications which may become necessary even though no express power to compromise the case on his behalf may have been conferred upon the pleader, still the pleader being a duly authorised person to represent the client would be fully entitled to bind the client by offering to abide by the special oath of the opposite party. But it is not open to the party to make such an offer, and then to withdraw it on frivolous grounds after it has been accepted by the other party. Such an offer may be withdrawn so long as it has not been accepted by the other party and acted upon. 222 I. C. 210=1946 P. 272. Code and may create an estoppel. 1937 A.L.J. 1066 =171 I.C. 697=1937 A. 701. Sec. 11 cannot be construed as meaning that the evidence given on oath in a proceeding becomes automatically conclusive in all possible proceedings in which the subject-matter of his evidence given on oath may be involved. It can only be evidence in the proceeding in which it is actually being received. In an application under O. 21, R. 100, C. P. Code, for delivery the respondent challenged the petitioner to take a special oath, and the oath having been taken the application was allowed. The respondent then filed a suit under O. 21, R. 103, and the defendant (petitioner) pleaded that no suit wodld lie because of the evidence which he had given on oath in the proceedings under O. 21, R. 100. Held, that though the suit following the order on the claim petition might be a continuation of the same proceedings for some purposes, there was an essential difference between the two; and unless it was clearly present to the minds of the parties that the evidence given on oath in the claim petition was not to be challenged in a subsequent suit it must be held that an oath in those proceeding must relate to the claim proceeding themselves and to them alone. The burden lay on the applicant to show that the challenge was intended to have any effect upon any possible civil suit which might be filed under R. 103 of O. 21, C.P. Code. 51 L.W. 449=1940 Mad. 627=(1940) 1 M.L.J. 685.

SEC. 12.—A Court does not act irreularly or illegally in taking into consideration plaintiff's refusal to take oath, the defendant agreeing to be bound by it. But no weight should be attached to plaintiff's refusal when defendant also refuses. 7 N.L. R. 50=10 I.C. 472. A mere refusal to take a particular oath is not sufficient for deciding the issue against the party refusing it. 32 I.C. 619. See also 93 I.C. 830=1926 C. 817. See also 1935 Mad. 541=42 L. W. 371. The Oaths Act does not provide for any decree being passed against a party who having once agreed that the suit may be decided against him in case he fails to take a certain oath subsequently resiles from the agreement, although the refusal to take the oath can be recorded under S. 12 of the Act, and due weight can be given to it in appreciating the evidence produced by the parties and in deciding the case on the merits. 47 P.L.R. 411 If a party refuses to make the oath, the Court has no power to compel him to make it. The duty of the Court is to record as part of the proceedings, the nature of the oath proposed, the facts that he was asked whether he would make it and that he refused it together with any reason which he may assign for his refusal. 9 Mys.L.J. 362. No doubt the refusal to take a special oath is conduct which the Court is entitled to consider along with other evidence in the case but the refusal should not automatically be allowed to out-weigh the, positive evidence which has been adduced. Where therefore the plaintiff has produced his account books which the defendant called on him to produce and he has given all the evidence necessary to support his case, his refusal to take a special oath offered by the defendant which the plaintiff considered derogatory should not be taken as reflecting on the truth of his claim. 142 I.C. 137=1933 N. 52. See also 1935 All. 276=1935 A.L.J. 212. A challenger should not be permitted to resile after his offer has been accepted by the other party unless good ground is shown to the satisfaction of the Court by the challenger. Apart from authorities, there is no principle of law on which an agreement can be allowed to be broken with impunity without any valid reason. 1938 M.W.N. 110=47 L.W. 453=1938 Mad. 385 =(1938) 1 M.L.J. 368. (43 L.W. 681=1936 Mad. 406=70 M.L.J. 449 reversed.) Application of sec. 12 to the case of challenger would be an extension of the provisions of sec. 12 in a manner which is not justifiable. Where the challenger, who was to light the camphor in accordance with the offer made by him, has refused to perform that which he had undertaken to do, he should be taken to have waived that condition. The Court can order any Commisisoner to light the camphor but should see that it is extinguished by the other party when taking the oath. (1938) 1 M.L.J. 368.

Sec. 13 cures the form of the oath and even an entire omission to take the oath, but does not cure the absence of authority in the officer administering the oath. 116 I.C. 248=31 Bom.L.R. 144=1929 B. 136. Consent of parties to abide by oath retracted by the parties; Court has no right to enforce the oath. (1935) M.W.N. 370. S. 13 even prior to its amendment in 1939 was quite unqualified in its terms and there was nothing to suggest that it was to apply only where the omission to administer the oath occurs per incuriam. Hence the evidence of a person who does not understand the nature of an oath but is otherwise competent to testify, as understanding the questions put and being able to give rational answers, is admissible in evidence and can be acted upon though there is no corroboration. Once there is admissible evidence it could be acted upon; corroboration, unless required by statute goes only to the weight and value of the evidence. This point is settled by the proviso to S. 5 of the Oaths Act added by the Amending Act of 1939. In England where provision has been made for the reception of unsworn evidence from a child it has always been provided that the evidence must be corroborated in some material particular implicating the accused. But in the Indian Act there is no such provision and the evidence is made admissible whether corroborated or not. It is a sound rule in practice not to act on the uncorroborated evidence of a child, whether sworn or unsworn, but this is a rule of prudence and not of law. (1945) 2 M.L.J. 493 (P.C.). See also 1938 Mad. 490=(1938) 1 M.L.J. 289. When a Judge or Magistrate has elected to take the statement of a person as evidence, he has no option but to administer either the oath or affirmation to such a person as the case may require. The proper course in such cases is to record the questions and answers put to the witness to ascertain whether he is competent to testify and, if the Court comes to the conclusion that he is competent, an oath or affirmation should be administered. A child is generally competent, if he is old enough to understand that he ought to speak the truth. 2 L.B.R. 322. See also 1935 A. 579=1935 A.L.J. 618 =58 All. 23. THE OBSTRUCTIONS IN FAIRWAYS ACT (XVI OF 1881).

[Rep. in part by Act X of 1914.]

[15*th March*, 1881.

An Act to empower the Government to remove or destroy obstructions in fairways, and to prevent the creation of such obstructions.

WHEREAS, it is expedient to empower the Government to remove or destroy obstructions to navigation in fairways leading to ports in British India, and to prevent the creation of such obstructions: It is hereby enacted as follows:

Preamble.

Short title.

1. This Act may be called THE OBSTRUCTIONS IN FAIRWAYS ACT, 1881; [1][* * * * * *].

But nothing herein contained shall apply to vessels [2][belonging to, or hired by a contract made on behalf of, the Crown].

Central Government empowered to remove or destroy obstruction in fairway.

2. Whenever, in any fairway, leading to any port in British India, any vessel is sunk, stranded or abandoned, or any fishing stake, timber or other thing is placed or left, [2][the Central Government] may, if in its opinion such thing is, or is likely to become, an obstruction or danger to navigation,—

(a) cause such thing or any part thereof to be removed; or

(b) if such thing is of such a description or so situate that, in the opinion of the [2][Central Government], it is not worth removing, cause the same or any part thereof to be destroyed.

Central Government entitled to expenses incurred in removing obstruction.

3. Whenever anything is removed under section 2 the [3][Central Government] shall be entitled to receive a reasonable sum, having regard to all the circumstances of the case, for the expenses incurred in respect of such removal.

Dispute concerning such expenses.

Any dispute arising concerning the amount due under this section, in respect of anything so removed, shall be decided by the District Magistrate or Presidency Magistrate having jurisdiction at the place where such thing is, upon application to him for that purpose by either of the disputing parties; and such decision shall be final.

Notice of removal to be given by Central Government.

4. The [4][Central Government] shall, whenever anything is removed under section 2, publish in the Official Gazette a notification containing a description of such thing, and the time at which and the place from which the same was so removed.

Things removed may, in certain cases, be sold.

5. If, after publishing such notifications, such thing is unclaimed, or if the person claiming the same fails to pay the amount due for the said expenses and any customs-duties or other charges properly incurred by the [4][Central Government] in respect thereof.

the [1][Central Government] may sell such thing by public auction, if it is of a perishable nature, forthwith, and, if it is not of a perishable nature, at any time not less than six months after publishing such notification as aforesaid.

6. On realizing the proceeds of such sale, the amount due for expenses

Provided that he makes the claim within one year from the date of the sale.

"Vessel" to include tackle, cargo, etc.

7. For the purposes of this Act, the term "vessel" shall be deemed to include also every article or thing or collection of things being or forming part of the tackle, equipment, cargo, stores or balalst of a vessel; and any proceeds arising from the sale of a vessel, and of the cargo thereof, or of any other property recovered thereform, shall be regarded as a common fund.

Power to makes rules to regulate and prohibit the placing of obstructions in fairways.

8. The Central Government may, from time to time, by notification[1] in the Official Gazette, make rules to regulate or prohibit, in any fairway leading to a port in British India, the placing of fishing stakes, the casting or throwing of ballast, rubbish or any other thing likely to give rise to a bank or shoal, or the doing of any other act which will, in [2][its] opinion, cause, or be likely to cause, obstruction or danger to navigation.

Penalty for breach of such rules.

9. Whoever is guilty of any act or omission in contravention of the rules made under section 8 may be tried for such offence in any district or presidency-town in which he is found, and shall be punished with imprisonment for a term which may extend to six months, or with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees, or with both.

Compensation payable in certain cases for damage caused under this Act.

10. Whenever the maintenance or creation of an obstruction in any fairway, has become lawful by long usage or otherwise, and such obstruction is removed or destroyed under section 2, or its creation is regulated or prohibited under section 8, any person having a right to maintain, or create such obstruction shall be entitled to receive from the [3][Central Government] reasonable compensation for any damage caused to him by such removal, destruction, regulation or prohibition.

Every dispute arising concerning the right to such compensation, or the amount thereof, shall be determined according to the law for the time being in force relating to like disputes in the case of land needed for public purposes and not otherwise; and for the purposes of such law the fairway from or in which such obstruction was removed or destroyed, or in which its creation was regulated or prohibited, shall be deemed to be a part of the presidency-town or district in which the port to which such fairway leads is situate.

Certain action of the Government previous to passing of this Act be deemed to have been taken hereunder.

11. Whenever any obstruction in a fairway leading to a port in British India has been removed or destroyed or whenever the creation of any such obstruction has been regulated or prohibited, by an order of the Central Government or a Provincial Government, previous to the passing of this Act, such removal, destruction, regulation or prohibition shall be deemed to have been effected under this Act.

[2nd April, 1923.

An Act to consolidate and amend the Law in British India relating to official secrets.

WHEREAS the law in British India relating to official secrets is at present contained in two Acts of the Governor-General in Council, namely, the Indian Official Secrets Act, 1889, and the Indian Official Secrets (Amendment) Act, 1904, and one Statute of Parliament, namely, the Official Secrets Act, 1911; and

WHEREAS the Official Secrets Act, 1911, has been amended by the Official Secrets Act, 1920, which statute applies to the United Kingdom and to certain British possessions, but not to British India; and

WHEREAS it is expedient that the law relating to official secrets in British India should be consolidated and amended;

It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Short title, extent and application.

1. (1) This Act may be called THE INDIAN OFFICIAL SECRETS ACT, 1923.

(2) It extends to the whole of British India, and applies also—

(a) to all subjects of His Majesty and servants of the Crown within [4][any Iany Indian State]; and (b) to all Indian subjects of His Majesty without and beyond British India.

Denitions.

2. In this Act, unless there is anything repugnant in the subject or context,—

(1) Any reference to a place belonging to His Majesty includes a place occupied by any department of the Government, whether the place is or is not actually vested in His Majesty;

It applies not merely to Government servants, but also to all persons who have obtained the secret in contravention of the Act. Reading S. 5 (4) of the Act and S. 4 (1) (f) of the Press (Emergency Powers) Act together, an invitation to the public, contained in an article or advertisement in a newspaper, to send official secrets to the editor of a newspaper for payment comes with S. 4 (f) of the Press Act as well as S. 5 (1) of the Official Secrets Act. (b) an offence under clause (a) of sub-section (1) of section 6 shall be a cognizable and bailable offence; and (c) every other offence under this Act shall be a non-cognizable and bailable offence, in respect of which a warrant of arrest shall ordinarily issue in the first instance.

Restriction on trial of offences.

13. (1) No Court (other than that of a Magistrate of the first class specially empowered in this behalf by the [1][appropriate Government]) which is inferior to that of a District or Presidency Magistrate shall try any offence under this Act.

(2) If any person under trial before a Magistrate for an offence under this Act at any time before a charge is framed claims to be tried by the Court of Session, the Magistrate shall, if he does not discharge the accused, commit the case for trial by that Court, notwithstanding that it is not a case exclusively triable by that Court.

(3) No Court shall take cognizance of any offence under this Act unless upon complaint made by order of, or under authority from, the [2][appropriate Government] [3][* * *] or some officer empowered by the [2][appropriate Government], in this behalf:

Provided that a person charged with such an offence may be arrested, or a warrant for his arrest may be issued and executed, and any such person may be remanded in custody or on bail, notwithstanding that such complaint has not been made, but no further or other proceedings shall be taken until such complaint has been made.

(4) For the purposes of the trial of a person for an offence under this Act, the offence may be deemed to have been committed either at the place in which the same actually was committed or at any place in British India in which the offender may be found.

[4][(5) In this section, the appropriate Government means—

(a) in relation to any offences under section 5 not connected with a prohibited place or with a foreign power, the Provincial Government; and

(b) in relation to any other offence, the Central Government.]

Exclusion of public from proceedings.

14. In addition and without prejudice to any powers which a Court may possess to order the exclusion of the public from any proceedings, if, in the course of proceedings before a Court against any person for an offence under this Act or the proceedings on appeal, or in the course of the trial of a person, under this Act, application is made by the prosecution, on the ground that the publication of any evidence to be given or of any statement to be made in the course of the proceedings would be prejudicial to the safety of the State, that all or any portion of the public shall be excluded during any part of the hearing. the Court may make an order to that effect, but the passing of sentence shall in any case take place in public.

(a) act as an ordinary trustee;

(b) be appointed trustee by a Court of competent jurisdiction.

(2) Save as hereinafter expressly provided, the Official Trustee shall have the same powers, duties and liabilities, and be entitled to the same rights and privileges and be subject to the same control and orders of the Court as any other trustee acting in the same capacity.

(3) The Official Trustee may decline, either absolutely or except on such condition as he may impose, to accept any trust.

(4) The Official Trustee shall not accept any trust under any composition or scheme or arrangement for the benefit of creditors nor of any estate known or believed by him to be insolvent.

(5) The Official Trustee shall not, save as provided by any rules made under this Act, accept any trust for a religious purpose or any trust which involves the management or carrying on of any business.

(6) The Official Trustee shall not administer the estate of a deceased person, unless he is expressly appointed sole executor of, and sole trustee under, the will of such person.

(7) The Official Trustee shall always be sole trustee, and it shall not be lawful to appoint the Official Trustee to be trustee along with any other person.

Official trustee may with consent be appointed trustee of settlement by grantor.

8. (1) Any person intending to create a trust other than a trust which the Official Trustee is prohibited from accepting under the provisions of this Act may, by the instrument creating the trust and with the consent of the Official Trustee, appoint him by that name or any other sufficient description to be the trustee of the property subject to such trust:

Provided that the consent of the Official Trustee shall be recited in the said instrument and that such instrument shall be duly executed by the Official Trustee.

(2) Upon such appointment the property subject to the trust shall vest in such Official Trustee, and shall be held by him upon the trusts declared in such instrument.

Appointment of Official Trustee as trustee by will

9. When the Official Trustee has by that name or any other sufficient description been appointed trustee under any will, the executor of the will [1][the testator] or the administrator of his estate shall, after obtaining probate or letters of administration, notify in the prescribed manner the contents of such will to such Official Trustee; and if such Official Trustee consents to accept the trust, then upon the execution by such executor or administrator of an instrument in writing transferring the property subject to the trust to the Official Trustee, such property shall vest in such Official Trustee, and shall be held by him upon the trusts expressed in the said will:

Provided that the consent of the Official Trustee shall be recited in the said instrument and that such instrument shall be duly executed by the Official Trustee.

Power of High Court to appoint Official Trustee to be trustee of property.

Official Trustee is prohibited from accepting under the provisions of this Act, and there is no trustee within the local limits of the ordinary or extraordinary original civil jurisdiction of the High Court willing or capable to act in the trust, the High Court may, on application, make an order for the appointment of the Official Trustee by that name with his consent to be the trustee of such property.

(2) Upon such order such property shall vest in the Official Trustee and shall be held by him upon the same trusts as the same was held previously to such order, and the previous trustee or trustees (if any) shall be exempt from liability as trustees of such property save in respect of acts done before the date of such order.

(3) Nothing in this section shall be deemed to affect the provisions of the Trustees' and Mortgagees' Powers Act, 1866, or the Indian Trusts Act, 1882.

Power of private trustees to appoint Official Trustee to be trustee of property.

11. (1) If any property is subject to a trust other than a trust which the Official Trustee is prohibited from accepting under the provisions of this Act, and all the trustees or the surviving or continuing trustee or trustees and all persons beneficially interested in the trust are desirous that the Official Trustee shall be appointed in the room of such trustee or trustees, it shall be lawful for such trustee or trustees, by an instrument in writing to appoint the Official Trustee by that name or any other sufficient description with his censent to be the trustee of such property:

Provided that the consent of the Official Trustee shall be recited in the said instrument and that such instrument shall be duly executed by him.

(2) Upon such appointment such property shall vest in the Official Trustee and shall be held by him upon the same trusts as the same was held previously to such appointment, and the previous trustee or trustees shall be exempt from all liability as trustees of such property save in respect of acts done before the date of such appointment.

Executor or administrator may pay to Official Trustee legacy, share, etc., of infant or lunatic.

12. (1) If any infant or lunatic is entitled to any gift, legacy or share of the assets of a deceased person, it shall be lawful for the person by whom such gift is made, or executor or administrator by whom such legacy or share is payable or transferable or any trustee of such gift, legacy or share, to transfer the same by an instrument in writing to the Official Trustee by that name or any other sufficient description with his consent:

Provided that the consent of the Official Trustee shall be recited in the said instrument and that such instrument shall be duly executed by the Official Trustee.

(2) Any money or property transferred to the Official Trustee under this section shall vest in him and shall be subject to the same provisions as are contained in this Act as to other property vested in such Official Trustee.

COUNCIL.)—Under the Provisions of S. 3 as amended by the Order in Council, 1937, and S. 10 of the Official Trustees Act, the High Court of Calcutta has no jurisdiction to appoint the Official Trustee of Bengal as trustee over properties situate within the province of Bihar which is outside the division of Bengal. The amended Act makes it quite plain that Bihar is now not only a separate province but a "Division" which must have an Official Trustee of its own. 42 C. W.N. 942.

Official trustee not to be required to give bond or security.

13. (1) No Official Trustee shall be required by any Court to enter into any bond or security on his appointment in any capacity under this Act.

(2) No Official Trustee or Deputy Official Trustee shall be required to verify otherwise than by his signature any petition presented by him under the provisions of this Act, and if the facts stated in any such petition are not within the Official Trustee's personal knowledge, the petition may be verified and subscribed by any person competent to make the verification.

Entry of Official Trustee not to constitute notice of a trust.

14. The entry of the Official Trustee by that name in the books of a company shall not constitute notice of a trust; and a company shall not be entitled to object to enter the name of the Official Trustee on its register by reason only that the Official Trustee is a corporation; and, in dealing with property, the fact that the person dealt with is the Official Trustee shall not of itself constitute notice of a trust.

Liability of Government.

15. (1) The revenues of the Government [1][* ] shall be liable to make good all sums required to discharge any liability which the Official Trustee, if he were a private trustee, would be personally liable to discharge, except when the liability is one to which neither the Official Trustee nor any of his officers has in any way contributed or which neither he nor any of his officers could by the exercise of reasonable diligence have averted, and in either of those cases the Official Trustee shall not, nor shall the revenues [2][of the Government] [3][ * *] be subject to any liability.

(2) Nothing in sub-section (1) shall be deemed to render the revenues [2][of the Government] [3][* * * *] or any Official Trustee appointed under this Act liable for anything done by or under the authority of any Official Trustee before the commencement of this Act.

Notice of suit not required in certain cases.

16. Nothing in section 80 of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908, shall apply to any suit against the Official Trustee in which no relief is claimed against him personally.

PART IV.

FEES.

Fees.

17. (1) There shall be charged in respect of the duties of the Official Trustee such fees, whether by way of percentage or otherwise, as the Government may prescribe:

Provided that in the case of a trust accepted by the Official Trustee before the commencement of this Act the fees prescribed under this section shall not exceed the fees leviable in respect of such trust under the Official Trustees Act, 1864, as subsequently amended.

(2) The fees under this section may be at different rates for different properties or classes of properties or for different duties, and shall, so far as may be, be arranged so as to produce an amount sufficient to discharge the salaries and all other expenses incidental to the working of this Act (including such sum as Government may determine to be required to insure the revenues of the Government [4][* *] against loss under this Act).

[4] The words "of India" were omitted by Act XXI of 1922, S. 4.

Disposal of fees.

18. (1) All expenses which might be retained or paid out of the trust fund, if the Official Trustee were a private trustee, shall be so retained or paid, and any fees leviable under this Act shall be retained or paid in like manner as and in addition to such expenses.

(2) The Official Trustee shall transfer and pay to such authority and in such manner and at such times as the Government may prescribe, all fees received by him under this Act, and the same shall be carried to the account and credit of the Government [1][* *].

PART V.

AUDIT.

Auditors to be appointed to examine Official Trustee's accounts, etc., and to report to Government.

19. (1) The accounts of the Official Trustees shall be audited at least once annually and at any other time if the Government so direct by the prescribed person and in the prescribed manner.

(2) The auditor shall examine such accounts and shall forward to Government a statement thereof in the prescribed form, together with a report thereon and a certificate signed by him showing—

(a) whether the accounts contain a full and true account of everything which ought to be contained therein, and

(b) whether the books, which by any rules made under this Act are directed to be kept by the Official Trustee, have been duly and regularly kept, and

(c) whether the trust funds and securities have been duly kept and invested and deposited in the manner prescribed by this Act or any rules made thereunder; or (as the case may be) that such accounts are deficient, or that the Official Trustee has failed to comply with this Act or the rules made thereunder in such respects as may be specified in such certificate.

Auditor's power to summon witnesses and to call for documents.

20. (1) Every auditor shall have the powers of a Civil Court under the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908,—

(a) to summon any person whose presence he may think necessary to attend him from time to time, and

(b) to examine any person, on oath to be by him administered, and

(c) to issue a commission for the examination on interrogatories or otherwise of any person, and

(d) to summon any person to produce any document or thing, the producton of which appears to be necessary for the purposes of such audit or examination.

(2) Any person who, when summoned, refuses, or without reasonable cause neglects, to attend or to produce any document or thing or attends and refuses to be sworn, or to be examined shall be deemed to have committed an offence within the meaning of, and punishable under, section 188 of the Indian Penal Code, and the auditor shall report every case of such refusal or neglect to Government.

Cost of audit, etc., how paid.

21. The cost of and incidental to every such audit and examination shall be determined in accordance with rules made by the Government and shall be defrayed in the prescribed manner.

Right of beneficiary to inspection and copies of accounts.

22. Every beneficiary under a trust which is being administered by the Official Trustee shall, subject to such conditions and restrictions as may be prescribed, be entitled, at all reasonable times, to inspect the accounts of such trust, and the report and certificate of the auditor and, on payment of the prescribed fee, to be furnished with copies thereof or extracts therefrom, and nothing in the Indian Trusts Act, 1882, shall affect the provisions of this section.

PART VI.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Transfer to Government of accumulations in the hands of Official Trustee.

23. When any moneys payable to a beneficiary under a trust have been in the hands of any Official Trustee for a period of twelve years or upwards whether before or after the commencement of this Act in consequence of the Official Trustee having been unable to trace the person entitled to receive the same, such moneys shall be transferred in the prescribed manner to the account and credit of the Government [1][* *]:

Provided that no such moneys shall be so transferred if any suit or proceeding is pending in respect thereof in any Court.

Mode of proceeding by claimant to recover money so transferred.

24. (1) If any claim is made to any money so transferred and such claim is established to the satisfaction of the prescribed authority, the Government [1][* *] shall pay to the claimant the amount in respect of which the claim is established.

(2) If such claim is not established to the satisfaction of the prescribed authority, the claimant may, without prejudice to his right to take any other proceedings for the recovery of such moneys, apply by petition to the High Court against the [2][Government] and, after taking such evidence as it thinks fit, such Court shall make such order on the petition in regard to the payment of such moneys as it thinks fit and such order shall be binding on all parties to the proceedings:

[3][Provided that nothing in this section affects any option afforded to a claimant by section 179 of the Government of India Act, 1935.]

(3) The Court may further direct by whom all or any part of the costs of such proceedings shall be paid.

Power of High Court to make orders in respect of property vested in Official Trustee.

25. The High Court may make such orders as it thinks fit respecting any trust property vested in the Official Trustee, or in the interest or produce thereof.

Who may apply for order under Act.

26. Any order under this Act may be made, on the application of any person beneficially interested in any trust property or of any trustee thereof.

Order of Court to have effect of a decree.

27. Any order made by a High Court under this Act shall have the same effect as a decree.

General powers of administeration.

28. The Official Trustee may, in addition to and not in derogation of any other powers of expenditure lawfully exercisable by him, incur expenditure—

(b) with the sanction of the High Court on such religious, charitable and other objects and on such improvements as may be reasonable and proper in the case of such property.

Transfer of trust Property by Official Trustee to orginal trustee or any other trustee.

29. (1) Nothing in this Act shall be deemed to prevent the transfer by the Official Trustee of any property vested in him to—

(a) the original trustee (if any); or

(b) any other lawfully appointed trustee; or

(c) any other person if the Court so directs.

(2) Upon such transfer such property shall vest in such trustee, and shall be held by him upon the same trusts as those upon which it was held prior to such transfer, and the Official Trustee shall be exempt from all liability as trustee of such property except in respect of acts done before such transfer:

Provided that, in the case of any transfer under this section, the Official Trustee shall be entitled to retain out of the property any fees leviable in accordance with the provisions of this Act.

Rules.

30. (1) The Government shall make rules for carrying into effect the objects of this Act and for regulating the proceedings of the Official Trustee in the discharge of his duties.

(2) In particular and without prejudice to the generality of the foregoing power, such rules may provide for—

(a) the accounts to be kept by the Official Trustee and the audit and inspection thereof;

(b) the safe custody, and deposit of the funds and securities which come into the hands of the Official Trustee;

(c) the remittance of sums of money in the hands of the Official Trustee in cases in which such remittances are required.

(d) the statements, schedules and other documents to be submitted by the Official Trustee to Government or to any other authority and the publication of such statements, schedules or other documents;

(e) the realization of the cost of preparing any such statements, schedules or other documents;

THE PARSI MARRIAGE AND DIVORCE ACT (III OF 1936).

[Rep. in part by Act XX of 1937 and amended by Act XIV of 1940.]

[23*rd April*, 1936.

An Act to amend the law relating to marriage and divorce among Parsis.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the law relating to marriage and divorce among Parsis It is hereby enacted as follows:—

PRELIMINARY.

Short title, extent and commencement.

1. (1) This Act may be called THE PARSI MARRIAGE AND DIVORCE ACT, 1936.

(2) It extends to the whole of British India and, in respect of Parsi subjects of His Majesty, to the whole of India:

Provided that the Central Government may, in respect of territories in India beyond the limits of British India, by notification in the Official Gazette direct that the provisions of this Act relating to the constitution and powers of Parsi Matrimonial Courts, and to appeals from the decisions and orders of such Courts shall apply with such modifications as may be specified in the notification.

(3) It shall come into force on such date as the Central Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette appoint.

SEC. 1.—The common law of England applies to the Parsis who inhabit the town and island of Bombay. The wife is entitled to pledge her husband's credit and defend herself in any action against her for dissolution of his marriage with her at his cost. The wife's solicitors must secure their costs from the husband before they apply for charging order against her property recovered or preserved in the suit by them. 12 I.C. 554=13 Bom.L.. 920. On this section, see also 13 B. 302 (infant marriage among Parsis); 33 B. 509; 22 B. 430.

SEC. 1 (2) —The effect of S. 1 (2) is to extend the Act even to Native States in India in its application to Parsis, provided that the Parsis are subjects of His Majesty I L R. (1941) B 589=43 Bom.L.R. 569 =1941 Bom. 330. The words "Parsi subjects of His Majesty" in S. 1 (2) refers to the political status of such subjects as opposed to their civil status. The jurisdiction of the Court therefore depends upon the political status of the Parsi subject, i.e., his nationality and allegiance, and not upon his domicil. A mere change of domicile does not in any way change a Parsi's nationality or

Definitions.

2. In this Act, unless there is anything repugnant in the subject or context,—

(1) "Chief Justice" includes senior Judge;

(2) "Court" means a Court constituted under this Act;

(3) to "desert", together with its grammatical variations and cognate expressions, means to desert the other party to a marriage without reasonable cause and without the consent, or against the will, of such party;

(4) "grievous hurt" means—

(a) emasculation:

(b) permanent privation of the sight of either eye;

(c) permanent privation of the hearing of either ear;

(d) privation of any member or joint;

(e) destruction or permanent impairing of the powers of any member or joint;

(f) permanent disfiguration of the head or face; or

(g) any hurt which endangers life;

(5) "husband" means a Parsi husband;

(6) "marriage" means a marriage between Parsis whether contracted before or after the commencement of this Act;

(7) a "Parsi" means a Parsi Zoroastrian;

(8) "priest" means a Parsi priest and includes Dastur and Mobed; and

(9) "wife" means a Parsi wife.

II.—MARRIAGES BETWEEN PARSIS.

Requisites to validity of Parsi marriages.

3. No marriage shall be valid if—

(a) the contracting parties are related to each other in any of the degrees of consanguinity or affinity set forth in Schedule I; or

(b) such marriage is not solemnized according to the Parsi form of ceremony called "Ashirvad" by a priest in the presence of two Parsi witnesses other than such priest; or

(c) in the case of any Parsi (whether such Parsi has changed his or her religion or domicile or not) who has not completed the age of twenty-one years, the consent of his or her father or guardian has not been previously given to such marriage.

SECS. 2 (2) AND 39.—There is a distinct cleavage of functions under the Parsi Marriage and Divorce Act between the presiding Judge of the Court and the delegates who are appointed to aid him in the adjudication of cases. The word "Court" is promiscuously used throughout the Act, but it cannot be read as including the delegates in all cases. Some confusion has crept into the Act by the use of the word "Court" promiscuously, but under the cleavage of functions under the Act, the word must be read in its context in order to determine whether it includes both the Judge and the delegates or the Judge alone. All interlocutory applications such as those under S. 39, are correctly dealt with by the Judge sitting alone, and an order passed in such applications by the Parsi Matrimonial Judge sitting alone without the delegates cannot be said to be a nullity. 40 Bom.L.R. 50=1938 B. 195. SEC. 3.—See 22 B. 430. A Parsi minor who is over 18 and below 21 years of age is competent to maintain a suit for breach of promise of marriage, where the contract of marriage has been made by the minor's guardian and on the minor's behalf and for the minor's benefit. Such a contract is a perfectly valid one and is enforceable in law by the minor. The benefit to the minor need not be pecuniary or proprietary only. 39 Bom.L.R. 486=1937 Bom. 392.

Re-marriage when unlawful.

4. (1) No Parsi (whether such Parsi has changed his or her religion or domicile or not) shall contract any marriage under this Act or any other law in the lifetime of his or her wife or husband, whether a Parsi or not, except after his or her lawful divorce from such wife or husband or after his or her marriage with such wife or husband has lawfully been declared null and void or dissolved, and, if the marriage was contracted with such wife or husband under the Parsi Marriage and Divorce Act, 1865, or under this Act, except after a divorce, declaration or dissolution as aforesaid under either of the said Acts.

(2) Every marriage contracted contrary to the provisions of sub-section (1) shall be void.

Punishment of bigamy.

5. Every Parsi who during the lifetime of his or her wife or husband, whether a Parsi or not, contracts a marriage without having been lawfully divorced from such wife or husband, or without his or her marriage with such wife or husband having legally been declared null and void or dissolved, shall be subject to the penalties provided in sections 494 and 495 of the Indian Penal Code for the offence of marrying again during the lifetime of a husband or wife.

Certificate and registry of marriage.

6. Every marriage contracted under this Act shall, immediately on the solemnization thereof, be certified by the officiating priest in the form contained in Schedule II. The certificate shall be signed by the said priest, the contracting parties, or their fathers or guardians when they shall not have completed the age of twenty-one years, and two witnesses present at the marriage; and the said priest shall thereupon send such certificate together with a fee of two rupees to be paid by the husband to the Registrar of the place at which such marriage is solemnized. The Registrar on receipt of the certificate and fee shall enter the certificate in a register to be kept by him for that purpose and shall be entitled to retain the fee.

Appointment of Registrar.

7. For the purposes of this Act a Registrar shall be appointed Within the local limits of the ordinary original civil jurisdiction of a High Court, the Registrar shall be appointed by the Chief Justice of such Court, and without such limits, by the Provincial Government. Every Registrar so appointed may be removed by the Chief Justice or Provincial Government appointing him.

Marriage register to be open for public inspection.

8. The register of marriages mentioned in section 6 shall, at all reasonable times, be open for inspection, and certified extracts therefrom shall, on application, be given by the Registrar on payment to him by the applicant of two rupees for each such extract. Every such register shall be evidence of the truth of the statements therein contained.

Copy of certificate to be sent to Registrar-General of Birth, Deaths and Marriages.

9. Every Registrar, except the Registrar appointed by the Chief Justice of the High Court of Judicature at Bombay, shall, at such intervals as the Provincial Government by which he was appointed from time to time directs, send to the Registrar-General of Births, Deaths and Marriages for the territories administered by such Provincial Government a true copy certified by him in such form as such Provincial Government from time to time prescribes, of all certificates entered by him in the said register of marriages since the last of such intervals.

Registration of divorces.

10. When a Court passes a decree for divorce, nullity or dissolution, the Court shall send a copy of the decree for registration to the Registrar of Marriages within its jurisdiction appointed under section 7; the Registrar shall enter the same in a register to be kept by him for the purpose, and the provisions of Part II applicable to the Registrars and registers of marriages shall be applicable, so far as may be, to the Registrars and registers of divorces and decrees of nullity and dissolution.

Penalty for solemnizing marriage contrary to section 4.

11. Any priest knowingly and wilfully solemnizing any marriage contrary to and in violation of section 4 shall, on conviction thereof, be punished with simple imprisonment for a term which may extend to six months, or with fine which may extend to two hundred rupees, or with both.

Penalty for priest's neglect of requirements of section 6.

12. Any priest neglecting to comply with any of the requisitions affecting him contained in section 6 shall, on conviction thereof, be punished for every such offence with simple imprisonment for a term which may extend to three months, or with fine which may extend to one hundred rupees, or with both.

Penalty for omitting to subscribe and attest certificate.

13. Every other person required by section 6 to subscribe or attest the said certificate who shall wilfully omit or neglect so to do, shall, on conviction thereof, be punished for every such offence with a fine not exceeding one hundred rupees.

Penalty for making, etc., false certificate.

14. Every person making or signing or attesting any such certificate containing a statement which is false, and which he either knows or believes to be false, shall be punished with simple imprisonment for a term which may extend to three months, or with fine which may extend to one hundred rupees, or with both; and if the act amounts to forgery as defined in the Indian Penal Code, then such person shall also be liable on conviction thereof, to the penalties provided in section 466 of the said Code.

Penalty for failing to register certificate.

15. Any Registrar failing to enter the said certificate pursuant to section 6 shall be punished with simple imprisonment for a term which may extend to one year, or with fine which may extend to one thousand rupees, or with both.

Penalty for secreting, destroying or altering register.

16. Any person secreting, destroying, or dishonestly or fraudulently altering the said register in any part thereof, shall be punished with imprisonment of either description as defined in the Indian Penal Code for a term which may extend to two years, or if he be a Registrar, for a term which may extend to five years and shall also be liable to fine which may extend to five hundred rupees.

Formal irregularity not to invalidate marriage.

17. No marriage contracted under this Act shall be deemed to be invalid solely by reason of the fact that it was not certified under section 6, or that the certificate was not sent to the Registrar, or that the certificate was defective, irregular or incorrect.

III.—PARSI MATRIMONIAL COURTS.

Constitution of Special Courts under the Act.

18. For the purpose of hearing suits under this Act, a special Court shall be constituted in each of the Presidency-towns of Calcutta, Madras and Bombay, and in such other places in the territories of the several Provincial Governments as such Governments respectively shall think fit.

Parsi Chief Matrimonial Courts.

19. The Court so constituted in each of the Presidency-towns shall be entitled the Parsi Chief Matrimonial Court of Calcutta, Madras or Bombay as the case may be. The local limits of the jurisdiction of a Parsi Chief Matrimonial Court shall be conterminous with the local limits of the ordinary original civil jurisdiction of the High Court. The Chief Justice of the High Court, or such other Judge of the same Court as the Chief Justice shall from time to time appoint, shall be the Judge of such Matrimonial Court, and, in the trial of cases under this Act, he shall be aided by seven delegates.

Parsi District Matrimonial Courts.

20. Every Court so constituted at a place other than a Presidency-town shall be entitled the Parsi District Matrimonial Court of such place. Subject to the provisions contained in section 21, the local limits of the jurisdiction of such Court shall be conterminous with the limits of the district in which it is held. The Judge of the principal Court of original civil jurisdiction at such place shall be the Judge of such Matrimonial Court, and in the trial of cases under this Act, he shall be aided by seven delegates.

Power to alter territorial jurisdiction of District Courts.

21. The Provincial Government may from time to time alter the local limits of the jurisdiction of any Parsi District Matrimonial Court, and may include within such limits any number of districts under its Government.

Certain districts to be within jurisdiction of the Chief Matrimonial Courts.

22. Any district which the Provincial Government, on account of the fewness of its Parsi inhabitants, shall deem it inexpedient to include within the jurisdiction of any District Matrimonial Court, shall be included within the jurisdiction of the Parsi Chief Matrimonial Court for the territories under such Provincial Government where there is such a Court.

Court seals.

23. A seal shall be made for every Court constituted under this Act, and all decrees and orders and copies of decrees and orders of such Court shall be sealed with such seal, which shall be kept in the custody of the presiding Judge.

Appointment of delegates.

24. (1) The Provincial Governments shall, in the Presidency-towns and districts subject to their respective Governments, respectively appoint persons to be delegates to aid in the adjudication of cases arising under this Act, after giving the local Parsis an opportunity of expressing their opinion in such manner as the respective Governments may think fit.

(2) The persons so appointed shall be Parsis, their names shall be published in the Official Gazette and their number shall, within the local limits of the ordinary original civil jurisdiction of a High Court, be not more than thirty, and in districts beyond such limits, not more than twenty.

SEC. 20.—No trial under the Act can be satisfactory in which a delegate who is to all intents and purposes a member of a jury, cannot understand the proceedings. 43 I.C. 71. A delegate under the Ast is in a similar position to a juror, and cannot be challenged in appeal. 43 I.C. 71. See also 1938 Bom. 195=40 Bom.L.R. 50.

Power to appoint new delegates.

25. The appointment of a delegate shall be for ten years; but he shall be eligible for reappointment for the like term or terms. Whenever a delegate shall die, or have completed his term of office, or be desirous of relinquishing his office, or refuse or become incapable or unfit to act, or cease to be a Parsi, or be convicted of an offence under the Indan Penal Code or other law for the time being in force, or be adjudged insolvent, then and so often the Provncial Government may appoint any person being a Parsi to be a delegate in his stead; and the name of the person so appointed shall be published in the Official Gazette.

Delegates to be deemed public servants.

26. All delegates appointed under this Act shall be considered to be public servants within the meaning of the Indian Penal Code.

Selection of delegates under sections 19 and 20 to be from those appointed under section 24.

27. The delegates selected under sections 19 and 20 to aid in the adjudication of suits under this Act, shall be taken under the orders of the presiding Judge of the Court in due rotation from the delegates appointed by the Provincial Government under section 24:

Provided that each party to the suit may, without cause assigned challenge any three of the delegates attending the Court before such delegates are selected and no delegate so challenged shall be selected.

Practitioners in Matrimonial Courts.

28. All legal practitioners entitled to practice in a High Court shall be entitled to practise in any Court constituted under this Act, and all legal practitioners entitled to practise in a District Court shall be entitled to practise in any Parsi District Matrimonial Court constituted under this Act.

Court in which suits to be brought.

29. (1) All suits instituted under this Act shall be brought in the Court within the limits of whose jurisdiction the defendant resides at the time of the institution of the suit.

(2) When the defendant shall at such time have left British India such suit shall be brought in the Court at the place where the plaintiff and defendant last resided together.

(3) In any case, whether the defendant resides in British India or not, such suit may be brought in the Court at the place where the plaintiff resides or at the place where the plaintiff and the defendant last resided together, if such Court, after recording its reasons in writing, grants leave so to do.

IV.—MATRIMONIAL SUITS.

30. In any case in which consummation of the marriage is from natural

---

SEC. 29 (3).—The term "resides" is an elastic term and the meaning to be given to it must depend upon the circumstances of the case. It is not essential for the purpose of residence that a person should have a house of his own. If a person resides permanently at a particular place, there can be no doubt that it is his or her residence. But the residence need not necessarily be permanent. It is enough if it is bona fide, with an element of continuity about it; it should not be merely casual or for a temporary or passing purpose. 43 Bom.L.R. 569=I.L.R. (1941) Bom. 589=1941 Bom. 330.

SEC. 30.—In March, 1882, the plaintiff and defendant, Parsis, were married according to the rites and ceremonies of their religion. On October, 1882, the plaintiff attained puberty and for 17 months from that time she lived with the defendant in his parent's house, but there was no consummation of Suits for Dissolution.

31. If a husband or wife shall have been continually absent from his or her wife or husband for the space of seven years, and shall not have been heard of as being alive within that time by those persons who would have naturally heard of him or her, had he or she been alive, the marriage of such husband or wife may, at the instance of either party thereto, be dissolved.

Grounds for divorce.

32. Any married person may sue for divorce on any one or more of the following grounds, namely:—

(a) that the marriage has not been consummated within one year after its solemnization owing to the wilful refusal of the defendant to consummate it;

(b) that the defendant at the time of the marriage was of unsound mind and has been habitually so up to the date of the suit:

the marriage. There was no physical defect in either plaintiff or defendant nor any unwillingness in the plaintiff to consummate the marriage; but the defendant had always entertained such hatred and disgust for the plaintiff as to result, in the opinion of the medical experts, in an incurable impotency in the defendant as regards the plaintiff. The delegates unanimously found, on the evidence, that the consummation of this marriage had from its commencement been impossible; because the defendant was from a physical cause, namely, impotency as regards the plaintiff, unable to effect consummation. They also found that there was no collusion or connivance between the parties. Held, on this finding, that such impotency quoad the plaintiff must be regarded as one of the causes going to make consummation of a marriage impossible under S. 28 of Act XV of 1865, there being nothing in the Act to suggest a contrary opinion. 16 B. 639. See also 17 B. 146 (150).

Under the common law of England, by which the Parsis are governed, an illegitimate child of a parsi male is not legally entitled to claim maintenance from his or her putative father by suit, the only remedy being the statutory remedy provided by S. 488, Cr.P. Code. Apart from this statutory liability, a Parsi putative father cannot be legally held liable to pay maintenance to his illegitimate child. Hence no suit in a Civil Court by the illegitimate child lies for recovery of such maintenance from the putative father. I. L. R. (1943) B. 428=45 Bom.L.R. 687=1943 B. 338.

SEC. 32: SECOND MARRIAGE AFTER THE ACT BUT BEFORE IT CAME INTO OPERATION.—A Parsi residing in Bombay, after the passing of Act XV of 1865, but before it came into operation, contracted a second marriage, during the lifetime of his first wife, from whom he had not been divorced, and whom he, moreover, wilfully deserted for two years. On appeal from an order by the Judge of the Parsi Chief Matrimonial Court, rejecting a plaint for divorce by the first wife, on the ground that the subject-matter of the plaint did not constitute a cause of action, under S. 30 of Act XV of 1865. Held, that the facts alleged in the plaint did not amount to "bigamy coupled with adultery," nor to "adultery coupled with wilful desertion," within the meaning of S. 30 of Act XV of 1865; as a second marriage contracted by a Parsi husband during the lifetime of his first wife, was not unlawful before the Act came into operation; nor did the provisions of the Act in any way affect the validity or the consequences of such a marriage. 3 Bom.H.C.R. (A.C.J.) 113. See also 1936 Bom. 442=60 B. 868=38 Bom. L.R. 836.

PROCEDURE.—In a suit by a husband for divorce under S. 30 of the Parsi Marriage Act, XV of 1865, the defendant, if under the age of 21 years, although more than 18, must be deemed to be a minor, and a guardian for the suit of the defendant must be appointed. 18 B. 366. See also 22 B. 430 (435); 16 B. 136; 18 B. 366; 3 B.H.C. (A.C.) 113; 22 B. 430.

SEC. 32 (b) PROVISO.—The conditions laid down in the proviso to S. 32 (b) are cumulative and both of them have to be fulfilled before a plaintiff can maintain a suit for divorce on the ground that the defendant at the time of the marriage was of unsound mind and has been habitually so up to the date of the suit; the plaintiff must therefore show that he was ignorant of his spouse's unsoundness of mind at the date of the marriage, and secondly, that the suit has been brought within three years, not from the date of his knowledge of his wife's unsoundness but within three years from the date of the marriage. 1938 B. 65=39 Bom. L.R. 1146.

Provided that divorce shall not be granted on this ground, unless the plaintiff (1) was ignorant of the fact at the time of the marriage, and (2) has filed the suit within three years from the date of the marriage;

(c) that the defendant was at the time of marriage pregnant by some person other than the plaintiff:

Provided that divorce shall not be granted on this ground, unless (1) the plaintiff was at the time of the marriage ignorant of the fact alleged, (2) the suit has been filed within two years of the date of marriage, and (3)[1] marital intercourse has not taken place after the plaintiff came to know of the fact;

(d) that the defendant has since the marriage committed adultery or fornication or bigamy or rape or an unnatural offence:

Provided that divorce shall not be granted on this ground, if the suit has been filed more than two years after the plantiff came to know of the fact;

(e) that the defendant has since the marriage voluntarily caused grievous hurt to the plaintiff or has infected the plaintiff with venereal disease or, where the defendant is the husband. has compelled the wife to submit herself to prostitution:

Provided that divorce shall not be granted on this ground if the suit has been filed more than two years (i) after the infliction of the grievous hurt, or (ii) after the plaintiff came to know of the infection, or (iii) after the last act of compulsory prostitution;

(f) that the defendant is undergoing a sentence of imprisonment for seven years or more for an offence as defined in the Indan Penal Code:

Provided that divorce shall not be granted on this ground, unless the defendant has prior to the filing of the suit undergone at least one year's imprisonment out of the said period;

(g) that the defendant has deserted the plaintiff for at least three years;

(h) that a decree or order for judicial separation has been passed against the defendant, or an order has been passed against the defendant by a Magistrate awarding separate maintenance to the plaintiff, and the parties have not had marital intercourse for three years or more since such decree or order;

(i) that the defendant has failed to comply with a decree for restitution of conjugal rights for a year or more; and

(j) that the defendant has ceased to be a Parsi:

Provided that divorce shall not be granted on this ground if the suit has been filed more than two years after the plaintiff came to know of the fact.

SEC. 32 (g).—A wife suing her husband for dissolution of marriage on the ground of desertion under S. 32 (g) has to prove (a) that she has been deserted by the defendant for at least three years, and (b) that she has been deserted without reasonable cause and without her consent or against her will. Desertion under S. 32 (g) read with S. 2 (3) of the Act, in its essence, is the abandonment of one spouse by the other with the intention of breaking off matrimonial relations between them, and thereby bringing the cohabitation to an end. The question of desertion cannot be decided merely by enquiring which party left the matrimonial home first. It is the party who by his or her conduct brings the cohabitation to an end that is guilty of desertion. 1938 Bom. 86=39 Bom.L.R. 1141. A Parsi husband left his wife with his kit after a quarrel evidently with no intention of returning to her. Subsequently he came to an arrangement with her whereby he took his meals and tea with her for a fixed monthly payment, but he never stayed with her to spend his nights nor treated her as his wife. Held, that the husband visited his wife not as her husband but only as a boarder, and hence the desertion by the husband of his wife did not terminate and relation of husband and wife were not revived by the arrangement. 47 Bom.L.R. 819=1946 B. 211.

SEC. 32 (j).—A wife suing her husband for dissolution of marriage on the ground set forth in S. 32 (j) has the burden of proof on her. In order to succeed she must prove that her husband had ceased to be a Joining of co-defendant.

33. In every such suit for divorce on the ground of adultery, the plaintiff shall, unless the Court shall otherwise order, make the person with whom the adultery is alleged to have been committed a co-defendant, and in any such suit by the husband, the Court may order the adulterer to pay the whole or any part of the costs of the proceedings.

Suits for judicial separation.

34. Any married person may sue for judicial separation on any of the grounds for which such person could have filed a suit for divorce, or on the ground that the defendant has been guilty of such cruelty to him or her or their children, or has used such personal violence, or has behaved n such a way as to render it in the judgment of the Court improper to compel him or her to live with the defendant.

Decrees in certain suits.

35. In any suit under section 30, 31, 32 or 34, whether defended or not if the Court be satisfied that any of the grounds set forth in those sections for granting relief exist, that none of the grounds therein set forth for withholding relief exist and that—

(a) the act or omission set forth in the plaint has not been condoned;

(b) the husband and wife are not colluding together;

(c) the plaintiff has not connived at or been accessory to the said act or omission:

(d) (save where a definite period of limitation is provided by this Act) there has been no unnecessary or improper delay in instituting the suit; and

(e) there is no other legal ground why relief should not be granted;

Parsi Zoroastrian and that she has filed the suit within two years after she came to know of the fact that the defendant, her husband, had ceased to be a Parsi. A mere doubt or suspecion will not suffice. It is enough for the plaintiff to prove that her husband had ceased to be a Parsi Zoroastrian during their married lives. It is not necessary to prove that the defendant continues to be a non-Parsi till the date of the suit or for any particular period of time. It is not consequently open to the defendant in such a suit to show that he had become a Parsi Zoroastrian again, either when the suit was filed or before the hearing. 1938 Bom. 68=39 Bom.L.R. 1143.

SEC. 34.—The Bombay High Court, if can grant an order of judicial separation between a Parsi husband and wife. See 38 B. 616=16 Bom.L.R. 211. The Parsi Matrimonial Court has exclusive jurisdiction to entertain suits concerning matrimonial disputes among Parsis. 38 B. 615. On this section, see also 13 Bom.L.R. 920=12 I.C. 554. Adultery of the petitioner is a legal ground on which the Court can refuse the petition for divorce. 10 Bom.L.R. 1019. "Cruelty" in S. 34 means legal cruelty as understood in English law, namely, injury causing danger to life or limb or health, or reasonable apprehension of such injury. Such cruelty need not necessarily be physical violence. It may even consist in a course of harsh conduct pursued by the husband towards his wife or their children, and also vice versa by the wife; and even a single act of gross cruelty may be enough to constitute legal cruelty, if it is such as to lead to a reasonable apprehension of further acts of cruelty towards the aggrieved party. I. L.R. (1938) Bom. 75=1938 Bom. 81=39 Bom. L.R. 1138. In order to constitute a ground for judicial separation there must be not merely improper behaviour, but behaviour of such a nature as to make it improper for husband and wife to live together in future. What has to be considered is the course of conduct of the parties towards each other during their married lives and whether the plaintiff has shown just and lawful grounds not only for living separately from his or her spouse, but for asking for a decree of the Court for judicial separation. It is not enough to say merely that it would not be possible for the parties to live happily together hereafter. The Court has to be satisfied that the causes of disagreement between the husband and wife are grave and weighty, and such as to show an absolute moral impossibility that the duties of married life can be discharged. In determining what is moral impossibility the Court should take into consideration the feelings and customs of the community to which the parties belong. I.L.R. (1938) Bom. 75=39 Bom. L.R. 1138=1938 Bom. 81.

then and in such case, but not otherwise, the Court shall decree such relief accordingly.

Suit for restitution of conjugal rights.

36. Where a husband shall have deserted or without lawful cause ceased to cohabit with his wife, or where a wife shall have deserted, or without lawful cause ceased to cohabit with her husband, the party so deserted or with whom cohabitation shall have so ceased may sue for the restitution of his or her conjugal rights and the Court, if satisfied of the truth of the allegations contained in the plaint, and that there is no just ground why relief should not be granted, may proceed to decree such restitution of conjugal rights accordingly.

Counter-claim by defendant for any relief.

37. In any suit under this Act, the defendant may make a counter-claim for any relief he or she may be entitled to under this Act.

No suit to be brought to enforce marriage or contract arising out of marriage when husband is under sixteen years or wife under fourteen years.

38. Notwithstanding anything hereinbefore contained no suit shall be brought in any Court to enforce any marriage or any contract connected with or arising out of any marriage, if, at the date of the institution of the suit the husband shall not have completed the age of sixteen years, or the wife shall not have completed the age of fourteen years.

Alimony pendente lite.

39. In any suit under thsi Act if the wife shall not have an independent income sufficient for her support and the necessary expenses of the suit, the Court, on the application of the wife, may order the husband to pay her monthly or weekly during the suit such sum not exceeding one fifth of her husband's net income as the Court, considering the circumstances of the parties, shall think reasonable.

SEC. 36.—See 2 Bom.L.R. 845. A decree for restitution of conjugal rights under the Act is enforceable only in the manner provided in S. 36 of the Act; such provision is in substitution of, and not in addition to, the ordinary remedies provided by the Code of Civil Procedure. 9 Bom.H.C.R. (A.C.J.) 290.

SEC. 39.—S. 39 applies merely to orders pending the suit and the payments are merely payments during the suit. It does not limit or qualify the liability of the husband to the wife's solicitors. 12 I.C. 554=13 Bom.L.R. 920. The table of fees of the High Court contemplates merely party costs between the parties to a Parsi Matrimonial suit and does not relate to the rights of the wife's solicitors to recover their attorney and client's costs from the husband. 13 Bom.L.R. 920. A wife sued her husband for judicial separation in the Parsi Matrimonial Court. Alimony was ordered to be paid by an order dated 11th July, 1891, which directed the defendant to pay alimony to her from the 15th April, 1891, "until the final decree herein be passed." On the 18th July, 1891, the suit was dismissed, and after that date the defendant ceased to pay alimony. The plaintiff obtained a rule for review of judgment, which was discharged on the 27th January, 1892, and on the 18th March, 1892, she filed an appeal against the decree dismissing the suit and against the order refusing a review. She now applied for an order directing the defendant to pay her all the arrears of alimony "pendente lite" from the date of filing the suit or so much as had not been paid, and further alimony until the disposal of the appeal. Held, dismissing the application, that the words "final decree herein" in the order of the 11th July, 1891, by which alimony was granted, meant the decree in the suit and not in the appeal, that the Parsi Matrimonial Court constituted under Act XV of 1865 had no power to award alimony "pendente lite" after decree and pending appeal and that an unsuccessful wife is not entitled to claim alimony after final decree and pending appeal, nor for the period during which she is seeking review of judgment. 17 B. 146. Whether a Court where a petition for review is pending before it has a discretion to allow or continue alimony "pendente lite", see 17 B. 146. The words "during the suit" in S. 33 of Act XV of 1865 include the period up to the making of a final or absolute decree. Ellis v. Ellis, 8 P.D. 188 and Dunn v. Dunn, 13 P.D. 91, should guide the practice of the Parsi Matrimonial Court in allotment of alimony for the time following a decree nisi. 17 B. 146. Permanent alimony.

40. (1) The Court may, if it shall think fit at the time of passing any decree under this Act or subsequently thereto on application made to it for the purpose, order that the husband shall [1][while the wife remains chaste and unmarried]—

(a) to the satisfaction of the Court, secure to the wife [2][* *] such gross sum or such monthly or periodical payment of money for a term not exceeding her life as, having regard to her own property, if any, her husband's ability and the conduct of the parties, shall be deemed just, and for that purpose may require a proper instrument to be executed by all necessary parties and suspend the pronouncing of its decree until such instrument shall have been duly executed, or

(b) make such monthly payments to the wife for her maintenance and support as the Court may think reasonable.

In case any such order shall not be obeyed by her husband, it may be enforced in the manner provided for the execution of decrees and orders under the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908, and further the husband may be sued by any person supplying the wife with necessaries during the time of such disobedience for the price of such necessaries.

(2) The Court, if satisfied that there is a change in the circumstances of either party at any time, may at the instance of either party vary, modify or rescind such order in such manner as the Court may deem just.

[3][(3) Where an order for alimony or maintenance in favour of a wife has been made either under the provisions of the Parsi Marriage and Divorce Act, 1865, or under the provisions of this Act, the Court, if satisfied that the wife has re-married or has not remained chaste, shall vary or rescind the order.]

Payment of alimony to wife or to her trustee.

41. In all cases in which the Court shall make any decree or order for alimony it may direct the same to be paid either to the wife herself, or to any trustee on her behalf to be approved by the Court, and may impose any terms or restrictions which to the Court may seem expedient, and may from time to time appoint a new trustee, if for any reason it shall appear to the Court expedient so to do.

Disposal of joint property.

43. In any suit under this Act the Court may make such provisions in the final decree as it may deem just and proper with respect to property presented at or about the time of marriage which may belong jointly to both the husband and wife.

Suits may be heard with closed doors.

43. In every suit preferred under this Act, the case shall be tried with closed doors should such be the wish of either of the parties.

A Parsi wife is incompetent to enter into a contract with her husband after the dissolution of marriage, giving up her claim to future alimony. Such a contract is contrary to public policy and is null and void. An order passed on such consent by the wife giving up her claim to future alimony would not also bind the wife and it does not require to be set aside, before the wife can claim future alimony under S. 40. 47 Bom.L.R. 514=1945 B. 537. Provisions of Civil Procedure Code to apply to suits under the Act.

45. The provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908, shall, so far as the same may be applicable, apply to proceedings in suits instituted under this Act including proceedings in execution and orders subsequent to decree.

Determination of question of law and procedure and of fact.

46. In suits under this Act all questions of law and procedure shall be determined by the presiding Judge; but the decision on the facts shall be the decision of the majority of the delegates before whom the case is tried:

Provided that, where such delegates are equally divided in opinion, the decision on the facts shall be the decision of the presiding Judge.

Appeal to High Court.

47. An appeal shall lie to the High Court from—

(a) the decision of any Court established under this Act, whether a Chief Matrimonial Court or District Matrimoinal Court, on the ground of the decision being contrary to some law or usage having the force of law, or of a substantial error or defect in the procedure or investigation of the case which may have produced error or defect in the decision of the case upon the merits, and on no other ground; and

SEC. 45: WIFE'S COSTS IN MATRIMONIAL SUITS.—Under the Common Law, the wife is entitled to pledge her husband's credit and defend herself at his cost in any action that he may file against her for dissolution of his marriage with her. It is not necessary that the wife should be successful in the proceedings. The costs of the wife payable by the husband are not limited to the amount paid into the Court or secured by the husband for that purpose. Settlement of wife's property for benefit of children.

50. In any case in which the Court shall pronounce a decree of divorce or judicial separation for adultery of the wife, if it shall be made to appear to the Court that the wife is entitled to any property either in possession or reversion, the Court may order such settlement as it shall think reasonable to be made of any part of such property, not exceeding one half thereof, for the benefit of the children of the marriage or any of them.

VI.—MISCELLANEOUS.

Superintendence of High Court.

51. The High Court shall have superintendence over all Courts constituted under this Act subject to its appellate jurisdiction in the same manner as it has over other Courts under section 107 of the Government of India Act, and all the provisions of that section shall apply to such Courts.

Applicability of provisions of the Act.

52. (1) The provisions of this Act shall apply to all suits to which the same are applicable whether the circumstances relied on occurred before or after the passing of this Act, and whether any decree or order referred to was passed under this Act or under the law in force before the passing of this Act, and where any proceedings are pending in any Court at the time of the commencement of this Act, the Court shall allow such amendment of the pleadings as may be necessary as the result of the coming into operation of this Act.

(2) A Parsi who has contracted a marriage under the Parsi Marriage and Divorce Act, 1865, or under this Act, even though such Parsi may change his or her religion or domicile, so long as his or her wife or husband is alive and so long as such Parsi has not been lawfully divorced from such wife or husband or such marriage has not lawfully been declared null and void or dissolved under the decree of a competent Court under either of the said Acts, shall remain bound by the provisions of this Act.

LEG. REF.

[1] The word "and" at the end of sub-S. (2) and sub-S. (3) repealed by Act X of 1914, S. (3) and Sch. II.

SEC. 1: GENERAL.—A suit for partition determines the shares of the co-sharers inter se. 17 C.W.N. 128. The existence of unity of title and of unity of possession is a necessary condition for the maintainability of a suit for partition. 10 Cut.L.T. 66. Decree for partition can be passed in spite of previous partition if the previous one does not conform to the shares of parties. 29 C.W.N. 229=1925 C. 425. In the case of joint property, the presumption is that it is liable to be partitioned. 39 P.L.R. 876. In partition cases, the rights and claims of each party in the matter of possession and improvements effected should be taken into consideration, and possession should be maintained in an equitable manner. 18 Lah.L.T. 10. Preliminary decree for partition—Form and contents. See I.L.R. (1941) 2 Cal. 410=1942 Cal. 300. The most ordinary method when one co-sharer has put up buildings on the land is to allot to him for his share a portion of the land which contains his building. When this cannot be done or would not be fair, it may nevertheless be unreasonable and unnecessary to treat such co-sharer exactly as the others. 41 C.W.N. 613=39 Bom.L.R. 748=1937 P.C. 61=(1937) 2 M.L.J. 114 (P.C.). A partition of property can always be made by oral agreement; if the terms of the partition are reduced to writing then the document must be registered; but there is no necessity for any writing whatever in carrying out a partition. (6 L.B.R. 170 and 1931 Cal. 223, Foll.) 164 I.C. 392=1936 Rang. 336. Where it is a part of the arrangement between the parties that a deed of partition should be executed in terms of a partition made orally between them, the oral agreement, so long as the deed is not executed, is not complete so as to be binding upon them. 1936 O.W.N. 1162=1937 Oudh 53. The general rule is that a suit for partition must embrace all the joint properties. But there are certain recognised exceptions to this rule. One of them is that where properties are held jointly by all the co-sharers jointly with strangers who cannot conveniently be added as parties to the suit for partition between members of the joint family, such joint properties should be excluded from partition as forming an exception to the general rule. 40 C.W.N. 1237. A suit for partition of common properties, and not joint properties, is not liable to be dismissed on the ground that the suit does not include all the common properties available for partition. In the case of tenants-in-common or in a case where an award has taken place between several persons, a person who files a suit to enforce the award is not bound to include each and every property that is given under the award. The rule against partial partition which applies to the case of a joint Hindu family does not apply to the case of tenants-in-common, especially when there has been an award by which rights have been created in favour of the parties in specific properties. 41 Bom.L.R. 170=1939 Bom. 114. Apart from the Act, the Court has an inherent power to refuse to divide the property by metes and bounds and to adopt such other means as may appear equitable for effecting a just partition. 1932 M. 15=34 L.W. 730=61 M.L.J. 552. Partition of a house, with a single latrine left for common use. See 17 C.P.L.R. 45. On this section, see also 52 P.W.R. 1907; 1 I.C. 697. The ordinary rule is that a suit for partition must embrace all joint properties owned by the parties thereto. But there is also the complementary rule that a suit for partition cannot include properties in which each of the parties does not claim an interest. 40 P.L.R. 767=1939 Lah. 34. A previous partition for convenience of possession by itself cannot stand in the way of a decree for partition so long as it is not found that it was in conformity with the shares of the respective parties. (21 C.W.N. 229, Rel. on.) 43 C.W.N. 181=69 C.L.J. 527. The partition proceedings require that the partition should be chakbat as far as possible; but if other considerations are more important, the necessity of compactness of the chaks will have to be waived. 1940 R.D. 441=1940 A.W.R. (B.R.) 216. Where there is bitter dispute between groups of co-sharers it is desirable that the plots should be divided up and allotted. The fact that such a course would result in the formation of patties of very small area should not by itself be treated as a ground for refusal of a partition. 1938 R.D. 869. No doubt in a partition suit every party, whether arrayed as a plaintiff or as a defendant, is substantially a plaintiff in the suit and is entitled to a decree, and he can move the Court, on payment of the proper stamp duty, to take steps to put him in possession of the share allotted to him. But if the Court merely passes a final decree in favour of the plaintiffs and directs that they be put in possession of their shares without allotting shares to the defendants, the latter cannot ask that a decree sheet be prepared and on payment of the requisite stamp duty they may be put in possession of the shares allotted to them. Before doing so, they must apply for an amendment of the decree so as to direct that they also be put in possession of their shares. 42 P. L.R. 148=1940 Lah. 202. A partition necessarily affects the interest of a mortgagee of an undivided share, since after the partition his security is upon the divided share or the separate allotment. He may be prejudiced if that share does not receive a proper allotment in severalty, and it is not for the benefit of all other persons interested in the joint property that he should be bound by the allotment. Hence it will in general meet the case if he is allowed to attend and be heard at that stage at which the making of a proper allotment is effected. If, however, the mortgagee has proceeded to a sale pending partition, the purchaser will become a necessary party to the partition suit. I.L.R. (1940) 1 Cal. 255=67 I.A. 11=44 C.W.N. 233=42 Bom.L.R. 331=1940 P.C. 11=(1940) 1 M.L.J. 97 (P.C.). Where in a suit for partition a preliminary decree was passed, the fact that an appeal had been preferred from that decree does not oust the jurisdiction of the trial Court to entertain a petition of compromise and an application for permission to compromise on behalf of the minor defendants. A partition suit in which a preliminary decree has been passed must be deemed to be pending until the passing of the final decree. 12 Luck. 260=1936 Oudh 320. A partition suit in which a preliminary decree has been passed is still a pending suit and the rights of parties who are added after the preliminary decree have to be adjusted at the time of final decree. 67 I.A. 11=I.L.R. (1940) 1 Cal. 255=44 C.W.N. 233=1940 P.C. 11=(1940) 1 M.L.J. 97 (P.C.). If the shares of the defendants are not defined in the preliminary decree, nor is there anything on the record to show that it was intended at any time to define and separate them it is not open to the Court to go beyond the terms of the preliminary decree while framing the final decree and determine the shares of the defendants also. 1944 M.L.R. 102 (Civ.). The Court should direct their partition in the suit itself and give the plaintiff and such of the defandants who may so desire separate allotments of their shares. 48 C.W.N. 759=1044 F.L.J. 231=1944 Cal. 421. An order dismissing a partition suit in default after a preliminary decree has been passed is illegal. The Court cannot, however, ignore that order and take further proceedings in the suit, unless it is set aside in due course of law. An order appointing a commissioner to effect partition cannot be deemed to be tantamount to an order setting aside the dismissal of the suit in default. 162 I.C. 412=1936 Lah. 875. The costs mentioned in the partition proceedings are only an estimate and the liability arises on the date the partition is actually confirmed. The person whose name stands in the khewat on that date is liable in respect of it. 1940 A.W.R. (B.R.) 199=1940 O. W.N. 1043. See also 40 C.W.N. 1237. Where there is discrepancy between the partition papers consisting of the chitta and the dole on the one hand and the partition map on the other, the rule that is to be followed is that the partition papers should prevail over the map in as much as the map simply purports to delineate the plots that are allotted to the co-sharers by the partition papers. 46 C.W.N. 509. Where two persons jointly purchased land but one of them advanced more than his half-share of the purchase-money on the promise of the other person to pay the excess amount, the latter cannot have partition and possession of his half-share without paying the excess amount to the other. 22 L.W. 782=1926 M. 186. Mines—Difficulty and expense of valuation no fround for refusal of partition. 23 Pat. 115=1944 Pat. 261. The fact that property to be partitioned is under attachment under S. 146, Criminal Procedure Code, is no reason why the Commissioner's discretion in making allotments should be fettered. 23 Pat. 115=1944 Pat. 261. Suit for partition—Forum—Land bearing specific number in a khata khewat and assessed to land revenue—It could be partitioned only by the Revenue Court. 1944 A. L.W. 292. What amounts to partition—Award directing a partition, if a partition deed—Stamp duty. See 101 I.C. 401. As to the method of the preparation of accounts by Commissioner appointed for partition, see I.L.R. (1941) 2 Cal. 410=1941 Cal. 300. Receiver's accounts. 1942 Cal. 300.

CONSTRUCTION OF ACT.—The Partition Act must be construed strictly. 1929 A.L.J. 651 =1929 A. 443.

Power to Court to order sale instead of division in partition suits.

2. Whenever in any suit for partition in which, if instituted prior to the commencement of this Act, a decree for partition might have been made, it apepars to the Court that, by reason of the nature of the property to which the suit relates, or of the number of the shareholders therein or of any other special circumstance, a division of the property cannot reasonably or conveniently be made and that a sale of the property, and distribution of the proceeds would be more beneficial for all the shareholders, the Court may, if it thins fit, on the request of any of such shareholders interested individually or collectively to the extent of one moiety or upwards, direct a sale of the property and a distribution of the proceeds.

SECS. 1 (4) AND 2.—Where a mortgagee right in a zamindari property is sought to be partitioned the party to the suit, owning at least a moiety, can request the Court to have the property sold to the highest bidder and to distribute the sale proceeds amongst the sharers. 35 A. 387=19 I.C. 651=11 A.L.J. 534.

SEC. 2: APPLICABILITY—"REQUEST" MEANING OF.—S. 2 authorises the Court to apply S. 2 only on the previous request of the parties. The consent of parties must appear in the record prior to judgment. 1942 N.L.J. 134. Where the request made by the co-sharer is that a sale may be held and that whoever among the co-sharers offers the highest bid may be given the property, the request does not amount to a request under S. 2, and so the provisions of the Act do not apply. 1929 A.L.J. 651=1929 A. 443. Where, on the report of the Official Commissioner recommending a sale, notice is issued to all the parties and the sale is held, it should not be set aside for want of a requisition under S. 2 of the Act, if it is valid otherwise. 142 I.C. 461=1933 S. 40. As to allowing 5 per cent. of purchase-money as solatium to auction-purchaser on setting aside sale, see 1933 S. 40. In the absence of a finding that a division of the property cannot reasonably or conveniently be made, action cannot be taken under S. 2 of the Partition Act. 36 P.L.R. 258=1934 L. 965. "Moiety"—meaning of. See 1930 Cal. 616=52 C.L.J. 68 =131 I.C. 264.

SCOPE.—Where a suit for partition of property situated in business area of a town is instituted, a prayer that the partition should take place according to the Partition Act can be made at any stage of the litigation where the parties own more than a moiety of the property in dispute. 1930 L. 639. Shareholders of different grades may sue for partition, because the right of partition exists when two persons are in joint possession of land under permanent titles though those titles may not be identical. A shareholder, however small, may sue for partition of the entire property. But an application under S. 2 contemplates a somewhat different set of circumstances. There may be partition as between persons possessing one moiety of the property in the zemindari right and other persons possessing the other moiety in permanent tenancy right. But if there is an application by the tenants representing only the tenant's interest, it would be anomalous if that would give them a right to have a direction from the Court for the sale of the entire property, even though the zamindars were not willing. 52 C.L.J. 68 =1930 C. 616. A claim by a co-owner to partition of a party wall cannot ordinarily be resisted, even where the claim causes inconveinence and difficulty of partition. In the case of a party wall, it is impracticable to take any action under S. 2, Partition Act 1934 L. 893=155 I.C. 223.

IRREGULARITY IN PROCEEDING—De novo PROCEEDINGS—PROCEDURE.—Where partition proceedings are badly drawn up, they may be quashed and proceedings started de novo, but there should be as little disturbance as possible of any agreement or orders passed in the prior proceedings. 18 R.D. 6=11 O.W.N. 94.

MORTGAGE BY JOINT OWNER PRIOR TO PARTITION—RIGHTS OF MORTGAGEE.—Where the property is joint at the time of the execution of a mortgage by a joint owner, he could only mortgage his undivided share in the property, and such a right is always subject to the right of the other co-owners to effect a partition, and when such partition is carried out, the mortgagee can only enforce his rights against such property as falls to the share of his mortgagor unless he can show that the partition was fraudulent. It is not essential that the mortgagee should have been made a party to the partition proceedings. 1934 L. 809=16 L. 392.

PARTITION DECREE—DELIVERY OF POSSESSION.—In execution of a final decree for partition, A's share was delivered, but it was found that A could not get actual possession of his share as some huts belonging to other co-sharers were standing on it: Held, that Court's order for a fresh delivery of possession by removing the huts was within jurisdiction. 38 C.W.N. 832=1934 C. 793.

SUIT FOR PARTITION,—DUTY OF COURT.—In a suit for partition, it is not incumbent on

3. (1) If, in any case in which the Court is requested under the last fore-

the Court to effect a partition of the property only if the parties are to abide by the partition or agree to the appointment of a particular person as a local commissioner. 36 P.L.R. 258=1934 L. 965.

SUIT FOR PARTITION—RIGHTS OF DEFENDANTS inter se—IF SHOULD BE DECIDED.—It is no doubt usual in partition suits to decide the shares of all the parties. But where the defendants agreed to have a preliminary decree being passed in favour of the plaintiff for partition of his share without their rights being decided, and the preliminary decree was not appealed against, it is not open to the defendants in subsequent proceedings to contend that their rights inter se should have been decided. 36 P.L.R. 112=1934 L. 872.

SUBSEQUENT EVENTS.—As to power of Court to take into consideration, see 1933 S. 371.

SECS. 2 AND 3: SCOPE AND APPLICATION.—S. 3 comes into play only when a sale has been applied for under S. 2 by a shareholder or shareholders interested to the extent of at least one-half of the property. It is at that stage and before the sale is actually ordered that the right to apply, for leave to buy at a valuation can be exercised under S. 3. But that can be done only by a shareholder other than the large shareholder who applied for sale under S. 2. The effect, curiously enough, is to favour the smaller shareholder at the expense of the larger and that explains why Ss. 2 and 3 have been so strictly construed by the Courts. If a sale is directed under S. 2 and S. 3 does not apply either because the application was not of the nature, or the applicant was not the one specified in the section, then the sale is governed by S. 6, and shareholders and strangers alike may bid at the sale. 34 L.W. 730=61 M.L.J. 552. The provisions of the Act apply to the stage at which the suit is in the Court of first instance. 1923 A 293 (1). The principle underlying S. 2 is that partition ought not to be made, if by partition the intrinsic value of the property would be destroyed. 103 I.C. 367=1927 A. 686. The sale which a Court directing partition can order under the section is only of a complete share, and not a mere portion thereof. 91 I.C. 1009=1926 O. 230. An appellate Court can order sale of property, when the partitioning is inconvenient, provided objection was taken to the mode of partitioning in the trial Court and the mode suggested by the party was disallowed. 33 I.C. 810=14 A.L.J. 35. See also 5 C.W.N. 128; 24 M. 639; 32 B. 103. If any party to a decree for partition finds it inconvenient in actual practice, it is open to him to apply under S. 2 of the Act. 20 A.L..J 90=1922 A. 185. See 1924 L. 325; 3 Lah.L.J. 102=1921 L. 160 (1)=66 I.C. 885. The proper time to apply under S. 3 is before the Court makes an order under S. 2 and after the request had been made by one of the parties that the property should be sold. 48 M. 920 =49 M.L.J. 411=1925 M. 1234=91 I.C. 516. "Such shareholder" occurring in the latter part of S. 3 (1) must necessarily mean the shareholder who applied for leave to buy. 48 M. 920. See also 91 I.C. 516 =1925 M. 1234. Consent order directing sale—Subsequent application claiming to buy property at a valuation—S. 3, if applicable. See 91 I C. 516=1925 M. 1234. In a suit by plaintiff for purchase of defendant's share at a valuation by Court, defendant has the option of asking the Court that the plaintiff's share may be sold to him at a valuation fixed by the Court. 97 I.C. 690=1926 C. 1190. Dwelling-house—Reasonably or conveniently partitioned—Application for withdrawal of suit. 47 I.C. 905=16 A.L. J. 584 If, in a suit for partition, there are two parcels of land, one capable of partition, and the other not so capable, the Court can order the sale of the latter. But an order directing the sale of one of the allotments obtained after partition is not within Ss. 2 and 9 of the Act. 49 C. 1043 =36 C.L.J. 217=1923 C. 221. Order for sale—When inappropriate. 96 P.R. 1916 =34 I.C. 587. Any of the parties consenting to a sale under the Act may withdraw his consent, but the withdrawal must be made before the order for sale is made. 62 I.C. 430=13 L.W. 429. Suit for partition—Consent order directing sale—Subsequent application claiming to buy property at a valuation—S. 3 if applies to the case. 48 M. 920=49 M.L.J. 411.

SECS. 2 AND 4.—Unless there is an application under S. 2 or 4 of the Partition Act, the Court has no jurisdiction to impose a forced sale upon the members of a family. If the Court orders a sale without there being an application under S. 2 or without fixing the valuation of the share as required by S. 4, then its order is without jurisdiction rendering it liable to be set aside in revision by the High Court. 1944 Mad. 428=(1944) 1 M.L.J. 296. Where the passage in a dweling-house giving access to the rooms of different co-sharers must perforce be left joint, the property is not susceptible of partition by metes and bounds. 24 I.C. 273 (1)=7 S.L.R. 117. A co-sharer who applies for sale of the property has no right to buy up the shares of other co-shares; the right to buy out is vested in other co-sharers who have not applied for sale. 24 I.C. 273.

SEC. 3.—See under S. 2. Where two or more co-sharers apply for leave to buy the going section to direct a sale, any other shareholder applies for leave to buy at a valuation the share or shares of the party or parties asking for a sale, the Court shall order a valuation of the share or shares in such manner as it may think fit and offer to sell the same to such shareholder at the price so ascertained, and may give all necessary and proper directions in that behalf.

Procedure when sharer undertakes to buy.

(2) If two or more shareholders severally apply for leave to buy as provided in sub-section (1), the Court shall order a sale of the share or shares to the shareholder who offers to pay the highest price above the valuation made by the Court.

(3) If no such shareholder is willing to buy such share or shares at the price so ascertained, the applicant or applicants shall be liable to pay all costs of or incident to the application or a plications.

Partition suit by transferee of share in dwelling-house.

4 (1) Where a share of a dwelling-house belonging to an undivided family has been transferred to a person who is not a member of such family and such transferee sues for partition, the Court shall, if any member of the family being a shareholder shall undertake to buy the share of such transferee, make a valuation of such share in such manner as it thinks fit and direct the sale of such share to such shareholder, and may give all necessary and proper directions in that behalf.

property, the procedure laid down in S. 3 (2) of the Act must be followed. 103 I.C. 367=1927 A. 686. Court is not authorized to hold a public auction. 40 C.W.N. 955.

SEC. 3 (2).—In order to attract the provisions of S. 3 (2), the application to buy must be made by more than one shareholder as provided in sub-clause (1), that is to say, those shareholders must necessarily be other than the one referred to in S. 2 who had originally made the application asking for a direction of the Court to sell the property and to distribute the proceeds. But if there are only two shareholders, one of whom had applied under S. 2, the other can apply under S. 3 (1) to buy the property at Court valuation. S. 3 (2) has no application to such a case. 45 P.L.R. 419=1944 L. 32.

SEC. 4: CONDITIONS TO BE FULFILLED FOR APPLICATION OF S. 4.—S. 4 should be liberally construed. I.L.R. (1937) Nag. 73=19 N.L.J. 241=1937 Nag. 4. For the application of S. 4, four conditions ought to be fulfilled: (1) The house should be owned by an undivided family; (2) the share of a co-sharer should have been transferred to a stranger to the family; (3) the purchaser should have sued for partition; and (4) a member of the family being a shareholder claims or undertakes to buy the share of the stranger transferee 119 I.C. 523=1929 A. 414. See also 34 L.W. 730 =1932 M. 15=61 M.L.J. 552. S. 4, will apply even to a house, a portion of which is already separated owing to one member selling his interest in it. 119 I.C. 523=1929 A. 414. The fact that the purchaser of a share of a dwelling house belonging to an undivided family is not a member of that family is quite sufficient to bring him within the ambit of S. 4 of the Act, although he may be related to the members of that family by blood and may even be an immediate neighbour. 50 C.W.N. 450. The operation of S. 4 comes into play after it is found that a stranger transferee is entitled to partition. In fact no order can be passed under the Act before such a transferee establishes his claim. 90 I.C. 121=1926 C. 95; 39 A. 672=41 I.C. 867. See also 15 C.W.N. 555 (Note)=11 I.C. 370. S. 4, lays upon the Court the duty of fixing the valuation of the share which the shareholder purposes to buy in, in such manner as it thinks fit and then to order the sale accordingly. Where an application is made under S. 4 of the Act, the value of the share to be bought in must be fixed by the Court and cannot be put up to auction. 1944 M. 428=(1944) 1 M.L.J. 296. The section must be strictly construed. 15 C. W.N. 555 (Note). See also 1937 Nag. 4. The object of S. 4 is to enable the members to buy out an outsider who is a transferee from one of the co-sharers. Ordinarily an application of this kind would be made before a preliminary decree is passed. 46 B. 341=23 Bom.L.R. 1083=1922 B. 121. See also 12 C.L.J. 525; 7 C.L.J. 98. An application under S. 4 can be made at any stage of a suit even in an appellate Court; a party in a partition suit whether a plaintiff or a defendant is at the same time a plaintiff as well as a defendant. This dual capacity of a party in a partition suit does not preclude even a defendant who claims a share in the dwellinghouse from being treated as plaintiff for purposes of S. 4. 49 C. L.J. 136=116 I.C. 161=1929 C. 269. See also I.L.R. (1937) N. 73=1937 N. 4

(2) If in any case described in sub-section (1) two or more members of the family being such shareholders severally undertake to buy such share, the Court shall follow the procedure prescribed by sub-section (2) of the last foregoing section.

(word 'sons' interpreted). See also 1943 Pesh. 79. It may be made even after a preliminary decree in the suit. 45 C. 873 =22 C.W.N. 515; 1943 Pesh. 79=209 I. C. 557. The transferee of a share in an divided property is entitled under S. 44, Transfer of Property Act, to his transferor's right to joint possession or other common or part enjoyment of the property in all cases except where the subject matter of the transfer is a share of a dwelling-house belonging to an undivided family of which he (the transferor) is not a member in which case he is not entitled to joint possession or other common or part enjoyment of the property but is entitled to a partition of the property which, however, must be denied to him under S. 4, Partition Act, in the event of a member of the family being a shareholder undertaking to buy the share of the transferee. 1940 Rang. 53. Option of purchase given under this section is not taken away by the preliminary decree. 1922 C. 129. See also 12 C.L.J. 525; 45 C. 873. S. 4 refers to cases where a share of a dwelling-house belonging to an undivided family has been transferred to a person who is not a member of such a family the principle being that property must so far as possible be left in the possession of the person in occupation. 73 I.C. 748. "Family," meaning of. See 12 C.L.J. 525=7 I C. 436; 40 I.C. 577. The expression "undivided family" means an undivided family whether Hindu, Mohamedan, Christian or Buddhist, etc. (30 All. 324, Rel. on.) 187 I.C. 844=1940 Rang. 53. See also 1939 A. 640. Undivided family in S. 4 means a family which is undivided qua the dwelling-house in question. 190 I.C. 117=1941 P. 4. "Undivided family," meaning of—"Family"—"Dwelling-house." See 109 I.C. 67=1928 C. 539; 9 O.C. 166. "Dwelling-house belonging to an undivided family"—What is. See 4 A.L.J. 209=29 A. 308. The words "undivided family" in S. 4 must be taken to mean undivided qua the dwelling-house in question and to be a family which owns the house but has not divided it. To attract S. 4 the transfer should be to a person who does not jointly own the house with the transferor. Consequently, where a Mahomedan owning a house jointly with his brothers transfers a share in the house to his wife, the brothers are entitled to offer to buy the share transferred as the wife must be deemed to be a stranger within S. 4. 209 I.C. 557=1943 Pesh. 79. "Dwelling-house" in S. 4 includes the land and appurtenances which are ordinarily and reasonably necessary for its enjoyment. The section is not inapplicable for portions of houses left undivided. 190 I.C. 117. The Court must make a valuation of such land and appurtenances also, if any. 18 Pat.L.T. 866= 1937 P.W.N 902=1938 Pat. 13. The expression "dwelling-house belonging to an undivided family" appearing in S. 4, Partition Act, has been borrowed from S. 44, Transfer of Property Act, and bears the same meaning. The word 'family' includes a group of persons related in blood, who live in one house under one head or management and it is not restricted to a body of persons who can trace their descent from a common ancestor. 1940 Rang. 53. Section also applies to Muhammadan family. See 30 A. 324=5 A.L.J. 352; 38 Bom.L.R. 261= 162 I.C. 941=1936 B. 197. The mere fact that the co-sharers own and live in separate huts on the homestead which remains 'unpartitioned' does not prevent their dwelling-house from being "a dwelling-house belonging to an undivided family" within the meaning of S. 4 of the Act. 50 C.W.N. 450. The term "undivided family" has not been used in a technical sense and is applicable to Hindus and Mahomedans alike and must be held to have much the same meaning as the words "undivided family" in cl. (2), S. 44, T. P. Act. 119 I.C. 523=1929 A. 414. See also 1936 L. 291. It is not restricted to joint Hindu family divided in status and possessed of a dwelling-house which has not been actually divided or partitioned among the members of the family. 53 M. 417=1930 M. 561=58 M.L.J. 341; 97 I.C. 416. It means undivided qua the property sought to be divided and a family owning it without dividing the same. 30 I. C. 936=9 S.L.R. 84. It is sufficient if the parties are co-owners, whether as joint tenants or tenants-in-common. 30 I.C. 936 (30 A. 324, Ref.). A Court of Appeal is as much entitled to pass an order under the section as a trial Court. It can do so even after the records are sent back to the trial Court, though that Court also may have jurisdiction in the matter. 30 I C. 936. The powers can be exercised at any time before the final allotments are made The section does not indicate when the willingness should be signified to the judge. 30 I.C. 936. It cannot be held as a matter of law that two Mahomedan sisters, married or unmarried cannot form an undivided family within the meaning of S. 4 of the Act. The phrase 'undivided family' in the section is used in a very wide and general sense and two Mahomedan married daughters too may be regarded as members of an undivided family within the meaning of the Act if the house is undivided and if one of them permanently occupies the house and the other though she lives mostly with her husband, has not permanently abandoned all intention of occupying the house should it become necessary to do so. 1941 A.L.J. 284=1941 O.W.N. 707=1941 All. 281. A widow in a joint Hindu family is a member of the "undivided family". 19 N.L.J. 241=1937 N. 4. Where a widow had, though she remarried long ago, continued to live in the family house, she retains her status as a member of an 'undivided family' qua the family house and as such is entitled to purchase any share which might have been sold. 1939 A.L.J. 629=1939 All. 640. Though the determining principle under the section is ownership rather than occupation, an owner, who is not in occupation and who has no intention of occupying, is not entitled to the benefit of the section, merely because he is an owner. 38 Bom. L.R. 261=1936 B. 197. A Mahomedan daughter who has married and is living with her husband but not in the dwelling house which is the subject of partition is not entitled to the benefit of S. 4 of the Act, as she is not a member of an undivided family with reference to the dwelling-house. 1936 Bom. 197. The word 'transferred' in the section includes also a Court auction-purchase. 1936 L. 291. The word 'transfer' in S. 4 is not confined only to a transfer by private agreement. It also means a transfer by operation of law. S. 2 (d) of the Transfer of Property Act does not govern the meaning of the word 'transfer.' 66 C.L.J. 87=1938 Cal. 171. Order under S. 4 when can be passed—Powers of appellate Court. 1926 C. 95. It is necessary for a Court, when a suit is instituted by a stranger to an undivided family for partition of a house to find first whether the house in question is a dwelling-house and belongs to an undivided family and further that, if a member of an undivided family who is a share-holder in that dwelling-house undertakes to buy his share, to value the share the valuation to be decided in any manner that the Court should think fit. 123 I.C. 336=1930 A. 509. Under S. 4, the question for consideration is whether the purchaser was a member of the undivided family to which the dwelling house belonged at the time of the sale. The fact that he was a member of the family to which the property originally belonged is quite irrelevant. 45 C. W.N. 74=1941 Cal. 311. The mere fact that the purchaser has obtained possession of the property is not sufficient to defeat the claim of a member of a family under S. 4 of the Partition Act. Unless it can be shown that the purchaser's possession was such that he could be regarded as having become a member of the family, no possession would serve to defeat the claim. 45 C.W. N. 74=1941 Cal. 311. On this section, see also 15 C.W.N. 555 (discretion of Court to refuse partition); 1 A.L.J. 474 (power of Court to extend time); An application under S. 4 may be made at appellate stage or at any stage before the final decree, and can be entertained in second appeal. 1940 P. 4. The word "Court" in S. 4 means not merely the trial Court, but also includes an appellate Court; an appellate Court has therefore power to act under the section though no such application has been made in the trial Court. 18 Pat.L.T. 866=1937 P. W.N. 902=1938 Pat. 13; 12 C.L.J. 525 (application under the section may be made after preliminary decree). See also 10 C. L.J. 503; 5 C.W.N. 128; 24 M. 639; 32 B. 103. The word "sues" may be applied indifferently either to the defendant or the plaintiff, for the suit of one party or of the other must be allowed. The word signifies not only "to prosecute" but also "to defend" or to do something which the law requires for the better prosecution or defence of the cause. In view of the clear intention of the Act, where in the course of a suit by a member of a joint family, the defendant, a transferee from another member, applies to have a partition under the Partition Act, he is correctly regarded as having "sued" for partition within the meaning of S. 4; and the plaintiffs (members) can therefore apply to buy his share. I.L.R. (1937) Nag. 73=19 N.L.J. 241=1937 Nag. 4. If a co-sharer member of an undivided family sells his share in the family dwelling-house to a stranger and thereafter another co-sharer also sells away his share to another stranger, the first co-sharer cannot, on subsequently repurchasing his share, make a claim under S. 4 of the Act when the transferee from the second co-sharer brings a suit for partition. 50 C.W.N. 450.

DECREE—FORM OF—PROCEDURE.—In a case under S. 4 of the Partition Act, ordinarily the purchaser should be asked to deposit in Court the purchase money by a time fixed by the Court, the time to be fixed and extended at the discretion of the Court. If the purchaser deposits the said purchase money within the time allowed by the Court a decree should be passed in the suit in favour of the purchaser, declaring that all rights of the plaintiff or persons claiming partition in the property in suit have been transferred by a Court sale in favour of the defendant on payment of the said sale price and plaitniff's claim for partition is dismissed. If necessary a sale certificate may also be issued to the purchaser. In case the defendant or the purchaser makes default in payment of purchase money, a decree for partition should be made in favour of plaintiff and the partition proceeded with. 1941 A.L.J. 284=1941 O.W. N. 707=1941 All. 281.

PRELIMINARY DECREE—FORM AND CONTENTS. —A preliminary decree in a partition suit must contain the following clauses:—(1) Declaration of properties belonging to the estate; (2) Declaration of shares of the parties; (3)

Representation of parties under disability.

5. In any suit for partition a request for sale may be made or an undertaking, or application for leave, to buy may be given or made on behalf of any party under disability by any person authorized to act on behalf of such party in such suit, but the Court shall not be bound to comply with any such request, undertaking or application, unless it is of opinion that the sale or purchase will be for the benefit of the party under such disability.

Reserved bidding and bidding by shareholders.

6. (1) Every sale under section 2 shall be subject to a reserved bidding, and the amount of such bidding shall be fixed by the Court in such manner as it may think fit and may be varied from time to time.

(2) On any such sale any of the shareholders shall be at liberty to bid at the sale on such terms as to non-payment of deposit or as to setting off or accounting for the purchase-money or any part thereof, instead of paying the same, as to the Court may seem reasonable.

(3) If two or more persons, of whom one is a shareholder in the property, respectively advance the same sum at any bidding at such sale, such bidding shall be deemed to be bidding of the shareholder.

Order for partition, division and allotment; (4) Appointment of Commissioner for the purpose of partition setting out the conditions, powers and duties; (5) Receiver, if appointed; (6) Special Referee to take accounts; (7) Costs prior and subsequent to preliminary decree, and a provision for the ascertainment of costs before the filing of the return at the instance of the Commissioner; (8) Provisions relating to conveyances and documents of title, etc.; (9) Liberty to apply including liberty to bring on the matter for further directions in the Partition List at the instance of the commissioner or at the instance of any party with the Commissioner's consent or with the sanction of the special officer. I.L.R. (1941) 2 Cal. 410= 1942 C. 300. The plea of a right to buy under S. 4 the share of a dwelling house transferred being one of law can be raised for the first time in appeal or revision. 209 I.C. 557=1943 Pesh. 79.

COMMISSIONER'S ACCOUNTS—METHOD OF PREPARATION.—The Commissioner of partition has to prepare the following five accounts and annex them to his final return: (1) Property account: On the credit side should be the receipts and on the debit side the amounts credited to the parties in respect of their shares. (2) Cash account: All receipts and disbursements should find place in such account with the respective references to the other accounts, for instance, payment to the pool account. (3) The ledger account should show on the credit side the share of the sale-proceeds with which each party is credited, on the debit side the amounts paid to the parties or on their account. On the debit side also should be debited the share of the pooled costs payable by each party. (4) Costs adjustment account: On one side the costs of the partition which have to be dealt with by the Commissioner. First, costs of the Commissioner. Then the ascertained party and party costs of each party. On the other side of the account, the liability of the parties for the aggregate of the said costs. (5) The costs pool account is designed mainly to meet the difficulties of advances to the parties and to the parties' solicitors. On one side should appear the amounts payable by the parties in respect of pooled costs. On the other side must be brought in all advances to the solicitors in respect of such costs. Also on this side must appear the actual amounts payable and paid to the solicitors before the final return is filed. I.L.R. (1941) 2 Cal. 410= 1942 C. 300.

RECEIVER'S ACCOUNTS—METHOD OF PREPARATION.—Receivers in partition suits should prepare a classified statement of account from which the Commissioner can at once enter up his accounts:—(1) Property account; (2) Cash accounts; (3) Parties' ledger accounts; (4) Costs adjustment account; and (5) Pool account. Receiver's costs must be taxed or assessed, and included in the above account. I.L.R. (1941) 2 Cal. 410.

Sec. 6.—Where the property is incapable of partition, the Court should direct the sale to be held among the parties and the property should be given to the party who offers the highest price above the valuation of the Court. 52 C. L. J. 68=1930 C. 616. It is incumbent upon the Court, whether it is moved in that behalf or not, to fix a reserved bidding under S. 6, and the non-observance of such a statutory provision which results in the realization of an inadequate price is a sufficient ground, where minors are concerned, to refuse to confirm the sale. 142 I.C. 461= 1933 Sind 40. A sale under S. 6 must be public and the right to bid cannot be limited to the co-sharers as in the case of a sale under S. 3 (2) of the Act. 1946 M. 299= (1946) 1 M.L.J. 107.

Procedure to be followed in case of sales.

7. Save as hereinbefore provided, when any property is directed to be sold under this Act, the following procedure shall, as far as practicable, be adopted, namely:

(a) if the property be sold under a decree or order of the High Court of Calcutta, Madras or Bombay in the exercise of its original jurisdiction, [1][* *] the procedure of such Court in its original civil jurisdiction for the sale of property by the Registrar;

(b) if the property be sold under a decree or order of any other Court, such procedure as the High Court may from time to time by rules prescribe in this behalf, and until such rules are made, the procedure prescribed in the Code of Civil Procedure in respect of sales in execution of decrees.

Orders for sale to be deemed decrees.

8. Any order for sale made by the Court under section 2, 3 or 4 shall be deemed to be a decree within the meaning of section 2 of the Code of Civil Procedure.

Saving of power to order partly partition and partly sale.

9. In any suit for partition the Court may, if it shall think fit, make a decree for a partition of part of the property to which the suit relates and a sale of the remainder under this Act.

Application of Act to pending suits.

10. This Act shall apply to suits instituted before the commencement thereof, in which no scheme for the partition of the property has been finally approved by the Court.

LEG. REF.

[1] Words 'or of the Court of the Recorder of Rangoon' omitted by A.O., 1937.

Sec. 7: OBJECTIONS TO SALE—ORDER ON—APPEAL.—As defendants are entitled to prefer objections to a sale held under the provisions of S. 7 just as in execution proceedings, an appeal lies against the decision on such objections. 30 Punj.L.R. 604=118 I. C. 530=1929 L. 245. The Partition Act provides for the case of a deadlock where certain parties do not agree. It does not however prevent the parties from bringing to sale the property by consent even in a suit for partition under the Act. Where therefore in a partition suit, a consent decree is passed by which the parties agree to a sale of certain property by the Commissioner at his discretion, the sale held under such decree is not a sale under the Partition Act and therefore the Commissioner is not bound to follow the rules of the Calcutta High Court in Chap. 27 of the Rules and Orders of that Court framed under that Act. 172 I.C. 482= 1937 Cal. 384. In a partition suit under the Act, the parties arrived at a compromise and a consent decree was passed and the parties agreed that the property in question should be sold by the Commissioner for that purpose. On this the Court directed the Commissioner to fix a reserve, while holding the sale. Held that the mere fact that the Commissioner was directed to fix a reserve did not mean that he was bound to sell above the reserve and that failing that he was bound to get the directions of the Court. It might have been better to do so but it was not a failure to carry out the terms of any order. 172 I.C. 482=1937 Cal. 384.

Sec. 8.—Where the trial Court allows a sale, but the appellate Court refuses to pass an order for sale reversing the trial Court's order, the appellate order is a decree and is appealable, if the requirements of a second appeal under S. 100, C. P. Code, are fulfilled. 49 C.L.J. 136=1929 C. 269. An order passed on an application made under S. 4 is a decree by reason of the provisions of S. 8 and is therefore appealable. I.L.R. (1937) N. 73=19 N.L.J. 241=1937 N. 4. An order rejecting an application for sale under S. 4 is not a "decree" and is, therefore, not appealable as such. The correctness of that order can, therefore, be questioned in an appeal filed against the final decree. 45 C. W.N. 74=1941 C. 311.

Sec. 9.—See notes under S. 2.

Sec. 10.—S. 10 is applicable where a preliminary decree has been made but a final partition has not been effected. 17 I.C. 284 =1912 M.W.N. 943.

THE INDIAN PARTNERSHIP ACT (IX OF 1932).

[8th April, 1932.

An Act to define and amend the law relating to partnership.

WHEREAS it is expedient to define and amend the law relating to partnership; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

CHAPTER I.
PRELIMINARY.

Short title, extent and commencement.

1. (1) This Act may be called THE INDIAN PARTNERSHIP ACT, 1932.

(2) It extends to the whole of British India, including British Baluchistan and the Sonthal Parganas.

(3) It shall come into force on the 1st day of October, 1932, except section 69, which shall come into force on the 1st day of October, 1933.

Definitions.

2. In this Act, unless there is anything repugnant in the subject or context,—

(a) an "act of a firm" means any act or omission by all the partners, or by any partner or agent of the firm which gives rise to a right enforceable by or against the firm;

(b) "business" includes every trade, occupation and profession;

(c) "prescribed" means prescribed by rules made under this Act;

(d) "third party" used in relation to a firm or to a partner therein means any person who is not a partner in the firm; and

(e) "expressions used but not defined in this Act and defined in the Indian Contract Act, 1872, shall have the meaning assigned to them in that Act."

Application of provisions of Act IX of 1872.

3. The unrepealed provisions of the Indian Contract Act, 1872, save in so far as they are inconsistent with the express provisions of this Act, shall continue to apply to firms.

SEC. 1 (3)—SEC. 1 (3) of the Act enacts that S. 69 of the Act shall not come into force before the 1st October, 1933. This was intended to give time to unregistered firms to get themselves registered in order to enable them to bring suits. 15 Pat. 810=17 Pat.L.T. 713=1937 Pat. 16. The meaning of the provision that "the Act shall come into force on 1st October, 1932, except S. 69 which shall come into force on 1st October, 1933', in S. 1 (3), is that after 1st October, 1933, S. 69 will become operative and a firm which is not registered and which sues to enforce a right arising from a contract shall be non-suited. 161 I.C. 741=1936 Cal. 133.

SEC. 2 (B), 4 and 69.—S. 2, Cl. (b) read with S. 4 is intended to mean a continued participation of two or more persons in a trade, occupation or profession with the intention of sharing profits accruing from it. An adventure or an undertaking mentioned in S. 8 of the Act presumes the existence of a partnership as defined in S 4 and therefore a fortiori the existence of a business mentioned in S. 2, Cl. (b). A solitary transaction in which two persons have jointly lent money to another would not make those persons partners in a firm and hence registration is not necessary under S. 69 of the Act. 193 I.C. 51=1941 Pesh. 6. See also 1938 Nag. 550=1938 N.L.J. 403; 1940 Nag. 211=1940 N.L.J. 50; 1940 A. 230=I.L.R. 1940 A. 256.

CHAPTER II.

THE NATURE OF PARTNERSHIP.

Definition of "partnership."

4. "Partnership" is the relation between persons who have agreed to share the profits of a business carried on by all or any of them acting for all.

SEC. 4: ELEMENTS OF "PARTNERSHIP".— "(1) There must be an agreement entered into by all the persons concerned. See 51 A. 827=1929 A. 536=118 I.C. 145. See also 18 I.C. 141 and S. 5, infra; (2) the agreement must be to share the profits of a business; and (3) the business must be carried on by all or any of the persons concerned, acting for all. All these elements must be presented before a group of associates can be held to be partners. These three elements may appear to overlap, but they are nevertheless distinct. The first element relates to the voluntary contractual nature of partnership; the second gives the motive which leads to the formation of firms, i.e., the acquisition of gain; and the third shows that the persons of the group who conduct the business do so as agents for all the persons in the group, and are therefore liable to account to all." Under the law as it stood before this Act a firm as such had no existence in law. The law regarded only the individual partners. This Act has to some extent recognised that the firm is some sort of legal entity apart from its partners. 1938 C. 377=62 C. 510=39 C.W.N. 606. See also 1937 O.W.N. 344= 1937 Oudh 438; 20 Pat.L.T. 825=1939 Pat. 323; 1937 Nag. 68=19 N.L.J. 306; 1936 Cal. 133. What is essential to constitute partnership is the actual existence of a business carried on by partners. Hence so long as the business, the profits of which the partners agree to share does not exist there can be no partnership. Persons who are working together to form a company are not partners and the relations inter se of those persons are governed not by the law of partnership but by the general law of contract. 21 Luck. 295=1946 O. 68=1945 A.L.W. (C.C.) 371. Partnership rests on agreement and so long as the agreement contemplates an outgoing and an incoming on the joint account in respect of a business, the partnership is complete and all subsequent rights and liabilities are governed by laws which relate to partnership. It is not the subsequent happenings which determine the question but the initial agreement. If S. 4 has effected a change it has been in the direction of widening the definition of partnership and not of narrowing it. The change in the definition of partnership has not affected the efficacy of illustrations (a) and (b) to S. 239 of the Contract Act, now repealed. 1940 N.L.J. 50=1940 Nag. 211. The mere circumstance that a person is to share profits only and not losses does not by itself militate against the presumption of partnership. I.L.R. 1937 306=39 P.L.R. 998=1937 Lah. 338 (F.B.). The question whether a transaction amounts to a partnership or not must be decided on the terms of the agreement itself and all the relevant facts. The right to participate in the profits of a business is no doubt a strong test of a partnership, but whether that relation does or does not exist must depend on the real intention and contract of the parties. The true test is whether such a participation in profits constitutes the relationship of principal and agent between the person taking the profits and those actually carrying on the business. A mere statement that the parties are to be partners will not necessarily constitute them partners in law. The mere description of a person as a "sleeping partner" would not make him a partner in law. 47 Bom.L.R. 808. There may be a partnership in a single transaction, and sharing profits and contributing to losses are indications of a partnership, but by themselves are not enough to constitute a partnership. One essential element of a partnership is that there should be agency. The words "acting for all" in S. 4 were inserted to emphasise that partners are agents and not merely principals. I.L.R. (1939) Bom. 616=41 Bom.L.R. 899=1939 Bom. 410. The mere fact that a committee is not a registered body and has no independent existence in law, cannot make the servants of the committee personally liable. Although the association as such cannot be sued, its members will be jointly liable. 1933 L. 93. Whether the relation of partners exist between two or more persons is a question of fact depending upon the real intention and contract of the parties ascertained from the contents of the written instruments (if any), and from their conduct. 28 C.W.N. 34=1924 C. 424. The use of the word "partner" or "partnership" in the agreement does not necessarily show that there is a partnership. 65 I.C. 368=1922 N. 67. See also 51 B. 342=1927 B. 187; nor does the omission of the word necessarily mean its absence. 51 B. 342; 28 C.W.N. 34=1924 C. 424. The law regards the body and substance of the agreement and its real character. (1932 S. 218, Ref.) The question whether certain persons are partners in the legal sense depends on the legal relation proved to exist between the partners. 139 I.C. 860 =1932 S. 78. Where one firm enters into an agreement of partnership with another, what happens in law and in fact, is that the individual partners of the one firm join with the individual partners in the other firm, the result being that all the individual partners of the two firms become partners individually in the new firm. 1938 C. 377=62 C. 510=39 C.W.N. 606. See also 1936 Lah. 514. In law a firm has no existence independently of its partners, and if there are two firms consisting of exactly the same partners, the real "partner," "firm" and "firm name".

Persons who have entered into partnership with one another are called individually "partners" and collectively "a firm", and the name under which their business is carried on is called the "firm name."

position in law is that there is only one firm. It may carry on separate businessses and carry on those businesses in different names, but in fact there is only one firm in law. (1942) I.T.R. 272.

ILLUSTRATIVE CASES.—Where husband took his wife in partnership and fixed her share, but reserved power to take more partners or determine her share, held, there was a partnership. 25 Bom.L.R. 1225=1924 B. 182. If parties to a contract agree to become partners they need not say that they agree to combine property, labour or skill, this may be implied. That one of them plays a dominant part is not inconsistent with partnership. 25 Bom.L.R. 1225=1924 B. 182=77 I.C. 699.

CONTRACTS AMOUNTING TO PARTNESHIP.—An agreement of partnership need not be express. It can arise out of a mutual understanding evidenced by a consistent course of conduct, and by the express admission of the parties concerned, 177 I.C. 831=1938 Nag. 324. Where four creditors of a debtor agree to sue the debtor for their individual debts, to share costs and to divide the profits of all the suits, the transaction is of the nature of a partnership in the four suits. A suit between the creditors must be brought as a suit between partners for accounts. 9 B.H.C.R. 418. Where in a partnership of four persons, three were to contribute capital, the other person who had a share in the profits for contributing labour is also a partner. 1928 A. 549=111 I.C. 686. To constitute a contract of cultivating partnership as distinguished from a contract of tenancy, it is enough that the person providing the land furnishes a portion of the working capital, as a part of the transaction by which he provides the land and not as a loan. Such person need not actually take part in tilling it. 10 C.P.L.R. 29. Where there is an agreement between two persons for the joint acquisition of a business and for the sharing of its profits in proportion to the contributions of each and the partnership is registered under the Partnership Act, there is a valid partnership and it is not affected either by the fact that the sale-deed refers to the partners individually and not as partners or that one of them had not paid his contribution at all. 1942 O.W.N. 269=1942 O. 327 =18 Luck. 327.

PARTNERSHIP TO WORK MINES.—A contract to work certain mines on condition that the plaintiff was to receive a sum of money as a bonus down and also a certain amount as rent and that the profits and losses were to be divided in the proportion of one-fourth to plaintiff and three-fourths to defendant, is a contract of partnership; and the payment of money, which went by the name of rent, was in the nature of a fixed sum to be received by the plaintiff in consideration of the land which represented his portion of the capital. 9 W.R. 499. See also 28 C.W.N. 34=1924 C. 424. Where there is an agreement between two persons for the joint acquisition of a business and for the sharing of its profits in proportion to the contributions of each and the partnership is registered under the Partnership Act, there is a valid partnership and it is not affected either by the fact that the sale-deed refers to the partners individually and not as partners or that one of them had not paid his contribution at all. 1942 O. W.N. 269=1942 O. 327=18 Luck. 92. A clerk or gumastha sharing in profits and losses may be a partner. 155 P.L.R. 1917=44 I.C. 283. See also 1922 N. 67=65 I.C. 368; 28 C.W.N. 34=1924 C. 424.

PARTNERSHIP WITH EXCISE LICENSEE.—It is not unlawful for an excise licensee to admit an unlicensed person into partnership. 14 C.P.L.R. 67 (dissenting from 11 C.P.L. R. 62). There is nothing illegal in persons combining to bid for and take a licence to conduct a toddy shop in their joint names. 1928 M. 1197=114 I.C. 655. So also, where one of the terms of a licence granted under the Excise Act was that the licence was non-transferable, an agreement, by which the licensee admitted certain persons to a share in the profits of the business carried on, under the licence, in consideration of their assisting him in the liquor sales, cannot render the partnership invalid, as the agreement cannot amount to a transfer of the licence. 114 P.R. 1906. See also 1937 Nag. 250; 1936 M. 557=70 M.L.J. 691.

CONTRACT NOT AMOUNTING TO PARTNERSHIP.—An agreement to share the trees cut in a forest does not create a partnership. 8 L. 310=1927 L. 333=100 I.C. 846. Where there is no combination of property, labour or skill, and the labour or skill or property were all on the side of the defendant, the plaintiff simply supplying the defendant with certain sums of money, the agreement between the parties is not a partnership. 4 A. 74 (80). Creditors jointly advancing money do not become partners, even though they possess a right to share the profits. 1922 N. 67=65 I.C. 368. But persons making an agreement to carry on a money-lending business and share the profits therefrom, are partners and constitute a firm under S. 4. I.L.R. (1937) N 358=1937 N. 134. Marriage is not a partnership as defined under the Act and property acquired during marriage under the Mahomedan Law cannot be regarded as partnership property. U.B.R. [December, 1901 (Mahomedan Law.)] Where the substantial purpose of an association is not to carry on a business for gain (as for instance in the case of subscribers to the General Family Pension Fund) the fact that gain may accrue incidentally, or may arise from merely subsidiary provisions, does not make registration necessary. 17 C. 786 (803). A firm is not a 'person' so as to be a member of a partnership concern. 54 A. 846=1933 A. 72=1932 A.L.J. 999. See also 1932 C. 768. Before a minor can be admitted to benefits of partnership under S. 30 of this Act, there must be at least two adult partners who are capable of contracting. 164 I.C. 806=1936 M. 707=71 M.L.J. 373. Under the Mahomedan Law wakf property being vested in the Almighty, there can be no partnership in law with a wakf. 41 C.W.N. 629. A person cannot be at one and the same time a partner in his individual capacity and also in his representative capacity. 41 C.W.N. 629= I.L.R. (1937) 2 Cal. 160.

PARTNERSHIP AND TRADE UNION.—When several businessmen form a combination for the purpose of enriching themselves by preventing the cutting of prices and make rules, and provision for the payment into a common pool and a sharing out of it, for arbitration in case of disputes, etc., held, that it was simply a case of a combination of various businesses inter se to benefit the members and not a case of a partnership and that it fell within the definition of Trade Union. I.L. R. (1941) Nag. 702=1940 N.L.J. 239=1940 Nag. 228.

ESSENTIALS OF PARTNERSHIP.—In dealing with the subject of partnership too much attention cannot be paid to the consideration of the question:—What is a partnership and who is a partner? For it is a question of no mere academic interest, because if the relation of private partnership exists, then whatever may be the arrangements between the partners inter se as to how the losses are to be borne, each partner will, as between himself and the creditors of the firm. be liable to the last farthing of his fortune, see 51 B. 342=1927 B. 187. The foundation of this rule is "that each individual partner constitutes the others his agents for the purpose of entering into all contracts for him within the scope of the partnership concern, and consequently is liable to the performance of such contracts in the same manner as if entered into personally by himself." (See 163 P.L. R. 1911=10 I.C. 250.) Therefore, if once the relation of partners is established between one who actively carries on a business and another who passively participates in the profits, the latter will become equally liable with the former for the debts and liabilities of the firm. Although two persons may hold themselves out as partners and be liable to third parties accordingly, it does not follow that they would be partners inter se. 51 B. 342=29 Bom.L.R. 207=1927 B. 187. The right to control the partnership property and to receives profits and the liability to share in losses are elements which help one in finding whether a partnership exists. 27 B. 157 (161). An agreement express or implied, is necessary for the creation of a partnership. 51 A. 827=1929 A. 536. An agreement to share losses is not a necessary ingredient. 51 A. 827. See also 18 L. 306=168 I.C. 549=1937 L. 338. Before there can be a partnership in respect of a single transaction, there must be present the other requisites of a partnership. Under S. 4, there must be a 'business,' an agreement to share its profits, and the carrying on of it by all or any one acting on behalf of all. A mere isolated act of money-lending on joint security cannot be regarded as constituting business within the meaning of that definition. 1938 N.L.J. 403=1938 Nag. 550. See also 1940 All. 230; 1940 N.L.J. 50=1940 Nag. 221. A single transaction or venture does not amount to 'business' as mentioned in S. 4 and hence S. 69 does not apply to such a transaction. I.L.R. (1940) All. 256=1940 All. 230. Where certain persons refer to themselves as a firm, it must be presumed even in absence of evidence, that they are parties who have entered into partnership with one another and are a partnership firm. 161 I.C. 741=1936 C. 133. Once it is established beyond doubt that a person is sharing in profits and losses in a fixed proportion in a firm, there arises a strong presumption in favour of his being a partner, and it lies on him to explain or get rid of that presumption. When it is further shown that he has acted as manager of the firm and has a powerful voice in its affairs, there is no doubt of his being a partner. 153 I.C. 969=1935 L. 209. Although a right to participate in the profits of trade is a strong test of partnership, and there may be cases where from such participation alone, it may, as a presumption, not of law, but of fact, be inferred, yet whether that relation does or does not exist must depend on the real intention and contract of the parties. To constitute a partnership, the parties must have agreed to carry on business and to share profits in some way in common. 18 W.R. 384 (387)=10 B.L.R. 312 (P.C.), followed in 6 C.W.N. 429 and 10 C.W.N. 313; 51 M. 308=1928 M. 890=55 M.L.J. 12. But wherever the agreement between parties creates a relation, which is, in substance, a partnership, no mere words or declarations to the contrary will prevent, as regards third persons, the consequences flowing from the real contract. 18 W.R. 384 (P.C.). Participation in profits is not always conclusive evidence of a partnership. It is however a very cogent evidence, and if it stands alone, may be conclusive evidence. But the fact of participation in profits must be considered in the light of other circumstances. 51 M. 308=55 M.L.J. 12. See also 1939 Pat. 323. On the death of a Mahomedan who to the sole proprietor of a business, his heirs inherit the business as tenants in common, but do not automatically become partners. But if they continue to carry on the busines and to share the profits, the necessary inference must be that they had entered into an implied, if not express, agreement to become partners of the new firm. The relationship of partners existing between the parties is confined to the stock-in-trade, outstandings and cash, etc., belonging to the firm, and cannot be extended to the immovable properties acquired with the income of the firm but not in the name of the firm, when such properties have nothing to do with the business of the firm which is a trading partnership carrying on a furniture business. The relationship between the parties in regard to these immovable properties is that of co-tenants. 1937 O. 438=13. Luck. 219. Hindu joint family a partner with strangers—Suit by a co-parcener for his share on the basis of dissolution before suit—Denial of dissolution—Maintainability of suit—Procedure. See 1938 Mad. 388=(1938) 1 M.L.J. 106. The onus is on the party who alleges a change in the firm to establish it. 32 S.L.R. 765=(1938) 2 M.L.J. 966 (P.C.).

Partnership not created by status.

5. The relation of partnership arises from contract and not from status;

SECS 4 AND 6.—See 1940 Pat. 116.

SEC. 5: PRINCIPLE OF THE SECTION.—"Our law has always treated the partnership relation as founded on voluntary contract. It does not surprise parties into a partnership against their will, although it does not require an express agreement between them. 51 A. 827; nor is it bound by their statements of intention in associating themselves together for business transactions. It will regard their conduct rather than their language in determining whether their voluntary association in a business enterprise amounts to a partnership or not." See 51 B. 342=1927 B. 187; 51 A. 827=1929 A. 536. To determine whether a particular contract constitutes a partnership between the parties thereto, its controlling purpose is to ascertain their intention as disclosed by the entire transaction. 28 C.W.N. 34=1924 C. 424. But the intention is the legal intention deducible from the acts of the parties. 51 B. 342. If the entire agreement between the parties has been committed to writing, every clause is to be considered and effect given to each, if possible. If the agreement is partly in writing, partly oral, and partly evidenced only by conduct then all the steps taken by the parties in connection with the enterprise are to be considered. 51 B. 342. Hence, the general rule always is that a person can become partner only by his own consent and that of the other members. Hence a minor's incapacity to become a partner by his own consent. 118 I.C. 141. See also 26 C. 349 (354); 25 A. 378 (384); see S. 30, infra. Minor cannot become a partner by contract. 49 C. 560=43 M.L.J. 41=1922 P.C. 237=49 I.A. 108 (P.C.) See also 142 I.C. 203=34 P.L.R. 346; 10 Mys.L.J. 316. The agreement or consent to form a partnership may be express or implied but is necessary for the creation of a partnership. One member of a joint Hindu family entering into partnership does not make the others liable in the absence of proof of agency or consensus. 51 A. 827=1929 A. 536. See also 56 C.L.J. 440. A manager of a joint Hindu family, who enters into a partnership business with a stranger, cannot by such act, ipso facto make the other members of the family partners in the business so as to clothe them with all the rights and obligations of a partner as defined by this Act. In such a case the family as a until does not become a partner, but only such of its members as in fact enter into a contractual relation with the stranger. 38 C.W.N. 1186=1934 P.C. 192=67 M.L.J. 366 (P.C.). See also 1927 S. 247=107 I.C. 221; 34 P.L.R. 166=1933 L. 68. But see also 19 A.L.J. 525=63 I.C. 548. A joint Hindu family cannot be a partnership of itself; nor can two joint families be brought into relation with one another by an agreement to be a partnership. But there can be a partnership between the managing member of one joint family, and the manager of another family, the partnership being between the two persons and not between the families. 39 C.W.N. 357. A Hindu joint family which carries on a trade or business is not a partnership under S. 4 of the Partnership Act. 39 C.W.N. 275. As to the position of an ancestral trading firm, see 61 C. 975=38 C.W.N. 914=1934 C. 810; 5 B. 38; 25 A. 378; 9 Bom.L.R. 287; 9 B. 311; 5 C. 792; I.C. 470; 6 C. 815; 7 B. 217; 23 B. 144; 9 Bom.L.R. 274; I.L.R. (1938) 1 Cal. 369=1939 Cal. 92. The assumption that a joint Hindu family firm can come into existence, only if the business has descended from father to son, is obviously wrong. There is no provision of law which prohibits the members of a Hindu coparcenary to start family business out of joint funds at any time, after the death of their father or other ancestor. Such a firm is exempt from registration under S. 5 of the Act. 40 P.L.R. 456=1938 Lah. 563. See also 1936 A.M.L.J. 130. Where a stranger is associated with the members of a joint Hindu family in a business whose capital is derived from the property of the joint family and the stranger, the rights and liabilities are determined more by the Contract Act than by the Hindu Law. 1933 A. 311. See also 65 C.L.J. 426. Where a stranger is associated with the joint family from the very beginning in the trade and another stranger is introduced into the partnership at a time when the family consists only of minors, the new firm cannot be said to be an ancestral firm or its offshoot and the minors are not liable for the debts of the firm, unless they have been admitted to the benefits of the partnership. 1933 A. 311. Cutchi Memons are only governed by the Hindu Law as regards succession and inheritance, and the Hindu Law cannot be applied to their property. A Cutchi Memon family carrying on business does not fall under the latter part of S. 5 of the Partnership Act.

and, in particular, the members of a Hindu undivided family carrying on a family business as such, or a Burmese Buddhist husband and wife carrying on business as such are not partners in such business.

Mode of determining existence of partnership.

[1]6. In determining whether a group of persons is or is not a firm, or whether a person is or is not a partner in a firm, regard shall be had to the real relation between the parties, as shown by all relevant facts taken together.

Explanation I.—The sharing of profits or of gross returns arising from property by persons holding a joint or common interest in that property does not of itself make such persons partners.

LEG. REF.

[1] Cf. S. 2 of the English Partnership Act. Consequently a suit by an unregistered partnership composed of the members of a Cutchi Memon family is not maintainable under S. 69 of the Partnership Act. 1937 Mad. 666=(1937) 2 M.L.J. 221. Where a husband took his wife in partnership and fixed her share, but reserved to himself the power to take more partners, held there was a partnership. 25 Bom.L.R. 1225=1924 B. 182=77 I.C. 699. The mere fact that a number of Indian Christians with ties of relationship are living together in a house and have a common mess would not confer on such a group of persons the rights and obligations recognised by Hindu Law in respect of a joint Hindu family, nor can the family be treated as a partnership in the legal sense if some members thereof have been carrying on some trade. In the absence of an express or implied agency, a debt borrowed by the managers of the trade by executing a promissory note is not binding on the other members. 1934 M. 327=66 M.L.J. 671.

SECS. 4, 5 AND 6.—When more than one businessman associate together for the purpose of carrying on a business, it is legitimate to infer that they are not doing it for philanthropic purposes but intend to make a profit out of it; also that they all intend to share in the benefit of the proceeds. The person who actually conducts the business acts on behalf of all his associates, that is to say, on behalf of all who are joint proprietors with him. He does not act for his own separate and exclusive benefit. His intention is obviously to further the business as a whole for the benefit of all who own the concern. That is all that is necessary to constitute a partnership within the meaning of Ss. 4, 5 and 6 of the Act. 177 I.C. 831 =1938 N. 324. Partnership—Test to determine—Agreement reciting that one party appointed another to carry on business—Power conferred on former to dismiss latter for mismanagement—Provision for sharing of profits and losses does not constitute partnership. See 20 Pat.L.T. 798=1940 P. 116. See also 1940 P. 683=19 P. 715.

SEC. 6.—Persons may be partners in the eye of law, though they state in the document that they should not be such; and though they represent themselves to be such and be liable to third parties, they may not be partners inter se. 51 B. 342=29 Bom.L.R. 107. See also 1922 N. 67=65 I.C. 368; 56 C.L.J. 172 =1933 C. 204. It is not necessary that all the partners should share the losses, and they may agree to draw a salary instead of a share in profits. 51 B. 342=1927 B. 187. See also 43 C. 733=21 C.W.N. 632. Mere co-ownership of land does not make the co-owners partners nor the mere receipt of their share of income. Where two of the co-owners not only shared the profits out of the land between themselves, but jointly worked the land jointly engaged coolies and both took active part in raising the crops: Held, that they were partners. 1933 R. 120. A partner may after full disclosure buy partnership property for a fair price. 43 C. 733=21 C.W. N. 632=31 I.C 430. Persons filing suits and signing processes in the name of a firm do not necessarily become partners, for even salaried managers conduct proceedings in their own names describing themselves as managing proprietors. 1927 S. 247=107 I.C. 221.

EXPL. I.—A right to participate in profits is a strong but not conclusive test of partnership. The true test is whether there is really a common business carried on by or on behalf of the alleged partner. 1925 N. 436=89 I.C. 283. See S. 4, supra. "Partnership" does not mean that the partners should necessarily divide the profits at any time. Each may leave his share in the business. The real test is whether he has power to withdraw it. 1930 N. 6=121 I.C. 38. The question of partnership is a question of intention, which must be decided on a consideration of the conduct of the parties and of all the surrounding circumstances. Participation in profits, though not conclusive, is a cogent piece of evidence which must be given due weight in the light of other circumstances. 13 Luck. 219=1937 O. 438. An arrangement to share in the profits does not necessarily show that the person who shares in such profits is a partner of the firm, but this fact will have to be considered along with the evidence relating to other characteristics of a partnership, such as sharing of losses, etc., in arriving at a conclusion whether the parties intended to carry on the business in partnership. 1925 M. 768=48 M.L.J. 518; 56 C.L.J. 172=1933 C. 204.

Explanation II.—The receipt by a person of a share of the profits of a business, or of a payment contingent upon the earning of profits or varying with the profits earned by a business, does not of itself make him a partner with the persons carrying on the business; and, in particular the receipt of such share or payment—

(a) by a lender of money to persons engaged or about to engage in any business,

(b) by a servant or agent as remuneration,

(c) by the widow or child of a deceased partner, as annuity, or

(d) by a previous owner or part owner of the business, as consideration for the sale of the goodwill or share thereof, does not of itself make the receiver a partner with the persons carrying on the business.

Partnership at will.

7. Where no provision is made by contract between the partners for the duration of their partnership, or for the determination of their partnership, the partnership is "partnership at will."

EXPL. II (a).—Even an agreement that the lender shall receive a share of the borrower's profits in addition to the statutory rate of interest on the loan does not make them partners. See 52 M.L.J. 303=1927 M. 1096. Partnership is not created from the mere use of the word. If a person is merely to advance money and be re-paid by a share in profits, or if a person, acting as servant, is to be paid by a share in the profits and is not to be liable for losses not occasioned by his neglect or default, no partnership is created. 1922 N. 67=65 I.C. 368. See also 136 I.C. 396=1932 P.C. 63 (P.C.) U.B.R. Dec. 1903=47 Bom.L.R. 808. Contract, p. 10 (11), 1927 M. 1096=52 M.L.J. 303. Even the fact that the lender took an active interest in the business, is not inconsistent with his position as a lender. 10 C.W.N. 313. See also 4 A. 74 (80). Creditors jointly advancing money do not become partners, even though they possess a right to share profits. 1922 N. 67=65 I.C. 368. Muthalalis in a Lubbai or Ejman partnership in Madras Presidency are not partners and will rank as other creditors when the firm becomes insolvent. Though participation in profits is a strong test of partnership and a presumption of fact to that effect arises, yet the test is not conclusive. 51 M. 308=55 M. L.J. 12=1928 M. 890. But one person can both be a partner and creditor; as creditor for amount advanced beyond the agreed capital, he is entitled to interest and to demand of the other partners their respective shares under S. 43 of the Contract Act. 1921 N. 45=64 I.C. 183.

EXPL. II (b).—A gumastha of a firm, who is paid by a share of the profits, according to the long understood practice in this country is not a partner. 14 C. 791 (793). See also 54 M.L.J. 219=1927 M. 1053=106 I.C. 308. So also the fact that an assistant in a firm of brokers received over and above his salary, a share in the profits, and that, with the knowledge of the partners, he also occasionally signed on delivery orders, which came from buyers in favour of the firm, that he occasionally signed, with his own signature, letters dealing with mere matters of detail, that he purported to make firm offers to buyers and sellers and initialled alterations on some contracts, does not constitute him a partner in that firm. 6 C.W.N. 429. But a gumastha sharing in profits and losses may become a partner. 155 P.L.R. 1917=44 I.C. 283. A servant whose remuneration varies with the profits may be partner in a popular sense, but is not necessarily legally so. 1922 N. 96=69 I.C. 781. See also 1922 N. 67=65 I.C. 368. Where in addition to his salary the person was to receive a certain percentage "as commission" on net profits, held, the said percentage was a share in profits. 28 C.W.N. 34=1924 C. 424=81 I.C. 17.

EXPL. II (c).—Where the sole proprietor or a firm dies, his heirs only succeed to his assets, and do not become partners, unless they agree expressly or impliedly to continue the old firm. Such agreement can be inferred from the continuance of the old business on the same lines and in the same manner. 23 A.L.J. 961=1926 A. 161. Property left by a deceased partner and used in the business is to be treated as a loan to the partnership. 37 B. 158=19 I.C. 406.

POSITION OF RETIRING PARTNER.—Retiring partner can, in the absence of an agreement to the contrary, claim not only interest but, at his option, either a share of the profits of the business or interest on the amount of his share of the partnership assets. 52 M. 672 =1929 M. 496=56 M.L.J. 657. He is not bound to make his election until the share of the profits has been ascertained. It is not necessary that the whole of the partnership assets should be used by the remaining partners. 56 M.L.J. 657.

Particular partnership.

8. A person may become a partner with another person in particular adventures or undertakings.

CHAPTER III.

RELATIONS OF PARTNERS TO ONE ANOTHER.

General duties of partners,

9. Partners are bound to carry on the business of the firm to the greatest common advantage, to be just and faithful to each other, and to render true accounts and full information of all things affecting the firm to any partner or his legal representative.

Duty to indemnity for loss caused by fraud.

10. Every partner shall indemnify the firm for any loss caused to it by his fraud in the conduct of the business of the firm.

Determination of rights and duties of partners by contract between the partners.

11. (1) Subject to the provisions of this Act, the mutual rights and duties of the partners of a firm may be determined by contract between the partners, and such contract may be express or may be implied by a course of dealing.

Such contract may be varied by consent of all the partners and such consent may be express or may be implied by a course of dealing.

Agreements in restraint of trade.

(2) Notwithstanding anything contained in section 27 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872, such contracts may provide that a partner shall not carry on any business other than that of the firm while he is a partner.

The conduct of the business.

12. Subject to contract between the partners—

SEC. 8.—This section is new and is inserted to meet cases which are probably much more frequent in India than in England. The practice of establishing "particular partnership" is much favoured by Indian firms with numerous branches, and the practice should not be hampered by doubts regarding the extent of the liabilities of the "particular partner." (Statement of Objects and Reasons.. A partnership may be organized for the prosecution of a single adventure as well as for the conduct of a continuous business. See S. 17, infra.

SEC. 9.—Cf. Contract Act, S. 257, and English Partnership Act, S. 28.

PRINCIPLE OF THE SECTION.—Parties, when treating for a contract of partnership, are bound to exercise the utmost good faith towards each other. See 1930 M. 141=123 I.C. 596. See also 11 A.L.J. 423=19 I.C. 250. A contract of partnership is a contract noerrimae fidei and S. 9 of the Act, which materially reproduces S. 257 of the Contract Act, defines the relations between the partners. All the subsequent sections dealing with the relations of partners to one another are only amplifications and illustrations of the principles contained in S. 9. I.L.R. (1944) Kar. 21. See also 1941 Sind 73=194 I.C. 380. A secret agreement between two partners to the prejudice of a third partner is unlawful and void. U.B.R. 1903, Jan. (Contract), pp. 4-5. So also surviving partners are treated as trustees for the benefit of the representatives of a deceased partner. 1 Bom.H.C.R. App. 51 (62). See also 67 I.C. 10=34 C.L.J. 405; 6 B. 528; 48 C. 906. As to the effect of an acknowledgment by surviving partner on limitation, see 8 M. L.J. 261. Good faith and utmost bona fides are required in dealings between working and sleeping partners when matters relating to accounts are concerned, and when, as a result of the accounts produced by the working partners, they induce the other partners to execute in their favour a promissory note in respect of the amounts so found to be due to the working partners according to the accounts produced by them, (123 I.C. 569=1930 M. 141) all the partners are deemed to have such knowledge and notice of of the acts of any of their partners relative to their business, as in discharge of their plain duty they might or ought to have obtained. 27 S.L.R. 41=1933 S. 176.

SEC. 11.—Cf. S. 252 and S. 27, Contract Act and S. 19, English Partnership Act, The opening words of S. 11 'subject to the provisions of this Act' mean that the relation of partners shall be governed by contract unless the contract that they enter into is one which is prohibited by any provision in the Act. S. 11 has deliberately been so worded by the Legislature as to make it clear that the relationship of the partners shall be determined by the contract between them, subject of course to the provisions of the Act. (a) every partner has a right to take part in the conduct of the business;

(b) every partner is bound to attend diligently to his duties in the conduct of the business;

(c) any difference arising as to ordinary matters connected with the business may be decided by a majority of the partners, and every partner shall have the right to express his opinion before the matter is decided, but no change may be made in the nature of the business without the consent of all the partners; and

(d) every partner has a right to have access to and to inspect and copy any of the books of the firm.

Mutual rights and liabilities

13. Subject to contract between the partners—

(a) a partner is not entitled to receive remuneration for taking part in the conduct of the business;

(b) the partners are entitled to share equally in the profits earned and shall contribute equally to the losses sustained by the firm;

(c) where a partner is entitled to interest on the capital subscribed by him, such interest shall be payable only out of profits;

(d) a partner making, for the purposes of the business, any payment or advance beyond the amount of capital he has agreed to subscribe, is entitled to

SEC. 13.—Cf. Contract Act, S. 253 and S. 24, English Partnership Act. Cl. (f) is new and is intended to safeguard the firm's interests against the torts of individual partners.

CL. (b): PRESUMED EQUALITY OF PARTNER'S SHARES.—The presumption is about the equality of the partner's shares in profits and loss. The burden of proof is on the party who alleges a special agreement about the shares being unequal. 26 C. 281 (282). See also 40 P.R. 1908; 12 B.H.C. (A.C. J.) 165. As to the joint liability of partners to share loss, see 24 B. 77; 40 P.R. 1908. S. 13 (b) will come into operation only when there is no agreement between the partners. 46 L.W. 520=1938 Mad. 5=(1937) 2 M. L.J. 760. The right to interest on capital contributed by one of the partners, even when there is a stipulation for payment of such interest, ordinarily ceases at the date of the dissolution, and in the taking of accounts between the parties, no interest under this head should be allowed after the date of dissolution. Interest on capital is payable only out of profits under S. 13 (b) except where there is an express contract providing for payment of interest regardless of profits. 51 L.W. 108=1940 M.W.N. 29=1940 Mad. 505. On dissolution, a capitalist partner has no higher rights than the other partners. 1926 S. 49=89 I.C. 577. He cannot compel working partners to sell their rights to him. 1926 S. 49. Under this section the share of each partner in the partnership property is the value of his original contribution, and partners must contribute equally to losses sustained by the partnership. In the absence of a contract to the contrary, the share of loss or profit is ascertained by dividing the total loss or profit by the number of partners. The rule laid down is, that, if the assets of the partnership will not suffice to pay the amount of capital to be credited to each partner, the deficiency is a loss of capital; and is to be borne or made good by the partners. 40 P. R. 1908. The fact that the partners contributed capital in unequal shares will not exclude the presumption of equality in profit and loss (see cases supra), though it is a matter to be taken into consideration on the final statement of accounts (Part. Act, 1890, S. 44). As to suit for accounts in a partnership where partners contributed in unequal shares, see 8 L. 241=1927 L. 485. The fact that certain persons perform several acts in the expectation that a partnership would be created, such as the advance of money for purchase of partnership material, the taking of a house on rent expecting that it would be required for the partnership, cannot lead to the conclusion that a partnership has been created. Where the cardinal points have been definitely agreed upon, the fact that reference has been made to a more formal agreement in future will not prevent the Court from coming to the conclusion that the contract of partnership has been concluded. But when a cardinal point has never been agreed upon, namely, as to when the partnership is to come into force, and that date is left blank in the agreement, it cannot be held that the partnership has come into existence or that the parties are partners. 19 N.L.J. 306=1937 Nag. 68.

CL. (c).—INTEREST ON ADVANCE AND CAPITAL.—A partner is not only entitled to be repaid any actual payments or advances made by him for the purposes of the partner-interest thereon at the rate of six per cent. per annum;

(e) the firm shall indemnify a partner in respect of payments made and liabilities incurred by him—

(i) in the ordinary and proper conduct of the business, and

(ii) in doing such act, in an emergency, for the purpose of protecting the firm from loss, as would be done by a person of ordinary prudence, in his own case, under similar circumstances; and

(f) a partner shall indemnify the firm for any loss caused to it by his wilful neglect in the conduct of the business of the firm.

The property of the firm

14. Subject to contract between the partners, the property of the firm includes all property and rights and interest in property originally brought into the stock of the firm or acquired, by purchase or otherwise, by or for the firm or for the purposes and in the course of the business of the firm, and includes also the goodwill of the business.

Unless the contrary intention appears, property and rights and interests ship beyond the amount of capital he has agreed to subscribe, but is also entitled to interest thereon and this even though the partners may not have been aware of the outlay. Ex parte Chippandale, (1854) 4 De.G., M. & G. 36; 43 E.R. 415. See also 1932 L. 301; 33 P.L.R. 230; 137 I.C. 162=1932 L. 389; 23 S.L.R. 313=1928 S. 133; 1921 N. 45=64 I.C. 183; 1931 N. 45. Partners are not as regards partnership dealings considered as debtor and creditor inter se until the concern is wound up or until there is a binding settlement of the accounts. So, one partner has no right of action against another for the balance owing to him until after final settlement of the accounts; but a partner may have a right of action against another for a debt independent of the partnership accounts. The only remedy between partners is one for partnership accounts. 62 Cal. 510=39 C. W.N. 606=1938 Cal. 377. See also 38 Bom. L.R. 486=1936 B. 246. SEC. 14.—English Partnership Act, Ss. 20 and 21 and S. 253 (1), Contract act. S. 14 of the Act is not exhaustive; it only provides what the property of the firm shall include. Debts due to a firm fall within the description of property being property acquired for the firm. I.L.R. (1938) Bom. 102=39 Bom.L.R. 1214=1938 Bom. 108. Where a partnership firm is styled 'X factory' it is improbable that the ownership rights of the partners of that firm would be confined to the business and machinery and would not include the building in which the business is conducted and the machinery is contained. I.L.R. (1938) All 638=1938 A.L.J. 610=1938 All 452. It does not necessarily follow because certain partners jointly own immovable property which they use for the purposes of the partnership business that that property is partnership property. Whether it is or is not depends upon the agreement between the partners. From the mere fact that two brothers who jointly inherited a house set up a business in that house in partnership, it could not be inferred that they were intending to transfer their shares in the house to their partnership business. 162 I.C. 143=1936 All. 270.

SECS. 14 AND 15.—See English Partnership Act, Ss. 20 and 21 and S. 253, Contract Act.

PARTNERSHIP PROPERTY.—The expression "partnership property" denotes everything to which all the partners are entitled as partners: persons may be entitled to property jointly or in common and may also be partners; yet that property may not be partnership property. Whether any particular property is or is not partnership property depends upon the agreement between the partners and, in the absence of any express agreement, upon the circumstances under which it was acquired. 9 S.L.R. 11=30 I.C. 24; 55 B. 795=1931 B. 428. Purchase of immovable property in the name of the firm with the funds of the firm and making costly improvements with the same funds are indications showing that the property so purchased is the property of the firm. 1929 S. 189. See also 29 M. 149; 49 P.W.R. 1916=32 I.C. 853. Land purchased by partners in a trading concern out of partnership funds does not of necessity become partnership Property. Whether they hold such land as co-owners or as partners depends upon the purpose for which it is purchased. Therefore when the land is purchased out of partnership funds, and not used for its business, the question is one to be determined on general evidence. 30 I.C. 24 =9 S.L.R. 11. In the absence of any allegation or proof to the effect that portions of the assets of partnership were, by the agreement of the partners, withdrawn from the partnership and converted into land or house to be owned by the partners as co-owners, lands and houses bought in the name of one partner and paid for by the firm or from the profits of the partnership business are prima facie partnership properties. 25 M. 149 (165)=11 M.L.J. 353. But a contract on in property acquired with money belonging to the firm are deemed to have been acquired for the firm.

Application of the property of the firm.

15. Subject to contract between the partners, the property of the firm shall be held and used by the partners exclusively for the purposes of the business.

Personal profits earned by partners.

16. Subject to contract between the partners,—

(a) if a partner derives any profit for himself from any transaction of the firm, or from the use of the property or business connection of the firm or the firm name, he shall account for that profit and pay it to the firm;

(b) If a partner carries on any business of the same nature as and competing with that of the firm, he shall account for and pay to the firm all profits made by him in that business.

17. Subject to contract between the partners—

Rights and duties of partners after a change in the firm.

(b) where a firm constituted for a fixed term continues to carry on business after the expiry of that term, the mutual rights and duties of the partners remain the same as they were before the expiry, so far as they may be consistent with the incidents of partnership at will; and after the expiry of the term of the firm, and (c) where a firm constituted to carry out one or more adventures or the part of a company to continue to employ a firm as its agents, is not to be regarded as an asset of the firm, in which the legal representative of a deceased partner of the firm would be entitled to participate, as the contract is determinable at any time by the company the profits of which would be derived entirely by the services of the surviving partners, and in respect of which no liability could be incurred by the deceased. But contracts, which would render the estate of the deceased liable in the event of loss, and in the profits of which, therefore, such estate is entitled to participate, constitute assets of the partnership. 9 B. 536 (555, 556). It is true that the mere fact that properties belonging to one of the partners have been used for the purpose of the partnership business does not make those properties partnership properties. The question whether the separate property of a partner has become partnership property depends ultimately on the real intention of the parties. Under the provisions of the Contract Act or the Partnership Act, for the purpose of bringing the separate property of a partner into the stock of the firm, it is not necessary to have recourse to any written document. As soon as the partners intend that their separate properties should become partnership properties and they are treated as such, the properties become the properties of the firm. This result is not prohibited by any provision in the T.-P. Act or the Registration Act. 49 C.W.N. 799.

LOAN BY PARTNER TO FIRM—RIGHT TO INTEREST ON.—The general rule is that the interest is not allowed between partners. But when a partner advances moneys of his own to the partnership, over and above the amount of his capital, such advances will be treated as loans by him, and he is entitled to interest on the same in the absence of a stipulation to the contrary. 12 Mys.L.J. 404=39 Mys. H.C.R. 1012 see also 1938 Mad. 38; 15 Mys.L.J. 3. The general rule, no doubt, is that one partner should not sue another without a suit for dissolution of partnership and rendition of accounts. But where a partner has a dual capacity, viz., that of a partner and that of a creditor, there is nothing in law to prevent him as a creditor from suing some of the partners for recovery of what is due from them. The partner who, in his capacity as creditor, has advanced a loan to the partnership, is entitled to recover it irrespective of the dissolution of the partnership. 1946 Nag. 266=1946 N.L.J. 215.

THE SELECT COMMITTEE SAID:—Ss. 29 (1) and 30 of the English Act, corresponding to Ss. 258 and 259 of the Indian Act, have been run together into this clause, without change of substance. Sub-S. (2) of S. 29 of the English Act has been placed in the Chapter on the dissolution of the firm, where it appears as cl. 50.

CHAPTER IV.

RELATIONS OF PARTNERS TO THIRD PARTIES.

Partner to be agent of the firm.

18. Subject to the provisions of this Act, a partner is the agent of the firm for the purposes of the business of the firm.

Implied authority of partner as agent of the firm.

19. (1) Subject to the provisions of section 22, the act of a partner which is done to carry on, in the usual way, business of the kind carried on by the firm, binds the firm.

The authority of a partner to bind the firm conferred by this section is called his "implied authority."

(2) In the absence of any usage or custom of trade to the contrary, the implied authority of a partner does not empower him to—

(a) submit a dispute relating to the business of the firm to arbitration, equity must do equity." 42 P.L.R. 1917=35 I.C. 910. Where one partner is carrying on a different business, the mere fact that some knowledge and information are useful in both does not create liability to account. 34 C.L.J. 405=67 I.C. 10=1921 C. 722. A minor representative of a deceased partner is not personally liable to account to survivor for partnership business carried on during deceased's lifetime. His liability is confined to the extent of assets received. 40 A. 446=16 A.L.J. 305=45 I.C. 31. One partner can recover profits from his other partner who carries on a rival trade to the prejudice of the partnership business. 19 I.C. 250=11 A.L.J. 423. A firm cannot claim commission on goods purchased on its own behalf. 36 I.C. 210. A partner can carry on separate business, not competing with firm's business. Mere facility to push private business conferred by connection with firm does not create liability to account for the profits of his private business. 1926 C. 380=90 I.C. 492.

SEC. 17.—Cf. S. 256 of the Contract Act and S. 27 of the English Partnership Act. A person, becoming a surety to a firm for another's conduct as cashier, will not be liable to compensate any defalcation, which occurs subsequent to a change in the constitution and the name of the firm. 28 C. 597. As to the rights of a deceased partner's representatives to share in profits made subsequent to the death of the partner by the surviving partners, see 48 C. 906=1922 C. 122=64 I.C. 861. The share of deceased partner is not liable for debts incurred by the surviving partners after his death. 22 S.L.R. 105=1928 S. 121=110 I.C. 730.

CHAP. IV.—INTRODUCTORY.—This Chapter is mostly taken up with the statement and development of the principle that each partner is an agent of the firm. In arrangement, it differs widely from the corresponding part of the English Act. It elaborates some of the provisions of that part and omits others and introduces some new matter. (Report of the Select Committee)

SEC. 18.—The agency of partners arises not by reason of contract but by reason of the existence of the relationship of parties as partners. From the fact that in a deed one party is made the agent of another for some purposes it does not follow that the relationship of partners exists between them. 19 Pat. 715=1940 Pat. 683.

SECS. 18 AND 19: PRINCIPLES OF THE SECTIONS.—The Special Committee said: "Cl. 19 begins with the first principle given in S. 5 of the English Act—that every partner is an agent of the firm. It also contains the next important principle in S. 5 of the English Act, which defines the general extent of a partner's agency, namely, that an act of a partner, which (a) is done to carry on business, of the kind carried on by the firm, and (b) is done in the way usual in such a business, binds the firm. The remainder of the English section is contained in S. 20. The second paragraph in sub-s. (1) of S. 19 introduces a convenient term intended to avoid confusion when references are made to the authority of a partner as agent. The authority defined in the first paragraph of the subclause has been variously designed as "implied," "ordinary," "apparent" and "ostensible", and it is sometimes not clear what the exact meaning of these terms may be. The word "implied" is favoured by Lindley and seems to be the most suitable, as the kind of agency contemplated is one which flows from, or is implied by the partnership of a partner. Sub-S. (2) has no statutory precedent, but has been extracted from S. 2 of Chapter I of Book II of Lindley's work, which contains an exhaustive account of the subject of the extent and limitations of a partner's implied authority. The selection has been made with regard to Indian conditions.

SEC. 19.—Cl. (a) reproduces Stead v. Salt (3 Bing. 101), which has been followed in 22 A. 135. See also 148 I.C. 1080=35 P.L.R. 417=1934 L. 483.

(b) open a banking account on behalf of the firm in his own name,
(c) compromise or relinquish any claim or portion of a claim by the firm,
(d) withdraw a suit or proceeding filed on behalf of the firm,
(e) admit any liability in a suit or proceeding against the firm,

---

Cl. (b) is Alliance Bank, Ltd. v. Kearsley (L.R. 6 C.P. 433).

Cl. (c) is a proposition on the law of agency contained in many rulings, see Lindley, p. 195.

Cl. (d) is contrary to Harwood v. Edwards cited by Lindley at p. 354, a case which seems to be unreported. It seems unreasonable to hold that a partner cannot compromise a claim by the firm but that he can withdraw a suit. The clause as drafted seems best suited to Indian conditions.

Cl. (e).—This is Hambidge v. De la Crouee (3 C.B. 742).

Cl. (f) follows Sharp v. Milligan (22 Beav. 606 and 16 B. 568, dissented from in 19 M. 471).

Cl. (g) is covered by Harrison v. Jackson (7 T.R. 207).

Cl. (h) is from Singleton v. Knight (13 A.C. 788). (Special Committee's Report.)

AUTHORITY OF A PARTNER TO BIND THE FIRM BY HIS ACTS—GENERAL—ACT TO BE WITHIN THE SCOPE OF THE PARTNERSHIP.—Every partner is, in contemplation of law, the general and accredited agent of the partnership and may, consequently, bind all the other partners by his acts in all matters which are within the scope and objects of the partnership. See Story on Agency, Chap. VI, Ss. 124, 125, cited in 6 Moo. P.C. at 193, 194; 81 I.C. 513=28 C.W.N. 824=1925 C.L. 29. "Ordinary partnerships are by the law assumed and presumed to be based on the mutual trust and confidence of each partner in the skill, knowledge and integrity of every other partner. As between the partners and the outside world (whatever may be their private arrangements between themselves) each partner is the unlimited agent of every other in every matter which is partnership business and not being in its nature beyond the scope of the partnership." Per Lord Justice James in Baird's Case (1870) L.R. 5 Ch. 725, 733. See also 101 I.C. 742=1927 L. 385; 8 C. 678=11 C.L.R. 225; 83 I.C. 539=17 S.L. R. 164=1924 S. 29. The acts done by a partner in violation of his duty to the firm cannot bind it when the other party to the transaction is cognizant of, or co-operates in, such breach of duty. See Story on Agency, Chap. VI, cited in 6 Moo. P.C. 193, 194. A partner is not liable for purchases made by a co-partner, out of the scope of partnership business and without the authority of the other. 15 B.L.R. 372. Where terms of partnership cannot be ascertained, no relation of principal and agent between the parties arises. 185 P. W. R. 1916=31 I.C. 632. The mere fact that a party makes no reference to his partners or sharers in the profits does not really affect his right in assigning the actionable claim, for, as a managing partner, he has a right to assign such a claim, and the only remedy of the partners or sharers in the firm is by a suit for accounts against the managing proprietor. 1933 S. 210.

ANY REPRESENTATION BY ONE OF THE PARTNERS will not bind the other partner. 1935 C. 275=60 C.L.J. 464.

THE ACT MUST BE DONE TO CARRY ON THE BUSINESS IN THE USUAL WAY.—Every partner is an agent of the firm, and his other partners for the purpose of the business of the partnership; and prima facie the acts of every partner who does any act for carrying on, in the usual way, business of the kind carried on by the firm of which he is a member, bind the firm and his partners (Partnership Act, 1890, S. 5). See 83 I.C. 539=17 S.L.R. 164=1924 S. 29; 1926 M. 114=50 M.L.J. 67. See also 56 C. 556=1929 C. 714. A partner's implied or apparent authority to bind his firm is limited to acts which are necessary for carrying on the partnership business in the way in which such businesses are usually carried on, and does not extend to acts which, however urgent, are in this sense unusual. Hawtayne v. Bourne, 7 Mee. & W. 595; 56 R.R. 806; Simpson's Claim, 36 Ch. D. 532. See also 13 I.C. 255=5 S.L.R. 168; L.B.R. (1872-1892), 519, 521; 1926 S. 291=21 S.L.R. 267; 10 O.W.N. 316=1933 O. 259. A partner in a mercantile firm has authority to draw and accept bills on behalf of the firm, and even if such implied authority has been expressly cancelled, but such cancellation is not brought to the discounting banks, the discounting banks are entitled to recover against the other partners. 59 M.L. J. 661=52 A. 851; 1930 P.C. 238 (13 M. I.A. 358, Ref.). A partner in a trading firm may draw, endorse, etc., hundis for the purposes of partnership. 9 Bom.L.R. 274.

POWER TO REFER TO ARBITRATION.—One partner of a firm cannot enter into an agreement to refer a matter in dispute to arbitration on behalf of a firm unless all parties join in it. 35 P.L.R. 417=1934 L. 483.

POWER TO ENTER INTO CONTRACT.—A partner is liable for a bona fide contract entered into by other partners. 106 I.C. 516 =46 C.L.J. 362=1928 C. 57; 1924 C. 1056; 1925 C. 29. See also 9 B. 311. It is a mistake to suppose that, because a firm obtains the benefit of a contract made with one of its partners, it must needs be bound by the contract. 14 C.P.L.R. 22 (26). If a partner, who entertains customers, wishes to be reimbursed, he should take the precaution of having an agreement made for an allowance. 108 I.C. 873=23 S.L.R. 313= 1928 S. 133. See also 1937 L. 715. (Lease of premises in name of one partner—Other partners also are liable for rent).

IMPLIED POWER TO BORROW.—Any partner in a trading firm has an implied authority to borrow money for the purposes of the business on the credit of the firm. 1924 B. 260 =48 B. 176=77 I.C. 548. See also 34 Bom.L.R. 1137=1932 B. 539; 10 R. 204= 1932 R. 118; 123 I.C. 358=1930 M. 168; 40 M. 727=31 M.L.J. 138; 28 C.W.N. 824=1925 C. 293; (1847) 6 Moo.P.C. at pp. 193, 194; 79 R.R. 53. Where, however, the business is not of a commercial nature, e.g., where it is a professional business, or even the business of a farmer or a quarry worker, where there is no buying and selling of goods, or an auctioneer, no partner can borrow or pledge the partnership property so as to bind his co-partners. 48 B. 176. A partnership in rice mill is not a trading partnership and one partner cannot bind the others by negotiable instruments without express authority. 1921 L.B. 44= 66 I.C. 584=11 L.B.R. 137. The presumption as to the existence of an authority to borrow is, however, not confined to trading partnership only, but it applies to every business which cannot be carried on in the usual way without such power. 21 S.L.R. 267=1926 S. 291. A bond or promissory note executed by the managing partner, for the joint purpose of the firm and within the ordinary scope of his authority is binding on the remaining partners. 24 W.R. 60 (61). See also 62 I.C. 315=10 L.B.R. 321; 33 P.L.R. 411; 10 R. 204=138 I.C. 210=1932 R. 118. Where a partner of a firm executes a promissory note in his individual capacity and not on behalf of the firm, the executant alone is liable under the note. 142 I.C. 837=35 Bom.L.R. 68=1933 B. 101. A partner is always liable for the partnership debt unless there is a restriction expressed or implied on the liability of one partner on a bill or note by another partner for partnership purposes. 40 M. 727=31 M. L.J. 138. See also 9 Bom.L.R. 274. As to the authority of a partner to sign and endorse promissory notes on behalf of others it is sufficient if such authority can be inferred from the surrounding circumstances. 84 I.C. 391=2 R. 367=1925 R. 30. See also 35 Bom.L.R. 68=1933 B. 101. Dormant partner is liable only to the extent of sums borrowed by the active partner in his capacity as a member of the firm. 28 C.W. N. 824=1925 C. 293; 142 I.C. 837=1933 B. 101=35 Bom.L.R. 68. Every one of the partners, in a mercantile firm of ordinary trading partnership, is liable upon a bill drawn by a partner in the recognized trading name of the firm for a transaction incident to the business of the firm, although his name does not appear on the face of the instrument and although he be a sleeping and secret partner. In order to take a case out of this general rule, it must be shown that the holder of the bill knew, at the time he received it, that the transaction was the private affair of a single partner. 13 W.R.P.C. 29 (30)=13 M.I. A. 358. Where there is a contract with the partnership and a promissory note is signed by a partner in his own name and not in the name of the partnership, as evidence of such contract, all the partners will be liable. 123 I.C. 358=1930 M. 168; 35 Bom.L.R. 68=1933 B. 101. Where one of partners of a firm signs a promissory note, in order that all the partners are to be liable under it, it is necessary that not merely the firm's name should be disclosed "in some way", but it must be disclosed in such a way that, on any fair interpretation of the instrument, the firm must be the real person liable upon the bill. One of the partners of a firm signed a pro-note describing himself as "Proprietor, Punjab Alliance Auction Rooms, Lahore". Held, that this description was not sufficient to make other partners in the firm liable. 15 L. 652=1934 L. 358. The joint liability of each partner being the ordinary incident of the partnership, one of the partners has no authority, without the consent of the co-partners, to change the joint liability into a joint and several liability. 24 B. 77 (84). Where two of the partners of a firm execute a promissory note in favour of a third agreeing to pay him a certain sum of money as being due to him on taking partnership accounts, the remaining partners of the firm will not be bound by the promissory note. 117 I.C. 108=1929 A. 542. In the case of a running money-lending business one partner can borrow and mortgage firm's assets; but when it is being wound up, this cannot be done except for necessity. 8 L.B. R. 363=36 I.C. 225.

POWER TO SETTLE AN ACCOUNT.—A partner has power to settle an account between the partnership and a third person, so as to bind the other partner. 12 M.L.J. 444= 26 M. 186 (P.C.). See also 45 P. R. 1899=5 P.L.R. 1900 (a case of a Hindu joint family business). In a working partnership there is a presumption that a partner has authority to strike balances in the firm account. 1929 L. 512.

POWER TO PAY THE DEBTS OF THE FIRM.—One partner can apply assets in paying debts that would be otherwise barred. 19 Bom. L.R. 86=38 I.C. 873.

POWER TO MAKE PART-PAYMENTS, ENDORSE OR ACKNOWLEDGE TO SAVE LIMITATION.—On the same principle he can pass acknowledgments to stave off the claims of creditors and to save the claims from being barred by limitation. 19 Bom.L.R. 86=38 I. C. 873; 33 P.L.R. 584=1932 L. 456. See also on the point. 41 M. 427=34 M.L.J. 373 (F. B.), following. 37 M. 146=25 M.L.J. 501 and overruling. 32 M. 421 and 35 M. 142; 15 Mys.L.J. 3. If one partner has authority to discharge a debt he can also make part-payments and endorse them. 2 R. 367 =1925 R. 30=84 I.C. 391. See also 123 I.C. 358=1930 M. 168; 1931 L. 136=12 L. 270. In the case of a mercantile firm, each partner is entrusted by his co-partners with a general authority to do any act necessary for, or usually done in, carrying on the business of such partnership; a partner's authority extends to making an acknowledgment by part-payment so as to bind his partners. 1926 M. 114=50 M.L.J. 67. See also 56 C. 556=33 C.W.N. 412=1929 C. 714; 10 B. 358 (362); 5 P.L.R. 1900 =45 P.R. 1889. Acknowledgment by a partner, during the subsistence of the partnership, must, in order to save limitation, be an act necessary for, or usually done in, carrying on the business of the partnership. But an acknowledgment by a partner, after dissolution of the business, cannot save limitation, if the creditor had, at the date of acknowledgment, notice of the dissolution. 26 B. 42=3 Bom.L.R. 484. See also 8 L.B.R. 363=36 I.C. 225. Similarly, where a partnership is dissolved by the death of one of the partners, the surviving partners cannot bind the representatives of the deceased by their acknowledgment, unless they are specially authorised to do so. 8 M.L.J. 261. See also 85 I.C. 775=1925 N. 268. An acknowledgment made by one partner does not bind the other partners in the absence of proof that they authorised such an acknowledgment or payment; and such authority cannot be presumed. 85 I.C. 775=1925 N. 268.

POWER TO RECEIVE DEBTS DUE TO THE FIRM. —Though payment to a partner of a firm debt is a valid discharge of the debt, an agreement to set-off a debt due to the firm against a private debt due from one partner must be presumed to be in fraud of the partnership and does not amount to a valid discharge of the debt due to the firm. 9 I.C. 116=13 C.L.J. 234. See also 6 M. L.J. 115=19 M. 471 (475). But see 12 L. 270=1931 L. 136, holding that such a mere adjustment does not necessarily amount to a fraud and does not prejudice the plaintiff firm, and in the absence or proof of fraud or prejudice, it is binding on the plaintiff firm. Son of a deceased partner cannot give a complete discharge of a debt due to the partnership. 109 I.C. 50=1928 L. 832. An authority to give discharge for a debt on payment would not include a power to compromise or settle it in any way a partner liked. 59 M. 1036=1936 M. 593 =71 M.L.J. 378.

POWER TO EXECUTE A RELEASE.—A partnership firm is not a legal entity like a limited liability company. Consequently, a conveyance to the firm operates as a conveyance to the individual partners. Release of property mortgaged to a firm as a firm as a whole is useless, unless it is known who the individual partners are and whether the executant of the release is authorised by them to act on their behalf. 49 B. 245=1925 B. 69.

Sub-S. 2, Cl. (a): POWER TO SUBMIT A DISPUTE TO ARBITRATION.—A partner has no authority to bind his firm by a submission to arbitration. Stead v. Salt, 1825, 3 Bing. 101; 34 Bom.L.R. 1112=1932 B. 516; 59 I.C. 501=39 M.L.J. 269; 92 I.C. 705= 1926 L. 91; 133 I.C. 558=1932 L. 291. See also 107 I.C. 793=1928 M. 107; 83 I. C. 539=1924 S. 29=17 S.L.R. 164. Special authority, express or implied, is necessary to bind the other partners by submission to arbitration. 7 L.W. 114=43 I.C. 508; 76 I.C. 359=1924 S. 41. But a partner who ratifies the submission will be bound by it. 7 L.W. 114=43 I.C. 508. See also 22 A. 135 (138). Where the suit is brought against a firm, the reference to arbitration is made by a firm, and the award is against a firm and not against the individual members thereof, the award is valid, though the submission is signed by the managing members of the firm only and not by all members. 71 I.C. 734=1923 L. 212. Where the submission has been made in good faith and the partner has to make payment in accordance with the award, the partner is entitled to claim contribution from his partners on the basis of the award. 59 I.C. 501=39 M.L.J. 269. When one or some of the partners pay off a debt due by the partnership, he or they can compel contribution from his or their other partners. Such a suit cannot be regarded as one for accounts of partnership. 1941 N.L.J. 667=1942 N. 72. Where a creditor obtains a joint decree against some of the partners of a firm in respect of a partnership debt contracted by them, one of the judgment-debtors by paying the entire decretal amount is not entitled to sue his co-judgment-debtors alone for contribution in the absence of the other partners, unless there are special circumstances. Such special circumstances generally arise where there is an express promise by the co-judgment-debtors to indemnify the plaintiff. If, on the other hand, the debt that is paid by the plaintiff is not a partnership debt but a debt contracted by the partners on their own personal liability, quite independently of the partnership business, a suit for contribution would undoubtedly lie. The mere fact that a joint decree is passed against some of the partners is not sufficient for the purpose of showing that it is a separate liability incurred by them jointly. 43 C.W.N. 1214; see also I.L.R. (1942) Nag. 340=1942 Nag. 72.

Sub-S. (2), Cls. (c) and (d).—Now a partner has no authority to compromise or relinquish any portion of a claim by the firm. Prior to the Act, it was held by Kincaid, J.C. and Aston, A.J.C. (Kennedy, A.J.C., dissenting) that one partner might release a cause of action in which all the partners were jointly interested in the absence of fraud. 80 I.C. 583=1925 S. 63. See also 76 I.C. 359=1924 S. 41. The right of one partner to claim a share in a debt fraudulently released by the others is a personal one not passing to his legal representatives. 41 M. 446=34 M.L.J. 41=44 I.C. 466. Thus cl. (c) would apply even where the compromise is effected in the form of "an assignment" of a decree in favour of the firm. 59 M. 1036=1936 M. 593 (noted supra). But see 1936 A.M.L.J. 79. A partner in a trading firm has an implied

(f) acquire immovable property on behalf of the firm,

(g) transfer immovable property belonging to the firm, or

(h) enter into partnership on behalf of the firm.

Extension and restriction of partner's implied authority.

20. The partners in a firm may, by contract between the partners, extend or restrict the implied authority of any partner.

Notwithstanding any such restriction, any act done by a partner on behalf of the firm which falls within his implied authority binds the firm, unless the person with whom he is dealing knows of the restriction or does not know or believe that partner to be a partner.

Partner's authority in an emergency.

21. A partner has authority, in an emergency, to do all such acts for the purpose of protecting the firm from loss as would be done by a person of ordinary prudence, in his own case, acting under similar circumstances, and such acts bind the firm.

authority to assign a debt due to the firm; but he has no such authority to assign a decree for money obtained by the firm for an amount which is less than the decretal amount. 43 Bom.L.R. 888=1942 Bom. 22.

Cl. (f).—A lease taken by two partners, without the concurrence of the third, cannot bind the latter, when such concurrence is a necessary condition of the partnership. 21 I.C. 3=7 L.B.R. 42. Where, one partner is empowered to take a lease and execute any necessary documents, it must be taken that such documents were intended to operate, as if all the members were parties thereto, although the other members are not mentioned in the agreement and did not execute them. 19 M. 471 (476). But see 16 B. 568 (574), holding that the other partners are not liable to be directly sued by the lessor for the rent reserved by the lease.

Cl. (g): PARTNER'S POWER TO MORTGAGE PARTNERSHIP PROPERTY.—Prior to the Act, the Courts were of the view that a partner can effect a legal as well as an equitable mortgage of partnership property. It is settled law in England that a partner can effect a mortgage by deposit of title-deeds. See Lindley on Partnership, pp. 156 and 165; and In re Clough, (1885) 31 Ch. D. 324; and In re Bourne, Bourne v. Bourne, (1906) 2 Ch. 427. This clause would seem to prohibit even such a mortgage, because a mortgage by deposit of title-deeds would be a transfer of the immovable property, by the operation of S. 58 of the T. P. Act. (See Sel. Com. Report.) The case-law in India prior to the Act is summarised below: —Power to borrow is incidental to power to trade and power to pledge the business assets is incidental to power to borrow. See 31 M. 206; 2 M.I.A. 487 (P.C.); 4 A. 437 (460). If the partnership be of a general commercial nature, one partner may even pledge or sell the partnership property. 81 I.C. 513=28 C.W.N. 824=1925 C. 29. The managing partner has power to execute mortgage of partnership property in order to raise money to carry on the business. 107 I.C. 453=1928 P.C. 135 (P.C.). In a partnership whose business it is to buy and deal in land, a partner can mortgage the partnership land. 10 I.C. 776.

RELATION OF PARTNERS—RIGHT OF SUIT OF INTER SE—Partners are not, as regards partnership dealings, considered as debtor and creditor inter se until the concern is wound up or accounts settled. One partner has, therefore, no right of action against another for the balance owing to him until after final settlement of accounts; but he can proceed against another for a debt which is independent of the partnership account. The only suit possible between the parties is one for partnership accounts. 62 C. 510= 39 C.W.N. 606. I.L.R. (1946) N. 301 =1946 N. 266. See also 1946 N.L.J. 215 as to suit by a partner to recover advance made by him for partnership purposes.

RIGHT OF SURVIVING PARTNER.—A surviving partner can file a suit without impleading the representatives of a deceased partner for the recovery of a partnership debt which accrued due during the lifetime of the deceased partner. 11 Mys.L.J. 344.

SUIT NOT IN FIRM NAME—ALL PARTNERS MUST BE IMPLEADED.—If a suit is not brought in the name of a firm, all the partners should be impleaded. A suit by a person as the sole owner of a firm, at the time of the institution of the suit, cannot be said to be one on behalf of the firm. 35 P.L. R. 616=1934 L. 459. Individual partners may be sued personally along with the firm and a decree can be passed against the partners as well as the firm. 187 I.C. 373= 1940 Sind 19. See also 1938 Rang. 205. Suit against partners—Partnership business carried on by some members of joint Hindu family—Relief against other members on footing that business is joint Hindu family business — Pleadings — Relief. See 1938 Rang. 205.

Sec. 20.—Cf. Ss. 5 and 8, English Partnership Act and S. 251, Contract Act. Partner cannot by notice absolve himself from liability for other partner's acts. But unauthorised dealings by one partner contrary to resolution by majority are not binding on partnership as against party with

22. In order to bind a firm, an act or instrument done or executed by a partner or other person on behalf of the firm shall be done or executed in the firm name, or in any other manner expressing or implying an intention to bind the firm.

Mode of doing act to bind firm.

23. An admission or representation made by a partner concerning the affairs of the firm is evidence against the firm, if it is made in the ordinary course of business.

Effect of admissions by a partner.

24. Notice to a partner who habitually acts in the business of the firm of any matter relating to the affairs of the firm operates as notice to the firm, except in the case of a fraud on the firm committed by or with the consent of that partner.

Effect of notice to acting partner.

Sec. 22.—Cf. S. 6 of the English partnership Act.

PRINCIPLES OF THE SECTION—FIRM WHEN BOUND BY ACTS OF ITS AGENTS.—See British Homes Ass. Corp., Ltd. v. Paterson, (1902) 2 Ch. 404; 126 I.C. 741=1928 B. 516; 1926 M. 390; 1930 S. 4. See also 13 I. C. 255=5 S.L.R. 168; 35 Bom.L.R. 68= 1933 B. 101. Though it is true that there was no provision in the Contract Act corresponding to S. 22 of the Partnership Act, that section has not effected any change in the law. It does no more than state what was the law, namely, that the act of a partner in order to bind the firm should be done on behalf of the firm, but it is not necessary that it should also purport to be so done. 58 L.W. 236=1945 M. 263=(1945) 1 M.L.J. 279.

SEC. 22 is controlled by S. 27. Negotiable Instruments Act. See 1945 M. 439 =(1945) 2 M.L.J. 113. One partner cannot bind the others by guarantee apparently unconnected with the partnership. [Duncan v. Lowndes, (1813) 3 Camp. 478; 20 N.L. R. 140=1924 N. 411.] A partner is not liable for the action of other partners unless the same is on behalf of the partnership. 20 N.L.R. 140=1924 N. 411. A bill given for partnership purposes by one partner in his own name, and not in the firm's name, does not bind the other partner. Re Adansonia Fibre Co., Miles' Claim, (1874) 9 Ch. App. 635. See also 39 B. 261=42 I.A. 48 =28 M.L.J. 515 (P.C.). A pro-note was headed "The Lahore Cotton Baling Press," and signed by one G alone. A suit was brought against G and H, alleging that H was the partner and thus liable. Held, that the form of the document showed that H was not liable. 111 I.C. 645=1928 L. 722. Where two persons form a partnership for the purpose of a trading adventure, and goods are purchased or moneys raised, ostensibly by an individual adventurer, but truly and substantially for the purpose of the joint adventure, the adventurers are liable as partners. But there is no such responsibility for goods purchased upon the credit of an individual adventurer, though they are afterwards brought into stock as his contribution to the joint adventure. The test to be applied to each case, to find out whether the transaction is or is not a partnership transaction, is laid down in (1810) 12 East 421; 39 B. 261= 42 I.A. 48=28 M.L.J. 515=26 I.C. 915 (P.C.). Where some of the partners signed an agreement without any words following their signatures to show in what capacity they signed, but the instrument sufficiently disclosed that the agreement was made on behalf of the firm, it was held that the other partners also were bound by the agreement. 113 I.C. 380=1928 M. 1196=55 M.L.J. 574. Words which may be construed as merely a description or as showing the designation of the person signing the instrument will not be sufficient to make a firm liable. 1930 S. 4.

Sec. 23.—"S. 23 is based on S. 15 of the English Act." (Report of the Select Committee.)

"IF IT IS MADE IN THE ORDINARY COURSE OF BUSINESS".—If the transaction in connection with which a representation or an admission is made is within the scope of the partner's authority as agent of the firm, such representation or admission will bind all the partners, otherwise it will not, unless actually authorized or ratified by them. See 84 I.C. 199=1924 N. 411. It is receivable against the partner making it, although not ordinarily conclusive against him.

Sec. 24.—Cf. S. 16 of the English Partnership Act.

Liability of a partner for acts of a firm.

25. Every partner is liable, jointly with all the other partners and also severally, for all acts of the firm done while he is a partner.

Liability of the firm for wrongful acts of a partner.

26. Where, by the wrongful act or omission of a partner acting in the ordinary course of the business of a firm, or with the authority of his partners, loss or injury is caused to any third party, or any penalty is incurred, the firm is liable therefor to the same extent as the partner.

Liability of firm for misapplication by partners.

27. Where—

(a) a partner acting within his apparent authority receives money or property from a third party and misapplies it, or

(b) a firm in the course of its business receives money or property from a third party, and the money or property is misapplied by any of the partners while it is in the custody of the firm, the firm is liable to make good the loss.

SEC. 25.—Cf. English Partnership Act, Ss. 9 and 12 and Indian Contract Act, Ss. 249 and 250. Partners are jointly and severally liable for the acts or omissions of any of them which cause loss or damage to third persons, if such acts are either done by a partner in the ordinary course of the firm's business or with the authority of his partners (S. 26). They are also jointly and severally liable where a partner receives and misapplies the money or property of a third person while acting within the scope of his apparent authority, and where the firm receives, in the ordinary course of its business, money or property which is misapplied by one or more of the partners while in the firm's custody (S. 27). See 48 B. 176=1924 B. 260. Surety letter of managing partner given on behalf of the firm binds all the partners. 1939 N.L.J. 80=1939 Nag. 31. When a firm ceases to exist, but some of the partners carry on the business under the same name, the retiring partners cannot be made liable for any transaction entered into after the dissolution. 68 I.C. 932=1922 L. 466. The estate of the deceased partner is not liable for the debt contracted by the surviving partner to enable him to perform a contract entered into during the lifetime of the former. The suit debt being binding on the partnership assets, the surviving partner has power to pledge the partnership assets in discharge of it. As regards that amount, a personal decree against the partnership assets in his hands can be passed. 42 M. 15=35 M.L.J. 669=47 I.C. 958. Except on dissolution of the partnership, no suit could be maintained by a partner or his assignee for contribution against the other partner in respect of a partnership debt. 33 M.L.J. 509=43 I.C. 217. A partner is always liable for the partnership debt, unless there is a restriction expressed or implied on the liability to be incurred by one partner on a bill or promissory note which may be executed by another partner for partnership purposes. 40 M. 727=31 M.L.J. 138. Where a partnership is rescinded on the ground of fraud, the partners at fault cannot ask the other partners to contribute to the loss which may have resulted in the partnership. 60 I.C. 709=1921 L. 130.

SEC. 26.—See S. 10, English Partnership Act. "Ss. 26 and 27 describe the tortious acts for which a firm is liable. They reproduce Ss. 10 and 11 of the English Act, with very little change." (Report of the Select Committee.) The mere fact that a partner, in instituting a malicious prosecution against a stranger, described himself as the agent of the partnership, acting in the matter of the complaint against the stranger on behalf of the firm, is not sufficient to render the firm or all the partners liable in damages to the stranger. There must be evidence to show that the firm was in some way or other concerned in the prosecution and had instigated it. 28 B. 226 (231). As to liability of partner for criminal breach of trust, see 1939 L. 406=41 P.L.R. 37; 1939 Sind 21.

SEC. 27.—See S. 11, English Partnership Act. Any partner in a trading firm has an implied authority to borrow money for the purposes of the business on the credit of the firm. A firm would be a trading firm if its business consists in buying and selling. In such a case, there is no duty cast on the person who advances the money to make any further enquiries and the other partners are responsible though the borrowing partner may misappropriate the money. 48 B. 176=77 I.C. 548=1924 B. 260.

SEC. 28.—See S. 14, English Partnership Act and Ss. 245 and 246 of the Indian Contract Act. "S. 28 introduces the doctrine of 'holding out.'"

PRINCIPLES OF THE SECTION.—See 10 C.W.N. 313; 18 W.R. 384; 78 P.R. 1903. Any partner in that firm to any one who has on the faith of any such representation given credit to the firm; whether the person representing himself or represented to be a partner does or does not know that the representation has reached the person so giving credit.

(2) Where after a partner's death the business is continued in the old firm name, the continued use of that name or of the deceased partner's name as a part thereof shall not of itself make his legal representative or his estate liable for any act of the firm done after his death.

Rights of transferee of a partner's interest.

29. (1) A transfer by a partner of his interest in the firm, either absolute or by mortgage, or by the creation by him of a charge on such interest, does not entitle the transferee, during the continuance of the firm, to interfere in the conduct of the business, or to require accounts, or to inspect the books of the firm, but entitles the transferee only to receive the share of profits of the transferring partner, and the transferee shall accept the account of profits agreed to by the partners.

(2) If the firm is dissolved or if the transferring partner ceases to be a partner, the transferee is entitled as against the remaining partners, to receive the share of the assets of the firm to which the transferring partner is entitled, and, for the purpose of ascertaining that share, to an account as from the date of the dissolution.

conduct on the part of a person reasonably calculated to lead others to suppose that he is a partner in a particular business amounts to a holding out on his part; for by such conduct he lends his credit to the concern. A frequent method of holding out consists in the use of one's name as a part of the firm style. Such use is a virtual representation that the person thus named is a member of the firm. See 88 I.C. 584=1925 O. 451; 87 I.C. 508=29 C.W.N. 496=1925 C. 937. The addition of "& Co." to the name of an individual does not indicate that any particular person is designated by those words. Still a person may be held out as a partner, without having his name appear in the firm style, or being disclosed in any way. 1925 O. 451. Under this Act the rule of liability by "holding out" can be relied on only by the persons to whom the representation has been made and who have acted on the faith of its being true. 87 I.C. 905=1925 S. 310. See also 10 C.W.N. 313; 18 W.R. 384 (387); 78 P.R. 1903. As to liability of retiring partner, see 137 P.L.R. 1908=102 P.W.R. 1908. But there may be cases in which the holding out has been so public and so long continued that the Court may infer that one dealing with the parties knew it and relied upon it, without direct testimony to that effect.

SEC. 29.—See S. 31, English Partnership Act.

CHANGE OF MEMBERSHIP OF FIRM BY TRANSFER OF A PARTNER'S INTEREST IN THE FIRM.—It is competent for a partner to sell his interest in the firm and retire therefrom. Such transaction does not prevent the continuance of the partnership by the other partners. On the contrary, if the business is thereafter carried on by the other partners, it will be presumed that their original contract remains in force, so far as it is consistent with the change of members. Without the retirement of a partner, the members of an existing firm may admit a new member into the firm. If the incoming partner is induced to become a member of the firm by false and fraudulent representations, he may rescind or maintain an action on the ground of fraud. As to the effect of fraud on creditors, see 18 N.L.R. 186=64 I.C. 719=1922 N. 70. The fundamental principle underlying the law of partnership is that a stranger cannot be foisted upon the partners against their will; consequently even when a partner transfers his interests in a firm the transferor does not cease to be a partner nor does the transferee become one. 1942 N.L.J. 229. The assignee of a partner is not bound by any settlement of accounts entered into by the remaining partners behind his back and after notice of assignment. 52 M. 509=1929 M. 627=56 M.L.J. 776. The legal power of a partner to make a transfer of his interest to a third person is unquestioned. The transferee, however, does not become a tenant-in-common with the other partners in any specific goods, but acquires only the interest his vendor had, which is his share of the residue after the affairs of the firm are settled and the debts paid, including, debts due from the firm to a partner. Such a purchase does not make the buyer a partner in the firm, without the concurrence of all the partners, either given expressly or implied from conduct. The assignee or mortgagee of the share of a partner is entitled to receive a share of the profits to which the assigning partner would be entitled and the assignee must accept the accounts of profits agreed to by the partners. 10 P. 792=12 Pat.L.T. 361=1932 P. 15. See also 4 L.W. 10=34

30. (1) A person who is a minor according to the law to which he is subject may not be a partner in a firm, but, with the consent of all the partners for the time being, he may be admitted to the benefits of partnership.

Minors admitted to the benefits of partnership.

(2) Such minor has a right to such share of the property and of the profits of the firm as may be agreed upon, and he may have access to and inspect and copy any of the accounts of the firm.

I.C. 543. A third party assignee of the rights of a partner has no right to call for an account of the partnership business from the other partners; even when the transfer results in or is followed by a dissolution the transferee can claim an account only from the date of dissolution. The Act does not deal with the case of a transfer by an ex-partner after dissolution but there is no reason why the right of such a transferee to claim an account of the partnership from the other ex-partners should be any larger than the right of a transferee or assignee under S. 29 of the Act. To a suit by such a transferee for accounts from the date of the partnership and not merely from the date of dissolution, the assignor is a necessary party and his non-joinder is fatal. I.L.R. (1944) Kar. 21. Where two out of a firm of three partners assigned their shares to two others and it was not proved that the third partner relinquished his claim upon the assignors as a partner, although he might have had knowledge of the assignment, he is entitled to sue for the winding up of the partnership and for a decree for account as against the assignor-partners and the assignees. 26 I.A. 202=27 C. 93 (P.C.). One partner cannot by his action introduce a third party without the consent of the other partners, so as to give the third party a right to interfere in the management of the business or to ask for an account. It is only when dissolution occurs that the right of the assignee arises to take action in the same way as his assignor could have done, to claim an account as from the date of the dissolution. But it is the assignor and not the assignee who can sue for dissolution. 27 Bom.L.R. 409=1925 B. 347. See also 10 P. 792, supra. That is the law as laid down in the English Partnership Act (see Sec. 31) and that also represents and always represented the law in India, although there was, before the enactment of this section, no statutory provision to that effect. 10 P. 792. The purchaser of the right of one of the partners of a mill, pending a suit for dissolution and accounts, is not entitled to maintain a separate suit for damages for use and occupation of the mill even though the mill solely belonged to his vendor. 19 C.W.N. 1115=31 I.C. 707. A receiver appointed at the instance of an assignee of the share of a partner cannot, any more than the assignee himself, sue the other partners for accounts before dissolution. 10 P. 792=133 I.C. 40=1932 15. As to exceptional circumstances, under which the right to account may be recognised. 10 P. 792. A partner has no right to any specific items of partnership property, but a partner in a firm, unlike a shareholder in a joint stock company, is a 'joint owner' and holds an interest in the partnership property, and dissolution of partnership operates as a transfer of that interest An agreement to assign his interests in a firm owning immovable property requires to be registered. 55 M. 72=1931 M. 580=60 M. L.J. 527. In a suit by a transferee or an assignee from an ex-partner in a firm after the dissolution of the partnership, for accounts of the dissolved partnership as a whole and not for accounts after the date of the dissolution only, the assignors are necessary parties. Consequently, when they are not joined either as plaintiffs or defendants till more than three years after the dissolution of the partnership, the entire suit must stand dismissed. Sec. 130 (2), T. P. Act, does not obviate the necessity of impleading the assignor in such a suit. 194 I.C. 380=1941 Sind 73.

SEC. 30.—Cf. Ss. 247 and 248, Contract Act. There is nothing corresponding to this section in the English Act. A minor on attaining majority cannot be adjudicated insolvent for the debts of the firm. 36 I.C. 787=1917 M.W.N. 150; 58 I.C. 557. Both under S. 30 of the Partnership Act and under S. 247 of the Contract Act which was repealed by the former Act, a minor cannot be a partner in a firm though he may be admitted to the benefits of a partnership. There can therefore be no question of a minor retiring from a partnership when he is still a minor. Under S. 30 of the Partnership Act, a minor who is admitted to the benefits of a partnership, will no doubt become a partner if he fails to give notice within six months of his becoming a major; but this will not apply when the minor had become a major before the Partnership Act came into force. S. 248, Contract Act, which was in force before the Partnership Act, did not provide for the minor becoming a partner on failure to give public notice. The position would only be

(3) Such minor's share is liable for the acts of the firm, but the minor is not personally liable for any such act.

(4) Such minor may not sue the partners for an account or payment of his share of the property or profits of the firm, save when severing his connection with the firm, and in such case the amount of his share shall be determined by a valuation made as far as possible in accordance with the rules contained in section 48:

Provided that all the partners acting together or any partner entitled to dissolve the firm upon notice to other partners may elect in such suit to dissolve the firm, and thereupon the Court shall proceed with the suit as one for dissolution and for settling accounts between the partners and the amount of the share of the minor shall be determined along with the shares of the partners.

(5) At any time within six months of his attaining majority, or of his obtaining knowledge that he had been admitted to the benefits of the partnership, whichever date is later, such person may give public notice that he has elected to become or that he has elected not to become a partner in the firm, and such notice shall determine his position as regards the firm:

Provided that, if he fails to give such notice, he shall become a partner in the firm on the expiry of the said six months.

(6) Where any person has been admitted as a minor to the benefits of partnership in a firm, the burden of proving the fact that such person had no knowledge of such admission until a particular date after the expiry of six months of his attaining majority shall lie on the person asserting that fact.

that he became liable on attaining majority for the obligation incurred since the admission to the benefits of the partnership unless he gave public notice within a reasonable time of his repudiation of partnership. 1945 P. W.N. 320=1945 P. 286. Though a minor partner cannot be adjudicated insolvent, the firm can be and its profits can be dealt with for the benefit of the creditors. Minor has a right to share in the property still left. 21 S.L.R. 280=1927 S. 18=97 I.C. 446. See also 42 A. 515=18 A.L.J. 611=55 I.C. 557; 42 C. 225=26 I.C. 836; 42 I.C. 98. S. 247, the infant, while entitled to share in the which an infant partner occupies, does not seem to accord with the English cases. Under S. 247, the infant, while entitled to share the profits of the business, is not liable for the losses except to the extent of his own share in the partnership property. According to the English cases, a minor is no more bound by a contract of partnership than by any other contract. Moreover, under S. 247, the minor's share in the property of the firm is liable for its obligations, whether he has derived benefit from the business or not. 20 B. 767 (777). S. 248, Contract Act, seems to place the creditors of the firm in a more favourable position than in England. 25 C. W.N. 847=66 I.C. 811=1921 C. 538. "Benefits of partnership" include benefits which minor would enjoy if he were major. 86 I.C. 944=18 S.L.R. 96=1925 S. 272. This section is subject to the provisions of S. 11, Contract Act, and a minor cannot simultaneously create a partnership and admit himself to its benefits. There must be a partnership already in existence before a minor can be admitted to the benefits thereof. 1922 L. 441=67 I.C. 95. The question whether a minor has been admitted to the benefits of a partnership is one of fact to be pleaded and proved at the trial and cannot be allowed to be raised for the first time in appeal. 49 C. 560=49 I.A. 108=1922 P.C. 237=43 M.L.J. 41 (P.C.). Where one of two partners died leaving a minor son, but the business was carried on under the old name and style with the partnership funds, held, that the minor could not enter into a contract with the surviving partner and was consequently not a partner. 53 A. 479=130 I.C. 704=1931 A. 327. In a such case the partnership having come to an end on the death of one of the partners, there was no question of the minor being admitted to the benefits of the partnership. 53 A. 479. Although a minor cannot be a member of partnership by his own contract, yet, if he is admitted to the benefits of the partnership by the other members, he can bind the others by his dealings in respect of the partnership business. 42 I. C. 98. Ss. 247 and 248, Contract Act, are independent of Hindu law and apply to all persons. 36 I.C. 787. See, however, 41 M. 824, infra. Ss. 247 and 248, Contract Act, do not apply to minor members in a joint family trade whether started by manager or inherited. The minor's interest depends on his belonging to the family, not on his agreement or admission. Minor is not liable for debts contracted during his minority. 41 M. 824=35 M.L.J. 473=49 I.C. 220. See also 23 C.W.N. 500=29 C.L.J. 280=51 I.C. 597. interest in a joint family business, does not necessarily become a member of the trading partnership which carries on the business. He can only become a member of the partnership by a consentient act on the part of himself and his partners. 26 C. 349 (354). Members of the family, who are minors and are not shown to have been admitted into a trading firm and to have taken part in its business, need not be made parties as plaintiffs to a suit to recover arrears due to a family trading firm. 25 A. 378 (384). The guardian of a Hindu minor is competent to carry on an ancestral trade on behalf of the minor; but the minor is not personally liable for the debts of the business and, on the analogy of the rule in S. 247 with regard to his liability on being admitted to partnership contracts, the share of the minor in the property is alone liable. 3 C. 738. S. 247 is not strictly applicable, however, where the minor is the sole owner of the firm, as there is no case of partnership there. But, in such a case, where the ancestral trade is carried on under the superintendence of the natural guardian of the minor for the benefit of herself (she having a claim to maintenance) and the said minor, the latter will be bound by all the acts of the natural guardian, which are necessarily incidental to or flowing out of the carrying on of that trade 20 B. 767 (777, 779).

POSITION OF MINOR PARTNER.—Minor, though participating in profits of a firm, is not a partner. See 23 B. 146 (161). A person who is under the age of majority cannot be a member of the "firm" as defined in S. 4. He may be admitted to the benefits of a firm but cannot be made personally liable for any obligations of the firm. His share in the property of the firm is liable for the obligations of the firm and that share is no more than his right to participate in the property of the firm, after its obligations have been satisfied. 21 S.L.R. 280=1927 S. 18; 30 C. 539 (P.C.) and 49 C. 560=1922 P.C. 237=43 M.L.J. 41=49 I.A. 108 (P. C.). See also 25 C.W.N. 847=66 I.C. 811; and 43 I.C. 76=7 L.W. 218. By merely being admitted to the benefits of a partnership, a minor does not become a partner. It is only by his acquiescence after he attains majority that he can be said to have accepted the position of a partner, with all the liabilities of a partner. 62 I.C. 802=1921 M. 98=40 M.L.J. 153.

INCOMING AND OUTGOING PARTNERS.

Introduction of a partner

31. (1) Subject to contract between the partners and to the provisions of section 30, no person shall be introduced as a partner into a firm without the consent of all the existing partners.

(2) Subject to the provisions of section 30, a person who is introduced as a partner into a firm does not thereby become liable for any act of the firm done before he became a partner.

Retirement of a partner

32. (1) A partner may retire—

(a) with the consent of all the other partners,

(b) in accordance with an express agreement by the partners, or

(c) where the partnership is at will, by giving notice in writing to all the other partners of his intention to retire.

tive of deceased partner managing the firm is liable to account to the survivor for partnership business carried on during the deceased's lifetime. The liability of the minor is not taken away by minor's want of personal knowledge. This liability is however confined to the extent of assets received by the minor representative. 40 A. 446=16 A.L.J. 305=45 I.C. 31. See also 71 M.L.J. 373.

FRAUD BY MINOR.—The exception of an infant is not made in S. 115, Evidence Act, and therefore, a minor, who executed a registered sale-deed representing himself to be of full age, is estopped from subsequently seeking to set aside the sale, on the ground of his minority. 21 B. 198 (201); 23 B. 146 (155).

Chap. V.—"Though Chapter VII on the Registration of Firms is the most important departure in the Act as regards substance, this Chapter is the most important departure as regards form. As mentioned in the Select Committee's Report, it contains no material change in the law of partnership, but it collects together and sets out in a convenient form all rules relating to the coming in of a partner, and all rules relating to the going out of a partner in so far as these rules do not relate to the dissolution of the firm or to the consequences of dissolution. As a result of the limitation on the selection of these provisions, they relate chiefly to what is referred to in various places in the Act as a 'change in the firm', that is, a change in the constitution of the firm which has not resulted in the dissolution of the firm. However, a few provisions, such as S. 34 (1) and S. 37 are of general application, that is, they apply where the firm continues without dissolution, and also where a dissolved firm is reconstituted and carries on the business with the property and assets of the dissolved firm is reconstituted and carries on the business with the property and assets of the dissolved firm. For this reason, the Chapter is given the non-committal title of 'Incoming and Outgoing Partners,' rather than the restricted title of 'Change in a Firm,' which would otherwise have been more suitable". (Report of Select Committee)

Sec. 31.—Cf. Ss. 249 and 253 (6) of the Contract Act and Ss. 17 and 24 of the English Act. S. 249, Contract Act, had no application to cases where, by arrangement between the parties, a person becomes entitled to the profits and liable for the debts accruing to and incurred by the firm, before his admission as a partner. 9 C.L. R. 21.

Sec. 31 (2): LIABILITY OF INCOMING PARTNER—COMMENCEMENT.—If a newly constituted partnership agrees among its members that the members of the new partnership shall have the poewr to bind it for the taking on of the debts of the previous firm which the new partnership had taken over, that would be binding on the new partnership, provided, however, there is anything in the transaction to show that the persons who executed the bills or notes or whatever are relied upon, were purporting to act on behalf of the new partnership. 1927 M. 889=53 M.L.J. 303. Even if the incoming partner has agreed with his co-partners that as between themselves, the partnership shall be deemed to have commenced at an earlier date, or that the debts of the old firm shall be taken over by the new, this is not of itself sufficient to give creditors who are no parties to the agreement, any right to sue the new partner for anything done before he in fact become a partner. 51 M.L.J. 506=49 M. 930=1926 M. 1138. To give the creditors this right, there must be some agreement to that effect between the new partners and the creditors. 51 M.L. J. 506=49 M. 930. Apart from privity of contract, a creditor cannot rely on agreement between partners inter se such as that the new partner would be liable for antecedent debts. (Ibid) To determine whether a new partner becomes liable to an existing creditor of the firm, two questions have to be considered (1) whether the new firm has

(2) A retiring partner may be discharged from any liability to any third party for acts of the firm done before his retirement by an agreement made by him with such third party and the partners of the reconstituted firm, and such agreement may be implied by a course of dealing between such third party and the reconstituted firm after he had knowledge of the retirement.

(3) Notwithstanding the retirement of a partner from a firm, he and the partners continue to be liable as partners to third parties for any act done by any of them which would have been an act of the firm if done before the retirement, until public notice is given of the retirement:

Provided that a retired partner is not liable to any third party who deals with the firm without knowing that he was a partner.

assumed the liability to pay the debt, and (2) whether the creditor has agreed to accept the new firm as his debtors, and to discharge the old partnership from its liability 35 C.W.N. 593. If a partner of a firm retires after he has entered into a contract and a new partner joins the firm, the newly constituted firm is different from the old firm and cannot institute a suit on the contract entered into by the latter, except when the new firm took over all the liabilities and outstandings of the old firm 65 I. C. 26=1922 S. 13.

PURCHASER OF STOCK OF OLD FIRM.—S. 262, Contract Act, does not provide for a statutory charge on the property. Hence where a person purchases the stock of an old firm, he is not liable for the debts of the firm, unless such debts are made a charge on the property purchased 1933 A.L.J. 170=1933 A. 175.

Sec 32 (2): PRINCIPLE OF SUB-S. (2).—The law that the creditor is not bound by the arrangements between the partners new and old is more for the benefit of the creditor than to his detriment If a partner retires after the debt was contracted with an arrangement with his co-partners for extinction of his personal liability, such an arrangement does not affect the right of the creditor who can hold all the partners who dealt with him liable. 35 C.W.N. 593. As a general rule, however, a partner who retires from a firm often takes from the continuing partners a contract indemnifying him against firm debts Such contracts of indemnity do not, however, relieve the retiring partner from liability to firm creditors If a person has retired from a firm, he is entitled to show that immediately after the date of retirement, he wrote to the Bank and informed them that he had severed his connection with the firm and could not continue to guarantee its account. If he does that, any statement by him made at the time as the reason for his refusing to continue to guarantee is admissible to explain his conduct. 35 C.W.N. 705=1932 C. 236. A continuing guarantee given to a firm, or in respect of the transactions of a firm, is, in the absence of agreement to the contrary revoked as to the future by a change in the firm The reason is that such a change destroys its identity (See S. 38, infra.) Acknowledgment by one of the several partners in the absence of notice of dissolution by resigning partner is binding on resigning partner. 56 C. 556=33 C.W.N. 412=1929 C. 714 See also 1926 M. 114=50 M.L.J. 67; 26 B. 42. Where notice of dissolution was sent to the branches and the arhitas of the firm, and there was no attempt at concealment of the change in its constitution, the mere fact that the continuing partner retained the old firm's name, which does not disclose the identity of the retired partners, cannot render them liable for debts contracted by the continuing partner, after their retirement. 78 P R. 1903. But where the persons who intended to retire from business did in fact continue to associate with its work, a presumption may legitimately be drawn in favour of the continuance of the partnership 1921 C. 722=67 I.C. 10=34 C.L.J. 405. A partner who has retired before a certain transaction with the firm to which he had belonged takes place, cannot be held responsible, unless it can be shown that the transaction was with either a previous customer or one who was aware that the retired partner had been a partner. 137 P. L.R. 1908=102 P.W.R. 1908; 68 I. C. 932=1922 L. 466; see also 14 L. 188=1933 L. 417; or that he has actually held himself out to be a partner, a position which gives rise to a different class of consideration. 137 P.L.R. 1908=102 P.W.R. 1908. If a person is a member of a firm, and known to be such, persons dealing with the firm may be influenced by his credit, and unless he takes proper steps to make his retirement clear, he will be held responsible to those who knew of his partnership and might have been influenced by the fact. But it is definite personal knowledge which is required. It cannot be held as a principle that when a person has dealings with a man who was once a member of a joint Hindu family and competent to pledge the resources of that family such person can hold all the members, who once constituted a joint Hindu family responsible, unless they have taken the precaution publicly to proclaim their partition. If it be shown that the father of Expulsion of a partner.

33. (1) A partner may not be expelled from a firm by any majority of the partners, save in the exercise in good faith of powers conferred by contract between the partners.

(2) The provisions of sub-section (2), (3) and (4) of section 32 shall apply to an expelled partner as if he were a retired partner.

Insolvency of a partner

34. (1) Where a partner in a firm is adjudicated an insolvent he ceases to be a partner on the date on which the order of adjudication is made whether or not the firm is thereby dissolved.

(2) Where under a contract between the partners the firm is not dissolved by the adjudication of a partner as an insolvent, the estate of a partner so adjudicated is not liable for any act of the firm and the firm is not liable for any act of the insolvent, done after the date on which the order of adjudication is made.

Liability of estate of deceased partner.

35. Where under a contract between the partners the firm is not dissolved by the death of a partner, the estate of a deceased partner is not liable for any act of the firm done after his death.

a minor son, had notice of a fact, such minor cannot say that he had no notice. 137 P. L. R. 1908=102 P. W. R. 1908. The outgoing partner has a right to be indemnified against the partnership debts by the appropriation thereto of the partnership assets unless such right has been taken away by any deed or agreement to which he is a party. 1933 S. 182.

Sec. 32, sub-S. (3): PRINCIPLE OF SUB-CL. (3).—Obligations resulting from contracts entered into before a partner's retirement are binding upon him, even though such obligations are not consummated until after his retirement and although as between himself and the new firm, the latter has undertaken to discharge them. The same is true of obligations incurred after his retirement, and before notice thereof has been duly given unless he is a dormant partner. See 75 P.R. 1908=122 P.W.R. 1908; 28 B. 606 (614). But for liabilities incurred by the new firm after his retirement, which has been duly notified, he is not responsible. See also 1922 L. 466; 9 M. 492. The phrase Chikmi Sharik, by its etymological sense, means a partner whose name is not disclosed, that is, a dormant partner. Therefore, on the retirement of a Shikmi Sharik, no notice of the dissolution of the partnership need be given. But he is liable to all the claims on the partnership till the date of his retirement. The onus of proving that he has retired from the partnership at a specified period lies on him, on general principles as well as under S. 105, Evidence Act. 75 P.R. 1908=122 P.W.R. 1908. Where goods are sent to a firm on inspection during the continuance of a partnership and out of them those that are not required are returned after the dissolution of the partnership, though the cause of action may not arise till the unrequired goods are returned, yet all those persons who were members of the firm at the time the goods were sent to it on inspection will be liable for the goods taken. 29 C.W.N. 496=1925 C. 937.

NOTICE—See 28 B. 606; 9 M. 492 (494). When a dormant partner ceases to be a member of the firm, the real authority of his co-partners to bind him is thereby withdrawn; and as ex hypothesi no one knows of the authority, no one is entitled to rely upon its continuance. 1930 B. 449 following 1927 B. 560 and 1929 P.C. 132. See also 1938 A.L.J. 907=1938 A. 619; 1936 Pat. 539=15 Pat. 709. S. 264, Contract Act, is a particular form of estoppel by conduct and a person is not entitled to take advantage of it unless the facts raise a presumption that the absence of public notice excited in him a belief which caused him to do something that he would not otherwise have done. 1933 L. 591=34 P.L.R. 1022.

Secs. 32, 33 and 45.—Though a partner's connection with a firm may have ceased, the firm would nevertheless continue to be bound by the transactions of that partner made with third parties, until public notice of the severance is given or it is shown that the third party was aware of the severance on the date of transaction. 1938 A.L.J. 907=1938 A. 619.

Sec. 33.—See 12 C.W.N. 455; 1938 All. 619.

Sec. 35.—This section is derived from sub-S. (3) of S. 36 of the English Act. Like S. 34, it is confined to the case where the firm continues without dissolution. Where dissolution has occurred, these matters are provided for in Ss. 45 and 47. (Report of Select Committee.) of the firm and he may advertise such business, but, subject to contract to the contrary, he may not—

(a) use the firm name,

(b) represent himself as carying on the business of the firm, or

(c) solicit the custom of persons who were dealing with the firm before he ceased to be a partner.

(2) A partner may make an agreement with his partners that on ceasing to be a partner he will not carry on any business similar to that of the firm within a specified period or within specified local limits; and, notwithstanding anything contained in section 27 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872, such agreement shall be valid if the restrictions imposed are reasonable.

Agreements in restraint of trade.

37. Where any member of a firm has died or otherwise ceased to be a partner, and the surviving or continuing partners carry on the business of the firm with the property of the firm without any final settlement of accounts as between them and the outgoing partner or his estate, then, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, the outgoing partner, or his estate is entitled at the option of himself or his representatives to such share of the profits made since he ceased to be a partner as may be attributable to the use of his share of the property of the firm or to interest at the rate of six per cent. per annum on the amount of his share in the property of the firm:

Right of outgoing partner in certain cases to share subsequent profits

Provided that where by contract between the partners an option is given to surviving or continuing partners to purcrase the interest of a deceased or outgoing partner, and that option is duly exercised, the estate of the deceased partner, or the outgoing partner or his estate, as the case may be, is not entitled to any further or other share of profits; but if any partner, assuming to act in exercise of the option does not in all material respects comply with the terms thereof, he is liable to account under the foregoing provisions of this section.

with such partner. 1922 L. 466. Where, after dissolution of a certain firm, the assets are divided between the partners, one of the partners can make use of the old firm's name in suits and execution proceedings for the recovery of the debts which fell to his share at the division, unless that causes any risk of liability to the others, and an injunction cannot be granted to restrain such use at the instance of the others. 9 R. 52=1931 R. 138. Mere passive acquiescence or even consent to the use of the firm's name by a partner who has left the firm would not make him liable to persons dealing with the firm after he has left it. 3 I.C. 415=13 C.W.N. 931.

Sec. 37.—Section corresponds to S. 42 of the English Partnership Act.

SCOPE OF SECTION.—Where a partner, on the death of another partner, retains the partnership capital in his hands and employs it in trade, he is bound to render an account of the profits of the partnership to the other partner's son from the time of the death of that partner up to the date when the final decree is made. 53 A. 479=1931 A. 327. Where on the dissolution of a firm one of the partners retains assets of the firm in his hands without any settlement of accounts and applies them in continuing the business for his benefit, he may be ordered to account for these assets with interest thereon, even in the absence of fraud or misconduct in the nature of fraud: 1915 P.C. 116=42 C. 914=42 I.A. 91=29 M. L.J. 70 (P.C.). The assets of the deceased partner are a loan to the firm if they are retained in the business after his death, and the arrangement he makes at the time of death binds his estate. 37 B. 158=19 I. C. 406=15 Bom.L.R. 192. Where on an assignment of a partner's share the partnership is dissolved and a new firm is formed by the remaining partners, the assignee is entitled at his option either to the profits of the new firm or interest at 6 per cent. 52 M. 509=1929 M. 627=56 M.L.J. 776. Option of legal representative—Claim for share of assets only—Maintainability. (1947) 1 M.L.J. 20.

PROFITS ATTRIBUTABLE TO THE SHARE OF THE OUTGOING PARTNER'S CAPITAL.—A minor who is entitled to claim the assets of his deceased father in a partnership cannot claim as of right a share in the profits of the concern. There is no fiduciary relation between the surviving partners and the legal representatives of the deceased partner. The amount due to the deceased is a loan and nothing more. 4 L.W. 521=37 I.C. 728.

NATURE OF RIGHT—ALTERNATIVE—INTEREST OR PROFITS.—The right under this section where it exists, is an alternative right to interest on the capital improperly retained in the business or to an account of the profits made by its use; and one or other of these alternatives must be distinctly chosen. A double claim for both profits and interest is inadmissible. Vyse v. Foster, 1874 L.R. 7 H. L. at p. 336. See also 1929 M. 456=56 M.L.J. 657=52 M. 672. He is not bound to make his election until the share of the profits that would fall to him has been ascertained and hence his final election must be postponed until the accounts have been taken. And for such retiring partner to be able to claim his share of the profits, it is not necessary that the whole of the partnership assets are so used. 52 M. 672=1929 M. 456=56 M.L.J. 657. Where a partner invests capital of his own in the partnership business, he should in equity be allowed to charge interest on the capital so employed in making up the profit and loss account of the business. 110 I.C. 639=23 S.L.R. 471 =1929 S. 85. In an action to dissolve and wind up the affairs of a partnership, until the accounts have been taken, it is impossible to say what if anything is due from any partner or co-partner; interest, therefore, should only be allowed to the plaintiffs from the date of final decree by which amount (if any) is found to be due from the defendants to the plaintiffs and not from the date of plaint. 58 C. 208=34 C.W.N. 737=1930 P.C. 185 (P.C.). A partner is not charged with interest in respect of overdrawings. 1930 P.C. 185.

SEC. 38.—Cf. sec. 18 of the English Act and sec. 260 of the Indian Contract Act. (Report of Select Committee.)

CHAPTER VI.—This Chapter is derived from that part of the English Act which is headed "disolution of Partnership and its consequences," but it excludes certain matters alredy included in the previous Chapter, and introduces some new matter, notably sec. 55 on goodwill. (Report of Select Committee.)

SEC. 39.—As to the position of parties in a partnership suit being in some particulars different from that of the position of parties in an ordinary money suit, see 11 L. 359 =1930 L. 725. Where a member of a joint Hindu family enters into a partnership, he might be representing the family of which he may be a member and may as such be accountable to the other members of the family; but so far as other parties to the deed of partnership are concerned, they must confine themselves to the terms of the deed itself and cannot be permitted to travel beyond it by raising a plea that his brother, a person not party to the said deed should have been impleaded in a suit for dissolution of partnership. 1930 L. 655 = 11 L. 359. See also Notes under sec. 42, cl. (c), infra. The presumption of agency does not exist in the case of a partnership which has ceased to be a going concern. 1925 N. 268=85 I.C. 775. Though it be true that a mere suspension of business of partnership does not necessarily lead to the conclusion that there has been a dissolution of the partnership, still the cessation of business coupled with other circumstances may legitimately lead to the inference that the partnership had been dissolved. 107 I. C. 673=26 A.L.J. 249=1928 A. 58; 1927 P.C. 70 and 1925 A. 786, Dist. After a partnership has been dissolved and accounts settled, any balance struck by a partner is one without authority and consideration. It does not create any liability on the firm. 95 I.C. 88=1926 L. 522 (2).

SUIT FOR DISSOLUTION AND ACCOUNTS—PROCEDURE.—Where a suit is filed for dissolution and settlement of accounts of a partnership business, ordinarily the liabilities have to be paid and assets to be collected and the business has to be wound up. Sometimes this is begun by ascertaining the liabilities and assigning them either to the parties with the consent of the creditors or by discharging them out of the sale proceeds of the assets of the business. The amounts due to the partnership are valued and assigned to the parties, or auctioned between them, or sold to third parties. 160 I.C. 642=1936 Lah. 458. When a partnership at will is formed, apart from the circumstances in which the Court may dissolve it, it can come to an end by a notice of dissolution or abandonment by one of the partners of the partnership. The fact that no further partnership business is done does not result in a dissolution of the partnership. The distinction between the closing of a business and the dissolution of a partnership must be kept in view. I.L.R. (1940) Bom. 505=42 Bom.L.R. 511=1940 Bom. 263. See also 1938 Sind 82=32 S.L. R. 672.

DECREE—FORM OF.—The proper form of an order in dissolution of partnership is given in Form 21, Appendix D to the C. P. Code where there is a form given for a preliminary decree in a suit for dissolution of partnership and the taking of partner-

The practice which has obtained some recognition of copying down the concluding sentences of a judgment and incorporating those as an order instead of making an order as contemplated by the first schedule is bad. 179 I.C. 64=1938 Rang. 478. A suit for dissolution of a partnership by one partner against another, without impleading all the partners of the business is not maintainable. 46 Mys.H. C. R. 234=19 Mys.L.J. 351. Even an assignee of a partner's rights cannot intervene until after dissolution, still less can a person who claims to be a mortgagee of partnership property from a partner for a non-partnership purpose. Such a person claiming under a title which is a nullity as against the firm and the other partners cannot be joined in a suit for dissolution. 1941 N.L.J. 657. Where one of the partners in a firm takes proceedings under the U. P. Encumbered Estates Act without disclosing the existence of the partnership and the other partner's claim in such proceedings are rejected and a suit for disslotion and accounts is brought by him thereafter, it cannot be contended that the liability of the partner applicant under U. P. Encumbered Estates Act is wiped out by reason of the proceedings under the U. P. Encumbered Estates Act. The claim in the suit was by one member of a partnership against the other members and the proceedings under the U. P. Encumbered Estates Act cannot be taken into consideration in taking accounts in such a suit. I.L.R. (1945) All. 520=1945 A.W.R. (H.C.) 344=1945 A.L.J. 201=1945 All. 332. (1945) Kar. P. C. 134. Where on the dissolution of a partnership there is no settlement of accounts between the partners and one of the partners is thereafter compelled to pay a debt due by the partnership to third parties, a suit by such partner against the others for contribution cannot be maintained if at the time of the filing of such suit, a suit for general account of partnership is barred by limitation. 21 Luck. 295=1946 O.A. Sec. 40 covers the case where all the partners agree that the firm should then be dissolved; and also the case where the dissolution occurs in pursuance of a contract previously made, for example, in the articles of partnership. (Report of Select Committee.) It is open to the partners of a partnership to come together and agree to an account among themselves, even after the expiry of three years from date of dissolution; and such a settlement is supported by consideration, as all of them make mutual promises to abide by such settlement. 142 I.C. 549=37 C.W.N. 580=1933 P.C. 120=64 M.L.J. 596 (P.C.). A firm carries on business so long as its business debts remain undischarged. The mere fact that no new business was done after a particular date does not amount to a dissolution of the firm. 32 S.L.R. 672=1938 Sind 82; 1938 Rang. 478. See also 1937 Mad. 599; 1940 B. 63. Where the predominant intention of the executants of a deed of partnership is that the firm shall continue to carry on business without running the risk of dissolution at the instance of one of the partners who did not agree with the rest and wherein machinery is provided by which a partner apprehending loss can obtain adequate relief and there is a provision for settlement of disputes by arbitration, it is clear that it was the intention of the executants that the parnership shall not be dissolved on the happening of the contingencies mentioned in the Partnership Act. In such a case one of the partners has no right to bring a suit for dissolution of the partnership on the ground that the managing partner does not manage the business in a manner which may be profitable to the partners. I.L.R. (1939) A. 577=1939 A.L.J. 440=1939 All. 548.

Sec. 41 relates to events whose occurence unavoidably dissolves a firm. Cl. (a) is new, but needs no comment. Cl. (b) is sec. 34 of the English Act and sec. 255 of the Indian Contract Act. The proviso incorporates a suggestion made by Lindley at page 682. (Report of Select Committee.)

CL. (a).—As to the dissolution of the partnership by the bankruptcy or insolvency of the partners, it may be remarked that this naturally, and indeed, upon just reasoning, necessarily produces this effect, for the bankrupt partners are thereby disabled to perform their portion of the partnership contract, since all their property, is by operation of law immediately upon the declaration of bankruptcy or insolvency, divested out of them and it passses by assignment to the persons who are duly designated as the assignees thereof, to dispose of the same, and to distribute the proceeds among their creditors. The assignees are not, on the one hand, compellable to become partners, nor, on the other hand, are

(b) by the happening of any event which makes it unlawful for the business of the firm to be carried on or for the partners to carry it on in partnership:

Provided that, where more than one separate adventure or undertaking is carried on by the firm, the illegality of one or more shall not of itself cause the dissolution of the firm in respect of its lawful adventures and undertakings.

Dissolution on the happening of certain contingencies.

(b) if constituted to carry out one or more adventures or undertakings, by the completion thereof; the other partners compellable to admit them into the partnership. But a more important and an absolutely conclusive ground is that the further continuation of the partnership is utterly incompatible with the whole policy and objects of the bankrupt and insolvent systems. These systems contemplate an immediate sale and distribution of the assets among the creditors; and the assignees have no authority whatever to enter into any further engagements in any trade or business on account of the creditors, or at their risk. (Story, sec. 313); 1928 S. 71=106 I.C. 54; 1925 S. 310=87 IS.C. 905. A fortiori, the like doctrine applies where all the partners become bankrupt, for then the whole property is divested out of all of them. (Story, sec. 313.) But the mere failure of a company does not dissolve a partnership. 1929 A. 236=117 I.C. 824. On this section, see also 1932 S. 71=26 S.L.R. 204; 1932 S. 164; 1932 B. 316=34 Bom.L.R. 623.

SEC. 41, CL. (b).—The illegality of the partnership is no answer to a demand against it arising out of a transaction to which it is a party if the other person was not aware of it. If a business is carried on by two partners and is legal only so far as one is concerned, the presumption is that he has benefited by one half of the loan and a decree should be given against that partner only for half the amount borrowed by the partnership. 43 M. 141=38 M.L.J. 123=54 I.C. 45. Sec. 25, Punjab Laws Act, only applies to a person's misconduct previous to his being declared an insolvent, and the bankruptsy of a firm does not necessarily involve a legal prohibition of its business. The partners themselves are thereby prevented from carrying on the business, but it does not follow that the business itself is prohibited by law. 37 P.R. 1897. A suit to recover even the money advanced as capital for the purposes of a partnership, which was partly illegal, is bad. 3 Bom. L.R. 169.

SEC. 42.—It is the duty of the Courts to bring about the fulfilment of the expectations of the parties, and when a partnership has been entered into for a fixed term, the Courts should not permit a partner to drive the others to a dissolution. 1921 C. 633=66 I.C. 473=2 L. 351=1922 L. 195. Where plaintiff and defendant entered into partnership for a fixed term, but plaintiff failed to carry out his part of the partnership work, it was held that the plaintiff was not entitled to compensation for certain work done by him, that the defendant could not be expected to wait indefinitely for plaintiff to do his share of work, but that he was entitled to the nett share of profits. 6 P.L.R. 1915=27 I.C. 650. On this section, see also 86 I.C. 950=1925 S. 300. When a partner dies, his representative has an interest in and a lien upon the partnership assets and can claim a taking of accounts as upon dissolution caused by the death of the deceased. Where the surviving partners alienate any property, the proper remedy of the personal representative of the deceased partner is to ask for the taking of a general partnership account and not by a suit for a half-share in the alienated property. CLS. (b) AND (c).—See 1924 M. 708=80 I.C. 378=46 M.L.J. 503; 46 I.C. 467=118 P.W.R. 1918; 1939 A. 217. The principle of this sub-cl. (c) is that partners cannot be expected to acquiesce in new partners being forced upon them. In the event of a partner dying, they may well object to the executors or administrators or other heirs coming into the business. See 101 P. R. 1914=27 I.C. 69=218 P.L.R. 1915. Even where there is a period fixed, the death of one partner dissolves the partnership and the case of a partnership for a particular adventure is no better than the case where there is an express period. 52 M.L.J. 318=1927 M. 491.

EFFECT OF PROVISIONS IN THE ARTICLES OF ASSOCIATION CONCERNING DEATH.—But although a dissolution of the partnership takes place by law upon the death of any one of the partners, this proposition must be understood with the limitation that, by the articles of co-partnership, or other agreement between the partners, it is not otherwise stipulated by the parties. For it is entirely competent for the parties to vary this general result of law by an express agreement; and if such an agreement exists, it will depend upon the particular terms thereof. 66 I.C. 811=25 C.W.N. 847=1921 C. 538; 124 I.C. 19=1931 A. 225; 68 I.C. 722=1922 L. 349, 13 C.W.N. 299=

13 I.C. 23. A contract to the contrary (i.e.) death should not necessarily dissolve the partnership, need not be always express. It may be inferred from certain facts; but the mere existence of an adventure is not such a fact as leads to the inference of an agreement to the contrary. The mere fact that the accounts were intended to be taken after all the stock is sold cannot be held to mean that there is an agreement that if there is a death before all the stock is sold there is to be no dissolution. 1927 M. 491=52 M. L.J. 318. See also 8 Bom.L.R. 8; 94 I.C. 547=1925 S. 103; 1921 C. 538=25 C.W.N. 847=66 I.C. 811. It may be inferred also from the conduct of the parties. 16 L. 881 =1935 L. 350. Under sec. 42, the dissolution of a partnership on the death of a partner is subject to contract between the parties. Such a contract need not be express but may be deduced from the conduct of the parties. The conduct of the parties may be that of the parties subsequent to the death of the partner. After the death of a partner, it may be inferred from the subsequent conduct of the surviving partner and of the heirs of the deceased partner that there was a contract between the original parties that the partnership would not be dissolved by the death of any partner. I.L.R. (1946) A. 309=1946 All. 259. Where on the death of a partner, the business was carried on the assumption that his widow was a partner, held, that the conduct of the parties showed that there must have been a contract between the original parties, that the partnership would not be dissolved by the death of a partner, but should be continued with the representative of the deceased as a partner. 16 C.W.N. 299=15 C.L. J. 204. See also 25 C.W.N. 847=1921 C. 538; 124 I.C. 19=1931 A. 225. The profits of a business continued after the death of a partner may as regards the legal representatives of the deceased partner, be regarded as accretions to the property in accordance with the maxim 'accessorium siquitur sum principale'—the accessory right follows the principal. 48 C. 906. Where a partnership is continued after the death of one of the partners it is technically a new partnership and not the old partnership. 94 I.C. 547=1925 S. 103. See also 68 I.C. 722 =1922 L. 349; 23 I.C. 771=7 S.L.R. 85; 25 W.R. 118 (119). For the purpose of ascertaining what shares the surviving partners brought into the new partnership an account may have to be taken of the old partnership. 1924 M. 708=80 I.C. 378 = 46 M.L.J. 503. See also 1930 M. 393=57 M.L.J. 404. Where partnership is dissolved by the death of a partner, and a suit is filed for accounts the business is to be regarded as continuing business up to the date of the final decree. 81 I.C. 525=1924 P.C. 93 (P.C.). A partnership dissolves on the death of a partner, and unless a new partnership is formed, the representatives of the deceased partner cannot be made jointly liable with the surviving partners. 11 I. C. 403=60 P.W.R. 1911. See also 40 A. 446=45 I.C. 31=16 A.L.J. 305; (1939) 2 M.L.J. 279=1939 M. 891. The death of a partner operates as a dissolution of the partnership, and the fact that the representatives of the deceased received, some time after his death, an account and a portion of the amount advanced, together with the money due to him in the way of profits, would not reconstitute the partnership but rather indicates a contrary intention. 25 W.R. 49. Where one of the terms of an agreement among the partners was that, in case of a vacancy caused by the death or retirement of any of them, his nominee should be admitted into the partnership, the business must, in default of such nomination, be intended to be carried on by the continuing or surviving partners. Where the will of such a partner did not refer to the firm or nominate a successor in the partnership, the mere fact that he left all his property to his executor cannot be construed so as to make the executor a partner in the place of the testator. Such an executor is entitled to an account up to the date of the testator's death, but not to a share in the "goodwill" of the business as an asset of the firm, when the goodwill is attached to the name of the firm, which, by the partnership agreement itself, is to be used by the surviving partners for their own benefit. 9 B. 536 (555). Even if a partnership continues after the death of a partner, the estate of the deceased is not liable in respect of subsequent obligations, in the absence of an express agreement. 8 Bom.L.R. 8. On this section, see also 114 I.C. 881=1929 A. 148; 31 I.C. 45; 38 I.C. 278; 74 I.C. 721=1924 A. 277; 102 P.R. 1914=27 I.C. 69. It was decided in some of the older cases that an injunction may be granted in cases in which a member of a joint Hindu family was prevented from taking part in the business of the firm. See 23 B. 144. See also 20 B. 467; 19 B. 269. It is doubtful if this is still good law. See S. 5, supra, and notes thereunder. A partnership between the manager of a joint Hindu family and a stranger does not make every member of the family a partner so as to clothe him with all the rights and all obligations of a partner. The effect of a partition in the family is to confer on the coparcener a right to call on the manager to get in the assets of the firm due to him as partner by proper proceedings against his copartners. 34 M.L.J. 271= 41 M. 454=43 I.C. 9. See also 61 I.A. 257=57 M. 931=1934 P.C. 192=67 M. ply. 63 I.C. 548=19 A.L.J. 525=1921 A. 411. Where subsequent to the partition of a Hindu joint family, the family business is carried on jointly by two of the members on one side and another member on the other, the death of the latter dissolves the partnership. 47 A. 784=1925 A. 595. A power-of-attorney executed by two members of a joint Hindu family is not terminated by the death of one of them when the interest of the deceased member passes to the surviving member. 35 M.L.J. 294=44 I.C. 849. Where the manager of a joint Hindu family enters into a partnership for the family benefit with a person, a stranger to the family, the partnership is dissolved on the death of the manager in the absence of any agreement with the survivors, who have no right in such a case against the other partners even to sue for any assets received by them, subsequently to the dissolution of the partnership. 78 I. C. 198=20 N.L.R. 49=1924 N. 263. But see also 61 P.R. 1915=31 I.C. 45. A covenant by a deceased partner of a firm binding his heirs and representatives to continue the partnership cannot be specifically enforced against the heirs and representatives; the effect of the death of the partner coupled with the refusal of the heirs and representatives to continue the partnership would be the dissolution of the firm. Where a Hindu father enters into a partnership with strangers under a deed of partnership which contains a covenant to the effect, that "on the death of any partner, his heir or representative shall thereafter be a partner in his place, being entitled to the right and interest of the said partner, and shall get the business done subjecting himself to the aforesaid terms and that on that account neither the partnership should be cancelled nor would it come to an end", and his sons after the death do not become partners or take part in the management of the business, they cannot be made liable for any loss incurred by the partnership after their father's death as sons of the deceased father. 50 L.W. 151=1939 M. 891=(1939) 2 M.L.J. 279.

MAHOMEDAN TRADING FAMILY.—Under Mahomedan Law, there is no such thing as a family trading partnership as under Hindu Law and any partnership transaction between two Mahomedan brothers must be governed by the contract between the parties as regards the partnership. Ordinarily the partnership terminates on the death of one of the partners, unless there is evidence to the contrary. 54 C. 687=1927 C. 836.

SEC. 42 CL. (d).—As to the effect of the insolvency of a partner, see 87 I.C. 905=1925 S. 310; 106 I.C. 54=1928 S. 71; 1931 R. 191=131 I.C. 62. There is no automatic dissolution of partnership upon the insolvency of a partner. If two out of four parties are insolvent the partnership continues to subsist. 14 Pat.L.T. 252=1933 P. 239. Where one of the partners becomes insolvent before the coming into force of the Partnership Act, the provisions of the Partnership Act do not apply to such a case but the Contract Act applies. The insolvency therefore of one of the partners does not by itself operate as a dissolution of the partnership. I.L.R. (1937) Nag. 28=A.I.R. 1937 Nag. 314.

SEC. 43.—Sec. 43 relates to the dissolution of partnership at will. It is taken from cl. (c) and the last paragraph of sec. 32 of the English Partnership Act. (Report of Select Committee).

PRINCIPLE OF THE SECTION.—Partnerships where no duration is fixed, are deemed to be mere partnerships at will (see sec. 7, supra) and therefore are ordinarily at the common law dissolvable at the will of any one or more of the partners. 67 I.C. 10=34 C.L.J. 405=1921 C. 722. The intention to dissolve may be inferred in the case of partnerships at will from circumstances showing that a partner has in fact abandoned his interest. 49 P.W.R. 1916=32 I. C. 853. See also 35 P.L.R. 557=1934 L. 557. A partnership is not necessarily dissolved merely because it is closed or its business has stopped. It must be dissolved in one way or the other known to and recognised by the law (89 I.C. 122; 1930 L. 378; 66 I.C. 811; Ref.) 37 L.W. 288=1933 M. 353. Where no term is expressly limited for its duration, and there is nothing in the contract to fix it, the partnership may be terminated at a moment's notice by either party. See 67 I.C. 10=1921 C. 722; 63 I.C. 548=1921 A. 411. In a partnership at will, a partner is entitled to dissolution. It is not an equitable right but it is a legal right under the Code and under the contract. 51 I.A. 154=5 L. 23=1924 P.C. 2=46 M.L.J. 158 (P.C.). The dissolution takes place as from the date of the notice (67 I.C. 10=34 C.L.J. 405), and without regard to the state of mind of the partner to whom the notice is given. Partnership at will is dissolved from the date on which one partner retires and no notice of the retirement is necessary. 25 I.C. 22. In cases where the partnership is not at will, it is the duty of the Courts to bring about the fulfilment of the expectations of the parties; and when a partnership has been entered into for a fixed term the Courts

(2) The firm is dissolved as from the date mentioned in the notice as the date of dissolution or, if no date is so mentioned, as from the date of the communication of the notice.

should not permit a partner to drive the others to a dissolution. 66 I.C. 473=2 L. 351=1922 L. 195. In the case of a dissolution by notice if the assistance of the Court is required by means of a decree for dissolution, the suit for dissolution must follow the notice. Where the notice is given more than 4 months after the institution of the suit, the relief for dissolution of partnership cannot be granted in that suit. 13 Luck. 219=1937 O. 438. Filing a plaint in a suit for dissolution by one partner is enough in itself to put an end to a partnership at will. 1927 P.C. 70=53 M.L.J. 245 (P.C.). A partnership at will is presumed to endure only so long as the parties are in life and have a capacity to continue it. The dissolution of it, either by death or by a supervening incapacity, will come under consideration when we speak of dissolution by mere operation of law. See secs. 42 and 44. See also 100 I.C. 616=1927 M. 491=52 M.L.J. 318. Where a partnership had come into existence for a fixed period with a clause enabling one partner to dissolve by giving notice of a specified period to the other, then any other method of dissolution by agreement between the partners must be strictly proved, and where the party on whom the onus of proof lies relies on the document to prove the dissolution and the document can with equal justification be read as having two different meanings, then the party fails to satisfy the onus which would lie upon him. 28 Bom.L.R. 1275=50 B. 665=1926 B. 585.

SEC. 44: LUNACY.—The lunacy of a partner does not of itself dissolve the partnership, but confirmed lunacy is a ground for dissolution if the other partners apply to the Court for a decree of dissolution on that ground. 53 C. 214=1928 C. 271.

CASE-LAW.—The adultery of one partner with his co-partner's wife is a sufficient ground for dissolving the partnership. 5 B.L.R. 109. Partner aggrieved by gross misconduct of other partners towards him which makes it impossible for him to continue as partner—Proper remedy is to sue for dissolution under this section. 64 I.C. 204. See also 11 C.W.N. 311. A partner guilty of misconduct cannot sue for dissolution of the partnership or for any other relief. The law is the same on this ponit as in England. Partner who destroys the old account books of the firm, makes such interpolations in the account books which make them worthless and unreliable, falsely prepares the balance sheet or tries to deprive his firm of a valuable asset is guilty of misconduct. 1 L. 6=57 I.C. 185. Even when a partnership is entered into for a fixed term, a decree for dissolution may be passed, when the mutual confidence, which the partners reposed in each other at the time when the partnership was entered into, has ceased. 89 I.C. 333=1926 L. 145. See also 30 C.W.N. 440=1926 C. 745. But neither stoppage of business nor refusal of a partner to make further advances on capital account can be treated as dissolution of the firm. 66 I.C. 811=25 C.W.N. 847=1921 C. 538. When a partnership is rescinded on the ground of fraud or misconduct, the guilty partner is not entitled to ask the other members of the partnership to contribute to the losses due to his fraud. 60 I.C. 709=1921 L. 130. One partner is not liable in a suit for accounts upon a dissolution of partnership, for the probable loss sustained by them owing to his neglect or failure to carry out duties imposed upon him by the partnership agreement. 87 I.C. 735=27 Bom.L.R. 500=1925 B. 324. Refusal and neglect on the part of any one partner to perform the duties undertaken by him would give to any other partner the right to apply for dissolution. In such a case the partnership could also be dissolved by agreement without legal proceedings. But for such an agreement the consent of all the partners is necessary; otherwise the partnership can come to an end only by efflux of time or decree of Court. 57 I.C. 713=1921 P.C. 91=39 M.L.J. 257 (P.C. Mere refusal of a partner to supply capital when demanded is not conclusive proof of intention to retire. 25 C.W.N. 847=1921 C. 538. If a partner falls into an error in the management from want of a larger measure of prudence and skill than he is master of, he is not liable for the consequences. In the absence of any specific agreement to the contrary, the rule of diligence among partners is not that they should employ the middle kind of diligence which prudent men employ in their affairs, but that they are safe if they show they acted in the partnership affairs as they would have acted in their own. Good faith is required in a partner as well as diligence and if a partner is guilty of gross negligence, unskilfulness, fraud, or wanton misconduct in the course of the partnership business, he is ordinarily responsible to the other partners, for the losses and damages sustained thereby. 53 I.C. 2 [Law v. Law, (1905) 1 Ch. 140, Foll.]. One partner neglecting partnership (affairs) is not by itself enough to dissolve the partnership. A partner can retire, but that retirement can only be by and upon notice to the other side. 89 I.C. 122=47 A. 756=1925 A. 787. Neither stoppage of business nor refusal of a partner to make further advances on capital account can be treated as dissolution of the firm. 1921 C. 538. The question whether there has been an abandonment of the business by a partner depends on the facts of each case. 25 C.W.N. 847=1921 C. 538.

Dissolution by the Court.

44. At the suit of a partner, the Court may dissolve a firm on any of the following grounds, namely:—

(a) that a partner has become of unsound mind, in which case the suit may be brought as well by the next friend of the partner who has become of unsound mind as by any other partner;

(b) that a partner, other than the partner suing, has become in any way permanently incapable of performing his duties as partner;

(c) that a partner, other than the partner suing, is guilty of conduct which is likely to affect prejudicially the carrying on of the business, regard being had to the nature of the business;

(d) that a partner, other than the partner suing, wilfully or persistently commits breach of agreements relating to the management of the affairs of the firm or the conduct of its business, or otherwise so conducts himself in matters relating to the business that it is not reasonably practicable for the other partners to carry on the business in partnership with him;

(e) that a partner, other than the partner suing, has in any way transferred the whole of his interest in the firm to a third party, or has allowed his share to be charged under the provisions of Rule 49 of Order XXI of the First Schedule to the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908, or has allowed it to be sold in the recovery of arrears of land-revenue or of any dues recoverable as arrears of land-revenue due by the partner;

(f) that the business of the firm cannot be carried on save at a loss; or (g) on any other ground which renders it just and equitable that the firm should be dissolved.

SEC. 44, CL. (e).—See 27 I.C. 344=8 S.L.R. 69. Although the subject-matter of a partnership is precarious and speculative, it is a matter of inference to be drawn from the facts of each case, whether or not there has been abandonment by a partner of his share, or loss of interest by laches. The mere fact that a partner suing for partnership accounts and for winding up, had previously declined to advance more money for the business and left the management to a co-partner is not sufficient to infer that the former abandoned or lost by laches, his position as a partner. 28 C. 53 (59)=27 I.A. 189 (P.C.) See also 25 M. 149 (164); 12 P.R. 1881. Consent to attachment of deceased co-partner's share of partnership assets for personal debts of latter amounts to declaration of cessation of partnership. 51 C. 161=1924 C. 801. As to effect of attachment of share of partners, see also 8 S. L.R. 67.

SEC. 44, CL. (f).—The expectation of profit being implied in every partnership. if a partnership is entered into, and everything has been done which was agreed to be done, but certain loss is the only result of going on, any partner is entitled to have the concern dissolved, although he may have agreed that the partnership should continue for some definite time, and that time has not yet expired. 1 B. 468 (474) =3 I.A. 200 (P.C.), on appeal from 8 B. H.C. (O.C.) 209. Partners have an inherent right of winding it up, or to apply to have it wound up, in the event of its not being able to be carried on with success. This inherent right, however, may be shown to have been relinquished by any provision in the agreement, from which it can be fairly inferred. 1 B. 468=3 I.A. 200 (P.C.). Courts can dissolve a partnership working at loss even before the period fixed for its continuance. 42 B. 380= 1917 P.C. 116=35 M.L.J. 262=45 I.A. 61 (P.C.). See also 1924 B. 57=81 I.C. 463. Where there has been a complete destruction of mutual confidence, and it is impracticable to continue the partnership business with advantage to the partners, or they can no longer perform their duties properly, the partnership should be dissolved. 30 C.W.N. 440=94 I.C. 381=1926 C. 745. See also 89 I.C. 333=1926 L. 145. The mere failure of a company does not ipso facto dissolve a partnership. 117 I. C. 824=1929 A. 236.

PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE.—Where the partners composing a firm as one entity form a partnership with another person, the dissolution of the latter partnership does not dissolve the partnership. 90 I.C. 242=1926 S. 75. A suit for dissolution and winding up of a firm and its branch firm which consists of certain additional partners who have no interest in the main firm is bad for multifariousness. 90 I.C. 970=19 S.L.R. 395=1926 S. 66. Forum for dissolution and rendition of accounts is not the place where the capital is subscribed. 42 P.R. 1916=33 I.C. 953. In Liability for acts of partners done after dissolution.

Provided that the estate of a partner who dies, or who is adjudicated an insolvent, or of a partner who, not having been known to the person dealing with the firm to be a partner, retires from the firm, is not liable under this section for acts done after the date on which he ceases to be partner.

Where a partner withholds the annual profits of a concern from a member of the firm, the partner excluded from the profits may bring a suit for an account and for his share of the profits, and such a suit shall not be dismissed for the reason that the plaintiff does not claim a dissolution. 2 L. 351=1922 L. 195. It is only under exceptional circumstances that partners can bring actions against their co-partners, except when the action is for dissolution of partnership, in which case they may claim an account and payment over of moneys that may be found to be due to them on accounts being taken. Actions between partners, which involve the taking of partnership accounts prior to dissolution, are almost unheard of. 9 A. 120 (121). Where, in a suit for dissolution of partnership, a Subordinate Court signally failed to do its duty, and there has not been any patent neglect on the part of the plaintiff to enforce his rights, the High Court has power, by way of superintendence, under sec. 15 of the Charter Act, to direct the Subordinate Court to do its duty and to dispose of the matter according to law. 18 A. 4 (8).

SEC. 45: PRINCIPLE OF THE SECTION. If a firm is dissolved and no notice is given and people continue to trade with the firm under the firm's name they are not to be affected by a secret dissolution. Their right to sue the retiring partner upon post-dissolution transactions does not depend on the question whether they knew that he was a partner prior to the dissolution. 59 C. 40=35 C.W.N. 705=1932 C. 236. See now proviso to this section. 1930 B. 449; 104 I.C. 520=1927 B. 560. In the absence of notice of dissolution all partners are liable to persons dealing with the firm, though after dissolution. 1930 S. 83=121 I.C. 865. Where no public notice of dissolution is given all the partners continue to be liable as partners to a third party for any act done by any of them which would have been an act of the firm if it had been done before the retirement of the partner provided that a retired partner would not be liable to a third party if the latter deals with the firm without knowing that he was a partner. 1944 M. L.R. 77 (Civ.). On dissolution or retirement, the agency as between the partners ceases, but as regards third persons agency continues until termination is notified. Old customers must be given specific notice and for others reasonable public notice is sufficient. 1926 S. 90=93 I.C. 448. In the case of old customers of a firm publication of notice of dissolution in the public press is not sufficient to relieve a retiring partner from liability. 1 R. 47=1924 R. 133. [But now under the Act, notice under sec. 72 is sufficient.] In the absence of notice of dissolution, persons dealing with a firm are entitled to assume that the partnership still continues, though it has actually been dissolved. 50 M.L.J. 67 =1926 M. 114. See also 1936 Pat. 539. In cases of withdrawal of a partner from the firm or in cases of dissolution, the constituents who have dealings with the firm should have notice of the fact. Mere publication in the Calcutta Exchange Gazette is not in law sufficient notice. 1927 M. 661=104 I.C. 120. See also 56 I.A. 174 =53 B. 414=1929 P.C. 132=56 M.L.J. 739 (P.C.); 104 I.C. 520=1927 B. 560. PROVISO.—This section does not apply to cases of dormant partners nor to cases of death. 1927 B. 560=104 I.C. 520; 1930 B. 449; 35 C.W.N. 705=59 C. 40 =1932 C. 236. The section cannot be held to cover the case of a person dealing with the firm, for the first time, after a change from its original constitution, so as to make the partner, who had already retired liable. Such a person has had no dealing with the "firm" originally constituted at all, and cannot be said to be a person having dealings with a firm, who entitled, as against all the other partners or their representatives, to have the property of the firm applied in payment of the debts and liabilities of the firm, and to have the surplus distributed among the partners or their representatives according to their rights.

Continuing authority of partners for purposes of winding up.

47. After the dissolution of a firm the authority of each partner to bind the firm, and the other mutual rights and obligations of the partners, continue notwithstanding the dissolution, so far as may be necessary to wind up the affairs of the firm and to complete transactions begun but unfinished at the time of the dissolution, but not otherwise:

Provided that the firm is in no case bound by the acts of a partner who has been adjudicated insolvent; but this proviso does not affect the liability of any person who has after the adjudication represented himself or knowingly permitted himself to be represented as a partner of the insolvent.

SEC. 46: PRINCIPLE OF THE SECTION.—The right is available, and may be enforced not only against the partnership assets and the other partners, but also against all persons claiming through them in respect of their interests as partners, for example, assignees, personal representatives, trustees in bankruptcy, or judgment-creditors, except purchasers or pledgees of specific assets of the partnership who might reasonably suppose that all the partnership debts had been paid or barred by lapse of time, or who otherwise deal with the surviving or continuing partner in good faith. See 57 M.L.J. 404=1930 M. 393. This lien of the partner is subject to valid rights of a bona fide purchaser for value from surviving partners of specific property belonging to the firm. 57 M.L.J. 404=1930 M. 393 (396). If it is necessary to examine the account books of the firm from an earlier date in order to discover what credits are still due to the partnership, the examination of these accounts would not be barred out by the plaintiff's acceptance of the existing accounts as correct. I.L.R. (1939) L. 178 =1938 L. 758. A suit to enforce the right provided in sec. 46 is generally called a suit for an account, which means an account taken by a Court. The right is not affected by the fact that the retiring partner may have already inspected the accounts of the firm. I.L.R. (1939) L. 178=40 P.L.R. 753=1938 L. 758.

SEC. 47.—This section follows sec. 38 of the English Partnership Act. As to the construction and scope of section, see 38 Bom.L.R. 1058=1937 B. 81.

PRINCIPLE OF THE SECTION.—If the dissolution be caused by death or bankruptcy of a partner, this authority to wind up the concern devolves on the surviving or solvent partners alone, to the exclusion of the personal representatives, or trustee in bankruptcy, of the deceased or bankrupt partner. 9 I.C. 450=4 Bur.L.T. 10. Both sec. 263 of the Contract Act and sec. 47 of the Partnership Act refer to the mutual rights and obligations of the partners after dissolution the only distinction between the two sections being that instead of the words "the rights and obligations of the partners" in sec. 263, there is, in sec. 47 of the Partnership Act, a fuller expression, viz., "the authority of each partner to bind the firm, and the other mutual rights and obligations of the partners". Though the dissolution of a firm causes a dissolution of the partnership between the partners, the partnership still subsists, but merely for the purpose of winding up its business and adjusting the rights of the partners inter se, and for this purpose the authority of the partners to bind the firm, and all their other mutual rights and obligations, continue notwithstanding the dissolution. The power of each partner, however, extends only so far as it is necessary to wind up the affairs of the firm and to complete transactions already begun. He can recover payment of a debt due to the firm and effectually release the debtor, and also give a valid receipt for the debt, provided it is not done in fraud of his co-partners or in collusion with the debtor. A partner can also accept a bill of exchange for a debt, but he has no authority to acknowledge a debt, or by his act or admission to involve his co-partners in any new legal liability. The act or dealing in order to be binding on the co-partners, must be an act necessary in the winding up of the partnership. Only the winding up can be proceeded with after dissolution, and no other business can be carried on in the name of the firm. 39 Bom.L.R. 1058=1937 Bom. 81.

ILLUSTRATIVE CASES.—A partner can give a valid discharge of a debt due to the partnership after its dissolution. 52 I.C. 456. (See also 36 M. 544; 41 M. 446=34 M.L.J. 41, Foll.) An individual partner of a dissolved firm has authority to assign a decree obtained by the firm. Realising what is due under the decree would come under winding up the affairs of the firm. 1936 A.M.L.J. 79. The surviving partners can release a debt due to the firm, after dissolution by the death of one partner. 41 M. 446=34 M.L.J. 41=44 I.C. 466. See also 1936 A.M.L.J. 79. The question whether the legal personal representatives of a deceased partner were bound by a reference to arbitration by the surviving partners in relation to a partnership contract is not a pure question of law to be decided without reference to the facts of the case. 27 M. L.J. 192=24 I.C. 307 (P.C.) One of two partners dying—Surviving partner to wind up business, and do acts necessary therefor, such as realising assets, paying off debts and fulfilling obligations. 57 M.L.J. 404=1930 M. 393=126 I.C. 97. Surviving partners are entitled to dispose of the property of the firm in connection with winding up —Sale otherwise than in connection with the winding up gives no title to the alienee. 57 M.L.J. 404=1930 M. 393. See also 9 I,C. 450. A partner can validly sign and verify a plaint on behalf of the firm, though dissolved. As to the powers of the manager, see 1930 B. 236=125 I.C. 442, cited under sec. 45, supra. Where there is a receiver in existence winding up the affairs of the firm under the Court, and he has been given full powers to collect all outstandings and to pay debts and to distribute the surplus, it is not possible for the managing partner of the firm to refer to arbitration a question as to whether the firm owes anything to any one. 92 I.C. 705=1926 L. 91. It is not competent to a partner of a dissolved firm to enter into a havala transaction in respect of a debt due to the firm, and thereby transfer the credit of an amount due to the firm by one person to another thereby making the latter the debtor of the firm instead of the former. 38 Bom.L.R. 1058=1937 B. 81. One of the partners of a firm has no power to transfer any asset of the firm after its dissolution. 175 I.C. 567=1937 Lah. 934.

SEC. 48.—This is the "accounting" section and is most important. It is copied with only very slight verbal alterations, from sec. 44 of the English Partnership Act and requires little explanation. That section has stood with success the incessant and vigilant scrutiny of lawyers, accountants and businessmen in England for nearly forty years, and may safely be followed. (Report of the Select Committee.)

ASSETS TO BE DISTRIBUTED: SUB-CL. (b).—On the dissolution of the partnership and in the absence of any contract to the contrary, every partner has a right to have all the partnership property sold and to have the proceeds of the sale after discharging all the partnership debts and liabilities divided among all the partners according to their respective shares. 89 I.C. 577=1926 S. 49. Outstandings due to the firm may in distributing the assets of the firm, be assigned to individual partners. Outstandings assigned to partners on dissolution—Partner entitled to use of firm name in collection thereof, unless risk of causing liability to others exists. Injunction against such use of name improper. 1931 R. 74. When partnership is dissolved and accounts are settled, a partner must have some remedy at law to enforce the manner of settlement agreed upon. 113 I.C. 669=1928 M. 1133. No partner has on dissolution a right to insist that any particular item of the partnership property shall remain unsold and that it should be either divided in specie or allotted to him at an arbitrary value. 89 I. C. 577=1926 S. 49. Ordinarily a partner is not entitled to partial accounts; before such a suit can be instituted a special ground must be made out. If he wants an account of partnership dealings he must sue for a general account. 166 I.C. 953=1937 Pat. 55. Although after dissolution, the managing partner has, for purposes of winding up, a right to put up items of property to sale, yet the Court can go into propriety of alienations if they are suspicious. 52 M. 509=56 M.L.J. 776=1929 M. 627. A firm is not entitled to commission in respect of goods purchased on its own behalf. 36 I.C. 210. Profits made by sale of goods ordered before dissolution, and paid for by firm's money, are divisible among partners, though goods were received and sold subsequently. 1923 O. 23=74 I.C. 324. If, on a dissolution of partnership, there is an amicable settlement of accounts and if items not included in the settlement are received later on, they are to be divided between all the partners. 1929 P.C. 184=116 I.C. 727 (P. C.). In all cases where, after the dissolution and complete winding up of partnership, an asset which had not been taken into account fell in, it ought to be divided between the ex-partners or their representatives according to their shares in the former partnership. 45 M. 378=49 I.A. 181 =1922 P.C. 115=43 M.L.J. 305 (P.C.).

(a) Losses including deficiencies of capital, shall be paid first out of profits, next out of capital, and, lastly, if necessary, by the partners individually in the proportions in which they were entitled to share profits.

PARTNERSHIP SUIT—PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE—FRAME OF SUIT.—An action does not lie, by one partner against the other, for an account during the pendency of the partnership, without asking for its dissolution. 9 A. 120. But a departure from this general rule may be made in certain special circumstances which will depend upon the facts of each case. 1 A.L.J. 94. See also 2 M.H.C.R. 28. The rule is that as between partners ordinarily, no suit will lie except one for general account. 101 I.C. 390 =1927 M. 650. A particular item or claim should not be made the subject of a distinct suit. 2 N.W.P. 90. So a partner cannot sue for money lent by him to his firm, as the advance is only one item in the partnership accounts. 25 B. 606 (612)=3 Bom. L.R. 227. See also 21 W.R. 300 (301). A partner cannot sue his co-partner for his share of profits, which accrued up to a particular time. He must, if he desires relief, sue for an account. 16 W.R. 141 (142). Where a partner withholds the annual profits of a concern from a firm, the partner excluded from the profits may bring a suit for an account and for his share of the profits without claiming dissolution. 66 I.C. 478=2 L. 351=1922 L. 195. When there has been a partnership, there can be no suit for the recovery of money due until it is known what amount is due. 117 I.C. 824 =1929 A. 236. Unless the claim by a partner to recover a sum of money from the other partners in respect of a transaction of the partnership forms part of the inquiry in the action for winding up the partnership, it is not sustainable, no suit will lie therefore after limitation has expired for a suit for an account. 85 I.C. 991=48 M. 482=47 M.L.J. 829=1925 M. 279. No suit lies by one partner against another for damages for breach of certain covenants in the partnership deed. In such cases the proper course is to bring a suit for general accounts and debit the defaulting partner with any loss that might have been incurred by his action, in the general account. 101 I.C. 390=1927 M. 650. The general principle that as between partners there can be no suit for any particular item of partnership account is quite sound and must be enforced under ordinary circumstances. If, however, special circumstances arise which render the application of this principle unfair and inequitable there is no reason why justice and equity should not come to the help of a partner who is being involuntarily saddled with liability which must be shared by his co-partners and for which he has no means of relief except a suit for contribution. 1942 M.L.R. 13 (Civ.). When the suit only seeks to compel the partners to discharge the obligation undertaken by them under the agreement of partnership, e.g., to render accounts annually, the Courts will not be justified in refusing relief for the simple reason that no dissolution had been prayed for or that their mutual relations should be settled without the intervention of Court. 141 I.C. 277 (2)=1933 N. 127=16 N.L.J. 10. The plaintiff suing only for accounts during the currency of the partnership has to allege special grounds for seeking that relief alone and the defendant should have an opportunity of showing cause against it. 54 M. 671=1931 M. 300=60 M.L.J. 315. See also 88 I.C. 153 =1925 M. 737=48 M.L.J. 444. A suit will lie between partners, without dissolution, for rescission of a contract entered into between them and for damages on the ground of false representation. 130 I.C. 644=1931 L. 390. So also when advances are made by one partner to another partner, in respect of what he is to contribute to the joint capital. 18 M. 134. See also 97 I.C. 757=1927 M. 68; 1925 M. 737=48 M. L.J. 444; or when two partners borrow from a bank on their joint promissory note and apply the money to a partnership concern, and one of the partners is compelled to pay more than his share of the debt. 18 M. 134. The liability in respect of advances made by one partner to another, though made for the purpose of the acquisition of his share in the partnership property, is a personal one, and not being a debt of the partnership, it could not be recovered from the partnership property. The creditor partner is in no better position than the other ordinary creditors of the debtor partner, and he is not entitled to any priority over the other creditors. 49 L.W. 126=41 Bom.L.R. 663=1938 P.C. 277 (P.C.). A suit to recover an amount advanced in pursuance of a partnership agreement is not maintainable without suing for a general account, where the agreement came into force on the date on which it was executed. It is immaterial that the partnership business did not actually commence. 39 P.L.R. 896 =1938 Lah. 43. If the amount paid up by one partner was a liability of the partnership, then the mere fact of his having been compelled to pay the whole of the partnership debt would not entitle him to sue his co-partners or any of them for contribution, in the absence of any special circumstance, though he would be entitled to charge the sum paid in the partnership account. 20 C. 262 (264). See also 5 Bom.L.R. 912 (913)=28 B. 176; 33 M.L.J. 509=43 I.C. 217. If, on the other hand, the liability was not a joint liability of the whole partnership, but a joint liability only of himself and some of the other partners, a separate suit would lie in that case. 26 C. 262 (264). See also 12 B.H.C.R. 97. It is certainly true that partners in a firm are not ordinarily entitled to bring a contribution suit in respect of individual items which they have paid on account of partnership debts, but it does not follow that one partner has no right of action for contribution against another, when there has been a final settlement of accounts between them. 1945 P.W.N. 320=1945 Pat. 286. Where some of the partners of a firm borrow money from a third party and on a joint decree being obtained by the creditor, one of them pays up the amount, he cannot sue his co-judgment-debtors (other partners) for contribution in the absence of the other partners and with adjustment of the partnership accounts, in the absence of special circumstances such as an express promise by the co-borrowers to indemnify the plaintiffs. The only remedy of the partners against other partners in respect of partnership assets is by way of a suit for accounts and not a suit for contribution. This rule only applies where the debt is really a partnership debt. Where, however, the debt is collateral to or independent of the partnership this principle has no application. In the latter case, a partner may have a right of action against another for contribution. But when the debt is a partnership debt, a suit for contribution is not maintainable in the absence of a prayer for dissolution or for accounts. 20 Pat. 811=23 P.L.T. 588=1942 Pat. 204. See also 1946 N. 66=1946 N.L.J. 215 (suit by partner for advance paid by him for partnership purposes). A partner of a firm to whom the other partners have executed a promissory note as a result of the adjustment of a part of the partnership account can maintain an independent suit on the promissory note without being obliged to bring a general suit for accounts of the partnership. 41 Bom.L.R. 1263=1940 Bom. 54. After dissolution, until the accounts of the partnership are completely settled, individual partners cannot sue for their share of any separate part of the partnership assets. Such suit will lie if the partnership has been completely wound up and the asset has become available to the partnership thereafter. 178 I.C. 53=1938 Lah. 259. Where, in an agreement, every partner is at liberty to borrow money on his individual credit and apply the same for the benefit of the business, the fact that such money is applied to the partnership business does not render it an item in the partnership business so as to preclude a partner, who had borrowed money and used it in the business, from maintaining a suit for contribution against the other partners. 26 C. 254=3 C.W.N. 299. It will be for the Court to determine under what circumstances it will be equitable to order a partial account, having regard to the rights of the parties under the contract. There is no rule of law now in force that a partial account can be ordered only under exceptional circumstances. 66 I.C. 478=2 L. 351=1922 L. 195. See also 20 N.L.J. 196=1937 N. 410.

PARTIES.—In a suit for accounts of the partnership on the death of a partner, all the representatives of the deceased partner should join. Sec. 7 of the Limitation Act applies to the case. 33 I.C. 564. In a suit about the partnership, the purchaser of the interest of a partner is properly joined as a defendant. 4 A. 437. Where in a suit for partnership accounts, a necessary party defendant has been omitted, the suit will be dismissed, if such party is afterwards added, at a time when the suit is barred as against him. 14 C. 791. In a suit for contribution after dissolution, all partners are necessary parties—Plaintiff liable to account should give credit for defendant's share of profits. 42 P.L.R. 1917=35 I.C. 910. Where in a suit for dissolution of a partnership and an account, the accounting party alleges that certain sums of money due to the firm had been set-off against cross-claims made against, the firm, he must establish the validity of the claims against the firm so as to show the propriety of his action in compromising in respect of them. 1937 O.W.N 991. See also 1936 Lah. 831.

In a suit for partnership accounts all parties are interested in the directions for account and the result of the account and the presence of all such persons is necessary before the Court in appeal, and the decree of the lower Court cannot be varied in the absence of any one of them. In order to decide whether owing to the failure to add the legal representatives of deceased parties to an appeal, the appeal abates in its entirety or only against the deceased party the test often applied is whether in the event of the appeal being allowed there would or would not be two contradictory decrees in the same litigation with respect to the same subject-matter. If it is likely to result in two contradictory decrees owing to non-joinder of necessary parties in appeal or on account of failure to bring on record the legal representatives of the deceased respondent who was also a necessary party to the appeal, the Court will have no alternative but to dismiss the appeal as a whole. 1942 N.L.J. 557=1943 Nag. 13=I.L.R. (1943) N. 17.

FORUM.—A suit for partnership accounts may be filed at the place where the contract of partnership is entered into (41 A. 513=50 I.C. 156); or where the business of partnership is carried on. 1916 P.R. 42=33 I. C. 953; 50 M.L.J. 298=92 I.C. 915=1926 M. 427; 132 I.C. 218=1931 L. 673.

LIMITATION.—A suit for an account of partnership, dissolved more than three years before the suit, is barred by limitation, even if the instrument of partition was re-

(b) The assets of the firm, including any sums contributed by the partners to make up deficiencies of capital, shall be applied in the following manner and order:—

(i) in paying the debts of the firm to third parties;

(ii) in paying to each partner rateably what is due to him from the firm for advances as distinguished from capital;

(iii) in paying to each partner rateably what is due to him on account of capital; and gistered. 22 M. 14=8 M.L.J. 151; 57 M. 378=1934 M. 162=66 M.L.J. 625; 153 I. C. 969=1935 L. 209. See also 25 M. 26 (where plaintiff was a minor).

CONSIDERATIONS IN SETTLEMENT OF ACCOUNTS.—The facts that certain partners deliberately withheld their due services under the contract should be taken into consideration in a suit for accounts of the partnership. 57 I.C. 713=1921 P. C. 91=39 M.L.J. 257 (P.C.). Illegal payments made by the partners by way of bribes for the purpose of securing contracts for the partnership cannot be taken into account in taking accounts and ascertaining the shares of profits in the partnership. If any partner has been foolish enough to give a bribe in the hope that his partner would bear his share of the expenditure, he cannot use the Court to recover that share. Therefore items of expenditure shown to be for an unlawful purpose should be excluded in taking accounts. 49 L.W. 705=1939 Mad. 670 =(1939) 1 M.L.J. 905. In a suit for accounts of a dissolved partnership there is no law that an enquiry to determine in whose possession the account books are, must be held before the passing of a preliminary decree, though normally that should be the practice. The person in whose possession the books are and who has kept the accounts and knows all about them is entitled to file a suit for accounts. Normally there is no accounting party in such a suit, though if a partner withholds the books the Court may draw an inference against him when finally settling the accounts. 174 I.C. 837=1937 Lah. 312. See also 1936 Lah. 146=161 I.C. 669. Generally one partner cannot charge his co-partners with any sums in the shape of salary or commission, but where a pardanashin lady is a partner and the responsibility is thrown upon other partners, allowance should be made in favour of other partners. 16 C.W.N. 299=13 I.C. 23. In an action to dissolve and wind up the affairs of partnership, until the accounts have been taken, it is impossible to say what, if anything, is due from any partner or partners; interest therefore, should only be allowed to the plaintiffs from the date of final decree by which amount (if any) is found to be due from the defendants to the plaintiffs and not from the date of plaint: 1930 P.C. 185=57 I.A. 245=58 C. 208=59 M.L.J. 121 (P.C.). See also 39 P. L.R. 466=1937 Lah. 254=I.L.R. 1937 L. 492. The principle of the common law, which is applicable to a partnership to which neither sec. 13 (c) of the Partnership Act nor the English Law of partnership applies, is that any agreed interest on the capital brought in by a partner into the business is, unless the contrary is clearly expressed, a payment in lieu, or on account, of profits, and accordingly chargeable to profits only. 38 Bom.L.R. 1058=1937 Bom. 81. See also 1941 N.L.J. 657. If a partner makes an advance to the partnership on a promissory note, he can recover it from his partners without general accounts of the partnership being taken. It is not correct to say that no suit could lie on the note if the parties had partnership dealings. 1938 A.M.L.J. 11. Partners are not entitled to interest on their respective capitals unless there is some agreement, express or implied, to that effect. Such an agreement may be inferred if they have themselves been in the habit of charging such interest in their accounts. Where interest on capital is payable, the interest stops at the date of dissolution unless otherwise agreed. An agreement for payment of such interest can also be implied from the usage of their trade or from the practice of their firm. 38 Bom.L. R. 1058=1937 Bom. 81. See also 1941 N. L.J. 657; 1937 Sind 103; 1938 Mad. 38; 15 Mys.L.J. 3; 49 C.W.N. 999. In the case of a partnership which is wound up, the date on which the winding up was completed is the proper date for calculating the conversion of foreign currency into British Indian currency. 52 M. 509=1929 M. 627 =56 M.L.J. 776. Where, in a suit for dissolution of partnership, the plaintiff, who is appointed as receiver, appropriated a large amount of partnership amount to his own use, without sanction from the Court, held, the proper order to pass is one charging the plaintiff with the sums withdrawn by him with interest from the dates of withdrawal. 92 I.C. 274=1925 P.C. 257=23 L. W. 628 (P.C.).

PROCEDURE IN SUIT.—So far as the suit was concerned, the partnership account should be adjusted between all the parties, irrespective of any private arrangements between two or more of them inter se. 1930 L. 655. Partnership accounts should be taken from commencement of partnership, unless later adjustment is proved. Mere fact that regular staff kept such accounts which were open to partners' inspection is not sufficient proof of final settlement. 33 C.W.N. 1104=1930 C. 154. Where a new partnership based on the old partnership is revived or reconstituted, by the consent of all the partners and their legal representatives, for the purpose of accounts, it is permissible to go into the accounts of the old partnership on the basis of which the new one is constituted. 102 I.C. 694=1927 L. 249. See also 1924 M. 708=46 M.L.J 503. In such cases, the Limitation Act is no bar to taking the accounts of the new partnership by going into the accounts of the old partnership, which have been carried on into the new partnership without interruption or settlement. 25 M. 26 (31, 32). See also 1929 S. 230=118 I.C. 741. All questions arising between the partners out of the partnership business must be disposed of in the winding-up suit. 8 B.H.C. (O. C.J.) 209. See also 12 B.H.C. 165; 70 I.C. 833=1923 A. 17 (Partnership of patent right). In a dissolution of partnership and accounts, either the partnership accounts should be taken as they stand, or if any items are objected to by the other side as false, the parties should be given an opportunity of proving the accounts. It is not equitable to reject certain items without giving an opportunity of proving them. 7 N.L.J. 212=1925 N. 188. Where plaintiff alleges certain proportion of shares, the defendant while admitting partnership alleges different proportion, it is incumbent on the Courts to weigh carefully the evidence led by both sides and to give a decision as far as possible according to the weight of that evidence. 8 L. 241=1927 L. 485. If a partner has kept accounts relating to the partnership in private books of his own, he must produce such books, for he should have kept his private accounts elsewhere, if he did not want them to be seen. After a dissolution, if books relate to the accounts which have to be taken, they must be produced. 108 I.C. 873=1928 S. 133. A suit by a sub-partner for an account of the partnership is maintainable against his partner and he must accept the accounts in the main partnership as settled between the partners of that partnership unless mala fides or mistake has been shown. 60 I.C. 967=14 S.L.R. 193 Ordinarily in a suit for settlement of account of a dissolved partnership and of any sub-partnership in which there are additional partners, the act or series of acts which give rise to relief for settlement of accounts of the main partnership are not the same as those which give rise to the relief for settlement of accounts of the sub-partnership. 90 I.C. 970=1926 S. 66. As to suit for accounts in the case of continuance of partnership business after death of partner, see 57 M. 378=1934 M. 162=66 M.L.J. 625.

EVIDENCE.—Partnership account-books being accessible to all the partners and being kept more or less under the surveillance of them all, are prima facie evidence against each of them, and therefore, also, for any of them against the others. A partner cannot ask them to be formally proved. 212 I.C. 416=16 R.L. 292=45 P.L.R. 441=A.I.R. 1944 Lah. 58.

INTEREST.—In a suit brought nearly two years after the dissolution of a partnership against the former managing partner, who has been retaining in his hands and for his own purposes assets of the firm without accounting for them or their proceeds to his copartner, interest is properly chargeable against the accounting defendant even though he has not acted fraudulently. 47 C.W.N. 113=1942 A.L.J. 710=1942 O.W. N. 814=1943 A.L.W. 20=45 Bom.L.R. 270 =A.I.R. 1942 P. C. 61=(1943) 1 M.L.J. 16 (P.C.).

COSTS OF PARTNERSHIP SUIT.—The costs of partnership suits should generally be paid out of the assets of the partnership, or in default of assets by the partners in proportion to their respective shares. 7 C. 428. See also 28 Bom.L.R. 386=1926 B. 289. Once the rights and liabilities of partners are fixed in the preliminary decree for accounts, they cannot be varied by a Judge in proceedings taken thereafter. 169 I.C. 635=1937 Sind 103.

EXECUTION OF DECREE.—A decree in a suit for dissolution of partnership is, for the purposes of execution, to be regarded as a money decree. It can be attached, but cannot be sold. 27 B. 556=5 Bom.L. R. 529. See also 43 C.W.N. 997. When once the decree dissolving the partnership is passed, and a receiver is appointed to take the account of the partnership and pay its debts. the creditors of the partner ship should not execute his decree against any of the partners, but must go to the Court, which has appointed the receiver. and take its directions. 5 Bom.L.R. 912 (914)=28 Bom. 176. A decree obtained against a partnership can be executed against a partner not only to the extent of the assets of the partnership in his possession but also against the other properties which he may own, unless the partner is able to prove that for some reasons his liability is limited to the extent of the assets of the firm in his hand. 43 P.L.R. J. & K. 153. Where partnership funds are, in the hands of the Court receiver, a Court of equity will not allow one of the whole body of creditors to gain priority over the remainder, by the simple expedient of attaching money in Court's hands. 16 B. 575.

RECEIVER.—The ordinary rule that no party is appointed as receiver except by consent has been departed from only in exceptional cases, as for instance, in a case of partnership where there are no allegations of fraud and where the carrying on of the business depends on the personal credit of one of the members of the firm. Court does not take upon itself the Payment of firm debts and of separate debts.

49. Where there are joint debts due from the firm, and also separate debts due from any partner, the property of the firm shall be applied in the first instance in payment of the debts of the firm, and, if there is any surplus, then the share of each partner shall be applied in payment of his separate debts or paid to him. The separate property of any partner shall be applied first in the payment of his separate debts, and the surplus (if any) in the payment of the debts of the firm.

Personal profits earned after dissolution.

50. Subject to contract between the partners, the provisions of clause (a) of section 16 shall apply to transactions by any surviving partner or by the representatives of a deceased partner, undertaken after the firm is dissolved on account of the death of a partner and before its affairs have been completely wound up:

Provided that where any partner or his representative has bought the good will of the firm, nothing in this section shall affect his right to use the firm name.

management of a partnership except as incidental to winding up. 1934 Cal. 444=148 I.C. 459.

SEC. 49.—This section reproduces sec. 262 of the Indian Contract Act.

PROPERTY OF THE FIRM.—The property of the firm affected by this section is that property which belonged to the firm at the time of its dissolution. It includes all that was, at the commencement of the partnership, thrown into the common stock, and whatever has, during its continuance, by means thereof, been added to it. (See sec. 14, supra.) Separate property is that in which the partners are separately interested at the time of the dissolution. Property, therefore, which has been acquired in the partnership after its dissolution, is not to be treated as partnership property; and that which, though originally partnership property has, by virtue of a bona fide agreement, been converted into separate property before the dissolution, cannot be claimed by joint-creditors as partnership property. Separate property may similarly be converted into joint property; but the agreement by which the conversion is effected must, in any case, be completely executed and must be made in good faith. (Ex parte Owen, 4 D. & Sm. 351; Ex parte Ruffin, 6 Ves., 119; 5 R.R. 237.) See also 64 I.C. 719=1922 N. 70.

PARTNERS' LIEN.—Although partnership property has annexed to it a paramount liability for partnership debts, yet there is nothing in law which prevents partners from disposing of it as they like or allowing it to be treated as the sole property of one partner and obliges them to preserve it as partnership property for the benefit of the creditors of the partnership. Any disposition of the property by the agreement of the partners is effective unless made with a view to defraud the creditors; and the creditor is not entitled to be consulted in the matter. 64 I.C. 719=18 N.L.R. 186=1922 N. 70. See also 40 A. 446=45 I.C. 31=16 A.L.J. 305. Money or property given away does not continue to be the assets of the firm when it is given over to a third party. 54 C. 687=1927 C. 836. Debt by one partner to another—Money advanced to acquire share in partnership property—Lien on debtor partner's share. 15 L. 474=1934 L. 336.

SEC. 50.—This section corresponds to sub-sec. (2) of sec. 29 of the English Act, with necessary verbal changes. (Report of Select Committee.) N.B.—In secs. 50 and 53 the Second Select Committee have inserted a proviso which will protect the right of a partner who has brought the goodwill of the firm. (Report of Second Select Committee.) After dissolution the relationship between surviving and former partner is fiduciary. 57 M.L.J. 404=1930 M. 393. In the absence of any term agreed upon by the parties, any partner may determine the partnership at any time on giving notice of intention to do so. The dissolution takes place as from the date of the communication of the notice. If persons intending to retire from the partnership business continue to take things from the business and to associate otherwise with its works, a presumption may be drawn in favour of the continuance of the partnership. The accounts on a dissolution of partnership have to be taken for the benefit of all the partners concerned and there must be a full enquiry into them irrespective of the relief sought for in the plaint. If a partner without the permission of the other partner carries on a competing business with the firm, he must account for and pay over to the firm all profits made by him in such business and also make compensation to the firm for any loss occasioned thereby. The rule is not however applicable to a different business though the same knowledge and information may be useful in both. 67 I.C. 10=34 C.L.J. 405=1921 C. 722. After dissolution no ex-partner has power to do any Return of premium on premature dissolution.

51. Where a partner has paid a premium on entering into partnership for a fixed term, and the firm is dissolved before the expiration of that term otherwise than by the death of a partner, he shall be entitled to repayment of the premium or of such part thereof as may be reasonable, regard being had to the terms upon which he became a partner, and to the length of time during which he was a partner, unless—

(a) the dissolution is mainly due to his own misconduct, or

(b) the dissolution is in pursuance of an agreement containing no provision for the return of the premium or any part of it.

Rights where partnership contract is rescinded for fraud or misrepresentation.

52. Where a contract creating partnership is rescinded on the ground of the fraud or misrepresentation of any of the parties thereto, the party entitled to rescind is, without prejudice to any other right, entitled—

(a) to a lien on, or a right of retention of, the surplus of the assets of the firm remaining after the debts of the firm have been paid, for any sum paid by him for the purchase of a share in the firm and for any capital contributed by him;

(b) to rank as a creditor of the firm in respect of any payment made by him towards the debts of the firm; and

(c) to be indemnified by the partner or partners guilty of the fraud or misrepresentation against all the debts of the firm.

Right to restrain from use of firm name or firm property.

53. After a firm is dissolved, every partner or his representative may, in the absence of a contract between the partners to the contrary, restrain any other partner or his representative from carrying on a similar business in the firm name or from using any of the property of the firm for his own benefit, until the affairs of the firm have been completely wound up:

Provided that where any partner or his representative has bought the goodwill of the firm, nothing in this section shall affect his right to use the firm name.

Agreements in restraint of trade.

54. Partners may, upon or in anticipation of the dissolution of the firm, make an agreement that some or all of them will not carry on a business similar to that of the firm within a specified period or within specified local limits; and notwithstanding anything contained in section 27 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872, such agreement shall be valid if the restrictions imposed are reasonable.

act to bind another ex-partner. 50 M.L. J. 67=1926 M. 114.

SEC. 51.—See sec. 40 of the English Partnership Act.

SEC. 52.—This corresponds with sec. 41 of the English Partnership Act with a few verbal changes.

PRINCIPLE OF SECTION.—An agreement entered into on a dissolution will be set aside if it can be shown to have been based upon error or to have been tainted with fraud, whether in the shape of positive misrepresentation or of concealment of truth. The utmost good faith is required in dealings between working and sleeping partners in matters relating to the partnership accounts. 1930 M. 141=123 I.C. 596.

SEC. 54.—This section reproduces the second exception to sec. 27 of the Contract Act, with amendments to assimilate it to sec. 36 (2). (See also notes under secs. 36 and 55). An agreement in restraint of trade which is exempted under the Partnership Act, is one in which the restriction must be limited to business similar to that done by the partnership, and its operation must be limited to a specified period or within specified limits. Further the restriction must be reasonable. Where an agreement between two separating parties whose firm was doing craft insurance, prevents one of the partners from doing any craft insurance business of any kind whatsoever, directly or indirectly, as an agent or as a broker, throughout the whole world, except at Karachi and except as a broker and except through the other partner, it must be held that the agreement subjects the partner to a species of slavery so far as craft insurance is concerned. Such an agreement is void under sec. 27 of the Contract Act and is not saved by sec. 54

Sale of goodwill after dissolution.

55. (1) In settling the accounts of a firm after dissolution, the goodwill shall, subject to contract between the partners, be included in the assets, and it may be sold either separately or along with other property of the firm.

Rights of buyer and seller of goodwill.

(2) Where the goodwill of a firm is sold after dissolution, a partner may carry on a business competing with that of the buyer and he may advertise such business, but, subject to agreement between him and the buyer, he may not—

(a) use the firm name,

(b) represent himself as carrying on the business of the firm,

(c) solicit the custom of persons who were dealing with the firm before its dissolution.

Agreements in restraint of trade.

(3) Any partner may, upon the sale of the goodwill of a firm, make an agreement with the buyer that such partner will not carry on any business similar to that of the firm within a specified period or within specified local limits, and, notwithstanding anything contained in section 27 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872, such agreement shall be valid if the restrictions imposed are reasonable.

CHAPTER VII.

REGISTRATION OF FIRMS.

Power to exempt from application of this Chapter.

56. The [1][Provincial Government of any province] may, by notification in the Official Gazette, direct that the provisions of this Chapter shall not apply to [2][that] province or to any part thereof specified in the notification.

Appointment of Registrars.

57. (1) The Provincial Government may appoint Registrars of Firms for the purposes of this Act, and may define the areas within which they shall exercise their powers and perform their duties.

(2) Every Registrar shall be deemed to be a public servant within the meaning of section 21 of the Indian Penal Code.

of the Partnership Act. It is most unusual and certainly not necessary when two partners, engaged in the same business, separate, for one of them to insist that the other shall not engage in the same business. I.L.R. (1943) Kar. 49=1943 Sind 197=211 I.C. 162.

SEC. 55: GOODWILL OF THE FIRM.—The terms "partnership assets" must be deemed to include the goodwill of the business, for the plaintiff is entitled to a share in the goodwill as well as to a share in the actual assets of the business. 52 M. 772=1929 M. 456=56 M.L.J. 657. See also 43 I.C. 661. In a suit for dissolution of partnership while taking accounts the goodwill of the partnership firm should be included in the assets and should be brought into the common account. 1930 A.L.J. 868=34 C. W.N. 737=58 C. 208=1930 P.C. 185 (P.C.).

DEFINITION.—The term "goodwill" has been defined as "the expectation of continued public patronage".

The goodwill of a business means every affirmative advantage, as contrasted with negative advantage that has been acquired in carrying on the business, whether connected with or carrying with it the benefit of its own name or style or everything connected with or carrying with it the benefit of the business. 23 S.L.R. 471=1929 S. 85.

VALUE OF GOODWILL.—The value of the goodwill of a dissolved partnership is considerably decreased by the rule laid down in the recent case of Trego v. Hunt, (1896) A.C. 7, namely, that the sale of the goodwill does not prevent the partners from carrying on a competing business with the purchaser. (See sub-sec. 2.) It is true that the quondam partners may be restrained by injunction from soliciting any person who was a customer of the old firm [sub-sec. 2, cl. (c)] or from representing themselves as continuing the old business [sub-sec. 2, cl. (b)] or from using the firm name [sub-sec. 2, cl. (a).] Still, the mere fact that they may compete is a serious factor in the case, and cannot fail to affect the saleable value of the firm's goodwill. The effect of possible or probable competition should be one of the main determining factors in the valuation of the Application for registration.

58. (1) The registration of a firm may be effected at any time by sending by post or delivering to the Registrar of the area in which any place of business of the firm is situated or proposed to be situated, a statement in the prescribed form and accompanied by the prescribed fee, stating—

(a) the firm name,

(b) the place or principal place of business of the firm,

(c) the names of any other places where the firm carries on business,

(d) the date when each partner joined the firm.

(e) the names in full and permanent addresses of the partners, and (f) the duration of the firm.

The statement shall be signed by all the partners, or by their agents specially authorized in this behalf.

(2) Each person signing the statement shall also verify it in the manner prescribed.

(3) A firm name shall not contain any of the following words namely:—

"Crown," "Emperor," "Empress," "Empire," "Imperial," "King," "Queen," "Royal," or words expressing or implying the sanction, approval or patronage of the Crown or [1][the Central Government or any Provincial Government or the Crown Representative] except when the [2][Provincial Government] signifies [2][its] consent to the use of such words as part of the firm name by order in writing [3][* * *].

Registration.

59. When the Registrar is satisfied that the provisions of section 58 have been duly complied with, he shall record an entry of the statement in a register called the Register of Firms, and shall file the statement.

goodwill. 23 S.L.R. 471=1929 S. 85=110 I.C. 639. Ordinarily in the absence of a definition of shares in a partnership business there may be a presumption that the shares of the partners therein are equal even though their capitals are unequal. But where a business has commenced with unequal shares, that circumstance is of material value in deciding the shares of the partners in the subsequent business carried on by them after the retirement of one of them. In the absence of evidence to the contrary, the inference is that the shares of the retiring members have been taken by the continuing partners in the proportions in which the latter were originally interested in the concern. The circumstance that the money required for paying off the retiring partner was provided by the surviving partners not in equal shares but from the partnership funds which they held in unequal shares is of importance to show that they take the same rights in the new business. The goodwill of a business is an asset like any other asset and the representatives of a deceased partner are entitled to a share therein. If action be taken in time, the surviving partner can be restrained by an injunction from appropriating the goodwill or in any way rendering it less valuable. But where the surviving partner has for a long time appropriated all the advantages flowing therefrom, the appropriate course is to direct a valuation of the trade mark and apportion the same among the persons entitled in the proportion in which they are interested in the business. I.L.R. (1944) Mad. 729=57 L.W. 73 (2)=(1944) M.W.N. 40 =1944 Mad. 346=(1944) 1 M.L.J. 101.

SEC. 58.—Where a suit is brought by a partnership firm, which has not been registered under sec. 58, Partnership Act, a plea that the suit by it is not maintainable can be raised even after a written statement is filed by the defendant. SEC. 59.—Sec. 59 contemplates that when a firm has been registered, in the case of a dissolution of the firm by death of a partner, notwithstanding such death the firm should be treated as still registered for the purpose of the Act. The surviving partners whose names are in the register can sue in the name and on behalf of the Recording of alterations in firm name and principal place of business.

60. (1) When an alteration is made in the firm name or in the location of the principal place of business of a registered firm, a statement may be sent to the Registrar accompanied by the prescribed fee specifying the alteration, and signed and verified in the manner required under section 58.

(2) When the Registrar is satisfied that the provisions of sub-section (1) ave been duly complied with, he shall amend the entry relating to the firm in the Register of firms in accordance with the statement, and shall file it along with the statement relating to the firm filed under section 59.

Noting of closing and opening of branches.

61. When a registered firm discontinues business at any place or begins to carry on business at any place, such place not being its principal place of business, any partner or agent of the firm may send intimation thereof to the Registrar, who shall make a note of such intimation in the entry relating to the firm in the Register of Firms, and shall file the intimation along with the statement relating to the firm filed under section 59.

Noting of changes in names and adresses of partners.

62. When any partner in a registered firm alters his name or permanent address, an intimation of the alteration may be sent by any partner or agent of the firm to the Registrar, who shall deal with it in the manner provided in section 61.

Recording of changes in and dissolution of a firm.

63. (1) When a change occurs in the constitution of a registered firm, any incoming, continuing or outgoing partner, and when a registered firm is dissolved, any person who was a partner immediately before the dissolution, or the agent of any such partner or person specially authorized in this behalf, may give notice to the Registrar of such change or dissolution, specifying the date thereof; and the Registrar shall make a record of the notice in the entry relating to the firm in the Register of Firms, and shall file the notice along with the statement relating to the firm filed under section 59.

Recording of withdrawal of a minor.

(2) When a minor who has been admitted to the benefits of partnership in a firm attains majority and elects to become or not to become a partner, and the firm is then a registered firm, he, or his agent specially authorized in this behalf, may give notice to the Registrar that he has or has not become a partner, and the Registrar shall deal with the notice in the manner provided in sub-section (1).

Rectification of mistakes.

64. (1) The Registrar shall have power at all times to rectify any mistake in order to bring the entry in the Register of Firms relating to any firm into conformity with the documents relating to that firm filed under this Chapter.

firm without fresh registration after the death of the other partner. I.L.R. (1940) Bom. 715=42 Bom.L.R. 497=1940 Bom. 257. The mere fact that a joint Hindu family trading firm gets itself registered under the Partnership Act in the name of some of the members of the family does not, by itself and without more. destroy its character as such. 42 P.L.R. 418=1940 Lah. 425.

SECS. 59 AND 68: EFFECT OF REGISTRATION—INDEPENDENT PROOF OF MEMBERSHIP. —The registration of a firm raises a presumption that the parties shown as members of the firm and registered as such are actually members of it; but it is no doubt a rebuttable presumption. In the absence of evidence to the contrary, no further proof is necessary as to membership, nor is it necessary to prove that the application for registration bore the signature of the member concerned. 194 I.C. 168=16 Luck. 727=1941 Oudh 376.

SEC. 63 (1).—Sec. 63 (1) provides for the correction of the register when changes occur in the constitution of a registered firm, and unless the son gets his name included in the register he cannot maintain a suit. 57 L.W. 126=1944 Mad. 443=(1944) 1 M.L. J. 109.

(2) On application made by all the parties who have signed any document relating to a firm filed under this Chapter, the Registrar may rectify any mistake in such document or in the record or note thereof made in the Register of Firms.

Amendment of Register by order of Court.

65. A Court deciding any matter relating to a registered firm may direct that the Registrar shall make any amendment in the entry in the Register of firms relating to such firm which is consequential upon its decision; and the Registrar shall amend the entry accordingly.

Inspection of Register and filed documents.

66. (1) The Register of Firms shall be open to inspection by any person on payment of such fee as may be prescribed.

(2) All statements, notices and intimations filed under this Chapter shall be open to inspection, subject to such conditions and on payment of such fee as may be prescribed.

Grant of copies.

67. The Registrar shall on application furnish to any person, on payment of such fee as may be prescribed, a copy, certified under his hand, of any entry or portion thereof in the Register of Firms.

Rules of evidence.

68. (1) Any statement, intimation or notice recorded or noted in the Register of Firms shall, as against any person by whom or on whose behalf such statement, intimation or notice was signed, be conclusive proof of any fact therein stated.

SEC. 68: PRODUCTION OF CERTIFICATE—EFFECT.—It is impossible to permit a litigant to tender in evidence such a document as is referred to in sec. 68 and then to say that the registration was a nullity because the firm had been dissolved long before. SEC. 69: SCOPE AND APPLICABILITY.—The language of sub-secs. (1) and (2) of sec. 69 is wide enough to cover suits relating to a dissolved firm. Sec. 69 (1) covers a suit by a plaintiff suing in respect of a right vested in him or acquired by him as a partner in a firm, and it is not essential that the firm should be actually in existence at the date of the institution of the suit. 1937 B. 225=39 Bom.L.R. 260=I.L.R. 1937 B. 628; 1940 Nag. 78=I.L.R. 1940 Nag. 130. Sec. 69 has no application to a case where two persons as two distinct individuals institute a suit to recover money on a bond executed by the defendants, the money having been advanced by the plaintiffs from a common fund, when there is no evidence to show that they constituted a firm where the bond does not describe them as partners in any joint business, or that they carry on any business jointly, an essential element, in the definition of partnership is wanting, notwithstanding that they share profits derived from a shop owned by them. That would not make them partners in law and a suit by them is not hit by sec. 69. 1946 P.W.N. 164=224 I.C. 106. Sec. 69 applies only to a suit by a partnership and not to a suit by two or more individuals who do not constitute a firm or partnership. In order to create a partnership, there must be an agreement entered into by the parties concerned to share the profits of the business. In the absence of any evidence to show that there was such an agreement or contract between two persons, they cannot be held to be partners or members of a firm, and hence a suit by two such individuals would not be hit by sec. 69. 1946 All. 489=224 I.C. 273. Though Berar is not in British India, this Act is made applicable to it by notification. 1937 Nag. 134=I.L.R. 1937 N. 358. As to application of this section to a suit by a money-lending firm carrying on business at a place in Berar, see 1937 Nag. 134. Sec. 69, only prohibits a suit by the members of an unregistered firm. Where a suit is filed against certain persons who carry on business as a firm without getting themselves registered, and a decree is passed, they are entitled to appeal against that decree. Their appeal is not barred because the firm is unregistered. 58 L.W. 170 (1)=1945 M.W.N. 270=1945 Mad. 209=(1945) 1 M.L.J. 278. The partnership Act does nowhere enjoin registration. It is optional and not obligatory.

There is no implied obligation on the partners to concur in effecting registration, in a contract of partnership. Even if there is such an obligation, then the obligation would arise out of the partnership agreement (i.e.) out of a contract, and the rights flowing from the obligation, of a partner to compel his co-partners to effect registration would be a "right arising from a contract", and a suit to enforce such a right brought by one partner against the other partners of an unregistered firm is expressly barred by the provisions of sec. 69 (1). In such a case the proper and indeed the only available remedy is a suit for dissolution and not a suit for a mandatory injunction. 1941 Rang.L.R. 219=1941 Rang. 196. The partners of a dissolved firm who had failed to get their firm registered under the Partnership Act can maintain a suit for damages for breach of a contract. Such a suit is not affected by the prohibition contained in sec. 69 (1) and (2) of the Partnership Act. Such a suit is on the other hand saved by sec. 69 (3). "Property" in sec. 69 (3) has to be construed in its widest sense and includes a right to sue for breach of contract. Damages for breach of contract are the assets of the firm and as such can be realised by the partners of the dissolved firm although the firm has not been registered. 45 Bom.L.R. 691=1943 Bom. 385. The fact that the suit is brought by a person who was a partner but who alleges that the unregistered partnership was dissolved long before suit and that under the terms of the dissolution, he had become entitled to sue for the outstandings due to the partnership, does not take the case out of the prohibition of sec. 69 (2). 1944 M.W.N. 723=57 L.W. 607=(1944) 2 M.L.J. 406=1945 Mad. 146. Suit for dissolution of unregistered firm—Prayer for accounts—Competency. I.L.R. (1943) Nag. 24=1943 Nag. 12. Settlement of account after dissolution of unregistered firm—Suit on such settled account is not barred. I.L.R. (1944) Nag. 101=1944 N.L.J. 99=1944 Nag. 124.

SUITS BY UNREGISTERED FIRM.—Provisions of the section are imperative. A plaint filed by an unregistered firm cannot be validated by subsequent registration and amendment of plaint. 44 L.W. 648=165 I.C. 939 (2)=1936 M. 991=71 M.L.J. 663. But see 41 C.W.N. 534, where it was held that where a firm is registered after suit, and the plea in bar of suit is not taken till in the course of arguments, the suit should not be thrown out but should be treated as properly instituted on the day when the firm is registered. The withdrawal of a suit by an unregistered firm is no bar to a fresh suit on the same cause of action after registration of the firm, as the later suit is technically a suit by a different plaintiff. 44 L.W. 247 (1)=164 I.C. 748=1936 M. 697. The object of sec. 69 was to make sure that the general policy of the Legislature that all partnerships, should be registered will be carried out; it is not right to hold that the provision contained in sec. 69 was really in the nature of "processual" law in the sense in which that term is used in the cases dealing with the principle of retrospective operation of statutes; 1938 M. 688=(1938) 2 M.L.J. 44. Sec. 69 has to be interpreted strictly and a suit instituted contrary to its provisions is bad and cannot be subsequently validated by compliance with those provisions. The fact that objection to the maintainability of the suit on the score of non-registration is taken late at the stage of arguments is no ground for holding that the suit should be treated as valid at least from the date of compliance with the section. 1938 Mad. 185=(1937) 2 M.L.J. 717. Though a suit is filed by the individual partners of a firm, in respect of a debt due to the firm the suit is undoubtedly one, on behalf of the firm and sec. 69 applies to such a suit. 1937 A.M.L.J. 86. Under sec. 69 two conditions must exist before a suit can be dismissed. The contract must be with an unregistered firm and the person suing to recover the amount must be that firm or another unregistered firm; it is only then, that there can be an objection to the maintainability of the suit. The mere fact that the contract was with an unregistered firm is not sufficient to dismiss a suit if the plaintiff is otherwise competent to maintain it. Therefore the dismissal of a previous suit by an unregistered firm cannot operate as res judicata against the assignee of that firm which is a registered firm, because even the unregistered firm is competent to maintain another suit for the recovery of the same amount after its registration. 1937 L. 241. Sec. 69 is not confined either by the general law or by sec. 74 to suits in respect of obligations incurred after the coming into force of sec. 69, i.e., 1-10-1933, but it applies to all suits filed after that date, though in respect of obligations incurred before that date. The section does not take away any vested rights of the parties, but only enacts a processual rule by stating that prior to bringing a suit a firm must do a certain act, namely, get itself registered. 1938 Mad. 185=(1937) 2 M.L.J. 717. Sec. 69 prevents a Court from taking cognizance of a suit brought by an unregistered firm, in the same way a Court shall not take cognizance of a suit barred by limitation; and to hold that because as the result of ignorance or mistake objection was not taken by the defendant in the suit, so the provisions of the law could be flouted, would be to frustrate the intention of the Legislature clearly expressed. Therefore the Judge is right in allowing to be taken or himself taking the objection under sec. 69 in appeal for the first time. I.L.R. (1939) Kar. 765=1939 Sind 206. this Act shall be instituted in any Court by or on behalf of any person suing as a partner in a firm against the firm or any person alleged to be or to have been a partner in the firm unless the firm is registered and the person suing is or has been shown in the Register of Firms as a partner in the firm.

passing of decrees in favour of unregistered partnerships or whether it only contains a prohibition against the filing of suits by unregistered partnerships, see 51 L.W. 683=1940 Mad. 628=(1940) 1 M.L.J. 329; see also 40 C.W.N. 1180=64 C.L.J. 554. Where a suit by a firm has been disposed of on the ground that owing to non-registration the suit is not maintainable, the subsequent registration cannot validate the proceedings, and entitle an appellate Court to look into the merits of the case. If registration had been done during the pendency of the suit, it might no doubt have legally proceeded from that date unless there was a bar of limitation. 1939 Nag. 301=1939 N.L.J. 427. The law does not require that a plaint by a firm must expressly note that it has been registered. If the defendant opposes the suit on the ground of non-registration of the firm, he must take the objection in his pleas. The plaintiffs cannot be called upon to show at the time of arguments that they are a registered firm and the suit should not then be dismissed on ground of want of proof of registration. 39 P.L.R. 777=1938 Lah. 96.

A suit instituted in the name of a firm not being a registered firm is not properly constituted and cannot proceed in that form. The plaintiff in such a case should be allowed an opportunity to amend his plaint subject to conditions. The amendment can be allowed even at a late stage as it does not amount to an addition of parties but merely the substitution of the name in order to correct a misdescription. 1937 P.W.N. 36=1937 Pat. 526. A transferee of a debt due to an unregistered firm is not entitled to bring a suit to recover the amount of the debt, since the firm itself had no right of suing for that debt under sec. 69 (2). The fact that the original cause of action arose before that Act came into force does not affect the matter, where the debt is transferred after the passing of that Act. 71 C.L.J. 553=44 C.W.N. 387=1940 Cal. 528. See also 1938 M. 688=(1938) 2 M.L.J. 44; 1937 M. 419; 1940 N.L.J. 63=1940 N. 137=I.L.R. 1940 N. 70. A suit of the value of above Rs. 100 by an unregistered firm is hit by sec. 69 and a decree cannot be passed for Rs. 100 in such a suit. 42 C.W.N. 841.

APPLICABILITY TO ARBITRATION PROCEEDINGS.—Only a 'suit' as used in forensic language is excluded by this section, and not applications as are contemplated in para. 20, Sch. II, C. P. Code. 162 I.C. 670=1936 L. 136; 16 Pat. 742=1938 P. 231.

APPLICIBILITY—FIRM OF FATHER AND SON FORMING A JOINT HINDU FAMILY.—Sec. 69 does not apply to a firm of father and son who form a joint Hindu family and therefore a suit by such a firm is maintainable even though the firm is not registered. 153 I.C. 510=1935 A.L.J. 260=1935 A. 280. A Hindu joint family firm need not be registered under the Partnership Act and is not subject to the restrictions imposed by sec. 69 of that Act. 1937 A.L.J. 823 =1937 All. 650. Where after the death of a Mahomedan his sons carry on the business and some of them are minors, it is a partnership requiring registration. If such a partnership is unregistered, it cannot maintain a suit. 1939 N.L.J. 427=1939 Nag. 301.

SEC. 69.—Applicability to Cutchi Memon family—Firm not registered—Suit by—Maintainability—If Hindu joint family business. See 1937 M.W.N. 412=(1937) 2 M.L.J. 221=1937 M. 666.

SEC. 69 (2).—Sec. 69 (2) of the Act does not apply to a suit for the enforcement of an agreement entered into after the dissolution or at the time of the dissolution between the partners of an unregistered firm under which some definite sum of money was payable by one partner to another. Sec. 69 (2) applies only to a suit on behalf of the partnership. The section has to be strictly construed and the bar imposed by it cannot be extended to suits for recovery of money due on a contract entered into between the partners of an unregistered firm in pursuance of an agreement entered into after dissolution and taking of accounts. 55 L.W. 547=A.I.R. 1942 Mad. 707=(1942) 2 M.L.J. 309. A point of law, e.g., that a suit falls within the mischief of sec. 69 (2) of the Partnership Act. can be raised for the first time in appeal if all the facts necessary for its determination are on the record. Sec. 69 (2). which is a stringent provision and which must therefore be strictly construed, will only apply to a suit if it is instituted either by or on behalf of a firm, that is to say, ex facie it purports to be filed either by or on behalf of the firm or in the interests of the firm. But this must be clear from the plaint itself and must not in any case depend on the liability of a plaintiff to restore the benefits he has received out of that suit to the firm of which he is a partner eventually. Where on a reading of the plaint it is found that the suit is instituted not by or one behalf of the firm, but by a partner in his individual capacity, sec. 69 (2) would not apply. A contract entered into by a partner personally constitutes a personal contract and he is entitled to bring a suit on it in his own name without joining his partners as plaintiffs in the action; such a suit is properly instituted by him in his individual capacity and does not fall within the mischief of sec. 69 (2). I.L.R. (1942) Mad. 775=1942 M. W.N. 644=55 L.W. 446=1942 Mad. 634 =(1942) 2 M.L.J. 636. A suit was brought in the name of a registered firm. The plaint was signed by a person who styled himself as 'manager and partner general attorney'. His name was not found in the register of firms. On a contention that the suit as framed was not maintainable in view of sec. 69 (2) of the Partnership Act, it was held, that the use of the word 'partner' by the manager was a surplusage and that the provisions of sec. 69 (2) were not a bar to the maintainability of the suit in the form in which it was brought. 1943 O.W.N. 368=1944 Oudh 37. Payment of common debt by one or some of the partners—Suit for contribution against others—Maintainability. See I.L.R. (1942) Nag. 340=1942 Nag. 72. Where a registered firm has been dissolved by the retirement of one of its partners and notice of the dissolution has been given to the Registrar, the firm so far as registration is concerned is to be deemed to be still registered and can sue. I.L.R. (1941) 2 Cal. 289=1942 Cal. 76. Sec. 69 of the Partnership Act is mandatory. Registration of the firm is a condition precedent to its right to institue a suit. If a firm was not registered at the time a suit was filed by it the subsequent registration of the firm does not entitle the Court to proceed with the suit and the only course open to the Court is to dismiss the suit. ((1937) 2 M.L.J. 273, Over.) 1942 Mad. 252=54 L.W. 676=(1941) 2 M. L.J. 968=I.L.R. 1942 Mad. 355. See also 40 P.L.R. 667=1938 Lah. 767; 1940 A.M. L.J. 81. A suit which is not maintainable by reason of non-compliance with the section cannot become maintainable at a later stage by reason of subsequent registration. The crucial date is the date of institution of the suit, and if the firm is unregistered at the date of the institution of the suit the suit must fail; and subsequent registration before the hearing of the suit cannot cure the initial defect. 18 Pat. 114= 20 Pat.L.T. 33=1939 Pat. 239. See also 1936 A.M.L.J. 20. Where a partnership is dissolved by the death of a partner, a suit by the surviving partner to realise an asset of the dissolved partnership is not barred by sec. 69 (2). 1946 A. 259=1946 A. W.R. (H.C.) 56.

SEC. 69 (3).—In a suit for dissolution of an unregistered partnership, the Court has power to pass a preliminary decree directing inter alia that accounts be taken. A prayer for "dissolution of partnership" through Court is a compendious mode of asking a fourfold relief: (a) a declaration that the partnership stands dissolved from a certain date; (b) a declaration as to who the partners are and what are their proportionate shares; (c) a prayer that accounts be taken and the assets and liabilities of the partnership as on the date of dissolution be determined; and (d) a final decree be passed. These prayers are implicit in the prayer for dissolution made in a "suit for dissolution of partnership" and it is in this sense that this expression is used in sec. 69 (3). 39 P.L.R. 197= 1937 Lah. 633. The words "other proceedings to enforce a right arising from a contract" in sub-sec. (3) of sec. 69, are to be taken as sue generis of a claim of set off; that is to say when sub-secs. (1) and (2) relate to the right of bringing a suit the opening words of sub-sec. (3) relate to the right of setting up a defence and have no relation to the entirely different question of a claim to enforce the execution of a decree. Sub-sec. (3) of sec. 69 has no application to the execution of decrees, whether consent decrees or decrees after contest. Where a consent decree was passed against a firm in 1926 and it is sought to be executed in 1933, the bar of sec. 69 could not be pleaded in defence. I. L.R. (1943) Nag. 540=206 I.C. 602=1943 N.L.J. 79=1943 Nag. 175. A petition by a creditor firm for the adjudication of a debtor as an insolvent is not "a proceeding to enforce a right arising from a contract", within the meaning of sec. 69 (3) of the Partnership Act. The right of a creditor to file an insolvency petition against his debtor is a right conferred upon him by statute and is not a right arising out of a particular contract of loan between the petitioning creditor and the debtor. The fact that the creditor happens to be a firm and that a suit to recover the loan is not maintainable by reason of the firm being unregistered, does not deprive the unregistered firm of its right to file a petition in insolvency against its debtor. 48 L.W. 901 =1939 Mad. 145. Under sec. 69, sub-sec. (3) (a), the provisions of sub-sec. (1) are not to affect the enforcing of any right to sue for the dissolution of partnership. Where therefore arbitration proceedings are on the face of them taken for the purposes of the dissolution of partnership of an unregistered firm, the proceedings under Sch. II, para. 20, C. P. Code, would be (a) the enforcement of any right to sue for the dissolution of a firm or for accounts of a dissolved firm, or any right or power to realize the property of a dissolved firm, or

(b) the powers of an official assignee, receiver or Court under the Presidency-Towns Insolvency Act, 1909, or the Provincial Insolvency Act, 1920, to realize the property of an insolvent partner.

(4) This section shall not apply—

(a) to firms or to partners in firms which have no place of business in British India, or whose places of business in British India are situated in areas to which, by notification under [1][section 56], this Chapter does not apply, or

(b) to any suit or claim of set-off not exceeding one hundred rupees in value which, in the Presidency-towns, is not of a kind specified in section 19 of the Presidency Small Cause Courts Act, 1882, or, outside the Presidency-towns, is not of a kind specified in the Second Schedule to the Provincial Small Cause Courts Act, 1887, or to any proceeding in execution or other proceeding incidental to or arising from any such suit or claim.

Penalty for furnishing false particulars.

70. Any person who signs any statement, amending statement, notice or intimation under this Chapter containing any particular which he knows to be false or does not believe to be true, or containing particulars which he knows to be incomplete or does not believe to be complete, shall be punishable with imprisonment which may extend to three months, or with fine, or with both.

protected from the application of sec. 69. 162 I.C. 670=1936 L. 136. The terms of sub-sec. (3) of sec. 69 does not contemplate an execution proceeding. The fact that the decree in question was a consent decree cannot make a difference in a case where the decree-holder does not repudiate the compromise but only questions the right of the decree holder to execute the decree. In such a case neither was the execution proceeding meant to enforce a right arising from the contract nor was the objection of judgment-debtor directed against its validity. So sec. 69 (3) of the Act cannot come into play. 1939 N.L.J. 148. A suit to recover a debt due to a firm brought by persons who were the only members of a firm at the date of dissolution, is a suit to enforce a right to 'realise the property of a dissolved firm' and as such falls within the exception (a) to sub-sec. (3) of sec. 69 and hence is maintainable even though the partnership was an unregistered one. I.L.R. (1938) Bom. 102=39 Bom.L.R. 1214=1938 Bom. 108. See also 1937 Mad. 730. Sec. 69 (3) (a) of the Partnership Act cannot be construed as permitting a suit for accounts by a partner of an unregistered firm only if the partnership was dissolved before the date of the institution of the suit or prohibiting a prayer for accounts from being joined with the prayer for dissolution of an existing firm. A suit for dissolution of the firm and also for settlement of accounts is maintainable, and the plaintiff can be given a decree for both. 1937 A.L.J. 825=1937 A. 674. A debt due to a firm is part of its property. A suit to realise such a debt is a suit to enforce a right to realise the property and it would seem to fall within the exception in sec. 69 (3) (i) of the Act. Hence a suit by a partner to realise a debt due to an unregistered dissolved partnership is not barred by sec. 69 (2) of the Act. 1942 N.L.J. 227. The right of a partner of an unregistered firm to sue and obtain a decree for dissolution and accounts remain unaffected by the provisions of sec. 69 of the Partnership Act in view of the proviso contained in sub-sec. (3) thereof. I.L.R. (1940) All. 26=1939 A.L.J. 964=A.I.R. 1939 All. 735 (F. B.). See also 1942 N.L.J. 485=1943 Nag. 12. The expression any "right or power to realise the property of a dissolved firm" in sec. 69 (3), would include a suit to recover the outstandings of the dissolved firm. The outstandings are property and hence a suit to recover the same would be a suit to realise the property within the meaning of sec. 69 (3). Such right or power is not limited to turning the property into money by sale. 224 I.C. 273.

SECS. 69 AND 5.—Where the plaint is not clearly worded though it is stated therein that the business is a long standing one and the plaintiffs are relations descended from the same ancestor and reside in the same house, and the cause title also does not describe the plaintiffs as constituting a firm and the defendants raise the plea of non maintainability of the suit for non-registration very late, the Court should not straightaway dismiss the suit on the ground. The Court should take evidence to clear up the matter as to whether the plaintiffs really constituted a partnership firm or were carrying on a joint family business which would come within the ex-

SECS. 69 AND 48: UNREGISTERED FIRM—SUIT FOR DISSOLUTION AND ACCOUNTS—DECREE THAT COULD BE PASSED.—In a suit for dissolution of partnership and for accounts in respect of an unregistered firm, while the prayer for dissolution could be decreed, the plaintiff cannot obtain a decree for rendition of accounts against the defendant because, the decree to be granted under O. 20, r. 15, C. P. Code, must be modified in accordance with the provisions of law in sec. 69 of the Partnership Act. But the prayer that an account be taken may be granted in the limited terms of sec. 48; that is to say the decree in question will be under O. 20, r. 15 and Form No. 21 of Appendix D and if the plaintiff desires a receiver may be appointed to take accounts of the firm. But the decree will state that the relief of making the defendant an accounting party is not granted. I.L.R. (1939) All. 363=1939 A.L.J. 405=A.I.R. 1939 All 535.

SECS. 69 AND 74 (b): OPERATION OF SEC. 69.—Sec. 69 of the Act applies to suits for enforcement of claims accrued before the commencement of the Act, if such suits are started after sec. 69 begins to operate. Sec. 69 deals with procedure only, may be considered as retrospective in its operation and may be held to apply prima facie to all actions pending as well as future. There-

SECS. 69 AND 74.—The bar imposed by sec. 69 does not apply to a suit to enforce a right accrued before the Act came into force by virtue of sec. 74 of the Act. The effect of sec. 74 is that the Act is not to affect any right already acquired before the commencement of the Act. Sec. 74 (a) saves from the operation of the Act, a suit to enforce a right which accrued before sec. 69 came into operation, though the suit is instituted after sec. 69 cannot come into operation. The words "or anything done or suffered" before the commencement of the Act in sec. 74 (b) must be taken to be governed by the previous words "any legal proceeding or remedy in respect of any such right", and these words apply to legal proceedings to enforce any subsisting rights which are saved by cl. (c) of sec. 74. Sub-cls. (a) and (c) of sec. 74 save existing rights, and sub-cl. (b) saves any legal proceeding or remedy in respect of such rights. Sec. 74 (b) deals with procedure and nothing else, that is to say, it deals with methods of enforcing rights and not with the rights themselves. I.L.R. Sec. 74 which saves rights and remedies which existed before the Act came into force should not be read as being subordinate to sec. 69 (2), but should prevail over sec. 69 (2). SCHEDULE II.

ENACTMENTS REPEALED.

[Repealed by Act I of 1938.]

THE INDIAN PASSPORT ACT (XXXIV OF 1920.)

[9th September, 1920.

An Act to take power to require passports of persons entering British India.

WHEREAS it is expedient to take power to require passports of persons entering British India; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Short title and extent.

1. (1) This Act may be called THE INDIAN PASSPORT ACT, 1920.

(2) It shall extend to the whole of British India, including British Baluchistan, the Sonthal Parganas and the district of Angul.

Definitions.

2. In this Act, unless there is anything repugnant in the subject or context,—

"entry" means entry by water, land or air;

"passport" means a passport for the time being in force issued or renewed by the prescribed authority and satisfying the conditions prescribed relating to the class of passports to which it belongs; and

"prescribed" means prescribed by rules made under this Act.

Power to make rules.

3. (1) The Central Government may make rules requiring that persons entering British India shall be in possession of passports, and for all matters ancillary or incidental to that purpose.

(2) Without prejudice to the generality of the foregoing power such rules may—

(a) prohibit the entry into British India or any part thereof of any person who has not in his possession a passport issued to him;

(b) prescribe the authorities by whom passports must have been issued or renewed, and the conditions with which they must comply for the purposes of this Act; and

(c) provide for the exemption, either absolutely or on any condition, of any person or class of persons from any provision of such rules.

(3) Rules made under this section may provide that any contravention thereof or of any order issued under the authority of any such rules shall be punishable with imprisonment for a term which may extend to three months, or with fine or with both.

(4) All rules made under this section shall be published in the Official Gazette, and shall thereupon have effect as if enacted in this Act.

are left entirely untouched. Sec. 74 is a saving section and if effect is to be given to the words used, sec. 69 (2) cannot apply in a case where a suit is filed by a firm which had not been registered but whose registration is effected during the pendency of the suit, when the suit is in respect of a liability arising prior to the Act, sec. 69 does not bar such a suit. I.L.R. (1939) Mad. 980=1939 Mad. 860=(1939) 2 M.L.J. 489. See also 1940 Mad. 628=(1940) 1 M.L.J. 329. From the opening words 'any legal proceeding or remedy' in sub-sec. (b) of sec. 74, it is clear that the sub-section relates to those legal proceedings or remedies which were open to a party in respect of any right, title, interest, obligation or liability which had already been accrued or incurred before the commencement of the Act. The absence of the words 'pending' and 'taken' indicate that it was not the intention of the legislature to exempt from the operation of sec. 69 only proceedings which had been instituted. I.L.R. (1941) All. 311=1941 A.L.J. 107 =1941 All. 178. See also 58 All. 495= 1935 A.L.J. 1245=1936 All. 3.

SEC. 74.—[See notes under 69, supra.] Sec. 74 not only saves the rights but also the suit to enforce these rights. There is no reason to restrict sec. 74 by saying that it covers only a right not dependent upon the adjudication of a Court. Hence a suit by an unregistered firm for rent due up to October, 1933, is not barred but is saved by sec. 74. I.L.R. (1939) Kar. 765=1939 Sind 206. The legal proceedings indicated in sec. 74 (b) should not be interpreted as meaning proceedings pending at the time of the commencement of the Act. 1938

Power of arrest.

4. (1) Any officer of police, not below the rank of a sub-inspector, and any officer of the Customs Department empowered by a general or special order of the [1][Central Government] in this behalf may arrest without warrant any person who has contravened or against whom a reasonable suspicion exists that he has contravened any rule or order made under section 3.

(2) Every officer making an arrest under this section shall, without unnecessary delay, take or send the person arrested before a Magistrate having jurisdiction in the case or to the officer-in-charge of the nearest police-station and the provisions of section 61 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898, shall, so far as may be, apply in the case of any such arrest.

Power of removal.

5. The [1][Central Government] may, by general or special order, direct the removal of any person from British India who, in contravention of any rule made under section 3 prohibiting entry into British India without passport, has entered therein, and thereupon any [2][officer of the Crown] shall have all reasonable powers necessary to enforce such direction.

Mad. 185=(1937) 2 M.L.J. 717. The Act must be construed in its plain terms, and where its terms admit of no doubt, anything in the nature of speculation as to the intention of the Legislature should be avoided. Sec. 74 (a) says that nothing in the Act shall affect any right acquired before the commencement of the Act; and sec. 74 (b) extends this saving clause to any legal proceeding or remedy in respect of any such right; that is, any such right as is mentioned in sub-sec. (a) and has accrued before the commencement of this Act. It would be wrong to say that sec. 74 (b) saves only suits which are pending at the time when the Act comes into force. It saves a remedy, which connotes the right to institute a suit as well. Hence when a suit has been instituted after 1st October, 1933, by a firm not registered under the Partnership Act for recovery of a debt accruing before that date, the suit is not barred by sec. 69 of the Act but is saved by the provisions of sec. 74 (b). 1938 Rang. L.R. 371=1938 Rang. 273 (F.B.). The wording of sec. 74 seems to state in express words that none of the provision of the Act, which includes the provisions of sec. 69 shall affect any remedy in respect of any obligation or liability which had arisen before the commencement of the Act. Both cases are covered namely (1) where the legal proceeding has been started before the Act and (2) where the legal proceeding arising out of a remedy that existed before the Act, has been started after the Act. 1940 N.L.J. 63=1940 Nag. 137. See also 1943 Nag. 175=1943 N.L.J. 79. The terms of sec. 74 save not only the rights accrued before 1st October, 1933, but also the remedy to enforce those rights. When the right to sue arose on 30th July, 1933, the bar of sec. 69 does not apply to a suit by an unregistered firm after 1st October, 1933, in respect of the right which accrued due before that date. The fact that Art. 85 of the Limitation Act applies to the account on which the suit is brought and that time is extended under that article to the last date of the accounting year of which the plaintiffs can take advantage, that being a date after 1st October, 1933, would not affect the date on which the cause of action accrued for purposes of sec. 74 of the Partnership Act. Such last date of the accounting year if necessary, and relevant only for the purpose of deciding the question of limitation, Art. 85 of the Limitation Act only extends the time for the purpose of calculating limitation, but does not affect sec. 74 of the Partnership Act which saves in certain cases the right to sue for a debt due and acknowledged before 1st October, 1933. THE PATENTS AND DESIGNS ACT (II OF 1911) [1]

[1*st March*, 1911.

An Act to amend the law relating to the protection of Inventions and Designs.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the law relating to the protection of inventions and designs; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

PRELIMINARY.

Short title, extent and commencement.

1. (1) This Act may be called THE INDIAN PATENTS AND DESIGNS ACT, 1911.

(2) It extends to the whole of British India, including British Baluchistan and the Sonthal Parganas; and

(3) It shall come into force on the first day of January, 1912.

Definitions.

2. In this Act, unless there is anything repugnant in the subject or context,—

[2][(1) "Advocate-General means an Advocate-General appointed under the Government of India Act, 1935];

SEC. 1.—Scope and object of Act. 41 A. 68=48 I.C. 450=16 A.L.J. 941. An exclusive privilege in respect of an invention under the Invention and Designs Act, 1888, was under the Patents and Designs Act, 1911, converted into a patent and extended throughout the British India. 54 I.C. 417. As to whtther Act applies to Berar, see 54 I.C. 417. See also 27 M.L.J. 573 (law applicable to suits instituted before this Act). In the case of infringement of patents, the test is to see whether a man grappling with the problem solved by the patent attacked and having no knowledge of it can say that his anticipation has solved the problem. In order to render a document a prior publication, it must publish to the world the whole invention, i.e., all that is material to instruct the public to put the patent in practice. Mere suggestions are not enough. Invention is finding out something which other people have not found out. The quid to the patentee is the monopoly; the quo is that it presents to the public knowledge which they have not got. The real invention may often be the last element of the combination; an invention may further consist only in simplification. 1929 A.C. 269=116 I.C. 593 =1929 P.C. 38 (P.C.). See also 1944 O. W.N. 374=1945 20 Luck. 170=Oudh 6 (as to what constitutes an "invention"). Any information as to the alleged invention given by any prior publication must be for the purpose of practical utility, equal to that given by the subsequent patent. The later invention must be described in the earlier publication that is held to anticipate it, in order to sustain the defences of anticipation. Where the question is solely one of prior publication, it is not enough to prove that an apparatus described in an earlier specification could have been used to produce this or that result. It must also be shown that the specifications contained clear and unmistakeable directions so to use it. It must be shown that the public have been so presented with the invention that it is out of the power for any

(3) "Controller" means the Controller of Patents and Designs appointed under this Act:

(4) "copyright" means the exclusive right to apply a design to any article in any class in which the design is registered;

[1][(5) "design" means only the features of shape, configuration, pattern or ornament applied to any article by any industrial process or means, whether manual, mechanical or chemical, separate or combined, which in the finished article appeal to and are judged solely by the eye; but does not include any mode or principle of construction or anything which is in substance a mere mechanical device, and does not include any trade-mark as defined in section 478, or property mark as defined in section 479 of the Indian Penal Code];

(6) "District Court" has the meaning assigned to that expression by the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908;

subsequent persons to claim the invention as his own. 124 I.C. 569=1930 P.C. 1 (P.C.). There must be a substantial exercise of the inventive power or inventive genius though it may in cases be very slight. Slight alterations or improvements may produce important results, and may disclose great ingenuity. Sometimes it is a combination that is the invention, if the invention requires independent thought, ingenuity and skill, producing in a distinctive form a more efficient result converting a comparatively defective apparatus into a useful and efficient one rejecting what is bad and useless in former attempts and retaining what is useful, and uniting them all into an apparatus which, taken as a whole, is novel, there is subject-matter of invention. A new combination of well-known devices and the application thereof to a new and useful purpose, may require invention to produce it, and may be good subject-matter for a patent. Having regard to the conditions of the art of wireless telegraphy there is sufficient invention for claiming a patent even though the same consists only of a small step if it is a step for ward. 1930 P.C. 1=31 L.W. 126 (P.C.). See also 1945 Oudh 6=20 Luck. 170. The question whether a specification of a prior invention describes the invention claimed by the subsequent inventor is a question of construction and parol evidence is only admissible for the purpose of explaining words or symbols of art and other such like technical matters and of informing the Court of relevant surrounding circumstances. The date of the know ledge or use by any other person is a date before the invention not before the patent. 1930 P.C. 1. The statute relating to patents [Patent Act (Canada), 1935] does not contemplate or authorize a contingent disclaimer. As soon as a disclaimer is filed and recorded in the office of the Commissioner it is made part of the patent; the only existing claims are the claims as amended by virtue of the disclaimer and the only invention protected by the Letters Patent is the invention, the description whereof is contained in the specification as so amended. 181 I.C. 958=1939 P.C. 91 (P.C.).

SEC. 2 (3).—See 54 I.C. 417.

SEC. 2 (5).—Where a design covers the whole body of goods and is part and parcel thereof, it is not a trade-mark but a 'design' nor is it a 'trade description' within S. 2 (2) of the Merchandise Marks Act, 1889. 25 I.C. 998=15 Cr.L.J. 670. Where there was no difference in shape, configuration, pattern or ornament although there was a different mode and principle of construction. Held, that this was not a "new" or "original" design within the meaning of the Act. 190 I.C. 281=1940 Pesh. 38. In determining whether there was novelty in the patent which is alleged to be infringed, if it can be shown that the new result was long sought for, that persons skilled in the art had been working without success to attain it, and had long regarded it as a problem and that the invention of the patentee successfully solved the problem—then such a state of affairs constitutes evidence of the strongest kind that the prior knowledge did not in fact give an obvious clue to the solution and ought not to be considered as destroying "subject-matter". Mere simplicity is not necessarily an objection; a mere scintilla of invention is sufficient, especially where the appreciation of a desideratum is one of the important features of the invention and there may be invention in improvements in what is merely simplification, though matters of ordinary skilled designing or workshop improvements cannot be considered as requiring the exercise of invention. The practical utility and commercial success of the invention may be a material factor in determining whether the new result was obvious or not. The fact

(8) "invention" means any manner of new manufacture and includes an improvement and an alleged invention;

(9) "legal representative" means a person who in law represents the estate of adeceased person;

(10) "manufacture" includes any art, process or manner of producing, preparing or making an article, and also any article prepared or produced by manufacture;

(11) "patent" means a patent granted under the provisions of this Act;

(12) [1]["patentee" means the person for the time being entered on the register of patent kept under this Act as the grantee or proprietor of the patent];

(13) "prescribed" includes prescribed by rules under this Act; and that the patent has been infringed is evidence of its utility. Better evidence of the utility of the invention cannot possibly be had. 40 Bom.L.R. 478=1938 Bom. 347.

SEC. 2 (8).—See 17 A. 490. A new manufacture means not only a new article of manufacture, but also a new process or method of manufacturing something new. It does not mean a new principle of manufacture —a principle cannot be an invention—but means a new application of the principles so as to produce a new method or a new manufacture. 36 Bom.L.R. 881=1934 B. 407.

"INVENTION"—MEANING.—The question whether there is an invention is a question of fact. A new and useful application of an old principle may be a good subject-matter of patent. An improvement on something known may also afford subject-matter, so also a new combination of different matters already known. A patentable combination is one in which the component elements are so combined as to produce a new result or to arrive at an old result in a better or more expeditious or more economical manner. If the result of the combination is either a new article or a better or a cheaper article than before, the combination may afford subject-matter for a patent. The mere collocation of two or more things, without some exercise of inventive faculty, is not however, a subject-matter for a patent. 60 B. 261=1936 B. 99=37 Bom.L.R. 665. See also 1945 Oudh 6=20 Luck. 170.

SEC. 2 (8) AND (10): INVENTION WHICH CAN BE SUBJECT-MATTER OF PATENT.—It is of course true that a patent may be granted for a combination which is one producing a new result, or arriving at an old result in a better or cheaper way or giving a useful choice of means but different considerations are applicable to each of these cases in order to arrive at a conclusion as to whether or not there is good "subject-matter" in any particular combination. The fact that the result is new is of itself no doubt cogent evidence of invention, and if it has been necessary to make modifications in the form or construction of all or any of the separate old integers included in the combination in order to ensure their more perfect interaction, there is a strong presumption that there has been invention. It is immaterial whether the "invention" comes into existence by accident or by design, but on the other hand there must have been some inventive step even though the inventive step is but slight. Otherwise the patent is invalid for want of subject-matter. 43 C. W. N. 697. A patent may be sustained though each principle or process in it was previously well-known to all persons engaged in the trade to which the patent relates, provided that the mode of combining those processes was new and produced a beneficial result, and provided also that the specification claimed not the old processes, or any one of them, but only the new combination. A new combination of known processes and methods to produce a known article is a "new manufacture" within the meaning of the statute, if the result of such a combination is to produce the article either greater in yield, or cheaper in costs or better in quality. I.L.R. (1943) Lah. 372= 1943 L. 247. See also 60 B. 261=1936 Bom. 99; 1934 Bom. 407.

SEC. 2 (9).—See 8. C.W.N. 843.

SEC. 2 (10).—See 43 C.W.N. 697; 1934 Bom. 407; 1936 Bom. 99.

SEC. 2 (12).—See 41 C.W.N. 603.

SEC. 2 (13).—See 23 C. 702. "Manufacture," as defined by S. 2 (10) comprehends not only the production of an article but also the means or method of producing it, so that a new process or an improvement of an old process can be a manufacture. The subject-matter of a patent must be a new manufacture or art, for if there is no new manufacture or art, there is no subject-matter and therefore no invention. 37 Bom.L.R. 665= 1936 Bom. 99=60 Bom. 261; 1934 Bom. 407=36 Bom.L.R. 881.

SEC. 2 (14): 'PROPRIETOR'—MEANING.—The proprietor must be the author or one who has acquired the design from the author or a person on whom such rights have devolved. 56 A. 1032=1934 A.L.J. 664=1934 A. 798.

"ACQUIRE DESIGN"—MEANING.—To acquire a design within the meaning of S. 2

(a) where the author of the design, for good consideration, executes the work for some other person, means the person for whom the design is so executed; and

(b) where any person acquires the design or the right to apply the design to any article, either exclusively of any other person or otherwise, means, in the respect and to the extent in and to which the design or right has been so acquired, the person by whom the design or right is so acquired; and

(c) in any other case, means the author of the design; and where the property in, or the right to apply, the design has devolved from the original proprietor upon any other person, includes that other person.

PART I.

PATENTS.

Application for and Grant of Patent.

Application.

3. (1) An application for a patent may be made by any person whether he is a British subject or not, and whether alone or jointly with any other person.

(2) The application must be made in the prescribed form, and must be left at the Patent Office in the prescribed manner.

(3) The application must contain a declaration to the effect that the applicant is in possession of an invention, whereof he, or in the case of a joint application one at least of the applicants, claims to be the true and first inventor or the legal representative or assign of such inventor and for which he desires to obtain a patent, and must be accompanied by [1][either a provisional or complete specification] and by the prescribed fee.

(4) Where the true and first inventor is not a party to the application, the application must contain a statement of his name, and such particulars for his identification as may be prescribed, and the applicant must show that he is the legal representative or assign of such inventor.

[4. Specifications.—(1) A provisional specification must describe the nature of the invention.

(2) A complete specification must particularly describe and ascertain the nature of the invention and the manner in which the same is to be performed.

(3) A specification, whether provisional or complete, must commence with the title, and in the case of a complete specification must end with a distinct statement, of the invention claimed.

(4) Where the Controller deems it desirable, he may require that suitable drawings shall be supplied at any time before the acceptance of the application, and such drawings shall be deemed to form part of the complete specification.

(5) If in any particular case the Controller considers that an application should be further supplemented by a model or sample of anything illustrating the invention or alleged to constitute an invention, such model or sample as he may require shall be furnished before the acceptance of the application, but such model or sample shall not be deemed to form part of the specification.

(6) The Controller may, where the application was accompanied by a specification purporting to be a complete specification, if the applicant so re-

Time for leaving complete specification.

[4-A. (1) If the applicant does not leave a complete specification with his application, he may leave it at any subsequent time within nine months from the date of the application:

Provided that the said nine months shall be extended to such period, not exceeding ten months from the date of the application, as may be specified in a request made by the applicant to the Controller, if the request is made and the prescribed fee is paid within the period so specified.

(2) If the complete specification is not left within the period allowable under sub-section (1), the application shall be deemed to be abandoned at the expiration of ten months from the date thereof.

Provisional protection.

[4-B. (1) An invention may, during the period between the date of an application for a patent therefor and the date of sealing a patent on that application, be used and published without prejudice to that patent, and such protection from the consequences of use and publication is in this Act referred to as provisional protection.

(2) In this section, the expression 'date of an application for a patent' means, as respects an application which is post-dated or ante-dated under this Act, the date to which the application is so post-dated or ante-dated, and means, as respects any other application, the date on which it is actually made.] Secs. 4-A and 4-B inserted by Act IX of 1945).

Proceedings upon application.

5. [The Controller shall refer to an Examiner every application in respect of which a complete specification has been filed[1]] and if satisfied on the report of the Examiner that—

Opposition to grant of patent.

9. (1) Any person may, on payment of the prescribed fee, at any time within [1][four] months from the date of the advertisement of the acceptance of an application, give notice at the Patent Office of opposition to the grant of the patent on any of the following grounds, namely:—

(a) that the applicant obtained the invention from him, or from a person of whom he is the legal representative or assign; or

(b) that the invention has been claimed in any specification filed in British India which is or will be of prior date to the patent, the grant of which is opposed; or

(c) that the nature of the invention or the manner in which it is to be performed is not sufficiently or fairly described and ascertained in the [2][specifications]; or nation is in favour of the grant of a patent, a patent shall, on payment of the prescribed fee, be granted subject to such conditions (if any) as the Central Government thinks expedient to the applicant, or in the case of a joint application to the applicants jointly, and the Controller shall cause the patent to be sealed with the seal of the Patent Office.

[1][(1-A) Notwithstanding anything contained in sub-section (1), where—

(a) an applicant has agreed in writing that on the grant to him of a patent he will assign it to another party or to a joint applicant and refuses to proceed with the application, or

(b) disputes arise between joint applicants as to proceeding with an application, the Controller, if he is satisfied of the existence of such agreement or, in any other case, that any joint applicant or applicants ought to be allowed to proceed alone, may direct that such other party or joint applicant or applicants may proceed with the application accordingly and may grant a patent to him or them, as the case may be:

Date of Patent.

11. Except as otherwise expressly provided by this Act, a patent shall be dated and sealed as of the date of the application:

Provided that no proceedings shall be taken in respect of an infringement committed before the [1][advertisement of the acceptance of the application.]

Effect, extent and form of patent.

12. (1) A patent sealed with the seal of the Patent Office shall, subject to the other provisions of this Act, confer on the patentee the exclusive privilege of making, selling and using the invention throughout British India and of authorizing others so to do.

(2) Every patent may be in the prescribed form and shall be granted for one invention only, but the specification may contain more than one claim: and it shall not be competent for any person in a suit or other proceeding to take any objection to a patent on the ground that it has been granted for more than one invention.

Fraudulent application for patents.

13. (1) A patent granted to the true and first inventor or his legal representative or assign shall not be invalidated by an application in fraud of him, or by protection obtained thereon or by any use or publication of the invention subsequent to that fraudulent application during the period of protection.

[2][(2) Where a patent has been revoked by the High Court on the ground that it has been obtained in fraud of the true and first inventor, or where the grant of a patent has been refused by the Controller under section 9 on the ground stated in clause (a) of sub-section (1) of that section, the Controller may, on the application of the true inventor or his legal representative or assign made in accordance with the provisions of this Act, grant to him a patent for the whole or any part of the invention, and the patent so granted shall bear the same date as the patent so revoked or, in the case of a patent the grant of which has been refused, the same date as would have been borne by the patent if it had been granted:

Provided that no suit shall be brought for any infringement of the patent so granted committed before the actual date when such patent was granted.]

Term of patent.

Term of Patent.

14. (1) The term limited in every patent for the duration thereof shall, save as otherwise expressly provided by this Act, be [3][sixteen] years from its date,

[3][(1-A) Any patent the original term of which had not expired on or before the 1st day of July, 1930, shall have effect as if the term mentioned therein was sixteen years instead of fourteen years, and any licence existing at that date which has been granted for the term of the patent shall be treated as having been granted for the term as so extended if the licensee so desires.

(1-B) Where any party to a contract with the patentee or any other person entered into before the 1st day of January, 1930, is subjected to loss or liability by reason of the extension of the term of any patent under this section, any District Court having jurisdiction [4][may on application made in this behalf determine] in what manner and by which parties such loss or liability shall be borne.]

[1][Provided that where the patentee, before or within three months after the expiration of the time for payment, applies to the Controller for an extension of time [2][* * *], the patent shall, on payment of such additional fee as may be prescribed, be continued or revived as the case may be [3][for any period so applied for not exceeding in all three months from the expiration of the time for payment].]

(3) If any proceeding is taken in respect of an infringement of the patent committed after a failure to pay any fee within the prescribed time, and before any enlargement thereof, the Court before which the proceeding is taken may, if it thinks fit, refuse to award any damages in respect of such infringement.

Extension term of Patent

15. (1) A patentee may [4][* * * * *] present a petition to the Central Government praying that his patent may be extended for a further term; but such petition must be left at the Patent Office at least six months before the time limited for the expiration of the patent and must be accompanied by the prescribed fee, [4][and must be advertised by the patentee within the prescribed time and in the prescribed manner].

(2) Any person may [5][within such time as may be prescribed and on payment of the prescribed fee], give notice to the Controller of objection to the extension.

(3) Where a petition is presented under sub-section (1), the Central Government may as [6][it] thinks fit, dispose of the petition [6][itself] or refer it to a High Court for decision.

(4) If the petition be referred to a High Court, then on the hearing of such petition under this section, the patentee, and any person who has given notice under sub-section (2) of objections, shall be made parties to the proceeding, and the Controller shall be entitled to appear and be heard.

SEC. 15 (4): REFERENCE UNDER—FRESH PETITION TO COURT—NECESSITY.—Under S. 15 of the Act, when a petition is referred for decision to the High Court under sub-s. (4), it is the petition originally submitted to the Governor-General in Council which the High Court should dispose of. The applicant need not file a second or fresh petition in the High Court. Such a procedure is misconceived. 37 Bom.L.R. 187=59 Bom. 564 =1935 Bom. 195.

SCOPE—PROCEEDINGS UNDER—NATURE OF —PROCEDURE.—On a reference to the High Court by the Governor-General in Council, the matter ceases to be merely administrative and becomes a judicial proceeding, the parties to it being the patentee on the one hand and the objectors on the other; the Controller of Patents has also the right of audience. In such a proceeding, in the absence of any separate or special procedure, the ordinary rules of procedure followed by the High Court, devoid of its technicalities, should be adopted so far as they are applicable to the particular case. The High Court has jurisdiction to allow the objectors to file fresh objections adding further grounds of objecof the invention in relation to the public, to the profits made on the patent and to all the circumstances of the case.

(6) If it appears to the Central Government or to the High Court when the petition is referred to it, that the patent has not been sufficiently remunerative, the Central Government or the High Court, as the case may be, may by order extend the term of the patent for a further term not exceeding five or in exceptional cases ten years or may order the grant of a new patent for such term not exceeding ten years as may be specified in the order and subject to any restriction, conditions and provisions which the Central Government or the High Court, as the case may be, may think fit] :

Provided that any patent so extended or granted shall, notwithstanding anything therein, or in this Act, cease if the inventor fails to pay before the expiration of each year the prescribed fee.

Patents of addition.

[1][15-A) (1) Where a patent for an invention has been applied for or granted, and the applicant or the patentee, as the case may be, applies for a further patent in respect of any improvement in or modification of the invention, he may in his application for the further patent request that the term limited in that patent for the duration thereof be the same as that of the original patent or so much of that term as is unexpired, and, if he does so, a patent (hereinafter referred to as a patent of addition), may be granted for such terms as aforesaid.

(2) Save as otherwise expressly provided by this Act, a patent of addition shall remain in force as long as the patent for the original invention remains in force, but no longer, and in respect of a patent of addition no fees shall be payable for renewal:

Provided that if the patent for the original invention is revoked, then the patent of addition shall, if the authority by which it is revoked so orders, become an independent patent, and the fees payable, and the dates when they become payable, shall be determined by its date, but its duration shall not exceed the unexpired term of the patent for the original invention.

(3) The grant of a patent of addition shall be conclusive evidence that the invention is a proper subject for a patent of addition, and the validity of the patent shall not be questioned on the ground that the invention ought to have been the subject of an independent patent.]

Restoration of lapsed patent.

16. (1) Where any patent has ceased owning to the failure of the patentee to pay any prescribed fee within the prescribed time, the patentee may apply to the Controller in the prescribed manner for an order for the restoration of the patent.

(2) Every such application shall contain a statement of the circumstances which have led to the omission of the payment of the prescribed fee.

(3) If it appears from such statement that the omission was unintentional or unavoidable and that no undue delay has occurred in the making of the application, the Controller shall advertise the application in the prescribed manner, and within such time as may be prescribed any person may give notice of opposition at the Patent Office.

SEC. 15 (5): ENQUIRY UNDER—SCOPE OF.—In considering an application for extension of a patent, it would be legitimate for the Court to inquire what profits the inventor had made since its registration, and that inquiry may not be limited to what the inventor earned in his country, but might include profits made by him in all countries where the invention was registered or exploited. The Court in such case insists on a ful disclosure of the profits made by the inventor or his as-

(4) Where such notice is given the Controller shall notify the applicant thereof.

(5) After the expiration of the prescribed period, the Controller shall hear the case and, subject to an appeal to the Central Government, issue an order either restoring the patent subject to any conditions [1][and restrictions] deemed to be advisable or dismissing the application:

Provided that in every order under this section restoring a patent such provisions as may be prescribed shall be inserted for the protection of persons who may have availed themselves of the subject-matter of the patent after the patent had ceased.

Amendment of Application or Specification.

17. (1) An applicant or a patentee may at any time, by request in writing left at the Patent Office and accompanied by the prescribed fee, seek leave to amend his application or specification, including drawings forming part thereof by way of disclaimer, correction or explanation. stating the nature of, and the reasons for, the proposed amendment.

Amendment of application or specification by Controller.

(2) If the application for a patent has not been accepted, the Controller shall determine whether and subject to what conditions (if any) the amendment shall be allowed.

(3) In any other case the request and the nature of the proposed amendment shall be advertised in the prescribed manner, and at any time within three months from its first advertisement any person may give notice at the Patent Office of opposition to the amendment.

(4) Where such a notice is given, the Controller shall give notice of the opposition to the person making the request and shall hear and decide the case.

(5) Where no notice or opposition is given, or the person so giving notice of opposition does not appear, the Controller shall determine whether and subject to what conditions, if any, the amendment ought to be allowed.

(6) The decision of the Controller in either case shall be subject to an appeal to the Central Government.

(7) No amendment shall be allowed that would make the application or specification, as amended, claim an invention substantially larger than, or substantially different from, the invention claimed by the application or specification as it stood before amendment.

signees, and if the Court believes that there has not been a full or bona fide disclosure, it may summarily reject the application. 37 Bom.L.R. 187=1935 B. 195.

SEC. 17 (1) AND (6): APPLICATION TO CONTROLLER FOR AMENDMENT OF SPECIFICATION.—In application under S. 17 of the Act, for amendment of specification made to the Controller of Patents, the latter has absolute powers to decide whether the amendment sought would make the specification claim an invention larger than, and substantially different from, that claimed in the original specification. This power of the Controller is, under S. 17 (6), subject to an appeal to the Governor-General in Council. In such a case it is quite impossible for the Court to investigate the matter, and then by anticipation to prohibit the Controller from proceeding, on the assumption that his decision, when given, will be erroneous. To do so would be an usurpation on the part of the Court of the jurisdiction which the law has given to the Controller. 61 C. 450=38 C.W.N. 729=1934 C. 725.

SEC. 17 (1) AND (7).—An applicant for amendment of his specification must show that his amendment falls within one or other of the three categories of disclaimer correction or explanation and that he is not claiming an invention which is substantialy larger than, or different from, that originally claimed. The onus is not discharged unless his amendment is unambiguous and he establishes with sufficient certainty either that this claim is merely one of those already covered by some one or more of the old claims upon which he relies or that it does not comprise an invention substantially

(8) Leave to amend shall be conclusive as to the right of the party to make the amendment allowed, except in case of fraud; and the amendment shall be advertised in the prescribed manner, and shall in all Courts and for all purposes be deemed to form part of the application or specification.

(9) This section shall not apply when and so long as any suit for infringement or proceeding before a Court for the revocation of the patent is pending.

Amendment of specification by the Court.

18. In any suit for infringement of a patent or proceeding before a Court for the revocation of a patent, the Court may by order allow the patentee to amend his specification by way of disclaimer, [1][correction or explanation] in such manner, and subject to such terms as to costs, advertisement or otherwise, as the Court may think fit:

Provided that no amendment shall be so allowed that would make the specification, as amended, claim an invention substantially larger than, or substantially different from, the invention claimed by the specification as it stood before the amendment, and where an application for such an order is made to the Court, notice of the application shall be given to the Controller, and the Controller shall have the right to appear and be heard.

Restriction on recovery of damages.

19. Where an amendment of a specification by way of disclaimer, correction or explanation has been allowed under this Act, no damages shall be given in any suit in respect of the use of the invention [2][before the date of the decision allowing the amendment] unless the patentee establishes to the satisfaction to the Court that his original claim was framed in good faith and with reasonable skill and knowledge.

Register of Patents.

Register of Patents.

20. (1) There shall be kept at the Patent Office a book called the Register of Patents, wherein shall be entered the names and addresses of grantees of patents, notifications of assignments and transmissions of patents, of licences under patents, and of amendments, extensions and revocations of patents, and such other matters affecting the validity or proprietorship of patents as may be prescribed.

SEC. 17 (9): SUIT, WHEN PENDING—APPEAL, IF 'SUIT.'—After judgment was pronounced by the Court in a suit for infringement of patent, an application was presented under S. 17 of the Act to the Controller of Patents for leave to amend the specification of the amendment. The application was duly advertised under S. 17 (3) of the Act. Subsequently an appeal was filed against the decree in the suit. Objection was raised to the maintainability of the application on the ground that S. 17 (9) of the Act deprived the Controller of all jurisdiction in the matter, as the action for infringement was still to be regarded as pending. Held, that the suit for purposes of S. 17 (9) terminated the moment the Court pronounced its judicial decision and could not be regarded as pending when the application was presented to the Controller of Patents; that "suit" did not include an appeal from the decree in a suit for infringement, under S. 17 (9), that an action for infringement meant action before judgment; and that the filing of an appeal did not deprive the Controller of jurisdiction to deal with the application. 61 C. 450=38 C.W.N. 729=1934 C. 725.

Crown.

21. [2][(1) Subject to the other provisions of this section, a patent shall have to all intents the like effect as against His Majesty the King as it has against a subject.

Patent to bind Crown.

(2) The officers or authorities administering any department of the service of His Majesty may, by themselves or by such of their agents, contractors or others as may be authorized in writing by them, at any time after the application, and after giving notice to the applicant or patentee, make, use or exercise the invention for the service of the Crown on such terms as may, either before or after the use thereof, be agreed on, with the approval of the Central Government, between such officers or authorities and the applicant or patentee, or, in default of agreement, as may be settled in the manner hereinafter provided. And the terms of any agreement or licence concluded between the applicant or patentee and any person other than such officers or authorities, shall be inoperative so far as concerns the making, use or exercise of the invention for the service of the Crown.

(3) Where an invention which is the subject of any patent has, before the date of the patent, been duly recorded in a document by, or tried by or on behalf of, the officers or authorities administering any department of the service of His Majesty (such invention not having been communicated directly or indirectly by the applicant or patentee), such officers or authorities, or such of their agents, contractors, or others as may be authorized in writing by them, may, after giving notice to the applicant or patentee, make, use or exercise the invention so recorded or tried for the service of the Crown, free of any royalty or other payment to the applicant or patentee, notwithstanding the existence of the patent. If, in the opinion of such officers or authorities, the disclosure to the applicant or patentee, as the case may be, of the document recording the invention, or the evidence of the trial thereof, if required, would be detrimental to the public interest, it may be made confidentially to counsel on behalf of the applicant or patentee, or to any independent expert mutually agreed upon.

(4) In the event of any dispute as to the making, use or exercise of an invention under this section, or the terms therefor, or as to the existence or scope of any record or trial as aforesaid, the matter shall be referred to the High Court for decision, who shall have power to refer the whole matter or any question or issue of fact arising thereon to be tried before a special or official refree or an arbitrator upon such terms as it may direct. Provided that an order of revocation shall not be made before the expiration of four years from the date of the patent, or if the patentee gives satisfactory reasons for his default.

(5) For the purposes of this section [2][the demand for a patented article shall not be deemed to have been met to an adequate extend and on reasonable terms]—

(a) If by reason of the default of the patentee to manufacture to an adequate extent and supply on reasonable terms the patented article or any parts thereof which are necessary for its efficient working, or to carry on the patented process to an adequate extent or to grant licences on reasonable terms, any existing trade or industry or the establishment of any new trade or industry in British India is unfairly prejudiced, [3][* * *];

(b) If any trade or industry in British India is unfairly prejudiced by the conditions attached by the patentee [4][* * *] to the purchase, hire or use of the patented article or to the using or working of the patented process.

Grant of relief in respect of particular claims.

36. Where, any person claiming [2][to have an interest in a patent] by circulars, advertisements or otherwise, threatens any other person with any legal proceedings or liability in respect of any alleged infringement of the patent, any person aggrieved thereby may bring a suit against him in a District Court having jurisdiction to try the suit, and may obtain an injunction against the continuance of such threats, and may recover such damage (if any) as he has sustained thereby, if the alleged infringement to which the threats related was not in fact an infringement of [2][the patent]:

ting the invention in practice in any other way. A patent may sometimes be infringed by taking a part only of the invention, but that depends on whether the part for which protection is asked is a new and material part especially in the case of combination. The question of infringement is a mixed question of law and fact. The plaintiff in a patent action has to prove that his process has been counterfeited or imitated by the defendant. It is necessary for him to give the particulars of the breaches constituting the alleged infringement of his patent rights. 37 Bom.L.R. 665. On this section, see also 26 A. 96; 12 C.W.N. 446; 4 A.L.J. 11. An assignee of a patent who has not registered the assignment under S. 63 of the Patents and Designs Act is not a patentee within the meaning of S. 2 (12) of that Act, and has, therefore, no right to bring any suit for infringement of patent rights regarding that patent. 41 C.W.N. 603=1937 Cal. 375=I.L.R. (1937) 2 Cal. 230. See also 43 C.W.N. 697. An injunction can be granted if it is plain that one of several patents have been infringed although the plaintiff is unable to say which patent was infringed, but it will be limited to the life of that patent which first expires. 51 C.W.N. 90. The principles upon which an interlocutory injunction will be granted in an action to restrain infringement of patent rights are well-settled. The plaintiff must make out a prima facie case in support of his right, that is he must establish first that he has a valid patent; next that there was in fact an infringement. If both these are established he should be granted an interlocutory injunction. If, however, there is a doubt on either subject, whether or not an injunction will be granted depends upon the degree of doubt which exists, and the balance of convenience then becomes an important consideration. 51 C.W.N. 90. If there is a substantial dispute on the question of the validity of the patent, no injunction should be granted. Where the validity of a new patent is disputed that circumstance of itself would be sufficient to justify refusal of the application for an interlocutory injunction, but if the patent is more than six years old

Miscellaneous.

37. Where, after the commencement of this Act, a patent is granted to two or more persons jointly, they shall, unless otherwise specified in the patent, be treated for the purpose of the devolution of the legal interest therein as joint tenants, but subject to any contract to the contrary, each of such persons shall be entitled to use the invention for his own profit without accounting to the others, but shall not be entitled to grant a licence without their consent, and, if any such person dies, his beneficial interest in the patent shall devolve on his legal representatives.

The public use or knowledge of an invention in British India before the date of the application for a patent thereon shall not invalidate the patent granted thereon if the knowledge has been obtained surreptitiously or in fraud of the true and first inventor or his legal representative or assign or has been communicated to the public in fraud of such inventor or his legal representative or assign or in breach of confidence:

Loss or destruction of patent.

[2][40. The exhibition of an invention at an industrial or other exhibition to which the provisions of this section have been extended by the Central Government by notification in the Official Gazette, or the publication of any description of the invention during the period of the holding of the exhibition, or the use of the invention for the purpose of the exhibition in then there is a prima facie presumption of validity. In such a case it is not enough for the defendant simply to assert that he disputes the validity of the patent; he must show by affidavit some grounds which suggest that he may succeed in impugning the patent's validity. 51 C. W. N. 90. The onus is on the plaintiff to show that his patent rights have been infringed, and initially there is no necessity for the defendant to disclose the process by which the goods complained of were manufactured. But the situation will change if the defendant has admitted that his act constitutes an infringement of the plaintiff's patent rights. If the defendant fails to explain his admission or to show that the plaintiff's process was not in fact used, the Court is entitled to draw an inference against the defendant. 51 C.W.N. 90.

SEC. 38: SCOPE—PUBLIC AND PRIVATE USER.—S. 38 of the Act distinguishes clearly between public user and private user. Whether a process has been publicly used or not is a question of fact. 36 Bom.L.R. 881=1934 B. 407=153 I.C. 481. Under S. 38, if an article manufactured under a secret process is of such a character that no one by examining it can find out the secret of that manufacture, then the sale of that article in public cannot amount to public user of the process. Public user does not mean use by the public but use in a public manner and not secretly. Public user which would invalidate an invention or rather on account of which an invention shall not be treated as a new invention must be the use of the invention in public. 1934 Bom. 407.

NOVELTY AND UTILITY.—What constitutes. See 40 Bom. L.R. 478=1938 Bom. 347; also 1936 Bom. 99=60 B. 261.

SECRET USE OF INVENTION—RIGHT TO PATENT.—When there has been no more than a secret use of the invention by the inventor with a view to taking out a patent or the manufacture for the inventor and under injunctions as to secrecy by a manufacturer, the patent will be good. But this will not be the case where the secret process has been used for profit or where the invention was communicated to a third person in a manner which both in law and in equity allowed him to do what he liked with the inven-the place where the exhibition is held, or the use of the invention or the publication of any description thereof, during or after the period of the holding of the exhibition, by any person elsewhere without the privity or consent of the inventor or the reading of a paper by an inventor before a learned society, or the publication of that payer in the society's transaction shall not prejudice the right of the inventor to apply for and obtain a patent in respect of the invention, or the validity of any patent granted on the application:

Provided that—

(a) the exhibitor exhibiting the invention or the inventor reading the paper or authorising the publication thereof, as the case may be, gives to the Controller previous notice in the prescribed form; and

(b) the application for a patent is made before or within six months from the date of first exhibiting the invention or of the reading of the paper, as the case may be, or when it has not been so read, of the said publication].

Models to be furnished to Indian Museum.

41. The trustee of the Indian Museum may at any time require a patentee to furnish them with a model or sample of his invention on payment to the patentee of the cost of the manufacture of the model or sample, the amount to be settled, in case of dispute by the Central Government.

Foreign vessels in British Indian waters.

42. (1) A patent shall not prevent the use of an invention for the purposes of the navigation of a foreign vessel within the jurisdiction of any Court in British India, or the use of an invention in a foreign vessel within that jurisdiction, provided it is not used therein for or in connection with the manufacture or preparation of anything intended to be sold in or exported from British India.

tion. S. 38 allows a secret user for a reasonable profit. 1934 B. 407.

PATENT—ESSENTIALS OF VALIDITY—PUBLIC USER AND PRIVATE USER—DISTINCTION.—The two features necessary to the validity of a patent are novelty and utility, but the real test is the novelty of the invention. Novelty is essential, for otherwise there would be no benefit to the public and consequently no consideration moving from the patentee. A plea of want of novelty also includes the plea of want of subject-matter. Under S. 38, there must be an absence of prior publication or of prior public user; and if the user is secret or experimental, the profits made by the inventor from his invention must not be excessive. There is a distinction under the section between public user and private user as also between public user of the invention by working it commercially, and public user of the invention from the point of view of publication. The public user of the invention for purposes of trade may, in certain cases, defeat a patent for want of novelty quite apart from the question of publication. It is also clear that, if the public has once become possessed of the knowledge of the invention before the date of the application, no patent subsequently granted is valid. 60 B. 261=37 Bom.L.R. 665=1936 B. 99.

PUBLIC USER OR PUBLICATION—WHAT CONSTITUES.—Public user does not mean a user or exercise of the invention by the public, but a user or exercise in a public manner, and that is a question of fact. If the invention is being put into practice before and at the date of the grant, the grant will not be for a new invention or manufacture, whether the invention is being practised by the patentee himself or by others. A use of the invention for purposes of trade may constitute a prior user invalidating the patent, and a prior public sale of goods or articles treated according to the invention is a public user, the sale being strong evidence of the user being commercial and not experimental. But to constitute evidence of public user, the sale must be open and in the ordinary way of business. The publication of an invention by sale of the articles treated by it for purposes of trade by the patentee or by others may constitute a prior user even if there is no publication. 60 B. 261=37 Bom.L.R. 665 =1936 B. 99.

EXPERIMENTAL USER—USER FOR PROFIT—DISTINCTION—EXCESSIVE PROFITS—TEST.—A prior user might be of an experimental nature, i.e., what was genuinely necessary for the inventor to satisfy himself as to the practicability of his invention. If it exceeds such limits and is carried on for profits, such user will defeat the subsequent patent. But a distinction has to be drawn between the use of an invention for profit and the carrying out of experiments which turn out successful and only incidentally bring in profit to the inventor. There is no test or authority lay-

PART II.

DESIGNS.

Registration of Designs.

Application for registration of designs.

43. (1) The Controller may, on the application of any person claim to be the proprietor of any new or original design not previously published in British India, register the design under this Part.

(2) The application must be made in the prescribed form, and must be left at the Patent Office in the prescribed manner and must be accompanied by the prescribed fee.

(3) The same design may be registered in more than one class, and, in case of doubt as to the class in which a design ought to be registered, the Controller may decide the question.

(4) The Controller may, if he thinks fit, refuse to register any design presented to him for registration; but any person aggrieved by any such refusal may appeal to the Central Government.

(5) An application which, owing to any default or neglect on the part of the applicant, has not been completed so as to enable, registration to be effected within the prescribed time shall be deemed to be abandoned.

(6) A design when registered shall be registered as of the date of the application for registration.

Registration of designs in new classes.

44. Where a design has been registered in one or more classes of goods, the application of the proprietor of the design to register it in some one or more other classes shall not be refused, nor shall the registration thereof be invalidated—

(a) on the ground of the design not being a [1][new or original design], by reason only that it was so previously registered; or

(b) on the ground of the design having been previously published in British India, by reason only that it has been applied to goods of any class in which it was so previously registered:

[1][Provided that such subsequent registration shall not extend the period of copyright in the design beyond that arising from previous registration.]

ing down the limit beyond which the profits made by the inventor out of his invention are deemed excessive. It is the inventor's profit alone that has to be considered. 37 Bom. L.R. 665. Where the design in question had been in use in the locality from long before the date when the registration of the patent was applied for by the plaintiff and it is not possible to say that those designs were new or original, the plaintiff is not entitled to the protection under the Act. 77 I.C. 517=1923 A. 496. A combination of materials would not be entitled to protection, unless it was a combination of a character which involved the exercise of any special inventive power or had some originality about it. 1922 All. 496.

SEC. 43: NEW OR ORIGINAL.—There may be novelty in applying what was an old thing to a new use. 45 C. 606=48 I.C. 437=23 C. W.N. 580. See also 1934 Lah. 709=35 P. L.R. 731.

The test of novelty is the eye of the judge. He must place the two designs side by side and see whether one for which novelty is claimed is new. 45 C. 606. See also 53 C. 306=1926 C. 152.

SECS. 43 AND 53: EFFECT OF REGISTRATION. —No registration under S. 43 is effective, un-

Certificate of registration.

45. (1) The Controller shall grant a certificate of registration to the proprietor of the design when registered.

(2) The Controller may, in case of loss of the original certificate, or in any other case in which he deems it expedient, furnish one or more copies of the certificate.

Register of Designs.

46. (1) There shall be kept at the Patent Office a book called the Register of designs, wherein shall be entered the names and addresses of proprietors of registered designs, notifications of assignments and of transmissions of registered designs, and such other matters as may be prescribed.

(2) The register of designs existing at the commencement of this Act shall be incorporated with, and form part of, the register of designs under this Act.

(3) The register of designs shall be prima facie evidence of any matters by this Act directed or authorised to be entered therein.

Copyright in registered Designs.

Copyright on registration

47. (1) When a design is registered, the registered proprietor of the design shall, subject to the provisions of this Act, have copy right in the design during five years from the date of registration.

(2) If [1][* * *] before the expiration of the said five years application for the extension of the period of copyright is made to the Controller in the prescribed manner the Controller shall, on payment of the prescribed fee, extend the period of copyright for a second period of five years from the expiration of the original period of five years.

(3) If [1][* * *] before the expiration of such second period of five years application for the extension of the period of copyright is made to the Controller in the prescribed manner, the Controller may, subject to any rules under this Act, on payment of the prescribed fee, extend the period of copyright for a third period of five years from the expiration of the second period of five years.

less the design or configuration sought to be protected is new and original and not of a pre-existing common type. In a suit for damages for infringement of a registered design under S. 53, the defendant can be allowed to raise in defence a plea that the design is neither new nor original. 151 I.C. 362=1934 L. 709.

SECS. 45, 43, AND 46.—A certificate of registration, issued by the controller under S. 45 (1) of the Act to the proprietor of a design when registered, is not final and conclusive. There is only a prima facie presumption that the person whose name is registered as the proprietor is the proprietor of a new or original design, but the presumption can be rebutted. The certificate is not conclusive, and there is nothing in the Act which prevents the defendant in a suit for damages for infringement of a registered design under S. 53 of the Act from raising in defence the plea that the design was previously published and was neither new nor original. The onus is of course on the defendant who seeks to go behind the certificate of registration to show that the plaintiff is not the proprietor of the registered design in question. 43 Bom.L.R. 280=1941 Bom. 188.

SEC. 46 (3): PERSON ENTERED AS PROPRIETOR—EVIDENTIARY VALUE.—Where a person is entered as a proprietor of registered design, there is not under the Act conclusive proof from the entry that the plaintiff is the proprietor of the design that is prima facie evidence that he is the proprietor. The plaintiff, in a suit for injunction and damages for infringement of registered design, has therefore the advantage that, if no evidence at all is given, then the certificate is sufficient evidence that he is the proprietor. 56 A. 1032=1934 A.L.J. 664=1934 A. 798.

Requirements before delivery on sale.

48. (1) Before delivery on sale of any articles to which a registered design has been applied, the proprietor shall—

(a) (if exact representations or specimens were not furnished on the application for registration), furnish to the Controller the prescribed number of exact representations or specimens of the design; and, if he fails to do so, the Controller may erase his name from the register, and thereupon the copyright in the design shall cease; and

(b) cause each such article to be marked with the prescribed mark, or with the prescribed words or figures, denoting that the design is registered; and, if he fails to do so, the proprietor shall not be entitled to recover any penalty or damages in respect of any infringement of his copyright in the design unless he shows that he took all proper steps to ensure the marking of the article, or unless he shows that the infringement took place after the person guilty thereof knew or had received notice of the existence of the copyright in the design.

(2) Where a representation is made to the Central Government by or on behalf of any trade or industry that in the interests of the trade or industry it is expedient to dispense with or modify as regards any class or description of articles any of the requirements of this section as to marking, the Central Government may, if [1][it] thinks fit by rule under this Act, dispense with or modify such requirements as regards any such class or description of articles to such extent and subject to such conditions as [1][it] thinks fit.

Effect of disclosure on copyright.

49. The disclosure of a design by the proprietor to any other person, in such circumstances as would make it contrary to good faith for that other person to use or publish the design, and the disclosure of a design in breach of good faith by any person other than the proprietor of the design, and the acceptance of a first and confidential order for goods bearing a new or original textile design intended for registration, shall not be deemed to be a publication of the design sufficient to invalidate the copyright thereof if registration thereof is obtained subsequently to the disclosure or acceptance.

Inspection of registered designs.

50. (1) During the existence of copyright in a design or such shorter period not being less than two years from the registration of the design as may be prescribed, the design shall not be open to inspection except by the proprietor or a person authorized in writing by him, or a person authorised by the Controller or by the Court, and furnishing such information as may enable the Controller to identify the design, and shall not be open to the inspection of any person except in the presence of the Controller, or of an officer acting under him, and on payment of the prescribed fee; and the person making the inspection shall not be entitled to take any copy of the design, or of any part thereof:

Provided that, where registration of a design is refused on the ground of identity with a design already registered, the applicant for registration shall be entitled to inspect the design so registered.

See also 43 Bom.L.R. 280=1941 Bom. 188. (Certificate of registration of new design is not conclusive proof—Defendant can plead that design was neither new or original).

SEC. 49.—A secret process of which the publication has been going on for a number of years by manufacture with the aid of workmen who are not bound to secrecy is no longer a secret and its patent in invalid. 20 Luck. 77=1945 O. 6.

(2) After the expiration of copyright in a design, or such shorter period as aforesaid, the design shall be open to inspection, and copies thereof may be taken by any person on payment of the prescribed fee.

(3) Different periods may be prescribed under this section for different classes of goods.

Information as to existence of copyright.

51. On the request of any person furnishing such information as may enable the Controller to identify the design, and on payment of the prescribed fee, the Controller shall inform such person whether the registration still exists in respect of the design, and, if so, in respect of what classes of goods; and shall state the date of registration, and the name and address of the registered proprietor.

Cancellation of registration.

[1][51-A. (1) Any person interested may present a petition for the cancellation of the registration of a design,

(a) at any time after the registration of the design, to the High Court on any of the following grounds, namely:—

(i) that the design has been previously registered in British India, or

(ii) that it has been published in British India prior to the date of registration; or

(iii) that the design is not a new or original design; or

(b) within one year from the date of the registration, to the Controller on either of the grounds specified in sub-clauses (i) and (ii) of Clause (a).

(2) An appeal shall lie from any order of the Controller under this section to the High Court, and the Controller may at any time refer any such petition to the High Court, and the High Court shall decide any petition so referred.

Industrial and International Exhibitions.

Provisions as to exhibitions

[2][52. The exhibition of a design or of any article to which a design is applied, at an industrial or other exhibition to which the provisions of this section have been extended by the Central Government by notification in the official Gazette or the publication of a description of the design, during the period of the holding of the exhibition or the exhibition of the design or the article or the publication of a description of the design by any person elsewhere during or after the period of the holding of the exhibition, without the privity or consent of the proprietor, shall not prevent the design from being registered or invalidate the registration thereof:

Provided that—

SEC. 53.—The equitable remedies in respect of an infringement of a design are not excluded by the statute, and in a suit for relief on the ground of infringement, the plaintiff is entitled to ask for delivery up of the goods with the infringing trade mark for destruction. 41 Bom.L.R. 45=1939 Bom. 103. S. 53 is self-contained in itself, and the two parts of S. 53 (2) are clearly disjunctive. A proprietor of a registered design who sues under S. 53 in respect of a fraudulent or obvious imitation of his registered design, is bound to elect under the section between his claim for damages along with the injunction and the payment of the sum of Rs. 1,000 which is the maximum amount recoverable. The plaintiff must make his election before the final hearing of suit. 38 Bom.L.R. 823=1936 B. 408 =I.L.R. (1937) Bom. 215. "Registered proprietor," meaning of. See 56 A. 1032 =1934 A. 798, cited under sec. 2 (14), supra. "Court" in sec. 53 must refer to the District Court. 1940 Pesh. 19. Sec. 53 creates three separate acts which are unlawful. The first is to apply the design in the way described; the second is to do anything with a view to enable the design to be applied in the way described in the statement of the first of the offences and the third is to expose or clause to be exposed for sale the article under the conditions specified under head (b). The acts referred to in the Patents and Designs Act must, in order to constitute offences under the Act, be committed in British India. 40 Bom.L. R. 661=1938 Bom. 413. It is not necessary, in order to entitle a plaintiff to relief on the ground of infringement of copyright in design, that the infringing design should be an exact copy or reproduction of the registered design. The words "fraudulent or obvious imitation" ought not to be construed as meaning exact reproduction. 41 Bom.L.R. 45=1939 Bom. 103. Under sec. 53 (1) (a) it is not the application that has to be fraudulent, but the imitation should be considered as "fraudulent or obvious" or not. A person is entitled to sue the infringer as soon as the latter causes the design to be applied to his goods and imports the same for sale in British India, though the design is actually applied to the goods in a country outside British India. 1939 Bom. 103. The question of actual damage must always be seriously considered when allotting penalties for the various offences under this section. 1933 R. 240. It is not necessary in a notice under sec. 53 (2) (b) that the words of the statute should be rigidly followed. It is enough if the defendants are not under any misapprehension when they receive the notice. 1933 R. 240. Suit for infringement of registration—Plea in defence that design is neither new nor original can be taken 35 P.L.R. 731=1934 L. 709; 56 A. 1032=1934 A. 798. The onus of proving that the defendant had knowledge of the plaintiff's rights in the registered designs in dispute or that the defendant applied or caused to be applied such designs to the articles sold by him lies on the plaintiffs. Sec. 106 of the Evidence Act has no application to the case and it cannot be said that such facts are peculiarly within the defendant's knowledge. 63 C. 1146=40 C. W.N. 938=1936 C. 493. Mere imitation is no offence unless there is an infringement of a patent or copyright or there is attempt to pass goods as goods of another dealer or manufacturer either by using a false trade mark or false description or a trade mark or description likely to deceive purchasers by a deliberate imitation of a genuine mark or description or by falsely giving out goods as the goods of some other dealers or manufacturer. 146 I.C. 1084=1933 N. 344.

COSTS.—Where in a suit for infringement of the plaintiff's copyright in certain trade marks or designs, the defendant states that he has been and is still ready and willing to give an undertaking to the plaintiff and to the Court not to deal with any goods printed with the plaintiff's designs or any obvious imitations thereof in case and for such period as the plaintiff established his copyright in the said designs, that amounts only to a conditional offer of an undertaking which the plaintiff is not bound to accept. But when the defendant goes further and abandons his denial of the plaitniff's rights and admits plaintiff's rights in the designs in question, the undertaking becomes an unconditional undertaking which the plaintiff should accept. The plaintiff should also pray for a judgment in the form of an order embodying the undertaking. If the plaintiff does not do so, but goes on with the suit, he ought not to get the costs incurred by so doing, but ought on the contrary to pay the costs of the defendant. The plaintiffs will get a decree with costs up to the date of the election to proceed with the suit. He will not be entitled to costs incurred subsequently, but will be liable to pay such costs to the defen-consent of the registered proprietor, or to do anything with a view to enable the design to be so applied; or

[1][(aa) to import for the purposes of sale, without the consent of the registered proprietor, any article belonging to the class in which the design has been registered, and having applied to it the design or any fraudulent or obvious imitation thereof; or]

(b) knowing that the design or any fraudulent or obvious imitation thereof has been applied to any article, [1][in any class of goods in which the design is registered] without the consent of the registered proprietor to publish or expose to be published or exposed for sale that article.

(2) If any person acts in contravention of this section, he shall be liable for every contravention,—

(a) to pay to the registered proprietor of a design a sum not exceeding five hundred rupees recoverable as a contract debt, or

(b) if the proprietor elects to bring a suit for the recovery of damages for any such contravention, and for an injunction against the repetition thereof, to pay such damages as may be awarded and to be restrained by injunction accordingly:

Provided that the total sum recoverable in respect of any one design under clause (a) shall not exceed one thousand rupees.

(3) When the Court makes a decree in a suit under sub-section (2), it shall send a copy of the decree to the Controller, who shall cause an entry thereof to be made in the register of designs.

Application of certain provisions of the Act as to patents to designs.

54. The provisions of this Act with regard to certificates of the validity of a patent, and to the remedy in case of groundless threats of legal proceedings by a patentee shall apply in the case of registered designs in like manner as they apply in the case of patents, with the substitution of references to the copyright in a design for references to a patent, and of references to the proprietor of a design for references to the patentee and of references to the design for references to the invention.

PART III.

GENERAL.

Patent Office and Proceedings thereat.

Patent Office.

55. (1) The Central Government may provide for the purposes of this Act, an office which shall be called, and is in this Act referred to as, the Patent Office.

(2) The Patent Office shall be under the immediate control of the Controller of Patents and Designs, who shall act under the superintendence and direction of the Central Government.

(3) There shall be a seal for the Patent Office.

(4) Any act or thing directed to be done by or to the Controller may be done by or to any officer authorized by the Central Government.

[2][(2) An appeal shall lie to the Central Government from an order of the Controller under this section.]

Appeals to the Central Government.

70. (1) Where an appeal is declared by this Act to lie from the Controller to the Central Government the appeal shall be made within [2][three] months of the date of the order passed by the Controller, and shall be in writing, and accompanied by the prescribed fee.

(2) In calculating the said period of [2][three] months the time (if any) occupied in granting a copy of the order appealed against shall be excluded.

(3) The Central Government may, if he thinks fit, obtain the assistance of an expert in deciding such appeals, and the decision of the Central Government shall be final.

Evidence, etc.

Evidence before the Controller.

[3][70-A. Subject to any rules made under section 77, in any proceeding under this Act before the Controller, the evidence shall be given by affidavit, in the absence of directions by the Controller to the contrary; but in any case in which the Controller thinks it right so to do he may take evidence viva voce in lieu of or in addition to evidence by affidavit or may allow any party to be cross-examined on the contents of his affidavit.]

Certificate of Controller to be evidence.

71. A certificate purporting to be under the hand of the Controller as to any entry, matter or thing which he is authorised by this Act, or any rules made thereunder, to make or do, shall be prima facie evidence of the entry having been made, and of the contents thereof, and of the matter or thing having been done or left undone.

Evidence of documents in Patent Office.

[3][71-A. Printed or written copies or extracts, purporting to be certified by the Controller and sealed with the seal of the Patent Office, of or from patents, specifications and other documents in the Patent Office, and of or from registers and other books kept there, shall be admitted in evidence in all Courts in British India, and in all proceedings, without further proof or production of the originals:

Provided that a Court may, if it has reason to doubt the accuracy or authenticity of the copies tendered in evidence, require the production of the originals or such further proof as it considers necessary.]

Transmission of copies of specifications, etc., and inspection thereof.

[4][72. Copies of all such specifications, drawing and amendment left at the Patent Office, as become open to the public inspection under the provisions of this Act, shall be transmitted, as soon as may be, after the printed copies thereof are available, to such authorities as the Central Government may appoint in this behalf, and shall be open to the inspection of any person at all reasonable times at places to be appointed by those authorities and approved by the Central Government.]

(a) for regulating the practice of registration under this Act;

(b) for classifying goods for the purposes of designs;

(c) for making or requiring duplicates of specifications, drawings and other documents;

(d) for securing and regulating the publishing and selling of copies at such prices and in such manner as the Central Government thinks fit of specifications, drawings and other documents;

(e) for securing and regulating the making, printing, publishing, and selling of indexes to, and abridgments of, specifications, and other documents in the Patent Office; and providing for the inspection of indexes and abridgments and other documents;

[3][(ee) for the manner in which fees leviable under this Act may be paid;

(eee) for ensuring secrecy with respect to patents to which section 21-A applies];

(f) generally for regulating the business of the Patent Office, the conduct of proceedings before the Controller, and all things by this Act placed under the direction or control of the Controller or of the Central Government; and (g) generally for the purpose of carrying into effect the provisions of this Act.

(2) The power to make rules under this section shall be subject to the condition of the rules being made after previous publication.

[4][(2-A) Nothing in sub-section (2) shall apply in the case of rules made for the purpose specified in clause (eee) of sub-section (1); and any such rules may modify any of the provisions of this Act so far as may be necessary for that purpose.]

(3) All rules made under this section shall be published in the Official Gazette and, on such publication shall have effect as if enacted in this Act.

Offences.

Wrongful use of words "Patent Office".

78. If any person uses on his place of business, or on any document issued by him, or otherwise, the words "Patent Office" or any other words suggesting that his place of business is officially connected with, or is, the Patent Office, he shall be punishable with fine which may extend to two hundred rupees, and, in the case of a continuing offence, with further fine of twenty rupees for each day on which the offence is continued after conviction therefor.

THE INDAN PATENTS AND DESIGNS (EXTENSION OF TIME) ACT (X OF 1942).

[N.B.—Note now in force.]

[14*th March*, 1942.

An Act to provide for the extension of the time limited by or under the Indian Patents and Designs Act, 1911, for the doing of acts thereunder.

1. (1) It shall be in force until the termination of the present hostilities and for one year thereafter (now expired).

THE INDIAN PATENTS AND DESIGNS (TEMPORARY AMENDMENT) ACT (XV OF 1944).

[Now expired.]

[22*nd November*, 1944.

An Act temporarily to amend the Indian Patents and Designs Act, 1911.

WHEREAS it is expedient temporarily to amend the Indian Patents and Designs Act, 1911 (II of 1911), for the purpose hereinafter apearing;

It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Short title.

1. This Act may be called THE INDIAN PATENTS AND DESIGNS (TEMPORARY AMENDMENT) ACT, 1944.

Temporary amendment of section 21, Act II of 1911.

2. During the period beginning on the 3rd day of September, 1939, and ending on the expiry of six months after the cessation of the present hostilities, section 21 of the Indian Patents and Designs Act, 1911, shall have effect, and shall be deemed to have had effect throughout the said period, as if—

(a) after sub-section (3) the following sub-section had been inserted, namely:—

LEG. REF.

[1] Substituted by Act VII of 1930, S. 33.

[2] Substituted by Act XII of 1939.

"(3-A) The powers of officers or authorities administering any department of the service of His Majesty under sub-section (2) of sub-section (3) to make, use or exercise an invention for the service of the Crown shall include the power to make, use, exercise or vend an invention upon such terms as are mentioned in sub-section (2) or sub-section (3), as the case may be, for any purpose which appears to any such officer, or authority necessary or expedient for the efficient prosecution of the war or for maintaining supplies and services essential to the life of the community; and the terms of any such agreement or licence as is mentioned in sub-section (2) shall be inoperative so far as concerns the making, use, exercise or vending of an invention under this sub-section as they are inoperative so far as concerns the making, use or exercise of an invention under sub-section (2)";

(b) in sub-section (4) for the words "or exercise" the words "exercise or vending" had ben substituted;

(c) to sub-section (5) the following proviso had been added, namely:—

"Provided that nothing in this sub-section shall affect the right to vend an invention conferred by sub-section (3-A).";

(d) after sub-section (5) the following sub-section had been inserted, namely:—

"(5-A) The purchaser of any article sold in pursuance of sub-section (3-A) or sub-section (5) and any person claiming through him may deal with the article in like manner as if the patent for the invention were held on behalf of His Majesty."

THE PAYMENT OF WAGES ACT (IV OF 1936).

[N.B.—Am. Act XX of 1937 and Act XXII of 1937. See also Ordinance III of 1940].

[23*rd April*, 1936.

An Act to regulate the payment of wages to certain classes of persons employed in industry.

WHEREAS it is expedient to regulate the payment of wages to certain classes of persons employed in industry; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Short title, extent, commencement and application.

1. (1) This Act may be called THE PAYMENT OF WAGES ACT, 1936.

(2) It extends to the whole of British India, including British Baluchistan and the Sonthal Parganas.

(3) It shall come into force on such date as the Central Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette, appoint.

(4) It applies in the first instance to the payment of wages to persons employed in any factory and to persons employed (otherwise than in a factory) upon any railway by a railway administration or, either directly or through a sub-contractor, by a person fulfilling a contract with a railway administration.

(5) The Provincial Government may, after giving three months' notice of its intention of so doing, by notification in the Official Gazette, extend the provisions of the Act or any of them to the payment of wages to any class of persons employed in any industrial establishment or in any class or group of industrial establishments

(6) Nothing in this Act shall apply to wages payable in respect of a wage-period which, over such wage-period, average two hundred rupees a month or more.

Definitions.

2. In this Act, unless there is anything repugnant in the subject or context,—

(i) "factory" means a factory as defined in clause (j) of section 2 of the Factories Act, 1934;

SEC. 2.—"Wages" as defined by sec. 2 can only mean wages earned and cannot embrace

(ii) "industrial establishment" means any—

(a) tramway or motor omnibus service;

(b) dock, wharf or jetty;

(c) inland steam-vessel;

(d) mine, quarry or oil-field;

(e) plantation;

(f) workshop or other establishment in which articles are produced, adapted or manufactured, with a view to their use, transport or sale;

(iii) "plantation" means any estate which is maintained for the purpose of growing cinchona, rubber, coffee or tea, and on which twenty-five or more persons are employed for that purpose;

(iv) "prescribed" means prescribed by rules made under this Act;

(v) "railway administration" has the meaning assigned to it in clause (6) of section 3 of the Indian Railways Act, 1890; and

(vi) "wages" means all remuneration, capable of being expressed in terms of money, which would, if the terms of the contract of employment, express or implied, were fulfilled, be payable, whether conditionally upon the regular attendance, good work or conduct or other behaviour of the person employed, or otherwise, to a person employed in respect of his employment or of work done in such employment, and includes any bonus or other additional remuneration of the nature aforesaid which would be so payable and any sum payable to such person by reason of the termination of his employment, but does not include—

(a) the value of any house accommodation, supply of light, water, medical attendance or other amenity, or of any service excluded by general or special order of the [1][* * * * *] Provincial Government;

(b) any contribution paid by the employer to any pension fund or provident fund;

(c) any travelling allowance or the value of any travelling concession;

(d) any sum paid to the person employed to defray special expenses entailed on him by the nature of his employment; or (e) any gratuity payable on discharge.

Responsibility for payment of wages.

3. Every employer shall be responsible for the payment to persons employed by him of all wages required to be paid under this Act:

Provided that in the case of persons employed (otherwise than by a contractor)—

(a) in factories, if a person has been named as the manager of the factory under clause (e) of sub-section (1) of section 9 of the Factories Act, 1934.

(b) in industrial establishments, if there is a person responsible to the employer for the supervision and control of the industrial establishment,

(c) upon railways (otherwise than in factories), if the employer is the railway administration and the railway administration has nominated a person in this behalf for the local area concerned, the person so named, the person so responsible to the employer, or the person so nominated, as the case may be, shall be responsible for such payment.

Fixation of wage-periods.

4. (1) Every person responsible, for the payment of wages under section 3 shall fix periods (in this Act referred to as wage-periods) in respect of which such wages shall be payable.

potential wages. Bonus which workman might earn but has not earned cannot form part of his wages. The words "remuneration, which would, if the contract were fulfilled be payable", mean no more than remuneration payable on the fulfilment of the contract. Bonus never becomes payable to an employee who does not earn it under the terms of the contract. 42 Bom.L.R. 955= 1941 Bom. 26.

(2) No wage-period shall exceed one month.

Time of payment of wages.

5. (1) The wages of every person employed upon or in—

(a) any railway, factory or industrial establishment upon or in which less than one thousand persons are employed, shall be paid before the expiry of the seventh day,

(b) any other railway, factory or industrial establishment, shall be paid before the expiry of the tenth day, after the last day of the wage-period in respect of which the wages are payable.

(2) Where the employment of any person is terminated by or on behalf of the employer, the wages earned by him shall be paid before the expiry of the secondworking day from the day on which his employment is terminated.

(3) The [1][Provincial Government] may, by general or special order, exempt, to such extent and subject to such conditions as may be specified in the order, the person responsible for the payment of wages to persons employed upon any railway (otherwise than in a factory) from the operation of this section in respect of the wages of any such persons or class of such persons.

(4) All payments of wages shall be made on a working day.

Wages to be paid in current coin or currency notes.

6. All wages shall be paid in current coin or currency notes or in both.

Deductions which may be made from wages.

7. (1) Notwithstanding the provisions of sub-section (2) of section 47 of the Indian Railways Act, 1890, the wages of an employed person shall be paid to him without deductions of any kind except those authorised by or under this Act.

Explanation.—Every payment made by the employed person to the employer or his agent shall, for the purposes of this Act, be deemed to be a deduction from wages.

(2) Deductions from the wages of an employed person shall be made only in accordance with the provisions of this Act, and may be of the following kinds only, namely:—

(a) fines;

(b) deductions for absence from duty;

(c) deductions for damage to or loss of goods expressly entrusted to the employed person for custody, or for loss of money for which he is required to account, where such damage or loss is directly attributable to his neglect or default;

(d) deductions for house accommodation supplied by the employer;

(e) deductions for such amenities and services supplied by the employer as the [2][* * *] [Provincial Government] may, by general or special order, authorise;

Explanation.—The word 'services' in this sub-clause does not include the supply of tools and raw materials required for the purposes of employment.

(f) deductions for recovery of advances or for adjustment of overpayments of wages;

(g) deductions of income-tax payable by the employed person;

(h) deductions required to be made by order of a Court or other authority competent to make such order;

(i) deductions for subscriptions to, and for repayment of advances from any provident fund to which the Provident Funds Act, 1925, applies or any recognised provident fund as defined in section 58-A of the Indian Income-tax Act, 1922, or any provident fund approved in this behalf by the Provincial Government, during the continuance of such approval;

(j) deductions for payments to co-operative societies approved by the Provincial Government or to a scheme of insurance maintained by the Indian Post Office; and

[(k) deductions, made with the written authorization of the employed person in furtherance of any War Savings scheme, approved by the Provincial Government for the purchase of securities of the Government of India or the Government of the United Kingdom.] (Added by Ordinance III of 1940.)

Fines.

8. (1) No fine shall be imposed on any employed person save in respect of such acts and omissions on his part as the employer, with the previous approval of the Provincial Government or of the prescribed authority, may have specified by notice under sub-section (2).

(2) A notice specifying such acts and omissions shall be exhibited in the prescribed manner on the premises in which the employment is carried on or in the case of persons employed upon a railway (otherwise than in a factory), at the prescribed place or places.

(3) No fine shall be imposed on any employed person until he has been given an opportunity of showing cause against the fine, or otherwise than in accordance with such procedure as may be prescribed for the imposition of fines.

(4) The total amount of fine which may be imposed in any one wage-period on any employed person shall not exceed an amount equal to half-an-anna in the rupee of the wages payable to him in respect of that wage-period.

(5) No fine shall be imposed on any employed person who is under the age of fifteen years.

(6) No fine imposed on any employed person shall be recovered from him by instalments or after the expiry of sixty days from the day on which it was imposed.

(7) Every fine shall be deemed to have been imposed on the day of the act or omission in respect of which it was imposed.

(8) All fines and all realisations thereof shall be recorded in a register to be kept by the person responsible for the payment of wages under section 3 in such form as may be prescribed; and all such realisations shall be applied only to such purposes beneficial to the persons employed in the factory or establishment as are approved by the prescribed authority.

Explanation.—When the persons employed upon or in any railway, factory or industrial establishment are part only of a staff employed under the same management, all such realisations may be credited to a common fund maintained for the staff as a whole, provided that the fund shall be applied only to such purposes as are approved by the prescribed authority.

Deductions for absence from duty.

9. (1) Deductions may be made under clause (b) of sub-section (2) of section 7 only on account of the absence of an employed person from the place or places where, by the terms of his employment, he is required to work, such absence being for the whole or any part of the period during which he is so required to work.

(2) The amount of such deduction shall in no case bear to the wages payable to the employed person in respect of the wage-period for which the deduction is made a larger proportion than the period for which he was absent bears to the total period, within such wage-period, during which by the terms of his employment, he was required to work:

Provided that, subject to any rules made in this behalf by the Provincial Government, if ten or more employed persons acting in concert absent themselves without due notice (that is to say without giving the notice which is required under the terms of their contracts of employment) and without reasonable cause, such deduction from any such person may include such amount not exceeding his wages for eight days as may by any such terms be due to the employer in lieu of due notice.

[1][Explanation.—For the purpose of this section, an employed person shall be deemed to be absent from the place where he is required to work if, although present in such place, he refuses, in pursuance of a stay-in-strike or for any other cause which is not reasonable in the circumstances, to carry out his work.]

Deductions for damage or loss.

10. (1) A deduction under clause (c) of sub-section (2) of section 7 shall not exceed the amount of the damage or loss caused to the employer by the neglect or default of the employed person and shall not be made until the employed person has been given an opportunity of showing cause against the deduction, or otherwise than in accordance with such procedure as may be prescribed for the making of such deductions.

(2) All such reductions and all realisations thereof shall be recorded in a register to be kept by the person responsible for the payment of wages under section 3 in such form as may be prescribed.

Deduction for services rendered.

11. A deduction under clause (d) or clause (e) of sub-section (2) of section 7 shall not be made from the wages of an employed person, unless the house-accommodation, amenity or service has been accepted by him, as a term of employment or otherwise and such deduction shall not exceed an amount equivalent to the value of the house-accommodation, amenity or service supplied and, in the case of a deduction under the said clause (e), shall be subject to such conditions as [2][* *] the Provincial Government may impose.

Deductions for recovery of advances.

12. Deductions under clause (f) of sub-section (2) of section 7 shall be subject to the following conditions, namely:—

(a) recovery of an advance of money given before employment began shall be made from the first payment of wages in respect of a complete wage-period, but no recovery shall be made of such advances given for travelling-expenses;

(b) recovery of advances of wages not already earned shall be subject to any rules made by the Provincial Government regulating the extent to which such advances may be given and the instalments by which they may be recovered.

Deductions for payments to co-operative societies and insurance schemes.

13. Deductions under clause (j) [3][and clause (k)] of sub-section (2) of section 7 shall be subject to such conditions as the Provincial Government may impose.

Inspectors.

14. (1) An Inspector of Factories appointed under sub-section (1) of section 10 of the Factories Act, 1934, shall be an Inspector for the purposes of this Act in respect of all factories within the local limits assigned to him.

Provided that no direction for the payment of compensation shall be made in the case of delayed wages if the authority is satisfied that the delay was due to—

(a) a bona fide error or a bona fide dispute as to the amount payable to the employed person, or

(b) the occurrence of an emergency, or the existence of exceptional circumstances, such that the persons responsible for the payment of the wages was unable, though exercising reasonable diligence, to make prompt payment, or

(a) by the employer or other person responsible for the payment of wages under section 3, if the total sum directed to be paid by way of wages and compensation exceeds three hundred rupees, or

(b) by an employed person, if the total amount of wages claimed to have been withheld from him or from the unpaid group to which he belonged exceeds fifty rupees, or

(c) by any person directed to pay a penalty under sub-section [1][(4)] of section 15.

(2) Save as provided in sub-section (1), any direction made under sub-section (3) or sub-section [1][(4)] of section 15 shall be final.

Powers of authorities appointed under section 15.

18. Every authority appointed under sub-section (1) of section 15 shall have all the powers of a Civil Court under the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908, for the purpose of taking evidence and of enforcing the attendance of witnesses and compelling the production of documents, and every such authority shall be deemed to be a Civil Court for all the purposes of section 195 and of Chapter XXXV of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898.

Power to recover from employer in certain cases.

SEC. 17: APPEALABILITY—TEST.—Under S. 17 of the Act, appeals are allowed only when there has been a 'direction' which means an order to one side to make a certain payment to the other side. It is very doubtful whether when there has been a trial on the merits and no one has been directed to make any payment to the other side any appeal lies but when the application or claim is rejected as time barred without even entering into the merits, there is no appeal. Delayed wages can only mean wages which are admittedly due, but the payment of which has been postponed on some excuse or other. This view seems to be confirmed by the proviso to sub-sec. This seems to suggest that any bona fide disputes as to the amount payable are to be tried by the Civil Courts for otherwise there would be no authority capable of making an order for payment when the amount is, in fact due. 217 I.C. 228=1945 Lah. 195.

THE PENSIONS ACT (XXIII OF 1871)[1]

[8th August, 1871.

An Act to consolidate and amend the Law relating to Pensions and Grants by Government of money or land revenue.

WHEREAS it is expedient to consolidate and amend the law relating to Pensions and Grants by Government of money or land-revenue ; It is hereby enacted as follows :—

Preamble.

I. Preliminary.

Short title.

1. This Act may be called THE PENSIONS ACT, 1871.

Extent of Act.

It extends to the whole of British India :

[2][* * * * *]

2. [Enactments repealed. Saving of Rules.] Repealed by Act I of 1938.

Interpretation section.

3. In this Act, the expression " grant of money or land-revenue " includes anything payable on the part of Government in respect of any right, privilege, perquisite or office.

[2] The words "and it shall come into force on the date of the passing thereof" were repealed by Act X of 1914 and the words "but not so as to affect any suit in respect of a pension or grant of money or land revenue which may have been instituted before such date" were repealed by Act XII of 1891.

SEC. 1.—Object of Act. See 14 B. 573; 107 I.C. 899=1928 N. 189. Act must be construed strictly. 1925 O. 210. See also 10 A. 396=A.W.N. (1888) 72; 1928 N. 189; 1939 Bom. 513=41 Bom.L.R. 882. The word "pension" in the Pensions Act, 1871 and in Civil Procedure Code, sec. 60 and in the Transfer of Property Act, sec. 6, implies periodical payments of money by Government to the pensioner. 58 I.A. 215 =59 C. 1=35 C.W.N. 791=1931 P.C. 160 =61 M.L.J. 208 (P.C.). See also 1929 A. 781. It is essential that an Officer to be entitled to pension must be in the service on the date of his retirement. An officer removed from Government service can have no claim for any pension. 2 L.W. 431= 29 I.C. 252. A decree in conformity with the award which provides for the distribution in a certain manner of a pension when received from Government does not militate against the provisions of the Act. 37 B. 442=19 I.C. 882. A grant by the British Government confirming a previous grant made by the preceding Ruler is of such rights as the Government possessed and is excluded from the purview of the Pensions Act. 31 I.C. 728. See also 17 B. 169; 1 B. 75. The word 'pension' has nowhere been defined but it ought to be understood in its ordinary sense as implying periodical allowances on account of past services, consideration or merit or by way of compensation to dethroned princes, their families and dependants. A grant of land revenue as such cannot be comprised in the term 'pension'. A grant of Government revenue can in no case be treated as a political pension which is a pension granted on political considerations for reasons of State. The assignment of such grants is not prohibited by the Pensions Act. 1929 A. 781 =27 A.L.J. 724. See also 61 M.L.J. 208 (P.C.). The provisions of the Act dealing with pensions and grants of land revenue in the District of Ratnagiri are not ultra vires. 59 I.C. 452=22 Bom.L.R. 1176 =45 B. 196=1921 B. 125.

SEC. 3.—[See also notes under sec. 1, supra.] A sum payable by the Government as compensation for forest dues in respect of Jaghir land taken over by the Government for forest purposes is not a pension, but a grant of money or land revenue and is not exempted from attachment. 121 I.C. 664=1930 N. 134 (1).

SECS. 3 AND 4: GENERAL.—The Pensions Act, which is one which tends to restrict the ordinary legal rights of the subject to have recourse to the Court for remedy of grievances is one to be strictly construed. The object of the Act was to reserve to the Government the determination of all questions affecting grants of money, the bestowal of which was an act of grace or State policy on the part of the ruling powers. 107 I.C. 899=1928 N. 189. The Pensions Act is to be construed strictly in favour of the subject. A suit relating to property which is the subject of a grant, in which the plaintiff's claim is quite independent of the grant, and in which there is no dispute as to the fact of the grant or as to its validity or as to the persons entitled under it cannot be regarded as a suit relating to a grant of land revenue within the meaning of sec. 4. No certificate is necessary in the case of such a suit under sec. 4. 41 Bom.L.R. 882=1939 Bom. 513. Sec. 4 does not require that the grant should be of the land revenue alone in order to oust jurisdiction to entertain a suit relating thereto. 15 I.C. 871=23 M.L.J. 687. The nature of the grant must depend on what the Government gives and not on what may happen irrespective of the wishes of the Government. If the Government gave only the land revenue, acquisition of the lands by the pensioners does not make them grantees of immovable property. 47 A. 557=87 I.C. 569. The word "suit" does not include execution proceedings. 7 Bom. L.R. 659=30 B. 101; 16 B. 731. In order to find out whether a grant falls within the scope of sec. 4 of the Pensions Act, we have to look at the substance of what has been granted or continued by Government, whatevery may be the purely legal view as to the nature of the right granted and if the grant consists merely in the right to collect the land revenue, at any rate in the time of the British Government, or if it included this right in addition to other rights as well, then what we have to see is whether that right to collect the land revenue comes within the provisions of the Pensions Act or not. A distinction cannot be drawn between a grant of land revenue and the right to collect land revenue. Sec. 9 of the Act, which provides that nothing in secs. 4 and 8 shall affect the right of a grantee of land revenue to collect the revenue for himself, seems clearly to show that the right to collect land revenue for oneself was regarded in the scheme of the Act as a grant of land revenue. A grant of land revenue does not cease to be such a grant when the grantee becomes himself the owner of the land over which the grant extends. What has to be seen is whether the land itself has, at any time, been made exempt from revenue. The question whether there is a sort of merger, and whether the land becomes revenue free when the jagirdar purchases the rights of an owner, cannot be made to depend upon the nature of the Jagir. 222 I.C. 22=1946 L. 268.

CASES TO WHICH SECTION APPLIES.—The Act contemplates money payment to be received through the Collector from recorded persons bound to pay revenue. 1913 M.W.N. 255=23 M.L.J. 687. Sec. 4 applies not only to a suit against Government but also to suits between private parties and the previous certificate of the Collector is necessary where the suit relates to a grant of land revenue. 25 Bom.L.R. 1477 =1927 B. 81. "Grant of money or land revenue", meaning of. See 5 B. 408=8 I.A. 77 (P.C.). The following are included within the said expression:—(1)Malikana. See 17 A. 1=21 I.A. 148=2 M.L. J. 272 (P.C.) and cases referred to therein. 29 B. 480; (2) Toda giras hak. 5 B. 408 =8 I.A. 77 (P.C.); (3) Allowances settled by Government upon members of the family of a Nawab. 7 A.W.N. 225; (4) Allowance granted to political prisoners though the same is collected by agreement from a foreign or Native State. 50 M. 711=1927 M. 604=52 M.L.J. 622; (5) Suit to recover wages for services in temple from trustee out of funds granted by the Government. 107 I.C. 899=1928 N. 189.

THE FOLLOWING ARE GRANTS TO WHICH THE SECTION APPLIES.—A suit, by a hereditary deshmukh of certain Mahals entitled to be directly paid by the ryots thereof a percentage on the revenue assessed thereon, against the Government, to recover a portion of such percentage collected along with the revenue and retained by it. 2 B. 99=4 I.A. 119 (P.C.). Where a Jaghir, granted for the support of the grantee and his relatives, was resumed by Government, and money allowance substituted, a suit by a relative of the original grantee to recover, arrears of his share is barred. 4 M. 341. See also 18 M. 187; 29 B. 480; 30 M. 266=17 M.L.J. 139; 50 M. 441=1927 M. 140=51 M.L.J. 695. Civil Courts are prohibited from entertaining suits relating to any grant of money conferred by the British Government, whatever may have been the consideration for it. 5 B. 408=8 I.A. 77 (P.C.); 17 Bom. L.R. 153=27 I.C. 927 (2). Claim for maintenance by a female member—Government pension—If Act applicable. See 17 M.L.J. 139=30 M. 266. II. Rights to Pensions.

4. Except as hereinafter provided, no Civil Court shall entertain any suit relating to any pension or grant of money or land-revenue conferred or made by the Britsih or any former Government, whatever may have been the consideration for any such pension or grant, and, whatever may have been the nature of the payment, claim or right for which such pension or grant, may have been substituted.

Endowments for religious or pious purposes do not fall within the purview of sec. 4—Section applies only to personal grants. 17 M.L.J. 549=31 M. 12 [old 18 M.L.J. 24 (note.)]

SEC. 4: SCOPE—JURISDICTION OF REVENUE COURT WHETHER AFFECTED.—Sec. 4 of the Pensions Act does not take away the jurisdiction of the Court of Revenue to entertain a suit by the transferee of the assignee of the land revenue. The jurisdiction of the Civil Court and of the Civil Court alone is limited by the terms of the expression. 27 A.L.J. 724=1929 A. 781. Where a suit is filed in the Revenue Court by an assignee of Government revenue for arrears of revenue, the District Judge hearing the revenue appeal as a Civil Court would be competent to dispose of the matter, and his jurisdiction is not barred under sec. 4. 1936 A.L.J. 1281= 1936 All. 666. In a suit relating to a cash allowance the non-production of the Collector's certificate under sec. 4 of the Pensions Act at the time of filing the suit is not fatal. It is sufficient if it is produced even in appeal in the High Court. 37 Bom.L.R. 343=1935 B. 227. No second appeal lies to the Financial Commissioner from an order of the Commissioner passed on appeal from an order of the Deputy Commissioner in a proceeding relating to the succession of a jagir. The Financial Commissioner has wide powers of revision conferred by sec. 16 of the Land Revenue Act. The Financial Commissioner must exercise his powers of revision in dealing with cases under these rules rather more freely than is the case in regard to mutation proceedings, for instance, which concern disputes which must eventually be decided in the Civil Courts. 20 Lah.L.T. 102.

SECS. 4—6.—[See also notes under secs. 3 and 4.] A Civil Court is precluded from making any declaration that would in any way directly or indirectly affect the liability of Government to pay a grant of Government revenue to any person. 37 A. 338=29 I.C. 146. Sec. 4 is no bar to a suit to recover back possession of land in which saranjam right is resumed by the Government. 41 B. 408=39 I.C. 65. Though a suit cannot be entertained without a certificate from the Collector, still even an appeal should not be rejected for want of certificate, but plaintiff should be allowed time to produce it. 82 I.C. 486. A suit for a declaration that the plaintiff is the owner of a certain share in a kulkarni vatan falls within sec. 4 of the Act and is not maintainable without the certificate of the Collector. 42 B. 257=45 I. C. 580. See also 37 B. 91. The pre-requisite of filing a certificate under sec. 4 is not applicable to a suit for partition of the inam among the members of the family to which it was given and it does not also apply where the grant is of land also and not merely of the land revenue. 26 I.C. 87=27 M.L.J. 618. A suit for partition of lands granted by Government on account of services rendered cannot be said to be one relating to any pension or grant of money or land revenue conferred or made by the British or any former Government; and a certificate under the Act is not necessary for the maintainability of the suit. 17 N.L.J. 118. A suit by one sharer to recover his or her share of desaigiri money received by the defendant (another co-sharer) from the Government is not barred by secs. 4, 5 and 6 of the Pensions Act. Nor is it barred by Art. 13 of Sch. II, Provincial Small Cause Courts Act. 47 Bom. L.R. 360=1945 Bom. 496. Where certain land is granted by Government, the grant cannot be split up into two distinct grants of melwaram and kudiwaram so as to fall under sec. 4 in respect of the claim for melwaram. 36 M. 559=23 M.L.J. 728. Where the grant is not one of land revenue only, but of the soil also, sec. 4, does not apply and no certificate is necessary for a suit to recover assessment or land revenue of the village. 34 Bom.L.R. 1455 =1933 B. 23. The plaintiff was the purchaser from a widow of an allowance computed in respect of Desaigiri Huq. He applied to the Collector to have his name entered in the register under the Watan Act

5. Any person having a claim relating to any such pension or grant may prefer such claim to the Collector of the District or Deputy Commissioner or other officer authorized in this behalf by the [1][appropriate Government] ; and such Collector, Deputy Commissioner or other officer shall dispose of such claim in accordance with such rules[2] as the Chief Revenue-authority may, subject to the general control of the [1][appropriate Government], from time to time, prescribe in this behalf.

Claims to be made to Collector or other authorised officer.

but he was informed that his name had been entered only during the lifetime of the widow. He brought a suit for a declaration that he was the full owner of the allowance and not merely during the lifetime of the widow. Held, that the suit cannot be entertained without a certificate under sec. 6 of the Act. 33 Bom.L.R. 1059 =1931 B. 505.

SEC. 4, 5 AND 6.—The Pensions Act provides two methods of settling claims relating to grants of land revenue as to which the jurisdiction of civil Courts is barred by sec. 4 of that Act. Under sec. 5 of the Act such claims may be disposed of by the revenue authorities and under sec. 6 a Civil Court may take cognisance of disputes between rival claimants to the enjoyment of a grant of land revenue only if a certificate is granted by the revenue authorities that the case is one which a Civil Court should try. Under r. 11 of the Punjab Pension and Revenue Assignment Rules the power of granting such a certificate is vested in the Financial Commissioner only and not in any subordinate revenue authority. So, any person who has a claim relating to any grant of land revenue other than a claim against Government direct may proceed in one of two separate ways. He may apply to the Deputy Commissioner under sec. 5 of the Act for the adjudication of his claim or he may apply to the Deputy Commissioner under sec. 6 or to the Financial Commissioner direct asking that the Financial Commissioner should grant a certificate that the dispute is one that may be tried by the Civil Courts. These two ways are alternative. But if both parties have acquiesced in obtaining adjudication on the merits of the case by the revenue authorities, it is inappropriate to grant a certificate which would permit the matter to be reagitated de novo in a different forum. 20 Lah.L.T. 94.

SECS. 4 AND 11.—The Pensions Act does not refer only to political pensions, but relates to all pensions. 161 I.C. 499=1936 L. 85. Sec. 11 refers merely to pensions, whereas sec. 4 refers not only to pensions, but to grants of money or land revenue conferred, whatever may have been the consideration of any such grant. Sec. 4 is wider than sec. 11 and includes matters which do not come under sec. 11. 52 A. 868=1930 A. 681. There is an obvious distinction between an assignment and a remission of land revenue. A remission of land revenue cannot be regarded as an assignment. The Government may remit a liability to pay land revenue in which case no assessment is made, but that is a very different thing from assessing a certain sum and then granting or assigning that sum to some person other than the Government. A right to lakhiraj or revenue-free land is certainly not a pension or a grant of land revenue. I.L.R. (1940) All. 603=1940 A.L.J. 420=1940 All. 373 (F.B.).

SEC. 5.—The words "any such pension or grant" clearly indicate any pension or grant of money or land revenue referred to in the preceding section. The section clearly authorises the Collector, etc., to entertain a claim with reference to the grant of land revenue conferred by the former Government. The Local Government has authority to call for evidence in support of the grant and may either recognise the grant or refuse to do so. The proceeding before the officers referred to in this section is more administrative than judicial. 1929 A.L.J. 724=1929 A. 781.

SECS. 5 AND 6.—Secs. 5 and 6 bar a suit for a declaration against Government that the plaintiff is entitled to muafi rights in a certain mahal. 57 I.C. 156=12 L.W. 311 (P.C.)=1919 P.C. 127: See also 1937 Pesh. 65. On these sections, see also 20 I.C. 508=7 S.L.R. 5; 30 M. 266=17 M.L.J. 139; 18 M. 287=5 M.L.J. 168; 1 Bom. 75. A person who wants a declaration that he is entitled to a share in a pension must apply to the Collector or Deputy Commissioner or other authorised officer under sec. 5 of the Pensions Act and he cannot go to a Civil Court unless he obtains a certificate under sec. 6 of the Act. 121 I.C. 417=1930 L. 795.

SEC. 6.—[See also notes under secs. 3, 4 and 5.] A Civil Court cannot take cognizance of a claim relating to a jaghir except upon a certificate of Collector or other officer. 1926 L. 333. Production of the Collector's certificate subsequent to the institution of the suit is not a sufficient compliance with the section. 1928 L. 713 (2). Sec. 6 does not apply to a suit for a dec-of any such claim upon receiving a certificate from such Collector, Deputy Commissioner or other Officer authorized[1] in that behalf that the case may be so tried, but shall not make any order or decree in any suit whatever by which the liability of Government to pay any such pension or grant as aforesaid is affected directly or indirectly.

laration that funeral expenses cannot be claimed to be paid out of income of a jaghir. 1922 L. 365. A suit to establish a right to collect Government revenue from the villages granted as endowment to a religious office is not maintainable in the absence of a certificate under sec. 6. 28 I.C. 934. If an application for grant of a certificate under sec. 6 is rejected by the Collector, the proper procedure is to apply to the Commissioner for reversal of the Collector's order. But as the rules prescribe that a certificate can only be granted by the Financial Commissioner, it is not unreasonable to make an application direct to his Court. 20 Lah.L.T. 94. If a party to a dispute under the Pensions Act wishes the exceptional procedure of sec. 6 to be followed, he must apply for the grant of a certificate under that section before and not after the matter has been the subject of final adjudication by the highest revenue authorities under sec. 5 of the Act. In such cases, the jurisdiction of the Civil Courts is entirely barred by sec. 4 of the Act, and the regular procedure for adjudication of disputes is that prescribed by sec. 5. The revival of the jurisdiction of the Civil Courts provided by sec. 6 on a certificate from the revenue authorities is clearly intended to be an exceptional alternative to the adjudication prescribed in sec. 5, and after the parties have fought out their respective claims in the revenue forum up to the highest revenue authority it would not be correct to permit the whole matter to be reopened in the alternative forum of Civil Courts. 20 Lah.L.T. 99. See also 20 Lah.L.T. 94. A voluntary grant was made by Government to a shrine for its maintenance but the grant was resumable by Government at its pleasure. A suit was brought for a declaration by a certain person of his right to the office of sajjadanashin of such shrine. Held, that the claim in the suit not being one for a pension or grant, no certificate was necessary as required by sec. 6, Pensions Act. 1937 Pesh. 65. Saranjam inam—Suit to recover—Certificate of Collector—Failure to produce certificate—Appeal—Remand. 39 B. 352=28 I.C. 485. A suit relating to a share in an inam consisting of two-thirds of revenue is not cognizable without Collector's certificate. Where the plaintiff has not obtained the certificate, the hearing may be adjourned to enable him to produce it. 27 I.C. 927 (2)=17 Bom.L.R. 153. See also 39 B. 352=28 I.C. 485; 1937 O.W.N. 1131=1937 Oudh 484. (Production of certificate subsequent to institution of suit even at the appellate stage will be sufficient under the section). Certificate under sec. 6 is not a part of the cause of action. 19 Luck. 515=1944 A.W.R. (C.C) 11=1944 O.W.N. 37=1944 Oudh 139. A pension is ordinarily not attachable for sale in execution. 44 A. 697=1922 A. 429. A suit for a declaration that the plaintiff is entitled to get his name entered in place of the last manager of a Durga which is in receipt of a cash allowance from the Government is not maintainable for two reasons: (1) the right of entering the names rests exclusively with the Collector, and none else; (2) the declaration entails a corresponding liability on the Government to pay and a suit to enforce it is barred by sec. 6. 55 Bom. 119=32 Bom.L.R. 1420 =1931 Bom. 144. A suit for a declaration of the plaintiff's rights to a share of the toda giras haq paid to the defendants by the Government is maintainable where the plaintiff has got a certificate from the Collector authorizing the suit in spite of sec. 6 of the Pensions Act. The decree declaring that the plaintiff is entitled to a certain share in the cash allowance is one which does not affect the liability of the Government to pay; it only affects the plaintiff's right to share in the amount if and when Government pays it. 33 Bom.L.R. 783= 1931 B. 473. In 1883 the predecessors-in-interest of the plaintiff had obtained a certificate from the Collector for instituting a suit against the defendant's predecessors and had got a decree. In 1931 the plaintiff instituted a suit against the defendant without a fresh certificate. Held, that the original certificate ceased to have any effect after the decision of that suit and that a fresh certificate was necessary for the institution of the second suit. 14 L. 48=1933 L. 336. Where it is found that the act of the Government in substituting a fixed annual sum in the place of a percentage of Government assessment granted to plaintiff's ancestor is ultra vires and invalid, the plaintiff cannot, in view of sec. 6 of the Act, be entitled to an order for payment; he is only entitled to a declaration of his rights. 61 I.A. 190=58 B. 306=1934 P.C. 108=66 M.L.J. 614 (P.C.). See also 17 Lah.L.T. 17.

DISMISSAL OF OFFICER WHO WAS ON INVALID PENSION—SUIT FOR DECLARATION OF WRONGFUL DISMISSAL AND FOR DAMAGES.—A Police Sub-Inspector was first discharged on an invalid pension but was afterwards dismissed, with the consequence of his pension

Pensions for lands held under grants in perpetuity.

7. Nothing in sections 4 and 6 applies to—

(1) any inam[1] of the class referred to in section 1 of Madras Act No. IV of 1862;

(2) pensions heretofore granted by Government in the territories respectively subject to the Lieutenant Governor of Bengal and the North-Western Provinces either wholly or in part as an indemnity for loss sustained by the resumption by a Native Government of lands held under sanads purporting to confer a right in perpetuity. Such pensions shall not be liable to resumption on the death of the recipient, but every such pension shall be capable of alienation and descent, and may be sued for and recovered in the same manner as any other property.

III. Mode of Payment.

Payments to be made by Collector or other authorised officer.

8. All pensions or grants by Government of money or land-revenue shall be paid by the Collector or the Deputy Commissioner or other authorized officer, subject to such rules as may, from time to time, be prescribed by the Chief controlling Revenue-authority.

Saving of rights of grantees of land-revenue.

9. Nothing in sections 4 and 8 shall affect the right of a grantee of land-revenue, whose claim to such grant is admitted by Government, to recover such revenue from the persons liable to pay the same under any law for the time being in force for the recovery of the rent of land.

Commutation of pensions.

10. The [2][appropriate Government] may with the consent of the holder, order the whole or any part of his pension or grant of money or land-revenue to be commuted for a lump sum on such terms as may seem fit.

IV. Miscellaneous.

Exemption of pension from attachment.

11. No pension granted or continued by Government on political considerations, or on account of past services or present infirmities or as a compassionate allowance,

The intention behind the provisions of sec. 11 is applicable equally to the commuted portion as well as to the uncommuted portion of the pension, and the language of sec. 11 does not exclude from its protection the money that is due under a commutation order commuting a part of the pension. The commuted portion would be "money due or to become due on account of pension," and therefore the commuted portion of the pension due to a retired Government servant is not liable to attachment at the instance of his creditors in view of sec. 11. The plaintiff's predecessor sued the defendant's predecessor for a declaration of his right to a share of a political pension. Permission was obtained by him under sec. 6. The suit ended in a compromise decree. Under the compromise it was agreed that the plaintiff's predecessor and his representatives were entitled to get a monthly allowance generation after generation from the defendant's predecessor and his representatives, in lieu of the plaintiff's predecessor abandoning his claim not only to his alleged share in the political pension but also to his share in the property inherited by the defendant's predecessor. In a suit by the plaintiffs against the defendants for arrears of the monthly allowance held, by Bennet, J., that the particular part of the compromise by which the plaintiff's predecessor relinquished all his right to the pension would be null and void in view of the provisions of sec. 12 of the Pensions Act, but that the compromise would be valid and binding on the defendants to the extent of the property in their hands. Held, by Sulaiman, C.J., that the compromise decree was not hit by the provisions of sec. 12 at all, as an abandonment of the claim to have the question of right to the pension tried by the Court would not in itself amount to an assignment of any share in the political pension, but merely the withdrawal of the suit in lieu of the consideration offered, and that the offer made by the plaintiff's predecessor to abandon his claim to the property as well as to the pension to which he might have been entitled was not unlawful or invalid, and that the compromise decree was binding on the defendants to the extent of the property devolved on them. 1935 A.L.J. 910= 1935 A. 862. An Act to consolidate and amend the law relating to the import, transport, storage, production, refining and blending of petroleum and other inflammable substances.

WHEREAS it is expedient to consolidate and amend the law relating to the import, transport, storage, production, refining and blending of petroleum and other inflammable substances; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

LEG. REF.

[1] The 'Indian Petroleum Act, 1899, which was in force in Berar was repealed and this Act of 1934, and also the rules and regulations made under this Act, 1934, have been extended to and declared to be in force in Berar, by Act XXIII of 1937.

Os. were issued to branches of a watan family under R. 33 (ii), each branch constitutes a separate family for the purposes of R. 34. Under the rules, a person claiming in the female line cannot be preferred to one descended from a collateral of the first Dastaki although that colla teral held a separate P. P. O. 1943 N.L.J. 561.

PRELIMINARY.

Short title, extent and commencement.

1. (1) This Act may be called THE PETROLEUM ACT, 1934.

1 It extends to the whole of British India, including British Baluchistan and the Sonthal Parganas.

(3) It shall come into force on such date as the Central Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette, appoint.

Definitions.

2. In this Act, unless there is anything repugnant in the subject or context,—

(a) "petroleum" means any liquid hydrocarbon or mixture of hydrocarbonus, and any inflammable mixture (liquid, viscous or solid) containing any liquid hydrocarbon;

(b) "dangerous petroleum" means petroleum having its flashing-point below seventy-six degrees Fahrenheit;

(c) "flashing-point" of any petroleum means the lowest temperature at which it yields a vapour which will give a momentary flash when ignited, determined in accordance with the provisions of Chapter II and the rules made thereunder;

(d) "to transport" petroleum means to move petroleum from one place to another in British India, and includes moving from one place to another in British India by sea or across territory in India which is not part of British India;

(e) "to import" petroleum means to bring it into British India by land, sea or air, otherwise than during the course of transport;

(f) "to store" petroleum means to keep it in any one place, but does not include any detention happening during the ordinary course of transport;

(g) "motor conveyance" means any vehicle, vessel or air-craft for the conveyance of human beings, animals or goods, by land, water or air, in which petroleum is used to generate the motive power;

(h) "prescribed" means prescribed by rules made under this Act.

CHAPTER I.

CONTROL OVER PETROLEUM.

Import, transport and storage of petroleum.

3. (1) No one shall import, transport or store any petroleum save in accordance with the rules made under section 4.

(2) Save in accordance with the conditions of any licence for the purpose which he may be required to obtain by rules made under section 4, no one shall import any dangerous petroleum, and no one shall transport or store any petroleum.

Rules for the import, transport and storage of petroleum.

4. The Central Government may make rules—

(a) prescribing places where petroleum may be imported and prohibiting its import elsewhere;

(b) regulating the import of petroleum;

(c) prescribing the periods within which licences for the import of dangerous petroleum shall be applied for, and providing for the disposal, by confiscation or otherwise, of any dangerous petroleum in respect of which a licence has not been applied for within the prescribed period or has been refused and which has not been exported;

(d) regulating the transport of petroleum;

LEG. REF.

[1] The 'Indian Petroleum Act, 1899, which was in force in Berar was repealed and this Act of 1934, and also the rules and regulations made under this Act, 1934, have been extended to and declared to be in force in Berar, by Act XXIII of 1937.

(e) specifying the nature and condition of all receptacles and pipe-lines in which petroleum may be transported;

(f) regulating the places at which and prescribing the conditions subject to which petroleum may be stored;

(g) specifying the nature, situation and condition of all receptacles in which petroleum may be stored;

(h) prescribing the form and conditions of licences for the import of dangerous petroleum, and for the transport or storage of any petroleum, the manner in which applications for such licences shall be made, the authorities which may grant such licences and the fees which may be charged for such licences;

(i) determining in any class of cases whether a licence for the transport of petroleum shall be obtained by the consignor, consignee or carrier;

(j) providing for the granting of combined licences for the import, transport and storage of petroleum, or for any two of such purposes;

(k) prescribing the proportion in which any specified poisonous substance may be added to petroleum, and prohibiting the import, transport or storage of petroleum in which the proportion of any specified poisonous substance exceeds the prescribed proportion; and (l) generally, providing for any matter which in its opinion is expedient for proper control over the import, transport and storage of petroleum.

Production, refining and blending of petroleum.

5. (1) No one shall produce, refine or blend petroleum save in accordanec with the rules made under sub-section (2).

(2) The Central Government may make rules—

(a) prescribing the conditions subject to which petroleum may be produced, refined or blended; and

(b) regulating the removal of petroleum from places where it is produced, refined or blended and preventing the storage therein and removal therefrom, except as dangerous petroleum, of any petrolum which has not satisfied the prescribed tests.

(3) [Omitted by the Government of India (Adaptation of Indian Laws) Order, 1937.]

Receptacles of dangerous petroleum to show a warning.

6. All receptacles containing dangerous petroleum shall have a stamped, embossed, painted or printed warning, either on the receptacle itself, or, where that is impracticable, displayed near the receptacle, exhibiting in conspicuous characters the words "Petrol" or "Motor Spirit," or an equivalent warning of the dangerous nature of the petroleum:

Provided that this section shall not apply to—

(a) any securely stoppered glass, stoneware or metal receptacle of less than two gallons capacity containing dangerous petroleum which is not for sale, or

(b) a tank incorporated in a motor conveyance, or attached to an internal combustion engine, and containing petroleum intended to be used to generate motive power for the motor conveyance or engine, or

(c) a pipe line for the transport of petroleum, or

(d) any tank which is wholly underground, or

(e) any class of receptacles which the Central Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette, exempt from the operation of this section.

No licence needed for small stocks of non-dangerous petroleum not in bulk.

7. Notwithstanding anything contained in this Chapter, a person need not obtain a licence for the transport or storage of non-dangerous petroleum if the total quantity in his possession at any one place does not exceed five hundred gallons and none of it is contained in a receptacle exceeding two hundred gallons in capacity.

No licence needed for small quantities of dangerous petroleum.

8. (1) Notwithstanding anything contained in this Chapter, a person need not obtain a licence for the import, transport, or storage of dangerous petroleum not intended for sale if the total quantity in his possession does not exceed six gallons.

(2) Dangerous petroleum possessed without a licence under this section shall be kept in securely stoppered receptacles of glass, stoneware or metal which shall not in the case of receptacles of glass or stoneware exceed one quart in capacity or in the case of receptacles of metal five gallons in capacity.

Exemptions for motor conveyances and stationary engines.

9. (1) The owner of a motor conveyance, who complies with the requirements of the law for the time being in force relating to the registration and licensing of such conveyance and its driver of pilot and the owner of any stationary internal combustion engine, shall not be required to obtain a licence—

(a) for the import, transport or storage of any petroleum contained in any fuel tank incorporated in the conveyance or attached to the internal combustion engine, or

(b) for the transport or storage of dangerous petroleum, not exceeding twenty gallons in quantity in addition to any quantity possessed under clause (a), provided the petroleum is intended to be used to generate motive power for the motor conveyance or engine,

[Provided further that the total quantity of dangerous petroleum which may be stored without a licence under clause (b) shall not exceed twenty gallons, notwithstanding that such owner may possess other motor conveyances or engines.][1]

(2) The dangerous petroleum transported or stored without a licence under clause (b) [of Sub-Section (1)][1] shall be kept as provided in sub-section (2) of section 8, and, if it exceeds six gallons in quantity, shall be stored in an isolated place which does not communicate with any room where any person resides or works or in any room where persons assemble.

No licence needed by railway administration acting as carrier.

10. Notwithstanding anything contained in this Chapter, a railway administration, as defined in section 3 of the Indian Railways Act, 1890, need not obtain any licence for the import or transport of any petroleum in its possession in its capacity as carrier.

Exemption of heavy oils.

11. Nothing in this Chapter shall apply to any petroleum which has its flashing-point not below two hundred degrees Fahrenheit.

General power of exemption.

12. The Central Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette, exempt any petroleum specified in the notification from all or any of the provisions of this Chapter.

Inspection of places.

13. (1) The Central Government may authorise any officer by name or by virtue of office to enter any place where petroleum is being imported, stored, produced, refined or blended, or is under transport, and inspect all receptacles, plant and appliances used in connection with petroleum in order to ascertain if they are in accordance with the provisions of this Chapter and the rules made thereunder.

(2) The Central Government may make rules regulating the procedure of officers authorised under this section.

LEG. REF.

[1] Inserted by Act XXV of 1940.

CHAPTER II.

THE TESTING OF PETROLEUM.

Inspection and sampling of petroleum.

14. (1) The Central Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette, authorise any officer by name or by virtue of office to enter any place where petroleum is being imported, transported, stored, produced, refined or blended and to inspect and take samples for testing of any petroleum found therein.

(2) The Central Government may make rules—

(a) regulating the taking of samples of petroleum for testing,

(b) determining the cases in which payment shall be made for the value of sample taken, and the mode of payment, and

(c) generally, regulating the procedure of officers exercising powers under this section.

Standard Test Apparatus.

15. (1) A standard apparatus for determining the flashing-point of petroleum shall be deposited with an officer to be appointed in this behalf by the Central Government, by notification in the Official Gazette.

(2) Such apparatus shall be engraved with the words "Standard Test Apparatus," and shall be verified and corrected from time to time and replaced when necessary, in accordance with rules made under section 21.

(3) The Standard Test Apparatus shall, on payment of the prescribed fee, be open to inspection at all reasonable times by any person wishing to inspect it.

Certification of other test apparatus.

16. (1) The officer appointed under section 15 shall, on payment of the prescribed fee, if any, compare with the Standard Test Apparatus any apparatus for determining the flashing-point of petroleum which may be submitted to him for this purpose.

(2) If any apparatus is found by him to agree with the Standard Test Apparatus within prescribed limits, the officer shall engrave such apparatus with a special number and with the date of the comparison, and shall give a certificate in respect of it in the prescribed form, certifying that on the said date the apparatus was compared with the Standard Test Apparatus and was found to agree with it within the prescribed limits, and specifying any corrections to be made in the results of tests carried out with the apparatus.

(3) A certificate granted under this section shall be valid for such period as may be prescribed.

(4) A certificate granted under this section shall, during the period for which it is valid, be proof, until the contrary is proved, of any matter stated therein.

(5) The officer shall keep a register in the prescribed form of all certificates granted by him under this section.

Testing officers.

17. The Central Government may authorize any officer by name or by virtue of office to test petroleum of which samples have been taken under this Act, or which may have been submitted to him for test by any person, and to grant certificates of the results of such tests.

SEC. 15.—Where the servant in breach of the conditions of the licence of his master, delivered petrol to another not having a licence to transport petrol, the master is liable for the action of his servant. 1937 A.M.L.J. 138.

Manner of Test.

18. All tests of petroleum made under this Act shall be made with a test apparatus in respect of which there is a valid certificate under section 16, shall have due regard to any correction specified in that certificate, and shall be carried out in accordance with rules made under section 21.

Certificate of testing.

19. (1) The testing officer after testing samples of petroleum shall make out a certificate in the prescribed form, stating whether the petroleum is dangerous or non-dangerous, and, if the petroleum is non-dangerous, the flashing-point of the petroleum.

(2) The testing officer shall furnish the person concerned, at his request, with a certified copy of the certificate, on payment of the prescribed fee, and such certified copy may be produced in any Court in proof of the contents of the original certificate.

(3) A certificate given under this section shall be admitted as evidence in any proceedings which may be taken under this Act in respect of the petroleum from which the samples were taken, and shall, until the contrary is proved, be conclusive proof that the petroleum is dangerous or non-dangerous, as the case may be, and, if the petroleum is non-dangerous, of its flashing-point.

Right to require re-test.

20. (1) The owner of any petroleum, or his agent, who is dissatisfied with the result of the test of the petroleum may, within seven days from the date on which he received intimation of the result of the test, apply to the officer empowered under section 14 to have fresh samples of the petroleum taken and tested.

(2) On such application and on payment of the prescribed fee, fresh samples of the petroleum shall be taken in the presence of such owner or agent or person deputed by him, and shall be tested in the presence of such owner or agent or person deputed by him.

(3) If, on such re-test, it appears that the original test was erroneous, the testing officer shall cancel the original certificate granted under section 19, shall make out a fresh certificate, and shall furnish the owner of the petroleum or his agent, with a certified copy thereof, free of charge.

Power to make rules regarding tests.

21. The Central Government may make rules—

(a) for the specification, verification, correction and replacement of the Standard Test Apparatus;

(b) prescribing fees for the inspection of the Standard Test Apparatus;

(c) regulating the procedure in comparing a test apparatus with the Standard Test Apparatus;

(d) prescribing the form of certificate to be given in respect of a test apparatus so compared, and the period for which such certificates shall be valid;

(e) prescribing the form of the register of such certificates;

(f) prescribing fees for comparing a test apparatus with the Standard Test Apparatus;

(g) regulating the procedure of testing officers in carrying out tests of petroleum, providing for the averaging of results where several samples of the same petroleum are tested, and prescribing the variations from standard temperatures which may be allowed;

(h) prescribing the form of certificates of tests of petroleum and the fees which may be charged therefor;

(i) providing, where the results of the testing of samples raise a doubt as to the uniformity of the quality of the petroleum in any lot under test, for the division of the lot into sub-lots, and for the selection and testing of samples of each sub-lot and for the averaging of results in accordance with the results of tests of those samples;

(j) prescribing fees for re-tests under section 20 and providing for their refund where the original test was erroneous; and (k) generally, regulating the procedure of all officers performing duties connected with the testing of petroleum, and providing for any matter incidental to such testing.

Special rules for testing viscous or solid forms of petroleum.

22. The Central Government may also make rules providing specially for the testing of any form of petroleum which is viscous or solid or contains sediment or thickening ingredients, and such rules may modify or supplement any of the provisions of this Chapter or of the rules made under section 21 in order to adapt them to the special needs of such tests.

CHAPTER III.

PENALTIES AND PROCEDURE.

General penalty for offences under this Act.

23. (1) Whoever—

(a) in contravention of any of the provisions of Chapter I or of any of the rules made thereunder, imports, transports, stores, produces, refines or blends any petroleum, or

(b) contravenes any rules made under section 4 or section 5, or

[1][(c) being the holder of a licence issued under section 4 or a person for the time being placed by the holder of such licence in control or in charge of any place where petroleum is being imported or stored, or is under transport, contravenes any condition of such licence or suffers any condition of such licence to be contravened, or]

(d) being for the time being in control or in charge of any place where petroleum is being imported, stored, produced, refined or blended or is under transport, refuses or neglects to show to any officer authorized under section 13 any receptacle, plant or appliance used in such place in connexion with petroleum, or in any way obstructs or fails to render reasonable assistance to such officer during an inspection, or

(e) being for the time being in control or in charge of any place where petroleum is being imported, transported, stored, produced, refined or blended, refuses or neglects to show to any officer authorized under section 14 any petroleum in such place, or to give him such assistance as he may require for the inspection of such petroleum, or refuses to allow him to take samples of the petroleum, or

(f) being required, under section 27, to give information of an accident, fails to give such information as so required by that section, shall be punishable with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees.

(2) If any person, having been convicted of an offence punishable under sub-section (1), is again guilty of any offence punishable under that sub-section, he shall be punishable for every such subsequent offence with fine which may extend to two thousand rupees.

Confiscation of petroleum and receptacles.

24. (1) In any case in which an offence under clause (a) or clause (b) or clause (c) of sub-section (1) of section 23 has been committed, the convicting Magistrate may direct that—

(a) the petroleum in respect of which the offence has been committed, or

(b) where the offender is convicted of importing, transporting, or storing petroleum exceeding the quantity he is permitted to import, transport or store, as the case may be, the whole of the petroleum in respect of which the offence was committed, shall, together with the receptacles in which it is contained, be confiscated.

LEG. REF.

[1] Substituted by Act III of 1941.

(2) This power may also be exercised by the High Court in the exercise of its appellate or revisional powers.

Jurisdiction.

25. Offences punishable under this Act shall be triable, in the Presidency-towns, by a Presidency Magistrate, and elsewhere by a Magistrate of the first class, or by a Magistrate of the second class who has been specially empowered by the Central Government in this behalf.

Power of entry and search.

26. (1) The Central Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette, authorize any officer by name or by virtue of office to enter and search any place where he has reason to believe that any petroleum is being imported, transported, stored, produced, refined or blended otherwise than in accordance with the provisions of this Act and the rules made thereunder, and to seize, detain or remove any or all of the petroleum in respect of which in his opinion an offence under this Act has been committed.

(2) The provisions of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898, relating to searches shall, so far as they are applicable, apply to searches by officers authorized under this section.

(3) The Central Government may make rules regulating the procedure of authorized officers in the exercise of their powers under this section subject, however, to the provisions of sub-section (2).

Reports of accidents with petroleum.

27. Where any accident by explosion or fire, which is attended with loss of human life or serious injury to person or property, occurs as the result of the ignition of petroleum or petroleum vapour, or occurs in or near any place where petroleum is kept and under circumstances making it likely that it was the result of such ignition, the person for the time being in charge of the petroleum shall forthwith give information to the nearest Magistrate or to the officer in charge of the nearest police station.

Inquiries into serious accidents with petroleum.

28. (1) The inquiry mentioned in section 176 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898, shall, [1][unless section 8 of the Coroner's Act, 1871, is applicable to the circumstances], be held in all cases where any person has been killed by an accident which the Magistrate has reason to believe was the result of the ignition of petroleum or petroleum vapour.

(2) Any Magistrate empowered to hold an inquest may also hold an inquiry under the said section into the cause of any accident which he has reason to believe was the result of the ignition of petroleum or petroleum vapour, if such accident was attended by serious injury to person or property, notwithstanding that no person was killed thereby.

(3) For the purposes of [1][sub-section (2)] a Commissioner of Police in a Presidency-town [2][* * *] shall be deemed to be a Magistrate empowered to hold an inquest.

(4) The result of all inquiries held in pursuance of this section [1][and of any inquiry held by a coroner in a case to which sub-section (1) refers] shall be submitted as soon as may be to the [3][Central Government [1][the Chief Inspector of Explosives in India] and the Provincial Government].

CHAPTER IV.

SUPPLEMENTAL.

Provisions relating to rules.

29. (1) In making any rules under this Act, the Central Government may—

(a) provide for any matter ancillary to such rules for which in its opinion provision is necessary to protect the public from danger arising from the import, transport, storage, production, refining or blending of petroleum, and (b) make special provision for the special circumstances of any province or place.

(2) Every power to make rules conferred by this Act is subject to the condition of previous publication.

(3) All rules made under this Act shall be published in the Official Gazette [1][* * *].

Power to apply Act to other substances.

30. (1) The Central Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette, apply any or all of the provisions of this Act, and of the rules made thereunder with such modifications as it may specify, to any dangerously inflammable substance, other than an explosive, and thereupon the provisions so applied shall have effect as if such substance had been included in the definition of petroleum.

(2) The Central Government may make rules providing specially for the testing of any substance to which any of the provisions of this Act have been applied by notification under sub-section (1), and such rules may supplement any of the provisions of Chapter II in order to adapt them to the special needs of such tests.

Power to limit powers of local authorities over petroleum.

31. Where any enactment confers powers upon any local authority in respect of the transport or storage of petroleum, the Central Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette,—

(a) limit the operation of such enactment, or

(b) restrict the exercise of such powers, in any manner [2][it] deems fit.

Short title and extent.

1. (1) This Act may be called THE POISONS ACT, 1919.

(2) It extends to the whole of British India, including British Baluchistan and the Sonthal Parganas.

Power of the Provincial Government to regulate possession for sale and sale of any poison.

2. (1) [1][ ] The Provincial Government may by rule[2] regulate within the whole or any part of the territories under its administration the possession for sale and the sale, whether wholesale or retail, of any specified poison.

(2) In particular, and without prejudice to the generality of the foregoing power, such rules may provide for—

(a) the grant of licences to possess any specified poison for sale, wholesale or retail, and the fixing of the fee (if any) to be charged for such licences;

(b) the classes of persons to whom alone such licences may be granted;

(c) the classes of persons to whom alone any such poison may be sold;

(d) the maximum quantity of any such poison which may be sold to any one person;

(e) the maintenance by vendors of any such poison of registers of sales, the particulars to be entered in such registers, and the inspection of the same;

(f) the safe custody of such poisons and the labelling of the vessels, packages or coverings in which any such poison is sold or possessed for sale; and (g) the inspection and examination of any such poison when possessed for sale by any such vendor.

Power to prohibit importation into British India of any poison except under licence.

3. The Central Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette, prohibit, except under and in accordance with the conditions of a licence, the importation into British India [3][across any customs frontier defined by the Central Government] of any specified poison, and may by rule regulate the grant of licences.

Power to regulate possession of any poison in certain areas.

4. (1) The Provincial Government[1][ ] may by rule regulate the possession of any specified poison in any local area in which the use of such poison for the purpose of committing murder or mischief by poisoning cattle appears to it to be of such frequent occurrence as to render restrictions on the possession thereof desirable.

(2) In making any rule under sub-section (1), the Provincial Government may direct that any breach thereof shall be punishable with imprisonment for a term which may extend to one year, or with fine which may extend to one thousand rupees, or with both, together with confiscation of the poison in respect of which the breach has been committed, and of the vessels, packages or coverings in which the same is found.

Presumption as to specified poisons.

5. Any substance specified as a poison in a rule made or notification issued under this Act shall be deemed to be a poison for the purposes of this Act.

Penalty for unlawful importation, etc.

6. (1) Whoever—

(a) commits a breach of any rule made under section 2, or

(b) imports [1][* *] without a licence [2][into British India across a customs frontier defined by the Central Government] any poison the importation of which is for the time being restricted under section 3, or

(c) breaks any condition of a licence for the importation of any poison granted to him under section 3, shall be punishable,—

(i) on a first conviction, with imprisonment for a term which may extend to three months, or with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees, or with both, and

(ii) on a second or subsequent conviction, with imprisonment for a term which may extend to six months, or with fine which may extend to one thousand rupees, or with both.

(2) Any poison in respect of whic han offence has been committed under this section, together with the vessels, packages or coverings in which the same is found, shall be liable to confiscation.

Power to issue search warrants.

7. (1) The District Magistrate, the Sub-Divisional Magistrate and, in a Presidency-town, the Commissioner of Police, may issue a warrant for the search of any place in which he has reason to believe or to suspect that any poison is possessed or sold in contravention of this Act or any rule thereunder, or that any poison liable to confiscation under this Act is kept or concealed.

(2) The person to whom the warrant is directed may enter and search the place in accordance therewith, and the provisions of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898, relating to search-warrants shall, as far as may be, be deemed to apply to the execution of the warrant.

Rules.

8. (1) In addition to any other power to make rules hereinbefore conferred [3][* *], the Provincial Government may make rules generally to carry out the purposes and objects of this Act [2][except section 3].

(2) Every power to make rules conferred by this Act shall be subject to the condition of the rules being made after previous publication.

(3) All rules made by the Central Government or by the Provincial Government under this Act shall be published in the Official Gazette, and on such publication shall have effect as if enacted in this Act.

Savings.

9. (1) Nothing in this Act or in any licence granted or rule made thereunder shall extend to, or interfere with, anything done in good faith in the exercise of his profession as such by a medical or veterinary practitioner.

(2) Notwithstanding anything hereinbefore contained, the Provincial Government may [4][* *] by general or special order declare that all or any of the provisions of this Act [2][except section 3] shall be deemed not to apply to any article or class of articles of commerce specified in such order, or to any poison or class of poisons used for any purpose so specified.

THE INDIAN PORTS ACT (XV OF 1908),

[18*th December,* 1908.

An Act to consolidate the Enactments relating to Ports and Port-charges.

WHEREAS it is expedient to consolidate the enactments relating to Ports and Port-charges; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

CHAPTER I.

PRELIMINARY.

Title and extent.

1. (1) This Act may be called THE INDIAN PORTS ACT, 1908.

(2) it shall extend, save as otherwise appears from its subject or context,—

(a) to the ports mentioned in the first schedule, and to such parts of the navigable rivers and channels leading to such ports respectively as have been declared to be subject to Act XXII of 1855 (for the Regulation of Ports and Port-dues) or to the Indian Ports Act, 1875, or to the Indian Ports Act, 1889;

(b) to the other ports or parts of navigable rivers or channels to which the [1][*] Government, in exercise of the power hereinafter conferred, extends this Act.

LEG. REF. A.O., 1937.

[1] The word "Local" has been omitted by

(3) But nothing in section 31 or section 32 shall apply to any port, river or channel to which the section has not been specially extended by the [1][* *] Government.

Savings.

2. Nothing in this Act shall—

(i) apply to any vessel belonging to, or in the service of, His Majesty [2][* *] or to any vessel of war belonging to any Foreign Prince or State, or

(ii) deprive any person of any right of property or other private right, except as hereinafter expressly provided, or

(iii) affect any law or rule relating to the customs or any order or direction lawfully made or given pursuant thereto.

Definitions.

3. In this Act, unless there is anything repugnant in the subject or context,—

(1) "Magistrate" means a person exercising powers under the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898, not less than those of a Magistrate of the second class, and includes, in the towns of Calcutta, Madras and Bombay, a Presidency Magistrate:

(2) "master", when used in relation to any vessel, means, subject to the provisions of any other enactment for the time being in force, any person (except a pilot or harbour master) having for the time being the charge or control of the vessel:

(3) "pilot" means a person for the time being authorized by the [1][* *] Government to pilot vessels:

(4) "port" includes also any part of a river or channel in which this Act is for the time being in force:

(5) "port-officer" is synonymous with master-attendant:

(6) "ton" means a ton as determined or determinable by the rules for the time being in force for regulating the measurement of the net tonnage of British ships: and

(7) "vessel" includes anything made for the conveyance by water of human beings or of property:

[3][(8) 'Major port' means any port which the Central Government may by notification in the Official Gazette declare, or may under any law for the time being in force have declared, to be a major port:

(9) 'Government,' as respects major ports, for all purposes, and, as respects other ports, for the purposes of making rules under clause (p) of section 6 (1) and of the appointment and control of port health-officers under section 17, means the Central Government, and save as aforesaid, means the Provincial Government.]

CHAPTER II.

POWERS OF THE [1][* *] GOVERNMENT.

Power to extend or withdraw the Act or certain portions thereof.

4. (1) [4][* * * ] The [1][ *] Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette,—

(a) extend this Act to any port in which this Act is not in force or to any part of any navigable river or channel which leads to port and in which this Act is not in force;

(b) specially extend the provisions of section 31 or section 32 to any port to which they have not been so extended;

LEG. REF.

[1] Omitted by A.O., 1937.

[2] Words "or the Government of India" omitted by A.O., 1937.

[3] Added by A.O., 1937.

[4] The words "With the previous sanction of the Governor-General in Council" were omitted by sec. 2 of the Indian Ports (Amendment) Act, 1916 (VI of 1916).

(c) [1]withdraw this Act or section 31 or section 32 from any port or any part thereof in which it is for the time being in force.

(2) A notification under clause (a) or clause (b) of sub-section (1) shall define the limits of the area to which it refers.

(3) Limits defined under sub-section (2) may include any piers, jetties, landing-places, wharves, quays, docks and other works made on behalf of the public for convenience of traffic, for safety of vessels, or for the improvement, maintenance or good government of the port and its approaches, whether within or without high-water-mark, and, subject to any rights of private property therein, any portion of the shore or bank within fifty yards of high-water-mark.

(4) In sub-section (3) the expression "high-water-mark" means the highest point reached by ordinary spring tides at any season of the year.

Alteration of limits of ports.

5. (1) The [2][* ] Government may, [3][ * *] subject to any rights of private property, alter the limits of any port in which this Act is in force.

(2) When the [2][*] Government alters the limits of a port under sub-section (1), it shall declare or describe, by notification in the Official Gazette, and by such other means, if any, as it thinks fit, the precise extent of such limits.

Power to make port-rules.

6. (1) The [2][* *] Government may, in addition to any [4]rules which it may make under any other enactment for the time being in force, make such rules, consistent with this Act, as it thinks necessary for any of the following purposes, namely:—

5 for regulating the time and hours at and during which, the speed at which, and the manner and conditions in and on which, vessels generally or vessels of any class defined in the rules, may enter, leave or be moved in any port subject to this Act;

(b) for regulating the berths, stations and anchorages to be occupied by vessels in any such port;

(c) for striking the yards and top masts, and for rigging-in the booms and yards, of vessels in any such port, and for swinging or taking in davits, boats and other thinks projecting from such vessels;

(d) for the removal or proper hanging or placing of anchors, spars and other things being in or attached to vessels in any such port;

(e) for regulating vessels whilst taking in or discharging passengers, ballast or cargo, or any particular kind of cargo, in any such port, and the stations to be occupied by vessels whilst so engaged;

[6][(ee) for regulating the manner in which oil or water mixed with oil shall be discharged in any such port and for the disposal of the same;]

[7][(eee) for regulating the bunkering of vessels with liquid fuel in any such port and the description of barges, pipe lines or tank vehicles to be employed in such bunkering;]

(3) If any person disobeys any rule made under clause (p) of sub-section (1), he shall be punishable for every such offence with fine which may extend to one thousand rupees.

(4) If a master fails wholly or in part to do any act prescribed by any rule made under clause (p) of sub-section (1), the health-officer shall cause such act to be done, and the reasonable expenses incurred in doing such act shall be recoverable by him from such master.

CHAPTER III.

PORT-OFFICIALS AND THEIR POWERS AND DUTIES.

Appointment of conservator.

7. (1) The [2][* *] Government shall appoint some officer or body of persons to be conservator of every port subject to this Act.

(2) Subject to any direction by the [2][* *] Government to the contrary,—

(a) in ports where there is a port-officer, the port-officer shall be the conservator;

(b) in ports where there is no port-officer, but where there is a harbour-master, the harbour-master shall be the conservator.

LEG. REF.

[1] Omitted by Act XXVI of 1938.

[2] The word "Local" omitted by A.O., 1937.

(3) Where the harbour-master is not conservator, the harbour-master and his assistants shall be subordinate to, and subject to the control of, the conservator.

(4) The conservator shall be subject to the control of the [1][* *] Government, or of any intermediate authority which [2][the] Government may appoint.

Power of conservator to give and enforce directions for certain specified purposes.

8. (1) The conservator of any port subject to this Act may, with respect to any vessel within the port, give directions for carrying into effect any rule for the time being in force therein under section 6.

(2) If any person wilfully and without lawful excuse refuses or neglects to obey any lawful direction of the conservator, after notice thereof has been given to him, he shall, for every such offence, be punishable with fine which may extend to one hunderd rupees, and in the case of a continuing offence with a further fine which may extend to one hundred rupees for every day during which, after such notice as aforesaid, he is proved to have wilfully and without lawful excuse continued to disobey the direction.

(3) In case of such refusal or neglect, the conservator may do, or cause to be done, all acts necessary for the purpose of carrying the direction into execution, and may hire and employ proper persons for that purpose, and all reasonable expenses incurred in doing such acts shall be recoverable by him from the person so refusing or neglecting to obey the direction.

Power to cut warps and ropes.

9. The conservator of any such port may, in case of urgent necessity, cut, or cause to be cut, any warp, rope, cable or hawser endangering the safety of any vessel in the port or at or near to the entrance thereof.

Removal of obstructions within limits of port.

10 (1) The conservator may remove, or cause to be removed, any timber, raft or other thing, floating or being in any part of any such port, which in his opinion obstructs or impedes the free navigation thereof or the lawful use of any pier, jetty, landing-place, wharf, quay, dock, mooring or other work on any part of the shore or bank which has been declared to be within the limits of the port and is not private property.

(2) The owner of any such timber, raft or other thing shall be liable to pay the reasonable expenses of the removal thereof, and if such owner or any other person has without lawful excuse caused any such obstruction or impediment, or causes any public nuisance affecting or likely to affect such free navigation or lawful use, he shall also be punishable with fine which may extend to one hundred rupees.

(3) The conservator or any Magistrate having jurisdiction over the offence may cause any such nuisance to be abated.

Recovery of expenses of removal.

11. If the owner of any such timber, raft or other thing, or the person who has caused any such obstruction, impediment or public nuisance as is mentioned in the last foregoing section, neglects to pay the reasonable expenses incurred in the removal thereof, within one week after demand, or within fourteen days after such removal has been notified in the Official Gazette or in such other manner as the [1][* *] Government by general or special order directs, the conservator may cause such timber, raft or other thing, or the materials of any and may retain all the expenses of such removal and sale out of the proceeds of the sale, and shall pay the surplus of such proceeds, or deliver so much of the thing or materials as may remain unsold, to the person entitled to receive the same;

and, if no such person appears, shall cause the same to be kept and deposited in such manner as the [1][ ] Government directs;

and may, if necessary, from time to time, realize the expenses of keeping the same, together with the expenses of sale, by a further sale of so much of the thing or materials as may remain unsold.

Removal of lawful obstructions.

12. (1) If any obstruction or impediment to the navigation of any port subject to this Act has been lawfully made, or has become lawful by reason of the long continuance of such obstruction or impediment, or otherwise the conservator shall report the same for the information of the [1][ ] Government, and shall, with the sanction of [2][the] Government, cause the same to be removed or altered, making reasonable compensation to the person suffering damage by such removal or alteration.

(2) Any dispute arising concerning such compensation shall be determined according to the law relating to like disputes in the case of land required for public purposes.

Fouling of Government moorings.

13. (1) If any vessel hooks or gets foul of any of the buoys or moorings laid down by or by the authority of the [1][ ] Government in any such port, the master of such vessel shall not, nor shall any other person, except in case of emergency, lift the buoy or mooring for the purpose of unhooking or getting clear from the same without the assistance of the conservator; and the conservator, immediately on receiving notice of such accident, shall assist and superintend the clearing of such vessel; and the master of such vessel shall, upon demand, pay such reasonable expenses as may be incurred in clearing the same.

(2) Any master or other person offending against the provisions of this section shall, for every such offence, be punishable with fine which may extend to one hundred rupees.

Raising or removal of wreck impeding navigation within limits of port.

14. (1) If any vessel is wrecked, stranded or sunk in any such port so as to impede, or be likely to impede, the navigation thereof, the conservator may cause the vessel to be raised, removed or destroyed.

(2) If any property recovered by a conservator acting under sub-section (1) is unclaimed or the person claiming it fails to pay the reasonable expenses incurred by the conservator under that sub-section and a further sum of twenty per cent. of the amount of such expenses, the conservator may sell the property by public auction, if the property is of a perishable nature, forthwith, and, if it is not of a perishable nature, at any time not less than six months after the recovery thereof.

(3) The expenses and further sum aforesaid shall be payable to the conservator out of the sale-proceeds of the property, and the balance shall be paid to the person entitled to the property recovered, or, if no such person appears and claims the balance, shall be held in deposit for payment, without interest, to any person thereafter establishing his right thereto:

Provided that the person makes his claim within three years from the date of the sale.

Power to board vessels and enter buildings.

15. (1) The conservator or any of his assistants may, whenever he suspects that any offence against this Act has been, or is about to be, committed, or whenever it is necessary for him so to do in the performance of any duty imposed upon him by this Act, and the person appointed under this Act to receive any port-dues, fees or other charges, payable in respect of any vessel, may, whenever it is necessary for him so to do in the performance of any duty imposed upon him by this Act, either alone or with any other person, board any vessel, or enter any building or place, within the limits of any port subject to this Act.

(2) If the master of the vessel, or any person in possession or occupation of the building or place, without lawful excuse, refuses to allow any such perosn as is mentioned in sub-section (1) to board or enter such vessel, building or place in the performance of any duty imposed upon him by this Act, he shall for every such offence be punishable with fine which may extend to two hundred rupees.

Power to require crews to prevent or extinguish fire.

16. (1) For the purpose of preventing or extinguishing fire in any port subject to this Act, the conservator or port-officer may require the master of any vessel within the port to place at his disposal such number as he requires, not exceeding three-fourths, of the crew then under the orders of such master.

(2) Any master refusing or neglecting to comply with such requisition shall be punishable with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees, and any seaman then under his orders who, after being directed by the master to obey the orders of the conservator or port-officer for the purpose aforesaid, refuses to obey such orders, shall be punishable with fine which may extend to twenty-five rupees.

Appointment and powers of health-officer.

17. (1) The [1][* *] Government may appoint at any port subject to this Act an officer to be called the health-officer.

(2) A health-officer shall, subject to the control of the [1][* *] Government, have the following powers, within the limits of the port for which he is appointed, namely:—

(a) with respect to any vessel, the powers conferred on a shipping-master by the Indian Merchant Shipping Act, 1859,[2] section 71;

(b) power to enter on board any vessel and medically examine all or any of the seamen or apprentices on board the vessel;

(c) power to require and enforce the production of the log-book and any other books, papers or documents which he thinks necessary for the purpose of enquiring into the health and medical condition of the person on board the vessel;

(d) power to call before him and question for any such purpose all or any of those persons and to require true answers to any questions which he thinks fit to ask;

(e) power to require any person so questioned to make and subscribe a declaration of the truth of the statements made by him.

Indemnity of Government against act or default of port official or pilot.

18. The Government shall not be responsible for any act or default of any conservator, port- officer or harbour-master, of any port subject to this Act, or of any deputy or assistant of any of the authorities aforesaid, or of any person acting under the control or direction of any such

Provided that nothing in this section shall protect the [1][Crown] from a suit in respect of any act done by or under the express order or sanction of the Government.

CHAPTER IV.

RULES FOR THE SAFETY OF SHIPPING AND THE CONSERVATION OF PORTS.

General Rules.

Injuring buoys, beacons and moorings.

19. (1) No person shall, without lawful excuse lift, injure, loosen or set adrift any buoy, beacon or mooring fixed or laid down by, or by the authority of, the [2][*] Government in any port subject to this Act.

(2) If any person offends against the provisions of this section, he shall for every such offence be liable, in addition to the payment of the amount of damage done, to fine which may extend to two thousand rupees, or to imprisonment for a term which may extend to two years.

Wilfully loosening vesse from moorings.

20. If any person wilfully and without lawful excuse loosens or removes from her moorings any vesssl within any such port without leave or authority from the owner or master of the vessel, he shall, for every such offence, be punishable with fine which may extend to two hundred rupees, or with imprisonment for a term which may extend to six months.

Improperly discharging ballast.

21. (1) No ballast or rubbish, and no other thing likely to form a bank or shoal or to be detrimental to navigation, shall, without lawful excuse, be cast or thrown into any such port or into or upon any place on shore from which the same is liable to be washed into any such port, either by ordinary or high tides, or by storms or land-floods [3][and no oil or water mixed with oil shall be discharged in or into any such port, to which any rules made under clause (ee) of sub-section (1) of section 6 apply otherwise than in accordance with such rules.]

(2) Any person who by himself or another so casts or throws any ballast or rubbish or any such other thing [3][or so discharges any oil or water mixed with oil], and the master of any vessel from which the same is so cast, [4][thrown or discharged], shall be punishable with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees, and shall pay any reasonable expenses which may be incurred in removing the same.

(3) If, after receiving notice from the conservator of the port to desist from so casting or throwing any ballast or rubbish or such other thing [3][or from so discharging any oil or water mixed with oil], any master continues so to cast, [5][throw or discharge the same], he shall also be liable to simple imprisonment for a term which may extend to two months.

(4) Nothing in this section applies to any case in which the ballast or rubbish or such other thing is cast or thrown into [6][or the oil or water mixed with oil is discharged in or into] any such port with the consent in writing of the

The [1][* *] Government may [2][after consulting the authority appointed under section 36] exempt, [3][subject to such conditions, if any, as it thinks fit to impose, any vessel or class of vessels] entering a port subject to this Act from payment of port-dues and cancel the exemption, or may vary the rates at which port-dues are to be levied in the port, in such manner as having regard to the receipts and charges on account of the port, it thinks expedient by reducing or raising the dues, or any of them [2][or may extend the periods for which any vessel or class of vessels entering a port shall be exempt from liability to pay port-dues]:

Provided that the rates shall not in any case exceed the amount authorized to be taken by or under this Act.

Fees for pilotage and certain other services

35. (1) Within any port subject to this Act, fees may be charged for pilotage, hauling, mooring, re-mooring, hooking, measuring and other services rendered to vessels, at such rates as the [1][*] Government may direct.

[4][* * * * * *].

(2) The fees now chargeable for such services shall continue to be charegable unless and until they are altered in exercise of the power conferrd by sub-section (1).

Receipt, expenditure and account of port charges.

36. (1) The [1][] Government shall appoint some officer or body of persons at every port at which any dues, fees or other charges are authorised to be taken by or under this Act to receive the same and, subject to the control of the [1][] Government, to expend the receipts on any of the objects authorized by this Act.

(2) Such officer or body shall keep for the port a distinct account, to be called the port fund account, showing, in such detail as the [1][*] Government prescribes, the receipts and expenditure of the port, and shall publish annually as soon after the first day of April, as may be practicable an abstract, in such form as [5][the] Government prescribes, of the account for the past financial year.

[6][* * * * * *]

(4) All money received under this Act at or on account of any port subject to this Act, excluding receipts on account of pilotage but including—

SEC. 36.—PORT OFFICER DISMISSING CLERK —IF ACTS ON BEHALF OF SECRETARY OF STATE.—The Port Officer, in his capacity as officer in charge of the Port office and the clerks employed in the Port office, is not a man appointed under a certain Act to carry out the provisions of that Act, but is the agent or servant of the Local Government appointed by the Local Government to carry out the duties prescribed in S. 36 of the Indian Ports Act. All his actions under S. 36 must be attributed to him as a Governmeat servant and not as a private individual. and his action as a Government servant must be regarded as being actions performed on behalf of the Secretary of State. Where therefore a Port officer employs a clerk and subsequently dismisses him, he must be regarded as having acted for the Secretary of State. 12 R. 556=1934 R. 381.

to the balance has been established on a claim made within three years from the date of the sale, shall be credited in the port fund account of the port.

(5) All expenses incurred for the sake of any such port, excluding expenses on account of pilotage but including—

(a) the pay and allowances of all persons upon the establishment of the port,

(b) the costs of buoys, beacons, lights and all other works maintained chiefly for the benefit of vessels being in or entering or leaving the port or passing through the rivers or channels leading thereto,

(c) pensions, allowances and gratuities of persons who have been employed in the port under this or any other enactment relating to ports and port-dues or such portion of those pensions, allowances and gratuities as the [1][*], Government may by rule determine,

(d) with the previous sanction of the [1][*] Government, contributions towards the support of public hospitals or dispensaries suitable for the reception or relief of seaman or otherwise towards the provision of sanitary superintendence and medical aid for the shipping in the port and for seamen whether ashore or afloat belonging to vessels in the port, and

(e) with the like sanction, contributions towards sailors' homes, institutes, rest-houses and coffee-houses and for other purposes connected with the health, recreation and temporal well-being of sailors, shall be charged to the port fund account of the port,

(6) Subject to the provisions of any local law as to the disposal of any balance from time to time standing to the credit of a port fund account, any such balance may be temporarily invested in such manner as the [1][*] Government may direct.

Grouping of ports.

37. (1) The Provincial Government may direct that for the purposes of the last foregoing section any number of ports [2][in the Province not being major ports] shall be regarded as constituting a single port, and thereupon all moneys to be credited to the port fund account under sub-section (4) of that section shall form a common port fund account which shall be available for the payment of all expenses incurred for the sake of any of the ports:

[3][* * * * * * *].

(2) Where ports are grouped by or under this Act, the following consequences ensue, namely:—

(a) the Provincial Government, in the exercise of its control over expenditure debitable to the common port fund account of the group, may [4][], make rules with respect to the expenditure of the fund for the sake of the several ports of the group on the objects authorized by this Act [5][]; and

(b) the Provincial Government may exercise its authority under section 34 as regards all the ports in the group collectively or as regards any of them separately.

Receipts for port-charges.

38. The person to whom any dues, fees or other charges authorized to be taken by or under this Act are paid shall grant to the person paying the same a proper voucher in writing under his hand, describing the name of his office, the port or place at which the dues, fees or other charges are paid, and the name, tonnage and other proper description of the vessel in respect of which the payment is made.

Master to report arrival.

39. (1) Within twenty-four hours after the arrival with the limits of any port subject to this Act of any vessel liable to the payment of port-dues under this Act the master of the vessel shall report her arrival to the conservator of the port.

(2) A master failing without lawful excuse to make such report within the time aforesaid shall for every such offence be punishable with fine which may extend to one hundred rupees.

(3) Nothing in this section applies to tug-steamers, ferry-steamers or river steamers plying to and from any of the ports subject to this Act or to ballam boats plying to and from the port of Chittagong.

Conservator may in certain cases ascertain draught and charge expense to master.

40. If any vessel liable to the payment of port-dues is in any such port without proper marks on the stem and stern posts thereof for denoting her draught, the conservator may cause the same to be ascertained by means of the operating of hooking, and the master of the vessel shall be liabel to pay the expenses of the operation

Ascertainment of tonnage of vessel liable to port-dues.

41. In order to ascertain the tonnage of any vessel liable to pay port-dues the following rules shall be observed, namely:—

(1) (a) If the vessel is a British registered vessel or a vessel registered under the Indian Registration of Ships Act, 1841, or the Indian Registration of Ships Act (1841) Amendment Act, 1850, or under any other law for the time being in force for the registration of vessels in British India, the conservator may require the owner or master of the vessel or any person having possession of her register to produce the register for inspection.

(b) If the owner or master or such person neglects or refuses to produce the register or otherwise to satisfy the conservator as to what is the true tonnage of the vessel in respect of which the port-dues are payable, he shall be punishable with fine which may extend to one hundred rupees, and the conservator may cause the vessel to be measured, and the tonnage thereof to be, ascertained, according to the mode of measurement prescribed by the rules for the time being in force for regulating the measurement of British vessels, and in such case the owner or master of the vessel shall also be liable to pay the expenses of the measurement.

(2) If the vessel is not a British registered vessel or a vessel registered under the Indian Registration of Ships Act, 1841, or the Indian Registration of Ships Act (1841) Amendment Act (1850) or under any other law for the time being in force for the registration of vessels in British India, and the owner or master thereof fails to satisfy the conservator as to what is her true tonnage according to the mode of measurement prescribed by the rules for the time being in force for regulating the measurement of British vessels, the conservator shall cause the vessel to be measured and the tonnage thereof to be ascertained, according to the mode aforesaid, and in such case the owner or master of the vessel shall be liable to pay the expenses of the measurement.

(3) If the vessel is a vessel of which the tonnage cannot be ascertained, according to the mode of measurement mentioned in clauses (1) and (2), the tonnage of the vessel shall be determined by the conservator on such an estimate as may seem to him to be just.

Distraint and sale on refusal to pay port charges.

42. If the master of any vessel in respect of which any port-dues, fees or other charges are payable under this Act, refuses or neglects to pay the same on demand, the authority appointed to receive such port-dues, fees or other charges may distrain or arrest the vessel, and the tackle, apparel and furniture belonging thereto, or any part thereof, and detain the same until the amount due is paid:

and in case any part of the port-dues, fees or other charges or of the costs of the distress or arrest or of the keeping of the vessel or other thing distrained or arrested remains unpaid for the space of five days next after any such distress or arrest, may cause the vessel or other thing distrained or arrested to be sold, and wtih the proceeds of such sale may satisfy the port-dues, fees or other charges and the costs including the costs of sale remaining unpaid, and shall render the surplus, if any, to the master of the vessel upon demand.

No port-clearance to be granted until por-charges are paid.

43. The officer of [1][the Crown] whose duty it is to grant a port-clearance for any vessel shall not grant such clearance—

(a) until her owner or master, or some other person, has paid or secured to the satisfaction of such officer the amount of all port-dues, fees and other charges. and of all fines, penalties and expenses to which the vessel or her owner or master is liable under this Act;

(b) until all expenses, which by the [2]Merchant Shiping Act, 1894, section 207, are to be borne by her owner, incurred since her arrival in the port from which he seeks clearance, have been paid.

Port-charges payable in one port recoverable at any other port.

44. (1) If the maser of any vessel in respect of which any such sum as is mentioned in the last foregoing section is pavable causes her to leave any port without having paid the sum, the authority appointed to receive port-dues, fees and other charges at the port under this Act may require in writing the authority appointed to receive port-dues, fees and other charges under this Act at any other port in British India to which she may proceed. or in which she may be, to levy the sum.

(2) The authority to whom the requisition is directed shall proceed to levy such sum in the manner prescribed in section 42, and a certificate purporting to be made by the authority appointed to receive port-dues, fees and other charges at the port where such sum as is mentioned in the last foregoing section became payable, stating the amount payable, shall be sufficient prima facie proof of such amount in any proceeding under section 42 and also (in case the amount payable is disputed) in any subsequent proceeding under section 59.

Penalty for evading payment of port-chares.

45. (1) If the master of a vessel evades the payment of any such sum as is mentioned in section 43, he shall be punishable with fine which may extend to five times the amount of the sum.

(2) In any proceeding before a Magistrate on a prosecution under sub-section (1), any such certificate as is mentioned in section 44, sub-section (2), stating that the master has evaded such payment, shall be sufficient prima facie proof of the evasion, unless the master shows to the satisfaction of the Magistrate that the departure of the vessel without payment of the sum was caused by stress of of weather, or that there was lawful or reasonable ground for such departure.

(3) Any Magistrate having jurisdiction under this Act in any port to which the vessel may proceed, or in which she may be found, shall be deemed to have jurisdiction in any proceeding under this section.

Port-due on vessels in ballast.

46. A vessel entering any port subject to this Act [3][* * ] in ballast and not carrying passengers shall be charged with a port-due at a rate to be determined by the [4][] Government and not exceeding three-fourths of the rate with which she would otherwise be chargeable.

Port-due on vessels not discharging or taking in cargo.

47. When a vessel enters a port subject to this Act, but does not discharge or take in any cargo or passengers therein (with the exception of such unshipment and reshipment as may be necessary for purposes of repair), she shall be charged with a port-due at a rate to be determined by the [1][*] Government and not exceeding half the rate with which she would otherwise be chargeable.

Port-due not to be chargeable in certain cases.

48. No port-due shall be chargeable in respect of—

(a) any pleasure-yacht, or

(b) any vessel which, having left any port, is compelled to re-enter it by stress of weather or in consequence of having sustained any damage, or

(c) any vessel which, having entered any port within the territories administered by the Governor of Fort Saint George in Council, leaves it within forty-eight hours without discharging or taking in any passengers or cargo.

Power to impose hospital port-dues.

49. (1) The [2][Central Government] may, by notification in the Official Gazette, order that there shall be paid in respect of every vessel entering any port subject to this Act, within a reasonable distance of which there is a public hospital or dispensary suitable for the reception or relief of seamen requiring medical aid, such further port-dues not exceeding one anna per ton as the [2][Central Government] thinks fit.

(2) Such port-dues shall be called hospital port-dues, and the [2][Central Government] shall, in making any order under sub-section (1), have regard to any contributions made under section 36, sub-section (5), clause (d).

(3) An order imposing or increasing hospital port-dues shall not take effect till the expiration of sixty days from the day on which the order was published in the Official Gazette.

(4) Whenever the [2][Central Government] is satisfied that proper provision has been made by the owners or agents of any class of vessels for giving medical aid to the seamen employed on board such class of vessels, or that such provision is unnecessary in the case of any class of vessels, it may, by notification in the Official Gazette, exempt such class of vessels from any payment under this section.

Application and account of hospital port-dues.

50. (1) Hospital port-dues shall be applied, as the [2][Central Government] may direct, to the support of any such hospital or dispensary as aforesaid, or otherwise for providing sanitary superintendence and medical aid for the shipping in the port in which they are levied and for the seamen belonging to the vessels therein, whether such seamen are ashore or afloat.

(2) The [2][Central Government] shall publish annually in the Official Gazette, as soon after the first day of April as may be, an account, for the past

(3) Such account shall be published as a supplement to the abstract published under section 36, sub-section (2).

CHAPTER VI.

HOISTING SIGNALS.

Master to hoist number of vessel.

51. (1) The master of every inward or outward bound vessel, on arriving within signal distance of any signal-station established within the limits of the river Hooghly, or within the limits of any part of a river or channel leading to a port subject to this Act, shall, on the requisition of the pilot in charge of the vessel, signify the name of the vessel by hoisting the number by which she is known, or by adopting such other means to this end as may be practicable and usual, and shall keep the signal flying until it is answered from the signal-station.

(2) If the master of a vessel arriving as aforesaid offends against sub-section (1), he shall be punishable for every such offence with fine which may extend to one thousand rupees.

Pilot to require master to hoist number.

52. (1) Every pilot in charge of a vessel shall require the number of the vessel to be duly signalled as provided by the last foregoing section.

(2) When, on such requisition from the pilot, the master refuses to hoist the number of a vessel, or to adopt such other means of making her name known as may be practicable and usual, the pilot may, on arrival at the first place of safe anchorage, anchor the vessel and refuse to proceed on his course until the requisition has ben complied with.

Penalty on pilot disobeying provisions of this Chapter.

53. Any pilot in charge of a vessel who disobeys, or abets disobedience to, any of the provisions of this Chapter, shall be punishable with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees for each instance of such disobedience or abetment, and, in addition, shall be liable to have his authority to act as a pilot withdrawn.

CHAPTER VII.

PROVISIONS WITH RESPECT TO PENALTIES.

Penalty for disobedience to rules and orders of the Government.

54. If any person disobeys any rule or order which a [1][* *] Government has made in pursuance of this Act and for the punishment of disobedience to which express provision has not been made elsewhere in this Act, he shall be punishable for every such offence with fine which may extend to one hundred rupees.

Offences how triable, and penalties how recovered.

55. All offences against this Act shall be triable by a Magistrate, and any Magistrate may, by warrant under his hand, cause the amount of any fine imposed upon the owner or master of any vessel, for any offence committed on board of the vessel or in the management thereof or otherwise in relation thereto, whereof the owner or master is convicted, to be levied by distress and sale of the vessel, and the tackle, apparel and furniture thereof, or so much thereof as is necessary.

LEG. REF.

[1] Word 'Local' omitted by A.O., 1937.

Costs of conviction.

56. (1) In case of any conviction under this Act, the convicting Magistrate may order the offender to pay the costs of the conviction in addition to any fine or expenses to which he may be liable.

(2) Such costs may be assessed by the Magistrate and may be recovered in the same manner as any fine under this Act.

Ascertainment and recovery of expenses and damages payable under this Act.

57. (1) If any dispute arises as to the sum to be paid in any case as expenses or damages under this Act, it shall be determined by a Magistrate upon application made to him for that purpose by either of the disputing parties.

(2) Whenever any person is liable to pay any sum, not exceeding one thousand rupees, as expenses or damages under this Act, any Magistrate, upon application made to him by the authority to whom the sum is payable, may, in addition to or instead of any other means for enforcing payment, recover the sum as if it were a fine.

Cost of distress.

58. Whenever any fine, expenses or damages is or are levied under this Act by distress and sale, the cost of the distress and sale may be levied in addition to such fine, expenses or damages, and in the same manner.

Magistrate to determine the amount to be levied in case of dispute.

59. If any dispute arises concerning the amount leviable by any distress or arrest under this Act or the costs payable under the last foregoing section, the person making the distress or using the arrest may detain the goods distrained or arrested, or the proceeds of the sale thereof, until the amount to be levied has been determined by a Magistrate, who, upon application made to him for that purpose, may determine the amount, and award such costs to be paid by either of the parties to the other of them as he thinks reasonable, and payment of such costs, if not paid on demand, shall be enforced as if they were a fine.

Jurisdiction over offences beyond local limits of jurisdiction.

60. (1) Any person offending against the provisions of this Act in any port subject to this Act shall be punishable by any Magistrate having jurisdiction over any district or place adjoining the port.

(2) Such Magistrate may exercise all the powers of a Magistrate under this Act, in the same manner and to the same extent as if the offence had been committed locally within the limits of his jurisdiction, notwithstanding that the offence may not have been committed locally within such limits, and, in case any such Magistrate exercises the jurisdiction hereby vested in him, the offence shall be deemed, for all purposes, to have been committed locally within the limits of his jurisdiction.

Conviction to be quashed on merits only.

(2) No conviction, order or judgment of any Magistrate under this Act shall be quashed for error of form or procedure, but only on the merits, and it shall not be necessary to state, on the face of the conviction, order or judgment, the evidence on which it proceeds.

(2) If no jurisdiction appears on the face of the conviction, order or judgment, but the depositions taken supply that defect, the conviction, order or judgment shall be aided by what so appears in the depositions.

CHAPTER VIII.

SUPPLEMENTAL PROVISIONS.

Hoisting unlawful colours in port.

62. (1) If any vessel belonging to any of His Majesty's subjects, or sailing under British colours, hoists, carries or wears, within the limits of any port subject to this Act, any flag, jack, pennant or colours, the use whereof on board such vessel has been prohibited by the [1]Merchant Shipping Act, 1894, or any other Statute now or hereafter to be in force, or by any proclamation made or to be made in purusance of any such Statute, or by any of His Majesty's regulations in force for the time being, the master of the vessel shall, for every such offence, be punishable with fine which may extend to fifty rupees.

(2) Such fine shall be in addition to any other penalty recoverable in respect of such an offence.

(3) The conservator of the port, or any officer of His Majesty's Navy or [2][the Royal Indian Navy], may enter on board any such vessel and seize and take away any flag, jack, pennant or colours so unlawfully hoisted, carried or worn on board the same.

Foreign deserters.

63. Any Magistrate, upon an application being made to him by the Consul of any foreign Power to which section 238 of the [1]Merchant Shipping Act, 1894, has, by an Order in Council, been, or shall hereafter be, declared to be applicable, or by the representative of such Consul, and upon complaint on oath of the desertion of any seaman, not being a slave, from any vessel of such foreign Power, may, until a revocation of such Order in Council has been publicly notified, issue his warrant for the apprehension of any such deserter, and, upon due proof of the desertion, may order him to be conveyed on board the vessel to which he belongs, or, at the instance of the Consul, to be detained in custody until the vessel is ready to sail, or, if the vessel has sailed, for a reasonable time not exceeding one month:

Provided that a deposit be first made of such sum as the Magistrate deems necessary for the subsistence of the deserter during the detention and that the detention of the deserter shall not be continued beyond twelve weeks.

Application of sections 10 and 21.

64. (1) The provisions of sections 10 and 21 shall be applicable to all ports heretofore or hereafter declared by the [3][*] Government to be ports for the shipment and landing of goods but not otherwise subject to this Act, and may be enforced by any Magistrate to whose ordinary jurisdiction any such port is subject.

(2) Any penalties imposed by him, and any expenses incurred by his order, under the said provisions shall be recoverable respectively in the manner provided in sections 55 and 57.

(3) In any of the said ports for the shipment and landing of goods the consent referred to in section 21, sub-section (4), may be given by the principal officer of customs at such port or by any other officer appointed in that behalf by the [3][*] Government.

Grant of sites for sailors' institutes.

65. Any local authority in which any immovable property in or near a port is vested may, [1][with the previous sanction, in the case of a cantonment authority or the port authority of a major port, of the Central Government, and in other cases of the Provincial Government] appropriate and either retain and apply, or transfer by way of gift or otherwise, the whole or any part of the property as a site for, or for use as, a sailors' home or other institution for the health, recreation and temporal well-being of sailors.

Exercise of powers of conservator by his assistants.

66. (1) All acts, orders or directions by this Act authorized to be done or given by any conservator may, subject to his control, be done or given by any harbour-master or any deputy or assistant of such conservator or harbour-master.

(2) Any person authorised by this Act to do any act may call to his aid such assistance as may be necessary.

Service of written notices of directions.

67. Any written notice of a direction given under this Act, left for the master of any vessel with any person employed on board thereof, or affixed on a conspicuous place on board of the vessel, shall, for the purposes of this Act, be deemed to have been given to the master thereof.

Publication of orders of Government.

68. Every declaration, order and rule of a [2][*] Government made in pursuance of this Act shall be published in the Official Gazette, and a copy thereof shall be kept in the office of the conservator and at the custom-house, if any, of every port to which the declaration, order or rule relates, and shall there be open at all reasonable times to the inspection of any person without payment of any fee.

Authorities exercising jurisdiction in ports to co-operate in manoeuvres for defence of port.

[3][68-A. Every authority exercising any powers or jurisdiction in, or relating to, any port to which this Act for the time being applies shall, if so required by an officer authorised by general or special order of the Central Government in this behalf, co-operate in such manner, as such officer may direct, in carrying out any manoeuvres in connection with any scheme or preparations for the defence of the said port in time of war, and for this purpose shall, if so required, temporarily place at the disposal of such officer the services of any of its staff and the use of any of its vessels. property, equipment or other material:

Provided, firstly, that if any vessels are placed at the disposal of such officer in accordance with this section, the Central Government shall, in respect of the period during which they are so at [its] disposal, bear the running expenses of such vessels, and be responsible for any damage thereto.

Explanation.—The expression 'running expenses' in this proviso includes all outlay incurred in connection with the use of the vessels other than any charges for their hire, for the wages of the officers and crews of such vessels:

Provided, secondly, that any officer making a requisition under this section shall exercise his powers in such a way as to cause as little disturbance to the Explanations to Part II of the First Schedule.

Explanation 1.—In this Part of the schedule—

[1][(a) "ship" means a vessel propelled solely by wind power and 'steamer" any vesse other than a ship];

(b) "coasting ship" or "coasting steamer" means respectively a ship or steamer which at any port discharges cargo exclusively from, or takes in cargo exclusively for, any port in the island of Ceylon or any part of India, between the westernmost part of Sind and the south easternmost part of Burma; and "coasting steamer" includes a coasting steam-vessel having a general pass under section 164 of the Sea Customs Act, 1878;

LEG. REF. sec. 2.

1 Substituted by Act (Madras) I of 1925.

[1][(bb) in so far as the ports of Madras, Vizagapatam and Cochin are concerned "coasting ship" and "coasting steamer" mean, respectively, a ship or steamer which at the port of Madras, Vizagapatam or Cochin discharges cargo exclusively from, or takes in cargo exclusively for, any port in the island of Ceylon or any part of India and Burma, between the western most part of Sind and the south-eastern most part of Burma; and "coasting steamer" includes a coasting steam-vessel having a general pass under section 164 of the Sea Customs Act, 1878;]

(c) "foreign ship" or "foreign steamer" means respectively a ship or steamer not being a coasting ship or coasting steamer;

Provided that, for the purpose of the levy of port-dues, a vessel shall not be deemed, during one and the same voyage, to be both a coasting ship or steamer and a foreign ship or steamer, but port-dues shall, in respect of such voyage, be leviable on such vessel either as a coasting or as a foreign ship or steamer, whichever rate is the higher.

Explanation 2.—Ports enclosed in double brackets in the first column of the schedule shall be treated as if they were only one port; every vessel in respect of which such dues have been charged and taken at one of the bracketed ports being exempted from the payment of port-dues entering another port bracketed with it within the period specified in the fourth column of the schedule.

SEC. 4.—As to when a postal article is to be deemed to be "in course of transmission by post," see 1930 Lah. 460=129 I.C. 760.

(c) letters solely concerning goods or property, sent either by sea or by land to be delivered with the goods or property which the letters concern, without hire, reward or other profit or advantage for receiving, carrying or delivering them:

Provided that nothing in the section shall authorize any person to make a collection of letters excepted as aforesaid for the purpose of sending them otherwise than by post.

(2) For the purposes of this section and section 5, the expression "letters" includes postcards.

Certain persons expressly forbidden to convey letters.

5. Wherever within British India posts or postal communications are established by the Central Government, the following persons are expressly forbidden to collect, carry, tender or deliver letters, or to receive letters for the purpose of carrying or delivering them, although they obtain no hire, reward or other profit or advantage for so doing, that is to say:—

(a) common carriers of passengers or goods, and their servants or agents, except as regards letters solely concerning goods in their carts or carriages; and

(b) owners and masters of vessels sailing or passing on any river or canal in British India, or between any ports or places in British India, and their servants or agents, except as regards letters solely concerning goods on board, and except as regards postal articles received for conveyance under Chapter VIII.

Exemption from liability for loss, misdelivery, delay or damage.

6. [1][The Crown] shall not incur any liability by reason of the loss, misdelivery or delay of, or damage to, any postal article in course of transmission by post, except in so far as such liability may in express terms be undertaken by the Central Government as hereinafter provided; and no officer of the Post Office shall incur any liability by reason of any such loss, misdelivery, delay or damage, unless he has caused the same fraudulently or by his wilful act or default.

CHAPTER III.

POSTAGE.

Power to fix rates of inland postage.

7. (1) The Central Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette, fix the rates of postage and other sums to be charged in respect of postal articles sent by the inland post under this Act, and may make rules as to the scale of weights, terms and conditions subject to which the rates so fixed shall be charged:

Provided that the highest rate of postage, when prepaid, shall not exceed the rate set forth for each class of postal articles in the first schedule.

(2) Unless and until such notification as aforesaid is issued, the rates set forth in the said schedule shall be the rates chargeable under this Act.

(3) The Central Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette, declare what packets may be sent by the inland post as book, pattern and sample packets within the meaning of this Act.

Power to make rules as to payment of postage and fees in certain cases.

8. The Central Government may, by rule,—

(a) require the prepayment of postage on inland postal articles or any class of Inland postal articles, and prescribe the manner in which prepayment shall be made;

LEG. REF.

(b) prescribe the postage to be charged on inland postal articles when the postage is not prepaid or is insufficiently prepaid;

(c) provide for the redirection of postal articles and the transmission by post of articles so redirected, either free of charge or subject to such further charge as may be specified in the rules; and

(d) prescribe the fees to be charged for the "express delivery" of postal articles, in addition to, or instead of, any other postage chargeable thereon under this Act.

Explanation.—"Express delivery" means delivery by a special messenger or conveyance.

Power to make rules as to registered newspapers.

9. (1) The Central Government may make rules providing for the registration of newspapers for transmission by inland post as registered newspapers.

(2) For the purpose of such registration, every publication, consisting wholly or in great part of political or other news, or of articles relating thereto, or to other current topics, with or without advertisements, shal be deemed a newspaper, subject to the following conditions, namely:—

(a) that it is published in numbers at intervals of not more than thirty-one days; and

(b) that it has a bona fide list of subscribers.

(3) An extra or supplement to a newspaper, bearing the same date as the newspaper and transmitted therewith, shall be deemed to be part of the newspaper:

Provided that no such extra or supplement shall be so deemed unless it consists wholly or in great part of matter like that of the newspaper and has the title and date of publication of the newspaper printed at the top of each page.

Explanation.—Nothing in this secition or in the rules thereunder shall be construed to render it compulsory to send newspapers by the inland post.

Power to declare rates of foreign postage.

10. (1) Where arrangements are in force with the United Kingdom, or with any British possession or foreign country, for the transmission by post of postal articles between British India and the United Kingdom or such possession or country, the Central Government may, in conformity with the provisions of such arrangements, declare what postage rates and other sums shall be charged in respect of such postal articles, and may make rules as to the scale of weight, terms and conditions subject to which the rates so declared shall be charged.

(2) Unless and until such declaration as aforesaid is made, the existing rates and regulations shall continue in force.

Liability for payment of postage.

11. (1) The addressee of a postal article on which postage or any other sum chargeable under this Act is due, shall be bound to pay the postage or sum so chargeable on his accepting delivery of the postal article, unless he forthwith returns it unopened:

Provided that, if any such postal article appears to the satisfaction of the Postmaster-General to have been maliciously sent for the purpose of annoying the addressee, he may remit the postage.

(2) If any postal article on which postage or any other sum chargeable under this Act is due, is refused or returned as aforesaid, or if the addressee is dead or cannot be found, then the sender shall be bound to pay the postage or sum due thereon under this Act.

Recovery of postage and other sums due in respect of postal articles.

12. If any person refuses to pay any postage or other sum due from him under this Act in respect of any postal article, the sum so due may, on application made by an officer of the Post Office authorised in this behalf by the written order of the Postmaster-General, be recovered for the use of the Post Office from the person so refusing, as if it were a fine imposed under this Act by any Magistrate having jurisdiction where that person may for the time being be resident; and the Postmaster-General may further direct that any other postal article, not being on Her Majesty's Service, addressed to that person shall be withheld from him until the sum so due is paid or recovered as aforesaid.

Customs duty paid by the Post Office to be recoverable as postage.

13. When a postal article, on which any duty of customs is payable, has been received by post from any place beyond the limits of British India, and the duty has been paid by the postal authorities at any customs port or elsewhere, the amount of the duty shall be recoverable as if it were postage due under this Act.

Post Office marks prima facie evidence of certain facts denoted.

14. In every proceeding for the recovery of any postage or other sum alleged to be due under this Act in respect of a postal article,—

(a) the production of the postal article, having thereon the official mark of the Post Office denoting that the article has been refused, or that the addressee is dead or cannot be found, shall be prima facie evidence of the fact so denoted, and

(b) the person from whom the postal article purports to have come shall, until the contrary is proved, be deemed to be the sender thereof.

Official mark to be evidence of amount of postage.

15. The official mark on a postal article denoting that any postage or other sum is due in respect thereof to the Post Office of British India or to the Post Office of the United Kingdom or of any British possession or foreign country, shall be prima facie evidence that the sum denoted as aforesaid is so due.

CHAPTER IV.

POSTAGE STAMPS.

Provision of postage stamps and power to make rules as to them.

16. (1) The Central Government shall cause postage stamps to be provided of such kinds and denoting such values as [1][it] may think necessary for the purposes of this Act.

(2) The Central Government may make rules as to the supply, sale and use of postage stamps. . .

(3) In particular and without prejudice to the generality of the foregoing power, such rules may—

(a) fix the price at which postage stamps shall be sold;

(d) declare the classes of postal articles in respect of which postage stamps shall be used for the payment of postage or other sums chargeable under this Act;

(c) prescribe the conditions with regard to perforation, defacement and all other matters subject to which postage stamps may be accepted or refused in payment of postage or other sums;

(d) regulate the custody, supply and sale of postage stamps;

(e) declare the persons by whom and the terms and conditions subject to which postage stamps may be sold; and (f) prescribe the duties and remuneration of persons selling postage stamps.

LEG. REF.

[1] Substituted by A.O., 1937.

[1][17. (1)] Postage stamps provided under section 16 shall be deemed to be stamps issued by Government for the purpose of revenue within the meaning of the Indian Penal Code, and, subject to the other provisions of this Act, shall be used for the prepayment of postage or other sums chargeable under this Act in respect of postal articles, except where the Central Government directs that prepayment shall be made in some othar way.

Postage stamps to be deemed to be stamps for the purpose of revenue.

[1][(2) Where the Central Government has directed that prepayment of postage or other sums chargeable under this Act in respect of postal articles may be made by prepaying the value denoted by the impressions of stamping machines issued under [2][its] authority, the impression of any such machine shall likewise be deemed to be a stamp issued by Government for the purpose of revenue, within the meaning of the Indian Penal Code.]

CHAPTER V.

CONDITIONS OF TRANSMISSION OF POSTAL ARTICLES.

18. (1) The Central Government may, by rule, provide for the redelivery to sender, without reference to the consent of the addressee and subject to such conditions (if any), as may be deemed fit, of any postal article in course of transmission by post.

Redeliyery to sender of postal article in course of transmission by post.

(2) Save as provided by any rules that may be made under sub-section (1), the sender shall not be entitled to re-call a postal article in course of transmission by post.

19. (1) Except as otherwise provided by rule and subject to such conditions as may be prescribed thereby, no person shall send by post any explosive, dangerous, filthy, noxious or deleterious substance, any sharp instrument not properly protected, or any living creature which is either noxious or likely to injure postal articles in course of transmission by post or any officer of the Post Office.

Transmission by post or anything injurious prohibited.

(2) No person shall send by post any article or thing which is likely to injure postal articles in course of transmission by post or any officer of the Post Office.

Transmission by post of anything indecent, etc., prohibited.

20. No person shall send by post—

(a) any indecent or obscene printing, painting, photograph, lithograph, engraving, book or card, or only other indecent or obscene article, or

(b) any postal article having thereon, or on the cover thereof, any words, marks or designs of an indecent, obscene, seditious, surrilous, threatening or grossly offensive character.

Power to make rules as to transmission by post of postal articles.

21. [3][(1) The Central Government may make rules as to the transmission of articles by post.

(2) In particular and without prejudice to the generality of the foregoing power such rules may—

(a) specify articles which may not be transmitted by post;

(b) prescribe conditions on which articles may be transmitted by post;

(d) provide for the granting of receipts for, and the granting and obtaining of certificates of, posting and delivery of postal articles and the sums to be paid, in addition to any other postage, for such receipts and certificates; and

(e) regulate covers, forms, dimensions, maximum weights, and enclosures, and the use of postal articles, other than letters, for making communications.]

(3) Postal articles shall be posted and delivered at such times and in such manner as the Director-General may, by order, from time to time appoint.

Power to postpone despatch, or delivery of certain postal articles.

22 (1) Where the despatch or delivery from a post office of letters would be delayed by the despatch or delivery therefrom at the same time of book, pattern or sample packets and parcels, or any of them, such packets or parcels, or any of them, may, subject to such rules as the Central Government may make in this behalf, be detained in the Post Office so long as may be necessary.

(2) Where separate parcel posts are established, parcels may be forwarded and conveyed by them, being detained, if necessary, in the Post Office for the purpose.

Power to deal with postal articles posted in contravention of Act.

23. (1) Any postal article sent by post in contravention of any of the provisions of this Act may be detained and either returned to the sender or forwarded to destination, in each case charged with such additional postage (if any) as the Central Government may, by rule, direct.

(2) Any officer in charge of a Post Office or authorized by the Postmaster-General in this behalf may open or unfasten any newspaper or any book, pattern or sample packet, in course of transmission by post, which he suspects to have been sent by post in contravention of [1][section 20, clause (a), or of] section 21 or of any of the provisions of this Act relating to postage.

(3) Notwithstanding anything in sub-section (1)—

(a) any postal article sent by post in contravention of the provisions of section 19 may, under the authority of the Postmaster-General, if necessary, be opened and destroyed; and

[2][(b) any postal article sent by post in contravention of the provisions of section 20 may be disposed of in such manner as the Central Government may by rule direct.]

Power to deal with postal articles containing goods contraband or liable to duty.

24. [2][Except as otherwise provided in this Act, where a postal article suspected to contain any goods of which the import by post or the transmission by post is prohibited by or under any enactment for the time being in force,] or anything liable to duty, is received for delivery at a post office, the officer in charge of the post office shall send a notice in writing to the addressee inviting him to attend, either in person or by agent, within a specified time at the post office, and shall in the presence of the addressee or his agent, or if the addressee or his agent fails to attend as aforesaid then in his absence, open and examine the postal article:

Provided, first, that, if the Director-General so directs in the case of any post office or class of post offices, the officer in charge of the Post Office shall

[2][124-A. The Central Government may, by general or special order, empower any officer of the Post Office, specified in such order, to deliver any postal article, received from beyond the limits of British India and suspected to contain anything liable to duty, to such Customs authority as may be specified in the said order, and such Customs authority shall deal with such article in accordance with the provisions of the Sea Customs Act, 1878, or of any other law for the time being in force.]

Power to deliver such articles to Customs authority.

25. Where a notification has been published under section 19 of the Sea Customs Act, 1878, in respect of any goods of any specified description, [3][or where the import or export into or from British India of goods of any specified description has been prohibited or restricted by or under any other enactment for the time being in force] any officer of the Post Office empowered in this behalf by the Central Government may search, or cause search to be made, for any such goods in course of transmission by post, and shall deliver [4][all postal articles reasonably believed or found to contain such goods] to such officer as the Central Government may appoint in this behalf, and such goods may be disposed of in such manner as the Central Government may direct.

Power to intercept notified goods during transmission by Post.

[5][In carrying out any such search, such officer of the Post Office may open or unfasten, or cause to be opened or unfastened, any newspaper or any book, pattern or sample packet in course of transmission by post.]

26. (1) On the occurrence of any public emergency, or in the interest of the public safety or tranquillity, the Central Government, or a Provincial Government, or any officer specially authorized in this behalf by the [6][Central or the Provincial Government], may, by order in writing, direct that any postal article or class or description of postal articles in course of transmission by post shall be intercepted or detained or [4][shall be disposed of in such manner as the authority issuing the order may direct.]

Power to intercept postal articles for public good.

(2) If any doubt arises as to the existence of a public emergency or as to whether any act done under sub-section (1) was in the interest of the public safety or tranquillity, a certificate [7][of the Central Government or, as the case may be, of the Provincial Government] shall be conclusive proof on the point.

Power to deal with postal articles from abroad bearing fictitious or previously used stamps.

27. (1) Where a postal article is received by post from any place beyond the limits of British India—

(a) bearing a fictitious postage stamp, that is to say, any facsimile or imitation or representation of a postage stamp, or

Power to detain newspapers and other articles being transmitted by post.

27-B. (1) Any Officer of the Post Office authorised by the Post-Master General in this behalf may detain any postal article in course of transmission by post which he suspects to contain—

(a) (i) any newspaper or book as defined in the Press and Registration of Books Act, 1867; or

(ii) any document, containing any seditious matter, that is to say, any matter the publication of which is punishable under section 124-A of the Indian Penal Code; or

(b) any newspaper as defined in the Press and Registration of Books Act, 1867, edited, printed or published otherwise than in conformity with the rules laid down in that Act; and shall deliver any postal article so detained to such officer as the Provincial Government may appoint in this behalf.

(2) Any Officer detaining any postal article under the provisions of sub-section (1) shall forthwith send by post to the addressee of such article notice of the fact of such detention.

(3) The Provincial Government shall cause the contents of any postal article detained under sub-section (1) to be examined, and, if it appears to the Provincial Government that the article contained any newspaper, book or other document, of the nature described in clause (a) or clause (b) of sub-section

CHAPTER VI.

REGISTRATION, INSURANCE AND VALUE-PAYABLE POST.

Registration of postal articles.

28. The sender of a postal article may, subject to the other provisions of this Act, have the article registered at the Post Office at which it is posted, and require a receipt therefor; and the Central Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette, direct that, in addition to any postage chargeable under this Act, such further fee as may be fixed by the notification shall be paid on account of the registration of postal articles.

Power to make rules as to registration.

29. (1) The Central Government may make rules as to the registration of postal articles.

(2) In particular and without prejudice to the generality of the foregoing power, such rules may—

(a) declare in what cases registration shall be required;

(b) prescribe the manner in which the fees for registration shall be paid, and

(c) direct that twice the fee for registration shall be levied on the delivery of a postal article required to be registered on which the fee for registration has not been prepaid;

(3) Postal articles made over to the Post Office for the purpose of being registered shall be delivered, when registered, at such times and in such manner as the Director-General may, by order, from time to time appoint.

Insurance of postal articles.

30. The Central Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette direct—

(a) that any postal article may, subject to the other provisions of this Act, be insured at the Post Office at which it is posted, against the risk of loss or damage in course of transmission by post, and that a receipt therefor shall be granted to the person posting it; and

(b) that, in addition to any postage and fees for registration chargeable under this Act, such further fee as may be fixed by the notification shall be paid on account of insurance of postal articles.

Power to require insurance of postal articles.

31. The Central Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette declare in what cases insurance shall be required, and direct that any postal article containing anything required to be insured, which has been posted without being insured, shall be returned to the sender or shall be delivered to the addressee, subject to the payment of such special fee as may be fixed by the notification:

Provided that the levy of such special fee as aforesaid shall not impose any liability upon the [1][Central Government] or the Secretary of State] in respect of the postal article.

Power to make rules as to insurance.

32. (1) The Central Government may make rules as to the insurance of postal articles.

(2) In particular and without prejudice to the generality of the foregoing power such rules may—

(a) declare what classes of postal articles may be insured under section 30; and

(b) fix the limit of the amount for which postal articles may be insured;

(c) prescribe the manner in which the fees for insurance shall be paid.

(3) Postal articles made over to the Post Office for the purpose of being insured shall be delivered, when insured, at such places and times and in such manner as the Director-General may, by order, from time to time appoint.

Liability in respect of postal articles insured.

33. Subject to such conditions and restrictions as the Central Government may, by rule, prescribe, the [2][Central Government] shall be liable to pay compensation, not exceeding the amount for which a postal article has been insured, to the sender thereof for the loss of the postal article or its contents, or for any damage caused to it in course of transmission by post:

Provided that the compensation so payable shall in no case exceed the value of the article lost or the amount of the damage caused.

Transmission by post of value-payable postal articles.

34. The Central Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette direct that, subject to the other provisions of this Act and to the payment of fees at such rates as may be fixed by the notification, a sum of money specified in writing at the time of posting by the sender of a postal article shall be recoverable on the delivery thereof from the addressee, and that the sum, so recovered, shall be paid to the sender:

Provided that [3][neither the Central Government nor the Secretary of State shall[incur any liability in respect of the sum specified for recovery, unless and until that sum has been received from the addressee.

Explanation—Postal articles sent in accordance with the provisions of this section may be described as "value-payable" postal articles.

Power to make rules as to value-payable postal articles.

35. (1) The Central Government may make rules as to the transmission by post of value-payable postal articles.

(2) In particular and without prejudice to the generality of the foregoing power, such rules may—

(a) declare what classes of postal articles may be sent as value-payable postal article;

(b) direct that no postal article shall be so sent unless the sender declares that it is sent in execution of a bona fide order received by him;

(c) limit the value to be recovered on the delivery of any value-payable postal article [*][1];

(d) prescribe the form of declaration to be made by the senders of value-payable postal articles, and the time and manner of the payment of fees;

[2][(e) provide for the retention and re-payment to the addressee in cases of fraud of money recovered on the delivery of any value-payable postal article; and

(f) prescribe the fees to be charged for inquiries into complaints regarding the delivery of or payment for value-payable postal articles.]

(3) Postal articles shall be made over to the Post Office for the purpose of being sent as "value-payable," and shall be delivered, when so sent, at such times and in such manner as the Director-General may, by order, from time to time appoint.

[3][(4) No suit or other legal proceeding shall be instituted against the [4][Central Government, the Secretary of State] or any officer of the Post Office in respect of anything done, or in good faith purporting to be done, under any rule made under clause (e) of sub-section (2).]

Power to give effect to arrangements with other countries.

36. (1) Where arrangements are in force with the United Kingdom, or with any British possession, [5][Indian] State or foreign country, for the transmission by post of registered insured or value-payable postal articles between British India and the United Kingdom or such possession State or country, the Central Government may make rules to give effect to such arrangements.

(2) In particular and without prejudice to the generality of the foregoing power, such rules may prescribe—

(a) the form of declaration to be made by the senders of such postal articles as aforesaid; and (b) the fees to be charged in respect thereof.

CHAPTER VII.

UNDELIVERED POSTAL ARTICLES.

Power to make rules as to disposal of undelivered postal articles.

37. (1) The Central Government may make rules as to the disposal of postal articles which for any reason cannot be delivered (hereinafter referred to as "undelivered postal articles").

(2) In particular and without prejudice to the generality of the foregoing power such rules may—

(a) prescribe the period during which undelivered postal articles at a post office shall remain in that office; and

(b) provide for the publication of lists of undelivered postal articles, or of any class of undelivered postal articles.

(3) Every undelivered postal article, after being detained at a post office for the period prescribed by rule under the foregoing provisions of this section, shall be either forwarded, free of further charge, to the post office, at which it was posted, for return to the sender, or sent to the office of the Postmaster-General.

Disposal of undelivered postal articles at office of Postmaster-General.

38. (1) Every postal article received at the office of the Postmaster-General under sub-section (3) of section 37 shall be dealt with as follows:—

(a) if practicable, it shall be re-directed and forwarded by post to the addressee; or,

(b) if it cannot be re-directed and forwarded as aforesaid, it shall be opened by some officer, appointed by the Postmaster-General in this behalf and bound to secrecy, in order to ascertain the name and address of the sender.

(2) If the name and address of the sender are so ascertained, it shall be returned by post to the sender, free of further charge or subject to such further charge as the Central Government may, by rule, direct.

Final disposal of undelivered postal articles.

39. Undelivered postal articles, which cannot be disposed of under the foregoing provisions, shall be detained in the office of the Postmaster-General for such further period (if any), and shall be dealt with in such manner, as the Central Government may, by rule, direct:

Provided that—

(a) letters and postcards shall be destroyed;

(b) money or saleable property, not being of a perishable nature, found in any undelivered postal article, shall be detained for a period of one year in the Office of the Postmaster-General, and, if on the expiration of that period no person has established his right thereto, shall, if money, be credited to the Post Office, and, if saleable property, be sold, the sale proceeds being credited to the Post Office.

CHAPTER VIII.

SHIP-LETTERS.

Duty of master of ship, departing from any port in British India and not being a mail ship, to convey mail bags.

40. The master of a ship, not being a mail ship, about to depart from any port in British India to any port within, or any port or place beyond, British India, shall receive on board any mail bag tendered to him by any officer of the Post Office for conveyance, granting a receipt therefor in such form as the Central Government may, by rule, prescribe, and shall, without delay, deliver the same at the port or place of destination.

Duty of master of ship arriving at any port in British India in respect of postal articles and mail bags on board.

41. (1) The master of a ship arriving at any port in British India shall without delay, cause every postal article or mail bag on board which is directed to that port and is within the exclusive privilege conferred on the Central Government by section 4, to be delivered either at the Post Office at that port or to some officer of the Post-Office authorized in this behalf by the Post-Master-General.

(2) If there is on board any postal article or mail bag which is directed to any other place within British India and is within the exclusive privilege aforesaid, the master shall, without delay, report the fact to the officer in charge of the post office at the port of arrival and act according to the directions he may receive from such officer, and the receipt of such officer shall discharge him from all further responsibility in respect of the postal article or mail bag

Allowance of gratuities for conveyance of postal articles by ships other than mail ships.

42 The Central Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette declare what gratuities shall be allowed to masters of ships, not being mail ships, in respect of postal articles received by them for conveyance on behalf of the Post Office; and the master of a ship, not being a mail ship, about to leave any port in British India as aforesaid shall, if he receives on board a mail bag for conveyance, be entitled to demand and obtain immediately the amount of the gratuity payable under this section in respect of the mail bag and its contents.

CHAPTER IX.

MONEY ORDERS.

Power to maintain money order system and to make rules as to remittances thereby.

43. (1) The Central Government may provide for the remitting of small sums of money through the Post Office by means of money orders, and may make rules as to such money orders.

(2) In particular and without prejudice to the generality of the foregoing power, such rules may prescribe—

(a) the limit of amount for which money orders may be issued;

(b) the period during which money orders shall remain current; and

(c) the rates of commission or the fees to be charged on money orders or in respect thereof.

Power for remitter to recall money order or alter name of payee.

44 (1) Subject to such conditions as the Central Government may, by rules made under section 43, prescribe in respect of the levy of additional rates of commission or fees or any other matters, a person remitting money through the Post Office by means of a money order may require that the amount of the order, if not paid to the payee, be repaid to him or be paid to such person other than the original payee as he may direct.

(2) If neither the payee nor the remitter of a money order can be found, and if within the period of one year from the date of the issue of the order no claim is made by such payee or remitter, the amount of such order shall not be claimable from the Government.

Power to provide for the issue of postal orders.

45. The Central Government may authorize the issue, in such form as may be suitable, of money orders, to be called postal orders or by such other designation as may be deemed appropriate, for certain fixed amounts, and may make rules as to the rates of commission to be charged thereon and the manner in which, and conditions subject to which, they may be issued, paid and cancelled:

Provided that no such order shall be issued for an amount in excess of ten rupees.

SEC. 44 (1).—Money remitted by money order through the Post Office does not cease to be the property of the remitter until it is actually paid to the remittee. 52 I.C. 925 =12 Bur.L.T. 105.

Power to give effect to arrangements with other countries.

46. (1) Where arrangements are in force with the United Kingdom or within any British possession, [Indian State][1] or foreign country, for the issue and payment through the Post Office of money orders between British India and the United Kingdom or such possession, State or country, the Central Government may make rules to give effect to such arrangements.

(2) In particular and without prejudice to the generality of the foregoing power such rules may prescribe—

(a) the manner in which, and the conditions subject to which, such orders may be issued and paid in British India; and (b) the rates of commission to be charged thereon.

Recovery of money order paid to the wrong person.

47. If any person, without reasonable excuse, the burden of proving which shall lie on him, neglects or refuses to refund—

(a) any amount paid to him in respect of a money order by an officer of the Post Office in excess of what ought to have been paid to him in respect thereof, or

(b) the amount of a money order paid by an officer of the Post Office to him, instead of some other person to whom it ought to have been paid, such amount shall be recoverable by an officer of the Post Office authorized by the Postmaster-General in this behalf from the person so neglecting or refusing as if it were an arrear of land-revenue due from him.

Exemption from liability in respect of money orders.

48. No suit or other legal proceeding shall be instituted against the [Crown][2] or any officer of the Post Office in respect of—

(a) anything done under any rules made by the Central Government under this Chapter; or

(b) the wrong payment of a money order caused by incorrect or incomplete information given by the remitter as to the name and address of the payee, provided that, as regards incomplete information, there was reasonable justification for accepting the information as a sufficient description for the purpose of identifying the payee; or

(c) the payment of any money order being refused or delayed by, or on account of, any accidental neglect, omission or mistake, by, or on the part of, an officer of the Post Office, or for any other cause whatsoever other than the fraud or wilful act or default of such officer; or

(d) any wrong payment of a money order after the expiration of one year from the date of the issue of the order; [3][or

CHAPTER X.

PENALTIES AND PROCEDURE.

Offences by Officers of the Post Office.

Penalty for misconduct of person employed to carry or deliver mail bags or postal articles.

49. Whoever, being employed to carry or deliver any mail bag or any postal article in course of transmission by post,—

(a) is in a state of intoxication while so employed, or

(b) is guilty of carelessness or other misconduct, whereby the safety of any such mail bag or postal article as aforesaid is endangered, or

(c) loiters or makes delay in the conveyance or delivery of any such mail bag or postal article as aforesaid, or

(d) does not use due care and diligence safely to convey or deliver any such mail bag or postal article as aforesaid, shall be punishable with fine which may extend to fifty rupees.

Penalty for voluntary withdrawal from duty, without permission or notice, of person employed to carry or deliver mail bags or postal articles.

50. Whoever, being employed to carry or deliver any mail bag or any postal article in course of transmission by post, voluntarily withdraws from the duties of his office without permission or without having given one month's previous notice in writing, shall be punishable with imprisonment which may extend to one month, or with fine which may extend to fifty rupees, or with both.

M, a servant of K, having discovered a number of letters lying in a khola opposite a post office, handed them over to his master. One of the letters was addressed to P and K took it to the addressee who stated that the letter had never been delivered to him. The matter was reported to the Post Master F, who took possession of the letters saying that he would take necessary action in the matter. No action being taken by F, the matter was reported to the Post Master-General with the result that F was sent up for trial. The Magistrate framed two alternate charges against him, first under S. 52, Post Office Act and the other under S. 201, Penal Code. The Magistrate found F guilty only under S. 201. It was contended that the charge framed by the Magistrate was defective and prejudiced the accused, the alternate charge was illegal and contravened the provisions of S. 236, Cr.P. Code. Held, that the first charge was not defective, as the postal articles in question were "in course of transmission by post" according to S. 3, when they were made over to F by K and, therefore, the mere fact that the letters had been posted when F was not the Post Master of the Post Office was immaterial. The framing of the charge in the alternative under S. 201 did not contravene S. 236, Cr.P. Code. 1930 L. 460=129 I.C. 760.

SEC. 52.—The opening of a newspaper by a person employed in the Post Office and replacing it in its envelope, does not constitute an offence. 19 W.R. (Cr.) 4. Secreting two letters to give to the delivery peon and share with him the bearing postage. 14 M. 229=1 Weir 860. A branch Post Master who was also a dealer in goods opened an envelope containing a railway receipt addressed to him and took delivery of goods but he showed in the books of the Post Office that the letter was not delivered owing to the absence of the addressee. Sometime after he paid the money due to the Post Office and entered delivery of the letter. Held, that the Post Master was liable to be convicted under S. 52. 8 L. 662=1928 L. 92=109 I.C. 236. For an offence under S. 52 some contents should be extracted from the parcel and not merely examined. 1938 M.W.N. 962=1939 Mad. 283.

SECS. 52 AND 53.—The respondent, a postman, was charged by the police under S. 52 for secreting two postal articles in course of transmission by post and was committed for trial by the Court of Session. There was no complaint by order or authority from the Director-General of Posts and Telegraphs or Post Master-General. A preliminary objection was taken that the acts also constituted an offence under S. 53 of the Act of detaining postal articles, which under S. 72 of the Act could not be taken cognizance of without such complaint. Held, that the offence under S. 52 could be taken cognizance of without any complaint and the commitment was legal. The fact that the acts also constituted a minor offence under S. 53 was no bar to the trial of the offence Penalty for making false entry in register kept by person employed to carry or deliver postal articles.

51. Whoever, being employed to carry or deliver any postal article in course of transmission by post and required while so employed to keep any register makes, or causes or suffers to be made, any false entry in the register with intent to induce the belief that he has visited a place, or delivered a postal article, which he has not visited or delivered, shall be punishable with imprisonment for a term which may extend to six months, or with fine which may extend to one hundred rupees, or with both.

Penalty for theft, dishonest misappropriation, secretion, destruction, or throwing away, of postal articles.

52. Whoever, being an officer of the Postal Office, commits theft in respect of or dishonestly misappropriates, or, for any purpose whatsoever, secretes, destroys or throws away, any postal article in course of transmission by post or anything contained therein, shall be punishable with imprisonment for a term which may extend to seven years, and shall also be punishable with fine.

Penalty for opening, detaining or delaying postal articles.

53. Whoever, being an officer of the Post Office, contrary to his duty, opens, or causes or suffers to be opened, any postal article in course of transmission by post, or wilfully detains or delays, or causes or suffers to be detained or delayed, any such postal article, shall be punishable with imprisonment for a term which may extend to two years, or with fine, or with both:

Provided that nothing in this section shall extend to the opening, detaining or delaying of any postal article under the authority of this Act or in obedience to the order in writing of the Central Government or the direction of a competent Court.

Penalty for fraud in connection with official marks and for receipt of excess postage.

54. Whoever, being an officer of the Post Office,—

(a) fraudulently puts any wrong official mark on a postal article, or

(b) fraudulently alters, removes or causes to disappear any official mark which is on a postal article, or,

(c) being entrusted with the delivery of any postal article, knowingly demands or receives any sum of money in respect of the postage thereof which is not chargeable under this Act, shall be punishable with imprisonment for a term which may extend to two years, and shall also be punishable with fine.

SANCTION CAN BE OBTAINED AFTER COGNIZANCE OF THE OFFENCE.—Although Sec. 72 requires sanction before a postal employee can be prosecuted under S. 55 still as long as sanction is obtained, it does not matter whether it is obtained before the Court takes cognizance of the offence or not. 52 Mad. 534=30 Cr.L.J. 929=1929 Mad. 447=56 M.L.J. 551.

or keeping of any document, fraudulently prepares the document incorrectly, or alters or secretes or destroys the document, shall be punishable with imprisonment for a term which may extend to two years, and shall also be punishable with fine.

Penalty for fraudulently sending unpaid postal articles.

56. Whoever, being an officer of the Post Office, sends by post, or puts into any mail bag, any postal article upon which postage has not been paid or charged in the manner prescribed by this Act, intending thereby to defraud the Government of the postage on such postal article, shall be punishable with imprisonment for a term which may extend to two years, and shall also be punishable with fine.

Punishment of offences committed in India outside British India.

57. (1) Whoever, being an officer of the Post Office employed in any place in India beyond the limits of British India in which posts are established by the [1][Central Government or the Crown Representative], or being appointed to sell postage stamps in any such place, commits therein an offence punishable under this Act, shall be punishable either in the place where the offence was committed by any Court or officer duly empowered by the [1][Central Government or the Crown Representative] to take cognizance of offences committed in that place, or in any part of British India by any Court of competent jurisdiction as if the offence had been committed in that part.

(2) The provisions of section 188 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898, shall not apply to any offence referred to in this section.

Other Offences.

Penalty for contravention of section 4.

58. (1) Whoever—

(a) conveys, otherwise than by post, a letter within the exclusive privilege conferred on the Central Government by section 4, or

(b) performs any service incidental to conveying, otherwise than by post, any letter within the exclusive privilege aforesaid, or

(c) sends, or tenders or delivers in order to be sent, otherwise than by post, a letter within the exclusive privilege aforesaid, or

(d) makes a collection of letters excepted from the exclusive privilege aforesaid for the purpose of sending them otherwise than by post, shall be punishable with fine which may extend to fifty rupees for every such letter.

(2) Whoever, having already been convicted of an offence under this section, is again convicted thereunder, shall, on every such subsequent conviction, be punishable with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees.

Penalty for contravention of section 5.

59. (1) Whoever, in contravention of the provisions of section 5, carries, receives, tenders or delivers letters, or collects letters, shall be punishable with fine which may extend to fifty rupees for every such letter.

(2) Whoever, having already been convicted of an offence under Penalty for master of ship failing to comply with the provisions of section 40 or 41.

65. Whoever, being the master of a ship,—

(a) fails to comply with the provisions of section 40, or,

(b) without reasonable excuse, the burden of proving which shall lie on him, fails to deliver any postal article or mail bag or to comply with the directions of the officer in charge of the Post Office at a port of arrival, as required by section 41, shall be punishable with fine which may extend to one hundred rupees.

Penalty for detention of letters on board vessel arriving in port.

66. (1) Whoever, being either the master of a ship arriving at any port in British India or any one on board, knowingly has in his baggage or in his possession or custody, after the postal articles on board or any of them have been sent to the Post Office at the port of arrival, any postal article within the exclusive privilege conferred on the Central Government by section 4, shall be punishable with fine which may extend to fifty rupees for every such postal article as aforesaid.

(2) Whoever, being such master or other person as aforesaid, detains any such postal article as aforesaid after demand made for it by an officer of the Post Office, shall be punishable with fine which may extend to one hundred rupees for every such postal article.

Penalty for detaining mails or opening mail bag.

67. Whoever, except under the authority of this Act [1][or of any other Act for the time being in force] or in obedience to the order in writing of the Central Government or the direction of a competent Court, detains the mails or any postal article in course of transmission by post or on any pretence opens a mail bag in course of transmission by post, shall be punishable with fine which may extend to two hundred rupees:

Provided that nothing in this section shall prevent the detention of an officer of the Post Office carrying the mails or any postal article in course of transmission by post, on a charge of having committed an offence declared to be cognizable by the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898, or any other law for the time being in force.

Penalty for retaining postal articles wrongly delivered or mail bags.

68. Whoever fraudulently retains, or wilfully secretes or makes away with, or keeps or detains, or when required by an officer of the Post Office, neglects or refuses to deliver up, any postal article in course of transmission by post which ought to have been delivered to any other person, or a mail bag containing a postal article, shall be punishable with imprisonment for a term which may extend to two years, and shall also be punishable with fine.

Penalty for unlawfully diverting letters.

69. Whoever, not being an officer of the Post Office, wilfully and maliciously, with intent to injure any person, either opens or causes to be opened any letter which ought to have been delivered, or does any act whereby the due deli-

Provided that nothing in this section shall apply to a person who does any act to which the section applies, if he is a parent, or in the position of a parent or guardian, of the addressee, and the addressee is a minor or a ward.

General.

Penalty for abetting, or attempting to commit offences under Act.

70. Whoever abets the commission of any offence punishable under this Act or attempts to commit any offence so punishable, shall be punishable with the punishment provided for that offence.

Property in cases of offences to be laid in the Post office.

71. In every prosecution for an offence in respect of a mail bag or of any postal article sent by post, it shall be sufficient, for the purpose of the charge, to describe the mail bag or postal article as being the property of the Post Office, and it shall not be necessary to prove that the mail bag or postal article was of any value.

Authority for prosecutions under certain sections of Act.

72. No Court shall take cognizance of an offence punishable under any of the provisions of sections 51, 53, 54, clauses (a) and (b), 55, 56, 58, 59, 61, 64, 65, 66 and 67 of this Act, unless upon complaint made by order of, or under authority from, the Director-General or a Post-Master-General.

Zamindari and other district posts.

73. (1) The Central Government may make rules for the management of any zamindari or other district posts.

(2) In particular and without prejudice to the generality of the foregoing power, such rules may declare what portions of this Act shall be applicable to zamindari and other district posts and to the persons employed in connection therewith.

General power to make rules and provisions as to rules under Act.

74. (1) In addition to the powers hereinbefore conferred, the Central Government may make rules to carry out any of the purposes and objects of this Act.

(2) In making any rule under this Act, the Central Government may direct that a breach of it shall be punishable with fine which may extend to fifty rupees.

SUPPLEMENT TO VOLUME III.

[N.B—The following Acts that have been passed while the book was in print are given in the Supplement to Vol. III with a view to keep the volume up to date.]

THE ANTIQUITIES (EXPORT CONTROL) ACT (XXXI OF 1947).

18*th April*, 1947.

An Act to control the export of antiquities.

WHEREAS it is expedient to make better provision for controlling the export of objects of antiquarian or historical interest or significance;

It is hereby enacted as follows:—

1. Short title and extent.—(1) This Act may be called THE ANTIQUITIES (EXPORT CONTROL) ACT, 1947.

(2) It extends to the whole of British India.

2. Interpretation.—In this Act, unless there is anything repugnant in the subject or context—

(a) "antiquity" includes—

(i) any coin, sculpture, manuscript, epigraph, or other work of art or craftsmanship,

(ii) any article, object or thing detached from a building or cave,

(iii) any article, object or thing illustrative of science, art, crafts, literature, religion, customs, morals or politics in bygone ages,

(iv) any article, object or thing declared by the Central Government by notification in the official Gazette to be an antiquity for the purposes of this Act,— which has been in existence for not less than one hundred years;

(b) "export" means export from British India by sea, land or air.

3. Prohibition of export.—No person shall export any antiquity except under the authority of a licence granted by the Central Government.

4. Application of Act VIII of 1878.—All antiquities the export of which is prohibited under section 3 shall be deemed to be goods of which the export has been prohibited under section 19 of the Sea Customs Act, 1878, and all the provisions of that Act shall have effect accordingly, except that, the provisions of section 183 of that Act notwithstanding, any confiscation authorised under that Act shall be made, unless the Central Government, on application to it in such behalf, otherwise directs.

5. Penalty and procedure.—(1) If any person exports or attempts to export an antiquity in contravention of section 3, he shall, without prejudice to any confiscation or penalty to which he may be liable under the provisions of the Sea Customs Act, 1878 (VIII of 1878) as applied by section 4, be punishable with imprisonment for a term which may extend to one month, or with fine which may extend to five thousand rupees, or with both.

(2) No Court shall take cognizance of an offence punishable under this section except upon complaint in writing made by an officer generally or specially authorised in this behalf by the Central Government, and no Court inferior to that of a Presidency Magistrate or a Magistrate of the first class shall try any such offence.

6. Power to determine whether or not an article is an antiquity.—If any question arises whether any article, object or thing is or is not an antiquity for the purposes of this Act, it shall be referred to the Director General of Archaeology in India, and his decision thereon shall be final.

7. Power to make rules.—(1) The Central Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette, make rules to carry out the purposes of this Act.

(2) In particular and without prejudice to the generality of the foregoing power, such rules may prescribe the procedure for granting licences for the export of antiquities, and fix the fees payable on applications therefor.

8. Protection of action taken under this Act.—No suit, prosecution or other legal proceeding shall lie against any person for anything in good faith done or intended to be done under this Act.

9. Application of other laws not barred.—The provisions of this Act shall be in addition to, and not in derogation of, the provisions of the Ancient Monuments Preservation Act, 1904 (VII of 1904) or any other law for the time being in force.

THE COAL MINES LABOUR WELFARE FUND ACT (XXXII OF 1947).

18*th April*, 1947.

An Act to make better provision for financing measures for promoting the welfare of labour employed in the coal-mining industry.

WHEREAS it is expedient to make better provision for financing measures for promoting the welfare of labour employed in the coal-mining industry, including housing and the provision of dispensary services, and for such purposes to impose a cess and constitute a fund;

It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Short title, extent and commencement.

1. (1) This Act may be called THE COAL MINES LABOUR WELFARE FUND ACT, 1947.

(2) It extends to the whole of British India.

(3) It shall come into force on such date as the Central Government may, by notification in the official Gazette, appoint.

Interpretation.

2. In this Act, unless there is anything repugnant in the subject or context,—

(a) "Advisory Committee" means the Advisory Committee constituted under section 8;

(b) "Commissioner" means the Coal Mines Labour Welfare Commissioner appointed under section 9, and includes any officer authorised in writing by the Commissioner to exercise any of his functions under this Act;

(c) "Housing Board" means the Coal Mines Labour Housing Board constituted under section 6;

(d) "Fund" means the Coal Mines Labour Housing and General Welfare Fund constituted under section 4;

(e) "prescribed" means prescribed by rules made under this Act.

Imposition and collection of duty.

3. (1) There shall be levied and collected as a cess for the purposes of this Act a duty of excise on all coal and coke despatched from collieries in British India, at such rate not less than four annas and not more than eight annas per ton, as may from time to time be fixed by the Central Government by notification in the official Gazette:

Provided that the Central Government may, by notification in the official Gazette, exempt from liability to the duty any specified class or classes of coal or coke.

(2) The duty levied under sub-section (1) shall, subject to and in accordance with rules made in this behalf, be collected by such agencies and in such manner as may be prescribed.

Coal Mines Labour Housing and General Welfare Fund.

4. (1) The proceeds of the duty levied under section 3 shall be paid by the collecting agencies into the Reserve Bank of India at Calcutta in the prescribed manner, and shall be credited to a fund to be called the Coal Mines Labour Housing and General Welfare Fund, and apportioned under two separate accounts, to be called the housing account of the Fund and the general welfare account of the Fund, in such manner as the Central Government from time to time may, by notification in the official Gazette, determine:

Provided that there shall at all times be credited—

(a) to the housing account of the Fund, not less than one anna and four pies, and

(b) to the general welfare account of the Fund, not more than four annas and eight pies,— out of the duty collected under this Act on every ton of coal or coke.

(2) There shall also be credited to the housing account of the Fund—

(a) any grants made thereto by the Central Government;

(b) rents, if any, realised from housing accommodation constructed out of such account;

(c) any other moneys received by the Housing Board.

Expenditure from the Fund.

5. (1) The cost of administering the Fund and the salaries and allowances, if any, of the Commissioner, Inspectors, Welfare Officers and other staff appointed to supervise or carry out measures financed from the Fund shall be defrayed out of the Fund, and shall be apportioned between and debited to the housing account and the general welfare account in such manner as may be prescribed.

(2) The Central Government may out of the general welfare account of the Fund pay annually grants-in-aid to such of the colliery owners as maintain to the satisfaction of the Commissioner dispensary services of the prescribed standard for the benefit of labour employed in their collieries, so however that the amount payable as grant-in-aid to the owner of a colliery shall not exceed—

(i) the amount of the duty at the rate of eight pies per ton recovered in respect of coal or coke despatched from the colliery less the proportionate cost of recovery, or

(ii) the amount spent by the owner of the colliery in the maintenance of the dispensary service, as determined by the Commissioner, whichever is less:

Provided that no grant-in-aid shall be payable in respect of any dispensary service maintained by the owner of the colliery if the amount expended, thereon, as determined by the Commissioner, is less than eighty rupees per mensem.

(3) The balance of the moneys in the general welfare account of the Fund shall be applied by the Central Government to meet expenditure, incurred in connection with measures which are in the opinion of the Central Government necessary or expedient to promote the welfare of labour employed in the coal-mining industry.

(4) Without prejudice to the generality of sub-section (3) the moneys in the general welfare account of the Fund may be utilised to defray—

(a) the cost of measures for the benefit of labour employed in the coal-mining industry directed towards—

(i) the improvement of public health and sanitation, the prevention of disease, the provision of medical facilities and the improvement of existing medical facilities, including the provision and maintenance of dispensary services in collieries the owners of which do not receive grants-in-aid under sub-section (2),

(ii) the provision of water-supplies, and facilities for washing and the improvement of existing supplies and facilities,

(iii) the provision and improvement of educational facilities,

(iv) the improvement of standards of living including nutrition, amelioration of social conditions, and the provision of recreational facilities,

(v) the provision of transport to and from work;

(b) the grant to a Provincial Government, a local authority or the owner, agent or manager of a coal mine of money in aid of any scheme approved by the Central Government for any purpose for which moneys in the general welfare account of the Fund may be utilised;

(c) the allowances, if any, of the members of the Advisory Committee and the amounts debitable to the account under sub-section (1);

(d) any other expenditure which the Central Government directs to be defrayed out of the moneys in the general welfare account of the Fund.

(5) The Central Government shall publish annually in the official Gazette an estimate of receipts into and expenditure from the general welfare account of the Fund together with a statement of the accounts and a report of the activities financed during the previous year from the general welfare account of the Fund, and shall forward copies of such statement and report to members of the Advisory Committee.

(6) The moneys in the housing account of the Fund shall be applied by the Housing Board to defray—

(a) the cost of erecting, maintaining and repairing housing accommodation for labour employed in the coal-mining industry and of providing services and facilities connected therewith;

(b) the cost of preparing schemes, and of acquiring any land required, for the purposes referred to in clause (a);

(c) the grant subject to the previous approval of the Central Government, to a Provincial Government, a local authority or the owner, agent or manager of a coal mine of money in aid of any scheme approved by the Housing Board for the purposes referred to in clauses (a) and (b);

(d) the allowances, if any, of members of the Housing Board and the amounts debitable to the account under sub-section (1);

(e) any other expenditure which the Central Government directs to be defrayed out of the moneys in the housing account of the Fund.

(7) In February of each year the Housing Board shall submit of the Central Government a statement in the prescribed form of the estimated receipts into and expenditure from the housing account of the Fund for the ensuing financial year together with a report of the activities financed during the previous year, from the housing account of the Fund, and may at any time during the ensuing financial year submit to the Central Government a supplementary statement and shall forward copies of such statements and report to members of the Advisory Committee.

(8) The Housing Board shall comply with such directions as the Central Government may from time to time think fit to give in respect of expenditure from the housing account of the Fund.

(9) The Housing Board may invest moneys in the housing account of the Fund in securities of the Government of India or, with the previous approval of the Central Government, in other securities.

(10) The Housing Board shall cause to be maintained such books of account as may be prescribed and shall prepare in the prescribed manner an annual statement of the accounts.

(11) The Housing Board shall cause the housing account of the Fund to be audited annually by a person qualified under the provisions of section 144 of the Indian Companies Act, 1913, to act as an auditor of companies, and as soon as the said account has been audited the Housing Board shall forward copies thereof together with copies of the report of the auditor thereon to the Central Government and to members of the Advisory Committee.

(12) The Central Government shall have power to decide whether any particular expenditure is or is not debitable to the housing account, or the general welfare account, of the Fund, and its decision shall be final.

(13) Before incurring any expenditure from the Fund other than expenditure of a routine or urgent nature the Central Government or, as the case may be the Housing Board, shall consult the Advisory Committee.

Coal Mines Labour Housing Board.

6. (1) The Central Government shall, by notification in the official Gazette, constitute a Coal Mines Labour Housing Board to prepare and carry out, subject to the previous approval of the Central Government, schemes, financed from the housing account of the Fund for the provision of suitable housing accommodation for labour employed in the coal-mining industry, and to carry out the other functions of the Housing Board under this Act.

(2) The Commissioner shall be the chairman of the Housing Board, and the other members thereof shall be appointed by the Central Government and shall be of such number and chosen in such manner as may be prescribed.

(3) The Housing Board shall be a body corporate by the name of the Coal Mines Labour Housing Board, having perpetual succession and a common seal, with power to acquire property both movable and immovable, and shall by the said name sue and be sued.

(4) No act done by the Housing Board shall be called in question in the ground merely of the existence of any vacancy in, or defect on the constitution of, the Housing Board.

Provisions regarding housing accommodation.

7. (1) The occupation by any person of any housing accommodation provided out of the housing account of the Fund shall be subject to compliance by that person at all times with such conditions relating to his occupation of such accommodation as may be prescribed.

(2) Before any person occupies any such accommodation he shall be furnished with a copy of the conditions referred to in sub-section (1), and if he so desires the said conditions shall be read over to him in a language which he understands; and the Housing Board shall cause to be published in such manner as it thinks best adapted for informing the persons concerned any changes which may from time to time be made in the said conditions.

(3) If, in the opinion of the Housing Board, any person in occupation of any such accommodation fails or ceases to comply with any of the conditions referred to in sub-section (1), it may, by notice in writing require him to vacate the accommodation on or before such date, not being less than thirty days after the service of the notice, as may be specified in the notice; and the occupation of such accommodation by such person or any dependent of his after the date so specified shall be unlawful, and such person or dependent may be evicted accordingly by due process of law from such accommodation.

(4) There shall be payable in respect of the occupation of any such accommodation as aforesaid rent at such rate as may be prescribed:

Provided that the Housing Board may remit, subject to compliance at all times with the conditions referred to in sub-section (1), either the whole or any part of the prescribed rent:

Provided further that where, in the case of any person who is by virtue of a remission under the first proviso paying either no rent or a reduced rent, the Housing Board has reason to believe that such person has contravened any of the said conditions, it may by notice in writing require such person to pay, with effect on and after the expiry of seven days from the service of the notice, rent for the accommodation occupied by him at the full prescribed rate.

(5) All rent payable in respect of the occupation of such accommodation as aforesaid, whether at the full prescribed rate or at a lesser rate, shall be recoverable as an arrear of land revenue.

Advisory Committee.

8. (1) The Central Government shall, by notification in the official Gazette, constitute an Advisory Committee, to advise on matters on which the Central Government or the Housing Board is required by this Act to consult the Committee and on any other matters arising out of the administration of this Act which the Central Government may refer to it for advice.

(2) The members of the Advisory Committee shall be appointed by the Central Government and shall be of such number and chosen in such manner as may be prescribed:

Provided that the Advisory Committee shall include an equal number of members representing Government, the owners of coal mines and workmen employed in the coal-mining industry, and that at least one member of the Advisory Committee shall be a woman.

(3) The chairman of the Advisory Committee shall be an officer of the Central Government appointed by the Central Government.

Appointment and powers of officers.

9. (1) The Central Government may appoint a Coal Mines Labour Welfare Commissioner and such number of Inspectors, Welfare Officers and other staff as it thinks fit to supervise and carry out measures financed from the Fund.

(2) Any person so appointed shall be deemed to be a public servant within the meaning of section 21 of the Indian Penal Code.

(3) The Commissioner or any Inspector or Welfare Officer may, with such assistance, if any, as he thinks fit, enter at all reasonable times any place which he considers it necessary to enter for the purpose of supervising or carrying out the measures financed from the Fund, and may do therein anything necessary for the proper discharge of his duties.

Power to make rules.

10. (1) The Central Government may, by notification in the official Gazette, and subject to the condition of previous publication, make rules to carry into effect the purposes of this Act.

(2) Without prejudice to the generality of the foregoing power, rules made under this section may provide for—

(i) the manner in which the duty levied under sub-section (1) of section 3 shall be collected, the persons who shall be liable to make the payments, the making of refunds, remissions and recoveries, the deduction by collecting agencies of a percentage of the realizations to cover the cost of collection, and the proceedure to be followed in remitting the proceeds to the Reserve Bank of India;

(ii) the composition of the Housing Board, the manner in which its members shall be chosen, the term of office of its members, the allowances if any payable to them and the manner in which the Housing Board shall conduct its business, including the number of members necessary to form a quorum at a meeting thereof;

(iii) the books of account to be maintained by the Housing Board, and the form of its financial estimates and statements of account;

(iv) the composition of the Advisory Committee, the manner in which its members shall be chosen, the term of office of its members, the allowances if any payable to them and the manner in which the Advisory Committee shall conduct its business;

(v) the apportionment between the housing account and the general welfare account of the Fund of the expenditure on the administration of the Fund and on the salaries and allowances of the Commissioner, Inspectors, Welfare Officers and other staff employed for the purposes of this Act;

(vi) the standard of dispensary service to be provided by owners of collieries for the purposes of sub-section (2) of section 5, and the inspection and supervision of the dispensaries and other places at which such services are provided;

(vii) the application by owners of collieries for grants-in-aid, the authority to whom and the manner in which such applications shall be made and the particulars to be specified in such applications;

(viii) the manner in which dispensary services may be provided by the Central Government;

(ix) the conditions governing the grant of money from the general welfare account of the Fund to a Provincial Government, a local authority or the owner, agent or manager of a coal mine;

(x) the rate of rent for housing accommodation provided out of the housing account of the Fund;

(xi) the conditions of service and the duties of Inspectors, Welfare Officers and other officers appointed to supervise or carry out measures financed from the Fund;

(xii) the duties and functions of the Commissioner;

(xiii) the furnishing by owners, agents or managers of coal mines of statistical or other information, and the punishment by fine not exceeding two hundred rupees of failure to comply with the requirements of any rules made under this clause;

(xiv) any other matter which under this Act is to be or may be prescribed.

Repeal of Ord. VII of 1944.

11. (1) The Coal Mines Labour Welfare Fund Ordinance 1944, is hereby repealed.

(2) For the avoidance of doubts it is hereby declared that the provisions of section 6 of the General Clauses Act, 1897, shall apply to the repeal effected by this section.

(3) Any balance remaining in the Fund constituted under the aforesaid Ordinance shall be credited to the Fund constituted under this Act, and shall be apportioned between the housing account and the general welfare account of such Fund in such manner as the Central Government may determine.

THE CAPITAL ISSUES (CONTINUANCE OF CONTROL) ACT (XXIX OF 1947)

18th April, 1947.

(An Act to provide for the continuance of control over issues of capital.)

WHEREAS it is expedient to provide for the continuance of control over issues of capital;

It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Short title, extent and duration.

1. (1) This Act may be called THE CAPITAL ISSUES (CONTINUANCE OF CONTROL) ACT 1947.

(2) It extends to the whole of British India, and applies also to British subjects and servants of the Crown in any part of India and to British subjects who are domiciled in any part of India wherever they may be.

(3) It shall cease to have effect on the first day of April, 1950.

Definitions.

2. In this Act,—

(a) "issue of capital" means the issuing of any securities whether for cash or otherwise;

(b) "securities" means any of the following instruments issued, or to be issued, by or for the benefit of a company, whether incorporatd in British India or not, namely:—

(i) shares, stocks and bonds;

(ii) debentures;

(iii) other instruments creating a charge or lien on the assets of the company; and

(iv) instruments acknowledging loan to or indebtedness of the company and guaranteed by a third party or entered into jointly with a third party.

Control over issues of capital.

3. (1) No company incorporated in British India shall, except with the consent of the Central Government, make an issue of capital outside British India.

(2) No company, whether incorporated in British India or not, shall except with the consent of the Central Government,—

(a) make an issue of capital in British India;

(b) make in British India any public offer of securities for sale;

(c) renew or postpone the date of maturity or repayment of any security maturing for payment in British India.

(3) The Central Government may on application make an order according recognition to an issue of capital made or to be made outside British India by a company not incorporated in British India.

(4) The Central Government may qualify any consent or recognition accorded by it under sub-section (2) or sub-section (3) with such conditions, whether for immediate or future fulfilment, as it may think fit to impose; and where a company acts in pursuance of such consent or recognition, it shall comply with the terms of any condition so imposed.

(5) Where an application for the consent or recognition of the Central Government under any of the provisions of this section is refused, the Central Government shall, upon the request of the applicant, communicate to him in writing the reasons for such refusal.

Control over prospectuses and other advertisements.

4. No person shall issue in British India any prospectus or other document offering for subscription or publicly offering for sale any securities which does not include a statement that the consent or recognition, as the case may be, of the Central Government has been obtained to the issue or offer of the securities, and no person shall without the consent of the Central Government issue in British India any document publicly offering for sale any security issued with the consent or recognition of the Central Government if such issue was made by a private company or if the order according its consent or recognition contained a condition that the securities should be privately subscribed.

Purchase and sale of securities.

5. (1) No person shall accept or give any consideration for any securities in respect of an issue of capital made or proposed to be made in British India or elsewhere unless the consent or recognition of the Central Government has been accorded to such issue of capital.

(2) No person shall sell or purchase or otherwise transfer or accept transfer of any securities issued by a company in respect of any issue of capital made after the 17th day of May 1943 in British India or elsewhere unless such issue has been made with the consent or recognition of the Central Government.

Power to exempt and to condone contraventions.

6. (1) The Central Government may, by general order which shall be notified in the official Gazette, provide for the granting of exemption from all or any of the provisions of sections 3, 4 and 5.

(2) The Central Government may by order condone a contravention of any of the provisions of section 3 or section 4, and on the making of such order the provisions of this Act, shall have effect as if an exemption had been granted under sub-section (1) of this section in respect of the thing done or omitted to be done in contravention of section 3 or section 4, as the case may be.

Power to call for information.

7. Any officer authorised in this behalf by the Central Government may, for the purpose of enquiring into the correctness of any statement made in an application for consent or recognition to an issue of capital or for the purpose of ascertaining whether or not the requirements of any condition attached to an order according such consent or recognition have been complied with, require any company, or any officer of a company, which has made such application, or obtained such order to submit to him such accounts, books or other documents, or to furnish to him such information, as he may reasonably think necessary.

False statements.

8. No person shall, when complying with any requisition under section 7 or when making any application for consent or recognition to an issue of capital, give any information or make any statement which he knows, or has reasonable cause to believe, to be false or not true in any material particular.

Prohibition against disclosing information.

9. No person who obtains any information by virtue of this Act shall, otherwise than in connection with the execution of the provisions of this Act or of any order made in pursuance thereof, disclose that information to any other person except with the permission of the Central Government.

Power to delegate function.

10. The Central Government may by order direct that any power or duty which by or under any of the preceding provisions of this Act is conferred or imposed upon the Central Government shall, in such circumstances and under such conditions, if any, as may be specified in the direction, be exercised or discharged by any officer subordinate to that Government.

Committee to advise Government.

11. The Central Government shall, by notification in the official Gazette, constitute an Advisory Committee consisting of not more than five members, and may from time to time refer to it for advice any such matters arising out of the administration of this Act as the Central Government may think fit.

Power to make rules.

12. The Central Government may by notification in the official Gazette make rules for carrying out the purposes of this Act.

Penalties.

13. (1) Whoever contravenes, or attempts to contravene, any of the provisions of this Act or of any order made thereunder shall be punishable with imprisonment for a term which may extend to one year or with fine or with both.

(2) If the person committing an offence punishable under this section is a company or other body corporate, every director, manager, secretary or other officer thereof shall, unless he proves that the offence was committed without his knowledge or that he exercised all due diligence to prevent its commission, be deemed to be guilty of such offence.

Burden of proof in certain cases.

14. Where any person is prosecuted for contravening any provision of this Act or of any order made thereunder which prohibits him from doing an act without the consent or permission of any authority the burden of proving that he had the requisite consent or permission shall be on him.

Protection of action taken under Act.

15. No suit, prosecution or other legal proceedings shall lie against any person for anything in good faith done or intended to be done under this Act or any rule or order made thereunder.

Continuance of existing orders and savings.

16. (1) All orders made or deemed to be made under the provisions of the Capital Issues (Continuance of Control) Ordinance, 1947, and in force immediately before the commencement of this Act shall continue to be in force and be deemed to be orders made under the corresponding provisions of this Act.

(2) Section 6 of the General Clauses Act, 1897, shall apply upon the expiration of the said Ordinance as if it had then been repealed by this Act.

THE INDIAN COMPANIES (AMENDMENT) ACT (XIII OF 1946).

[18*th April*, 1946.

An Act further to amend the Indian Companies Act, 1913.

WHEREAS it is expedient further to amend the Indian Companies Act, 1913 (VII of 1913), for the purpose hereinafter appearing;

It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Short title.

1. This Act may be called THE INDIAN COMPANIES (AMENDMENT) ACT, 1946.

Amendment of section 282-B, Act VII of 1913.

2. To sub-section (2) of section 282-B of the Indian Companies Act, 1913, the following proviso shall be added, namely:—

"Provided that where one-tenth part of the whole amount of the moneys belonging to such fund exceeds the maximum amount which may be deposited in a Post Office Savings Bank account under the rules regulating such deposits for the time being in force, the amount of such excess may be kept or deposited in a special account to be opened for the purpose in a scheduled bank as defined in clause (c) of section 2 of the Reserve Bank of India Act, 1934 (II of 1934)."

THE ESSENTIAL SUPPLIES (TEMPORARY POWERS) ACT (XXIV OF 1946).

[19*th November*, 1946.

An Act to provide for the continuance during a limited period of powers to control the production, supply and distribution of, and trade and commerce in, certain commodities.

WHEREAS it is necessary to provide for the continuance during a limited period of powers to control the production, supply and distribution of, and trade and commerce in, foodstuffs (including edible oilseeds and oils), cotton and woollen textiles, paper (including newsprint), petroleum and petroleum products, spare parts of mechanically propelled vehicles, coal, iron, steel and mica;

AND WHEREAS the Indian Legislature has been empowered by section 2 of the Indian (Central Government and Legislature) Act, 1946, to make laws with respect to the matters aforesaid;

It is hereby enacted as follows:—

1. (1) This Act may be called THE ESSENTIAL SUPPLIES (TEMPORARY POWERS) ACT, 1946.

(2) It extends to the whole of British India.

(3) It shall cease to have effect on the expiration of the period mentioned in section 4 of the India (Central Government and Legislature) Act, 1940, except as respects things done or omitted to be done before the expiration thereof, and section 6 of the General Clauses Act, 1897, shall apply upon the expiry of this Act as if it had then been repealed by a Central Act.

Definitions.

2. In this Act, unless there is anything repugnant in the subject or context,—

(a) "essential commodity" means any of the following classes of commodities:—

(i) foodstuffs,

(ii) cotton and woollen textiles,

(iii) paper,

(iv) petroleum and petroleum products,

(v) spare parts of mechanically propelled vehicles,

(vi) coal,

(vii) iron and steel,

(viii) mica;

(b) "food-crops" shall include crops of sugarcane;

(c) "foodstuffs" shall include edible oilseeds and oils;

(d) "notified order" means an order notified in the official Gazette;

(e) "paper" shall include newsprint;

(f) "Provincial Government", in relation to a Chief Commissioner's Province, means the Chief Commissioner.

Powers to control production, supply, distribution, etc., of essential commodities

3. (1) The Central Government, so far as it appears to it to be necessary or expedient for maintaining or increasing supplies of any essential commodity, or for securing their equitable distribution and availability at fair prices, may by notified order provide for regulating or prohibiting the production, supply and distribution thereof, and trade and commerce therein.

(2) Without prejudice to the generality of the powers conferred by sub-section (1), an order made thereunder may provide—

(a) for regulating by licences, permits or otherwise the production or manufacture of any essential commodity;

(b) for bringing under cultivation any waste or arable land whether appurtenant to a building or not, for the growing thereon of food-crops generally or of specified food-crops, and for otherwise maintaining or increasing the cultivation of food-crops generally, or of specified food-crops;

(c) for controlling the prices at which any essential commodity may be bought or sold;

(d) for regulating by licences, permits or otherwise the storage, transport, distribution, disposal, acquisition, use or consumption of any essential commodity;

(e) for prohibiting the withholding from sale of any essential commodity ordinarily kept for sale;

(f) for requiring any person holding stock of an essential commodity to sell the whole or a specified part of the stock at such prices and to such persons or class of persons or in such circumstances, as may be specified in the order;

(g) for regulating or prohibiting any class of commercial or financial transactions relating to foodstuffs or cotton textiles, which, in the opinion of the authority making the order are, or if unregulated are likely to be, detrimental, to public interest;

(h) for collecting any information or statistics with a view to regulating or prohibiting any of the aforesaid matters;

(i) for requiring persons engaged in the production, supply or distribution of, or trade or commerce in, any essential commodity to maintain and produce for inspection such books, accounts and records relating to their business and to furnish such information relating thereto, as may be specified in the order;

(j) for any incidental and supplementary matters, including in particular the entering, and search of premises, vehicles, vessels and aircraft, the seizure by a person authorised to make such search of any articles in respect of which such person has reason to believe that a contravention of the order has been, is being or is about to be committed, the grant or issue of licences, permits or other documents, and the charging of fees therefor.

(3) An order made under sub-section (1) may confer powers and impose duties upon the Central Government or officers and authorities of the Central Government, notwithstanding that it relates to a matter in respect of which the Provincial Legislature also has power to make laws.

(4) The Central Government, so far as it appears to it to be necessary for maintaining or increasing the production and supply of an essential commodity, may by order authorise any person (hereinafter referred to as an authorised controller) to exercise, with respect to the whole or any part of any such undertaking engaged in the production and supply of the commodity as may be specified in the order, such functions of control as may be provided by the order; and so long as an order made under this sub-section is in force with respect to any undertaking or part thereof—

(a) the authorised controller shall exercise his functions in accordance with any instructions given to him by the Central Government, so, however, that he shall not have any power to give any direction inconsistent with the provisions of any Act or other instrument determining the functions of the undertakers except in so far as may be specifically provided by the order, and

(b) the undertaking or part shall be carried on in accordance with any directions given by the authorised controller in accordance with the provisions of the order, and any person having any functions of management in relation to the undertaking or part shall comply with any such directions.

Delegation of powers.

4. The Central Government may by notified order direct that the power to make orders under section 3 shall, in relation to such matters and subject to such conditions, if any, as may be specified in the direction, be exercisable also by—

(a) such officer or authority subordinate to the Central Government, or (b) such Provincial Government or such officer or authority subordinate to a Provincial Government, as may be specified in the direction.

Power to issue directions to Provinces.

5. The Central Government may give directions to any Provincial Government as to the carrying into execution in the Province of any order made under section 3.

Effect of orders inconsistent with other enactments.

6. Any order made under section 3 shall have effect notwithstanding anything inconsistent therewith contained in any enactment other than this Act or any instrument having effect by virtue of any enactment other than this Act.

Penalties.

7. (1) If any person contravenes any order made under section 3, he shall be punishable with imprisonment for a term which may extend to three years or with fine or with both, and if the order so provides, any Court trying such contravention may direct that any property in respect of which the Court is satisfied that the order has been contravened shall be forfeited to His Majesty:

Provided that where the contravention is of an order relating to foodstuffs which contains an express provision in this behalf, the Court shall make such direction, unless for reasons to be recorded in writing it is of opinion that the direction should not be made in respect of the whole, or, as the case may be, a part, of the property.

(2) If any person to whom a direction is given under sub-section (4) of section 3 fails to comply with the direction, he shall be punishable with imprisonment for a term which may extend to three years or with fine or with both.

Attempts and abetments.

8. Any person who attempts to contravene, or abets a contravention of, any order made under section 3 shall be deemed to have contravened that order.

Offences by corporations.

9. If the person contravening an order made under section 3 is a company or other body corporate, every director, manager, secretary or other officer or agent thereof shall, unless he proves that the contravention took place without his knowledge or that he exercised all due diligence to prevent such contravention, be deemed to be guilty of such contravention.

False statements.

10. If any person—

(i) when required by any order made under section 3 to make any statement or furnish any information, makes any statement or furnishes any information which is false in any material particular and which he knows or has reasonable cause to believe to be false, or does not believe to be true, or

(ii) makes any such statement as aforesaid in any book, account, record, declaration, return of other document which he is required by any such order to maintain or furnish he shall be punishable with imprisonment for a term which may extend to three years or with fine or with both.

Cognizance of offences.

11. No Court shall take cognizance of any offence punishable under this Act except on a report in writing of the facts constituting such offence made by a person who is a public servant as defined in section 21 of the Indian Penal Code.

Power to try offences summarily.

12. Any magistrate or bench of magistrates empowered for the time being to try in a summary way the offences specified in sub-section (1) of section 260 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898, may, on application in this behalf being made by the prosecution, try in accordance with the provisions contained in sections 262 to 265 of the said Code any offence punishable under this Act.

Special provision regarding fines.

13. Notwithstanding anything contained in section 32 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898, it shall be lawful for any Magistrate of the First Class specially empowered by the Provincial Government in this behalf and for any Presidency Magistrate to pass a sentence of fine exceeding one thousand rupees on any person convicted of contravening an order made under section 3.

Presumption as to orders.

14. (1) No order made in exercise of any power conferred by or under this Act shall be called in question in any Court.

(2) Where an order purports to have been made and signed by an authority in exercise of any power conferred by or under this Act, a Court shall, within the meaning of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872, presume that such order was so made by that authority.

Burden of proof in certain cases.

15. Where any person is prosecuted for contravening any order made under section 3 which prohibits him from doing an act or being in possession of a thing without lawful authority or without a permit, licence or other document, the burden of proving that he has such authority, permit, licence or other document, shall be on him.

Protection of action taken under the Act.

16. (1) No suit, prosecution or other legal proceeding shall lie against any person for anything which is in good faith done or intended to be done in pursuance of any order made under section 3.

(2) No suit or other legal proceeding shall lie against the Crown for any damage caused or likely to be caused by anything which is in good faith done or intended to be done in pursuance of any order made under section 3.

Repeal and saving.

17. (1) The Essential Supplies (Temporary Powers) Ordinance, 1946, is hereby repealed.

(2) Any order made or deemed to be made under the said Ordinance and in force immediately before the commencement of this Act shall continue in force and be deemed to be an order made under this Act; and all appointments made, licences or permits granted and directions issued under any such order and in force immediately before such commencement shall likewise continue in force and be deemed to be made, granted or issued in pursuance of this Act.

(3) For the removal of doubts it is hereby declared—

(a) that for the purposes of the said Ordinance and this Act an order of the nature referred to in section 5 of the said Ordinance made before the commencement of the said Ordinance and not previously rescinded shall be deemed to be, and always to have been, an order in force immediately before such commencement, notwithstanding that such order of parts of it, may not then have been in operation, either at all or in particular areas;

(b) that for the purposes of this Act an order made or deemed to be made under the said Ordinance and not rescinded prior to the commencement of this Act shall be deemed to be an order in force immediately before the commencement of this Act, notwithstanding that such order, or parts of it, may not then be in operation, either at all or in particular areas.

THE EXPIRING LAWS CONTINUANCE ACT, 1946.

(10 & 11 GEO. 6 CH. 1.)

CHAPTER I.

An Act to continue certain expiring laws.

[19*th December*, 1946.

WHEREAS the Acts mentioned in the Schedule to this Act are, in so far as they are in force and are temporary in their duration, limited to expire—

(a) as respects those mentioned in Part I of the said Schedule, on the thirty-first day of December nineteen hundred and forty-six, and

(b) * * * *

AND WHEREAS it is expedient to provide for the continuance, as in this Act mentioned, of those Acts and of the enactments amending or affecting the same:

BE, it therefore enacted by the King's Most Excellent Majesty by and with the advice and consent of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and Commons, in this present Parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, as follows:—

Continuance of Acts in Schedule.

1. (1) The Acts mentioned in Part I of the Schedule to this Act shall, to the extent specified in column three of that Part, be continued until the thirty-first day of December, nineteen hundred and forty-seven.

(2) * * * * *

(3) Any unrepealed enactments which are temporary in their duration shall, in so far as they amend or affect any enactment continued by the foregoing provisions of this Act, be continued in like manner as that enactment whether they are mentioned in the Schedule to this Act or not.

THE FACTORIES (AMENDMENT) ACT (V OF 1947).

[11*th March*, 1947.

An Act further to amend the Factories Act, 1934.

WHEREAS it is expedient further to amend the Factories Act, 1934, for the purposes hereinafter appearing; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Short title.

1. This Act may be called THE FACTORIES (AMENDMENT) ACT, 1947.

Insertion of new section 33-A in Act XXV of 1934.

2. In Chapter III of the Factories Act, 1934 (hereinafter referred to as the said Act), after section 33 the following section shall be inserted, namely:—

"33-A. (1) The Provincial Government may make rules requiring that in any specified factory wherein more than two hundred and fifty workers are ordinarily employed, an adequate canteen shall be provided for the use of the workers.

Power to make rules for the provision of canteens.

(2) Without prejudice to the generality of the foregoing power, such rules may provide for—

(a) the date by which such canteen shall be provided;

(b) the standards in respect of construction, accommodation, furniture and other equipment of the canteen;

(c) the foodstuffs to be served therein and the charges which may be made therefor;

(d) representation of the workmen in the management of the canteens;

(e) enabling, subject to such conditions, if any, as may be specified, the power to make rules under clause (c) to be exercised also by the Chief Inspector."

Amendment of section 34, Act XXV of 1934.

3. In the proviso to section 34 of the said Act, the word "non-seasonal" shall be omitted.

THE INDIAN FINANCE ACT (XX OF 1947).

[31*st March*, 1947.

An Act to give effect to the financial proposals of the Central Government for the year beginning on the 1st day of April, 1947.

WHEREAS it is expedient to discontinue the duty on salt manufactured in, or imported into, British India, to fix maximum rates of postage under the Indian Post Office Act, 1898, to continue, subject to certain modifications, for a further period of one year the additional duties of customs imposed by section 6 of the Indian Finance Act, 1942, to continue the temporary export duty on raw cotton and the enhanced rates of export duties on raw jute and jute manufactures, to enhance the export duty on tea, to fix rates of income-tax and super-tax, and to make certain provisions relating to income-tax, super-tax and excess profits tax;

It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Short title and extent.

1. (1) This Act may be called THE INDIAN FINANCE ACT, 1947.

(2) It extends to the whole of British India.

Discontinuance of salt duty.

2. For the year beginning on the 1st day of April, 1947, no duty shall be levied on salt manufactured in, or imported by sea or by land into, British India.

Inland postage rates.

3. For the year beginning on the 1st day of April, 1947, the Schedule contained in the First Schedule to the Indian Finance Act, 1945, shall again be inserted in the Indian Post Office Act, 1898, as the First Schedule to that Act.

Continuation of additional duties of customs imposed by section 6, Act XII of 1942.

4. The additional duties of customs on certain goods chargeable with a duty of customs under the First Schedule to the Indian Tariff Act, 1934, or under the said Schedule read with any notification of the Central Government for the time being in force, imposed up to the 31st day of March 1943 by section 6 of the Indian Finance Act, 1942, and continued, subject to certain modifications, up to the 31st day of March, 1947, by section 5 of the Indian Finance Act, 1946, shall continue to be levied and collected, as provided in the said section 6 and subject to the aforesaid modifications, up to the 31st day of March, 1948.

Provision regarding certain temporary duties of customs and enhanced rates of duties of customs.

5. (1) For the Second Schedule to the Indian Tariff Act, 1934, the following shall be substituted, namely:—

"THE SECOND SCHEDULE.

Export Tariff.

1	RAW JUTE (other than Bimlipatam jute)—
	(1) Cuttings	Rs. 4--8 per bale of 400 lb.
	(2) All other descriptions	Rs. 15 per bale of 400 lb.
2	JUTE MANUFACTURES (other than of Bimlipatam jute), when not in actual use as coverings, receptacles or bindings for other goods—
	(1) Sacking (cloth, bags, twist, yarn, rope and twine).	Rs. 50 per ton.
	(2) Hessians and all other descriptions of jute manufactures not otherwise specified.	Rs. 80 per ton.
3	RAW COTTON	At such rate not exceeding Rs. 75 per bale of 400 lb. as the Central Government by notification in the Offical Gazette may from time to time determine.
4	RICE, with or without huske, including rice flour, but excluding rice bran and rice dust, which are free.	Two annas and three pies per standard maund.
5	TEA	Four annas per lb."

(2) The following Ordinances are hereby repealed, namely:—

(a) The Indian Tariff Act (Amendment) Ordinance, 1946;

(b) The Indian Tariff Act (Second Amendment) Ordinance, 1946;

(c) The Indian Tariff (Amendment) Ordinance, 1947.

Income-tax and super-tax.

6. (1) Subject to the provisions of sub-sections (3), (4), (5) and (6), for the year beginning on the 1st day of April, 1947—

(a) income-tax shall be charged at the rates specified in Part I of the Schedule, and

(b) rates of super-tax shall, for the purposes of section 55 of the Indian Income-tax Act, 1922, be those specified in Part II of the Schedule.

(2) In making any assessment for the year ending on the 31st day of March, 1948, there shall be deducted from the total income of an assessee, in accordance with the provisions of section 15-A of the Indian Income-tax Act, 1922, an amount equal to one-fifth of the earned income, if any, included in his total income, but not exceeding in any case four thousand rupees.

(3) In making any assessment for the year ending on the 31st day of March, 1948,—

(a) where the total income of an assessee, not being a company, includes any income chargeable under the head "Salaries" as reduced by the deduction for earned income appropriate thereto, or any income chargeable under the head "Interest on securities", or any income from dividends in respect of which he is deemed under section 49-B of the Indian Income-tax Act, 1922, to have paid income-tax imposed in British India, the income-tax payable by the assessee on that part of his total income which consists of such inclusions shall be an amount bearing to the total amount of income-tax payable according to the rates applicable under the operation of the Indian Finance Act, 1946, on his total income the same proportion as the amount of such inclusions bears to his total income;

(b) where the total income of an assessee, not being a company, includes any income chargeable under the head "Salaries" on which super-tax has been or might have been deducted under the provisions of sub-section (2) of section 18 of the Indian Income-tax Act, 1922, the super-tax payable by the assessee on that portion of his total income which consists of such inclusion shall be an amount bearing to the total amount of super-tax payable according to the rates applicable under the operation of the Indian Finance Act, 1946, on his total income the same proportion as the amount of such inclusion bears to his total income.

(4) In making any assessment for the year ending on the 31st day of March, 1948, where the total income of an assessee consists partly of earned income and partly of unearned income, the super-tax payable by him shall be—

(i) on that part of the earned income chargeable under the head "Salaries" to which clause (b) of sub-section (3) applies, the amount of super-tax computed in accordance with the provisions of that sub-section, plus

(ii) on the remainder of the earned income, the amount which bears to the total amount of super-tax which would have been payable on his total income had it consisted wholly of earned income the same proportion as such remainder bears to his total income, plus

(iii) on the unearned income, the amount which bears to the total amount of super-tax which would have been payable on his total income had it consisted wholly of unearned income the same proportion as the unearned income bears to his total income.

(5) In making any assessment for the year ending on the 31st day of March, 1948,—

(a) where the total income of a company includes any profits and gains from life insurance business, the super-tax payable by the company shall be reduced by an amount computed at the rate of two annas in the rupee on that part of its total income which consists of such inclusion;

(b) where the total income of an assessee, not being a company, includes any profits and gains from life insurance business, the income-tax and super-tax payable by the assessee on that part of his total income which consists of such inclusion shall be an amount bearing to the total amount of such taxes payable according to the rates applicable under the operation of the Indian Finance Act, 1942, on his total income the same proportion as the amount of such inclusion bears to his total income, so however that the aggregate of the taxes so computed in respect of such inclusion shall not in any case exceed the amount of tax payable on such inclusion at the rate of five annas in the rupee.

(6) In cases to which section 17 of the Indian Income-tax Act, 1922, applies, the tax chargeable shall be determined as provided in that section but with reference to the rates imposed by sub-section (1), and in accordance, where applicable, with the provisions of sub-sections (3), (4) and (5) of this section.

(7) For the purposes of making any deduction of income-tax in the year beginning on the 1st day of April, 1947, under sub-section (2) or sub-section (2-B) of section 18 of the Indian Income-tax Act, 1922, from any earned income chargeable under the head "Salaries" the estimated total income of the assessee under this head shall, in computing the income-tax to be deducted, be reduced by an amount equal to one-fifth of such earned income, but not exceeding in any case four thousand rupees.

(8) For the purposes of this section and of the rates of tax imposed thereby, the expression "total income" means total income as determined for the purposes of income-tax or super-tax, as the case may be, in accordance with the provisions of the Indian Income-tax Act, 1922, and the expression "earned income" has the meaning assigned to it in clause (6-AA) of section 2 of that Act.

Amendment of section 10, Act XII of 1942.

7. To sub-section (2) of section 10 of the Indian Finance Act, 1942, the following proviso shall be added, namely:—

"Provided that if it is subsequently found that the sum so repaid was excessive, the excess repayment shall be recoverable, and the provisions of law referred to in sub-section (4) of section 2 of the Excess Profits Tax Ordinance, 1943, shall apply to the payment and recovery of the amount of the excess repayment as if that amount were a deposit required to be made under that section, but notwithstanding the provisions of sub-section (7) of section 46 of the Indian Income-tax Act, 1922, as applied by the said sub-section (4), such recovery may be made at any time."

(b) the expression "dividend" shall be deemed to include any distribution included in that expression as defined in clause (6-A) of section 2 of the Indian Income-tax Act, 1922, and any such distribution made during the year ending on the 31st day of March, 1948 shall be deemed to have been made in respect of the whole or part of the previous year;

(c) where any portion of the profits and gains of a company is not included in its total income by reason of such portion being exempt from tax under any provision of the Indian Income-tax Act, 1922, the capital of the company, the total amount of dividends and the amount of dividends payable at a fixed rate shall each be deemed to be the proportion thereof that the total income of the company bears to its total profits and gains.

THE FOREIGNERS ACT (XXXI OF 1946.)

[22*nd November*, 1946.

An Act to confer upon the Central Government certain powers in respect of foreigners.

WHEREAS it is expedient to provide for the exercise by the Central Government of certain powers in respect of the entry of foreigners into British India, their presence therein and their departure therefrom;

It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Short title and extent.

1. (1) This Act may be called THE FOREIGNERS ACT, 1946.

(2) It extends to the whole of British India

Definitions.

2. In this Act—

(a) "foreigner" means a person who—

(i) is not a natural-born British subject as defined in sub-sections (1) and (2) of section 1 of the British Nationality and Status of Aliens Act, 1914, or

(ii) has not been granted a certificate of naturalization as a British subject under any law for the time being in force in British India, or

(iii) is not a ruler or subject of an Indian State, or

(iv) is not a native of the Tribunal areas:

Provided that any British subject who, under any law for the time being in force in British India, ceases to be a British subject shall thereupon be deemed to be a foreigner;

(b) "prescribed" means prescribed by orders made under this Act;

(c) "specified" means specified by direction of a prescribed authority.

Power to make orders.

3. (1) The Central Government may by order make provision, either generally or with respect to all foreigners or with respect to any particular foreigner or any prescribed class or description of foreigners, for prohibiting, regulating or restricting the entry of foreigners into British India or their departure therefrom or their presence or continued presence therein.

(2) In particular and without prejudice to the generality of the foregoing power, orders made under this section may provide that the foreigner—

(a) shall not enter British India, or shall enter British India only at such times and by such route and at such port or place and subject to the observance of such conditions on arrival as may be prescribed;

(b) shall not depart from British India, or shall depart only at such times and by such route and from such port or place and subject to the observance of such conditions on departure as may be prescribed;

(c) shall not remain in British India or in any prescribed area therein;

(d) shall remove himself to, and remain in, such area in British India as may be prescribed;

(e) shall comply with such conditions as may be prescribed or specified—

(i) requiring him to reside in a particular place;

(ii) imposing any restrictions on his movements;

(iii) requiring him to furnish such proof of his identity and to report such particulars to such authority in such manner and at such time and place as may be prescribed or specified;

(iv) requiring him to allow his photograph and finger impressions to be taken and to furnish specimens of his handwriting and signature to such authority and at such time and place as may be prescribed or specified;

(v) requiring him to submit himself to such medical examination by such authority and at such time and place as may be prescribed or specified;

(vi) prohibiting him from association with persons of a prescribed or specified description;

(vii) prohibiting him from engaging in activities of a prescribed or specified description;

(viii) prohibiting him from using or possessing prescribed or specified articles;

(ix) otherwise regulating his conduct in any such particular as may be prescribed or specified;

(f) shall enter into a bond with or without sureties for the due observance of, or as an alternative to the enforcement of, any or all prescribed or specified restrictions or conditions;

(g) shall be arrested and detained or confined; and may make provision for such incidental and supplementary matters as may, in the opinion of the Central Government, be expedient or necessary for giving effect to this Act.

Internees.

4. (1) Any foreigner (hereinafter referred to as an internee) in respect of whom there is in force any order made under clause (g) of sub-section (2) of section 3, directing that he be detained or confined, shall be detained or confined in such place and manner and subject to such conditions as to maintenance, discipline and the punishment of offences and breaches of discipline as the Central Government may from time to time determine.

(2) Any foreigner (hereinafter referred to as a person on parole) in respect of whom there is in force an order under clause (e) of sub-section (2) of section 3 requiring him to reside at a place set part for the residence under supervision of a number of foreigners, shall while residing therein be subject to such conditions as to maintenance, discipline and the punishment of offences and breaches of discipline as the Central Government may from time to time by order determine.

(3) No person shall—

(a) knowingly assist an internee or a person on parole to escape from custody or the place set apart for his residence, or knowingly harbour an escaped internee or person on parole, or

(b) give an escaped internee or a person on parole any assistance with intent thereby to prevent, hinder or interfere with the apprehension of the internee of the person on parole

(4) The Central Government may by order provide for regulating access to, and the conduct of persons in, places in British India where internees or persons on parole are detained or restricted, as the case may be, and for prohibiting or regulating the despatch or conveyance from outside such places to or for internees or persons on parole therein of such articles as may be prescribed.

Change of name

5. (1) No foreigner who was in British India on the date on which this Act came into force shall, while in British India after that date, assume or use or purport to assume or use for any purpose any name other than that by which he was ordinarily known immediately before the said date

(2) Where, after the date on which this Act came into force, any foreigner carries on or purports to carry on (whether alone or in association with any other person) any trade or business under any name or style, other than that under which that trade or business was being carried on immediately before the said date, he shall, for the purposes of sub-section (1), be deemed to be using a name other than that by which he was ordinarily known immediately before the said date.

(3) In relation to any foreigner who, not having been in British India on the date on which this Act came into force, thereafter enters British India, sub-sections (1) and (2) shall have effect as if for any reference in those sub-sections to the date on which this Act came into force there were substituted a reference to the date on which he first enters British India thereafter.

(4) For the purposes of this section—

(a) the expression "name" includes a surname, and

(b) a name shall be deemed to be changed if the spelling thereof is altered

(5) Nothing in this section shall apply to the assumption or use—

(a) of any name in pursuance of a Royal licence or permission granted by the Central Government; or (b) by any married woman, of her husband's name.

Obligations of masters of vessels, etc.

6. (1) The master of any vessel landing or embarking at a port in British India passengers coming to or going from that port by sea and the pilot of any aircraft landing or embarking at any place in British India passengers coming to or going from that place by air, shall furnish to such person and in such manner as may be prescribed a return giving the prescribed particulars with respect to any passengers or members of the crew, who are foreigners.

(2) Any District Magistrate and any Commissioner of Police or, where there is no Commissioner of Police, any superintendent of Police may, for any purpose connected with the enforcement of this Act or any order made thereunder, require the master of any such vessel or the pilot of any such aircraft to furnish such information as may be prescribed in respect of passengers or members of the crew on such vessel or aircraft, as the case may be.

(3) Any passenger on such vessel or such aircraft and any member of the crew of such vessel or aircraft shall furnish to the master of the vessel or the pilot of the aircraft, as the case may be, any information required by him for the purpose of furnishing the return referred to in sub-section (1) or for furnishing the information required under sub-section (2).

(4) For the purposes of this section—

(a) "master of a vessel" and "pilot of any aircraft" shall include any person authorised by such master or pilot, as the case may be, to discharge on his behalf any of the duties imposed on him by this section;

(b) "passenger" means any person not being a bona fide member of the crew, travelling or seeking to travel on a vessel or aircraft.

Obligation of hotel keepers and others to furnish particulars.

7. (1) It shall be the duty of the keeper of any premises whether furnished or unfurnished where lodging or sleeping accommodation is provided for reward, to submit to such person and in such manner such information in respect of foreigners accommodated in such premises, as may be prescribed.

Explanation.—The information referred to in this sub-section may relate to all or any of the foreigners accommodated at such premises and may be required to be submitted periodically or at any specific time or occasion.

(2) Every person accommodated in any such premises shall furnish to the keeper thereof a statement containing such particulars as may be required by the keeper for the purpose of furnishing the information referred to in sub-section (1).

(3) The keeper of every such premises shall maintain a record of the information furnished by him under sub-section (1) and of the information obtained by him under sub-section (2) and such record shall be maintained in such manner and preserved for such period as may be prescribed, and shall at all times be open to inspection by any police officer or by a person authorised in this behalf by the District Magistrate.

Determination of nationality.

8. (1) When a foreigner is recognised as a national by the law of more than one foreign country or where for any reason it is uncertain what nationality if any is to be ascribed to a foreigner, that foreigner may be treated as the national of the country with which he appears to the prescribed authority to be most closely connected for the time being in interest or sympathy or if he is of uncertain nationality, of the country with which he was last so connected:

Provided that where a foreigner acquired a nationality by birth, he shall, except where the Central Government so directs either generally or in a particular case, be deemed to retain that nationality unless he proves to the satisfaction of the said authority that he has subsequently acquired by naturalization or otherwise some other nationality and still recognised as entitled to protection by the Government of the country whose nationality he has so acquired.

(2) A decision as to nationality given under sub-section (1) shall be final and shall not be called in question in any Court:

Provided that the Central Government either of its own motion or on an application by the foreigner concerned, may revise any such decision.

Burden of proof.

9. If in any case not falling under section 8 any question arises with reference to this Act or any order made or direction given thereunder, whether any person is or is not a foreigner or is not a foreigner of a particular class or description the onus of proving that such person is not a foreigner or is not a foreigner of such particular class or description, as the case may be, shall, notwithstanding anything contained in the Indian Evidence Act, 1872, lie upon such person.

Power to exempt from application of Act.

10. The Central Government may by order declare that any or all of the provisions of this Act or the orders made thereunder shall not apply, or shall apply only with such modifications or subject to such conditions as may be specified, to or in relation to any individual foreigner or any class or description of foreigner.

Power to give effect to orders, directions, etc.

11. (1) Any authority empowered by or under or in pursuance of the provisions of this Act to give any direction or to exercise any other power, may, in addition to any other action expressly provided for in this Act, take, or cause to be taken such steps and use, or cause to be used, such force as may, in its opinion, be reasonably necessary for securing compliance with such direction or for preventing or rectifying any breach thereof, or for the effective exercise of such power as the case may be.

(2) Any police officer may take such steps and use such force as may, in his opinion, be reasonably necessary for securing compliance with any order made or direction given under or in pursuance of the provisions of this Act or for preventing or rectifying any breach of such order or direction.

(3) The power conferred by this section shall be deemed to confer upon any person acting in exercise thereof a right of access to any land or other property whatsoever.

Power to delegate authority.

12. Any authority upon which any power to make or give any direction, consent or permission or to do any other act is conferred by this Act or by any order made thereunder may, unless express provision is made to the contrary, in writing authorise, conditionally or otherwise, any authority subordinate to it to exercise such power on its behalf, and thereupon the said subordinate authority shall, subject to such conditions as may be contained in the authorisation, be deemed to be the authority upon which such power is conferred by or under this Act.

Attempts, etc., to contravene the provisions of this Act, etc.

13. (1) Any person who attempts to contravene, or abets or attempts to abet, or does any act preparatory to, a contravention of, the provisions of this Act or of any order made or direction given thereunder, or fails to comply with any direction given in pursuance of any such order, shall be deemed to have contravened the provisions of this Act.

(2) Any person who, knowing or having reasonable cause to believe that any other person has contravened the provisions of this Act or of any order made or direction given thereunder, gives that other person any assistance with intent thereby to prevent, hinder or otherwise interfere with his arrest, trial or punishment for the said contravention shall be deemed to have abetted that contravention.

(3) The master of any vessel or the pilot of any aircraft, as the case may be, by means of which any foreigner enters or leaves British India in contravention of any order made under, or direction given in pursuance of, section 3 shall, unless he proves that he exercised all due diligence to prevnt the said contravention, be deemed to have contravened this Act.

Penalties.

14. If any person contravenes the provisions of this Act or of any order made thereunder, or any direction given in pursuance of this Act or such order, he shall be punished with imprisonment for a term which may extend to five years and shall also be liable to fine; and if such person has entered into a bond in pursuance of clause (f) of subsection (2) of section 3, his bond shall be forfeited, and any person bound thereby shall pay the penalty thereof, or show cause to the satisfaction of the convicting Court why such penalty should not be paid.

Protection to persons acting under this Act.

15. No suit, prosecution or other legal proceeding shall lie against any person for anything which is in good faith done or intended to be done under this Act.

Application of other laws not barred.

16. The provisions of this Act shall be in addition to, and not in derogation of, the provisions of the Registration of Foreigners Act, 1939, the Indian Passport Act, 1920, and of any other enactment for the time being in force.

Repeals.

17. The Foreigners Act, 1864, the Foreigners Act, 1940, and the Foreigners Act (Amendment) Ordinance, 1946, are hereby repealed.

THE IMPORTS AND EXPORTS (CONTROL) ACT (XVIII OF 1947).

An Act to continue for a limited period powers to prohibit or control imports and exports.

WHEREAS it is expedient to continue for a limited period powers to prohibit, restrict or otherwise control imports into and exports from British India;

It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Short title, extent, commencement and duration.

1. (1) This Act may be called THE IMPORTS AND EXPORTS (CONTROL) ACT, 1947.

(2) It extends to the whole of British India.

(3) It shall come into force on the 25th day of March, 1947, and shall remain in force for a period of three years only.

Interpretation.

2. In this Act,—

(a) "Customs-collector" means a Customs-collector as defined in the Sea Customs Act, 1878, or a Collector of Land Customs appointed under the Land Customs Act, 1927;

(b) "import" and "export" means respectively bringing into, and taking out of, British India by sea, land or air;

(c) "officer of Customs" means an officer of Customs appointed under the Sea Customs Act, 1878, or a Land Customs Officer appointed under the Land Customs Act, 1924.

Powers to prohibit or restrict imports and exports.

3. (1) The Central Government may, by order published in the official Gazette, make provision for prohibiting, restricting or otherwise controlling, in all cases or in specified classes of cases, and subject to such exceptions, if any, as may be made by or under the order,—

(a) the import, export, carriage coastwise or shipment as ships' stores of goods of any specified description;

(b) the bringing into any port or place in British India of goods of any specified description intended to be taken out of British India without being removed from the ship or conveyance in which they are being carried.

(2) All goods to which any order under sub-section (1) applies shall be deemed to be goods of which the import or export has been prohibited or restricted under section 19 of the Sea Customs Act, 1878, and all the provisions of that Act shall have effect accordingly, except that section 183 thereof shall have effect as if for the word "shall" therein the word "may" were substituted.

(3) Notwithstanding anything contained in the aforesaid Act, the Central Government may, by order published in the official Gazette, prohibit, restrict or impose conditions on the clearance, whether for home consumption or for shipment abroad, of any goods or class of goods imported into British India.

Continuance of existing orders.

4. All orders made under rule 84 of the Defence of India Rules or that rule as continued in force by the Emergency Provisions (Continuance) Ordinance, 1946, and in force immediately before the commencement of this Act shall, so far as they are not inconsistent with the provisions of this Act, continue in force and be deemed to have been made under this Act.

Penalty.

5. If any person contravenes any order made or deemed to have been made under this Act, he shall, without prejudice to any confiscation or penalty to which he may be liable under the provisions of the Sea Customs Act, 1878, as applied by sub-section (2) of section 3, be punishable with imprisonment for a term which may extend to one year, or with fine, or with both.

Cognizance of offences.

6. No Court shall take cognizance of any offence punishable under section 5 except upon complaint in writing made by a Customs-collector or by an officer of Customs authorized in writing in this behalf by a Customs-collector, and no Court inferior to that of a Presidency Magistrate or a Magistrate of the first class shall try any such offence.

Savings.

7. No order made or deemed to have been made under this Act shall be called in question in any Court, and no suit, prosecution or other legal proceeding shall lie against any person for anything in good faith done or intended to be done under this Act or any order made or deemed to have been made thereunder.
